DUANE RELEASED BY JURY PROBING THE HAUG MURDER

Mystery Deepens in Death of Young Girl Found Slain in Bedroom of Boarding House.

PRIVATE DETECTIVES CALLED INTO CASE

Boarder, Arrested on Suspicion, Will Be Held in City Pending Further Investigation of Crime.

Thomasville, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Incomprehensible mystery still surrounds the death of Miss Dorothy Haug at the Southern Home here early Monday morning and at the end of today's diligent work, both by local police officials and the coroner's jury, there is still no evidence to indicate person or persons connected with the murder.

W. T. Duane, arrested last night on suspicion, was released this afternoon. Mr. Duane is a man about 50 years of age, and came here from Tampa, the first of September, working since then for a meat market. He it was who was awakened by Mrs. Haug when she first entered the room and who stayed with the body while she went to search for the telephone to call a physician.

Mr. Duane told the same story as on the original examination. He stated that he was awakened by a noise about 4 o'clock. He usually gets up at 4:30 o'clock to go to work, and seeing that it was not yet time, although he had put on his shoes and trousers, he lay back down on the bed and dozed off waiting for the alarm clock. He was disturbed by Mrs. Haug, who asked for a match and he gave her his lamp, the chimney of which he broke in the excitement. He says he then slipped on a shirt and went into the room.

Late yesterday afternoon a bloody towel was found in his room, stains on his soap and the track of a hand heel on the floor leading from the door to the washstand. A negro maid testified at the inquest today that she went into the room at the request of the doctor and got a towel and that later, she thought, returned it to the room. Mr. Duane was not in the room from the time he left in the early morning until after the search.

Women Said Sleuth Finds Stains.

A woman detective who happened to be in the house testified that she had used a magnifying glass there and found what she thought to be stains of blood leading across the hall to the room where he stayed. She was not positive about the stains being blood.

Mr. Duane was this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock released from custody by the coroner's jury, but will be held in the city pending developments.

Mr. Haug, father of the murdered girl, arrived in the city this morning with two friends accompanying him. He is employed by the Southern railway in Knoxville. He immediately took charge of the affairs and arranged, at the request of his wife and daughter, for a funeral to be held at the home of Mr. Duron Wednesday morning at 10:30. The body, the parents and wife will leave on the afternoon train for the nearest Southern railway connection, the interment to take place in Knoxville.

The coroner's investigation this afternoon was conducted by Colonel T. N. Hopkins, who was employed by the state. It is stated also that a thirteen detective will arrive in the city in a short time to make a thorough and complete investigation of the puzzling mystery.

Mr. Burrows, of Valdosta, who was in the house at the time, and who is employed at the same bank at Valdosta in which the girl worked for the past two weeks, was present today and made a statement. He said he did not awaken until after several parties entered the room above him, where the girl lay. Both he and his wife were awakened by the noise and immediately got up.

Girl Had Many Admirers.

Miss Haug was a very charming and attractive young woman and had a number of admirers wherever she has been. She came to Thomasville twelve months ago and was courted by Owen Baxter, of Dothan, Ala., who was at the time working on the electric contract for the Tom's house. She has not seen him for two weeks, but told her mother the day before her death that she had recently had a letter from him which was insistent that she give him a definite answer. The girl, her mother says, asserted that she did not love Mr. Baxter.

Miss Haug was won several medals, one for an art contest in one of the Tennessee schools; another for literary work in Knoxville where she took high school. She later graduated with high honors in the University of Tennessee. She wrote for the university annual and the college magazine. She remained in Thomasville until six months ago, when she accepted a position with Mr. O'Neal, in Bainbridge, and then went to Valdosta, to the Citizens' bank. She had been in the latter place only two weeks.

She is said to have possessed a pistol, but it is not known whether the one found at the side of the bed stood of blood was hers or another's. Her frequent fits of melancholia, when she declared that she wanted to end her own life, were partly the result of her irksome feeling at the position she was forced to take owing to her and her own living and the realization that her work and natural qualifications had fitted her for more congenial and brilliant attainments.

The result of today's work has been, practically, without any accomplishment toward the discovery of the perpetrator of the awful deed. A post mortem examination this morning showed no unusual conditions and led to nothing further in the way of investigation. The case is destined to occupy a distinctive place in the annals of crime in this section of Georgia.

Directors of Southern.

SULZER VERDICT MAY BE DELAYED

Action of Impeachment Managers in Asking for New Article of Impeachment Complicates Matters.

Albany, N. Y., October 14.—The possibility of an indefinitely long delay in reaching a verdict as to the guilt or innocence of Governor William Sulzer loomed up at his impeachment trial today. This was suggested when counsel for the impeachment managers asked that the court recommend to the assembly the bringing of a new article of impeachment in the event the testimony of Duncan W. Peck, superintendent of public works, and Henry L. Morgenthau, ambassador to Turkey, should be found not to be relevant to any charge contained in the present articles.

Whether this testimony was relevant to article 4, which charges the governor with suppression of evidence before the Frawley investigating committee, was the subject of debate today in executive session and undecided when adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning. The executive session will be continued tomorrow and on the result of the court's deliberations will depend the question as to whether it will proceed to vote now or await the action of the assembly in the question of bringing the suggested new article of impeachment.

Future of Case in Doubt.

Should the latter course be adopted the future progress of the trial will be a matter of speculation. The speculation at once arises whether the necessary majority of the assembly to vote the new article could be obtained. This question, it was suggested tonight, would be likely to be affected by the fact that many assemblymen who voted for the present impeachment articles would be candidates at the coming election and the probability that politics might be injected into the assembly's action to an acute degree.

Even should it be possible to muster enough votes in the assembly to adopt the new article at an early date, the constitution requires that the governor be given twenty days' notice before being called upon to answer.

The specific issue placed before the court in all-day arguments of counsel was whether the Peck-Morgenthau testimony constituted a new charge against the governor. Attorney John B. Stanchfield, for the impeachment managers, brought it to a climax by proposing an amendment to article 4, specifying the names of Peck and Morgenthau in addition to those of Frederick A. Colwell, Louis A. Sarecky and Melville B. Fuller as persons whom the governor sought to prevent from testifying before the Frawley committee. Peck swore that the governor had asked him if called before the committee to deny under oath that he had given $600 for his campaign. Morgenthau testified the governor had asked him in the

LAST NIGHT IN PRISON FOR JULIAN HAWTHORNE

Today He and Dr. Morton Will Be Discharged and Will Leave for New York

Sleeping soundly on their prison cots in the federal penitentiary near Atlanta were Julian Hawthorne and Dr. W. J. Morton at midnight last night, when the official clock rang out the end of their sentences, pronounced by a federal judge of the United States court in New York, March 21.

As the prison doors were closed for the night at 6 o'clock, Hawthorne and Morton, though knowing their time was up at midnight, made themselves easy during the evening, following the routine both have observed because they had, during the early days of their imprisonment, learned that the prison doors were never opened during the night unless they were opened to admit a recruit to Warden Moyer's force.

As both have done since they became guests of Warden Moyer, Hawthorne and Morton were in the hospital fast table Tuesday morning with the other prisoners, and, just as they did a month ago, they came from the breakfast table to take up the same daily life that has been theirs since March. Neither seemed impatient with the slowness of the clock. Nor did either manifest in any way by his fellow prisoners that he was serving his last day. Cheerful, helpful and kind were the words they exchanged with those they were to know no more after midnight.

There were many callers at the penitentiary during the day to see the two distinguished men who are booked to leave Atlanta today, but to all but one there was an emphatic denial. The single exception, the one visitor who was admitted, had but a short talk with the prisoners, and what he said by any one of the parties is known to the participants only. It is believed, however, that the visitor is a friend, possibly a relative of one of the prisoners, and that he came from New York to be of what aid he might after they pass the prison door for the last time.

During the day a large box was received at the prison, and while it has been stated that it was consigned to the prisoners, officials deny any knowledge whatever of it. That box is supposed to be contained wearing apparel equipments for the use of the prisoners.

Deputy Warden Hawk denies all knowledge as to the time the discharged men will leave the city, and in doing so directs all inquiries of that nature to the prisoners themselves, smiling as he makes the statement, as he knows neither will talk until they have passed beyond his guardianship, when it will be up to them to talk or not. While the deputy-warden will not state at what hour the prisoners will be released he says they can leave the prison at any minute after it is opened this morning. An impression obtains, however, that the prisoners will leave the penitentiary about 5 or 10 o'clock this morning and make their way to the Terminal, where they will be met by a friend from the east with their tickets on the Birmingham special. It is a certainty that both Hawthorne and Morton will use every effort to avoid recognition.

Both prisoners are in excellent condition. Both have added weight and strength since they came to the prison. Both have been model prisoners and will be missed by those with whom they have come in daily contact during their penitentiary. Atlanta being designated, in passing sentence the federal judge ruled that it should begin November 19, 1912, the day of arrest, four months before. The prisoners reached Atlanta March 22 and when booked by Warden Moyer they were charged up against the date account as on November 13, 1912. That made the terms expire next November. But the excellent conduct of the two prisoners gave time off which brought their release a few days more than thirty days before the full year and one day term.

To Fight Anti-Futures Laws.

New Orleans, October 14.—While under the head of "anti-futures" the grain dealers national association in convention here today adopted a resolution to raise a fund of $10,000 with which to oppose hostile legislation. The presidents of several state organizations gave assurances of support and made personal contributions.

DOCTOR ENDS TEST TO TRACE POISON

Unofficially Reported That Deadly Drug Has Been Discovered in Organs of Mrs. Sallie Barron.

Examination of the internal organs of Mrs. Sallie Lou Barron was completed yesterday by Dr. Edgar Everhardt and a report sent relatives of the dead woman, whose husband, Dr. Carl Barron, is held on a warrant charging murder on account of the suspicious circumstances surrounding the woman's death. Dr. Everhardt would not intimate whether he had found any traces of poison, but that it would rest with the men who had employed him to make his findings public if they so desired.

In spite of Dr. Everhardt's refusal to discuss the test he has made, it is understood that he has found poison in the dead woman's stomach.

Say Poison Was Found.

McDonough, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—That Dr. Edgar Everhardt, the Atlanta chemist, has found traces of poison in the stomach and other internal organs of Mrs. Sallie Lou Barron, who died several days ago at her home in White House, Henry county, under suspicious circumstances, and whose mysterious death resulted in the arrest of her husband, Dr. Carl Barron, on a warrant charging murder, was unofficially reported here today.

If, as reported, Dr. Everhardt's report is to the effect that he found poison of a character and in sufficient quantity to cause death, the fact will be taken before the Henry county grand jury and the body will be asked to return a true bill against Dr. Barron, for murder.

Dr. Barron has made the startling statement that at the time he was placed under arrest he was en route to Milner to exhume the body of his first wife. He says he had heard of the ugly rumors which charged him with having poisoned her and that he intended to have an analysis made of the stomach and other internal organs in order to set at rest these rumors.

"I am innocent of the charges of poisoning my wife," declares Dr. Barron. "I'm satisfied that no poison will be found, and that I'll be vindicated and restored to my second wife and my darling children. I'm simply a victim of strange circumstances.

When seen at his home Dr. J. M. F. Barron, father of the accused, seemed crushed by the arrest of his son and the accusation against him.

Prepared to Fight for Son.

"It is impossible for me to believe my boy guilty of such a crime as is charged to him," said Mr. Barron. "I know he must be unjustly accused. Knowing him as I do and realizing that he is a Barron, I couldn't think otherwise. I can't conceive of a boy of his blood and his training stooping so low as to commit a crime and especially take the life of his own wife. A woman who bore him four pretty little children.

"Feeling this way, I naturally will fight by his side through this affair, fight to the very end to have him and clear the family name which never has been besmirched. I will spend every penny I have in this world to save him, but I wish this understood—should the evidence be so conclusive as to convince me that he committed this crime, then I'll wash my hands of him.

"That may be hard to say, but I am and always have been a believer in upholding the courts. The interest of society and of every one of us demand that law and the courts be upheld.

"If my boy is guilty and should prove to be the villain he is painted, he would not turn my hand and not one penny would be spent to save him. I would say, let the law take its course. It would be hard, of course, to see the extreme penalty imposed and I might ask for a commutation of sentence, but nothing more."

Dr. Barron was present twice during the fatal illness of the young Mrs. Barron, and he said he is satisfied she died of uremic poisoning as stated by the accused husband.

COTTON CASE ARGUED IN U. S. APPEALS COURT

After Eight Years Suit Is Still Being Fought to Recover $10,145 and Interest.

Argument before the United States court of appeals was concluded yesterday in the case of Haven & Clemens, New York cotton brokers, brought some eight years ago against D. W. Gaines in the United States district court at Columbus. The New York brokers seek $10,145, which they claim represents their commission losses on dealings for Gaines and the interest they ask during the past eight years amounts to over $4,000.

The New York firm, of which the senior member is now dead, contends that they acted as agents for Gaines in buying and selling on the New York cotton exchange and they brought suit to recover for their commissions and for amounts paid out by them for him and representing his losses on the exchange. The dealings in some 5,000 bales of cotton were involved.

The case is one which attracted interest throughout the country among members of cotton exchanges and dealers in cotton. The reply made by Gaines was that such dealings in cotton constituted gambling and hence Gaines could not be held to account for it. There are also a number of fine legal points involved.

The case has already resulted in two verdicts for the plaintiffs in the lower United States courts. The first verdict was reversed after an appeal by Gaines on a charge of incorrectness in the claim, and the present argument represents the carrying of a second writ of error to the court of appeals.

Hollins Randolph, Judge Spencer R. Atkinson and Robert S. Parker represent the New York firm, while Gaines is represented by Smith, Hammond & Smith.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED AND OVER 20 ARE HURT

When a Freight Car Crashes Into Interurban Passenger Near Dallas, Texas.

Dallas, Texas, October 14.—Four persons are killed and more than twenty injured when a freight car loaded with crossties which broke from a train on a downgrade crashed into an interurban passenger car near here tonight.

The collision occurred on a 50-foot trestle and practically demolished the entire front end of the passenger car, which plunged throwing it from the bridge.

The dead:

WALTER O. SEAL, Dallas, motorman.

WALTER R. HULBERT, Lancaster, Texas.

JAMES SHIPPEY, Waxahachie, Texas.

CARPENTER, Waxahachie, Texas. Seriously injured:

R. B. Bailey, Dallas, Texas.

A. P. Martin, Waco, Texas.

John Orr, Red Oak, Texas.

WOMAN PROBATION OFFICER PROVIDED FOR POLICE STATION

Philip Weltner, secretary of the Prison Reform association, appeared before the police board last night and introduced a resolution providing for the installation of a woman probation officer to look after fallen girls.

Mr. Weltner stressed the urgent need of such an officer and at the conclusion of his remarks it was voted by the board to approve the resolution. The duties of the lady probation officer will be paid by the Men and Religion Forward Movement, who some time ago volunteered to provide funds to maintain such a department.

RIVAL HAS WRONGED HIM, SAYS DOCTOR

"I'm the Victim of an Infamous Scoundrel," Declares Dr. M. W. Lewis Physician of Carrollton, Ga.

"I am simply the victim of an infamous scoundrel, a physician, who is seeking to injure me," declared Dr. M. W. Lewis, aged 38, of Carrollton, Ga., yesterday, who was arrested and charged with immoral conduct with the 26-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McCalmon, of Waco, Ga., on July 21.

Dr. Lewis was bound over by Recorder Nash R. Broyles to the criminal division of the city court under a $1,000 bond. It was charged that he brought the girl to Atlanta and had occupied a room with her at a West Mitchell street hotel. According to the police, the girl declared to them that she and the physician, who is a married man with two children living, had been guilty of the actions charged.

Want More Serious Charge.

The parents brought the girl to Atlanta Tuesday to prosecute the case in the city court and it is now said to be their intention to drop the case in this court and to seek to have the grand jury indict the physician on more serious charges. Dr. Lewis stated that he understood that the girl would testify that she resisted his advances and fought him off and had no such relations with him as were charged.

When the hotel register was examined by detectives at the time of the arrest in July it was stated that the pair were found registered as man and wife. Dr. Lewis declared Tuesday that he had written his own name but had never even occupied the room. He declared that another physician, seeking to injure him, had written the words "and wife" after his name on the hotel register.

"Now it seems to be a scheme on the part of the parents to get money out of me," he continued. "The girl, however, as far as I know, is of reputable character and I cannot understand the affair."

Dr. Lewis stated at the police trial that he had brought the young woman here for treatment and that twice before he had brought her here and that each time her parents had known of and agreed to the trips. He reiterated these statements Tuesday.

The physician has employed Attorneys Emmett Blount and J. W. Humphries to represent him in the affair. He declares that the affair has injured him to a certain extent, but that the people of Carroll county have expressed their friendship for him and many have stated that they cannot believe that there is any truth in the charges.

Caused Much Excitement.

In Carroll county where the physician and his wife and family are widely known the arrest caused a great deal of excitement, as it did among others who knew him over the state.

The girl and her parents could not be located for a statement Tuesday, but it was stated that they would seek at the first opportunity to press their charges against the physician before the grand jury.

In the meantime the physician is being held on the bond which was secured for him by L. J. Burks when he was bound over by the recorder.

The arrest of Dr. Lewis was made by Detectives R. L. Waggoner and J. H. Dugas and their names and that of the girl and also the name of L. M. Kay, of 57 West Mitchell street, appear as witnesses on the papers in the city court.

SYLVIA PANKHURST PUT IN LONDON JAIL

London, October 14.—Sylvia Pankhurst, who was the central figure of a fierce struggle last night between the police and militant suffragettes in the east end of London, was arrested tonight when about to enter the Poplar town hall to address another meeting. The militants attempted to rescue her, but the police placed her in a taxicab and drove to Holloway jail.

UNCLE SAM TURNS BACK OF HIS HAND TO MEXIC DICTATOR

Huerta Is Told the United States Views His Assumption of Dictatorship With Abhorrence.

NO ACTS BY DICTATOR WILL BE RECOGNIZED

U. S. Will Not Accept Coming Elections as Legal. Foreign Governments Notified of American Attitude.

Washington, October 14.—The United States government today informed Provisional President Huerta that it looked with abhorrence and amazement upon his assumption of both executive and legislative powers in Mexico and that in view of his course could not regard as constitutional the elections planned for October 26.

Two Notes Strongly Phrased.

Two notes, one strongly phrased and written by Secretary Bryan, inquiring about the safety of imprisoned members of the Mexican congress, and the other drawn in forceful language by President Wilson himself and said to constitute practically the last efforts of the Washington government to deal with the Huerta authorities by diplomatic means unless there is a decided change of spirit on the part of the officials in Mexico City, were sent to the Mexican president.

The negotiations through John Lind had progressed to the point where the state department accepted the indorsement of Federico Gamboa for the presidency, as meaning the elimination of Huerta, and where it was confidently hoped that a fair and free election would be held October 26. Now, however, President Wilson has made it clear that the Washington government had with the events of the last few days—the imprisonment of the deputies and the establishment of a dictatorship by Huerta, lost all hope of seeing a constitutional election held by the Huerta regime.

Foreign Governments Notified.

The steps taken by the United States were formally communicated to all foreign governments. No further negotiations were planned through diplomatic channels and it would not be surprising if John Lind, who has been waiting at Vera Cruz to observe the manner in which the Huerta officials carried out their promises, should return to the United States at once.

Huerta's decrees proclaiming himself as the head of the departments of interior, administration, finance and war were received here today and the text given out at the state department. The documents were read at today's cabinet meeting and members of the cabinet expressed themselves as astonished at the audacity of General Huerta. It was believed that Mr. Wilson in the nature of the two communications sent to General Huerta through Charge O'Shaughnessy and all voiced approval of the vigorous representations. The cabinet meeting was about to adjourn when press dispatches announced that Senor Querido Moheno, Mexican minister of foreign affairs, had characterized the American communications as "intemperate."

Waiting Reply From Huerta.

Official Washington tonight waited the formal reply being drafted by the Huerta administration. Charge O'Shaughnessy reported that he had conveyed both communications and had been assured with respect to the imprisoned deputies that no violence would be done them, but that they would be tried for sedition.

It is the second note of the American government which is said to be only 130 words in length, practically breaking off negotiations with Huerta, which is believed to have prompted Foreign Minister Moheno's description "intemperate."

The Washington officials hold that with most of the members of the Mex-least congress in jail, a prominent member of congress who refused to speak differently to the administration till mysteriously concealed the congress dissolved it is impossible for the civilized world to believe that Huerta group was capable of establishing or maintaining constitutional authority in the southern republic. They also feel that the Huerta officials no longer are deserving of such diplomatic relations as hitherto have existed.

As yet there is no concrete evidence that the Washington administration intends to use drastic measure. The white house has discussed with members of the army and navy from taking any steps that would give an alarmist impression.

United States May Aid Rebels.

Some officials said they would not be surprised if the failure of the Huerta government to comply with promises made to John Lind would cause the Washington administration to consider throwing its support to the constitutionalists in the north of Mexico. This might carry with it a lifting of the embargo on arms and many senators think the constitutionalists soon would triumph if they had such resistance.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan hitherto have opposed such a step, but informal communication within the last two weeks with the constitutionalists has indicated that the Washington administration is scrutinizing the leaders of the constitutionalist movement to determine what are their purposes and whether they could establish constitutional government in Mexico.

Developments in the situation are expected to follow quickly, as the re-election in advance of the election planned for October 26 is likely to draw out a new expression of policy by the United States.

It is confidently expected here that foreign governments generally will follow in the lead of the United States in whatever steps are taken. Some of them have explained to this country that their recognition of Huerta followed their international duty to ambassador Henry Lane Wilson's congratulatory speech to Huerta in forecasting recognition by the United States. To-day incidentally Henry Lane Wilson's resignation as ambassador to Mexico went into effect.

HUERTA DECLARES SELF DICTATOR OF MEXICO

Washington, October 14.—Copies of a proclamation by President Provisional Huerta announcing himself as dictator over Mexico were received at the state department today, and considered at the cabinet meeting at the white house.

Huerta declared suspended that provision of the constitution which grants immunity from arrest to members of the Mexican congress, and announces that he will from time to time issue executive decrees because of the dissolution of congress.

Huerta's decree, dated October 11, says in part:

"In view of the fact that the chamber of deputies and senate of the congress of the union have been dissolved and inhabilitated to perform their functions, and in view of the powers which I hold in the department of gobernacion, according to the decree of October 10, this year, I have seen fit to declare that article 51, the constitutional exemption from arrest and judicial action which the citizens which form the twenty-sixth congress of the union enjoyed in view of their functions, is hereby repealed and consequently they are subject to the jurisdiction of the tribunals corresponding to the case in their every day duty or penalty for any crime or offense."

In a decree under date of October 19 Huerta declares that within 90 days the people elect new magistrates who shall take office in the legislative body. It is the belief that the government should come on all fours with Mexico and face the situation and to re-establish the constitutional order of things in the shortest possible time, as is its purpose and since October 26 has been set as a date for election of deputies and senators, Senor Huerta becomes provisional president ad interim, has seen fit to decree these articles of procedure.

Article 1. The judicial power of the federation shall continue to be exercised in the terms set by the constitution of the republic and that of the union of the 26th of October 4 of this month, and such others as shall be issued.

"Article 2. The executive power of the union under the charge of the undersigned upon him by the constitution and subordinate to him more immediately of gobernacion, finance and war and marine, considers the town ripe for the re-establishment of legislative powers.

"In the meantime the executive takes upon himself to exercise the faculties granted by the constitution in the aforementioned gobernacion and refers the use of them by issuing decrees which shall be observed in such cases in which he may deem expedient for the public welfare.

"Article 3. The executive of the union will render an account to the legislative power of the use which he makes of the powers which are granted by virtue of this decree as soon as this is in function.

"VICTORIANIA HUERTA."

HUERTA KEEPS SILENCE ABOUT AMERICAN NOTE

Mexico City, October 14.—The status quo will not be changed by the latest exchange of notes between the United States, according to information given out today by the foreign office late tonight. The diplomatic communications between Washington and Mexico growing out of the dissolution of the congress and the imprisonment of the deputies and the imprisonment of the deputies have been the subject of intense interest. Since the meeting of the American charge d'affaires nor the Mexican foreign minister has made known the tenor of that exchange.

Senor Urquithnessey, the charge, appearing deeply concerned, made visits to the foreign office and to the president's office and for several hours this afternoon. The meeting of the Mexican Foreign Minister Moheno looked himself in his office and refused to receive callers. His secretary said he was busily preparing the reply which Mexico is to make to the Washington memorandum. Later Senor Moheno sent to the newspaper men that he had finished his task but that before making public the character of the reply it must be submitted to the president who was summoned by the messenger who were summoned to gather at the president's office in the evening.

The most startling rumor which became current was that the American charge was to be given his passports and that Mexican government retarded the attitude of the United States as such that it could no longer consider to receive a Washington representative.

It was also said that President Wilson's personal representative, John Lind, now at Vera Cruz, will be asked to leave Mexico.

Senor Moheno verbally denied that there was any truth in these rumors.

"My government has no such intention," he said. "We have no information as to that the government of the United States intends, but so far as my government is concerned, Mr. O'Shaughnessy may remain, and will receive every consideration."

While the attaches of the embassy are dumb respecting the contents of the Washington memorandum, it is learned from other sources that the American government has notified General Huerta that, owing to the high-handed manner in which the dissolution of congress was suppressed, no free elections were possible and that no candidates could under the conditions existing would be accepted by the Washington.

Regarding the possible withdrawal of the ambassadors by Great Britain and the dispatch to Mexico of war ships by Germany, the British minister said last night he had no official information. He regarded it as extremely improbable that Great Britain would change her policy, citing the recent dispatch of a naval force under Sir Lionel Carden, to the Mexican capital, which step he considered would not have been taken had the British foreign office such intentions.

The warships, if they came, he thought would make merely visit of courtesy.

AMERICAN IS KILLED BY MEXICAN REBELS

El Paso, Texas, October 14.—F. B. Ellis, of Cripple Creek, Colo., arrived in Juares today from Torreon. He said his brother Joseph was killed by Mexicans last Sunday while a party of Americans was leaving Torreon for the border. F. B. Ellis was shot in the arm. Three others of the party were missing. They are J. M. Brown, Wichita, Kan.; L. M. White, Butte, Mon., and A. T. Stevens, Sacramento, Cal.

The party was about half-way between Torreon and El Oro when Mexicans in uniform who claimed to be rebels attacked the automobile in which Ellis was killed at the first fire. After making a brief stand the Americans fled. F. B. Ellis said he became separated from the others and he was unable to trace them after the fighting. He thinks they were overtaken by the Mexicans and killed.

DOCTOR ENDS TEST TO TRACE POISON

came today in a statement by George N. Dumas, a well-known citizen of Pike county, that Dr. Cary A. Barron, now in jail in McDonough, accused of poisoning his wife, early in January, threatened to kill his wife and four little children.

Dumas, whose wife is a cousin of the dead Mrs. Barron, said this was confided to both him and Mrs. Dumas by Mrs. Barron early in March, just prior to her reconciliation with her husband. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dumas will be important witnesses for the state in the event the young physician is indicted by the Henry county grand jury and placed on trial for his life.

According to Dumas, Mrs. Barron said her husband had threatened this daughter of his family because she complained and upbraided him for his reported attentions to a married woman in Goggans Station, with whom he is accused of having eloped shortly afterward and lived with for three weeks in south Georgia.

The distressed wife, according to Dumas, also explained that she would not have returned to her husband after this elopement had it not been for the four youngsters. One of these children, Spencer, 4 years of age, is a hopeless invalid, while the baby, 2-year-old Dorothy, was being carried in arms at the time.

Social Session Called.

The Atlanta Scottish association has announced a special social session Friday night at the Burns' club. The affair will be a Hallowe'en jollification, celebrated in true Scottish fashion. Every man has been requested to attend and to bring with him a song, a story and a recitation or reading.

Mayor Munches Peanuts While Policemen Are Tried by Commission

While Mayor Woodward nonchalantly munched peanuts, the trial of police officers A. L. Smith and T. D. Shaw, charged with committing acts without provocation, beating S. R. Fylant, an aged car inspector, while placing the latter under arrest some weeks ago, was held at the regular monthly meeting of the board of police commissioners Tuesday night, and resulted in a public vindication for the accused patrolmen.

Fylant claimed that he had taken an overdose of medicine on the day of his arrest, and the next thing he remembers after taking the medicine was when he woke up in a cell at police headquarters, badly shaken and much the worse for wear. He claimed that officer Smith, who was called by Shaw to assist in the arrest, struck him without provocation. Fylant was represented by Attorney J. M. Mornings. The fact was totally established that Fylant was struck by Smith, but that was all Fylant was able to prove.

The testimony of more than forty witnesses clearly showed that Fylant struck Fylant only after the latter had called the officer vile names and profusely cursed him. The two officers were also represented by Attorney William Smith. After hearing all the evidence, the board unanimously voted in favor of a complete vindication for the accused officers.

Former Roundsmen Grover C. Fain, J. W. Whaley and W. H. Turner, whose names appeared on the eligible list for promotion to the rank of sergeants, Houndsmen A. D. Luck, George A. Maddox and J. W. Barnes were given thirty days in which to prepare for the examination which will place their names on the eligible list. If these men pass the examination they will in all probability be made sergeants.

W. M. Grover, who voluntarily resigned from the Atlanta police force five years ago, after serving for a number of years, was reinstated as a patrolman. He will go on duty at once.

connection with his $1,000 contribution "to be easy with him."

The Proposed Amendment.

The proposed amendment further differed from the original in that it specified that the governor attempted subordination of perjury, a felony, whereas the original merely charged that he "used threats and meanaces," a misdemeanor.

Argument of counsel centered mainly around the point as to whether citing the governor for subornation of perjury constituted a new charge.

Outside the courtroom much speculation was indulged in as to the situation as a result of the proceedings. Some held that the question at issue was solely one of legal technicalities and never ever decided, the fact remained that the Peak and Morgenthau testimony undisputed by contradictory evidence, was in the record.

Others observed that there was a possibility that articles 1, 2 and 6, the "money articles," on which the impeachment managers' case is chiefly based, might be thrown out on the ground that they related to offenses committed before the governor took office. In this connection there were rumors that several of the nine court of appeals judges felt that the constitutional objections against the articles were well taken.

Case May Fall Completely.

Should these objections be upheld and there being no article on the case now before the court in the Peak-Morgenthau testimony should be considered, there would be a possibility that the case might fall completely.

Although the testimony of Allan A. Ryan that the governor sought political influence to stop the trial was placed before the court for its consideration when the question was first raised yesterday by Judge Miller, no action was suggested in regard to it today.

Attorney Stanchfield, in presenting the amendment, offered counsel for the defense all the chance to place the governor on the stand to refute the charges as amended, but they indicated no intention of doing so.

Presiding Judge Cullen summed up the issue as follows:

"The question whether under the articles of impeachment as they now stand the conversation to which the witness Peck testified can be considered as a substantive offense, is one that will have to be determined when you finally determine the merits of the case. But there also is the application to amend the articles and in a request there for a witness to use the expression of counsel, to send it back to the assembly or give notice. That will have to be determined now and before we proceed further in this case."

When court adjourned tonight it was rumored that a motion was under debate to drop the proposed amendment and that there also was opposition to the motion itself, the nature of which could not be learned.

FACTORY PROPERTIES PUT ON THE MARKET

Paterson, N. J., October 14.—Today at the first day's sale of the ten manufacturing properties—from New Jersey to North Carolina—of the Ashley & Bailey company, the Jefferson Properties" realized $123,000, the assessed valuation of the buildings was $298,000. The purchaser of the first three lots was Melvin L. Pallies, of 100 Williams street, New York city. The purchaser of lot four was the Sipp Machine company, of Paterson. For some unexplainable reason there was no bid upon the Hawthorne mill although it is a good property, free from encumbrance, in successful operation and pledged to absolute sale. Its assessed valuation is $61,000. The four Pennsylvania mills are to be sold on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Capt. Shroeder Dead.

Charleston, S. C., October 14.—Captain John D. C. Schroder, a member of the South Carolina legislature, a prominent lawyer of Charleston, and a leader in military affairs of the state, died here this morning, following an operation on Sunday for appendicitis. He was 38 years of age.

LOW CHURCHMEN OBJECT HE CHARGES HEBREWS TO AN "AMERICAN POPE" WITH "RITUAL MURDER"

Despite Their Opposition Episcopal Deputies Vote to Group Dioceses.

New York, October 14.—One of the governing bodies—the house of deputies—of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America voted today at the triennial general convention of the church to group the dioceses into coordinate provinces, eight in number, after the custom that prevails in the Episcopal church in England. To become effective this proposed legislation must receive the concurrence of the house of bishops.

At previous conventions the question has been up only to be voted down. Three years ago a commission was appointed to consider it and today an affirmative report was submitted.

If the canon is enacted as proposed each group of dioceses in a province will have its own provincial council, to the care of which will be committed mainly subjects of missions, religious education and local problems. Any diocese would have the privilege of remaining out of the province to which it is assigned, but it is not considered likely that any province would take such a step.

After a debate of several hours the clerical order voted 66½ to 6⅝ (3 divided) to adopt the change and the lay order 57¼ to 9¼ (1 divided) in favor. Bishops and other officers of the commission's report was adopted reading, by provinces, of the provinces, dioceses and missionary districts shall have synodical rights and privileges." Other sections of the report are to be considered tomorrow.

Fear "American Pope."

Many of the low church delegates opposed the change on the ground that it wa. a step in the direction of archbishops and "an American pope." The report provides for eight provinces or synods, in which the various dioceses and missionary districts of the church shall be grouped according to their geographical location. Each of these provinces would be governed by a council composed of two bodies. At its head would be a president, and in general the method of administration would be similar to that now in force in the entire body of the church as exercised at the triennial convention.

For the composition for the provincial division, it was proposed that the fourth province consist of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, North and South Carolina dioceses and missionary districts, and that the seventh province consist of dioceses and missionary districts in Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. There were to be eight provinces in all.

Army and Navy Chaplains.

The house of bishops in executive session today declined to adopt two recommendations presented by a commission appointed three years ago to consider the relation of the army and navy chaplains to the church. One recommendation suggested placing army and navy chaplains on a separate diocese under a bishop and the other that the army and navy chaplains should be under the jurisdiction of a committee of three bishops, including the bishop of Washington as chairman.

More chaplains with additional assistants and better equipment are needed in the army and navy, according to the report of a special commission which recommended that congress be asked to remedy the situation. A special committee will be appointed to memorialize congress to this end.

The first of a series of conferences in connection with the general convention was held this afternoon by a joint committee on social service, appointed by the last triennial convention. Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts, presided.

The Church and Industry.

"The church and industry" was considered today. Bishop J. N. McCormick, of Western Michigan, said the church must consider the field of industry from the moral angle. "The church and labor need above all things to know each other better," Bishop McCormick declared. "The church must be the friend of the workingman, not only in the pulpit, but also in the street and in the hall. It should strive to keep the inside of the church as well as the hall outside."

Bishops, clergymen and laymen of the house of bishops, and the house of deputies held a joint session today to discuss "Religious Education." Dr. Alexander Mann, of Boston, president of the house of deputies, presided. Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, of Tennessee, said the church has a great battle to fight among the educated in our colleges. He offered figures, sending to show that unbelief in religion is increasing in the state universities.

Bishop David H. Greer, of New York, called a meeting of Catholic and Protestants reaching a common ground on which they may meet to devise a system of religious education in the public schools.

George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, a lay delegate, asserted that without this religious training true education is impossible.

SUCCESSOR IS SOUGHT TO DR. FRANCIS PATTON

Princeton, N. J., October 14.—No report was made today by the committee of the Princeton Theological seminary board of directors appointed to confer with a man for president of the seminary to succeed Dr. Francis L. Patton, who resigned last May. The board set the third Tuesday in January as the day for the next meeting when the committee announced it would be ready to make a report.

Among those being considered for the position are Rev. W. S. McEwen and Rev. C. Matlack Alexander, of Pittsburg; Dr. J. Ross Stevens and Rev. Alfred W. Beard, Baltimore, and Dr. Charles R. Erdman, a professor in the seminary.

Tampa Sells Bonds.

Tampa, Fla., October 14.—Arrangements were consummated today between the city of Tampa and the Mercantile Trust and Deposit company, of Baltimore, whereby that concern buys $1,100,000 of Tampa improvement bonds at par and accrued interest. The issue recently voted was for $1,700,000. Lowell Banks took $150,000 and an insurance company $100,000.

400 MINERS KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION

Welsh Mine Was Shattered Soon After Nearly 1,000 Men Began Work—About 500 Were Rescued Alive.

Cardiff, Wales, October 15.—A disaster, possibly the greatest in the history of the South Wales coal fields, whose annals are blistering with terrible catastrophes, occurred yesterday through an explosion in the Universal colliery near here. Shortly after the day shift of 821 men entered the mine air, explosion shattered the works.

During the day and early in the night about 500 miners were brought to the surface alive.

After unsuccessfully rescuing parties began to get the fire under control and at 2:30 o'clock this morning twenty more men were found alive at the bottom of the pit. This gave hope that others may be found, but there is still a possibility that nearly 400 men perished.

Including the bodies recovered and those killed at the pit head the known death roll numbers 16. Doctors with oxygen and medicaments descended the shaft at an early hour this morning. A crowd of 40,000 distracted persons surrounded the pit head all night and anxiously awaited news at the Cardiff station.

Appetite Ho! Ho! 'Tis a Great Joy

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are the Best Appetite Makers Dyspeptics and Stomach Sufferers Can See.

Appetite is very largely a series of signals from the stomach. When one has a roaring appetite at the sight or smell of food the stomach through its connection with the mind of man is asked whether the food seen or smelled would be welcome.

The stomach if healthy says yes and at once our mouths water and we are hungry from the digestive juices liberously hungry. If the stomach be sick then we have no appetite and are actually nauseated.

Waiter—How's your appetite today, sir?

Guest—Bully good. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make me eat like a horse."

Appetite makes the glands of the mouth open and saliva flows very freely—hence the term "Mouth Water." This is the first digestive juice. It has an important office to perform, as all starchy foods are partially digested by it because one of its ingredients, ptyalin, is almost an instant digestive of starch. This process reduces the starch in foods to sugar.

The appetite causing a free flow of saliva aids the stomach by its ability to mix the food eaten with enough juices which enables it to more readily do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into the mouth like food, are eaten, then dissolved and fluidized by the saliva. This mass then goes into the stomach and there quickly readjusts the stomach juices so that in a short time he is not offensive and man's appetite comes appearing back to him and he is hungry in a healthy, normal way.

By all means use a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet the very moment you feel a loss of hunger. The quick return of appetite to you will convince you quickly that your stomach has been out of order and that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the means of restoring its normal health condition. Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and no matter where you may be you can always obtain a box anywhere for 50 cents.

The Atlanta Constitution—An Institution

THE Atlanta Constitution is today, as it has been for years, recognized as the newspaper most typical of Atlanta, of Georgia and of the South.

Its name is a hearthstone echo with the day-laborer and the clerk, the silk-hat man, the capitalist and the man behind the steam shovel.

It is the voice of Atlanta, of Georgia, and of the South, to the nation and to the world.

That is why it has come to be known as "The Georgia Bible." People do not use illustrations of that nature without careful thought and long comparisons. You swear folk on the Bible. The people of Georgia swear by The Constitution because of its accuracy, its truthfulness, its inspiration, its cleanliness and its usefulness.

Why is it that Atlanta, that Georgia and the South turn instinctively to The Constitution? Why do YOU personally like the newspaper? Why does the native-born Southerner, and the great mass of other Americans we are so rapidly assimilating, rely upon The Constitution as a sure guide to Southern sentiment and the spokesman of right public opinion?

Here are a few reasons. They will interest you, since they analyze to the furthest the psychology and anatomy of the personality of "The Standard Southern Newspaper."

The paramount reason is that The Constitution today, as always, issues a complete, sane resume of twenty-four hours' news. It is not scrambled together with news half told and features cramped from very frenzy of haste.

It is a Southern newspaper—with Southern instincts and Southern viewpoint.

The Constitution was started with a great mission. It was established in 1868. The year brought the high-tide of the miseries and the tests of Reconstruction. A whole people was being born again. Chaos ruled the land. Bitterness and fear lurked at every corner. A negroid government was upon the people. The institutions of centuries' growth were in the melting pot. On each side was misgiving. Upon every hand was the need for courage and for vision.

It was the privilege of The Constitution to serve the city, the state, and the South under these conditions.

It was its privilege to stiffen the backbone of the timid; to soften the asperities of the irreconcilable.

It was its right to sustain hope when hope appeared folly; when thousands in despair were abandoning the South.

Where concession was compatible with dignity it preached concession.

Where inflexibility was indicated it counseled a stand that was unreceding.

The Constitution found little difficulty in this task. It knew the mighty and unconquerable spirit of the Southern people. It knew the superabundance of the South's natural resources. In those dark days, it looked beyond and saw the destiny that lay on the other side of the abyss.

The man who is closest to you is the man who has stood at your elbow in the day of test. That is how The Constitution grew into the warp and woof of the confidence of Atlanta, of Georgia, and of the South. Its hold has steadily increased with the years.

When the "Force Bill" threatened to revive the nightmare of Reconstruction, it was the campaigning by The Constitution that so stiffened the spines of Southern congressmen that the fight ensued which sent that ill-advised measure to the discard.

In later days The Constitution's policy has uniformly been one of construction, as against destruction; of reconciliation, not of vindictiveness nor the role of the historic ghoul.

The Constitution's viewpoint is nation-wide, not provincial.

In the politics of the city and state, The Constitution's attitude has been the same. It has conscientiously sought out and followed what it regarded as the best eventual interests of the majority. At the same time it has avoided intolerance.

The paper might be sincerely opposed to certain policies or candidates. That did not prevent it from doing its best to give them a square deal. The startling accuracy of its political prophecies has become proverbial.

The Constitution has always believed, and lived up to the belief, that while the editorial columns belonged to the paper, the news columns belonged to the people.

The Constitution has always recognized that the intelligence and strength of no community could be stronger than that of its farming element. It has always stressed its agricultural features.

It established first a Weekly and then a Tri-Weekly—which has grown into the greatest Tri-Weekly newspaper in all the world. It is preeminently the newspaper of the Southern farmer. It is the Southern farmer's every-other-day daily. It trails the rural carrier into 107,000 rural homes three times each calendar week.

This means, roughly estimated, and counting five members to the family, 530,000 Southern farmers and their families read The Constitution three times a week. The estimate is purposely conservative.

That is why the heart of the rural South, the feeders and largely the clothiers of the rest of us, look to The Constitution as the supreme court in all those functions a newspaper may discharge.

It is conceded that The Constitution's persistent propaganda is chiefly responsible for the diversification and the better farming methods that are gathering momentum in the South today.

This summarization explains why men, women and children through Atlanta, Georgia and the South regard The Constitution as the court of last resort for news, for breadth of opinion, for promptness, for education and for accuracy.

From the day in 1868, when the first crude sheet appeared, to this day, when the finished and expensive product leaves the great perfecting presses, The Constitution's efforts have always been to—

Keep close to the heart-beat of the people.

To make Ishmaelites of all the sharp-traders with the public confidence.

To sacrifice profit, if need be, for truth and for service.

To ignore gaudy and clap-trap methods, even though they brought a dearly-bought temporary success to competitors.

To keep jam up with progress, but never to mistake selfish hysteria for progress.

To cater to no class exclusively, but to be worthy of the friendship, or at least the respect, of all classes.

To hold such a course as to be regarded as the ever-advancing standard by which all other comparisons are made.

For forty-five years this policy has been religiously followed. That is why, whether people come from Atlanta, from Georgia, the South or the nation, they hail The Constitution unquestionably as fully entitled to be known as "The Standard Southern Newspaper."

That is why The Atlanta Constitution is something more than a newspaper. It is

A SOUTHERN INSTITUTION

It is that element of prestige, representing the confidence of the public for many years, that gives it an added value as a home newspaper, apart from its superiority in purely journalistic excellencies.

Its 50,000 circulation is superior for advertising purposes because its readers, probably half of whom have read the paper for a long period of years, instinctively give the advertising much the same credence as they do the news and editorial matters, being influenced by it in their purchases similarly as they are in other activities by the paper itself.

BORN IN A CAUCUS; NURSED IN POLITICS

Hepburn Describes Currency Bill — Congressmen Tell Bankers Government Intends to Control Banks.

New York, October 14.—Declaring that the Owen-Glass currency bill, now before congress, was "born in a caucus and cradled in politics since its inception," A. Barton Hepburn, chairman of the Chase National bank, of New York, attached today the Wilson administration measure. Mr. Hepburn was one of the speakers at the national conference on currency reform which opened here today under the auspices of the New York Academy of Political Science. At the conference leading figures in the administration fight for the currency bill clashed with bankers opposed to the measure.

Senator Robert L. Owen, sponsor in the senate for the currency bill; Representative Carter Glass, who led the fight for the bill in the house, and Representative Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio, member of the h use committee on banking and currency, defended the administration plan. Arthur Reynolds, of Des Moines, president of the American Bankers' association, and Mr. Hepburn spoke for the bankers opposed to the bill. Mr. Glass was unable on account of illness to attend the conference, and the speech he had prepared was read into the record.

Politics and the Banks.

The debate revolved largely about the wisdom of compelling national banks to join in the proposed system under penalty of losing their charters and on the assertion that designation of members of the federal reserve board by the president would open the way to political domination of the banking business.

"I am not especially fearful of political control," said Mr. Hepburn, turning aside from his prepared speech to emphasize his point. "I am not even especially fearful of incompetent control. But inasmuch as this bill was born in a caucus and cradled in politics from its inception, business men, bankers and the public in general may be pardoned for having some misgivings whether politics may not have a part in its management."

Senator Owen and Mr. Reynolds disagreed as to the probable success of the proposed plan. The senator predicted its unqualified success, and expressed the opinion that virtually every bank in the country would join in it. Mr. Reynolds replied by saying that he had attended a recent conference of 600 country bankers in Boston, and that they were united in their willingness to join the regional associations proposed. In his home state, he said, he had talked with many bankers, and not one of them had expressed willingness to join the associations.

Government Control of Banks.

Mr. Bulkley said the time had come when the bankers of the country must submit to government control as the railroads had done. Representative Glass held that the real reason for the bankers' opposition was the fear of an immediate loss of profits. Senator Owen insisted that the banking system, as a whole, should be supervised directly by the government in the interest of all the people instead of being in the hands of bankers for their own profits. He was asked whether he had considered advocating the appointment of federal board members for life, so that they would be above the suspicion of political control.

"In our country men live too long for that," the senator replied smilingly. He said the federal board members would be appointed for long terms, possibly ten or twelve years, and that for these positions there should be selected men who were the equal intellectually of the men who sit on the supreme court bench.

Various amendments to the bill were suggested by Professor O. M. W. Sprague, of Harvard university.

Professor E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton university; Alexander D. Noyes, of The New York Evening Post, and Parker Willis, of The Journal of Commerce, also made addresses, which were followed by a general discussion. Tomorrow's sessions, which will end the conference, will be held at Columbia university.

To Hurry the Hearings.

Washington, October 14.—If necessary, the senate banking and currency committee will hold night sessions to hear all witnesses listed to discuss the administration currency bill in order to close the hearings October 25. The committee today revised its list of witnesses, and agreed to hear H. Parker Willis, who acted as expert to the house committee during consideration of the bill. National Bank Examiner Starek, in charge of bank examinations in New York; representatives of the National Chamber of Commerce and a delegation of country bankers from Minnesota, in addition to witnesses already scheduled. When the hearings are closed the bill will be taken up for amendment.

The committee worked late this evening getting views of country bankers. After members of the delegation appointed by the conference of country bankers at Boston last week had been heard in criticism of parts of the bill, Robert H. Tremaine, of Ithaca, N. Y., and James H. Perkins, of Albany, N. Y., presented the views of the New York State Bankers' association. They generally indorsed the bill, but urged that the bankers be given representation on the federal reserve board.

F. X. Larabee and E. R. Moses, representing country bankers of Kansas, corroborated generally the views of the country bankers' delegation.

GUARANTEE BUILDING MAY BE FORECLOSED

Suit to Foreclose Is Brought Against Company by Atlanta National Bank.

Suit to foreclose on the building occupied by the Guarantee Trust and Banking company, which was recently placed in the hands of receivers, and of which Samuel E. Smith, president, and H. S. Miles, secretary and treasurer, were indicted for felonies in connection with the management of the affairs, was brought yesterday by the Atlanta National bank, which on March 20, 1910, sold the property to the trust company.

Through its attorney, Daniel MacDougald, the Atlanta National bank asserts that the other institution owes twelve notes of $1,000 each, now overdue, and judgment for this amount is asked.

The propertty, which is located on East Alabama street and which was occupied by the trust company and by the City Savings bank, brought $55,000 at the time of sale, according to the figures given in the foreclosure suit.

Recently the American National bank brought suit on some notes against the trust company, and this case was rejoined, pending the final action of the supreme court on the matter of a receiver. The present suit brought by the Atlanta National is possibly to be fought in the same way. It is understood that the Atlanta National claims that the order of superior court placing the affairs of the trust company in the hands of a receiver does not shut off the right to foreclose on the notes, for which the Atlanta National bank claims to hold title to the property as security.

IMMORALITY CHARGED TO WIFE IN HIS SUIT

Declaring that his wife, Mrs. Minnie Bishop, had been arrested on charges of immorality with one Walter Hatten, and that she forfeited her cash bond rather than appear in court, John W. Bishop yesterday filed suit for total divorce in superior court.

The couple were married March 30, 1905, by Rev. Dr. Holderby, according to the petition filed by Attorney W. M. Smith. The date of separation is not named.

PHI DELTA THETAS OBSERVE ALUMNI DAY

Atlanta alumni of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity have arranged a theater party at the Forsyth tonight and an informal supper at the Candler Anley following the show, in celebration of "Alumni day," which is being observed today by Phis all over the country.

The alumni will meet at 8 o'clock in the lobby of the Forsyth, where those who have not yet obtained their tickets may do so from P. M. Petsel, reporter of the alumni association.

PIPE ORGAN COMPANY SUES NEGRO CHURCH; FIRST IN 93 YEARS

With the filing of a suit yesterday against the St. Paul African M. E. church by the pipe organ firm of Henry Pilcher's Sons, of Louisville, Ky., company filed its first law-suit against a church in ninety-three years. During this period, in which three generations have lived to manage the House of Pilcher, as the company is termed, pipe organs have been placed in all parts of the south, and always on credit until the work is completed, and never before this has the company had to sue in order to get its pay.

The suit, which was filed Tuesday in the Fulton county court house by Arnaud & Ironelon, as attorneys for the organ company, is for the amount of $1,100, this being the total price of installing the organ.

Your mental state has a good deal to do with your business efficiency; you know it. And the effect of clothes on the mental state is considerable.

If you pay a cheap price, you cant help thinking about the clothes; considering what cheap clothes are, you'd better not. If you pay a big price—made-to-measure—you're likely to keep thinking about the price; an uncomfortable mental state.

If you pay $25 for one of our suits or overcoats, you dont have to think of anything but business; the fit, style, quality are right, and you know it; the price isn't more than you ought to pay.

The Atlanta Constitution as the Standard Southern Newspaper

THERE are various types of newspapers each with its distinct appeal and of varying degrees of popularity in different sections of the country. All of them are represented in the South.

¶ One is the sensational newspaper. It is not as fashionable as it used to be. Many shrewd newspaper men, trained in sensing the public taste, think it is waning very fast. Faking is its foundation. Its program is to hit the reader every day between the eyes. If bona fide news serves its turn, that news is played up in blazing, hysterical headlines. The reading matter screams and smells of fire. It is merciless when it treats scandal. Sometimes it is reckless of the community welfare so long as it shocks the pennies from people's pockets. If material for these spasms is not forthcoming, it has often been known to resort to invention. Its editorial views are biased, bushwhacking and uncandid.

¶ Another type is the feature newspaper. It is much milder than the first, but their programs have something in common. It is always in search of the picturesque, the unique, the bizarre. Often it prints accurate news. Oftener the news is "muffed" or obscured or muddled in the effort to distort a feature out of it. It abounds in graphic pictures. Its editorial, like its news policy, is casual, flippant and happy-go-lucky.

¶ A third type is the ultra-conservative newspaper. Some mighty fine sheets are in this class. Most of them lean too far backward. They are afraid of progress in the news and public issues until progress has grown whiskers. An innovation generally gives them the palsy. For a thing to be new is to make it rest under suspicion. They never like to get from under the shadow of the established order. A great big world-thrilling event generally leaves them with a steady pulse-beat.

¶ There are other types. These three are archtypes.

¶ The Atlanta Constitution, as "The Standard Southern Newspaper," is distinctive enough as to have almost if not quite created a fourth pronounced type.

¶ It is the plumb-line by which Atlanta, the state, south and nation gauge other newspapers of the same class.

¶ Since its establishment it has been operated upon a clean-cut, definite program, with definite journalistic purposes behind it. That program has not been and is not the result of accident. It was not stumbled upon in the dark. It is the result of a keen and patient study of the paper's field, microscopic examination of the best and the worst in its contemporaries, and intimate sympathy with the ideas of its constituency.

¶ The Constitution is an entity.

¶ It represents the best of other types of newspapers, with an added individuality of its own.

¶ First of all, it prints the news of other countries, its own country, its own state and its own city. The public wants in its newspaper, primarily, a report of all the news occurrences that are informative and interesting and fit to print. The Constitution gives right of way to news. The greater portion of its editorial organization is concentrated upon the task of gathering the news and presenting it properly. No newspaper of its class anywhere prints a more comprehensive news review of the world occurrences.

¶ It gives the TRUTH in the news prime consideration. It regards itself as in a compact with its readers to deliver certain goods. It does not knowingly deliver damaged or tainted goods.

¶ It believes allegations should be verified before they go to its readers. It does not countenance smutty or suggestive news. It stresses cleanliness.

¶ This does not entail prudishness. It means THE TRUTH stripped of sly embellishment.

¶ But it does not believe there is any necessity to present the news dully. "An honest tale spreads best being plainly told," but that does not mean TOLD PLAINLY.

¶ Everyone likes a bright but accurate talker, and everyone likes a bright but accurate newspaper. The paper that described the Titanic disaster like reciting a lesson would not get very far.

¶ The Constitution employs able and highly-trained men to put GINGER into The Truth.

¶ It believes in an attractive dress for itself. Good clothes on man, woman or newspaper represent good taste.

¶ Typographically, The Constitution is a model. It strives for all the grace compatible with the correct estimate of every article's worth.

¶ It employs experts who know what's what and who's who in the news, and what credit to give men and events. It is not wedded to any arbitrary typographical formulas, when important things happen.

¶ When occasion justifies, to use street parlance, it "throws it into the high gear" in the matter of type display. But it strives always to preserve consistency between the real importance of news and its typographical presentation.

¶ It believes in features that are entertaining—in entertainment itself.

¶ It retains humorists and facile artists to relieve the paper of the heaviness which the printing of unflavored news only would entail.

¶ It prints fiction, essays and various other classes of matter that are as entertaining as they are informative, so that the paper will provide interesting reading for every taste and mood.

¶ In its editorial columns it honestly strives for what it believes to be for the good of the largest number.

¶ It does not fawn.

¶ It does not misrepresent.

¶ It does not mind making enemies.

¶ It avoids provincialism.

¶ It tries to be national in its viewpoint.

¶ ALTOGETHER ITS PROGRAM IS TO APPEAL TO THE JUDGMENT, THE CONFIDENCE, THE BELIEF IN THE WHOLESOME THINGS OF LIFE, THE SANE DESIRE FOR SANE PROGRESS AND FOR ALL WORTH WHILE THINGS OF EXISTENCE, OF THE BEST TYPE OF SOUTHERN PEOPLE.

¶ The program has been undeviating.

BAPTISTS GATHER IN COLLEGE PARK

Fifty-Three Churches in City and Vicinity Are Members of Ministers' Association.

The fifth annual convention of the Atlanta Association of Baptist churches convened Monday with more than 500 delegates, including 50 ministers, in attendance. The convention opened in the large chapel of the Cox Conservatory of Music at College Park, Ga., and will continue Thursday. Fifty-three churches in Atlanta and the immediate vicinity are members of the association.

Devotionals conducted by Rev. J. L. Jackson, pastor of the Kirkwood Baptist church, and singing led by J. N. Landers, were preliminary to the election of a moderator and officers for the ensuing year. W. W. Gaines, a well-known lawyer of Atlanta and member of the Capital Avenue Baptist church, was elected moderator by a unanimous vote. Rev. W. H. Bell, pastor of the North Atlanta Baptist church, was elected vice moderator. The following officers were re-elected: M. C. Anderson, clerk; G. S. Prior, treasurer; A. E. Wheeler, auditor; E. P. Robertson, superintendent.

Two-minute oral reports from the various churches of the association were heard. All reports indicated good gains, both as to growth and financial condition, for the past twelve months.

McConnell Praises Ministers.

Rev. Lincoln McConnell, pastor of the Atlanta Baptist Tabernacle, was the feature speaker of the morning session. Taking his text from Acts 22 chapter, 14 and 15 verses, he made an impassioned address to ministers present, taking as his theme, "God's Call to an Honest Man." He vividly depicted Paul's trip to Damascus and declared that God spoke each hour to every one of His earthly teachers of His word and called them. He asserted that not only were the ministers to be commended for the work that they had done during the past year, but that God would reward each of them on that final day.

At the close of the morning session the ladies of the various churches in attendance served a delightful luncheon in the college dining room. Following this the association again adjourned to the chapel, where Professor William H. Cox, president of the Cox Conservatory of Music, had the young ladies of the college entertain with a number of choice choral selections, under the directorship of Professor E. W. Honawitz, the distinguished young musical conductor from New York.

An elaborate program had been arranged by Professor Cox, which included an organ solo by Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., a reading by Mrs. Curtis Arnall-North, a violin solo by David Love, a vocal solo by Mrs. Grace Lee Brown Townsend, a piano solo by Mr. Kurt Mueller. The choral union by Cox college was by far the biggest success but, notwithstanding this, each artist was warmly applauded, and at the close of the recital a vote of thanks was tendered to the entire college.

Rev. John E. White startled the entire assembly when he announced at the close of his reading of the annual report of the executive committee, of which he has been chairman, that he wished to resign. His resignation was accepted with regrets by the moderator. The report for the year showed that the organization had been greatly strengthened.

Brown Thanked for Gift.

George M. Brown, retiring moderator, was given a vote of thanks for his gift of $2,000, which fund will be used as a relief fund for veteran ministers.

The establishment of a rescue mission, costing perhaps $5,000 per year to maintain, will be taken up at today's session, and as it seems to be most popular, will, no doubt, materialize. L. E. Barton, pastor of the Jackson Hill Baptist church, is much interested in the movement.

R. D. Hawkins, general manager of the Hapeville Baptist Orphans' home, an institution maintained by the association, was present with about 15 little orphan children, who sang and recited. There are about 300 children in the home. Mr. Hawkins and Rev. Green both made pleas for an appropriation of $10,000 for a building fund to provide an additional building at the home. After some debate on the subject, the motion to appropriate the desired amount was carried by a unanimous vote. The sum will be paid pro rata and three years' time was decided upon as the time when it should all be forthcoming.

The program for today follows:

T. J. Buchanan will lead the singing. 10 o'clock, "Devotional," J. L. Jackson.

10:15 o'clock, "Missions in State of Georgia," Frank J. Fleming, chairman.

11:05 o'clock, "Georgia Baptist Hospital," E. E. Barton, chairman.

11:50 o'clock, "Veteran Ministers' Fund," P. H. Mell, chairman.

PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS MEET AT STATESBORO

Statesboro, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—With every train coming to Statesboro taxed to its capacity, and every country road lined with buggies from early morning until the meeting was called to order by Moderator M. F. Stubbs, of Statesboro, people from every direction poured into this little city Sunday morning to attend the association of the Lower Canoochee Primitive Baptists, and at noon conservative men estimated the crowd at 3,000.

Elder T. E. Sikes, of Ocilla, Elder R. H. Barwick, of Columbus, Elder J. Marshall Thomas, of Valdosta, and Elder S. H. Whatley, of Pavo, preached.

Preparations have been under way for weeks to accommodate the crowd, and that the citizens of Statesboro and members of the denomination of the Primitive Baptists, and at noon conservative men estimated the crowd at 3,000.

Prestige and Advertising Values

ADVERTISING has developed so rapidly along the various courses of least resistance that fallacy after fallacy have had their vogue. Millions have been wasted in the discovery of their error. The most flagrant abuses, contradictory to good business principles and commercial ethics, have crept in and seemed to thrive.

But crooked advertising methods have about hanged themselves. Wildcat methods and questionable business devices based upon advertising, are curling up and disappearing before a national sentiment for honesty and conservatism. Advertising is very rapidly systematizing itself. Sound business principles are coming into their own. The advertising adventurer is finding no more easy harvests. The public is not gullible today. Studious analysis and the finest sort of conservatism in the expenditure of advertising appropriations are taking the place of reckless speculation. Advertising is very much nearer being a true business science than ever before.

ONE of the phases of this reaction is the increasing aversion of advertisers to buying space merely on circulation statements. A few years ago, "How much circulation has your publication?" was invariably the first, and frequently the only, question a publisher was asked to answer. In order to answer it effectively and truthfully, as nearly all of them desired to do, he directed the entire energy of his operating organization to producing circulation figures, regardless of cost and of profit to himself or the advertiser. He was driven to that extreme by the advertiser.

In recent years the most skillful advertisers; those with the largest annual appropriations; those whose business success is the most contingent upon their advertising program, are discounting mere circulation figures. They are systematically gathering information from which to answer for themselves such questions as these:

What is the character of the publication?

What is its age?

What kind of people are its subscribers?

Over what area does its circulation range?

How does it secure and hold its subscribers?

Is its appeal to its constituency such as to elicit their confidence in its news and editorial opinions?

What proportion of the people it reaches are both by location of residence and station in life reasonably possible purchasers?

Is its management such as to give complete credence to its circulation representations?

Advertisers desiring to reach only certain classes are demanding even more special information, for the purpose of determining what mediums will give them the most responsive circulation, in relation to their particular advertising.

At the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, in Baltimore last May, there was a veritable outcry from national advertisers generally against unnatural increases in newspaper circulations, bringing with them inevitably increased rates. They demanded solidification; intensification of circulations within natural bounds; the minimization of waste; and the employment of only those methods of expanding circulation as will produce permanent readers among responsible classes.

¶ ¶ ¶ ¶

THERE are, broadly speaking, among the whites, no classes of people in Atlanta and Georgia in relation to newspaper circulation. In such cities as New York, Chicago and Boston, there are distinct classes, each sufficient to maintain newspapers of class appeal. For example, The New York Evening Post and The Boston Transcript, both excellent and prosperous papers, are read almost exclusively by wealthy and cultured people.

Here in Georgia everybody is pretty much alike. There is not much difference between any of us in dress, food, habits and sentiments. There is only a small proportion of very poor people and almost as small a percentage of people who are wealthy.

In evidence of this there are about 2,500 men in Atlanta who are members of one or more of the three leading social clubs. The majority of men in Atlanta of considerable means or income are members of one or more of these clubs. The entire population which they represent, on a basis of five to each family, is but 12,500, or 7 per cent of the entire population. If a newspaper reached every one of their homes it would have but 2,500 class circulation in Atlanta.

There are no stores in Atlanta catering to the wealthy classes exclusively. Fifth Avenue in New York is lined with them for miles. There are not enough wealthy people in the city to provide a profitable patronage to many stores carrying only expensive merchandise. Ninety per cent of the stock of Atlanta stores is sold to all classes. Most stores carry some lines of goods that only the wealthy can afford, and some lines that only the poor will accept. Broadly speaking, however, stores are not stocked for the classes, but for the masses, because the masses make up the great "90 per cent."

The same thing is true of newspaper circulation. Any newspaper of circulation running into the thousands must reach about the same general average of people as any other paper in the same field.

Consequently 1,000 actual circulation, the kind that is delivered in the homes, of one newspaper in Atlanta and Georgia among white people is, on that basis alone, worth about as much for advertising purposes as an equal quantity of any other newspaper.

¶ ¶ ¶ ¶

THERE is, however, a distinction that relates to quality rather than to quantity, which is responsible for a very great difference in circulation value in relation to advertising results.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly, by exhaustive tests, that all other things being approximately equal, the longer a publication has had the same list of subscribers and the better its standing with them the higher is its productiveness as a medium for legitimate lines of advertising.

This element is commonly referred to as PRESTIGE.

It is accounted for on two grounds. The longer a newspaper goes into a home the more it becomes a part of the family life. The reading of it regularly becomes a fixed habit. It is read thoroughly day by day. The more thoroughly a paper is read, for any cause, the more is the advertising read.

Instinctively people who read advertising, and nearly all of them do, unless it is obviously not entitled to it, give it the same general credence they do the news or editorial pages upon which it appears. If a reader has confidence in the dependability of his newspaper, intuitively he transfers that confidence to its advertising columns. The association of ideas is inevitable.

¶ ¶ ¶ ¶

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION was established forty-five years ago. It has always been the same general type of a newspaper it is today—conservative, clean, able, enterprising and progressive. Its circulation has had a gradual growth from a few thousand to approximately 50,000.

The average period of 1,000 subscriptions taken at random in Atlanta recently in a test upon another matter, was found to be ten years. Probably half of its present subscribers have taken the paper many years, some for twenty-five years and more for ten years or more.

A considerable part of The Constitution's constant increase in circulation comes through sons and daughters of old subscribers entering new homes of their own, with the paper as one of the first family investments.

The Constitution is referred to as "The Georgia Bible." It is a great Southern Institution. It stands for all that is best in southern life, both traditionally and currently. It has that prestige which goes with reliability.

It is those two factors, in relation to advertising values, more than any distinctions in the classes of people it reaches, which gives it a very high value as an advertising medium, and which more than offset mere quantities of papers distributed as the basis for circulation figures.

DIPHTHERIA CLOSES BOARD OF HEALTH

Disease Germs, Sent Through Mails, Attack Almost Entire Force of State Department.

An outbreak of diphtheria among the employees of the state board of health resulted in the announcement by Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the board, yesterday that it would be necessary to close the laboratory for a few days in order that it might be thoroughly disinfected, and that those having the disease might be given an opportunity to recover.

Dr. Harris reported the matter to the city health authorities Tuesday afternoon, and they at once dispatched A. B. Gartrell, an inspector, to the capitol to make an investigation and to disinfect the premises. Mr. Gartrell said that, while diphtheria germs had been found in the throats of a number of the state department employees, none of them was so serious as to be called a well-developed case of the disease.

It would be necessary, however, as a measure of protection to the city, to quarantine all of those who had been found with the germs in their homes for a few days and to disinfect the premises.

Ten Affected.

There were ten of the working force of the department who were found to be afflicted with the disease; in fact, the entire force with the possible exception of Dr. Harris and Dr. L. P. Pattillo. A culture made from their throats did not show any disease germs, but a later investigation may develop that they have contracted it, too.

A diphtheria culture from a child's throat, sent carelessly through the mails by a country doctor, without any precautions as to wrapping, is blamed by Dr. Harris for the whole trouble. He talked indignantly Tuesday of the careless way in which documents, in spite of the express warning of the board of health sent out in a circular letter, pertaining to mailing deadly disease germs to his office for examination without any regard for the safety of the public or of the office force of the board of health.

"It is a violation of the postal regulations of the United States," said Dr. Harris, "and I think it is a crime. It certainly ought to be. I can scarcely conceive of more inexcusable criminal negligence. For an intelligent member of the medical profession to send deadly germs through the mails that way would be almost unthinkable, if they did not do it nearly every day."

Careless Doctors to Blame.

"The life and health of the employees of the board of health is continually endangered in that way. In spite of my repeated instructions as to the mailing of disease germs, they come carelessly wrapped every day. Sometimes we have cultures simply inclosed in envelopes with no further precautions.

"We are strongly tempted to refuse positively to examine any culture that did not come properly packed, and would do so were it not for the fact that, in many cases, innocent children would be the sufferers. It would be too hard to risk the life of a child on account of the criminal negligence of its physician.

"As there would be nobody left in the office but myself and Dr. Pattillo, I find it necessary to close the office for a few days. We called on the city authorities to disinfect the premises for us, as we have no apparatus for that sort of thing. I hope that we will be able to open up again in a very few days, as our office force is able to get back to work."

Postoffice May Investigate.

Inspector R. A. Barry, of the postoffice department, said Tuesday night that while the matter had not been brought officially to his attention, he thought it not unlikely that a rigid investigation would be made by the postoffice department into the improper shipment of disease germs through the mails. Special attention will be given to the doctor who mailed the germs which inoculated the entire working force of the board of health with diphtheria.

"The postoffice has very stringent regulations against the improper mailing of packages containing disease germs," said Mr. Barry. "I can hardly conceive of a greater menace to the public health than such criminal carelessness as this. Every mail clerk who handles the mail is liable to contract diphtheria by the reckless mailing of cultures. Every man in the postoffice who handles the mail and the carriers who deliver it are in equal danger. I feel quite sure that the department, when the matter is brought to its attention, will make such steps as will prevent the deposit in the mails of carelessly wrapped packages containing disease germs."

CAUGHT BY UNCLE SAM AFTER A LONG CHASE

Roanoke, Va., October 14.—It has taken Uncle Sam fourteen days to catch the assistant postmaster of Pocahontas, who is charged with the robbery of that office of $14,000.

Postmaster Mastard received a telegram from Cleveland, O., this morning stating that his late assistant, Edwin M. Silleroot, has been caught in that city and some of the money has been turned over to the officer making the arrest. He was in company with his wife, who was arrested as being an accessory to the crime.

The secret service men traced Silleroot after leaving Pocahontas to Norfolk, the home of his brother, and from there they located his wife and followed her to Cleveland. They were arrested at the home of his mother in Cleveland. They are expected to arrive in Pocahontas Friday.

Lecture on Panama Canal Proves an Interesting One

An interesting, as well as enlightening, lecture was delivered yesterday afternoon and last night at the Wesley Memorial church by A. W. Wyndham, a nationally known civil engineer, whose work on the Panama canal has covered the better part of the past 21 years.

Mr. Wyndham chose as his subject, "The Panama Canal and Its Future." During the course of his remarks he detailed the work of digging the great ditch, taking his auditors over the great project in word pictures, aided by the stereopticon slides made by himself while employed in the canal zone.

"The future of the canal is one of great moment," said Wyndham. "The much-mooted question of canal tolls has all but been settled—but in favor of the shipping trust.

"The idea is that if ships of American trade can pass through the canal free of toll, shippers along the American coast can ship through the canal from a convenient southern point, have an ocean going ship pick up the merchandise at a Pacific coast point near the canal mouth and send the goods to foreign points at a much less cost than foreign vessels can hope to compete with.

"Another thing. The maintenance of an army of 25,000 men on the canal zone will entail a taxation of millions upon the people of the United States should America decide to maintain her free-to-all-American-ships policy.

"The work done on the Panama canal is a success. Too much credit for the idea and its proper inception cannot be given to Theodore Roosevelt, who is the real builder of the great waterway."

At yesterday afternoon's lecture Mr. Wyndham talked to a large number of school children, while last night a yet larger audience greeted his appearance, composed mostly of grown people.

Mr. Wyndham was brought to Atlanta under the auspices of the Choctaw tribe of Red Men.

Chamber of Commerce Will Have Ally in the Travelers

That the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will shortly find a strong ally in the Travelers' Protective association and that that organization may make its future home in the new Chamber of Commerce building, was brought out at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, at which a committee from the Travelers' association and a travelers' committee from the chamber were present in the chamber quarters Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was called for the purpose of ascertaining whether the chamber of commerce might gain the co-operation of the traveling men of Atlanta. The matter was discussed thoroughly. It is believed that the traveling men will be glad to put a shoulder to the wheel and boost things along. The chamber of commerce believes that they would be of great assistance.

Committees were appointed to ascertain just what may be done in this direction and report back to a future meeting of the board of directors.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY SAYS VON HERRMANN

Fair weather and a slightly higher temperature is forecasted for Wednesday by the local office of the United States weather bureau. There is to be hardly any change in the temperature, but it is expected to be somewhat higher than the maximum on Tuesday, which was 73 degrees shortly after the noon hour.

By a strange coincidence, resulting from the effects of an area of high pressure sweeping over this section, Atlanta had a temperature eight degrees higher than did Thomasville on Tuesday. In Atlanta the mercury dropped only to 56 degrees, while in the south Georgia town the thermometer went down to 48 degrees.

CHAUNCEY BUTLER WAS NOT ARRESTED FRIDAY

Chauncey Butler, of the Southern Bell Telephone company, whose name was mentioned as one of a party of young men arrested on Friday night, was in no way connected with the disorderly conduct which caused the arrest. Mr. Butler knew the young men whose names appeared in The Constitution of Sunday morning and, according to his statement, went to the police station after the arrests were made in order to render assistance.

The Constitution is glad to correct an error which was unintentional and which has caused Mr. Butler much annoyance.

Prominent Atlanta Woman in Her Suit Declares Husband Beat and Choked Her.

Charging that her husband, Samuel E. Smith, president of the now defunct Guarantee Trust and Banking company, whose address is given as 728 Piedmont avenue and who is now under two indictments in connection with the management of the company, had choked and beaten her and threatened her life, Mrs. Daisy M. Smith filed suit for total divorce yesterday in superior court.

Mrs. Smith is now out on bonds of $1,500 and $1,000, made after he was indicted. The divorce suit states that the question of temporary and permanent alimony and also the custody of Samuel E. Smith, Jr., their junior child, has been agreed upon.

The Smiths were married January 23, 1905, according to the wife's petition. Mrs. Smith was known as a woman of decided beauty and was popular in Atlanta society.

She asserts that the marriage has been in name only for some time. Her allegations contain the charge that on February 13 of this year her husband beat her with a leather strap, inflicting violent blows and that bad marks remained on her body for weeks after the affair.

That Mr. Smith choked her and struck her and then got a pistol and threatened her life exactly two months later, on April 13, is another charge that the wife makes. She declares that she had to threaten to telephone her father for protection.

DR. STUART MACARTHUR CALLED BY CINCINNATI

Of interest to the citizens of Atlanta, particularly to the members of the Baptis Tabernacle, is the announcement coming from Cincinnati, to the effect that Dr. Stuart MacArthur, one time pastor of the Tabernacle, and at present the executive head of the Baptist World Alliance, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of the Queen city.

Dr. MacArthur, in his acceptance, does not promise to enter upon a prolonged period of service with the Cincinnati church, but all of his time while there will be devoted to pastoral duties, except such time as will be necessary in making journeys to other cities in his capacity as head of the Baptist of the world.

Virginian Railway Fined.

Lynchburg, Va., October 14.—Judge McDowell, in the federal court, today fined the Virginian railway $200 for violating the federal safety appliances act by using hand brakes on a heavy laden coal train on a heavy grade instead of using the air brakes with which all the train was equipped.

JESSE LEE PLANNING 60-FOOT BOULEVARD

Wants New Roadway Along Right of Way of Trunk Sewer for Over Mile.

Jesse B. Lee, councilman-elect, is working on a fifth ward project which he says will open a new 60-foot boulevard over the right-of-way of the trunk sewer from Jones avenue west for more than a mile.

Plans for the improvement have been prepared by the construction department. The project will not cost the property owners a cent.

It is estimated that the improvement will be worth $50,000 over and above the enhanced value of the property.

Years ago the city acquired a 30-foot right-of-way through the property to extend the trunk sewer. The sewer runs an irregular course for a distance of a little over a mile. It is the aim of Councilman Lee to have the property owners along the route of the sewer give the city 15 feet additional on each side of its right-of-way and make the boulevard 60 feet.

There will be practically little grading to be done. Chief Jentzen, of the sanitary department, has agreed to dump all the clinkers from the new crematory on the street. This will furnish a solid and substantial base. Possibly the street will be treated with a top covering of chert and binder.

Councilman Lee expects to have the work started early in February.

Negro Is Killed.

Preston, Ga., October 14.—(Special.) Friday night about 9 o'clock Will Brown shot and killed Charlie Gordon at a negro meeting three or four miles away. Both were negroes. Brown made his escape and has not been captured up to the present time.

The Distinctiveness of the Morning Newspaper

IN NEARLY every section of this country the representative newspapers are issued in the morning---the New York World, the New York Times, the New York Herald, the Chicago Tribune, the Washington Post, the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, the New Orleans Times-Democrat, the New Orleans Picayune, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the Los Angeles Times, the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, the Richmond Times-Dispatch, the Houston Post, the Cincinnati Enquirer, the Cleveland Plain-Dealer, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, the St. Louis Republic, the Minneapolis Tribune, the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Atlanta Constitution.

¶ These are the names that come to one's mind instantly when leading newspapers are thought of.

¶ Why? Not because of their age, the extent of their circulation, the names of their owners, the volume of their advertising, or such special distinctions, but because they are representative. They reflect sectional sentiment. They are the most forceful editorial influences in their communities.

¶ The fact of their issuance in the morning and not in the afternoon is a prime factor in their success. They have no greater facilities in securing news. The transmission of news under modern methods is practically instantaneous. News from a world-wide viewpoint is in the making twenty-four hours a day. No more news happens to the advantage of morning than evening papers.

¶ Afternoon papers must be produced in about seven hours to meet distribution conditions. Morning newspapers are produced in about twelve hours.

¶ That approximate five hours is the difference between the flashing of news in bulletins, hastily gathered facts, meager details, articles written under stress of time limited by minutes, editorial consideration between an editor's desk and linotype machine; and information verified and digested, rumors confirmed or rejected, the news written thoughtfully and well, skillful selection, tasteful and pleasing typographical presentation.

¶ The slower process makes a little soberer newspaper. It is minus the screams. The ink is likely to be dry when one gets it. But it contains consistency. It is a finished product. It represents the same enterprise, alertness and human interest with thoroughness and care added, which make for reliability and confidence.

¶ IN RELATION TO MOST MATTERS FOR WHICH NEWSPAPERS ARE SERVICEABLE, DEPENDABILITY IS QUITE AS VALUABLE AS INSTANTANEOUSNESS.

UNPALATABLE FACTS.

A square deal for practically every school child, the proper equipping of the generation that is to rule the Atlanta of tomorrow, both are menaced.

That is the underlying significance of the statement made to The Constitution by Superintendent W. M. Slaton, of the public school system.

He speaks plainly of the present menaces to the system. He shows that the core of the evil is municipal stinginess. The municipality has been stingy because the fathers and mothers, the taxpayers, have not waked to conditions. Until they do and demand action, the system cannot undergo the reconstruction that is imperative.

Superintendent Slaton spoke of the deficiencies of the system, all the result of inevitable growing pains, and said:

"THESE CONDITIONS ARE CRIMINAL IN A CIVILIZED COMMUNITY."

They are.

What are some of these criminal conditions?

Tots crowded 94, 84 and 72 to the grade, their health menaced by foul air, their mental capacity slowed down to the minimum.

Thousands of children of various ages crowded sixty into a room, WITH ONLY ONE TEACHER in charge of instruction and discipline.

Here and there the efficiency of the teaching corps undermined because RICH ATLANTA PAYS SMALLER SALARIES THAN MANY TOWNS AND HAMLETS.

Teaching is a fine art. Just because a few ignoramuses in history have practiced it, that fact is not altered. It is a profession that requires more scrupulous training and greater native adaptability than law, medicine and many of the leading vocations. Teaching is an important calling. After the fundamentals of the science have been learned you must LEARN THE FUNDAMENTALS OF CHILD NATURE AND YOU MUST LEARN THE LESSON OF INFINITE LOVE FOR AND PATIENCE WITH CHILDREN. That's why there is one A-1 teacher where there are fifty A-1 doctors and lawyers. Teachers that measure to these requirements are worth almost their weight in fine gold. THEY ARE CAPABLE OF MOLDING THE RACE IN THE RIGHT CHANNEL. Atlanta pays them, relatively, a beggarly stipend, a good many of them averaging the income of a hinky, but wholly untrained, day laborer.

Superintendent Slaton reveals the serious crisis with regard to scholarship of teachers. He shows that so far the system has kept its head above water because it has a nucleus of consecrated teachers around which to build. BUT THIS CANNOT GO ON INDEFINITELY. It is becoming increasingly difficult to secure proper teachers to fill vacancies.

The superintendent shows, also, that we must have more school buildings if we are to assign to each teacher few enough pupils to let her individualize. And it is only by individualizing that effective results are secured in teaching. More money must be forthcoming if the unhygienic conditions he outlines are to be corrected and the lives of little children made safe. More money must be forthcoming if the negro schools, where are being educated this important element in the city's economic scheme, are to be put upon a basis of decency, not to speak of efficiency.

The sum total of the superintendent's observations is that the health, the earning and constructive capacity of most of the children in the public schools IS ALREADY THREATENED.

He is right.

He insists that the schools should have a special tax levy so they can make up and expend their own budget, being duly responsible, of course, and hedged by restrictions.

He is right there, too.

He insists that the board of education be made independent of politics.

He is right there, with as much emphasis as The Constitution can muster. THE HISTORY OF THE SCHOOLS BRISTLES WITH THE IGNORANT INTERMEDDLING OF SMALL POLITICIANS WHO PRESENT THE ASTOUNDING PARADOX OF SEEMING TO THINK THAT INDIFFERENT SUCCESS IN THEIR PRIVATE BUSINESS EQUIPS THEM TO DICTATE IN THE EXQUISITELY DELICATE SCIENCE OF THE EDUCATION OF CHILDREN. These influences have been pernicious! It is time to check them. As long as they persist neither the superintendent nor the board, both of which have done valiant service, can stir a foot.

The Constitution believes it has served the Atlanta of the next generation, as well as of this one, by lighting the fuse that has led up to the present explosion. The facts set forth are for the fathers and mothers and taxpayers to ponder. They are also intended for the prayerful digestion of all individuals who may aspire to serve or who desire to continue to serve Atlanta in a public capacity. The people have been shown the way to correct abuses. They are not likely to be patient with those who stand in the way.

THE GERM ON THE TOWEL.

President Woodrow Wilson has extended the war against the germ to include the roller towels which have for years done service in the public buildings of the government. Assigning his reason the "public health," he has put a ban on the towels and ordered them replaced by individual towels.

The president's activity is merely in line with the tendency throughout the nation to fight the spread of disease by choking up its channels. The railroads finally were convinced that the public drinking cup was a public menace. So individual cups were substituted. Officials of cities, Atlanta included, saw the matter in the same light, so in schools and in many public places, we are seeing installed the sanitary drinking fountain.

Sooner or later the public towel will follow the public cup. It is, indeed, probable that the towel is more of a menace to health than the cup. The latter utensil is throughout the period of its use exposed to mechanical cleansing influences. But the towel is a trap for every germ on every face and hand with which it comes into contact. The infected individual visits the towel, uses it and threatens the uninfected individual who may happen along behind him.

A cheap substitute for the towel has been found in the individual tissue towel, also placed on a roll, but tearing off at perforated intervals in sufficient lengths to permit of comfortable use. It is logical to assume that in time this device or something similar will put to rout methods still rather universally in vogue.

The incidents of the cup and the towel illustrate strongly a healthful national awakening and the almost universal enlistment in the crusade against disease. These phases of the campaign are really elaborations of the earlier activity which put the typhoid fly on the death list, read the riot act to the open garbage can, demanded the improvement of sewage and spoke up against the earth closet.

The war against disease and premature death is now entering that most effective stage—the one looking toward prevention no less than cure.

THE BILLION-DOLLAR HEN.

The little old singing and unpretentious American hen now gets in the class with our billion-dollar congress, the billion-dollar cotton crop with its by-products and other of the outputs and assets that have won for America the nickname of the billion-dollar country of civilization. W. B. F. Priebe, of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association, is authority for the statement that eggs to the value of that prodigious amount are sold annually in America. That is not to reckon the great loss by breakage in transit.

What is Georgia doing to take advantage of the possibilities of this billion-dollar bird? Practically nothing. The state has ideal conditions—climate, soil and crops—to support a poultry and egg industry. Yet it sends outside the state for eggs and for poultry.

Along with the cattle industry and hog-raising, the farmers of Georgia should turn to the hen. No capital is required for the installation of a barnyard "plant." The dividends returned by the hen that is fed and pedigreed so she will lay an egg a day so far outweighs the small sum of first cost and upkeep to make hidey among the best investments open to the farmer.

"Mr. Bryan is not a good farmer," says an exchange. That's nothing against him. Never saw a good chautauqua lecturer who was.

After the Prosperity Dance hang up the fiddle and the bow and buckle down to business.

Certainly congress should take to the baseball scores; and how we should like to see the Editor of the Congressional Record umpiring a disputed game!

There's Uncle Joe Cannon wanting to break into politics again, and Roosevelt keeping as quiet as a cradle-rocked child!

It's no sign that life has handed you a goldbrick because you can't be elected president of a radium mine.

Just From Georgia

Lady of the Dream Time.

I.

On a couch of silver, golden lamps a-gleam,
Lady of the Dream Time—dream in a dream.
Whisper what the dreams say when the high stars rest
Still as a thought of heaven held in a holy breast.

II.

And the Lady of the Dream Time murmurs, soft as streams
That sing the Silence of the Dark:
"Love light thy dreams!"

III.

Lady of the Dream Time, Life is fast in flight;
Sorrow's shadow dims the day and whispers of the night;
Murmur what the dreams say when the shadows sigh:
Love, that kissed good morning, weeps to kiss goodby;

IV.

And the Lady of the Dream Time
In Life's gloom and gleam,
Murmurs through the star-worlds:
"Love be thy dream!"

His One Misfortune.

Here is a unique extract from a memorial notice:

"He never had any desire for office he never made it known to his friends. We know that he declined to be a candidate for congress, having once had the misfortune to sit through a congressional debate which caused him to miss his dinner. Not that the exercises were interesting but, as he afterward stated, because he didn't want to leave while a senator was under the impression that the speech he was making had the audience spellbound."

The Lively Open Life.

A man who tried to live in the open in the north Georgia woods reported that the third night he was attacked by six wildcats, four bears and a dozen horned owls; whereupon a Georgia editor says, piously: "The good Lord keeps us from even being led into the temptation of removing the cork from the jug which that man must carry with him."

The Happy Living Time.

I.

Take down the banjo and the fiddle,
Georgia's got the 'possum on the griddle'
Cotton's risin' high
As the windows of the sky,
Cidern in the brown jug, punkin's in the pie,
Ef a angel come to see us he would never say goodby,— Now's the happy livin' time in Georgia!

II.

Rise up an' pass yer plate fer honey:
Poorest folks a-countin' of the money.
Corn that fills the bill
In the hoecake an' the 'still:
Wagons full o' Good Times goin' fit to kill;
Fiddlin' got the tune right an' playin' with a will,—
Now's the happy livin' time in Georgia!

Life in the Country.

The Pleasant Valley Correspondent tells this one:

"Uncle Purt Nye measured a piece of ground the other day by the old-fashioned method of tying a rag on a wagon wheel, driving along the boundaries and counting the revolutions of the wheel. He first employed Tobe Toppleton to do the counting, but had to discharge him and get another man. Tobe counted a hundred and eight before the team ever started."

The Race With Time.

I.

Always was ahead o' time—
Beat it every minute;
Took his place and made the race,
For all that there was in it.

II.

"Time," he'd say, "is old an' gray—
He has lost his cunnin';
'Taint no great shakes any day
To beat an old 'un runnin'!"

Relics of the Great.

A carriage which once belonged to Lord Byron, inscribed with the arms of the Byron family, has been discovered in South Australia, and of course, the relic-hunters will be bidding for it. We know but Posterity may locate the battered weather-beaten auto car of the most popular present day author reposing beneath a ruined woodshed in sight of the cattle it never had a chance to kill, and thereon read the inscription: "Presented to the Author by the Grateful Readers of His Sixty-First Best Seller."

In the Oxomobile.

In the Billville district the oxcart is now "the Oxomobile," of which a local poet sings:

I.

"I reckon we're slow,
But we're sure, you know,
And little we rock and we reel;
We travel around—
Oh, we cover the ground
In the steady old Oxomobile.

II.

"We jog at our ease,
Never climbin' no trees,
N'er countin' the flight o' the time;
We're slow, but you bet there
We g'inrully get there,
An' please God, we're all feelin' prime!"

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON.
The Famous Prize Poet

TO SAVE EFFORT

"I thought I heard you singing as I came up the road," observed the low browed man.

"Yes," replied the professor, "I lifted up my voice in song. A bracing fall morning like this demands a pean of praise."

"I guess the morning would get along all right without such an accompaniment as you are putting up. You look exhausted after your effort, and no wonder. A man can't go around yodeling that way without suffering nervous strain. You ought to spend a little money for labor saving devices, professor. A phonograph would do all your singing for you, and do it better than you can, and there would be no wear or tear on your larynx. It's a caution how many people waste their time in singing. When they might just as well have phonographs to do it for them, and then they could devote their attention to something useful."

"The country is so full of labor saving machines that a man really doesn't need to do a lick of hard work. But most people are old-fashioned, and they refuse to believe that a machine can do anything as well as they can do it with their hands. For years I have been trying to induce Aunt Julia to invest in one of these electric washing machines. Mrs. Doolittle has one of them, and it's a pleasure to go to her house on washday and see that machine doing the stunt like a circus actor. Mrs. Doolittle has a rocking chair close by the machine, and while it is working away, making the old man's shirts like the driven snow, she sits there reading the Police Gazette, and having the best kind of a time. When the clothes have been washed enough she starts up an electric wringer, and it does its work with a hurrah.

"There's no unpleasantness or hard feeling around the Doolittle hacienda on washday. When the old man comes in from the woodpile announcing that he's himself than a crocodile, there's a good meal ready for him, and his wife dishes it up in a good humor instead of snorting and scolding around as women do who wash by hand.

"You can't convince Aunt Julia that a modern washing machine is a good thing to have in the house. She says it tears the clothes and breaks the buttons off. It doesn't do anything of the kind, but even if it did, a woman ought to be compelled by law to use such a machine. It would be far better to buy a new outfit of rags every few weeks than to have a sore-headed woman grouching around the house, making everybody uncomfortable.

"I always dread washday. There's a gloomy atmosphere about the house on Monday morning, as though somebody was billed to ascend the scaffold with a firm tread and pay the penalty of his crimes. Aunt Julia gets up about midnight and begins heating her boilers and filling the house with steam and deafening profanity, and by the time I come down stairs for my breakfast she's madder than a den of snakes. She persists in rubbing and scrubbing my old pinafores and things on a washboard, and she's always saying that if I would be a little more careful and not spill nicotine and horse liniment and peach juice on my shirt-fronts, her work would be cut down one-half. The washing is a back breaking job, and of course, she lays the blame on me, and not on the prehistoric washboard and the primitive tub.

"As the forenoon progresses she gets madder than ever, and when my aunt has resolved herself into an indignation meeting it's no fun living on the same lot with her. She finds that the boiler leaks, and the tub has lost a hoop, and the wringer—the same one that Noah used—won't work, and everything is wrapperjawed and out of kilter, and about the time she ought to be getting a good warm dinner for her little orphan nephew she is sitting on the floor with her apron wrapped around her head, crying in several dialects, and wishing that she had never been born. I don't understand an ordeal of this sort every week. Just because my aunt won't listen to reason on the washing machine proposition. But you understand, in a common sense, professor, and I hope you'll quit this thing of doing your singing by hand."

At the Sign of the Wren's Nest.

(In Memory of Joel Chandler Harris.)
By Charles W. Hubner.

From the Booklet "Uncle Remus and the Wren's Nest," by Myrta Lockett Avary, published by the Uncle Remus Memorial Association.

Here, in this lovely wonderland
Of dreams and memories,
It seems, wherever I go or stand,
He also presents is.

I do not see him, yet I feel
That, somehow, he is nigh:
I dream, but sometimes dreams reveal
Things hidden from the eye.

Absorbed in thoughts and dreams of him,
These pleasant paths I pace:
Sudden, from out some covert dim,
He greets my face.

Perhaps a glint of sunshine, or
Only my fancy's whim,
Yet in my heart it woke once more
Old memories of him.

These boughs which droop above my head
Are whispering to me:
It seems as though they softly said:
"We knew him, where is he?"

From every blooming bush and spray
Flast which I slowly go,
A murmur comes that seems to say:
"He's gone, we loved him so."

A wren upon her nest I see.
She eyes me unafraid:
A sheltered place of sanctity,
Here for her brood he made.

The mock birds sang for him their best;
He knew their wild-life ways—
Hark! One even now, perched on his nest,
Ecstatic sings his praise.

Wise was his mind, wide was his heart,
The like of Solomon,
He chose the world's best for his art—
Loved all—save only sin.

Ah, genius is a gift divine,
Revered wherever known,
Harris! The world knows such was thine,
Hence here is hallowed ground.

All but its golden rim;
Night comes with stars upon her breast,
The world grows still and dim.
The sun has vanished from the west,

I, dreaming still, my steps retrace,
Tears, too, have dimmed my eyes—
Which star, friend, is thy dwelling place
In yonder splendid skies?

Called Her "Greatest Bore in Europe."

(From The Westminster Gazette.)

Lady Shelley, who, as appears from the second installment of her diary, which has just been published, brought away from Abbotsford the impression that Sir Walter Scott's wife was "the greatest bore in Europe," was not alone in entertaining an unfavorable view of her hostess in the famous Tweedside House. In the "Journal" for May 2, 1837, Lord Cockburn, the Scotch Judge, who loved and admired Scott, noted that he had finished reading the second volume of Lockhart's "Life of Scott," in which he declares that one of the most extraordinary revelations to the people of Edinburgh was "that there was a time when Lady Scott was pretty and agreeable."

The World's Mysteries

WHO WAS THE 'FEMALE STRANGER?

In St. Paul's churchyard, at Alexandria, Virginia, is the grave of an unknown which has attracted a great deal of attention for close to a century. On a marble slab covering it is the inscription "To the Memory of a Female Stranger." Who was this stranger? Also carved upon the slab is the information that it was erected by her disconsolate husband, and it contains this verse of poetry:

"How loved, how honored once, avails thee not,
To whom related or by whom begot;
A heap of dust alone remains of thee,—
'Tis all thou art, and all the proud should be."

All effort to solve the mystery of this grave has been unavailing. One theory was that it might contain the body of Theodosia Burr, who had married a man who later became Governor of South Carolina and who was supposed to have been lost at sea while on a trip to visit her father, Aaron Burr, in New York. It was never known what became of Aaron Burr's daughter, and by some it was supposed that she had been captured by pirates. Was this true and that one of the pirates had fallen in love with her, and when she died at sea, put into the Potomac to give her a respectable burial?

Another theory was that the "stranger" was Sarah Curran, the fiancee of Robert Emmet, the Irish revolutionist, and that the "affectionate husband" mentioned on the stone was none other than Major Sturgeon, of the British navy, whom that unhappy lady was forced to marry after Emmet's untimely death. Little credence, however, was given to either of these theories.

All that was known of the incident was that on the 25th of July, 1816, a small brig, which it was reported was on its way to the West Indies, sailed into the Potomac and dropped anchor off Alexander, and there was sent ashore a sick woman and her husband. When the invalid was carried from the boat to a nearby tavern she was heavily veiled, which fact attracted considerable attention, as the weather was extremely warm.

The best room in the hotel was engaged and the anxious husband hurriedly sent for a physician. The physician pledged his honor that he would reveal nothing he would see or learn regarding his patient. The physician always declared that he never saw the lady's face. He attended her for ten successive weeks, but he never found her unveiled. No nurse was secured, but the husband watched by her bedside practically day and night until her death.

The husband, it was understood, that no one should see the face of his wife in death, with his own hands prepared the body for burial. After he attended the burial, ordered the monument, dictated the inscription and paid the bill, he disappeared.

On the anniversary of the death of his beloved for a dozen successive years the husband returned to place fresh flowers upon her grave, and during these visits he came secretly from Washington and returned to that city, without stopping at the tavern where his wife died, but put into the Potomac on a chance to speak to him.

At last, after seven years he evidently died, for his visits ceased and the grave became neglected. The columns of the monument toppled and remained so for a number of years until one spring morning when an unknown friend of the faithful husband and his deceased wife arrived and quietly ordered the grave to be put in condition, left some out flowers upon it, and then he, too, vanished into the unknown, no one ever hearing further of the two men nor were able to fathom the mystery as to the identity of the "Female Stranger."

HEROISM.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Heroism punctuates a Character, distinguishes it—nameplates it. Heroism is risking in order that Character may get supreme credit. Heroism is natural Courage always ready—cannot be manufactured for the occasion. Believe fully in yourself—it's the cornerstone of Heroism.

Heroism is not a quality belonging exclusively to the great emergencies and to large battles; it is a thing as sure and as full of value and as necessary, wedged into the seeming commonplace hours of every day, as though great events transpired to bring it into the open. Against dire poverty as against great abundance of wealth, must be mustered Heroism to cope with each situation.

No one can teach Heroism—It must be experienced.

When people single you out and in unjust criticism or comment, place you where you do not merit shame, or where common judgment is against you, your move then becomes one of Heroism. For the Crowd can't see inside, and Heroism naturally springs inside a man. Its moves are all moves of impulse, unexplained and unaccounted for, except from within your own individual independence.

Heroism is doing what you consider right and just, without figuring out in advance just how other people are going to look at the results.

Britain's Cannibals

(From The Westminster Gazette.)

The pernicious influence of an unlawful secret society in the protectorate of Sierra Leone is mentioned in a dispatch from the governor which was issued last night. For a number of years a particular district has been the principal field for the operations of an organization which goes under the name of the "Human Leopard Society."

It has not yet been decided whether the object of the society is to satisfy the craving which has ravaged have for human flesh, or whether the eating of human flesh is only part of some ceremony which is believed to have the effect of increasing the mental and physical powers of the members.

The full extent of the society's operations was not brought to light until last year, when the district commissioner received information that from twenty to thirty murders had been committed since 1907. Measures were taken, and 336 persons were arrested.

"While it is permissible to believe," says the governor, "that the action taken by the government had had the effect of checking the activities of the Human Leopard Society, at all events for the time being, it would be by no means prudent to assert that this criminal organization has been broken up. The blind belief of the natives in the efficacy of the 'medicines' concocted by the society (especially that known as 'Borfima'), the power and authority enjoyed by the possessors of these medicines; the fact that periodical human sacrifices are considered to be necessary in order to renew the efficacy of the medicines; and a tendency on the part of some natives to cannibalism pure and simple—all these causes will contribute to the survival of this baneful organization. It has held sway for many years—possibly for centuries—and the task of stamping it out will undoubtedly be one of great difficulty."

Europe's Most Costly Hotel.

(Richard Marsh, in The Strand Magazine.)

Trouville is, in the season, one of the most expensive spots in Europe. It contains what is assuredly one of the most expensive hotels in Europe. The individual who takes his wife and family to the Hotel des Roches Noires for, say a month in the high season, and does them really well—that is, gives them the best that the house has to offer—when he comes away—if he has paid his bill—has left a small fortune behind him.

The idea took the wife of Birmingham, because he is being charged a high price, is being cheated is absurd. Nowadays—whatever it used to be once upon a time—an Englishman in a really smart hotel in France is looked at askance. French people on pleasure bent are much more extravagant than we are. They do not seem to care what they spend. I remember dining once at Trouville, when a basket of nectarines was offered by the head waiter. They were quite nice nectarines, but that head waiter wanted twenty-five francs apiece. Five dollars for two or three mouthfuls seemed to me too much—but those nectarines all went. There was scarcely a Frenchman in the room who did not treat himself to one. At the next table to mine was a man, with his wife and his daughter—they had three apiece; $45 for dessert as a windup to an extremely expensive dinner!

A Woman of Few Words.

(From The London Chronicle.)

She was a woman of few words. And when she condescended to speak she rapped out her words quickly and sharply. Desiring to buy for her daughter the score of a popular opera, she went into a music shop and said to the young man behind the counter:

"Mikado libretto."

"I beg your pardon, madam," he returned. "Mikado libretto," she repeated, with even more staccato.

The young man flushed and said apologetically, "I'm sorry, madam, but there is no one who speaks Italian here."

ROME.

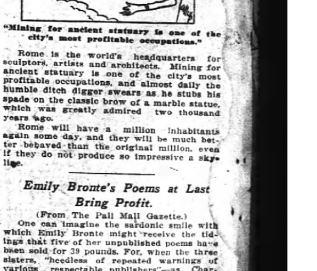
By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Rome, the capital of Italy, and the world's metropolis of broken nosed stone statues, is the greatest come-back town of history.

Two thousand years ago Rome was the greatest city in the world. It had a million citizens, and when it got mad at a nation a thousand miles away, that nation promptly retired from business and opened up under a new name and management. Rome was a marvel of stone and marble, and was so glorious that those who lived elsewhere were called barbarians, and were only used for lion food in the great city when they were captured. But Rome got into politics; the cost of living went up, and a job lot of emperors, whose careers made Harry Thaw's look like that of a Sunday school boy, got hold of the town. The result was, Rome fell. The citizens departed, the postoffice was closed up, the roof of the board of trade caved in and chickweed grew in the great forum. Geographers refused to put it on the map, census enumerators passed it by, and the lowly polecat made its lair unhindered in the palaces of the mighty it has been.

For several centuries Rome was deader than Damascus, and everyone allowed that a mighty fine corn country was being spoiled by the ruing of a punk town. But gradually the city began to come back. The chamber of commerce secured the headquarters of the Christian religion, then a struggling institution, and Rome began to boom again. By 1500 A. D. Rome was running the world once more, and it has continued to take a big hand in history ever since.

Rome now has 600,000 people, which is doing pretty well for a deceased town. It is situated on seven hills, and the Tiber, which has never been improved for navigation purposes owing to the poor grade of Roman conscientiousness which have been elected. Rome is a bustling modern town situated in around and on top of the old Rome. It has factories, wholesale houses, and street cars, a health commission and a publicity bureau. It has many new buildings, but none as grand or extensive as the structures which were left 1,500 years ago by the Romans when they hurriedly packed up and left. The Roman housewife hangs out her modern wash where Roman emperors once dined on nightingales' tongues, and when the Roman taxicab driver struggles for his fare the Roman Coliseum where once 200,000 people yelled for blood, echoes back his sanguinary words.



"Mining for ancient statuary is one of the city's most profitable occupations."

Rome is the world's headquarters for sculptors, artists and architects. Mining for ancient statuary is one of the city's most profitable occupations, and almost daily the humble ditch digger swears as he stubs his spade on the classic form of a marble statue, which was greatly admired 2,000 years ago.

Rome will have a million inhabitants again some day, and they will be much better behaved than the original million, even if they do not produce so impressive a skyline.

Emily Bronte's Poems at Last Bring Profit.

(From The Pall Mall Gazette.)

One can imagine the sardonic smile with which Emily Bronte might receive the tidings that five of her unpublished poems have been sold for 38 pounds. For, when the three sisters, "heedless of repeated warnings of various publishers," published—as Charlotte records—"committed the rash act of printing a volume of poems," the receipts cannot have totalled much more than 2 pence. In the space of a year the publisher disposed of just two copies. The rest of the edition was distributed gratis to friends, or sold as waste paper.

Geese in Good Company.

In Queen Victoria's time it was the graceful custom, when a company of lancers had performed before the queen, for her private secretary to send a letter of thanks next morning to the lancers' captain. The same form of letter was sent to all alike, and on one occasion the proprietor of a troup of performing geese, which had entertained the royal children at a Windsor garden party, received the following communication from Sir Henry Ponsonby, on whom the duty of writing these letters fell: "Sir—I am instructed by the queen to thank you for your visit of yesterday, and to express the hope that the ladies and gentlemen of your company have returned safely to London and in good health."

The Why of the Morning Newspaper

¶Advertising results from any newspaper, whether for a jewelry store or a second-hand shop, are dependable, aside from the merit of the advertising itself, on quantity of actual circulation as represented by copies which go into the home; the extent to which its subscribers are the substantial portion of all good classes of people; its attractiveness as a newspaper which controls the amount of time its readers devote to it regularly which in turn regulates the likelihood of the advertising being read; its standing and influence with its readers who instinctively give the advertising the same credence as to the news and editorial columns.

¶The hour of the day or night at which a newspaper is published is of less importance than these things, but whatever advantages there may be in that are in favor of one delivered in the morning.

¶It has from 2:30 o'clock at night, the approximate hour at which morning papers are printed, until 6 o'clock to reach the door-step of subscribers in advance of their rising.

¶With mail editions printed as early, in some cases, as with The Constitution for instance, as 10 o'clock at night, it has from five to ten hours in which to travel with night trains to outside points for breakfast-table reading. Afternoon papers can cover only a small area on the day of publication.

¶A morning newspaper reaches the family circle at the beginning of the day's activities; when the minds of all who read it are clear and fresh and responsive to impressions from the printed page whether news or advertising. Good salesmen make their most important calls in the morning before their prospects' minds are tired and their sensibilities dulled.

¶It is generally accepted, because nearly all men read a newspaper before going to work, that the morning newspaper is superior for advertising addressed to them.

¶Even more generally women, to whom the majority of advertising is addressed, whether their household work is done by servants or not, have more leisure for reading between the time the morning meal is over, the children off to school, the day's routine determined, and noon than at any other period of the day.

¶Any fair investigation will substantiate this. Recently The Constitution tested the extent to which women read it and learned, as a part of the result, not only that 96 per cent of the women in the homes where the paper is delivered read it regularly, but of these, 73 per cent do so in the morning hours, 8 per cent in the afternoon and 21 per cent irregularly as to time. Of those who read it before noon, 27 per cent do so about 7 o'clock, 38 per cent about 8 o'clock, 27 per cent about 9 o'clock and 8 per cent after 9 o'clock.

¶In the same investigation it was learned also that of those who receive an evening paper in addition to The Constitution, 83 per cent read the evening paper no more regularly or thoroughly.

¶A morning newspaper, constructed after and not during the hurly-burly of the active business day, is complete, accurate, well edited and dependable. In that sense it is more conservative than its afternoon contemporaries. The advertising columns inevitably borrow some portion of the credence which those superiorities give it as a newspaper, and advertising results are correspondingly increased.

¶Contrary to a lingering belief, based upon conditions which have passed away, morning newspapers are at no disadvantage in relation to circulation among working people. The general acceptance of the eight-hour day enables the wage-earner to work less hours, as a rule, than his employers. They now report for duty at 7:30 or 8 o'clock. They arise at 6 o'clock or earlier, with ample leisure to read the morning newspaper.

¶The afternoon paper sometimes bases its claims of superiority as an advertising medium upon the theory of the family circle around the library table with the evening paper passing in whole or in part from father to mother, from mother to daughter and son until it had been digested column by column by every member of the family.

¶The family circle in that sense is not the institution it used to be. More than ever before, especially in the cities, people are seeking entertainment and recreation after working hours. Recently an Atlanta newspaper made the plausible statement that ten per cent of the people were now engaged professionally in entertaining the other nine-tenths.

¶There are something like 5,000 automobiles on the city streets or country roads practically every night, each providing pleasure for from three to five persons.

¶It used to take from $1 to $2 to see a play with a choice of two or three theaters. Nowadays a nickel or a dime secures admission into one of a dozen moving-picture play-houses, where a thoroughly pleasing and for the most part wholesome entertainment may be had. They are all packed afternoon and night.

¶The streets of Atlanta are busy with people in the morning but in the afternoon and evening they can scarcely accommodate the crowds that throng them.

¶Baseball, golf, tennis, card-playing, dancing, musical concerts, lectures, week-day evening church services, social visiting, the parks—in fact, practically all activities of a recreatory nature are in direct competition with the afternoon newspaper at the time of its publication and delivery. Consequently, it has its own natural handicaps as an advertising medium.

¶This is said not in depreciation of the evening newspaper, for most of them are good mediums because they have true merits as such, apart from the mere fact of publication in the afternoon from which no special advantage accrues to them.

¶The Constitution's 45,000 Daily and 48,000 Sunday circulation, its full representation with the substantial people of all classes, its excellence as a newspaper according to the best journalistic standards, its incomparable influence with its readers, supplemented by the fact that it is a morning newspaper---the only morning newspaper in Atlanta---are combined to make it a fine medium for all advertising purposes for which any newspaper anywhere is adaptable.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

"THE STANDARD SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER"

CONCERT SINGER ACCUSES OFFICER

Mrs. Elizabeth Southard and Miss Alief M. Benton Ask Discharge of Policeman John D. Wood.

Charges of police persecution have been made to Chief Beavers by Miss Alief M. Benton, a pretty concert singer and talented musician of Decatur, and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Southard, who are asking for the discharge of Policeman John D. Wood from the department.

In the petition they have submitted for the board of commissioners, Miss Benton and Mrs. Southard allege that Wood maliciously arrested the latter on two occasions with nothing but vindictiveness for a motive, and that during one arrest, she was taken from her baby and carried to the station while the infant lay ill with the measles.

Charges Are Filed.

The charges were filed with Chief Beavers Tuesday, and was seen by a reporter for The Constitution last night, but refused to make a statement. It is said by Mrs. Southard that she has conferred with the chief several times about Wood's alleged misconduct, Beavers would not state whether or not he would suspend the accused man.

Miss Benton, who is a noted singer in the Alkahest circuit, and who is also a music teacher, has come to Atlanta for the specific purpose of prosecuting Wood. She is stopping at 175 Pulliam street. Mrs. Southard lives at 107 Cooper street.

The women are represented by Attorney Lewis C. Thomas, who defended Captain J. M. Norman in his sensational trial before the police commission sometime ago, when he was arraigned on the charge of kissing a woman in Grant Park.

Other court proceedings, it is said by Attorney Thomas, will be instituted by Miss Benton and her sister against the police-man's wife if Wood does not force a higher tribunal than the police commission, for the charge of assaulting Mrs. Southard's aged husband, William H. S. Southard, and also upon a charge of attempting to assault Mrs. Southard.

The entire affair, according to the filed charges, grew out of an alleged assault Policeman Wood made upon Stephen H. Jett, an aged man who lived at 29 Piedmont avenue, near the home to which Mrs. Southard was living at that time. Wood, it is alleged, came to Mrs. Southard, asking her to testify in court in his behalf.

Beat an Aged Man.

The petition charges that Wood beat the aged man unmercifully, and that Mrs. Southard refused to testify for him. Further trouble arose, it is said, when Wood, through a vindictive spirit, circulated a petition demanding the removal of Mrs. Southard from the Piedmont avenue neighborhood.

The petition was finally read in recorder's court, and Mrs. Southard, it is said, removed her residence to avoid trouble. One paragraph of Mrs. Southard's charges contains the statement that Wood threatened to cause her trouble everywhere she went by circulating scandalous reports.

During April this year, Mrs. Southard resided at 451 South Moreland avenue. Wood also moved into that neighborhood, his home adjoining the Southard property. Further conflict ensued.

Wood would not make a statement. He will be called before Chief Beavers, however, for an immediate investigation. Beavers will give no intimation of the action he plans in the case.

WORK PROGRESSING FAST ON NEW LINE INTO BRUNSWICK

Brunswick, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Brunswick is preparing to arrange a big welcome for the formal entrance into the city of the Georgia, Yeast and Piedmont railroad, work on which is now being rapidly completed. It is expected that trains will be running into this city and Jesup by the latter part of November. A special committee from the board of trade will be appointed to arrange details day for the occasion, and people from all along the line will be invited to come to Brunswick.

The entering of this railroad into Brunswick opens up a new and large territory untouched by the local business people, as it does the line of the richest farming sections of Georgia. Brunswick will be the natural trading point for these people. It will also put Darien, McIntosh county's capital, within a few minutes' ride of the city, while at present it takes four hours to reach that city by the water route. It will also be a great benefit to the people of that little city, giving them direct steamship and railroad connection here. General Manager Hendee has just returned from an inspection trip over the road and reports that all extension work is progressing rapidly.

NOT GIVEN SINGLE CENT IN 20 YEARS, SAYS WIFE

Macon, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—J. W. Potter today filed an answer to the divorce proceedings instituted last week by his wife, in which she charged that he had not given her a penny during the entire twenty years of their married life and that she had been compelled to work to support the family.

Potter charges that his wife is a young woman, while he is 69 years of age, and now that he is practically helpless, she desires to get rid of him, so that she can marry another man. He alleges Mrs. Potter has gone "crazy" over money, is unkind and cruel to their children, forcing them to work in the cotton mills, while she spends their earnings in extravagant living.

Entertaining Bill Is Offered At Forsyth Theater This Week

An excellent bill of vaudeville, which offers the greatest of variety, is entertaining the patrons of the Forsyth theater this week.

It all depends upon what kind of act you like as to which number you declare the best, for the top notchers in nearly every line are among those present this week.

For those who believe the act that makes you laugh the longest is entitled to first place (and there are many of these) the laurels will go to George Felix and the Barry sisters. Felix is about the funniest looking man who ever wandered out on the Forsyth stage. Wandered is here used advisedly, for George doesn't seem to know what way he is where he is. All he knows is that he came from his home next door to borrow a spade, or basket, or something of the sort, and as soon as he gets his audience laughing, and that's pretty soon, why, he forgets all about what he came to borrow, and remembers only that he is present to amuse. He succeeds. His face is his fortune. If you don't believe it, why get a front row seat and watch him while he is on the stage. The Barry sisters fill in the time he isn't on the stage most acceptably.

Louis Winch and Josephine Poore will add to their friends at every performance. The critic was converted-"Drifting," which has paid several visits to Atlanta. The orchard scene offers the greatest of variety, in contrast in other respects the acts are dissimilar. Man and girl have a pleasing stage appearance, and both can sing, and sing well, and the songs that they are worth singing.

The feature number of the week is a sketch, "The Yellow Peril." Miss Nina Morris, who has played with many a stagedom's biggest stars, does a fine piece of acting in this playlet, which tells the story of a daring Japanese plot to blow up an English man-o-war, a plot of course thwarted in the end. Miss Morris plays the role of a United States secret service agent who makes the Jap, who is the brains of the scheme, fall in love with her. The sketch is filled with surprises, the greatest coming last when the girl agent tells the defeated Jap that her partner in the undoing is her husband.

Carl and Lotty, a duo of eccentric European dancers, are good; Hurley and Burley, character comedians, and Mr. Hurley a contortionist, had the crowd laughing all the time they were behind the footlights.

Burkhart and White, next to Felix and the Barry sisters, scored in the applause line. One man is a clever piano player, the other catches the crowd with his singing. The combination always wins in this city.

Herzog's eight Russian stallions close the performance with an equestrial exhibition, showing perfect training.

LaGrange Votes Funds For the State Chamber

LaGrange, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Amidst great enthusiasm and with a rising vote the meeting held in the chamber of commerce office last night which had been addressed by President Charles A. Hudden, voted unanimously substantial financial backing for the State Chamber of Commerce. Immediately after the vote had been taken a resolution was passed reiterating former resolutions indorsing the State Chamber of Commerce and promising more backing for the work and the organization from the citizens of LaGrange.

The sole topic of conversation on the streets of LaGrange today was the speech of President Hudden, delivered last night to a mass meeting of the business citizens in the offices of the chamber of commerce. All present expressed a Georgia rooster speech from Mr. Hudden and many came to hear flowery oratory on the glorious old state.

Little Renown Abroad.

They were sadly disappointed. The speech he delivered was unique, startling and very much out of the ordinary instead of describing LaGrange's greatness, he pointed out how little renown the state had away from home. Rather than describing the riches of the state he showed in startling word pictures the real poverty of the state along industrial and commercial lines.

At times he had his audience convulsed with laughter over his short and pungent witticisms. During his discourse round after round of applause burst forth. No speaker in many years has so effected a LaGrange audience as did Mr. Hudden yesterday when the plans are being laid to have him return to LaGrange in January and deliver an address in the courthouse, and it is assured as a result of his visit less than twenty-five hundred people.

The banquet tendered Secretary Charles D. McKinney also delivered a splendid address along the lines of the speech which the Georgia Chamber of Commerce will undertake.

Upon their arrival in LaGrange at 4:30 Messrs. Hudden and McKinney were driven over LaGrange for two hours in automobiles furnished by the chamber and chauffeured and filled with local boosters. At 7 o'clock a banquet was served at Callaway's restaurant. It was a very elaborate luncheon, though only a few were present.

After the luncheon the general reception for the state officials was given and was held in the offices of the chamber of commerce. Lights had been run into the offices and the rooms were a blaze of light.

SHE WANTS TO DIVORCE HUSBAND SHE "STOLE"

Mrs. A. T. Small, Jr., of Macon, Files Suit—Mrs. A. B. Hinkle Also Asks Divorce.

Macon, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Lucille Platt Small filed suit here today for divorce from her husband, A. T. Small, Jr., a member of one of the most prominent families of Georgia.

Mrs. Small, who was formerly Miss Lucille Platt, eloped to Atlanta two years ago with Mr. Small in an automobile belonging to the latter's father. They were married before the order for their arrest could reach the Atlanta police.

When they were finally located by the police Mrs. Small displayed her marriage license, showing they were married, and they were released.

At that time Mrs. Small remarked: "If there was any scandal coming don't do it." The wedding was opposed by Mr. Small's people.

Mrs. Hinkle Files Suit.

Macon, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ada Hinkle today filed suit against Dr. A. B. Hinkle for divorce, this being the final step in bringing the sensational domestic troubles of the Hinkles to a close. Mrs. Hinkle charges her husband with cruel treatment, though in the bill no reference is made to the fight at the Hinkle home several weeks ago in which Dr. Hinkle's aged mother sustained a broken hip when she attempted to separate Dr. Hinkle and Mrs. James.

Some time ago the Hinkles entered into an agreement for a division of their property, Mrs. Hinkle taking the major portion of it. This property had previously been placed in her name by Dr. Hinkle.

IN A DARING WAR GAME. GARRITY LOSES LIFE

Newport, R. I., October 14.—In a daring war game played by the Atlantic torpedo flotilla under bad weather conditions last night, Commander H. A. Garrity, of the Paulding, lost his life. The destroyer came into port today with all hands save Garrity.

Garrity was washed overboard. It is thought he struck the stern accidentally and that he was unconscious when he struck the water. He was married only a week ago.

Captain William S. Sims, commander of the flotilla, said tonight that the maneuvers were successful in bringing before the men the real conditions confronted in actual warfare. The problem, which was to locate a hostile fleet in the dark and destroy it, was worked out successfully, in a 40-mile gale with the seas sweeping the decks as high as the bridges and washing over the tops of the high forecastles. Through these seas the twenty destroyers were driven at twenty knots with lights extinguished. Life lines were stretched across the decks and officers and men went about their duties with their lifepreservers strapped about them.

The flagship Dixie, with the destroyers Cassin and Walke, represented the enemy. The scene of action was between Point Judith and Gayhead.

UNDERWOOD STRIKES REFERENCE TO WILSON

Washington, October 14.—Democratic Leader Underwood's reference in the debate yesterday with Representative Hobson to Thomas Jefferson and Bryan in connection with the $10,000 contributed by Mr. Bryan to President Wilson's campaign fund when the president was running for governor of New Jersey, did not appear today in the official report in the Congressional Record.

The White House informed Mr. Underwood that the $10,000 contribution ever had been received and the reference from the leader struck the reference from his speech before the Record went to press last night.

New Express Rates.

Washington, October 14.—New express rates recently prescribed by the interstate commerce commission will become effective on December 1 instead of tomorrow. A request for extension by the companies was granted today, but a request that the new scale be revised was refused.

CLEMENTS FOR ATLANTA BUT CHATTANOOGA WON

Washington, October 14.—(Special.) Chattanooga gets the headquarters established in the southeast by the interstate commerce commission to handle the work of physical valuation of railroads.

The fight was originally between Louisville, Atlanta, Chattanooga and Nashville, and finally narrowed down to a contest between the latter two places. Chattanooga won because it appeared that 51 per cent of the railroad mileage in the southeastern territory lay above that city and 49 per cent was below it.

The southeastern territory extends from Ohio and Indiana to the canal zone, including Porto Rico. While all communications to Porto Rico and Panama will be handled through New York, these places were included in the southeastern territory.

In the commission's discussion Judge Judson C. Clements advocated Atlanta and finally yielded to Chattanooga as the second best place. Judge Charles C. McCord, who hails from Kentucky, thought Louisville would be the best location. By a majority of one vote the commission finally selected Chattanooga.

While the question of location with reference to the whole territory was said to have been the deciding factor, the commission also considered the quarters offered in the various cities. Chattanooga offers rental quarters at about 47 cents a square foot in a modern office building. That of Nashville was about 60 cents a foot, Louisville 77 cents and Atlanta somewhere around $1.

ALTMAN COLLECTION FOR MUSEUM OF ART

New York, October 14.—The Metropolitan Museum of Art will receive the great art collection of Benjamin Altman, the department store millionaire whose will was filed here today for probate. Mr. Altman was a bachelor, and his collecting occupied most of his time outside of business hours. He had what is said to be the finest collection of porcelains in the world.

Mr. Altman left the Metropolitan museum $150,000, to be devoted to the care of his collection.

The Mount Sinai hospital, of this city, receives $100,000. Other public bequests amounting to $300,000. Employees of the Altman store of twenty years' service receive $2,500 each. Those of eighteen years' service $1,500, and those of fifteen years' service $1,000. In addition eleven of the oldest employees receive $5,000 each. Mr. Altman's two secretaries receive $10,000 each.

The will leaves to each of the nieces and nephews $100,000.

The Altman art collection has been valued at more than $15,000,000. Among the paintings are fourteen Rembrandts and one old masters almost beyond price, several years ago it was said that Mr. Altman paid $1,000,000 for the celebrated portraits of King Philip IV. and of Olivares by Velasquez. A similar sum was paid for four pictures from the Kann collection—three Reynolds and one Ruysdael.

His gallery contains two of the finest paintings of Franz Hals. One of them is "The Merry Companys," a small copy of which hangs in the Louvre. He gave $250,000 for Holbein's portrait of Margaret Wyatt.

USED OCCULT POWER TO INDUCE MURDER

Murfreesboro, Ark., October 14.—P. G. Farrell, a blind and infirm spiritualistic medium of Glenwood, was placed on trial here today charged with being an accessory through his occult demonstrations to the murder of Mrs. T. C. Turner and Miss Rhodie Cheatar, of Glenwood. The woman died after taking poison in a suicide agreement with Mrs. Turner's husband.

Turner recovered from the effects of the poison he swallowed and confessed he had administered the drug to his wife and Miss Cheatar, when relatives charged that Farrell induced the three to enter the suicide compact so he might get possession of Turner's property.

The state's charge is based on a confession by Turner, in which he is said to have stated that Farrell "brought back" his wife from the spirit world at the spirit of a dead son of Turner's, who begged his father to "come over."

Two Women Cremated.

Baltimore, October 14.—Mrs. Rebecca Strauss, a widow, and Miss Julia Yearly, both of Baltimore, and patients at a sanitarium at Govans, a suburb, were cremated in the fire of unknown origin, which destroyed the interior of the building early today. Miss Heberly, a nurse, received serious injuries while assisting inmates to escape. There were eighteen patients in the institution. All were asleep when the fire broke out, and there were many thrilling rescues by the attendants.

RATE ADVANCES ASKED BY THE RAILROADS

Washington, October 14.—Eastern railroads through association railroads today began filing with the interstate commerce commission their tariffs which, if approved, will result in an increase of five per cent on all freight rates, except in some instances those on coal and grain. The proposed advances immediately will be suspended in most instances the roads themselves have endorsed the spirit of the tariffs voluntarily suspending the increases until the commission shall have had opportunity to pass upon their reasonableness.

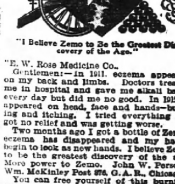
It is improbable that a decision will be reached before spring.

Old Soldier Conquers Eczema

After Hospital and Doctors' Treatments Fail, Zemo Does the Good Work. It Will Do It For You.

Get a 25c Bottle Today and Prove It.

Tortured by burning, itching eczema, with doctors unable to cure him, this old war veteran won another victory and conquered his trouble with this remarkable remedy—Zemo. Read his letter.



"I Believe Zemo to Be the Greatest Discovery of the Age."

"E. W. Rose Medicine Co.,

Gentlemen—For years I had eczema appeared on my back and limbs. Doctors treated me in hospital and gave me Allah balm every day but did me no good. In 1913, it appeared on head, face and hands—burning and itching. I tried everything but got no relief and was getting worse.

Two months ago I got a bottle of Zemo; eczema has disappeared and my hands begin to look as now hands. I believe Zemo to be the greatest discovery of the age. More power to Zemo. John W. Persons, Wm. McKinley Post 394, G. A. R., Chicago."

HAYES HABEAS CORPUS DISMISSED BY COURT

Judge Preston Hotly Denies Sensational Charges Connecting Him With Bondsmen.

The habeas corpus by which freedom was sought for Mary Hayes, aged 19, convicted in the recorder's court of charges involving immorality, was dismissed yesterday by Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court. A few minutes later W. B. Preston, recorder pro tem, and clerk of the recorder's court, approved a bond offered for her and the girl was released.

Judge Preston denied hotly the sensational charges that he was acquainted with the bonding agent by others than a gang of bond sharks, and also the statement made in court by R. R. Jackson, the woman's attorney, that the girl had been thrown into jail with negroes full of disease. The girl had been placed in the ward for white women and under the eye of a matron, was the reply made to the latter charge.

Judge Preston stated that he refused the bond Monday night because he was not sure that P. P. Jackson and C. C. Dunn, whose names appeared on it, had really signed the paper. He also stated that he feared Dunn as a bondsman and wished to see if Jackson really had the property which he claimed.

Judge Bell dismissed the case on the petition made by City Attorney James L. Mayson that no habeas corpus could be issued when brought against Assistant Chief Jett, as he was right in holding the woman when the clerk refused to accept the bond, and that the bonding company Judge Preston to approve the bond was through mandamus proceedings.

The girl was arrested in a house at Magnolia and Mills streets and fined $25.75. This was paid, according to the police, and later she was arrested on the street with a man and fined $50. She appealed this case and sought the bond.

BRYAN IS DEFENDED BY JOHN BARRETT

Boston, October 14.—Defense of Secretary Bryan's chautauqua lectures was made by John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, at the annual banquet of the Vermont association of Boston.

No such secretary of state in twenty years has so closely won the friendship of foreign diplomats in Washington," said Mr. Barrett. "In his chautauqua lectures Mr. Bryan is doing more than any other secretary of state has ever done to make the people realize that the state department belongs to them as much as does any other department."

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" Can't Harm Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels, and sweetens them.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of "California fruit laxative" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be misled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

GOV. FOSS WILL RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT

Boston, October 14.—Governor Eugene N. Foss, of Massachusetts, three times elected as a democrat, filed nomination papers as an independent candidate for re-election today.

Governor Foss tomorrow is expected to specify the issues upon which he proposes to wage his campaign. He is to limit his active campaigning to the ten days immediately preceding the election in November, he has told friends.

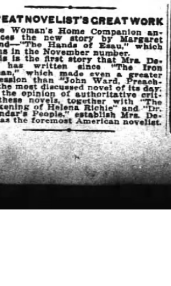
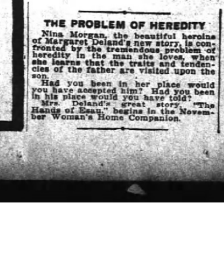
Margaret Deland's Latest story The Hands of Esau Begins in the November WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION





The voice is Jacob's voice but the hands are the hands of Esau. "Genesis 27: Verse 22

A GREAT NOVELIST'S GREATEST WORK

The Woman's Home Companion announces the new story by Margaret Deland—"The Hands of Esau"—which begins in the November number.

This is the first story that Mrs. Deland has written since "The Iron Woman," which made even a greater impression than "John Ward, Preacher," the most discussed novel of its day.

In the opinion of authoritative critics, these novels, together with "The Awakening of Helena Richie" and "Dr. Lavendar's People," establish Mrs. Deland as the foremost American novelist.

THE PROBLEM OF HEREDITY

Nina Morgan, the beautiful heroine of Margaret Deland's new story, is confronted by the tremendous problem of heredity in the man she loves, when she learns that the traits and tendencies of the father are visited upon the son.

Had you been in her place would you have accepted him? Had you been he would you have told?

Mrs. Deland's great story, "The Hands of Esau," begins in the November Woman's Home Companion.

96% of the Women in the Homes Where The Constitution Goes Read It Regularly!

THE CONSTITUTION made a comprehensive and exhaustive test recently to determine for itself and its advertisers the extent to which the women in the homes where the paper is delivered read it, and what effect the store advertising it prints has in relation to their purchases.

A letter containing ten simple questions was sent to 1,000 women in Atlanta, the heads of households where The Constitution is delivered regularly, scattered at random and without special selection.

All the replies to these letters, in the handwriting and bearing the signature of the women themselves, together with the complete tabulation from which these percentages were made, are on file in the advertising department of The Constitution, and all who are interested in reviewing them are invited to do so.

The tabulation of the replies showed these

ASTONISHING RESULTS

96% of the women in the homes where The Constitution is delivered read it regularly.

86% read the advertising.

87% say they are influenced in their purchases by the advertising.

73% read The Constitution in the morning; 7% in the afternoon, and 20% at some ungiven time.

27% of those who read it in the morning do so about 7 o'clock; 38% read it about 8 o'clock; 27% as late as 9 o'clock, and 8% after 9 o'clock.

48% spend half an hour reading it and 52% read it an hour.

003% do not read the paper at all; .001% for lack of time; .002% because paper is carried away from home; only 1 out of entire number because she was not interested in newspaper reading.

83% read The Constitution as much or more than an evening paper.

The average period of the subscriptions of those who answered the questions was 10 years.

Not a single woman of all those who answered did not like The Constitution as a newspaper.

THE DEDUCTIONS

If the percentages derived from this test are applied to the entire Atlanta circulation of The Constitution, it means that---

14,400 Atlanta women read The Constitution regularly.

12,900 Atlanta women read the advertising in The Constitution.

12,000 Atlanta women are influenced in their purchases by this advertising.

(If the same formulas are applied still further to the entire circulation, both city and country, of 45,000 Daily and 48,000 Sunday, these figures would be more than doubled.)

This makes a guaranteed audience every morning in the year for all advertising containing a meritorious and opportune announcement to women.

MR. ADVERTISER---In the light of these facts, what is to be said of your business sagacity if you permit a single issue of The Atlanta Constitution to enter that many households and to be read by that many women, without your business message?

Atlanta Women Will Work for Girls' English High School

No subject a part of the program of the meeting of the City federation, held Monday morning, aroused more interest than that of the condition existing in the building now occupied by the 700 pupils of the English Commercial High school.

The immediate relief be brought to the school was the earnest plea of Mrs. Hamilton Douglas. She referred to the fact that a lot costing $22,000 had been purchased by the city for the specific purpose of building thereon a school for this important department of high school training. The building has never been started, and the students, in the meantime, are miserably housed in the old Crew Street school building, which was left by the grammar grades when the new school-house was built.

Not only is the old building inadequate for the English Commercial classes, but is dark and insanitary, difficult of entrance and exit, while the children on Crew Street school are deprived of the playground space they should have in the old building site occupying the space needed.

A resolution introduced by Mrs. Douglas, asking that the City federation urge immediate remedy for the conditions described, was passed unanimously by the members of the City federation.

To Miss Martha Berry.

The Martha Berry circle, of Atlanta, have issued invitations for a reception Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Piedmont Driving club, in honor of Miss Martha Berry and members of the faculty and student body of the Martha Berry school.

The occasion will give the guests the opportunity not only of meeting this distinguished woman and hearing the story of her great work, but the opportunity of meeting the teachers of her school and some of the students who have received their training in the school.

Those receiving invitations to the reception are requested to reply to 1960 Peachtree street.

Buffet Luncheon.

Mrs. George S. Lowndes, Sr., and Mrs. George S. Lowndes, Jr., have issued invitations for a luncheon Thursday, October 23, at 1:30 o'clock, at their home, 96 E. Fifteenth street, to meet Mrs. Holland Lowndes and Miss Jeannette Lowndes.

Condon-Wrigley.

A beautiful wedding on an ideal Indian summer day was that of Miss Alice Condon and Mr. John T. Wrigley, which took place at the Sacred Heart church yesterday morning.

The marriage at 9 o'clock was solemnized at nuptial mass. Father Gulnan the celebrant, and music appropriate to the occasion and an accompaniment. Mr. Vincent Hurley was at the organ, and hymns were sung by Mr. William Maurer, Mr. John T. McPherran and Mr. J. C. McCallan.

The only attendants were Miss Loretta Condon and Mr. John Sevier.

The wedding scene was an impressive one, the sanctuary banked with palms and ferns, and the altar flowers were roses.

The bride, entering the church with her father, Mr. J. J. Condon, was lovely in white satin charmeuse, its trimming of point applique. Her veil was of the same lace, adjusted to the pretty head with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of bride roses and valley lilies.

The maid of honor wore a leather-colored crepe gown, and her velvet hat was trimmed with fur and paradise feathers.

Mrs. Condon's becoming costume was in white and black silk, with a touch of cerise here and her black hat was trimmed with plumes.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast at home, the wedding company of forty including relatives and a few close friends of the young people. They were seated at tables in the dining room and sad-joining apartments, and the decorations were tastefully carried out in yellow and white.

At the bride's table the centerpiece was the bride's cake, wreathed with small white flowers, their foliage a glossy green. The candles had yellow shades, and candles and ices were white and yellow.

Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley went to Florida on their wedding trip, and returning they will keep house on Merritts avenue.

Berger-Klausman.

An event of interest on the 29th will be the marriage of Miss Mamie Berger and Dr. M. Klausman, which will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin K. Berger, on East North avenue.

Miss Sadie Goldman, of Indianapolis, will be maid of honor, and the bride's sister and brother, Silvia Ellinor and Master Berger, will be attendants. Rabbi Marx will perform the ceremony, and afterwards supper will be served, the wedding company to include only a few relatives and close friends.

Among the out-of-town guests will be Mr. and Mrs. George Silver, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. H. Berger, New York; Miss Mamie Pass, Charleston; Mr. Louis Sachnovitz, Summerville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Pelman, Mr. P. Pelman, Bonneau, S. C.; Mrs. W. P. Eleazer, Columbia, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Paty, Sheldon, S. C.

Birthday Party.

Miss Anne Donnelly will entertain fifteen little folks at the Forsyth, Saturday matinee, to celebrate the birthday of her niece, Florence Anne Cetvin.

Home-Coming Meeting.

A home-coming meeting will be held by Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Craigie house this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and there will be a program of informal enjoyment. Columbus day, the 12th, will be commemorated. Mrs. S. W. Foster, state regent, will make a brief address, and Miss LeCraw will sing.

Afterwards there will be tea and a social hour.

Mrs. Ivy Entertains.

Miss Sadye Andrews, whose wedding to Mr. H. H. Johnson, will be an event of the week, was the guest of honor at a bridge tea and linen shower yesterday afternoon given by Mrs. Eugene D. Ivey.

Mrs. Ivey's handsome new home, on Pennsylvania avenue, was beautifully decorated with ferns and vases filled with Killarney roses. The card tables were placed in the long living room, and the prizes at bridge were silk embroidered hose and a bridge lamp.

A feature of the afternoon was a linen shower, when many pretty and useful presents were given the bride-elect.

Afternoon tea was served in the dining room. The tea table was covered with a Cluny lace cloth and silver bowl filled with Killarney roses and asparagus fern. All of the details were in pink and the ices were frozen in the form of pink slippers.

Miss Mildred Sault served punch and Miss Eugenia Ivey assisted her mother in entertaining. Mrs. Ivey wore a gown of black lace, and Miss Ivey was gowned in a white afternoon gown.

The guests included Miss Sadye Andrews, Mrs. John S. Scott, Mrs. Sid Sault, Mrs. John Andrews, Mrs. Marion White-field, Mrs. Fred W. Ivey, Miss Bertha Smith of Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. E. A. Davison, Miss Elizabeth Murphy of Los Angeles, Mrs. Norman Davis, Miss Merl and Tommie Hancock, Miss Annie May Schseiver, Miss Bess Schseiver, Miss Mary Lucy Turner, Miss Martha Lawshe, Miss Thelma Ivey, Miss Una Ellis, Miss Edna Mae Ivey, Miss Florence Smith, Miss Annie Lou Padgett, Miss Allice Hollingsworth of Montgomery, Mrs. C. Anderson of Knoxville, Miss Eunice Cox, Mrs. Mary Field.

Mrs. Cantrell Entertains.

Mrs. Walter J. Cantrell gave a pretty card party Yesterday at her home in the Circumference, in honor of Miss Bess Brantley, whose marriage is to meet Mrs. C. C. Jordan, of Birmingham.

Golden rod and autumn foliage were used in artistic decoration.

Club Picnic.

The E. E. P. club enjoyed a picnic last Saturday morning at Grant park. Mrs. Boatcritter chaperoned the young people, who were Misses Lorine Grant, Roselle Boatcritter, Masters Ervin Tillman, Carl Weaver and J. B. Baient.

McMillan-Munn.

The wedding of Miss Katherine McMillan and Mr. Aito Reynolds Munn will take place this morning at 10 o'clock at the First Christian church. Miss Pearl Parker will be maid of honor and Mr. Arthur Munn will be best man. Dr. L. O. Bricker will perform the ceremony.

Mr. Munn and his bride will leave immediately for a wedding trip east. They will go to housekeeping in their new home on South Gordon street on their return.

Matinee Party.

Mrs. Thomas M. Moody and Miss Ruth Moody will give a matinee party today at the Forsyth in compliment to Miss Mamie Pass, Charleston, and Miss Clarice Ryan, who leave next week with Captain Ryan for Fort Riley.

To Miss Cochran.

Miss Ursula Cochran will entertain with bridge Saturday afternoon in compliment to Miss Ona Cochran, a bride-elect.

Mr. Stanley's Recital.

Mr. Walter F. Stanley, of the Leschetizky school, in Vienna, also pupil of Joseph Lhevinne, famous pianist, in Berlin, was introduced to Atlanta music-lovers at a recital last Friday night, in the ballroom of the Hotel Ansley, his sponsor being the Atlanta Institute of Music and Oratory, whose piano department he directs.

Mr. Stanley's musical individuality is sympathetic and pleasing and made an instant response from his audience. His playing shows the characteristics of the Leschetizki school, clean and accurate touch, full tones, intelligence, delicious and beautiful limpid scale work.

The exquisite little Margaret Pastorale showed these qualities at their best, and was pure delight. Of the chopin numbers, we should perhaps single out the mazurka for especial praise: it was given with both delicacy and spirit, and in the impromptu which followed the finely shaded passage work was particularly noticeable. Brahms' well-beard intermezzo in E minor, from Op. 116, was a number that appealed especially to the musicians present, and showed Mr. Stanley's love for the byways as well as the highways of musical literature.

Story-Teller's League.

The first fall meeting of the Story-Tellers' league was held in the Carnegie library, and the study of the Madonna formed the afternoon's entertainment, and was most delightfully carried out.

Miss Cargood gave a charmingly informal talk on the progress of art as exemplified by the different delineations of the Madonna now extant. She illustrated her remarks by the stereopticon.

Miss Laura Wood, well-known as a teacher and writer, gave several delightful stories, and Miss Lucile Habersham, and Miss Milledge sang a tenderly beautiful setting of the Ave Maria.

This society is doing a good work in sending stories to children's homes all parts of the city, and it extends a cordial invitation to all who are interested in child culture to be present at the meetings, the second Saturday in each month, in the lecture room of the library at 3:30 p. m.

P.-T. N. C. of Ira Street.

The Parent-Teacher Neighborhood club of Ira street will hold its regular meeting Thursday, October 16, at 3:30 p. m. Officers and others are requested to note an official meeting at 3 p. m. sharp.

Visitors are always cordially welcome to these club meetings, and there is generally some literary feature of general interest. For this meeting Mrs. W. C. Spiker will give one of her delightful readings, "The Pied Piper."

MEETINGS

The Nineteenth Century History class will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Vassar Woolley.

The Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold the regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon, October 15, at 3 o'clock, in their chapter house. It will be home-coming meeting, with a most attractive program. There will be a meeting of the executive board at 2:45 p. m., just prior to the meeting.

The Ladies' Aid society to the Railroad Y. M. C. A. will meet with Mrs. W. J. Hodges, 289 North Jackson street, Wednesday afternoon, October 15, at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Hodges will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Hastings. All members urged to attend.

The regular meeting of the Piedmont Continental chapter will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the parlors of the Piedmont hotel. There will be a board meeting at 3:30 o'clock, preceding the regular meeting.

S. S. THANKSGIVING FOR GA. PROSPERITY

Superintendents Launch City-Wide Movement for Joining in Thanksgiving Services.

To give thanks for the signal prosperity of Georgia in the face of crop failure and financial existing in some other sections of the country, all the Sunday schools of Atlanta will unite in special services on the Sunday preceding Thanksgiving day next month. This was determined at the monthly session of the superintendents' congress of Atlanta, which was held Tuesday evening in the First Christian church.

There will be special programs of music and addresses and other exercises in practically every school of the city—at least in all the large Sunday schools represented by the assembled superintendents, who expressed unanimous indorsement of the plan. Dr. Marion Hull, Dr. Joe Brown, Major R. J. Guinn and several others arose before the body to declare the peculiar need of such a service this fall, in view of the blessings and good fortune which have fallen to the lot of Georgia in the prosperity scramble of 1913.

The main address of the evening was made by John J. Eagan, superintendent of the Central Presbyterian church, from the subject, "Efficiency in the Sunday School." He pointed to the achievements of Sousa's band, of twelve apostles in carrying the gospel to millions of people in every corner of the globe, as "the pinnacle of efficiency," and he appealed to the Sunday schools to take lessons from the simple methods of soul winning as practiced by these apostles.

A delicious hot supper, prepared by the ladies of the First Christian church, preceded the session of the Sunday congress. The superintendents decided that the next meeting shall be held the second Tuesday in April in the Ansley hotel, being accompanied by an extensive supper at which all the departmental and associate superintendents of the various Sunday schools shall be the special guests of the congress, and at that time particular problems and suggestions for the Christmas work of the schools will be discussed.

GERMANS TO CELEBRATE THEIR LANDING IN U. S.

The Atlanta Turn Verein hall will prove a revelation to its members when they gather this evening to celebrate German day.

While the committee of arrangements, John Papa, Theo Cassirer, George Mau, Otto Klinginberger, Geo. Herdlein, Phil Meyer, Julius Bruckner and Charles Hirsch, have been working out an interesting program for the entertainment of the German-American association for the evening, the house committee, Newman Lasch, Max Eugene Schmidt and Louis Reinhardt, have been renovating and beautifying the main auditorium, the parlors and reception rooms of the hall until there are few more attractive association halls in the entire south.

The program for the evening will delight the music lover. Both instrumental and vocal features have been given numbers on the program for the evening.

Herman Steinichen, president of the German-American alliance, will preside, and as master of ceremonies will introduce the speakers, Judge E. C. Konzo, Hon. Frank Rafensiain, well known attorney, and Dr. G. Nussbaum, pastor of the Atlanta German church.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS WILL HOLD GRAND RALLY

The Knights of Pythias of the fifth district will hold a grand rally in this city on October 29.

The fifth district Knights of Pythias is based on the congressional district lines, and includes all the Knights of Pythias lodges in the counties composing the district.

On this occasion the district convention will meet in Atlanta and practically all of the official family of the grand lodge of Georgia will be present, including Miller S. Bell, of Milledgeville, grand chancellor of the state.

Subjects of interest to the order will be discussed, and a campaign organized to bring back into the order many who have dropped out from various causes during the past few years. The afternoon session will be devoted to routine business, but the night session will be in the nature of a Knights of Pythias open meeting, and all Knights of Pythias, whether in good standing or not, are invited. Refreshments will be served and cigars will be on hand. A. A. Craig is president of the district convention, and Lee F. Ferrell, secretary and district deputy.

PICKS BURIAL SUIT, TELLS CHILD GOODBY AND SWALLOWS ACID

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Hiram D. Catlett, aged about 26 years, after telling his little adopted girl Sunday night that he might soon died and instructing her as to the suit of clothes he wished to be buried in, swallowed four ounces of carbolic acid this morning about 8 o'clock and died in a few minutes.

He left his home at 7:00, went to the place of business of Hilley & Jones, where he was cashier, checked over his books to a cent, left a statement of a few small accounts owing to him and some owed by him, went to a different drug store and bought the acid, returned to the place of business, swallowed the acid and then walked out toward home where breakfast was awaiting him. He fell on the pavement after staggering two blocks and expired as he was being placed in a cab by Mr. Hilley, who met him. He is survived by his wife and the adopted daughter, about thirteen years old. He was a native of Jackson county and was very popular here. He was of good habits and till a week ago was in good health. The community feels deep sympathy and grieved over the death recently of a sister and of a young friend.

Athens Police Chief Nabs Runaway Engine On Passenger Track

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Answering a police call by phone last night the chief of police, a patrolman and a bicycle man chased a runaway engine on the Georgia railroad and arrested it 2 miles outside of the corporate limits—clean beyond their jurisdiction. There will be no complaint about their overstepping their prerogatives in this case, as they barely got the engine steamed up and backed into the station yards before the night passenger train from Augusta came round the curve of the cut.

The engine had slipped a throttle in some way with some fire up and a gentle grade encouraged it in its escape. It forced open the switch stuck to the track and came to a standstill only when the steam got low and the grade grew steep the other way.

Two Newspaper Enterprises

Which Demonstrated The Atlanta Constitution's Extraordinary Hold Upon Its Constituency of Readers

THE M. & M. CONTEST

In the winter months of 1912-13, ending on February 14th, The Atlanta Constitution conducted a Merchants and Manufacturers' Contest, an ingenious joint advertising and selling campaign in which many manufacturers of trade-marked products, with national distribution and a number of Atlanta retail businesses, participated.

A voting contest, with $6,000.00 in cash and other prizes, was the means by which the interest of the readers of the paper was concentrated upon certain lines of goods and particular stores. Many Church societies, lodges, charitable organizations and under special terms, individuals, competed for prizes.

Votes in the contest were given only for labels and cartons from trade-marked merchandise and for invoices, receipted bills and cash register tickets from retail stores which were brought to The Constitution office and deposited. Every vote represented the actual sale of merchandise.

The total vote represented the sale of $494,039.00 in grocer, drug, food and beverage products;

$757,554.00 in retail store merchandise;

$1,251,593.00 was the aggregate business done by the advertisers participating as a direct result of the campaign. The indirect benefits in new trade and additional publicity were incalculable.

At the close of the campaign four large rooms and a great deal of overflow space in The Constitution building were occupied by tons of labels and cartons.

These were the results for a few of the products:

1,900,000 labels, representing $95,000.00 of Uncle Sam Bread.

1,000,000 bottle caps, representing $50,000.00 of Red Rock—a 5c drink.

6 truck loads of carton lids, representing $100,000.00 of Cottolene.

100,517 bands, representing $10,517.00 of the Webster Cigar.

94,428 cartons, representing $9,442.00 of Post Toasties.

100,000 wrappers, representing $6,000.00 of Cleaning Soap.

THE WOMAN'S EDITION

On June 4th, The Federated Women's Clubs of Georgia issued The Woman's Edition of The Atlanta Constitution, which has been for years the official newspaper of this body of women's clubs, the largest and strongest in the United States, embracing 118 clubs and 18,000 members, as well as The Daughters of the American Revolution and The United Daughters of The Confederacy. Special departments, edited by club women, in which all the organization announcements, addresses by the officers, etc., are printed, are prominent features of the Sunday paper.

The primary object of the edition from the Federation's standpoint was to obtain the nucleus of the Ella F. White Memorial Endowment Fund for the maintenance of the state work.

The Federation, through its permanent organization, as well as a special organization created for the purpose, not only wrote and edited all the news and editorial matter, but sold the advertising and 15,000 copies of the edition. The women were entirely responsible for its success, except in the preliminary plans and some guidance from time to time in the technical phases of the production.

The Woman's Edition was 126 pages in size, the largest single issue of a newspaper ever printed in the state and one of the largest in the history of journalism. It had a circulation of 60,000 copies. Each copy weighed two pounds. It contained 8,258 inches of advertising. The Federation of Women's Clubs participated in the profits substantially.

From every journalistic standpoint The Woman's Edition was notable. It was entirely different from the usual type of newspaper special editions. All the matter was of the most interesting character. The women did real newspaper stunts in the way of interviewing prominent men on delicate political subjects, attended police court as reporters, and obtained striking photographs. The art work, the typographical make-up and the arrangement was exceptionally fine from every critical viewpoint.

The issue attracted national attention. There was scarcely a newspaper of importance in the United States that did not comment upon it as a remarkable achievement, both for the Women's Clubs and The Constitution.

These two enterprises, both of them completed in the ensuing calendar year, have unusual significance when the complete facts about them are stressed in relation to The Constitution as an advertising meaium.

So far as can be ascertained, The Constitution sold more merchandise, a total of $1,251,593.00, in the M. & M. Contest than was ever sold by a similar plan in this country.

The Woman's Edition was the most successful from a journalistic as well as a financial standpoint of any similar enterprise ever undertaken in this country.

WHY? Constitution readers are its loyal friends. This is especially true of the women. It is able to secure from them, for any enterprise for which it stands sponsor, a large enlistment, because of its hold upon them through its character, its journalistic excellencies, and all the elements that make it a fine family newspaper.

No other newspaper of relative size could have sold $1,251,593.00 in merchandise through such a selling plan because its prestige with its readers would not be strong enough to enlist enough people in buying certain brands of products and trading at certain stores.

No other newspaper enjoys the relationship with as strong and powerful organization as The Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, as to have made The Woman's Edition the notable success it was.

If the readers of The Constitution, particularly the women, by their attachment to it, enable the paper to accomplish these two remarkable things upon its own initiative, does it not signify that they read the paper, that they have confidence in it, that they give advertising addressed to them a sympathetic interest that can scarcely be secured in any other advertising medium?

KIRKWOOD TO VOTE FOR BONDS TODAY

Probably the most important election ever held in the town of Kirkland will take place today when the voters will decide on a bond issue of $35,000, to be used for sewerage, paving and other improvements.

Thorough and comprehensive report of how the bond money will be expended is contained in an extract from a statement issued to the citizens of Kirkwood by the mayor and town council. Five being dollars to be apportioned for a sewage disposal plant in the eastern part of the town; $5,000 to pay for school sites, and $25,000 for street improvements.

Of the last amount, sums sufficient to put them in first-class condition are apportioned to the following streets: Boulevard drive, Clay street, Oxford avenue, Murray Hill Avenue, Oxford place, Rogers, South Howard and Webber streets, Warwick place and the Kirkwood road.

HOTEL ANSLEY WAITERS WILL GIVE CAKE WALK

The fifty waiters of Hotel Ansley are going to give a big cake walk, concert and ball at the auditorium the night of the 29th of October. Three white judges have been selected and have accepted to judge the cake walk. The first prize will be a mammoth cake three feet high and handsomely decorated. The second prize will be a case or umbrella. The waiters have each selected a girl companion from Atlanta's colored "four hundred," and great preparations are now being daily made to make it the event of the year in colored circles. After the prizes have been awarded the two couples of prize winners will contest to see which can will open the grand ball and lead the march.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty-Seekers

W. C. D. says: "My face is freckled the year round; nothing I try seems to help much. Is there anything that will really take off these horrid spots?" Have you tried the treatment recommended to Minnie L.? I've known this to remove very obstinate freckles.

Ellen B. asks: "What should I do for deep lines under my eyes and across my forehead?" Such lines, and all wrinkles, are best obliterated by bathing affected portions in a good astringent and tonic lotion, which strengthens and draws in the relaxed tissue. Here's a recipe for formula: Powdered saxolite, one-half pint witch hazel; mix and use daily until entirely relieved.

Minnie L.: "The undue redness as well as the pimples may easily be removed by using ordinary mercolised wax. Apply nightly like cold cream, and erase mornings with warm water. Soon you'll have a beautifully white, clear, soft and velvety complexion. Mercolised wax, sold by all druggists, is better than cosmetics for any complexion trouble. One ounce suffices for most conditions.—Woman's Realm. —(Adv.)

100 Ladies in Rapt Attention At Reading of 'Play on "Justice"

One hundred Atlanta ladies sat in rapt attention for two hours yesterday afternoon at the Georgian Terrace and listened to the reading of Epes Sargent Borden's remarkable play: "Justice" as interpreted by Rev. W. W. Memminger. The occasion launched the fall course of interpretive readings under the auspices of the educational committee of the Atlanta branch of the Drama League of America and was announced by all present a splendid success.

While now one of the most successful ministers of Atlanta, being rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, Dr. Memminger was himself in former days an actor of no small ability. Into the reading of the play he threw the wide and expressive modulation of his rich voice, which added much to the charm of the reading. "Justice" is a play of strong and gripping human interest. It is the story of a man who through weakness in the face of his first temptation commits forgery for the sake of the woman he loves, and while there is still a chance of his retrieval, the inexorable wheels of justice grind him down to hopelessness and despair. The play ends tragically and there were quite a number of moist eyes in the audience when the emotional agonies of the reader came to the close of the play.

In a few words of introduction Mrs. William Claer Spiker, president of the Atlanta branch of the Drama league, outlined the purpose of the course, which is "to create a taste for better drama and to uplift the standard of the stage." The second reading of the series will be next Tuesday afternoon, also at the Georgian Terrace, when Mrs. Spiker will interpret "Rutherford and Son," a well-known work of the English woman playwright, Githa Sowerby.

Merchants of Gate City Enjoy "Made-in-Atlanta" Buffet Lunch

Over 100 retail grocers and butchers belonging to the Atlanta Retail Grocers and Butchers' association gathered last night in their rooms in the Rhodes building to partake of a "made-in-Atlanta" buffet lunch.

C. T. Camp, president of the association, declared that the object of the gathering was to impress local retail grocers and butchers with the importance of pushing home-made products as far as possible.

In a resume adopting the association's quarters, Camp will, in the instance of his stay in office, had arranged a dainty table, the idea of a picnic lunch being worked out cleverly.

On the table were found fried chicken, pickles, home-made bread, home-boiled ham, home-made crackers and cakes, home-made salad dressing and home-made catsup. During the evening coffee was served. The coffee had been shipped to Atlanta green and roasted in this city.

"This little display is but a preliminary to a large dinner we hope to give this fall," said Camp. "At that time we will serve a complete dinner, even using nothing on the table, from the knives and forks down to the drinking water, that is not made within the confines of this city.

Among the eatables shown last evening that are manufactured in this city were the following: Pickles, from Atlanta Pickle and Preserving company; and Jones Brothers, crackers and cakes, from Frank E. Block; sandwich bread from Schleisinger-Meyer Baking company; Saratoga chips from the Atlanta Saratoga Chip company; salad oil from the Wesson Manufacturing company, and boiled ham from the White Provision company.

LADOW IS CENSURED BY WILLIAM RICHARDS

Well-Known Physician Is Refused Admission to Prison in Absence of Warden.

Dr. William Martin Richards, who came to Atlanta with a letter from Robert V. LaDow, superintendent of federal prisoners, introducing him to Warden William H. Moyer, of the Atlanta federal prison, requesting that he be allowed to make an examination of the inmates of the prison as to their physical defects and the prison's equipment for the correction of these defects, Tuesday morning presented his credentials at the prison, but on account of the warden's absence was unable to make his investigations.

As a result Dr. Richards left Atlanta Tuesday afternoon for Indianapolis, to see Warden Moyer, who is attending the American prison congress there, and confer with him in regard to the matter, and gave out a scathing arraignment of the prison's equipment.

Dr. Richards stated that when he presented his letter from Superintendent LaDow at the prison, Tuesday he was introduced to Dr. Ellis Weaver, the prison physician, who not only would not allow the inspection which the head of the department had recommended, but declared that he would make absolutely no recommendations to the department for an improvement of the prison's equipment in the warden's absence.

Dr. Richards' Mission.

The mission of Dr. Richards, he says, is to ascertain the percentage of prisoners who come to the federal prisions with physical defects of the eyes, ears, spine or any other part of the anatomy, who are victims of hog or rabbit habits, and have these adjusted at once so that the prisoners may be relieved of any unnecessary suffering while serving their terms, and so that the expiration of the terms may leave the prisoners in better physical condition than when they entered—in other words, to make the prison's correction of moral defects extend likewise over physical defects.

Dr. Richards states that in many instances prisoners are suffering from some physical defect unknown, perhaps, to the prison authorities, or even to the prisoner himself and compelled to do work which aggravates this defect, when, with a little expense and attention such conditions could be ameliorated.

Dr. Richards states that he is in this work by the influence of President Woodrow Wilson.

Relative to the refusal to allow him to make the investigation at the federal prison in Atlanta, Dr. Richards severely criticises Superintendent LaDow, who, he says, is himself responsible for the meager result of his visit to Atlanta and whose policy, he declares, to be one of miserliness as a substitute for economy.

Blames LaDow.

Said Dr. Richards:

"I cannot blame Dr. Weaver for not wanting me to investigate the conditions at the prison and make recommendations to Washington, for already he is underpaid and this would mean much additional work for him. Dr. Weaver, Warden Moyer and the entire force in charge at the federal prisons are bitterly opposed to Superintendent LaDow on account of the policy which he pursues, thus blocking many improvements which they know would benefit the prison.

"I do not censure Warden Moyer, He is, I believe, the greatest warden in the world. He understands prisoners, their needs and natures and how to provide wisely for them better than any man I have ever met in my more or less broad experience in prison work.

"I do, however, blame Superintendent LaDow. The only reason that he gave me the letter of introduction was because pressure was brought to bear on him from above and he believed that I would make some recommendations of a nature which would produce more results with a less outlay of money.

"I believe that after a conference with Mr. Moyer, however, my position will be readily understood and that I will be able to go ahead with this work."

DORSEY WILL RETURN TO GATE CITY TODAY

Solicitor and His Assistant Will Devote Rest of Week to Leo M. Frank Case.

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey is due to arrive at 7:35 o'clock this morning and it is said will devote the remainder of the week to work in Atlanta on the reply to the plea of Leo M. Frank for a new trial.

Mr. Dorsey, with E. A. Stephens, his assistant, has been in Valdosta for over ten days, studying the situation and during that time has been in consultation with A. H. Hewlett, one of the twelve men who convicted Frank of the murder of Mary Phagan, and who, the defense charged, had expressed bias in the matter before he became a juror.

Various affidavits replying to the attack on Juror Hewlett are understood to be in the possession of the solicitor, who believes that Frank is not entitled to a new trial and who has been devoting many hours of the day to the work.

Whether or not the solicitor will be ready when the motion is called by Judge L. S. Roan at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, is yet unknown. In Valdosta Mr. Dorsey stated that he could not say whether or not he would be ready.

It is understood that he has some final work to carry on following his return to Atlanta and that this will occupy him for at least two days.

WHITEHALL REGRADING CHANGES CAR ROUTES

City Is Expected to Complete This Improvement Within a Short Time.

On account of the work of regrading Whitehall street between Mitchell and Garnett, important changes in the routing of the street cars now traversing Whitehall street will be inaugurated Thursday morning. The changes are decided upon by the Georgia Railway and Power company, in response to the request of the mayor and city council, are as follows:

Cars on the Whitehall and Peachtree line, going north, will leave Whitehall street at the junction of Forsyth and Whitehall, proceed along Forsyth to the junction of Forsyth and Peachtree, thence along Peachtree to the junction of Forsyth and Peachtree, proceed along Forsyth to the junction of Forsyth and Whitehall, and thence out Whitehall as usual.

Cars on the McDaniel street line, going south, will run their usual route to the corner of Broad and Mitchell street, but, instead of turning east into Mitchell, will turn west, proceed on Mitchell to Forsyth, thence along Forsyth to the junction of Whitehall, and thence out Whitehall to McDaniel. Cars on this line going north will leave Whitehall at the junction of Whitehall and Forsyth, proceed along Forsyth to Mitchell, down Mitchell to Broad, and thence along their usual route.

Cars on the Cooper street line, running north, will turn into Whitehall at the corner of Cooper, proceed on Whitehall to the junction of Whitehall and Forsyth, turn into Forsyth and porceed thence to Mitchell, thence along Mitchell to Broad, and thence to Marietta street and their usual route. Cars on this line going south will come from English avenue as usual to the corner of Mitchell and Broad, turning there into Forsyth, thence along Forsyth to the junction with Whitehall, thence on Whitehall to Cooper, and thence along their usual route.

It is expected the city will finish the regrading of Whitehall in about three weeks, when the service will be restored again.

The city and the county are planning to push this work through in record time.

NEW CENTRIFUGAL PUMP NOW BEING INSTALLED

Work of installing the new 10,000,000 gallon centrifugal pump in the river pumping station began Tuesday morning, General Manager W. Zoda Smith stated that while the work is in progress there will not be the slightest inconvenience to water consumers. The pump will relieve the strain under which the water department has been working for months. It will be ready to operation within three weeks.

New Value In Kimball

88-Note Player Piano

Another triumph by the W. W. Kimball Co., the world's largest manufacturers of Player Pianos. New features of construction in case design at a price that challenges competition.

This new style Player Piano is made by the world's largest manufacturers of pianos—by the largest number of skilled workmen, and marketed direct through this Branch Store, eliminating the intermediate profits of the jobber, dealer and agent, and consequently at a material saving in price to the buyer. Our unlimited facilities for manufacturing naturally reduces the cost of production, which means greater Player value for less money. This is the reason why we are able to offer you such a remarkable Player Piano at such a remarkable price..... $460

A Standard Kimball Player action, built in a genuine Kimball piano, at a price without parallel in the annals of piano purchasing. A $700 value—as compared to prices asked by dealers and agents. We could reduce the cost of manufacture, gloss over the short-comings, and sell for less money, but we won't; because our reputation is involved. We could charge more, but we couldn't give you a Player Piano with better qualities of tone, greater durability, or increased facilities of expression. It is true that we have more expensive instruments, but the difference comes largely in the case.

The Kimball Player is the very embodiment of new life and happiness. It helps to entertain your friends, and is always ready to respond to the musical tastes of every member of your family. No home is hardly complete without a Kimball Player.

Speaking of Tailored Suits for Everyday Wear

When a woman wishes to express her own estimate of her value she instinctively turns to clothes. They may not be her only form of expression, but they are an uncommonly important one, and one which everybody can recognize at a glance. And the better she understands the art of dress the more she appreciates the necessity of the plain suit in her wardrobe, and the more exacting she is likely to be as to its cut and detail work.

Here are Suits of Wonderful Value to Show You Today at $15 to $25

Suits that are quiet and simple; the styles—a score of them, are chosen with a view to suitability, and are not extreme, but show clever style touches. For instance:

At $15---Junior Misses' Suits
Sizes 13 to 19 Years

Stylish two-piece Coat Suits of serges or diagonals, in navy, Copenhagen or black; some are plain tailored; others have trimming of braid and buttons.

At $15---Suits for Women

Practical Suits of serge; long cutaway coat, plain tailored, lined with Skinner's satin; draped skirt; navy or black.

At $20

Women's Suits that are stylish, yet ready for hard wear; of wide-wale diagonal suiting; plain tailored coat, well cut, well lined; ball button-trimmed, draped skirt; blue or black.

Also at $20

Decidedly pleasing Suits of good serge, in navy or black; cutaway coat, with draped skirt. Others of mannish suiting, invisible stripe mixture; long cutaway coat; draped skirt.

At $25

Beautiful Suits of wide-wale diagonal; brown-and-black or blue-and-black; cutaway coat, velvet collar, belted back; lined with Skinner's satin; draped skirt.

At $25

Suits of mannish serge, smart, plain tailored, 3-button, cutaway coat; draped skirt, with slight slash. The colors are Copenhagen, navy and black.

Women's Cloth Frocks Are Ever Useful Adjuncts

Time was when the serge frock had things all its own way, but now serge divides honors with wool crepe, Bedford cord and eponge. And the colors include such pretty hues as the new blues, mahogany, terra cotta, greens and brown—some rich, beautiful plaids in compose dresses. These ask your attention Today.

Smart Russian Dresses, with blouse and peplum of beautiful wool plaid, in rich colors, and skirt of plain serge, blue or brown; several pretty styles to select from, at $15 and $20.

Distinctive Dresses of wool eponge—brown or blue, with novelty collar of embroidered moire silk; black satin girdle. Priced at $12.75.

The Tri-Weekly Constitution

THE TRI-WEEKLY CONSTITUTION, printed on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, is the greatest newspaper of its kind in the world.

¶ There are many agricultural and stock publications, and a few weekly and semi-weekly newspapers of large circulation, but there is no other three-times-a-week newspaper anywhere catering directly to the farming element of even approximate standing or circulation.

¶ Reaching its readers every other day, with the news of the world summarized for the previous 48 hours, it occupies a distinct and exclusive field as an every-other-day daily.

¶ The ordinary farm paper issued weekly, fortnightly or monthly cannot print the news. It prints farm information---not current news. The weekly or semi-weekly newspaper even when attempting to print the news, as its chief function, is too infrequent in its issue to keep the average farmer posted as to market and crop conditions. A Tri-Weekly or every-other-day newspaper strikes the exact medium between the daily and the weekly or monthly farm publication.

¶ In the crop growing months, when the average industrious farmer and his family must work from "sun to sun," he does not always have time to read a daily newspaper. At such periods also he reads his farm paper if he has time. Its perusal is not essential. He will, however, take time, in preference to all other literature that reaches his home, to read a newspaper every-other-day simply to keep posted as to what is going on in the world, and to keep track of crop, weather and market conditions.

¶ That is why The Tri-Weekly Constitution fills such a distinct need in the Southern States and why it is so popular in every rural district south of the Mason and Dixon line.

¶ The average circulation of The Tri-Weekly Constitution is 107,000 copies per issue, making a total weekly issue of more than 300,000.

¶ The uniform subscription rate is $1.00 per year. There is not a name on the subscription list, except something less than 1,000 service copies, that is not a paid in advance subscription. This very low price for 156 issues of an up-to-date, every-other-day daily is so low as to almost maintain 100,000 circulation without the employment of the usual expensive circulation promotion methods.

¶ The approximate circulation of The Tri-Weekly Constitution by states is:

GEORGIA	34,040	TENNESSEE	3,040	ARKANSAS	2,020
VIRGINIA	1,300	ALABAMA	25,780	OKLAHOMA	580
NORTH CAROLINA	10,100	MISSISSIPPI	7,060	KENTUCKY	1,440
SOUTH CAROLINA	11,280	LOUISIANA	2,200	OTHER STATES	325
FLORIDA	3,480	TEXAS	5,080	TOTAL	107,725

¶ The advertising rate for The Tri-Weekly Constitution is 50c per agate line flat, or $7.00 an inch for the three issues of each week. Advertising is accepted only for the three consecutive issues without change.

¶ On account of the extent and range of its circulation, over thirteen states, it is especially adaptable to national advertising, of which it carries a larger volume than any other similar publication in the south.

¶ More than half of the advertising it prints is "keyed," enabling advertisers to check exactly the number of inquiries or the amount of the sale of merchandise each advertisement in each issue produces. Because of these provable results, The Tri-Weekly Constitution has for many years been generally known as one of the half dozen best advertising mediums in the United States for the lines of advertising for which it is adaptable.

¶ ANY CONCERN WITH DEALER DISTRIBUTION COVERING THE SOUTH CAN REACH 500,000 PEOPLE, THREE TIMES EACH CALENDAR WEEK, THROUGH A MEDIUM THAT IS POPULARLY KNOWN AMONG ITS READERS AS "THE GEORGIA BIBLE."

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

"THE STANDARD SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER"

The Yellow Jackets settled down to hard scrimmage work yesterday afternoon in preparation for the game with Mercer on Saturday, more definite line on the Jackets can be gained then.

:: Jackets Getting Ready for Mercer ::

WHIFFS

Worry Ceases.

TECH supporters have ceased to worry over the Tech team. They have considered the team a good one for some time, weak only on the left side of the line. The worry over this part of the machine has now ceased with the advent of Hugh Mauck at left tackle. Mauck's 6 feet 5 inches and 225 pounds of muscle has effectually plugged up any hole that may have prevailed in the Jackets' line thus far this season. The big athlete ought to be one of the stars of the football season.

Weaker at Vandy.

DESPITE glowing reports from Nashville that the Vanderbilt Commodores would be strong this year, interviews printed in the Nashville papers with Coach McGuigin are to the effect that the Commodores are now weaker this year than last. McGuigin wisely sums the matter up with the statement that any team that loses Hardage and Collins from the backfield is certain to be weaker at least its first season, the players of their caliber are not developed in a season.

The Strong Point.

MAUCK'S acquisition unquestionably strengthens the team. Not alone because he is such a big man, but because of his willingness and that whenever he engages in any form of athletic endeavor he keeps training religiously by his self-denial of the men he is associated with do the same. Mauck will lend a moral as well as physical aid to the Jackets.

Down at Auburn.

AT AUBURN, Mike Donahue is working as quietly as usual, but we get the tip from fans who have seen the Auburn team in action and who have been on the field during a football practice, that the Alabama Polys are "there," with a capital T. One man said: "In all my football experience, I never saw so much enthusiasm as in the practice field of a southern college." And this man is a football star of note and one who knows.

The Dark Horse

DOPESTERS who are picking Vanderbilt or Auburn or some other college to win the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association football title this year had better cast their optics in the direction of Knoxville, Tenn. By grapevine correspondence we are given to understand that Coach Clavender has a good team at the University of Tennessee this year, one that is going to be heard from when fully developed. In fact, the correspondents in Knoxville believe the Vols team will be as good as the one that gave Vanderbilt a run for the title a few years ago.

Over at Athens.

GEORGIA will be in the hunt also. You can put that in your little pipe, Jean back and whiff it. Coach Cunningham is working quietly and, most of, all, slowly. He has the material, so he is learned his lesson last season, so he is developing it slowly, as was the case in Virginia. Tech and Auburn games. When those two Georgia will be at the top of their stride. In the embryo state of the team, when we looked them over a week ago, it looked mighty promising. When the product is finished, we expect to see Georgia give them all a run for it. If they do not, they will disappoint.

In Prep Ranks.

THE WAY Gordon, Riverside and the Georgia Military academy teams are running up scores against the district agricultural schools denotes considerable strength among the prodigal old rivals and when they meet, prep school football fans should see some of the classiest football they have ever had the pleasure of witnessing. We have not seen any of the three in action, but reports are mighty encouraging from the three camps.

Will Make Trouble.

VIRGINIA seems set to make trouble for the majority of the southern colleges this season. The coaching staff at Lottesville have a wealth of material on hand this year and, together a machine that will have real power, weight and speed. Eight old men back and some mighty stiff material for coaches plenty of opportunity. If Virginia does not make a good showing this year, it never will.

On the Mountain.

SEWANEE furnished a problem for discussion this week. Reports from the mountain to date have been meager that nothing cannot get a real line on the prospects. It is safe to say, however, that always have a team that escapes and escapes hard before they have good material. Leave the rest to Harris Cupe, if the material is there. He'll get the results.

Line on Strength.

AFTER the games Saturday between Tech and Mercer, Georgia and Auburn and Tennessee and Sewanee, southern football fans will be able to get a line on most of the southern intercollegiate elevens, only from the comparative score table is the best to be had. Undoubtedly, it will have to be taken as a criterion of the teams' strength.

KNOCKOUT BROWN LOSES TO FRANKIE RUSSELL

New Orleans, October 14.—Frankie Russell, of New Orleans, had the better of six rounds of a ten-round no-decision bout with Knockout Brown, of New Orleans tonight. Brown won one round, the ninth, by a shade and the others were even. Brown could not solve Russell's defense though he forced matters at times. As a result of Russell's superior infighting Brown was badly battered.

Jackets' Stock Rises Again; Hole in Line Is Plugged Up; Mauck to Play Left Tackle

The stock of the Tech Yellow Jackets for the greatest football season has taken another rise until it is now rated about par. The one hole in the machine has been effectually plugged up.

Hugh Mauck, the giant athlete, whom Atlanta fans will remember as center of the Fifth Regiment basketball team for the past three seasons, has matriculated at the school and is out for the football team.

Mauck is a veritable white hope. He weighs 225 pounds and is 6 feet 5 inches tall, and strong as an ox. For a man of his build and heft he is remarkably fast and should prove a tower of strength to the Jackets.

Mauck has had some football experience, being the star lineman of the Stone Mountain eleven a few years back. Since then he has been working in Atlanta. Being desirous of rising in the commercial world, Mauck is taking a commercial course at Tech.

Mauck Stops Hole.

The Jackets' backfield of Patten, McDonald, Cook and Reese has received the O. K. of the coach. The right side of the line, with Means at guard, Nance at tackle and Cushman at end, has also been O. K.'d.

Tang at left guard and Preas at left end has also O. K.'d, but Rainey, between them, while an earnest, energetic, willing player was too light for the position, and he has been considered the hole. Mauck will fill this gap and should do it well.

Mauck will hardly be in condition to play against Mercer on Saturday, but should round to in time to take the trip to Florida the following Saturday.

With the acquisition of Mauck the permanent lineup of the Jackets has been settled about settled, though, of course, the other players on the varsity squad will be kept there and used as subs throughout the entire season.

The Lineup.

E. and T. Montague, Fielder, Smith, Lucas, Reifsnider and Thomason will be in the backfield subs, was to-day will be ends as well. Trawick, Alexander, Gorse, Rainey, Divine, Spence, Smead and Beard are the sub linemen. There are also some others who are showing promise whose names are not remembered at this writing.

Coach Heisman put the Jackets to work with a vengeance yesterday afternoon. A long signal drill and a scrimmage of three periods followed in. This will be the program for today and Thursday. Friday will be given over entirely to signals.

Saturday the Mercer Baptists will play the Jackets at Grant field, and there is sure to be a merry battle.

VANDY STAR

AMI SIKES,
Vanderbilt backfield star, on whom the Commodores depend for their forward pass feature this year.

300 Mercer Students Will Attend Game With Jackets At Grant Field Saturday

Georgia Tech, received a long distance telephone call Tuesday morning from Professor Edenfield, of Mercer university, requesting reservation for 300 Mercer students for the game here Saturday between the Jackets and the Baptists at Grant Field.

The Mercer boys are coming to root for their team in the game with their old-time rivals. Professor Bandin mailed a batch of tickets to Professor Edenfield last night.

Reports from Macon are to the effect that Mercer is working hard particularly on defensive pattern with which they hope to successfully stop the Yellow Jackets.

Alabama Students Will Be Given Holiday for Georgia

Tuscaloosa, Ala., October 14.—(Special.)—A holiday has been declared by the University of Alabama faculty for the student body to attend the football game in Birmingham next Saturday with the University of Georgia.

The student body has availed itself of the privilege, and have chartered a special train, which will leave here in the morning, arriving in Birmingham shortly after noon. Every student has signified his intention of going to the game and root for the Red and White.

PIRATES BEATEN BY NAPLANDERS

"Babe" Adams Hammered While Steen Holds Pirates Safely—McQuillan Hurls Brilliantly.

Pittsburg, October 14.—The Cleveland Americans took the first game and deciding game of the inter-city series, defeating the Pittsburg Nationals, 4 to 2, this afternoon. The official attendance was 2,933 and receipts $2,135.50.

Adams was batted for six hits in three innings, but McQuillan, who replaced him, did not allow a hit and only nineteen batsmen faced him. Steen was steady, except in the second inning, when three hits gave Pittsburg its only run.

ALL ONE-DAY FLIGHT RECORDS ARE BROKEN

Johannisthal, Germany, October 14. Viktor Stoeffler today beat all records for a day's flight in an airship by flying 1,060 miles in 15 hours. He continued his flight with the intention of carrying off the prize offered by the administration of the National Aviation association for the greatest 24-hour flight of the season. The previous record was 1,030 miles, made on August 2 by Eugene Gilbert, the French aviator.

Athletics Would Have Been Easy for Old Chicago Team Says Captain "Pop" Anson

Washington, October 14.—Too much is being made of the world's champions, the Philadelphia Athletics, in the opinion of Adrian C. Anson, who declared today that his old Chicago pennant winning team of a quarter of a century ago could easily have defeated the present title-holders. "Pop" Anson was captain of the Chicago aggregation in the eighties when that team won six pennants.

"The Athletics are a fine playing aggregation," he said, "but I had my old Chicago team with the same team they have. Could they beat them by a good margin. Could they? Why, I'd back Bresnahan and Plank? Sure they could! None of the pitchers of today is equal to such as Clarkson, Goldsmith, Larry Cochran and Charlie Ferguson."

Former Captain Anson likewise declined to acknowledge that such fielders as Cobb or Speaker could be placed in the same class with Bill Lange, and he challenged the production of any present-day catchers the equals of Buck Ewing or Mike Kelly.

CLASS B LEAGUES WANT LONGER DRAFTING TIME

Chicago, October 14.—The Three I league may lead a crusade of class B organizations to obtain a five-day extension of the draft period as the result of a movement started informally at the league's annual meeting today. It was said a resolution suggesting such a change to the National Association of Minor Leagues might be passed. "Al" Tierney overrode the opposition and was re-elected president.

RALPH ROSE MAKING FIGHT FOR HIS LIFE

World's Champion Shot Putter Has Been Stricken With Typhoid Fever.

San Francisco, October 14.—Ralph Rose, world champion shot putter, is fighting for life in a hospital here against typhoid fever, with which he was stricken some days ago.

"His condition is not nearly as good as it might be, and I consider it a very serious case," said the attending physician today. "It will be from four days to a week before the crisis will be reached, and I can only say that Rose is taking the disease very hard."

SOPHS AND JUNIORS WIN OPENING GAME AT EMORY COLLEGE

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., October 14.—Sophomore-Junior football season has opened and the standing is:

	Played.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Sophomores.	1	1	0	1.000
Juniors.	1	1	0	1.000
Seniors.	1	0	1	.000
Freshmen.	1	0	1	.000

The sophomores piled up a victory over the freshmen by the score of 19 to 0 in the first game of the season this afternoon, and in the second game the juniors barely secured a victory over the seniors, the final score being 6 to 5.

The lid for the season was opened by a bomb, as both games were rough, with every man fighting with all his force.

In the first quarter the "freshies" lost their only chance to score when the sophs held them for downs on the 1-yard line. After this the freshmen seemed to weaken and were rolled back time and again. Rumble secured two touchdowns and Sanderanz one. McCord kicked goals, but failed in two more attempts. Rumble, for the sophs, put a great dropkield game, and Bondurant made good gains.

The juniors went into the game with an apparent good edge, but came out with more strings tied onto victory. The seniors matched all over the field during the three quarters on straight football, but were powerless before the backs, and Saxon carrying the ball being the only one to make any real runs.

Perfect of the juniors, made a touchdown in the first two minutes of play and promptly kicked goal. In the second quarter the seniors carried the pig skin across for a touchdown, but failed to kick goal. It between the bars for a goal.

Saxon played a great game for the seniors and was the whole team. Porter, of the juniors, played the great game for his eleven.

HARRY LEWIS MAY HAVE CONCUSSION OF BRAIN

Philadelphia, October 14.—Harry Lewis, claimant of the welter-weight championship, who received what was believed to have been a concussion of the brain in his fight with "Jack" Borrell, at Philadelphia last night, was reported today to be a "very sick man." Lewis was taken to his home and the physician stopped the bout in the fifth round. While Lewis' condition is serious, physicians say he is not critical. Later in the day Lewis' handlers became so worried that members of his family assembled at his bedside.

Lewis' opponent, Referee Frank O'Brien and the four seconds who attended the two fighters were arrested but released on $500 bail. Mc-Guigan said he did not believe Lewis' injuries were received last night. He stated that Lewis, who recently returned from a trip abroad, was in an automobile in London and serious accident. McGuigan owns a boxing club.

ATHLETICS RECEIVE THEIR SERIES MONEY

Philadelphia, October 14.—Twenty-six checks were distributed here today by John K. Brush, secretary of the National Baseball commission, to the officials and players of the Philadelphia American league ball club as the first share of this world series money.

The club receives a check of $69,332.79, of which $10,000 had been put up as a forfeit to comply with the rules of the series. This was the net amount after 25 per cent had been deducted from the clubs' total which will be turned over to President Johnson, of the league, for distribution to the other seven American league clubs.

Each of the twenty-five players eligible to compete in the series received $2,242.94.

SOX PERSONNEL NOT ANNOUNCED AS YET

Chicago, October 14.—The roster of the American league ball players who will travel on the "round the world" tour with the New York Giants and other National leaguers, was not completed today, as Secretary Graham of the White Sox expected it would be. It is likely a dozen members of the Sox will go, however, and a number of others are expected.

COMMODORES SHOW MANY WEAKNESSES

Lack of Team Work, Faulty Play of New Forwards and Clumsy Efforts of Backfield Causing Worry.

By Paul W. Treanor.

Nashville, Tenn., October 14.—(Special.)—Four glaring weaknesses in Vanderbilt's defensive and offensive play manifested themselves Saturday in the Central game and served to further disheartern the gold and black supporters, who had hoped that the eleven would have begun to get on edge.

The faulty work of the new forwards, the absolute lack of teamwork, the clumsy efforts both at carrying the ball and defensive blocking of Floyd, McQueen and Henry at right half and the pressing need of a reserve quarterback, all stood out in the cold contrast to the magnificent line plunging of Sikes and the all-around smashing work of Captain Brown at right end.

Murray made a bungling effort to plug up the big hole at left tackle, made vacant by the ruling out of Josh Cody by the S. I. A. A., which left scarcely to have sounded the death knell of the Commodore's hopes for a strong line. Murray try hard as he may, looks helpless at getting the knack of tackle play and will be faced only an ordinary man in Roman, of the Central eleven, he was repeatedly hoxed out of the way and wagon width holes were opened up through him, through which the Central backs ploughed for steady gains.

No Reserves.

In former years the Commodore hosts have been recruited from the eleven's reserve strength, but 1911 and 1912 not only will our regulars substitutes but on the other hand, many of the regulars on hand could not be made last year's scrub team.

At right half neither Floyd, McQueen nor Henry showed any ability at hitting the line, and the latter was the only Commodore who seemed able to effectively block the fast Central backs. Sikes and Turner rarely failed to respond to the demand for gains, but someone must be found as a running mate for their pair, since brilliant as they are, they cannot be expected to bear the brunt of every gridiron battle, especially considering the punishment they are certain to receive when they attempt to crack the big sleeving lines.

Boensch's work at quarter was a brilliant exhibition of quarterback running. He was quick to diagnose the weakness of the enemy and his selection of plays showed excellent judgment. Had Boensch been substituted for him, made such a miserable showing that McGuigan was forced to send Boensch back into the game. Even with the ball in Vanderbilt's possession, Morrison by his bungling and wretched attempts at quarterback runs, constantly lost ground, so much so that when Boensch returned to the game, the Commodores were in the shadow of the black and gold goal posts. There is always the danger of Boensch being hurt up on account of his light weight and slender frame in which he continually exposes himself while carrying the ball.

McGuigin has personally taken charge of Preston, who formerly played at quarter for Mooney, and is putting the boy through vigorous coaching in an effort to make a finished assistant for Boensch.

YELLOW JACKETS MAY PLAY CUBAN ELEVENS

If the management of the Tech football team and the American club at Havana, Cuba, have completed negotiations looking to the Jackets taking a trip to the island along about Christmas time for a couple of games, this will be a great trip for the boys and will serve as a fine advertisement for the school, both athletically and educationally.

MISS CURTIS LOSES

American Golf Champ. Defeated by Miss Caroline Painter.

Wilmington, Del., October 14.—The surprise of the day in the golf tournament for the women's national golf championship over the course of the Wilmington club was the defeat of Miss Dorothy Curtis, the former and present American champion. She was defeated by Miss Caroline Painter, of the Midlothian club, Chicago, by one up.

Miss Painter has twice held the women golf championship. A large gallery followed the pair. The wind bothered both players and each had a total of one hundred strokes for the nine holes. In the opening round yesterday Miss Curtis made the 18 holes in 81 and Miss Painter in 104.

Miss Muriel Dodd, the British and Canadian champion, easily won her match from Miss Edith Asbjorn, of Wilmington. All the other foreign players matched against Americans won their games.

RUSSELL A BENEDICT

White Sox Twirler Marries Cousin of Fellow Twirler.

Chicago, October 14.—Albert "Rebel" Russell, of Bonham, Texas, and one of the star pitchers of the Chicago Americans, was married today to Miss Charlotte Benz, of Indianapolis, a cousin of Joe Benz, another of the team's twirlers.

BASKETBALL TEAM IN FIFTH REGIMENT

The Fifth Regiment Basketball league was organized for the present season at a meeting in the offices of the colonel last night, at which representatives of the different military organizations were present.

The meeting was in charge of the secretary of the league, L. O. Grice, and was called at the request of Captain J. W. Quillian, director of athletics of the regiment.

Lieutenant R. V. Anderson, one of the strongest players connected with amateur sports in Atlanta, was chosen president, and the date of the first game set for Friday, November 17, at 8:45 p. m.

Eight teams constitute the league. Double games will be played on each Friday night, beginning on the evening on October 22. The season will close on the 28th of February, with seven games for each team. A championship series of three games will then be played by the two leading teams.

It was decided to close the season before the end of the present year so that the regimental league would in no way conflict with the Atlanta league, which is due to open its season December 31.

Six companies of the Fifth Regiment entered teams in the league—Companies E, F, G, H, I and K. Troop L entered two teams. It is evident that the rivalry which will exist between these teams will be far above that of last season, when a five-cornered series was certain.

The basketball court and other apparatus is being overhauled and everything put into shape for the opening of the season.

THORPE A BENEDICT

Famous Indian Athlete Married Miss Miller Tuesday.

Carlisle, Pa., October 14.—James Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian of Oklahoma, athlete and member of the New York National league baseball team, was married here today to Margaret A. Miller, a native of Oklahoma and former student at the Carlisle Indian school, where Thorpe attended.

The bridegroom was attended by Capt. Gus Welch, of the Indian football team, and the bride was given honor was Miss Margaret Chiloholm, of Oklahoma.

PING BODIE GETS $600 DESPITE THAT STEIN

Chicago, October 14.—Ping Bodie, the Chicago Americans' noted batter, found his final pay envelope waiting for him at the training quarters here. He was discovered by Manager Callahan in the lobby of the St. Louis hotel last summer.

Bodie's contract included a stipulation that he must refrain from drinking beer during the season, and $600 of his annual salary and his consuming of beer was a technical violation of the terms. Pleased with the player's showing, Manager Callahan remitted the fine.

Bodie is grateful he pledged himself tonight never to drink again during the playing season.

CONSTITUTION PRAISED BY TEACHERS OF FLOYD

Rome, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Teachers of the county schools of Floyd county in the county's floyd County Teachers' association, with Miss Madelene Wyly and Lindale, as president; Miss Lola P. Dowdle, of Rome, as secretary. Meetings will be held monthly and much improvement is announced as the object of the association.

The first endeavor of the association will be to see that all school houses are painted inside and out, and that the people in the community are encouraged to use the school house as a social center for meetings and entertainments.

The efforts of The Atlanta Constitution in behalf of the teachers of Georgia's common schools were endorsed unanimously commended at the first meeting.

CUTHBERT IS BECOMING BIG CONVENTION CITY

Cuthbert, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Cuthbert is to be a big convention city. The Georgia Agriculturists' association held its annual meeting last August and two other great gatherings are scheduled for here.

The Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will meet here October 15 and 16 and 30. The banquet, the reception and the meeting will all be given at Andrew college and all the business sessions will be held in the college auditorium. The United Daughters of the Confederacy and Sons of Veterans will entertain for the visitors. Two hundred or more delegates are expected.

The Georgia Students' Missionary league will meet here two hundred or more young men and women from the colleges of the state, will be the guest of Andrew college on November 7, 8 and 9.

YEGGMAN DRAWS PISTOL WHEN NABBED BY COPS

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—With a master key and a revolver in his pockets, George A. Clark, believed to be a dangerous yeggman, was taken into custody by the Savannah police early this morning. Clark drew his revolver and showed fight when the patrolmen went to arrest him. The patrolmen clubbed him and were able to get him to the police station.

"I am one of the Mac," said Clark when arrested. "Don't ask me for many questions. I am not in a condition to talk. I might trip."

ELLIOTT DENT GOES BACK TO HIS HOME

Elliott Dent, the big right-hander of the Crackers, has decided not to spend the winter in Atlanta after all, but will leave today for Oakley, Md., to spend the winter with his parents on their big farm there.

Dent will return to Atlanta in time for the spring training season next year, and hopes to aid the Crackers in winning another pennant.

TALE FROM DICKENS IS USED BY JUDGE TO WARN SPEEDERS

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—In his charge to the Clarke county grand jury Judge Brand this morning brought tears to many eyes in reading the story in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," of the little street child run over by the speed gentleman's carriage. He recalled the dagger thrust into the heart of the grand gentleman in the night by the father of the little street child, too, and applied the story to the possibilities of the recklessness and criminal carelessness of automobile drivers. Judge Brand gave a strong warning against the violations, said to be very prevalent, of the several provisions of the state automobile law.

HIGHER FARES WANTED BY STREET RAILROADS

Atlantic City, October 14.—Fares must be increased if street railway companies meet the public's present-day demands for service, according to George H. Harries, of Louisville, president of the American Electric Railway association, at the convention of that organization and its allied bodies here today. Unless fares are increased, Harries declared, there will be a succession of more or less destructive experiences, resulting, on the one hand, from forcing the car riding public beyond the possibilities of reasonable economy, conscientious function, arbitrary and unreasonable service requirements, and growing cost of construction and maintenance, and, on the other hand, the fixed or rather the diminishing fare.

Chief Wood, one of the arbitrators in the recent dispute between the city of Cleveland and the Cleveland Railway company, declared that low fares in the Ohio city were being maintained only at a sacrifice of service.

FARM AGENTS ADJOURN MEETING AT TIFTON

Tifton, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The fourth of the farm demonstrators of south Georgia adjourned this afternoon after a most interesting and profitable session. The feature of today's session was an address by Prof. E. R. Lake, director of the national department of agriculture, on crop rotation and winter legumes. State Agent J. Phil Campbell talked on demonstration, preparation of the soil, seeding and fertilization and gave the agents further instructions on their weekly reports. This was the closing session of the district. It is being customary for the agents to meet twice in the spring and once in the fall.

SAVANNAH TO PAY $6,000 TO HEAR OPERA SINGERS

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—While it will cost the music loving public of Savannah $6,000 to hear grand opera singers during the May festival next spring, the members of the Music club are confident they can raise this amount. Nearly $2,000 of it has already been pledged. The program as outlined is for three concerts. Negotiations are being carried on with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company. A guarantee fund of $6,000 is being raised in Savannah conferring with officials of Coosa River Very Low.

Rome, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The Coosa river is low—so low that it has been for several years—and unless the rainfall for October is greater than it has been during recent months the steamboats will not run to Rome and Gadsden will have to abandon regular schedules. Steamers have been between Rome and Gadsden for more than 30 years, and only once during all that time has low water prevented the maintenance of a regular schedule.

SOLDIERS PLAY DAHLONEGA HERE

Fast Game Is Booked for Ft. McPherson Saturday Afternoon — Admission Will Be Free.

The Seventeenth infantry football team will line up against the Dahlonega team at Fort McPherson Saturday afternoon, in what promises to be a hard-fought battle.

The game will start promptly at 3 o'clock, and no admission fee will be charged. Those that desire seats will find them on sale at the post for 50 cents. If they wish to stand up to witness the game it will cost them absolutely nothing, as no admission fee to any events can be charged on government ground.

The Seventeenth team has been making wonderful strides under the coaching of Lieutenant Devore, but they are having trouble arranging games throughout the south. Their prowess has preceded them, and the college teams do not care to tackle them.

GIANTS MUST DIVIDE WORLD'S SERIES PROFIT

New York, October 14.—One-quarter of the New York National league club's share of the 1913 world series gate receipts must be turned over to the other seven clubs of the league, according to announcement made tonight on behalf of an arbitration board appointed to act on the Giants' protest against the national commission's rule last year stipulating this.

Under the rule the New York club is compelled to surrender also one-fourth of the receipts of the postseason games just ended. The amount to be thus divided are $26,000 from last year and $28,000 this year.

The Boston Americans in 1912 did not dispute the national commission's ruling and divided $25,000 among the other clubs of their league, and the Athletics are expected to apportion $20,000 within a few days.

GEORGE DUNCAN WINS FRENCH GOLF TITLE

Chantilly, France, October 14.—George Duncan, the Hanging Gaster, well known in the United States, today won the French open golf championship. He made the four rounds of the eighteen-hole course in 304 strokes.

Commutation for Rapist.

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Judge Brand this morning reduced the sentence of Ed Watkins, a negro man convicted and sentenced for rape, from life to ten years. Electricity was sent up some time ago and has been used in the state. It is alleged the negro is of extremely weak mind and there was other extenuating circumstances, the woman being one of his own race. To reduce a sentence after the convict has been serving a considerable time is a very unusual, if not unprecedented, feature of the case, it is said.

GOVERNOR COMMUTES SENTENCE OF OLIVER

Being Known as "White Man's Negro" Saves Life of DeKalb County Darky.

Yielding to what seemed to be the almost unanimous wish of the white people of DeKalb county, the governor yesterday commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of George Oliver, a negro, who was to have been hanged on Friday, October 24, for the killing of another negro.

While the evidence in the case conclusively showed murder in the first degree, the governor was much impressed by the fact that the condemned man was given such a good character by the white people among whom he lived. He was known among the people of his race as a "white man's" negro, and for that reason was unpopular with them. All the witnesses against him at the trial were of his own color and their testimony was more than likely to have been biased.

Governor's Statement.

In a statement issued by the governor in connection with the commutation of sentence, he says:

"No more remarkable scene has occurred in Georgia than this hearing occasioned. Between sixty and one hundred white citizens of DeKalb county, headed by the congressman of the district, a member of the legislature, the sheriff and officers of the county and the clerk of the superior court left their business and came before me in behalf of a poor, helpless negro, lying in jail under sentence of death. These citizens represent the best thought and civilization of our state. They lived in the community where the crime was committed and knew the witness and local conditions.

"These gentlemen urge as the reason for commutation the lack of malice on the part of the negro and his previous good character. In fact, they suggest that his possession of the uniform and continuous good will of the white people had earned for him the enmity of many negroes, and had colored the testimony of the witnesses against him, all of whom were of his race. The old father of the dead man testifies to defendant's good character and asks for clemency.

Emphasizes Good Character.

"The negro is a charge upon the conscience and thought of the southern white men. Among them he finds his best friends and all that is demanded of him is good behavior and a recognition of his position. What a dramatic emphasis is placed upon the value of good character by this appeal for clemency by stern, law-enforcing men, whom neither money nor power could influence.

"They say the defendant was hard-working, law-abiding, peace-loving, obedient and they pleaded a life of good conduct as against the impulse of a moment that menaces him with the gallows. The lesson, if heeded his color, may produce an infinitely better result than the execution of the stern sentence of the law."

The prison board had declined to recommend clemency in the case.

TWENTY-TWO EXAMINED TO PRACTICE MEDICINE

Fourteen white and eight negro applicants to the privilege of practicing "doctor" to their names took the first examination given by the new state board of medical examiners yesterday. The examination was held in the hall of the house of representatives, with Dr. O. B. Walker, of Bowman, a member of the board, in charge.

At a recent meeting of the board to effect organization and to prepare for the examination, the following officers were elected: Dr. J. W. Palmer, of Ailey, president; Dr. A. Fleming, vice president; Dr. C. T. Nolan, of Marietta, secretary and treasurer. Other members of the boards are Dr. L. M. Ridley, of LaGrange; Dr. F. D. Patterson, of Cuthbert; Dr. O. B. Walker of Bowman; Dr. A. L. White, of Plovilla, and Dr. C. M. Payne, of Atlanta.

All of the men who took the examination Tuesday had received their training in the regular school of medicine, and only one set of questions was necessary.

MANY FORMER PASTORS TO PREACH AT ST. PAUL'S

Rev. B. F. Fraser, pastor of St. Paul Methodist church, will formally receive into the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock a big class of the new members who applied for admission during the great revival that closed Sunday.

Plans are going forward for the dedication of the St. Paul church next Sunday morning when Bishop Collins Denny of Virginia will preach. Among the former pastors who are expected to be present are Rev. H. L. Edmondson, of Newnan, who will preach the evening service; Rev. B. O. England, of Monticello; Rev. S. R. Dimon, of Milledgeville; Rev. W. Dunbar, of Winder; Rev. J. M. Bowden, of Decatur; Rev. W. W. Brinsfield, of St. James church, Atlanta; Rev. M. L. Underwood, of Lakewood Heights, Atlanta, and Rev. J. R. King, of Griffin.

STREET CARS TO RUN ON IVY STREET AGAIN

Beginning Wednesday, October 15, street car service will be resumed on Ivy street between Auburn avenue and the junction of Ivy and Peachtree streets. The cars of the Pine street and the Piedmont avenue lines will go back on Ivy on this date and run on their former routes instead of using a part of Peachtree street.

Cars of the Pine street and the Piedmont avenue lines were taken off of Ivy street several months ago to permit the work of the city in raising the grade along that thoroughfare. This work is practically completed now and the Georgia Railway and Power company has been notified by the city authorities that its service may be resumed without interference with the remainder of the grading work.

COTTON IS LOWER 16 TO 20 POINTS

Easier Liverpool Cables and Favorable Weather in South for Picking and Marketing Were Factors.

New York, October 14.—The cotton market made new low ground for the movement during today's trading with January contracts selling off to 12.48 or 26 points below the close of last Saturday and $5.00 per bale under the high records established just over the publication of the official October condition figures. Liverpool cables, favorable weather for picking and marketing in the south and talk of easier eastern bill upon the markets, appeared to be the factors responsible for continued liquidation and scattering pressure. Slight rallies occurred at times during the day, and there seemed to be a considerable demand for declines, but business tapered off on advances, and while the close was steady, last prices were 16 to 26 points net lower.

There had been some apprehension on Saturday that this morning's weather news might show frosts in the belt over the two days' period were not, but no temperatures low enough to cause new crop injury were reported, and there seemed to be a lot of selling orders around the room at the start. The opening was 10 to 16 points lower, and active months sold 12 to 21 points net lower during the first few minutes.

A rally of 8 or 9 points followed on private predictions that the temperature reported in the Pacific northwest would be cause for frost within the next two or three days, but the market received no aggressive report and soon eased off under the continued liquidation, southern selling and local pressure.

As prices broke through the early high level a few short covering was covered and active months sold about 20 to 27 points net lower during the afternoon. There was some trading on the decline, and it was said that spinners were calling cotton on a scale down.

Otherwise, however, the buying appeared to be chiefly confined to recent sales and slight rallies were barely maintained.

Domestic mill consumption for the month of September, as reported by the census bureau, was 17,000 bales of last year, and mill stocks at the end of September were smaller than last season, but the prevailing statistical position seemed to be opposed by the increasing new crop receipts.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, October 14.—The cotton market had a rather easy undertone throughout today's session, with prices broke to new low levels for the present reactionary movement, the spot cotton off a pound down from the highest of the season. December and January worked below the 13 cent level. There was much profit taking by shorts and local and trade interest at the lowest levels and several times during the day brought about rallying returns, which were not well sustained. Bulls were not aggressive and did not take advantage of features that favored them.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 4 points, on poor cables and the good weather map. After selling off steadily from 13 to 15 points, the market reacted within 5 to 6 points of the early high level. Later the market fell off again and toward noon showed 20 points net lower for the afternoon, prices at the close were steady, 22 to 24 points net lower.

The weather reports indicated that warm and dry weather was prevailing over the belt. The lack of frost over the holidays, as the result of the warm spell that passed over the belt, was the real cause for the bulk of the selling orders early in the day.

A bullish feature of the day, that caused a momentary upturn, was the census bureau report on consumption of the season, putting the consumption at 490,000 bales during September at 468,870 bales against 488,181 the same month last year.

Dry Goods.

New York, October 14.—Cotton goods and cotton yarns were quiet and slightly easier today on some grades, as a consequence of the easier tone in raw cotton. Sales were fair for fall wash in better demand during the day. Silks have been bought well by the western jobbing trade for spring.

Bagging and Ties.

WHEAT TUMBLES LOWEST OF YEAR

Sharp Decline in Liverpool and Crop Reports From Argentina Sent Prices in Chicago Down.

Chicago, October 14.—Wheat prices tumbled today to the lowest points of the year on this year's crop. Bearish cables were what chiefly smashed the market and left the close nervous, 2¼ to 2¾c lower. Corn showed a net loss of ⅝@⅞c to ¾c and oats a drop of 1 to 1¼c. In provisions the outcome varied from 17½c decline to an advance of 2½c.

Bears seized control of wheat right at the start. The Liverpool market had undergone a sharp setback, owing to heavy shipments from the Black sea, and because of increased selling pressure from Argentina. In addition, the crop reports from Argentina continued to be of a flattering character. Visible supplies, both Canadian and domestic, made big gains and thus formed an additional weight on prices. The Canadian visible, too, exhibited an increase although it was somewhat scant. Finishing of receipts northwest and talk of Manitoba wheat were current that rural elevators were filled to the limit, hinting that accumulations would have to be shipped to terminal cities.

Corn suffered from the bearish effect of reports pointing out declines in corn at the seaboard and because of heavy Manitoba receipts. Generally fine weather of the last few days was a further strong cut to speculative activity on the selling side. Kansas dispatches told of pastures in splendid condition with feeding demand likely to be insufficient to absorb them.

Oats sagged with corn and wheat. A sharp enlargement of the visible supply total hindered any effort at a rally.

Weakness in coarse grain, as well as in the hog market, deprived provision dealers of any life, and consequent turns could be forced. Packers unloaded, especially lard.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, October 14.—As the cooler weather and killing frost, the offerings from the Atlantic seaboard on Sunday were very light. In fact the merchants of those states feel that the selling for the season of heavy shipments from the Black sea, and because of increased selling pressure from Argentina continues to be of a flattering character. Visible supplies, both Canadian and domestic, made big gains and thus formed an additional weight on prices. The Canadian visible, too, exhibited an increase although it was somewhat scant. Finishing of receipts northwest and talk of Manitoba wheat were current that rural elevators were filled to the limit, hinting that accumulations would have to be shipped to terminal cities.

Corn suffered from the bearish effect of reports pointing out declines in corn at the seaboard and because of heavy Manitoba receipts. Generally fine weather of the last few days was a further strong cut to speculative activity on the selling side. Kansas dispatches told of pastures in splendid condition with feeding demand likely to be insufficient to absorb them.

Oats sagged with corn and wheat. A sharp enlargement of the visible supply total hindered any effort at a rally.

Weakness in coarse grain, as well as in the hog market, deprived provision dealers of any life, and consequent turns could be forced. Packers unloaded, especially lard.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, October 14.—The weather in the west was good today, and there was a good deal of liquidation in corn. The government report on the condition figured Liverpool was lower than due and Argentine cables were bearish. The receipts of corn close was steady at a net decline of 15 to 16 points. Liverpool is due to some 7 points down. The bulls are hoping for bad weather from now on. With the existing depression in financial circles the market is, however, pessimistic in tone and one hears few favorable views expressed, although all admit that the speculative trade is in an excellent condition, with stocks of everything everywhere. Spinners, both here and in Europe, continue to buy sparingly, and the trade generally believe the government crop condition for the season indicates a moderate crop and they buy when the pressure is on.

MRS. EATON ON TRIAL FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Defense Will Attempt to Show That Admiral Eaton Poisoned Himself.

Plymouth, Mass., October 14.—The twelve jurors before whom Mrs. Jennie May Eaton will be tried on the charge of murdering her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, a native of Alabama, at Assinippi last March by giving him arsenic, were chosen today in superior court.

The defendant showed the liveliest interest in the proceedings. When the jury was made up she sat back in her chair and nodded approval.

When court reopens tomorrow morning the indictment will be read and District Attorney Albert F. Barker will make a brief opening address for the state. Then the jury, accompanied by the district attorney, counsel for Mrs. Eaton, will board a special electric car to the Eaton home at Assinippi.

The trip is expected to occupy the greater part of the day.

The defense will attempt to show that the poison which caused the admiral's death was self administered. The government's case rests on the contention that Mrs. Eaton placed her husband poison with his meals.

While Mrs. Eaton has been confined in the Plymouth jail she has written a complete history of her life, from her marriage to the admiral in 1906. She has taken pains to tell the story connected with the jail and is in excellent health.

Mrs. Eaton reached court smiling. Her face had more color and was fuller than at the time of her arrest last March. She was dressed in black.

CONSPIRED TO DEFRAUD THROUGH USE OF MAILS

McDonald and Hendrey Convicted at Memphis and May Join Sims in Atlanta.

Memphis, Tenn., October 14.—J. M. McDonald, McAlester, Okla., and W. Churchman, of Indianapolis, and G. F. Tonges, of Chicago, were convicted today in the United States district court here late today of the charge of conspiring to defraud through the use of the mails in connection with the operation of the American Trust company, of Memphis, of which McDonald was president and Hendrey a director. F. H. Odle, Chicago, and O. E. Holton, Shattuck, Okla., indicted jointly with McDonald and Hendrey, were acquitted. The verdict was returned four hours after the case was given to the jury this afternoon after a trial lasting a week.

Failing to negotiate the $7,000 bond required, the two men convicted were remanded to the custody of the United States marshal. It is thought the payment of that bond will be arranged tomorrow morning.

Motion for New Trial.

A motion for a new trial, which will be argued next Saturday, was made to stay against the pronouncement of sentence. The maximum punishment possible is five years' imprisonment and a fine of $1,000 on each of the four counts.

Besides the four men, whose trials ended today, C. A. Bonds, of Kansas City; Dr. M. Sims, of Oklahoma, and W. Churchman, of Indianapolis, and G. F. Tonges, of Chicago, were originally charged with misuse of the mails as officers of the American Trust, which turned its affairs over to the Ali Night and Day bank, of which Bonds and Hendrey was president, after an existence of about two years. Bonds, who went to Canada after his conviction some months ago on a similar charge as an officer of the Ali Night and Day bank, did not appear for trial in the case against the trust company officials. The charges against Churchman and Tonoges were dismissed on motion of United States District Attorney Casey Todd, who held that the evidence against them was insufficient to warrant trial.

Sims in Atlanta Prison.

Sims pleaded guilty when arrested last year and is now serving sentence in the United States prison here at Atlanta, Ga. He appeared as a witness for the prosecution in the present trials.

Besides today's conviction Hendrey was found guilty last year of conspiring with the operators of the Ali Night and Day bank and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, the sentence being held in abeyance pending the outcome of an appeal.

It was the contention of the government that the American Trust company was closely allied with the Ali Night and Day bank, of Ada, city, which, in turn, was alleged to have been one of a half dozen institutions which Night and Day banks established in several cities of Oklahoma and the west. In previous trials it was alleged by the government that the organization of the banks was part of a widespread scheme to defraud.

WAYCROSS PEOPLE WANT A DEMOCRAT FOR POSTMASTER

Waycross, Ga., October 14.—(Special.) Resolutions adopted by the Democratic district congressmen and the senators of Georgia in favor of the appointment as postmaster at Waycross without further delay were adopted by a meeting of citizens here tonight. The resolutions said that "to the victors belong the spoils."

The consideration of the resolutions was vigorously opposed by John W. Bennett, who contended that the resolution was out of order in as much as the call for the meeting stated that an executive committee for the city would be named and this committee alone further business. When the chairman, C. C. Dunn, left the question to the meeting, it was decided to ignore the resolutions and they were adopted.

Mr. Bennett offered as a substitute a resolution calling on President Wilson to observe the civil service rules declared, was for the best of the country.

MRS. MACKAY IS SUED BY DR. BLAKE'S WIFE

New York, October 14.—Counsel for Mrs. Katherine Blake, who recently sued her husband, Dr. Joseph A. Blake, prominent New York surgeon, for separation, obtained a preliminary order today permitting them to file a complaint and summons in a $1,000,000 suit against Mrs. Clarence Mackay for alleged alienation of Dr. Blake's affections.

Mrs. Mackay was served with papers in the suit some time ago, but it was not until today that the matter came into court.

MORTALLY WOUNDED HE SAVED COMRADE

Racine, Wis., October 14.—After having been mortally wounded while shooting ducks on Eagle lake today, Robert White, aged 19, rescued from drowning Walter Williams, a companion who had fallen overboard.

White's shotgun was accidentally discharged, inflicting a fatal wound. The shock threw young Williams overboard. White, despite his injury, crept forward in the boat and rescued Williams. White died a few hours later.

LAW AND ORDER FIGHT BEGINS IN TENNESSEE

Law Enforcement Forces Win Skirmishes in Both Houses of the Legislature.

Nashville, Tenn., October 14.—Law enforcement forces won skirmishes in both houses of the Tennessee legislature when the first business of the special session called by Governor Hooper was taken up here tonight.

Bills prohibiting the shipment of liquor into the state or from one county to another, authorizing removal of county and municipal officials for not enforcing the prohibition law and making saloons public nuisances to be abated by court were introduced in both houses. The anti-prohibition forces introduced similar bills on law enforcement, but the measures which they provide that in cities of more than 50,000 population the sale of liquor for prohibition, and in case non-prohibition cities that the sale should be allowed to continue business under strict regulations.

Both houses quiet and order prevailed. An attempt was made in the senate to reject on first reading the bill withholding the removal of officials for misfeasance in office, but the motion was lost. On the basis of a motion made to curtail the authority of Speaker Rye, who by rules may only recognize members of the body presented a vote on the anti-prohibition measure at the last session. A motion to continue under the old rules was lost by a vote of 53 to 37.

The fight over the authority from the speaker is expected to continue tomorrow, one of the main issues in the sessions in both house and senate were held under the old rules.

At 9:45 the houses adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

ALABAMA CITY PLANS WATERWORKS SYSTEM

Alabama City, Ala., October 14.—(Special.)—A new system of waterworks and sewers are to cost $100,000 to be completed in this city by February 1, 1914. When this system is completed Alabama City will be one of the most up-to-date sanitary cities in the south. The J. B. McCrary company, municipal engineers, of Atlanta, Ga., were contracted with to do this work.

Democrats Are Elected.

Wheeling, W. Va., October 14.—M. M. Neely, democrat, was elected to congress in the special election in the first district held today to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Rep. Joseph Rucker Lamar, democrat, general of the United States. J. G. Hellen, republican, was also defeated jointly with McDonald and Hendrey, were acquitted. The verdict was returned four hours after the case was given to the jury this afternoon after a trial lasting a week.

Failing to negotiate the $7,000 bond required, the two men convicted were remanded to the custody of the United States marshal. It is thought the payment of that bond will be arranged tomorrow morning.

Considerable interest is currently manifested in the possibility that the building of the former Guarantee Banking & Trust company, fronting 50 Atlanta Savings bank, just off Whitehall street, may be thrown on the market again.

The Atlanta National bank has brought suit for foreclosure on this property to cover paper which it has overdue from the defunct banking concern.

This property is located on the south side of Alabama street, in the Whitehall street block between Whitehall and Pryor streets, and is fronting about 50 feet, with a depth in the neighborhood of 100. There is a two-story banking building on the lot.

JUDGE SPEER IS READY TO CONFRONT ENEMIES

Ready to Appear Before Committee No Matter What It May Cost Him.

Mount Airy, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—That he will be ready and confront his enemies before the congressional committee whenever that body may desire it, no matter what it may cost him, was the statement made by Judge Speer today.

The judge passed a very comfortable day and took a short ride with friends, riding his favorite horse. His improvement since coming to Mount Airy is very encouraging to his family and friends.

His physician, Dr. Stevens L. Harris, of Highlands, N. C., gives out the following:

"Judge Speer was taken seriously ill a month ago at Highland, N. C., with symptoms pointing towards ptomaine poisoning, acute indigestion or indications of some pathological abdominal condition. His case has been marked by repeated exaggerations with intense suffering since the first attack at Highland and the present time. The distinguished patient seems to be rapidly improving. There is no doubt but that the charges to which he has been subjected have added gravity to his condition. Dr. L. H. Goss, of Athens, and Dr. H. R. Rodgers, of Mount Airy, have been in consultation."

CHIEF MUST BE TOLD OF LIQUOR SHIPMENTS

Rome, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—A unique experiment in prohibitory legislation, fathered by Seaborn Wright and passed unanimously by Rome's city council last night, requires a report of all liquor shipments in excess of one gallon, to be made to the chief of police and city clerk. The ordinance is somewhat similar to one passed in Atlanta a few months ago, but declared unconstitutional at that time. It embodies and localizes the famous Webb bill, and is entirely constitutional, says Mr. Wright.

In brief, the ordinance recites that any railroad, express company, common carrier or private individual bringing within the city limits more than one gallon of any intoxicant must, six hours prior to delivery to the consignee, notify the city clerk, in writing, of the consignee's name and address, the amount and kind of beverage contained in the package, etc. The city clerk is required to inform the chief of police within two hours, and matters are then left to the discretion of the officer. The ordinance declares all liquor shipments not so reported as ipso facto illegal.

CHURCH TRIAL ENDS IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. J. M. Pierce Too Familiar With Other Men in Parish Declares Husband.

Declaring that his wife and another man, whom he does not name, had been tried by the deacons of the Ponders Avenue Baptist church, and that the "good hand of fellowship" had been withdrawn by the church, Dr. J. M. Pierce, a dentist, in the Inman building, filed suit for divorce yesterday in superior court against Mrs. Susan B. Pierce.

The petition states that Mrs. Pierce has been cruel to the dentist, and has broken down his health by her actions. The dentist also declares that she had become infatuated with other men, and that he and her mother, Mrs. Timmons, had vainly remonstrated with her. Mrs. Timmons lived at the home of the dentist, according to the suit, and sided with him in the affair.

Dr. Pierce relates that his wife was infatuated with another man, besides the one with whom she was tried. Neither of these men are named in the petition, but it is declared that the one with whom the suit states Mrs. Pierce was tried by the church deacons was also a member of the same church.

Dr. Pierce, in his petition, claims he was put out of the church because of his relations with Mrs. Pierce. The church trial, which was carried on secretly, occurred in November of last year, according to the divorce suit.

Service of the petition was given as 54 Ponders avenue, were married on November 1, 1892, according to the suit.

"CULLUD" BALL BREAKS UP IN A GENERAL ROW

Guests at a "cullud" ball of darktown's most elete at the rear of No. 170 Pine street were thrown into a panic at a late hour last night when rocks, razors and pistols were brought into play by a number of attendants who sought to settle old scores when the gas was turned out by a spoony couple.

A call was sent into police headquarters and when Callmon Milan and Palmer arrived on the scene chaos had not the least subsided. Clarence McDuffy, of No. 215 East Merritts avenue, and John Irwin, of No. 72 Inman street, were placed under arrest, after they had been disarmed from making targets of each other from behind trees. They were both treated with suspicion and will answer for their playfulness before Recorder Nash Broyles this morning.

CONGDON LOSES AUTO; ASKS AID OF POLICE

R. C. Congdon, manager of the Atlanta Gas company, reported to the police last night the theft of his Buick automobile, which he left standing in front of the Forsyth theater on Monday night. Mr. Congdon was inclined at first to think that someone had played a practical joke on him and was not prone to regard the loss of his car seriously, but when it was not returned he became anxious.

The car is a dark red color, two-seated and had an extra tire and wheel to the rear. It bore the factory number 7101 and is a No. 23 model.

SWEARS OUT WARRANT AGAINST AUTO DRIVER

Roy Arce, of No. 721 Marietta street, appealed to the police last night to arrest the driver of an automobile bearing the license number 10432. Mr. Arce charges the driver with reckless driving and attempting to run him down. He has sworn out a warrant.

MANY GEORGIA CASES UP TO SUPREME COURT

Felder Presents Motion About Copper Fumes Suit—Notes About Georgians.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, October 14.—(Special.)—Thomas S. Felder, attorney general of Georgia, presented a motion today in the supreme court asking that the agreement between the state of Georgia and the copper companies at Ducktown, Tenn., be made a part of the court's record in the copper company cases.

The agreement was made by authority of the Georgia legislature. In it, the company agrees to abate the nuisance caused by the fumes from its plants and to set aside each year for three years the sum of $15,000 to pay damages. This sum will be disbursed by a board of arbitrators representing the state and the copper companies.

The Georgia Headlight Case.

Attorney General Felder expressed the hope that the decision in the Georgia Headlight case would be handed down by the supreme court next Monday. This case involves the legality of the Georgia statute covering locomotive headlights. It was argued last spring.

Jack J. Spalding today presented a petition in connection with the Louisville and Nashville tax case, asking that certain papers be sent up for review.

Lamar Hill, of Atlanta, made a formal application involving the costs in the case of Thaddeus Anderson, convicted of burglary and now a prisoner at the United States penitentiary at Atlanta. The petition of Anderson recites that the three acts of which he was accused constituted one offense, burglary, and that he has served the sentence for that offense and should be dismissed.

Krause Admitted to Practice.

Will H. Krause, of Bainbridge, Ga., was admitted to practice before the supreme court. He was presented by Senator Hoke Smith.

Representative Adamson entertained Senator Smith at his apartments at luncheon today. If patronage matters were discussed, it was evidently arranged satisfactorily, as both appeared well pleased with the conference.

Among the Georgia visitors in Washington today were Judge John J. Martin, of East Point, who came to attend the dinner of the Aztec society last night; C. N. Sauzay and wife, of Savannah, and Pat H. Rice, of Augusta.

Salaries of Deputy Collectors.

Positions of deputy collectors of internal revenue have seemed very attractive to hordes of applicants following the report that these places would pay $2,500 a year.

Colonel William H. Osborne, commissioner of internal revenue, who is authorized to appoint the income tax collection force, made the sorrowful announcement today the salaries will be considerably less than that figure.

"These positions will pay from $900 to $1,800," he declared. "Inspectors will get $5 a day and $3 for subsistence, and special agents, of whom there will be only a few, will receive $6 or $7 a day and $3 for subsistence. No appointments will be made before January."

Harris Promotes Georgians.

W. J. Harris, director of the census, in connection with his work of reorganizing the census bureau force, is promoting a number of democrats and is carrying out the new administration's policy of race segregation.

Among the Georgians who have been appointed are these: Mrs. Marie G. Bonham, of Atlanta; Miss Gertrude Whitaker, of Milledgeville; Starke Grogan, of Elberton, and John F. Little, of Sparta.

BAPTIST EDITORS HOLD MEETING IN ATLANTA

About fifteen members of the Baptist Publication society of the state met at the Hotel Ansley yesterday in annual convention.

Those present discussed the future of the religious publication field as applied particularly to the Baptist papers now being published throughout Georgia.

Duelist Bound Over.

Rome, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Sanders Elrod and Andrew Williams, participants in a duel in the dark with knives a few nights ago, have both been bound over to Floyd superior court on the charge of stabbing. Each suffered painful wounds, but will recover and will be able to stand trial. Ninety-seven witnesses were summoned and testified at the commitment trial, held today.

HENRY LINCOLN JOHNSON TO LOSE FEDERAL PLACE

President Wilson to Name Successor to Atlanta Negro Who Is Recorder of Deeds.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, October 14.—(Special.)—President Wilson will shortly appoint a successor to Henry Lincoln Johnson, of Atlanta, as recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, and congress will be asked to pass legislation placing this $4,000 job under the department of justice. At present, Johnson, who was formerly a well-known negro lawyer of Atlanta, reports to no one but the president.

G. B. McCanna, a special examiner detailed by Mr. Heiner Lincoln Johnson, investigation, reports that "no improvement in the service can be expected as long as this place is a political sinecure, and with the intermixture of the races hearty co-operation is hardly to be expected."

Recorder Johnson admits having been absent from his office three weeks during 1912.

The recorder has considerable patronage at his disposal. Eleven white and eighteen colored copyists are employed in the office as paid by piece work, but other employees are drawing salaries ranging from $600 a year up.

Chamber of Commerce certain recommendations looking to the promotion of efficiency.

Attorney General McReynolds has reached the conclusion that this office should be conducted in accordance entirely and a new recorder appointed whose qualifications shall be business and executive ability, who shall be willing to attend to discharge any and all subordinates, with the additional hint that a District of Columbia man would be gratifying to the people of the district that they should be regular inspections which will conduce to keeping the affairs of the office in good condition and, above all, that the office should not be dedicated to any particular race or sect in recognition of campaign services performed and to be performed.

'G. C. Tittle Released.

Macon, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Grover C. Tittle, one of the three men mixed up in the shooting at Third and Poplar streets Saturday afternoon, has been released from the Bibb county jail under $650 bond, signed by his employer, J. C. Ricks. Tittle denies that he took any part in the shooting.

MORTUARY.

Miss Nellie May Bailey.

Nellie May Bailey, 15 years old, died at a private sanitarium in Atlanta Tuesday. The body was removed to Hemperley's undertaking parlors, at East Point. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bailey, of East Point, and three brothers and one sister. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday.

Mrs. S. J. Mitchell.

Mrs. S. J. Mitchell, aged 72 years, died at her residence, 73 Cameron street, Tuesday morning at 6:30 o'clock. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Elva Thompson, of Atlanta, and one son, L. M. Mitchell, of Fort Worth, Texas. The body was removed to Harry G. Poole's chapel, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

James T. Dent, Brunswick.

Brunswick, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The funeral of James T. Dent, who passed away at his country home, McIntosh, Ga., 15 miles from Brunswick, Saturday night, occurred in this city Monday morning, the interment being in Oak Grove cemetery. The deceased is survived by his wife, who was Miss Miriam Grais Cohen, of Savannah, and three children, Misses Miriam and Ophelia Dent and Master Grais Dent.

George B. Eagan.

George Benedict Egan died in New York city Monday night at 8 o'clock. His body will be brought to Atlanta Thursday morning for funeral services and interment.

J. B. Davidson.

J. B. Davidson, aged 35 years, died at his residence, 30 Augusta avenue, Monday night. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Bessie Davidson. The funeral services will be conducted from the residence this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The interment will be at Bistown, Ga.

AT THE THEATERS.

James K. Hackett.

(At the Atlanta.)

Friday night James K. Hackett, one of the greatest of the heroic type of stars, will come to the Atlanta with his new play, "The Grain of Dust," dramatized from the David Graham Phillips' novel of that name. He will play two nights and Saturday matinee, for which engagement seats are now selling. Much interest is being shown in the coming of the romantic actor, and a tremendous crowd is sure to greet him. He is surrounded by an excellent company, of which several members are well-known. Of these, David Higgins has starred for years in his own plays, while others are prominent, thus assuring a fine presentation of the play.

"Mutt and Jeff in Panama."

(At the Atlanta.)

Tomorrow morning seats will be placed on sale at the Atlanta for the engagement of "Mutt and Jeff in Panama," which plays at the theater Monday and Tuesday of next week, with a Tuesday matinee. This is one of the smartest of the cartoon musical plays, and the company is up to an excellent standard giving much fun. Singing and dancing and spectacular effects help make the production one worth while to those who like this type of musical comedy.

"Madame X."

"Madame X."

(At the Lyric.)

"Madame X," one of the best dramatic offerings which the stage has seen in the past decade, will come to the Lyric for an engagement of "Mutt and Jeff in Panama," which plays at the theater Monday and Tuesday of next week, with a Tuesday matinee. This is one of the smartest of the cartoon musical plays, and the company is up to an excellent standard giving much fun. Singing and dancing and spectacular effects help make the production one worth while to those who like this type of musical comedy.

Jewell Kelly Stock.

(At the Bijou.)

Of the half dozen plays that have been presented by the stock company at the Bijou during the present, it is safe to say that the last has given better satisfaction or should draw more audiences than popular theater goer. "The Lights of Home," which is being so well received this week, is many friends of the company this week. The plot is brimful of interesting incidents. The story holds the attention of the audience from start to finish, and the several sensational scenes in the drama carried by the gang of bandits is one of the most interesting that has been given in a melodrama in recent years.

Burlesque.

(At the Columbia.)

That "Step Lively Cabaret" is the best offering held out to the patrons of the Columbia theater is attested by the overflow audiences which are attracted every matinee and night. Three big specialty acts which include Eddie Worrel, the eccentric dancer; the Great Kentiger, and the Lassiter sisters, make the bill doubly interesting.

BONE BREAK FEVER AFFLICTS ONE-TENTH OF SAVANNAH FOLKS

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—Dr. C. H. Lavinder, in charge of the United States Marine hospital here, today declared he believed ten per cent of Savannah's population has dengue fever. The disease is epidemic here, but no alarm is felt as it seldom is fatal. Dr. Lavinder has reported the epidemic to Surgeon General Blue at Washington.

In the opinion of Dr. Lavinder and other physicians the disease is carried by a mosquito.

QUICK RELIEF FOR STOMACH MISERY

Use Mi-o-na Tablets, they are one of the most effective and safe remedies for out-of-order stomachs. Besides quickly stopping the distress, Mi-o-na soothes the irritated walls of the stomach, strengthens and builds up the digestive organs. Do not suffer another day; get a 50c box from any druggist.

East Fourteenth Street

Between Peachtree street and Piedmont avenue, on lot 75x185 feet to an alley, we offer one of the most up-to-date homes in the city. The home will have to be seen to be really appreciated.

From the dignified outside appearance, to the inside detail work and conveniences that are only found in the higher class homes, there is an air of refinement and individuality that is only found in homes built to suit discriminating purchasers. It is just a little different from the average home builders.

This lot is just a little larger than the average city lot, is elevated, lies well and has an alley in the rear. Taking the location, the home and the price, which is very reasonable, should make this home appeal to you if you are in the market for a high-class home.
