BURNS TO RETURN BY NEXT FRIDAY AND MAKE REPORT

World's Greatest Detective Is Making Investigation of Frank Case in Several Northern Cities.

HE VISITS OSBORNE, HANDWRITING EXPERT

Burns Wires The Constitution That He Is at Work on the Case, But Declines to Discuss Any of Details.

Detective William J. Burns, America's greatest sleuth, is at present engaged in investigating the Leo Frank case in New York and other cities. He will return to Atlanta either Friday or Saturday.

The noted detective is said to be probing the case from angles that have only recently developed. Mystery surrounds whatever connections he hopes to establish between the Frank case and other cities, however.

Burns has been in New York for the past five or six days after a short visit to Atlanta during which he conferred with friends of the convicted man and with officials of his Atlanta office.

It is rumored that he is also inquiring into the association of William Osborne, the handwriting expert of New York, who was employed by the prosecution, but whose testimony was never used.

It is not known what other cities besides New ork are included in Burns' investigation. He would give no information to this effect. Neither will he disclose the progress that has thus far been made in his probe.

Frank's Counsel Silent.

Frank's counsel in Atlanta would have nothing to say regarding the investigation Burns is making in other cities. All members of the defense were silent in that respect. Neither would intimate friends of the prisoner have anything to say. Solicitor Dorsey and other associates in the prosecution declared they were unable to conceive of any phase of the famous case that has developed in other cities.

Following the knowledge that Burns was extending his investigation to other cities, The Constitution communicated with him by wire Tuesday afternoon. He was reached at the headquarters of his national agency in the Woolworth building, New York.

The following answer was received: "The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.: I am at present engaged on the Frank case. Have one or two points to visit in connection with same, which will possibly take a day or two. Will then reach Atlanta. I cannot now discuss progress under any circumstances until my final report is made.

"WILLIAM J. BURNS."

Haas Returns.

Attorney Herbert Haas, associate counsel for the defense, who has been in New York for the past several days, has returned. While in the metropolis he is said to have conferred with Nina Formby, who accuses detectives of having forced her into swearing to a scandalous story against Superintendent. He is also said to have conferred with William Osborne, the prosecution's handwriting expert, whose testimony was never used in the trial.

The solicitor general is known to be making thorough investigations of certain phases of new evidence to be submitted by the convicted man's defense, and he is in daily conference with private investigators of his own staff and with detectives from police headquarters.

Solicitor Dorsey will have nothing to say on the present status of the case. He was away from his office throughout Tuesday afternoon on some secret mission, said to be in interest of the Frank prosecution. For a part of the time he was accompanied by Detectives John Starnes and Pat Campbell, who were named as prosecutors of Frank in the bill of indictment.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD BOY BADLY HURT BY SPEEDING AUTO

Ethel Adams, a 7-year-old boy, while trying to dodge two automobiles last night about 6 o'clock at the corner of Marietta street and Bellview avenue, was struck by another car and thrown 10 feet across the street. The child turned a complete somersault, his head striking against the street car rail and breaking open the scalp behind the right ear. The automobile chauffeur and the owner of the car, with the boy's father, L. L. Adams, who conducts a restaurant in the vicinity and witnessed the accident, rushed the youth to the Grady hospital, where he was reported not seriously hurt.

Witnesses of the accident were at a point of demonstration against the chauffeur. However, the owner of the car, J. T. Tucker, claims that the negro was not driving recklessly. No case was made against the chauffeur by the father, but the boy's mother called up police headquarters and made a case shortly afterwards, and the negro was given a copy of charges to appear today before Judge Broyles and say whether or not he was driving at unlawful speed.

British Aviator Killed.

Salisbury, England, March 10.—Captain Cyril R. Downer, of the Northamptonshire Infantry regiment, was killed today by a fall with his aeroplane while flying over the military aerodrome on Salisbury plain. He had only recently been detailed for service with the army flying corps.

BELIEVED DROWNED, HE SWINDLED BANKS FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—C. S. Cooper, under arrest in San Antonio, Texas, as a forger, is wanted here for illegal check and draft operations which netted him several thousand dollars, according to the manager of a bank detective agency. Cooper, who was believed to have been drowned in the Hudson river two years ago, has been operating for fifteen years in many states, the detective says. Banks in various parts of the country, it was said, have paid him close to $50,000. Cooper was arrested at San Antonio on a charge of forgery alleged to have been committed at Cordell, Okla. Banks in New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey, North and South Dakota, Arizona, Texas and California also are said to have suffered. He is said to have operated extensively against California banks, and those of Tucson, Ariz., and El Paso, Texas.

Cooper was arrested once in San Diego, Cal., but left after his wife had posted $4,500 bail for him. Afterward he was placed in an insane asylum in New York and Mrs. Cooper obtained a divorce. A body, later found in the Hudson river, was identified as that of Cooper and interred under his name.

A THOROUGH PROBE HAS BEEN ORDERED

Secretary of War Garrison Orders a Complete Investigation of the Charges That Atlanta Merchants Are Discriminated Against

Following the fight of The Constitution based on the claims of Atlanta merchants that they are being discriminated against in bidding upon supplies for the commissary department at Fort McPherson, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has also taken up the fight aggressively, and Secretary of War Garrison has ordered Major Martin, commanding the fort, to make a thorough investigation into the charges of the Atlanta merchants and forward his report to him.

To this end Major Martin has asked Mell R. Wilkinson, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, for a conference on the matter. Mr. Wilkinson has referred the matter of investigation the claims of the Atlanta merchants to the chamber of commerce committee on wholesale trade, of which Lyon Fort is chairman, and will hold a conference with Mr. Fort and members of this committee to find out the exact status of the case, after which he will take up the matter with Major Martin and other members of the chamber of commerce.

Will Present Figures.

Atlanta merchants, who have complained of being discriminated against in favor of merchants in New York and eastern markets, will present figures and market quotations to the wholesale trade committee showing the amount of business which the post has done with them in the past and the relative prices of supplies in Atlanta and New York, plus the freight to Atlanta.

It has been claimed at the fort that only such supplies as can be purchased in New York and shipped to Atlanta cheaper than they can be bought in Atlanta will be bought in New York.

The merchants, on the other hand, state that whereas the post formerly did as much as $25,000 worth of business per month with them, they now do about $5,000 worth, and that they can produce quotations showing that purchases, plus the freight, cannot be made in New York cheaper than in Atlanta.

Dispatches from Washington indicate that the probe ordered into the affairs of Garrison will be one of the most thoroughgoing that the federal government has instituted in its many years.

The complaints of the Atlanta merchants were taken to the war department by Congressman William Schley Howard, who made vigorous representations in the premises. As a result of Congressman Howard's showing, the secretary of war ordered the commandant of the fort to make an exhaustive inquiry.

The complaints of the Atlanta merchants, as well as the showings of Congressman Howard, would indicate undoubtedly that the Atlanta merchants have not had a square deal.

The merchants and the Atlanta chamber of commerce will marshal their best evidence to make out their case to the secretary of war and bring the trade of the local post back home.

MASON IS PRESENTED WITH A LOVING CUP

Retiring Chairman of the Police Commission Honored by Members of Force.

"Atlanta has the finest police department in the United States. It is composed of temperate, Christian gentlemen, and the department should be held up as a shining example to every metropolis in the nation."

These words were spoken by Solicitor Lowry Arnold, of Fulton city court, last night before the board of police commissioners, when he presented a handsome loving cup to Carlos H. Mason, retiring chairman of the board.

The cup was donated by the members of the police department. Mr. Mason was ill, and could not be present at the meeting, but the token was received by his brother, Claud Mason. A fitting tribute was paid the retiring chairman by Mr. Arnold, which received wide applause from both the commission and spectators.

A motion was made and adopted to draw up a set of resolutions expressing regret at the retirement of Mr. Mason, who has been attached to the board for six years, five of which he was chairman.

KNIGHT ARRESTED ON WIFE'S ACCOUNT

Physicians Declare Mrs. Knight's Stomach Contained No Traces of Carbolic Acid.

Lying on her bed at the Grady hospital, crying out in anguish that her eyes were killing her, Mrs. Rosa Knight, of Macon, the victim of carbolic acid at the Piedmont hotel Monday night, vigorously attacked the story told by her husband, DeWitt Knight, who told the police that he slapped the bottle of carbolic from her lips as she was trying to swallow it, branding his tale as false.

During her semi-conscious state throughout Monday night, as she was being treated by Doctors Welchel and Pitman of the Grady hospital, it is stated that the woman repeatedly cried out.

"Why don't you tell them who did it?"

"There is some chance that the woman's eyesight will be saved," declared Dr. Pitman last night. "Her burns are not as bad as was thought at first. Her left eye is considerably damaged by the acid, but it may be saved."

Husband Is Arrested.

The husband, Mrs. Rosa Knight was able to tell her tale about the carbolic acid burns, which cover her face, arms and neck, was arrested by the police and is being held at the station house, as he is unable to give a bond of $2,000.

Knight sticks to his story which he told Monday night, that when he entered Mrs. Knight's room at the Piedmont hotel, shortly after she had registered; that when she saw him, she took the bottle of acid from her handbag and put the mouth of it to her lips, and that he slapped it from her hands, struggling with her to keep her from committing suicide, and that the burns he received are proof that he did not throw the acid over her to "ruin her beauty," as Mrs. Knight claims her husband had threatened on several occasions before.

Mrs. Knight claims that when her husband opened the door, he approached her with his arms extended in a loving manner, as though to make amends for their previous troubles. "He placed his arm around my neck, and proceeded to kiss me, and then, before I knew what had happened, he had thrown the acid in my eyes, blinding me completely."

She then accused her husband of having played the part of a Judas. "His kiss was just as much of a Judas," declared Mrs. Knight, "and I will see to it that he is punished for his perfidy."

No Traces Internally.

The doctors who attended the wounds of Mrs. Knight declare that they found absolutely no traces of carbolic acid having been taken internally. The examination of the stomach developed nothing to indicate that the acid was taken internally. There were no burns on her tongue, nor in her throat. Her lips were slightly burned by the acid, but the doctors believe that they appeared when the acid was thrown in her face.

DeWitt Knight will be tried as soon as his wife's condition will permit her appearance in court. The doctors do not believe that she will be able to leave the hospital for some days yet. Her entire face is covered with bandages with only a small opening at the mouth and nose for breathing and nourishment.

Knight states that he came to Atlanta from Macon to see his wife, believing that she would come here to see her little daughter, Thelma, who has been here at the Home for the Friendless since last December when the courts took the little girl away from her mother. Knight states that he and the prosecutor in the case, and that he did not want his wife, whom he has been separated from for some time, to again see the little girl.

Mother Visits Knight.

The aged mother of Knight, accompanied by her married daughter, Mrs. J. R. Jackson, came up to Atlanta from Macon last night to see her son and try to get him out of trouble.

The mother and daughter of the accused man, accompanied by an officer, after calling on Knight at his cell at police station, went to the Grady hospital.

In a conversation with her sister-in-law, described by those who heard it as "very sisterly," it is reported that Mrs. Jackson secured the admission from the accused's wife that she had bought the bottle of carbolic acid in Macon, Ga., and had brought it to Atlanta with her, but no satisfactory explanation of how Knight secured the bottle from her to throw it in her face could be obtained.

Mrs. Jackson told the police that her brother was the fourth husband of Rosa Knight, and that when a girl 14 years old she (Rosa Knight) had run away from her home in a man 50 years of age to marry him.

Knight stated last night that he would do anything in his power to help. He accused his wife of seeking revenge on him for having taken 5-year-old daughter, by a former husband, Thelma, taken away from her through the courts and placed in the Home for the Friendless for raising.

NEW YORK BANKERS GET NASHVILLE BONDS

Nashville, Tenn., March 10.—Over the protest of bankers from Baltimore, Cincinnati and Atlanta, the bid of $695,000 of serial time bonds were awarded this afternoon to Estabrook & Co., bankers of New York, on a bid of $711,858.50 and accrued interest of $2,778, to be dated April 1, 1914. This includes a premium of $16,858.50 and accrued interest.

Seventeen bids were received, the second highest being from a combination of bankers composed of the Fifth and Third National banks, of Cincinnati, Robinson, Humphrey & Waiaw, of Atlanta, and Baker, Ware & Co., of Nashville, who bid $711,546.36 and accrued interest. The latter's protest against the award was on the ground that the New York banker did not comply with the specifications, but this contention was overruled.

Italy's Cabinet Resigns.

Rome, March 10.—Resignation of the Italian cabinet was officially announced today by Premier Giovanni Giolitti, in the chamber of deputies, and the senate.

SEEKING OPIUM CURE, DR. SEIDLER FALLS VICTIM TO THE DRUG

New York, March 10.—While laboring to discover a cure for the opium smoking habit, Dr. Herman Seidler fell a victim to the persuasion of the drug, according to his testimony today in his trial on charges of having manufactured smoking opium without a license. Dr. Seidler thus explained the finding of crude opium and pipes in his possession.

Most of his acquaintances were opium smokers, he said, and to cure them of the habit he had experimented, acquiring a liking for the drug himself. Last October he had decided to discontinue the experiments, because he had not been able to find a cure, and had then made up his mind to break himself of the habit, sending his stock of opium and pipes to a storehouse. Later the craving overcame him, and he then took a single smoking set from his trunk, which was found when the raid on his sanitarium was made last November. Many of Dr. Seidler's patrons are said to be prominent.

FUTURE CONTRACTS HELD TO BE LEGAL

New York Cotton Brokers Win Their Suit for $16,000 Against D. W. James, of Blakely, Ga.

New Orleans, March 10.—(Special)—The United States court of appeals at New Orleans today handed down a decision in the case of Haven & Clement, brokers on the New York cotton exchange, against D. W. James, of Blakely, Ga.

This suit was brought by the New York brokers in the United States district court at Columbus, Ga., some ten years ago, and has ever since been stubbornly litigated through the various United States courts, reaching, finally, the circuit court of appeals in New Orleans.

The opinion is of general interest for the reason that it sustains, in effect, the validity of the New York cotton exchange contract system. The plaintiff obtained a verdict for $16,000 in the court below, which was taken up to the higher court for reversal by the defendant, Mr. James, on the proposition chiefly that it was a New York futures deal transaction, and therefore void. The decision in favor of the plaintiff, therefore, in effect, sustains the validity of the future contract system of the New York cotton exchange.

The plaintiff was represented by H. N. Randolph, of the firm of Brown & Randolph, of Atlanta, and the defendant by Smith, Hammond & Smith, of Atlanta.

DUEL TO THE DEATH ON CROWDED TRAIN

One Man Is Killed, Another Fatally Wounded and Two Others Less Seriously Shot.

Welch, W. Va., March 10.—R. L. Taylor, a deputy sheriff, of Lex, McDowell county, is dead; A. D. Beavers, a former United States deputy marshal of Gilbert, is in the Welch hospital in a dying condition, with a pistol wound in the abdomen; D. W. Beavers, a deputy sheriff and brother of A. D. Beavers, was shot through the leg, and T. E. Hickey, a non-combatant, was shot through the thigh, in a pistol battle on a crowded Norfolk and Western passenger train about 7 o'clock this morning, between Iaeger and Berwind.

The tragedy is said to be due to a quarrel which began at Welch, the Beavers and Taylor, according to official reports of the conductor of the train to headquarters of the road at Roanoke, having been drinking when they left Welch an hour earlier to the shooting.

Taylor was shot five times and was killed instantly.

After Taylor had fallen dead in the aisle of the car, Bob Evans took up the shooting and opened fire, according to the report, on A. D. Beavers, inflicting a probably mortal wound. Evans was arrested and lodged in jail here.

All the parties to the battle are prominent and well known as officials in the coal fields.

The car in which the shooting occurred was crowded with passengers, but the duelists shot true to their aim and, with the exception of the only one non-combatant being hurt.

TENNESSEE BANKER FOR THE ATLANTA PEN

Nashville, Tenn., March 10.—After pleading guilty to misappropriation of funds of the First National Bank of Clarksville, Tenn., and making false entries on the bank's books, John R. Osborne, aged 22, prominent socially, a bookkeeper, was sentenced to five years in the Atlanta penitentiary by Judge Sanford in the United States district court here today. The misappropriation of $2,512 was attributed by him to trying to keep the pace set by those who had larger incomes and to assisting his family in financial difficulties.

Jane Addams Arrives Today To Deliver Woman Suffrage Message From Other States

JANE ADDAMS.

Jane Addams, one of the most distinguished women in the world, and one of the leaders in the cause of woman suffrage, accompanied by a party of women allied with the cause, arrives from Birmingham this morning and will make her headquarters at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

From 4 until 5 o'clock, Miss Addams will be the guest of honor at a reception in the lounge of the hotel, this given by the Eighth Ward Suffrage League, of which Mrs. Emily Mayo Dorsey is the leader. Under the auspices of the same organization, Miss Addams will speak at the Atlanta theater tonight at 8 o'clock, her address to be on a bearing upon the suffrage question in its relation to national prosperity. On the platform with Miss Addams and the officers of the Eighth Ward league will be officers of the state and national organizations making for suffrage, and individual men and women espousing the cause.

Miss Addams has spoken in Atlanta before; her addresses, always vitally interesting, will be markedly so in the message she brings tonight, when Atlanta, for the first time, will greet the national leaders of the woman's suffrage cause.

There are three women suffrage organizations in Atlanta at present, and many throughout Georgia. Unity of these is one of the purposes of tonight's meeting. Prominent women from all sections of the state are in the city to hear the addresses, and to hear the story of woman's suffrage in the United States as told by its most convincing exponents.

MILLIONS AWARDED TO REV. GOODWIN AFTER HIS DEATH

New York, March 10.—A decision upholding the patent claim of the Rev. Hannibal B. Goodwin against the Eastman Kodak company, of Rochester, involving millions of dollars in royalties, was handed down in the United States court of appeals here today confirming the opinion recently handed down by Judge John R. Hazel, of Buffalo. The decision says Mr. Goodwin undoubtedly was the inventor and entitled to all the benefits of the basic on photographic films.

Goodwin died more than thirteen years ago, a poor man. The profits of the Eastman Kodak company on the celluloid patent have been estimated to run into the millions.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON IS DUE AT MIDNIGHT

More Than Nine-tenths of the Moon Due to Be in Shadow.

There will be an almost total eclipse of the moon tonight, visible from all points in western Europe, North and South America, and western Africa. Astronomers at the naval observatory in Washington have prepared to take advantage of the opportunity for special observations. It was pointed out that the faintest stars may be seen distinctly during an eclipse, and that they are of great importance in correcting lunar tables. As yet, astronomers have found it impossible to compute, from theory, tables which agree exactly with the positions observed in the sky.

The shadow of the earth will not cover entirely the moon, but at the middle of the eclipse more than nine-tenths of the moon's diameter will be in the shadow.

The moon is due to enter the shadow, according to precise reckoning, at 9:41 8-10 o'clock tomorrow night, eastern standard time; should reach the middle of the eclipse at 11:13 8-10 o'clock, and leave the shadow at 12:44 a. m. Thursday.

North Carolina Democrats.

Raleigh, N. C., March 10.—Thomas D. Warren, of Newbern, was tonight elected chairman of the democratic state executive committee to succeed Charles A. Webb, of Asheville, who resigned because of his appointment as United States marshal of the western district of North Carolina. The state committee, which met here tonight, selected June 17, in Raleigh, for the state democratic convention, with county conventions three weeks prior, county primaries a week before the conventions.

BOARD DEADLOCKS AFTER LONG FIGHT; FAIN IS IN LEAD

Police Board Adjourns at Midnight, After Having Taken 163 Ballots and Failing to Secure an Election.

PACE COMES SECOND; VERNOY HAS TWO VOTES

On the Seventy-third Ballot Friends of Fain Declare He Was Virtually Elected When George Johnson Changes Vote.

Fighting stubbornly through 163 ballots, the board of police commissioners remained deadlocked Tuesday in the annual election of chairman and were forced to adjourn at midnight with W. F. Fain in the lead.

Fain possessed six votes. His nearest rival was R. T. Pace, Mayor Woodward's choice, who had four votes. W. A. Vernoy, on the third candidate, had only two votes, but was still in the running.

Fain and his supporters contend that he was virtually elected in the seventy-third ballot, when George Johnson craftily sought to take advantage of the vote that had been cast for Fain by Commissioner Pace.

Commissioners Baskin, Fain and Smith had voted for Fain. Commissioner Johnson voted non-committally for himself. Commissioner King not expecting Pace to vote for Fain. When Commissioners King and Dixon voted for Fain, Johnson, realizing his opportunity, instantly shifted his vote to Fain. Secretary Morris, however, had already begun announcing the ballot's result when the change was made.

Ballot Declared Void.

A hubbub of excitement spread over the board. Mayor Woodward arose to protest. It was ruled after discussion that the transferred ballot was void because the result had been announced by the secretary at the time the shift was made. During the height of discussion, Mayor Woodward seized the proceedings by commanding the continuance of the voting.

Johnson, who, by his example, gave his candidate created a deal of attention. Thereupon, the board was caught napping. He was watched as craftily as he had watched for the opportunity of which he sought to take advantage. Fain declared before the board that he had been virtually elected on the seventy-third ballot.

The line-up stood:

For Fain: Commissioners A. H. Baskin, B. Lee Smith, Andy King, George Dixon and George Johnson.

For Pace: Mayor Woodward, A. R. Colcord, R. T. Face and Bob Clarke.

For Vernoy: George Garner.

The voting opened with this line-up excepting Commissioner Johnson, who, for numerous ballots, cast his vote indiscriminately to various unnominated commissioners. At one time he took occasion to vote for every man on the board excepting himself.

The question of candidates voting for themselves arose at the opening of the ballots, when the subject was brought to attention by Mr. Colcord.

Before the first vote was cast Mr. Colcord asked the board:

"Is it proper for a candidate to vote for himself?"

Not Indictable.

Mayor Woodward answered in reply: "If a man deems himself worthy of the seat of chairman, I do not see that there is anything indictable in the procedure of voting for himself."

Commissioner Fain, following the mayor, said this to say:

"I see no cause for voting for myself, and will not do it if the other candidates agree to follow suit."

Whereupon Mr. Vernoy arose, saying: "Inasmuch as there are three candidates in the field, there can be no criticism of voting for oneself as a source of right now that I will vote for myself."

Mr. Vernoy continually voted for him-

NO FIRE TORTURE USED ON VERGARA

Examination of Body of Ranchman, Murdered by Mexicans, Shows Torture Stories Untrue.

Laredo, Texas, March 10.—Reports that Clements Vergara had been tortured were exploded today when an examination of the body by state officials disclosed that his left hand was not burned, as had been officially reported by Captain J. J. Sanders, of the state rangers.

The examination was made by State Adjutant General Henry Hutchings in the presence of American Consul A. E. Garrett, Captain Sanders and others.

Widow Paid for Body.

It was Mrs. Clemente Vergara, widow of the American lured to Mexico and assassinated by alleged federals, who paid the $400 for recovery of her husband's body from its unmarked grave in Hidalgo Sunday morning. J. S. Hill, Vergara's brother-in-law, employed the men who comprised the expedition, acting, it is said, as the widow's agent. These facts were admitted here today upon receipt of news that official dispatches had reached Washington and that Hill's connection with the affair had been made public here.

Hill's participation in organizing the expedition was reported here Sunday, but dissemination of the report was suppressed at the request of Consul Garrett, it was learned. That no mention of names be made until he should hear from the state department.

Names at Mexico Kept Secret.

The names of the men comprising the party which crossed the river and brought the body of Vergara back to Texas are being kept secret for fear some of them might be killed if their names became public in connection with the case. Some of the members of the party live in Mexico and others close to the boundary line.

Hill positively declined to make the names of the men public. He said they all left the city immediately after receiving pay for their work.

Consul Garrett said he didn't know the names of the men and couldn't identify any one of them.

That the man, a Mexican, who led the party which recovered the body of Clements Vergara to the grave in the Hidalgo, Mexico, cemetery in which the body was found, had told a circumstantial story of witnessing the execution of the American ranchman by state investigators was learned tonight.

Reports from Washington that the state department has given assurance that demands would be made for the punishment of those held to be responsible

SPRING GOWNS LIMP AND LOVELY

Diaphanous Fabrics and Lithesome Carriage Make American Women Appear Clinging and Dependent.

Whether the new pose of the figure, so universally adopted by the women of fashion—sags, droopling, swaying—is responsible for the variation of the present modes, or whether recent styles have permitted, then demanded the lithesome carriage, it is difficult to say. So it has served to provide the spirit of spring and summer styles, which are designed first and foremost to emphasize the natural lines of the figure.

The high-waisted front effects prevail, in both suit and costume. The suit jackets this is attained by means of slanted seams cleverly arranged below and the cut of the bottom of the jacket, which is made to extend gradually from the front to the under arm seam. The backs are usually quite square across. The strictly tailored models are very short, reaching barely to the curve of the hip line. Long sleeves, of course, set in with stitching are correct for the street suit.

The skirts of these models are simple, and scant at the bottom, though with a decided fullness at the top, achieved by means of loosely set tucks starting at the waist line, or else by a draping at the back. Tunic effects—the tunic being fuller than the underskirt—are much used.

In the dressier suits the Eton style is good, with a slightly elongated back. Pastillon backs are also seen, although the preference seems to be for a length that reaches just to the waist line or a few inches below.

Kimono sleeves in seven-eighths lengths are well liked on suits designed for wear on semi-dress occasions.

The one requisite of fabrics for the spring suit or gown is suppleness. Worsted crepes that lend themselves well to draping are much used; gabardines are in high favor, and shepherd checks in a variety of coloring, as well as plaids in soft, dull colorings, will be much worn.

Crepe poplin is especially suitable for the dressy suit and simple effects likewise make up smartly.

Coats Have Decided Flare.

The most noticeable characteristic of the new coats is the decided flare which has been evolved to follow the lines of the new gowns with their fullness about the hips. They are cut in a variety of lengths, none of them full length and few extremely short. Deep set-in sleeves and the loose mantle sleeves predominate.

Yoke effects, sometimes in the front or back, often both, are fashionable. Utility coats show belts across the front only, as a rule, and standing collars distinguish several chic models.

A large button form the principal trimming notes, though on the dressier models simple ornaments are used to good effect, such as tassels, passementerie or cord drops.

To suggest the crinkling of a bygone time with all their fluff and demure charm and at the same time retain the clinging modes so highly favored was the task set themselves by intrepid designers. How well they have succeeded is demonstrated by their charming creations for spring and summer.

Adopting only the softest fabrics they have been able to swirl flounces —three-tiers of them, sometimes—and tunics and taffeta about the hips and still preserve the slim and graceful silhouette.

On the silk frocks especially, one sees rows of scant flounces at the lower edge of a tunic, or springing from a draped hip girdle.

The tunic in various forms is prominent, no foundations that restrict narrow at the bottom. When drapery is used it is brought to the back in such a way as to suggest the old bustle backs.

Peg-top styles remain in good taste for the simpler frocks, while modified mineret models do not lack favor.

The bodices of these new costumes show no very radical innovations. Kimono or raglan sleeves hold full sway. Vest and surplice effects are shown in novel variations, always with the low neck and usually having three-quarter sleeves. The bolero is also adopted as well as the simple peasant draped waist.

Medici Collar Featured.

The Medici collar, so pretty and becoming when carefully made, is a feature of many of the most elaborate costumes. The V-shaped necks predominate, and quite a few flat, fancy collars with sheer vests of net or lace are used. The preference is for collars of chiffon or batiste very delicately hand-embroidered.

The combination of contrasting materials is effectively worked out in many of the informal models. A one model for example may have a pannier and strap effect on the waist, of taffeta. Georgette crepe, a leading fabric of the season, is used attractively combined with silk nets and taffetas.

In the wash frocks this thought is strikingly developed by the use of plaids and the checked fabrics which have appeared in great variety in the cotton goods. Especially chic was a model designed for street wear having a tunic of checked crepe over an underskirt of white satine.

Silks of various weaves, so long as they are supple, hold first place in the season's list of fabrics. Messaline, charmeuse, crepe meteor, indeed satin-faced silk of all descriptions, are in high favor because of their particular adaptability to the draped and clinging modes of today. Chiffon taffeta has been employed in the making of so many of the most attractive spring costumes that great popularity is predicted for it. Printed silks, in patterns of many suggested by Chinese and Japanese embroideries, are expected likewise to score a success.

Crepe de chine continues on the crest of popularity, both in the plain fabric and ornamented with Jacquard figures, canton crepes and a new variety, Tussah, which lends itself readily to the production of a rippling surface are extensively used.

Essentially a Crepe Season.

It is pre-eminently a season of crepe in wash goods also, with voiles and ratines, the latter in many new weaves, exceptionally strong.

The vogue for plaids and printed effects extends to the wash fabrics as well and some delightful novelties have been brought out that permit clever usage in combination with plain materials.

Colors for spring show a decided reaction against the vivid hues of the past season. Pastel shades are much in evidence. Paquin blue, plum, fuchsia, tete de negre and the new tango shade—a peculiar brownish color—are well liked. Dull Russian green must be included as well as leaf green, a striking model of satin in this last screen so well reflects present style tendencies as to warrant description.

The [illegible] was made with the fronts crossing in surplice fashion, the sleeves set in at the shoulder, close fitting and full length. The skirt, cut on rather straight lines and raised slightly at the waist in front, had the effect of making it a little shorter and giving a draped appearance. The noteworthy texture of this model was the ceinture and sash of golden brown satin which commenced at the normal waist line in front, was about five inches wide and gradually followed a downward line over the hips and down the back where it tied and formed long sash ends. Attached to this ceinture was a flounce of brown chiffon, ten inches wide which gave the effect of the tunic.

Transparent, filmy, flimsy are the new blouses for spring and summer wear. The vogue for blouses that contrast with rather than match the suit has brought out scores of numbers in white cream and flesh-colored effects, as well as striking models in high colors, which will tend to liven up the somewhat quiet colors favored in suits.

Bobinet, shadow laces, hand embroidered voiles and crepes are to be found in great variety. The popular Georgette crepe, crepe de chine and taffetas may be made up into chic creations in any of the modish shades of bamboo, tomato red, canary, mandarin, cordovan, bronze and peach.

Sleeves of Different Lengths.

The Medici collar and V opening distinguish the majority of the models which are equally divided, however, as to sleeve length, some showing the full length, others the short three-quarter.

In effect the new waists are rather plain, depending for trimming upon ingenious combinations of materials.

Tunic waists showing the cutaway and pleated extension below the waist are in good style when worn with the plainer types of skirts. This outside finish of the silk waists, achieved by girdles and sashes often supplemented with cestilais, or pepulums, has been well received by the women of fashion.

Worn with a carefully selected separate skirt these blouses may carry out the effect of a whole costume. The vogue for combinations of materials and colors makes possible many clever blouse and skirt costumes of real distinction.

The separate skirt this season has been developed in an unlimited variety of styles and fabrics. Tunic effects, peg-tops, and ruffled models lead in popularity. Fancy materials, particularly plaids and checks, are much used. Crepe effects, serges and gabardines are also most successfully employed.

Some very good looking black taffeta skirts are being shown, made up in the double tunic and three tier styles, a favorite finish for the tunics of these models is the edge in the form of pointed, round or square scallops.

FOR THE WELL-PLANNED HOME DINING TABLE

Iced tea sets are a novelty that promise great popularity during the summer months. The cups are very high, much like elongated chocolate cups with coaster-like saucers, shallow and small.

Four o'clock tea sets are shown in many striking patterns. Often the design of the china is carried out accurately in the same colors on embroidered tea or luncheon cloths. One such set in the Copenhagen ware was shown with the cloth embroidered in the same conventionalized fern design in matching colors.

Crystal sandwich plates of beautifully engraved glass, with cut centers and sterling mounted rims are attractive for summer use. Sugar holders and biscuit holders will be found also in the engraved cut glass.

The fashionable china for state occasions is the ivory or white banded with smooth or encrusted gold bands and initialed. With this is used the cut crystal glassware or the beautiful Austrian glass which is gold decorated, with delicate pink roses and leaves interwoven in the pattern, and a wide gold rim at the top of the glasses.

Dessert sets consisting of plates and compote for fruit or nuts are being introduced with a view to their use in the drawing room, following the charming English custom.

Fashion's Fads in Jewelry and Vanities

Oriental tendencies, so conspicuous in the apparel modes of the past season and showing no signs of diminishing favor, are responsible for many attractive novelties in jewelry.

Necklaces especially show this influence, and though some of them may be bought as low as $10, they look as though they might once have been worn by some dark-skinned eastern princess. Antique designs have been copied faithfully, and some beautiful effects obtained with imitation stones.

Combinations of jade and white coral, mounted on dull silver, or jade and moonstones; imitation aqua marines with an antique setting; rose finished gold La Vallieres with ornaments of engraved crystal and pearls, and any number of other artistic necklaces may be found that range in price from $5 to $50.

Among the newest offerings in fancy colored bead necklaces, of which there is a bewildering array, are those having a silk tassel ornament that hangs from a cluster of the beads in the front. The necklaces are formed of various combinations of beads—jade with gilt, galalith with jet, crystal with amber—with the tassel matching one or the other of the colorings.

Enamel lockets in delicate shades, with chains to match, will add a dainty touch of color to the white lingerie dress or blouse.

Onyx Lockets and Pearls.

In particular keeping with the quaint fichu effects so much worn this season are the old-fashioned onyx locketer set with tiny pearls and suspended from heavy onyx chains. Indeed, the woman who is the fortunate possessor of a few pieces of old jewelry would do well to have them remodeled and reset, as the vogue for these lovely old things is apt to be long lived.

Cameos are much in evidence, both in necklaces and brooches. Combined with imitation pearls, many of the pink cameos make most beautiful necklaces and defy detection.

Breastpins and bracelets of carved ivory have also been revived. The pins, large and round and finely carved, cost from $10 to $40.

Waist sets are in demand just now for wear with the various filmy fichu and vest effects so popular. The long bar pin is used at the throat and the two smaller ones to pin togethec the frills that are used so extensively. Particularly dainty and attractive was a white enamel set, noted in one of the shops, that was set with rows of tiny pearls.

Ribands With Brilliants.

For wear also with the collarless blouses or frocks are black velvet ribands, of various widths with slides of pearls or brilliants. For evening wear the tulle bands with jeweled slides will be much worn.

Hairpins have taken on most modest proportions. The simple small gold pins, round or pear-shaped, take the lead. When set with stones at all they are usually selected with a view to carrying out the color scheme of the hat.

Crystal jewelry, usually in the ground rock crystal and variously engraved, is having a decided vogue at present, especially in watch pendants and brooches.

The new bracelets are broader than formerly, perhaps a half an inch at the widest point, from which they taper gradually toward the ends. The flexible styles have the preference, and many novel designs in these are shown.

Most unusual is a bracelet of diamonds in which a moire effect is obtained by the use of a wavine line of sapphires. And, as usual, diamonds will reign supreme.

sell. The remaining rivals, however, voted frequently for one and the other, including frequent votes for Verney. It was Pace's vote to Fain which came near seating the latter.

Excepting the votes of Candidates Fain and Pace and of Commissioner Johnson, those of the other board members never varied from their original favorites. After the fiftieth ballot, Mr. Johnson changed his tactics, adhering permanently thereafter to Candidate Fain.

Election a Month Off.

It was announced that the second session of the election will be held either at the next regular meeting on the second Tuesday in April or at a special call meeting. The call meeting will depend upon the attitude of the board. If a majority of seven or more petition Mayor Woodward, who will act as temporary chairman, the special meeting will be ordered. Otherwise, the election will not come off until the regular session.

To illustrate the deadlock spirit of the meeting last night, an effort was made shortly after 10 o'clock to adjourn. The motion was made and seconded and put to a vote. The result stood 8 to 6. A second effort, an hour later, was required before adjournment was effected.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 10-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

SEVEN MEN ARE KILLED BY TOXIC POISONING

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—Toxic poisoning caused the death of seven men who were treated for blood disease at the county hospital recently, according to a report post-mortem surgery submitted today to Coroner Hartwell. A serum was administered to fifteen patients at the county hospital last Saturday. Four died that night and three on Sunday. The eighth was alive today and some hope was held for his recovery. Coroner Hartwell said he hoped the county grand jury would begin an investigation and determine if any criminality were involved.

ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY TO KILL COURT OFFICERS

Tense Situation Created by the Prosecution of Men Charged With Election Frauds.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 10.—Bert W. Dickens, a carpenter, today was arrested on an indictment charging conspiracy to kill Judge Charles M. Fortune, of the Vigo county circuit court; Felix Blankenbaker, special judge hearing election fraud cases, and Joseph Roach, special prosecutor in the trials. It is alleged in the indictments that Dickens entered into an agreement with persons not named to kill the three court officials, either by throwing bombs at them or by placing dynamite under their homes.

A witness before the grand jury yesterday testified that an attempt to dynamite Judge Fortune's home Sunday night had failed because of the presence of armed guards. At the time the testimony was being given Judge Fortune and Prosecutor Roach were in Indianapolis appealing to Governor Ralston for military protection for themselves and officials during the trial here next week of Mayor Don M. Roberts, charged with election frauds.

Threats against the lives of the officials and witnesses in the fraud cases are alleged to have been made since William Huffman, a city official, was convicted here last month, and sentenced to from three to ten years in the state penitentiary for the illegal use of election ballots.

John L. Camden, a city councilman, also was indicted today on charges of perjury in connection with his testimony before the grand jury regarding the amount of money he received for election expenses. Cronin was released on bond of $1,000, and Dickens was held in the county jail, unable to furnish $25,000 bond.

RULES FOR LONG LIFE BY SENATOR TILLMAN

Urges Colleagues to Bar Liquor and Tobacco and Eat Moderately.

Washington, March 10.—Senators today were discussing with unusual interest Senator Tillman's declaration in his address on his non-smoking resolution, that he believed he could lengthen the life of every man in the chamber "if I could only get them to believe what I tell them and follow my advice." The South Carolina senator asserted his colleagues ate too much. "Since I was paralyzed four years ago and read my own obituary," he said, "twenty-one senators, including Vice President Sherman, most of them younger than I, have died."

A fitting epitaph, he said, for senators who have died in service would be, "He lived not wisely, but too well, and killed himself eating."

Too Many Banquets.

"There is no doubt to my mind that this great mortality among us is due to the way we live in Washington," declared Mr. Tillman. "There is a continuous succession of banquets, dinners and receptions. Automobiles and street cars are used by senators instead of walking, and pure air and sunshine are things of which we get little."

Continuing, Senator Tillman said:

"Tobacco, I have been told by physicians, is a narcotic or sedative, while whisky is a stimulant, as everyone knows. Many men use both, and are constantly on the journey by rail and the garret to the cellar and back, being thus lashed to them at Atlanta, and by the constant conflict going on in their system, while the stimulant and the sedative contend for mastery. It is the abuse, not the use of whisky and tobacco, that is so dangerous to health, for in moderation they are both harmless, I think.

"Since my illness four years ago I have learned more about the human body than during all the balance of my life put together, and I am sure I discovered some of the secrets of nature and laws of health of which most men know nothing whatever.

Learned to Live Rationally.

"The pity of it is that I had to ruin my health before I discovered those things and learned how to live rationally. Had I lived ten years ago as I am doing now, my health never would have broken down at all.

"I owe what degree of recovery I have made—and I am constantly being told I look a great deal better, and I know it is so—to will-power and self-control in eating—the will-power to exercise my muscles and nerves sufficiently to give them tone, and keep the rust out of the joints. But the greatest help to my health arises from the self-control, which enables me to keep from eating things I ought not to."

Senator Tillman's resolution, unanimously adopted, forbids smoking during executive sessions. He said he had been forced to leave the chamber and the caucus room during secret sessions because he could not endure the fumes of tobacco.

FATHER ARRESTS SON FOR STEALING AUTO

W. H. Brown, of Atlanta, Helps Cincinnati Detectives Apprehend His Son.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 10.—(Special) Sworn in as a deputy sheriff, W. H. Brown, a contracting painter, of Atlanta, Ga., had the painful experience today of aiding in the arrest of his 19-year-old son Harry. The latter, together with Walter, 20, and Carl Burdette, 17, brothers, also of Atlanta, were taken into custody on Government square late today by City Detective Pflug. McGregg, Conroway and Beckman, assisted by Brown and John Roberts, also of Atlanta.

The young men are charged with having taken the automobile of John Robertson, also of Atlanta, and relied on Chief of Detective Love this morning and explained their errand to him.

Then Chief assigned the Cincinnati detectives to aid the two men in their search for the trio. Pflug was confident the young man had come to Cincinnati from Atlanta, and they soon struck their trail.

The young fugitives they are said to have confessed that they took the automobiles at Atlanta, and that it was the Miller Bros.' livery stable at Loudon, Tenn.

One of the Miller brothers is the sheriff of the county. After Burdette, of Atlanta, who is the leader of the crowd, said they told the Millers they wanted to get to Knoxville, Tenn., to get work and were in need of funds. They said they came into Cincinnati but left the train near Covington, Ky., and walked the rest of the way. Burdette, as spokesman for the boys, said that they were out for work and wanted "to get rich quick." Warrants had been issued for them at Atlanta, and Brown and Roberts held the warrants. A half dozen autos have been stolen in Atlanta lately, it is claimed, but the youths deny that they are guilty of complicity.

Brown said he would take the prisoners back, but Detective Chief Love is holding them, and wired the Atlanta police tonight.

NO FIRE TORTURE USED ON VERGARA

COLQUITT OUTLINES HIS MEXICAN POLICY

Fort Worth, Texas, March 10.—Governor O. B. Colquitt, here today, addressing the Progressive Business Men's association, declared he had formed the policy of opposing negotiations directly with the Mexican authorities for the righting of wrongs to Texans. A resolution commending Mr. Colquitt in his action and his defense of the people of Texas" was ruled out of order on the ground that if is against the policy of the association to enter into politics.

FRANCE HAS FAITH IN THE UNITED STATES

Paris, March 10.—Premier Doumergue in the course today's speech in the chamber of deputies today, alluded to the grave results of the civil war in Mexico upon French interests, which, he said, were very numerous in that country. He said that the fleet sent from a quarrel over 10 cents between himself and one of the Pitts. Members of the Pitts faction will relase their version tomorrow. It was announced today that sentence would be pronounced after both sides have been heard.

SLAYERS OF VERGARA MUST BE PUNISHED

Washington, March 10.—No conflict will arise between the federal government and the state of Texas over the recovery of the body of Clemente Vergara, the American ranchman, Further steps demanding the punishment of Vergara's slayers will be taken.

That was the status of the case after a cabinet meeting today. The officially accepted view was that Vergara was lured across the border and murdered and his body was subsequently recovered by his own friends—not Texas Rangers—who crossed into Mexico as private individuals and not as an armed expedition.

After today's cabinet meeting, at which Consul Garrett's reports were read, Secretary Bryan made the following paraphrase of Mr. Garrett's telegrams:

"Consul Garrett went with Captain Sanders, of the Texas Rangers, and a deputy sheriff to Palafox, Texas, on Saturday for the purpose of making further investigation into the Vergara case. They went to the Vergara ranch and examined witnesses who saw Vergara's horses which were taken by the Mexicans. These witnesses also saw Vergara cross the river and saw him captured. The investigation was taken up late Saturday night, when they reached Coleman's camp, two miles above Palafox, where they ate supper and concluded to remain overnight.

"About 4 o'clock a. m. they were informed that Vergara's body was on the Texas side of the river. Consul Garrett, the chauffeur of his automobile and went five or six miles away to a point opposite San Enrique's ranch about three miles below Palafox. Mr. Garrett there found the body with a number of the relatives of Vergara who had also been notified to come and identify it. Mr. Garrett was informed that a small party of Vergara's friends had come over the river at 2 o'clock a. m., exhumed the body and brought it across. Mr. Garrett adds that the Texas Rangers had no hand in bringing the body over, but went there to view it when notified of its location."

CONFISCATION ORDER REVOKED BY VILLA

El Paso, Texas, March 10.—General Villa today revoked the order of confiscation against the ranch of General W. E. Sorman, a British subject, in the state of Chihuahua. The news was received in a telegram from Calvert G. Bodwell, British vice consul at Chihuahua.

The commission appointed by General Carranza to investigate the killing of William S. Benton still is in Juarez and never has been away. At Chihuahua and at the constitutionalist consulate here last Saturday it was said the commission had gone to Chihuahua, where Benton's body is said to be buried.

General Frausto, head of the commission, asked today if he could explain why the misleading information was given out, responded:

BRIDGES ARE BURNED AS CARRANZA LEAVES

Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mex., March 10. The burning of bridges on railroads southwest of here puzzled rebel officials today, on the eve of General Carranza's departure on his march into Chihuahua state. Two bridges were burned on the Southern Pacific branch between Cananea and Nogales yesterday and last night a trestle was destroyed by fire on the Nacozari railroad below Agua Prieta.

As far as known there are no federal troops between Guaymas, on the California, gulf, and Torreon. A few small bands of marauders were said to be operating along the Mexican Northwestern railroad below Juarez.

General Carranza, it was announced officially, will begin his 200-mile march tomorrow. He will be accompanied by nearly 3,000 troops. A battalion of infantry began its march today along the trails which will be taken later by the constitutionalist commander and a strong escort of cavalry.

FOUR AUTO ACCIDENTS DURING DAY AT GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Within the past day a series of queer automobile accidents have just happened here, Arthur Renfroe and Charles Pound were the first victims.

Renfroe was driving his car, caused by a quick turn in the road. Both men were pinioned beneath the car, but Renfroe alone was seriously hurt.

Luther Allen was a second car victim, when he lost control of the steering gear of his car, which ran into a tree on West Poplar street, the car being practically demolished. Allen is laid up for a month with the flesh of his leg ripped from knee to ankle.

Louis Bianto, going from here to a nearby town, allowed his car to run down a steep embankment, turning turtle, but without damage to him.

Jim Cox, to keep up the series of casualties, ran his car into a deep ditch in East Griffin and damaged it to a considerable extent, but without mishap to him.

MARITIME TRADE NEEDED BY THE UNITED STATES

New York, March 10.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield, in an address before the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, urged the enactment of many liberal laws to permit the United States to regain its maritime trade.

"The success of American-owned vessels on the Great Lakes has been remarkable," he said. "It is a fact that more vessels pass through the river and canal which unites Lakes Huron and Superior than through the Suez canal.

"In the Panama and Sea Traffic.

"The canal, one great factor has been forgotten. The canal will make it possible for vessels to make profitable a continuous journey around the world. In other words, precisely as a train which may empty and refill itself several times en route, operates at a special profit, so vessels that may circumnavigate the globe, loading and unloading, may find special profits in the process.

"The carrying of our exports had provided golden harvests for the foreign shipowners. If we can apply to ocean transport the same American ideas in specialized ships which have been such a brilliant success on the Great Lakes there is little doubt of our doing as well on the seas as we once did.

"The proposition to create deep-waterway along an interior line on the Atlantic coast and thereby unite by water the great cities of this section of the country, is an excellent one. I am in favor of it. A proposition for buying the Chesapeake and Delaware canal is pending at Washington. I look for the time soon to come when this and other similar projects will be developed to the great general gain."

Country is Prosperous.

To prove the prosperous condition of the United States, Secretary Redfield presented statistics showing the United States cultivates twenty-seven acres of land for every person employed, as compared with five to seven acres in Europe.

"In addition," he said, "we are exporting manufactures at the rate of $3,000,000 a day and are sending abroad iron and steel products at the rate of $1,000,000 a day. The progress of the country has resulted in a huge accumulation of wealth. But it has not gone wholly into the hands of a few. The deposits in savings banks in the state of New York would pay off the national debt and still leave $600,000,000 to spare.

"The government should pay special attention to the prosperity of the railroads. At the present time it is quite possible that if marked prosperity were to come quickly upon the nation we might find our great transportation facilities would be inadequate to the burden thrust upon them."

In conclusion, Secretary Redfield said:

"If out of our progress have grown exceptional and rapidly expanding social demands, out of it, too, to our comfort, it may be said, has also grown in recent years a sense of the solidarity of man."

AUTO SPEEDERS MUST SLEEP IN JAIL

New York, March 10.—Automobile speeders who accept jail sentences to avoid payment of fines no longer can escape with an hour or two under lock and key in jail, as many did under former conditions. The board of aldermen today adopted a new speed ordinance to compel violators to spend at least one night in jail.

Under the old order a speeder usually was fined $25 or given one day in jail. Inasmuch as an official day ends at 5 p. m. and many chauffers were sentenced at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, they went to prison for one hour and avoided the fine.

The new law compels the magistrates to impose a fine of $25 or sentence to at least two days in jail.

KIMBROUGH SUFFERS FROM STROKE OF PARALYSIS

Councilman From Tenth Ward Is Confined to His Home. Condition Is Improving.

J. T. Kimbrough, member of council from the tenth ward, is at his home on Murphy avenue today suffering from a severe attack of paralysis. His condition last night, according to his family, was greatly improved, but it is believed that it will be several days before he will be able to return to his business.

News of Councilman Kimbrough's illness caused considerable apprehension among his friends in the city administration and in business circles. He has been a member of the tenth ward delegation in council a little more than a year, and has gained prominence because of his activity and enterprise in all matters leading to the improvement of the ward.

Councilman Kimbrough is the second member to be stricken within the past two months. Judge John S. Candler, mayor pro tem, of council, and one of the most prominent and beloved members of council, has been confined to his home for several weeks.

Tuesday Judge Candler was so much improved that he was able to leave Atlanta for a trip to Hampton Springs, Fla., where he will spend several weeks, months, if need be, to rest and recuperate. Judge Candler left the city at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was accompanied by several members of his family.

The Coming.

When critics with some awful knock
That gives your soul a painful shock
Smash hammers you may have labored for.
Remember that this knock may be
No harbinger of misery.
But signs that Opportunity
Is calling at your door!

Mayhap the critics full of dread
Are but her agents sent ahead,
With stinging lash and raucous stir
To bid you rise betimes and see
That you are armed cap-a-pie,
To welcome and to follow her!

Is being met in the case of the men by one of the most far-seeing and far-reaching movements that the country has ever known. The long arm of enterprise is stretching out to every corner of the earth where there are available and suitable men, beckoning for them to come into the South.

People who know the South say there is room for ten times the present population; that there are millions of acres of unoccupied and undeveloped land; that the psychological hour for settlement and development work is at hand, and that to wait will mean to starve Southern enterprise, hold back the great growth of sea ports and permit a prodigious expanse of agricultural land to grow rank with weeds.

The business, agricultural, educational and social welfare of the entire South is inextricably bound up with this big problem, which is discussed in the article

TEN CHARRED CORPSES RECOVERED FROM RUINS

Twenty Bodies Still in Debris at St. Louis—Fire Not Yet Explained.

St. Louis, Mo., March 10.—Ten bodies had been recovered late today from the ruins of the seven-story building occupied by the Missouri Athletic club, which was destroyed by fire early Monday morning. Of these three were recovered after the firemen entered the ruins today. The other seven were recovered yesterday.

Twenty bodies are thought to be in the ruins, making the total death toll three-score. Of the ten bodies recovered, eight have been identified.

The Identified Dead.

The identified dead:

MARSHALL BISSE, 35, bachelor, head of Marshall Bier & Co., fur dealers, St. Louis.

LUCIUS RUFF, 24, department head Simmons Hardware company, bachelor, son of Dr. L. Ruff, of Cape Girardeau, Mo.; lived with mother in Dallas, Texas (identification doubtful).

WILLIAM J. KINSER, treasurer Kinser Construction company; engaged in construction of East Side levee.

JAME B. REILLY, 56, single, member contracting firm of Ware & Reilly, St. Louis.

JOHN N. RICKEY, 40, Chicago; treasurer Ford Manufacturing company; leaves wife and child in Chicago.

WILLIAM F. ERD, lawyer and real estate dealer, St. Louis.

EDWIN C. KESSLER, 31, cashier Ludlow Saylor Wire company, St. Louis; killed in jumping from sixth floor.

E. F. WILLIAMS, bank promoter, Sautee, Ga.

May Never Recover Some Bodies.

Days probably will elapse before the ruins, which fill the basement up to the third floor, are explored completely, and it is feared many of the bodies never will be recovered.

The vaults of the Boatmen's bank, which occupied part of the building, were uncovered today and found intact. Nearly $1,300,000 in coin and currency was removed under heavy police guard to the vaults of the St. Louis Union Trust company, where the money will be kept until a place can be provided in the temporary quarters of the Boatmen's bank. No satisfactory explanation of the fire has been found. The watchmen on duty during the fire were attributed by the chief of the fire department's bureau to gas that escaped when the meters melted into the intense heat.

Harry Davidson, night watchman for the Athletic club, was on the third floor of the building where the fire was supposed to have started, only fifteen minutes before the blaze was discovered. He found nothing there, he said, that indicated fire danger.

MILLIONAIRE SPEEDER SENT TO THE ROCK PILE

Portland, Ore., March 10.—Five days at hard labor on the city rock pile was the sentence for speeding given to W. C. Barker, millionaire clubman, in the municipal court today.

Expecting to be let off with a fine, Barker pleaded guilty to running his automobile 50 miles an hour within the city limits.

DAVID LLOYD-GEORGE ESCAPES CENSURE VOTE

London, March 10.—The house of commons tonight, by a vote of 304 to 240, refused to pass what virtually was a vote of censure of David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer. The resolution was presented by Sir John S. Randles, antiunist, who moved that the house condemn the chancellor for the repeated inaccuracy of the chancellor and his grave and unfounded attacks on individuals."

As brought out in the debate, the individuals chiefly concerned in the resolution are titled conservative land owners with whom Lloyd-George got into controversy in land campaign speeches.

NEW ORLEANS CHOSEN BY COTTON CRUSHERS

Memphis, Tenn., March 10.—Announcement was made here today by M. E. Singleton, of St. Louis, president of the Interstate Cotton Crushers' association, that New Orleans has been selected by the executive committee as the next meeting place of the association. May 18, 19 and 20 were named as the dates for the convention. Richmond, Memphis and Galveston also contested.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES AND COUNTRY VILLAGES

Washington, March 10.—Charles A. Ireland, president of the National Retail Hardware association, told the house judiciary committee today that if country communities were to exist, small dealers must have some sort of protection. He said he represented the views of 15,000 country merchants, whose business was threatened by mail order houses. He contended for the right of manufacturers to fix retail prices in the interest of country dealers. Other witnesses spoke in similar vein.

CHIEFS OF HUNGRY ARMY ARE BEING PROSECUTED

Rank and File of Kelley's Host Isolated Across Sacramento River.

Sacramento, Cal., March 10.—With the "army" of unemployed en route to Washington, D. C., isolated across the Sacramento river in Yolo county, while Sacramento and Yolo counties settle their disputes as to the former's right to keep it there, the prosecution of leaders was begun late today with the arraignment of nineteen men arrested yesterday as vagrants.

The "army" occupies a peculiar position, according to Yolo county officials. With flood water standing off a mile north to the south, west or north, they have but one direction to take and that is back toward across the bridges into Sacramento. The "army" late today voted to march peacefully through the city on its way eastward if the police would not arrest but let the Sacramento authorities rejected the proposal.

Yolo county officials asked that the Sacramento guards be removed from the bridges, and the army be allowed to cross. This request also was refused. The city officials then threatened to start legal proceedings to obtain possession from guarding the bridges—and there the situation rests. Sacramento deputies again prepared for a night vigil. William Ahern, former chief of police, was put in charge of several hundred who will establish a patrol system.

At the preliminary hearing "General" James Kelley pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy before a township justice and demanded a jury trial. Edward E. Teesdale, John Randolph and John McLennan, his lieutenants, made similar pleas. Their cases will be called before juries Thursday. John Lynch, Michael Murphy and Charles Hogan, substitute lieutenants, also pleaded not guilty.

Harris Weinstock, a member of the United States industrial relations committee, interviewed Kelley in jail today and obtained his views on labor conditions. He told Kelley a trip to Washington would be futile and Kelley finally admitted the fourscore would avail nothing.

The diversity that "Major" W. A. Thorne, one of the most active agitators in the army, was not caught in the police dragnet yesterday caused a flurry in police circles today. Thorne has disappeared. The man arrested for him proved to be a prisoner.

No other food than that provided by the citizens' committee of Sacramento from day to day is in sight for the unemployed.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED KEPT BY CONGRESSMEN

Washington, March 10.—Congressional distribution of free seeds to the farmers of the country was unsuccessfully attacked in the house today during consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill. An amendment by Representative Sumner, of Texas, to place seed distribution in the hands of the department of agriculture was voted down 98 to 86 after a lively debate, in which members from agricultural districts resented charges and insinuations of seed distribution as "graft."

KENTUCKY SHUNNED BY FIRE COMPANIES

Springfield, Mass., March 10.—The Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company has sent word to each of its 187 agents in Kentucky to suspend the transaction of business for the company immediately, save in authorizing increased insurance where there is no increase in hazard. This action follows the signing of the Green-Gleason bill by Governor McCreary, which authorizes the fixing of rates by a state board. The expected reduction of rates would make it impossible to do business further in the state, the company claims. The Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company has been established in Kentucky since 1846.

PEARL EYTINGE DEAD; HER COSTUME STARTLED

New York, March 10.—Pearl Eytinge, whose daring costume and acting in "The Clemenceau Case" brought her instant fame in the late 80's, died March 8 in Atlantic City. Her death became known here today when her body was brought to New York for burial.

She played in the leading theaters of this country and England for years. After her conversion to Dwight L. Moody she left the stage and gave lectures throughout the United States.

She had lived in retirement for years.

COBB SCHOOL BOARD NAMED BY GRAND JURY

Marietta, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—The grand jury, now in session, elected today three members of the county board of education, W. C. Chastain and A. N. Mayes succeeding themselves, and Joseph M. Bishop being elected as successor of J. W. Allgood. Mr. Bishop was for several years a member of the board, and was retired four years ago. All the new members are good men, and have had experience in this important position.

U. S. TO FIX OWNERSHIP OF BRIDGES IN ROME

Rome, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—The United States government may become a factor in determining the ownership of the bridges across the river at Rome. There is a dispute as to whether the bridges are the property of the city of Rome or the county of Floyd, and as to which should have the responsibility of upkeep and repair and rebuilding. Major E. I. Brown, of the United States engineers, has issued an order requiring the bridges across the Coosawattee to be rearranged so the draws can be operated and steamboats allowed to pass up the river. Similar instructions have been given the Central of Georgia railway in regard to its bridges across the Oostanaula.

June 23 was set as the date before which the drawbridges are to be put into operation. If the orders of the engineer are not carried out the question will doubtless be taken into the federal courts to fix the responsibility for failure to comply with the instructions, and then the ownership will be fixed by high authority.

CIGAR TIP LICKING MUST BE STOPPED

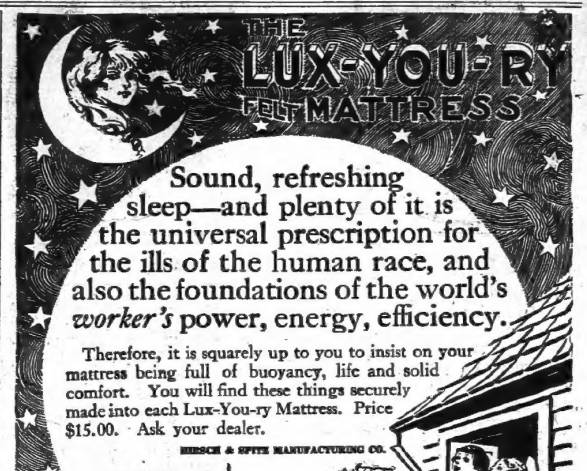

Harrisburg, Pa., March 10.—Notice was given today by Commissioner Jackson, of the department of labor and industry, that cigar makers must stop licking the tips of cigars in their mouths during manufacture.

"The practice of licking or wetting the end of the cigar seems to be a more or less prevalent practice, and one which is not only unsafe to the operatives, but certainly undesirable for the smoker," said Dr. Jackson.

The Easy Way to Banish Those Ugly, Hairy Growths

(Toilet Talks)

Every well regulated toilet table should find room for a package of powdered delatone to be used for banishing hairy growths. To remove objectionable hair or fuzz, make a paste with a little delatone and water and spread on hairy surface for about 2 minutes, then remove and wash the skin. This simple treatment is harmless and seldom requires a second application to remove every trace of hair. Any druggist can supply the delatone in an original package.—(adv.)

OLD CONFEDERATE VET'S INTERESTING NARRATIVE

Sixty-Seven Years of Age, Still Hale and Hearty and Can Swing 14-Inch Plow All Day Long

Frost, Texas.—"I am an old Confederate Veteran, 67 years of age," says Mr. Wesley French, of this place, "and have been living and farming in Navarro County since 1873. Have raised quite a large family.

I am hale and hearty, and can swing a 14-inch plow all day long. Haven't had fever or chills in 46 years, in fact, I don't allow myself or family to get sick. We always take a few doses of Thedford's Black-Draught before we get sick.

When I get up in the morning and have a bitter taste in my mouth, or a dull headache, I take a dose of Black-Draught after eating a little breakfast, another dose at noon and another at night, and it has never failed to cleanse my stomach and liver. It never gripes, but makes me want to eat, instead of making me sick.

We have used Thedford's Black-Draught for 40 years, (since 1873), and feel that we couldn't get along without it."

For over 70 years, long before the war, Thedford's Black-Draught has been regulating irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels, such as constipation, biliousness, indigestion, headache, dyspepsia, bad breath, sour stomach, etc.

Purely vegetable. Good for young or old. Twenty-five cents a package. One cent a dose. Try it for yourself. Begin today.

MRS. BOND TELLS STORY OF HER LIFE OF SHAME

Is Star Witness in Trial of Mrs. Stoe for White Slavery.

Mrs. Annie Stoe, charged with violating the Mann white slave act by inducing Mrs. Annie Bond, a 17-year-old Georgia mountain girl, to accompany her on a tour of Alabama cities for immoral purposes, was placed on trial in the United States court yesterday morning, Judge Newman presiding. District Attorney Alexander appeared for the government, and Attorneys Frank Hamilton and L. H. Foster for the defendant.

Annie Bond was presented as the government's first witness, and occupied the witness chair for an hour and a half reciting the complete story of her life of shame from the timeshe first met the Stoes, in June, until the very day she related her association with them to a special agent of the federal government, who caused the arrest of S. A. Stoe, recently convicted of the same offense and now under a two years' sentence to the federal penitentiary, and Mrs. Stoe, now on trial.

Declaring she had been a sinless girl up to her meeting with Stoe, and that he had made her drunk on beer and then taken advantage of her helpless condition, Mrs. Bond told of a trip she made with Stoe to Birmingham, where they lived at a hotel for several days as man and wife, and, notwithstanding Mrs. Stoe was then in Birmingham awaiting their arrival By Stoe's instructions, she said, she left the hotel and went to the depot where she was later greeted by Stoe and Mrs. Stoe as though she had just reached the city. She recited her daily life with the Stoes during their stay at four different hotels in Birmingham, and then told of trips to Tuscaloosa, Montgomery and other Alabama towns, naming the hotels at which they stopped.

Registers from four hotels in Birmingham, two in Montgomery and one from Tuscaloosa are to be here this afternoon and Mrs. Bond recorded as given by Mrs. Bond in her testimony.

With that evidence the government closed its case and court adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock, when the trial will be resumed with a long list of witnesses for the defense ready to take the stand. It is more than likely that the entire day will be taken up with evidence for the prisoner, and that the case will not reach a conclusion before tomorrow.

CHATHAM PAYS $46,380 FOR BEER LICENSES

CITY MAY PURCHASE HIGH POWER ENGINES

Mayor Authorizes Purchasing Agent to Advertise for Bids at Once.

Following a meeting of the fire board at noon yesterday Mayor James G. Woodward and City Purchasing Agent Chambers discussed plans for two high power auto engines which the city will buy at a cost of approximately $19,000. The mayor ordered the purchasing agent to advertise for the bids immediately.

One of the engines will be installed in the eighth ward house and the other will be put in operation in the fifth ward.

Councilman W. G. Humphrey, of the eighth ward, was at the meeting of the fire board and he urged that work be started immediately on plans for the erection of the engine house in his ward. Councilman Humphrey has had the fight for the eighth ward engine house for more than three years, and it is through his efforts that the finance committee, of which Mayes is chairman, put $21,000 in the January sheet for the house and the equipment.

Section Needs Protection.

At the meeting of the board Tuesday morning Fire Chief Cunningham stated that he was anxious to have the eighth ward house completed as early as possible. Councilman Humphrey informed the chief that the section of the city selected for the location of the engine house is in greater need of fire protection than any other section and made it plain that he expected the city to have the house built and the engine installed about July.

Several architects who had received information that the local community for the purpose of discussing plans for the fifth and eighth ward engine houses attended the meeting, and they were invited by the board to prepare plans. Tentative plans were discussed before the board adjourned to meet again Wednesday morning.

According to the plans of the city, the eighth ward engine house will cost, with the neighborhood fixings, and the engine will cost about $8,000. The house will be of bungalow design similar to the house in the fourth ward, which is considered one of the prettiest in the country.

Site on West Peachtree.

Councilman Humphrey acted on the advice of the citizens of the eighth ward and selected a site on the West Peachtree near Fourteenth street for the location of the engine house.

Mayor Woodward declared Tuesday that he will demand that the fire board proceed with the purchase of the engines for both the fifth and eighth wards in accordance with the city's purchasing department. He said he will not tolerate the acceptance of bids unless each is accompanied by a guarantee bond.

The board will require an engine of not less than 500 gallons per minute capacity.

COLUMBUS RATE CASE WILL COME UP TODAY

It is expected that knotty problems will be presented to the state railroad commission today, when the hearing of the city of Columbus v. the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company is begun before that body at the state capitol. Columbus is fighting for better rates and service from the company.

MRS. JOHN Z. HOKE, JR., DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Was Formerly Miss Harrie Stockdell—Relatives Arrive Today for Funeral.

While on a short visit here, having arrived Saturday evening, Mrs. John Z. Hoke, Jr., of Athens, Ga., died suddenly yesterday shortly before noon at the Hotel Ansley. She was Miss Harrie Stockdell, formerly of Atlanta, but more recently of Athens, her marriage to Mr. Hoke having been a brilliant social event in the latter city in early January.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoke came to Atlanta for the week-end, having many friends here, and stopped over to attend the theater this week. Mrs. Hoke was entertained by friends Monday evening and was not taken ill until Tuesday morning. Dr. G. A. Vinson was quickly summoned and every remedy resorted to, but Mrs. Hoke died during the heart disease. She is survived by her husband, who was with her when she died; by her mother, who arrives from Athens this morning; her brother, Clarence Stockdell, of Richmond, Va., and her sister, Mrs. Hugh Poeumans, of New York, both of whom will arrive this evening some time today.

Mrs. Stockdell will be with Mr. and Mrs. Harry English, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dorman will be with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foreman. The funeral will take place Thursday from the Patterson chapel, the time not yet decided upon.

The news of Mrs. Hoke's death will be a shock to the social community and to a large contingent of friends in the young society girl. She was the second daughter of the late Harry Stockdell, one of the most prominent figures in the insurance world of the state.

He caught a train, saying he would go to Macon. The child has been living with his grandparents here. It was said, with Dr. Jones' consent.

ROSIER CASE IS ON AS COURT TAKES A RECESS

The criminal division of the superior court recessed on Tuesday with the trial of Tom Bowen, negro hackman, charged with robbery in the present case, but with no later face a charge of assault with intent to murder, upon the person of J. A. Rosier, a downtown soda fount owner, still in progress.

Misses are and showing signs of having all but been bled into an unrecognizable shape, Rosier took the stand on Tuesday and told how, while on the search for a "blind tiger" on Forsyth street recently, he had been set upon and beaten unconscious.

Officers declared that Bowen later was found to have in his possession a diamond stickpin belonging to Rosier.

MORE POLICE NEEDED ON FORSYTH STREET

When the police committee of council holds its next meeting, Councilman C. D. Knight, of the second ward, will urge that the members recommend to Chief Beavers that he station one or two patrolmen on Forsyth street between Luckie and James, to regulate traffic and generally keep the neighborhood.

Councilman Knight stated Tuesday that, while he fully realizes that the police department is hampered for the want of funds to increase the force, still he believes the section he refers to should be adequately patrolled.

Councilman Knight believes that two policemen stationed during the busiest part of the day—one at Luckie and the other at James street—will meet conditions.

Councilman Humphrey joined with Councilman Knight. He said he favored having two men so, with Chief Beavers immediately.

SOLDIER MUST FACE CHARGE OF FORGERY

Upon a requisition from the governor of Colorado, Hayden Tipton, a soldier at Fort McPherson, left Tuesday in charge of a western official for Greely, Colo., where he will face a charge of forgery.

Tipton enlisted in the army some time ago under the name of Robert Graham and was assigned to Fort McPherson. His whereabouts and assumed name were discovered through a letter found in the effects of his father in Colorado when the latter was arrested upon a charge of counterfeiting.

GLASCOCK BARRETT DIES SUDDENLY IN AUGUSTA

Prominent Georgian Suffered Stroke of Apoplexy Early Tuesday Morning.

Augusta, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Glascock Barrett, among the most prominent of Augustans and well known throughout Georgia, died suddenly at an early hour this morning. Mr. Barrett suffered a stroke of apoplexy shortly after midnight. The forepart of Monday night he was mingling with his friends, apparently in his usual state of health.

He was a member of one of the most prominent families in this section, and was 51 years of age. For some years he was state oil inspector, after which he became manager of the Round Bale Cotton company, with headquarters in Atlanta. In 1902 he was selected to assume charge of the Georgia exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, which position he filled with credit to himself and state.

Mr. Barrett is survived by his wife and mother. Besides these he leaves one brother, Clarence Stockdell, of Richmond, Va., and her sister, Mrs. Hugh Poeumans, of New York, both of whom will arrive this evening some time today.

Mrs. Stockdell will be with Mr. and Mrs. Harry English, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dorman will be with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foreman. The funeral will take place Thursday from the Patterson chapel, the time not yet decided upon.

The news of Mrs. Hoke's death will be a shock to the social community and to a large contingent of friends in the young society girl. She was the second daughter of the late Harry Stockdell, one of the most prominent figures in the insurance world of the state.

SAM CRANE'S CHARGES ARE REFERRED BACK

The accusations of Attorney Sam Crane against Dolph Branneen and Thomas Hayes, the turnkeys at police headquarters who were charged with crookedness at the February meeting of the police board, were referred back to the committee appointed to investigate them when they came up before the board last night.

The reason for this was because of dissenting opinion in the investigating committee, two of the members, Councilmen Johnson wanted the charges confined to Hayes and Branneen, while Commissioners Vernor and Garner wanted Crane's entire charges given a thorough airing.

A further investigation will be made by the committee.

There created considerable excitement when the charges came up last night. Crane, in the body of his remarkable his accusations, he sprang to his feet, and shouted:

"I do not want to be double-crossed by this city board. I will not compromise and you must give it to me."

Judge Woodward said that the charges be heard in complete form. Chief Beavers supported the mayor in this statement.

BINDS GIRL OVER, BUT EXPRESSES SYMPATHY

When Margaret Hicks, a 20-year-old girl, who has been living in an East Cain street boarding house, appeared before Judge Luther Rosser late Tuesday afternoon on a charge of having attempted to defraud the boarding house keeper out of several dollars' boarding bill, the court read a lecture to the young woman and then bound Reid, that startled the courtroom attaches.

"Such prosecutions as these," declared Judge Rosser, "only push young girls who are striving to make their own way further down the road to ruin. I am sure there are other ways of collecting such debts as this and by bringing this girl into this court and having her publicly branded in this manner.

"However, there is proof here that the young woman did leave her boarding house without paying her bill, so I will have to bind her over to the grand jury under a $500 bond."

The court set the bond at $50, which the girl made before she left the sheriff's office.

"COFFEE POT" BOILING IN FIFTH DISTRICT

By word of mouth from Representative C. H. Stewart, of Coffee county, who came news to the capitol on Tuesday that the democratic politics is stirring industriously and with considerable activity.

"There are in the field for the state senate from the fifth district," said Mr. Stewart, "three candidates. These are J. A. Ward, J. L. Hatfield and J. R. Overman, of Coffee county. This triangular fight is getting extremely warm. In addition to this, there are about thirty men out for the various county offices.

"Through all this, however, Mr. Stewart is the only man in the field who is running for the house unopposed.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY HAS A BUSY SESSION

The federal grand jury, Frank Hawkins foreman, yesterday returned a dozen indictments for violations of internal revenue laws and for selling bills charging violations of the federal penal code.

HUNGER FORCES BOYS TO YIELD TO SHERIFF

Aurora, Ill. March 10.—Three boy fugitives from the state home for boys, at St. Charles, Ill., who eluded a posse of farmers near Big Rock, Ill., all day, surrendered to Sheriff Charles McBriarity tonight. The boys, William Smith, Chicago; George Fairchild and William Boorkamian, Jacksonville, Ill., had not eaten since Sunday night, when leaving St. Charles last night. Hunger was the cause of their surrender.

Elmer Dean, a Big Rock farmer, who was shot through the thigh when he tried to apprehend the boys early in the day, is in an Aurora hospital, where it was said he had a slight chance for recovery. The boys refused to say which one shot Dean. Unless the sheriff can bring to the fired the shot, all will be held in jail until it is learned how seriously he is wounded.

EAT MORE SALMON TO CUT LIVING COST

Washington, March 10.—"To reduce the cost of living, eat more salmon, especially of the cheaper grades, and eat it!" That is the advice of Dr. Hugh M. Smith, federal commissioner of fisheries, in a statement today. He says that not only is salmon cheaper than meats, but it will keep indefinitely if unopened, while the latter spoil quickly in the home.

"Most grades of canned salmon," says the statement, "are richer than canned beef, pork or veal, and also contain about the same amount of fats. Pink salmon, which is a cheaper grade is better than meats for making flesh and bone, but less fat. Either is as digestible as the best sirloin steak, there is no waste and nothing has to be thrown away except the can."

Teachers Paid $46,414.

The public school teachers were paid this week another installment, this one of $46,414, on last year's salaries. There remains $95,000 yet to be paid.

MRS. M. F. SHUMATE SUES HUSBAND FOR DIVORCE

"It is just for my two little girls that I am asking for alimony in my suit against my husband," said Mrs. M. F. Shumate to a Constitution reporter yesterday afternoon. "I wouldn't take a cent of my husband's money for myself, but I am determined that he shall help support these two little girls. And, further, I shall ask the court to give me the custody of them."

Driven to desperation, after numerous efforts to have her husband properly support herself and her two children, Mrs. May Fear Shumate, well-known Atlanta girl and daughter of H. M. Fear, treasurer of the Atlanta Compress company, has filed suit for divorce.

The petition accompanying the suit names a vaudeville actress as co-respondent.

William Ernest Shumate was, on Tuesday, found guilty in the city criminal court on charges of abandonment and sentenced to pay a fine of $250 or go to the chaingang for twelve months. The court read a lecture on the duties of a father towards his offspring when the jury had announced their verdict.

Mrs. Shumate's petition alleges habitual drunkenness as a violation of the marriage vows. The suit recites that Shumate was married in this city in 1908. The husband, it is alleged, deserted his wife and later his children on several occasions. Each time, the wife says, she took the husband back. Once the husband went to San Francisco, where the wife finally located him and wrote to him. The wife declares her father had to send her money to get back home.

Shumate, so the petition avers, then followed his wife back to Atlanta, leaving her again in December, 1913, to go to Montgomery with a vaudeville actress. During February the husband returned again, but soon left. The warrant, upon which the charge of abandonment and the fine or chaingang sentence was imposed Tuesday, followed.

GREATEST MONSTER OF ALL CAPTURED

After Suffering From Ravages of Horrible Parasite, Little Woman Weighing Ninety-Six Pounds Expels a Tapeworm Ninety-Seven Feet Long

Mrs. J. C. Lalley, living at No. 4 Ethel street, near High, this city, is now happy. Four years ago this lady was in excellent health and weighed over 130 pounds. Later she became a weak, pale and discouraged woman and her weight was only 96 pounds. What was the cause of the great loss? When she was seen she said: "I began to have stomach trouble about four years ago. I would bloat and belch after meals. Headache and dizziness were frequent. I would nauseate at the sight of food sometimes. Again I had a ravenous appetite, often having to get up at midnight to eat. Pains in my stomach and a soreness in the back and around my sides kept me in misery. I treated for indigestion, but got no relief. I kept getting weaker and thinner, until I had to stop most of my housework. I used many of the remedies, but was really worse after them. My friends told me I must have lung trouble. Four years of this suffering reduced my weight over 30 pounds. I was discouraged, and thought there was no cure for me. I called at Coursey & Mann's drug store. I explained my trouble, and they recommended the use of Quaker Extract. I began using it, and after four days' use felt a slight dizziness come over me. After which I expelled this horrible parasite, which is over 97 feet long. I have eaten the first meal that I can say I enjoyed in four years and feel like I have a new stomach. I will always praise the wonderful Quaker Extract."

This death-dealing monster was brought to the drug store in which several parasites brought were, in many instances, large, but this worm expelled by Mrs. Lalley is the monster of them all, and is now harmless. After having been the entire cause of all her four years of suffering. It is attracting great attention, and will be exhibited. If you suffer from any kind of stomach trouble, if you have kidney, bladder or blood troubles, catarrh or rheumatism, you should call at once at Coursey & Mann's drug store, 19 Marietta street, and obtain Quaker Extract. $1.00, 3 for $2.50, 6 for $4.00. We prepay express charges on all orders of $2.00 or over.—(adv.)

NEW WAYS TO DRESS THE HAIR

Fashion Decrees That Higher Coiffure Be Worn by Her Devotees in the Evening.

Although originality remains the secret of the successful coiffure, new tendencies are noticeable that promise radical and delightful changes.

By degrees the hair is being brought higher and higher on the head, particularly for evening wear; ears are once more permitted to peep forth, after long banishment, and the contour of the head is preserved by the close arrangement of the hair that predominates.

The newest coiffure being worn in Paris has the hair evenly waved in a large loose wave and then drawn smoothly back from the temples without the least tendency to a pompadour. The hair is drawn straight back from the forehead also, sloping up to the back of the head, where it is coiled, quite high, in an invisible chignon, leaving the nape of the neck uncovered. Soft little ringlets fringe the temples and there is a flat curl in front of the ears, the lobes of which are exposed. Very bewitching and quaint is this coiffure when three little curls, like one sees in old daguerreotypes, are permitted to fall in front of the ears. A carved comb, thrust at a certain angle, adds an effective touch.

Curls in High Favor.

Curls are coming into high favor, some of the coiffures having the back hair entirely converted into soft, loose ringlets that are simply pinned in a knot at the crown of the head. This style is especially becoming to young girls when a simple fillet is worn about the head.

Those who have found the casque style of hairdressing suited to them may wear their hair thus arranged with the assurance that it continues to be fashionable. Tortoise shell pins for daytime use—the jeweled ones that come in such a wide variety for the evening coiffures—may be used to hold in place the strands that swathe the head.

With the low style of hair dressing, which will by no means be forsaken by the woman for whom it is particularly becoming, the "Burnsides" arrangement of the hair brought well over onto the cheek continues popular. One may buy by the pair specially made and beautifully waved "Burnsides" to carry out this effect. Indeed, the variety of forms in which hair is made up nowadays makes possible the coming of the most unmanageable head into a charming coiffure. Here are separate curls, of all lengths, from the saucy "beau catcher" that vainly tries to spoil the forehead, to the long colonial curl worn so as to rest upon the shoulder; there are thick bruises with both ends finished by curls, and there are coils and frames and fringes galore.

Novel Part of Hair.

Somewhat novel is the coiffure in which makes the natural parting of the hair slant from just over the left eye to the right side of the crown. The hair is brought low over the brow and the back hair is drawn up to the crown into a Psyche knot.

The head-dresses that have been so popular during the winter season are assuming distinct characteristics. Tulle, flowers and aigrettes will be seen in many novel concoctions for wear with evening gowns. Tortoise combs, pins and bars are always in good taste for daytime wear.

RUGS MAY BE DYED TO MATCH ANY COLOR

A very light rug is never as satisfactory as a rug with a subdued background. The plain Wilton and chenille rugs can be obtained in every wanted shade and may also be dyed to order to match any color scheme. These come in seamless widths up to 16 feet. Some have two-toned bands, and the shade bands, bordered with conventional designs or small figured borders.

The Axminster rug is noted for its wearing qualities and makes an excellent rug for good, steady use. The patterns shown this season are a great improvement on those previously shown. One does not tire of a small patterned rug as quickly as of a large design. There is a growing demand for rag rugs, which are woven in many new shades and designs. Rag rugs are especially appropriate for bedrooms.

WASHABLE, FADELESS RUGS FOR SUMMER

An interesting feature of the rugs for summer use are those that are washable and fadeless. Nearly all these rugs are made reversible, some are plain on both sides, while others have one side patterned and the other plain. There is such a large assortment of designs and colors at moderate prices for furnishing the summer home that the variety is almost limitless.

A popular wool and fiber rug is especially designed for the dining room and living room. These come in two-toned bungalow effects and all-over designs, which will harmonize with the most sedate surroundings. The Japanese cotton rugs come in a better coloring than hitherto.

CORSETS

The slimness of youth is in the long, sweeping, slender lines of these famous corsets.

Hints For the Home Dressmaker

Suits for the girls from 10 to 16 years show all the newest style features of the present season, which have had to be modified very little to suit the youthful figure.

Fancy cuts prevail in the jackets, with the Eton effects particularly favored. Some of these little coats are cut quite long in the back, giving the smart cut-away lines so well liked.

Fancy collars of silk or of the same material are seen on many of the suits. Not a few pompadour crepe linings are used.

The skirts mirror all the favored modes in women's skirts. There are banning peg-top effects, tunic arrangements and even suggestions of the mineret styles.

Gabardine has been used extensively in making up these models, with serge holding its own—nothing is more practical for daily wear—and plaid materials utilized in many jaunty styles. High colors are preferred, especially for the little tots of 6 and 7. Red and rose and the new tango shade have freely been used, in both suits and dresses.

The wash dresses are delightful this season in their soft simplicity. The dressier models are of sheer white organdie, delicately embroidered, while voile, sponge, satine and plaid ginghams form the every-day little frocks. One of these adorable organdies, white, scattered over with tiny sprigs of flowers—was held in at the shoulders and high waist line by a Victorian fichu of white mull that gave it the quaint and old-time look. The ends of the fichu were caught up on to the waist with bunches of small pink satin roses. From one of these bunches hung a little bag of the same material as the frock, in which to carry the tiny tots handkerchief.

Flounced skirts are seen on many of the wash frocks, as well as odd little peplum effects and the pop-top cut. The waist line is kept normal for the most part, only occasionally being lengthened to the hips.

Illustrating a smart use of the vest effect, which shares honors with variations of the bolero in favored waist design, was a plaid dress in soft, dull shades of blue. The long, square vest reaching midway to the low belt, was of white linen, finely tucked, with a row of white linen buttons down each side. Collars and cuffs were of white linen, very simply embroidered.

Dresses in shoulder strap style with lingerie blouses will be much worn a little later on, particularly in the plaids and checked materials. Dotted challis, accordion pleated and hanging from shallow yokes, are attractive and practical little dresses to have for the cool days that will come now and then. A serge dress of this order also, was buttoned straight up and down the front with large satin buttons and bound button holes. A high waist line was indicated, but not held in by a heavy smocking done in silk to match the fabrics. Detachable muslin ruffles at the neck and elbows added a touch of grown-up mediishness.

Another frock that is sure to delight the small wearer herself because of the two big pockets that are slipped into the front width of the skirt at the hip level, is of dark blue linen. It has kimono sleeves and is hung from the shoulders by pleats set into a shallow yoke. The neck is finished with a broad Byron collar and a bridle of heavy cord hangs from under the collar in front, outlining also the two pockets of the quaint little dress.

ANTIQUE RUGS OF RICH COLORS

Antique rugs are admired for their mellow colorings glowing with lite and luster.

The vegetable dyes used in coloring these rugs are not only rich in color, but also preserve the wool, giving it a silky appearance the more the rug is used. The secret of dyeing the different rugs is handed down from father to son. Different families make a study of producing a certain color in different shades. The family skilful in producing a good blue dye may not be able to produce a good red or green dye.

Larger sized rugs are asked for continually owing to the fashion of covering most of the floor. The moderate priced rugs are some cheaper on account of the tariff, but the more expensive ones remain about the same. Antique Chinese rugs in blue and gold are truly works of art, but modern reproductions made in Turkey are really a good investment and show wonderful designs.

THE EASTER BRIDE SHATTERS TRADITIONS

The Easter bride of 1914 shatters hallowed traditions.

She wears pink tinted satin instead of ivory. Her wedding gown has no train. Her bridal veil does not veil her.

Paquin Shows Her Paris Models

AT New York's most fashionable hotel—the Ritz-Carlton—Paquin, the great Paris dressmaker, has made the most notable exhibit of Paris fashions ever shown in America. Paquin used her own mannequins from Paris to stage the performance, all of them garbed in Paquin costumes. Many of these costumes, by reason of their beauty and smart lines, will set the fashions for spring.

Mrs. L. Davenport, Now in Charge of Our Dressmaking Salon, Attended these Paquin performances. Having taken copious notes and purchased materials similar to these Paquin costumes, Mrs. Davenport is now ready to reproduce or adapt them for Atlanta women.

In addition, Mrs. Davenport saw the models of Poiret, Drecoll, Cheruit, Callot, etc., from which she gathered ideas to help her in designing Spring wraps, suits and gowns. Exclusive materials specially purchased insure each customer an individual selection, not to be duplicated. (Dressmaking Salon, Main Floor, Left Annex.)

Before You Try on Your New Spring Suit or Gown, Have

Miss Jackson Fit You With a Bon Ton Corset

BELTS are two inches larger, making it more imperative than ever that Milady be corseted before she chooses the rest of her wardrobe. For the new skirts have taken for granted that the waistline has disappeared—and to alter them would be to spoil their "architecture" entirely.

Women will be corseted from the waistline to the knees—or as far as is necessary to conceal the corset line and give the "uncorseted" appearance.

The Bon Ton Corsets

not only give this natural figure effect, but they also give bodily support and poise, permitting plenty of freedom for deep breathing.

Miss Jackson Is Here to Explain and demonstrate these truths by actual fittings.

Bon Ton Corsets are $3 to $25.

—Dame Fashion is not unreasonable and capricious. She doesn't pounce upon a fabric and say, "This shall be the style." There must be a reason. The reason for the is because it is supple enough to drape easily, yet with body enough to stay "put." Our assortment of chiffon taffetas embraces solid colors, changeables and black. All 36 inches wide at $1.50. Also yard-wide black taffetas up to $2.50 and flowered and striped taffetas at $1.50 and $2.50.

Moires Are in High Favor

because they make the smartest of suits and wraps. The rich watered surface is a trimming in itself; the fabric proper has body enough to tailor easily. Deep, rich black; 36 inches wide. $1.50 and $1.75.

Spring Cottons Have Blossomed

Novelty Dress Fabrics Have Unfolded In An Enchanting Garden of Beauty

MANY of the beautiful fabrics, which left Europe later than the others, have fluttered into the garden of Wash Cottons like apple-blossom petals. They make still more bewitching a gathering that has already attracted the attention of Atlanta women generally by its rich variety, and by daring originality and exclusiveness of the designs it includes. Fabrics can be classified in four groups:

The Charming Crepes

—Make a brave show. 40-inch white crepes at $1 are embroidered in colors; solid colors have raised plaids or stripes; others have plaids or stripes of variegated colors. At $1.50 to $2 are flower designs of bewitching delicacy, exquisite embroidered effects and exclusive Paris patterns. All the other end at 25c up are solid color crepes, floret and striped patterns.

Ratines Run the Gamut

—of plain colors with nubs and stripes; black and white checks and stripes; rich Scotch plaids and all sorts of novelty weaves 39c to $2.50.

Linens Are Favored

—for suits and dresses. All weights and textures —plain, ramie and crepe. France, Ireland and Germany contribute their best. 25c to $2.50; the latter for a linen ratine.

Silk & Cotton Fabrics

are entrancing. There are solid colors in crepe de chines at $1.50; sponges at $1; floret crepes at $1. A self striped crepe is delightful for draperies; an embroidered crepe is stunning for exclusive gowns. Brocaded designs in solid colors are fetching, floral effects from Switzerland fairly captivate. It's a showing that is good to see.

Carter's Spring Needle Underwear

Carter's Spring Needle Underwear represents the highest type of domestic knit underwear made. Union suits are low neck and sleeveless, with choice of shell or tight knee. $1 and $1.50. (Main Floor, Right.)

the white kid gloves that wash like a linen. $1.50 and $3.50.

GETTING AT THE TRUTH.

Responding to the complaint of Atlanta merchants touching discrimination in the purchase of supplies at Fort McPherson and carried to the war department by Congressman William Schley Howard, the secretary of war has communicated with the commandant at the post, Major D. W. Martin, requesting a full investigation and report. Major Martin has in turn gotten in touch with President Wilkinson, of the chamber of commerce, who will notify the wholesale merchants interested.

It would be difficult to find a man better qualified by experience, temperament or equipment to conduct the inquiry in such manner as will do justice to all concerned. The fact that the probe will be under his direction is assurance that the exact truth will be found and that is all anyone could ask.

Undoubtedly, in the past, supplies have been bought from a distance when they could have been bought just as cheaply in Atlanta. This is obviously wrong. The Atlanta merchants do not ask that the cards be stacked in their favor. All they ask is that they be allowed to bid in the open market with no penalty or handicap, and that where their goods equal in specification and price goods offered from distant sources, that they be given the preference.

At bottom, the matter is one purely of business and of a business "square deal," which is all that Atlanta wants. It is now up to the chamber of commerce to see that the wholesale merchants, having most at stake, present their case properly and fully to Major Martin. The issue is an important one, has been nibbled at several times and should now be settled for good and all. The precedent now about to be established is an important one. Upon the showing the merchants make will depend much of their dealings with the post in the future. And they may rest assured that in the person of Major Martin they are assured of an impartial hearing.

EDWARD H. BUTLER.

The death of Edward H. Butler, editor and proprietor of The Buffalo (N. Y.) Evening News and The Sunday News, brings a real loss of the profession of journalism in America and to the realm of higher ideals in the public service. In Atlanta, Mr. Butler's death will be the occasion of especial grief, since he has many times visited and been entertained here, and since his son, Edward H. Butler, married in this city.

The peculiarity of Mr. Butler's journalistic record was that he invariably placed patriotism before partisanship. He believed in organization, but he believed more largely in effective service and in the truth, under whatever banner he found it. He made The Buffalo News one of the great newspaper properties of the country—a power in city, state and nation.

As sad as is his death and as deep as will be the grief of a nation-wide circle of friends, there is a note of consolation in that he leaves a son, Edward H. Butler, broken to harness, sympathetic with his ideals and already having demonstrated his father's unusual genius for business ability, clean journalism and public service. The Constitution could wish for this bereaved young man, whose sorrow we share, no future more fortunate than that he shall fully measure to his father's splendid stature in all phases of life. And he gives full promise of doing that very thing.

FOR A GREATER WESLEY.

With $10,000 already to their credit, the ladies who are in charge of the campaign for meeting the remarkable offer of Asa G. Candler for broadening the scope of Wesley Memorial hospital, expect to secure pledges to the requisite amount of $35,000 by next Sunday. Mr. Candler has offered for every one dollar raised by the ladies to contribute three dollars. The final sum sought is $100,000, of which Mr. Candler expects to supply $75,000. But he does not wait until the entire $35,000 is secured to begin his donation. The moment a dollar is pledged from the outside he covers it with three, and the total amount goes on interest-bearing deposit. The terms of this practical philanthropist are not less than remarkable in an age wherein practical philanthropists are inclined to conduct their benefactions upon a decidedly one-sided scientific scale.

There should be no need to detail to the people of Atlanta, or of Georgia or the south, the actual need of enlarging the facilities of Wesley Memorial. The institution has grown wonderfully since its founding, a tribute to the excellence of its management and to the size of the field it so admirably fills. Its doors are open to all, irrespective of denomination. It has done much charity work, a fact which explains the difficulty it has annually in meeting its growing budgets.

The sum of $100,000 will well supplement the equipment and space of the hospital, and enable it to serve with better advantage the people, of Atlanta and Georgia and the south, for its patronage is south-wide. The sum these devoted women are asking is negligible by the side of the importance of the cause. And surely, if one man can generously give three dollars for each one contributed by the public, the movement ought to make such a popular appeal as to assure its completion in record time.

A LONG-DISTANCE WARRIOR.

We regret to see partisan jingoism again rear its head in congress, this time in the person of United States Senator Fall, republican, of New Mexico.

Coming from a state that borders on Mexico, with its turbulent conditions, it is not difficult to understand the gyrations of the senator from New Mexico.

No one, of course, underestimates the discomfort visited upon the commonwealths that have the misfortune to be near the scene of conflict. But that offers no valid reason why one or two border states should, following the rampant lead of California, pursue a reckless course calculated to imbroil the whole nation in war and expenditure.

And war is practically what colored the remarks of our fire-eating friend from New Mexico when, for three solid hours on the senate floor, he related personally-underwritten stories of "atrocities" upon Americans in Mexico, and plead for intervention to save this country from a war with Europe.

In all likelihood, the senator was "talking for buncombe;" in other words, for home consumption. This sort of talk will not force the hand of the president nor swerve him from his reiterated policy. For Senator Fall's denunciation to the contrary notwithstanding, Mr. Wilson has at every turn shown an intimate familiarity with the intricacies of the Mexican situation. He does not mix his knowledge with brimstone nor qualify it with high-geared adjectives, like the senator from New Mexico. But he goes his course in a plodding, conscientious way, prepared to intervene if that is inevitable, but mindful ever of the cost of intervention to the whole country.

A PHENOMENAL RECORD.

The upset guarantee fund for Atlanta's season of grand opera this year was $50,000.

The first day's sale only, of season tickets only, ran over forty-one thousand dollars.

That astounding fact is typical of Atlanta, which does spectacular things in a practical way and does them constantly.

But not in the history of grand opera in Atlanta, in itself sufficiently phenomenal, has a record of this nature been approximated.

It is true that patronage from all the south helped swell the total.

But it was an Atlanta enterprise that was patronized, an enterprise that Atlanta initiative made possible.

Another significant indication is the prosperity thus demonstrated to exist throughout the south, running strongly in Atlanta and Georgia and bearing out the reiterated forecasts of The Constitution last fall. For no city, or state or section not abundantly prosperous, could afford thus to make so startling a contribution to the luxury of art.

It is well, meanwhile, to bear in mind that the phenomenal first day's sale foreshadows a record demand for season and single seats.

The prospective patron desiring a choice location had best lose no time getting in on the ground floor.

Prosperity needs no press agent.

This certainly is a "forward looking" March.

The president tells the country: "Come clean' in the matter of Panama canal tolls and, almost literally, the 'world is ours.'"

Villa promises to be good. "The devil is sick, the devil a monk would be."

Bought that season ticket to grand opera yet?

The report is from Alabama that Underwood is to be elected. At this distance, it looks to be a question of majority only.

It remains now for Mr. Wilson to take a fall out of Senator Fall.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
The Famous Prune Poet.

Not for Him.

"We're going to have a musical entertainment at the schoolhouse this evening," announced Traphagen, "and we all want you to be there, Rumbelow. You don't take proper interest in such things, and the people are talking about it."

"Let them talk and be hanged," replied Rumbelow. "If the people of this neighborhood didn't do anything worse than talk about me, I'd be as merry as a wedding bell. but you know quite well all that they spend most of their time trying to inveigle me into amateur shows of one sort or another. But I'm getting wise to all their tricks, and they have to get up pretty daylight in the morning if they want to throw the harpoon into your friend Rumbelow.

"The last time the conspirators got my goat was about six weeks ago, when Zedliker came over here wearing an open-face smile just like yours. He said there was going to be an entertainment at the church, to raise funds for the relief of several poor families, and he considered it my duty as a man and citizen to attend and spend a quarter. I feared some trap, but I argued that they would not expect me to job on me in the synagogue, so I agreed to go, and when the appointed evening came I loomed up at the auditorium in my wedding clothes, with about an acre of white shirt front, and a collar that sawed my ears off. I always feel like a martyr on such stake when I have my best clothes on, and the fact that I went there that evening, in such array, shows that I am willing to make sacrifices for the public good.

"It hadn't been three minutes before Zedliker got up on the platform with that blamed saintly smile of his, and said that Professor Sample, the piano musician, had consented to play a few pieces on the pipe organ. Unfortunately, Zedliker said, the functionary who usually pumped wind into the organ was absent, and he would have to appoint a committee of one to attend to that important work. Before he got that far the whole plot was plain to me. I tried to edge toward the door, but you and Fessenden headed me off, and there I could do a thing in self-defense I was appointed a committee to work the gump. I had to go into a little black room that was hotter than India's coral strand, and that fool professor would tell the public he ever heard of, and I had to pump wind until my back was dislocated and I was standing in a pool of my own sweat.

"Of all the low down tricks ever played on me that was the worst, and nothing ever hurt me feelings more. I'll get even my experience when Fessenden persuaded me to go to the schoolhouse one evening and see some remarkable experiments by the world famous electrician. He told me that the world famous electrician had sent word to me that he wanted me at his lodge as a special favor to himself. I learned afterwards that he didn't send any such message, and had never heard of me, but that only made me the more determined to grasp a couple of handles which were attached to a coil. I was the gentleman in front, and I couldn't back down before a crowd, so I grabbed the handles, not knowing what was coming, and the blamed idiot shot about ten thousand volts of chain lightning into me. I never had such a time in my life. I couldn't let go of the blamed handles, and I jumped so high my head knocked plaster from the ceiling, and some of the pupils I had in my class today by those fool girls just doubled up with joy. You can't work me again that way, Traphagen, so just chase yourself."

Negro Lawyer Praises Ante-Bellum Whites For Their Liberality

Editor Constitution: Permit me to express through your paper a few thoughts upon the passing of the ante-bellum whites.

It is often my pleasure to read words of praise from various persons, of the ante-bellum negroes, and usually it is upon the passing of this type that prompts the comment of this sort.

Permit me to refer to the passing of the ante-bellum whites. Realising as I do the merited amount of praise bestowed upon these noble people, I desire to offer my humble but sincere share, yet I feel that it will be received in the same spirit in which it is offered.

Whenever I read words of praise of the faithful fathers and mothers of my race, a picture of the ante-bellum whites, with extended hands of succor, presents itself.

With the passing of this true type of southern men and women there passes a part of the south itself which can never be replaced. Time has drawn heavily upon the races and upon the sight of master greeting slave will have passed into history, and then —what? The door has been long understood each other and have stood as a bulwark, often keeping back the rushing waters of misunderstanding between the younger generations.

If the white race loses more than a servant in the passing of the old slave surely the black race loses more than a master in the passing of the ante-bellum whites.

In this whirligig of life at times we pause to praise these people while yet some are left to us to receive our homage.

Respectfully,
THOMAS W. HOLMES,
Colored Lawyer.

The Great Trials of Historu

TRIAL OF EUGENE MARIE CHANTRELLE.

One of the most conspicuous trials of wife poisoning in the annals of Scottish criminal jurisprudence was that of Eugene Marie Chantrelle. The convicted prisoner was a Frenchman by birth, who on August 11, 1858, married Elizabeth Cullen Dyer in Edinburgh, one of his pupils in a fashionable boarding school in which he was a teacher of the languages.

Before going to Scotland, Chantrelle had spent several years in America, although of his movements and occupations in this country nothing definitely is known. Almost from the first the marriage was an unhappy one. Again and again the wife was compelled to take refuge with her mother. Chantrelle had several times threatened to take her life. Only the wife's deep affection for their four children kept her from a separation.

To poison his wife had been Chantrelle's favorite form of threat. In October, 1877, he insured the life of his wife for $5,000, the policy being soon framed as to take effect only in the case of her death by accident. Up to New Year's day, 1878, Madame Chantrelle had been in good health. She had allowed her servant a holiday on that day, and with her husband and children remained at home.

On the return of the servant she found her mistress in bed with her baby beside her. She complained of being ill, and the servant administered to her, and went to her own room. She left the light burning and heard nothing more during the night.

When the servant rose the following morning she heard a moaning sound proceeding from the room of her mistress and went to see the cause, and discovered that Madame Chantrelle was unconscious. The girl was now summoned the husband who was asleep in an adjoining room, or apparently so. He came to his wife's bedroom and sent the servant out of the room on a pretext, and when she returned she found that there was a very strong smell of gas, which she had not previously noticed.

The husband went for a physician and also directed that his wife's mother should be brought to the house. The dying woman was sent to the Royal Infirmary, where Professor Maclagan, upon examination, found that the symptoms were not indicative of gas, but of narcotic poisoning. Madame Chantrelle died that afternoon without regaining consciousness.

On the following day a post-mortem examination was held and subsequent investigations confirmed the general suspicion awakened by Dr. Maclagan's peculiar circumstances attending the deceased's illness and death, and on the afternoon of Saturday, January 5, 1878, immediately after the wife's funeral, Chantrelle was arrested and taken to the Calton prison.

The preparation of the case for trial took several months, and it was not until April 8 that he was indicted. The trial began on Tuesday, May 7. The judge, who sat at the hearing was Lord Justice-Clerk Moncreiff. The prisoner was attired in mourning, and to his indictment he answered in a clear and steady voice, "Not guilty."

For the prosecution there appeared the Lord Advocate and Solicitor General, Watson and Macdonald, as the Crown and several advocates depute; and the accused was defended by Mr. Trayner, assisted by J. P. B. Robertson and Thomas Shaw. The trial lasted four days, of which three were occupied with the evidence, and the fourth with the speeches of counsel, the judge's charge to the jury, and the verdict and the sentence.

It was clearly proven that Chantrelle was acquainted with the uses and effects of poisons, that he had had opium in his possession; that he had endeavored to create a false impression as to his wife's death; that his protestations of innocence before he had been accused of any crime were inconsistent with the demeanor of an innocent man, etc.

At 4:05, on May 10, the jury retired and was out an hour and ten minutes. The prisoner was found guilty. His calmness did not forsake him. The verdict was received with cheers by the large crowd assembled in parliament square.

The judicial warrant appointing the execution to take place on the morning of Friday, May 31, was delivered to the civic authorities on May 12. A long petition was gotten up, containing a great many signatures, and was presented to the home secretary, but with no avail. Almost up to his start for the place of execution the prisoner buoyed himself with the hope of a commutation of his sentence. To the last the convicted man refrained from indicating anything with relation to his crime, but he is construed into a confession of his guilt, and in a letter he wrote the night before he was executed he made the request to his children that he wished them to distinctly understand that he never killed their mother.

WHY AND HOW.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Our little human lives are inspired in their several ways largely through Agencies that, in themselves, are immensely wonderful and awe creating, yet are so hideously unknowable—as great Truths' too gigantic for us but to squint at—like even to the Creation of our simplest thing, whose source we cannot understand.

And yet there is not a single created thing—even the most minute—but that renders Lessons, that the simplest of humans may not learn, fully understand, and take to heart.

The biggest secrets of the Stars will always remain unknown; no one will ever become wise enough to fathom the stupendousness of the Giant Tree from the little Seed; or the wonders of the Harvest; or the Why and How of the Storm. But inspiration fairly bursts from each.

It's the things that we don't know that drive us to know what we do know.

This day comes to you as a sealed book. Trouble yourself not as to the Why and How of it. It's pregnant with Power, Opportunity, Happiness, Service—and there is a direct appeal in it, fashioned by a Master Hand—for You. Let not this day be disappointed in you—or you in this day.

DAILY GRIST FROM THE STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

MAY WAIVE ROTATION PLAN TO SEND MILLER BACK TO STATE SENATE

Reports come from the twenty-fourth senatorial district, composed of the counties of Chattahoochee, Marion and Muscogee, to the effect that as a graceful compliment to the splendid work of Senator B. S. Miller, Chattahoochee county will this year not take advantage of the senatorial rotation system, yielding to Senator Miller in the event he should consent to be a candidate to succeed himself.

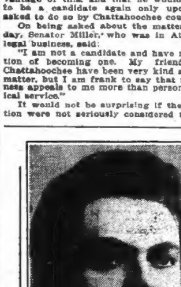

In this way Chattahoochee would follow the course that has been adopted in the Augusta, Savannah and Macon senatorial districts, all of which have on different occasions yielded the senatorial rotation principle in deference to some member who had rendered particularly acceptable service.

Muscogee county has, of course, a very much larger population than both of the other two counties of the district, but it is said that Columbus would not take advantage of this, and that he would consent to be a candidate again only upon being asked to do so by Chattahoochee county.

On being asked about the matter yesterday, Senator Miller, who was in Atlanta on legal business, said:

"I am not a candidate and have no intention of becoming one. My friends from Chattahoochee have been very kind about the matter, but I am frank to say that my business is likely to me more than personal political service."

It would not be surprising if the suggestion were not seriously considered this time

HON. B. S. MILLER,

by the twenty-fourth district to adopt the senatorial rotation system in Atlanta, Savannah and Augusta districts, by which Fulton, Chatham and Richmond counties, having such a large population and being of such commercial importance, take the senatorship two times in succession. By the agreement of the other two counties, each of which has the senatorship once each.

It is said that if the master is put up to Senator Miller in this way he will consent to the use of his name in this connection, and his friends over the district are interesting themselves to get unanimity to the extent of saying that he will at once become a formidable factor in the position of president of the senate, should he be returned.

At any rate, the situation in the twenty-fourth will be watched with exceeding interest throughout the state, for no member of the legislature has more friends generally than Senator B. S. Miller. He served three terms in the house, representing Muscogee county, and has already served two terms in the senate, making a record of ten years' service, during which time he has been prominently identified with some of the most important legislation that has been enacted in the state during that period.

FRIENDS OF JUDGE COBB STILL URGING HIM FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Athens, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Athens, seat of the state's highest educational institutions, has been recognised as an important center also of political interest in the state. More than once the candidate of the party for governor has been offered from Athens—not necessarily a resident here, but suggested from this city and county.

This year the county has offered the name of Judge Andrew J. Cobb, former member of the supreme court of the state, as one worthy of consideration for governor of the state at the next vacancy. Judge Cobb declares that he cannot at this time undertake a campaign; his friends, believing that in him there would be the solution of the old factional fights in Georgia, say that there would be no campaign for him to make, that the offering of his name to the people would entail less expense than any other candidacy.

From governor and interest centers in the United States senate race clean down to the successor of a justice of the peace, who, after a tenure of twenty years in office, died recently, politics in Athens is warming up.

In the coming race for justice of the peace, on the 14th, two lawyers, graduates of the university, are in the race; one other lawyer who received his certificate in law and has had a thorough correspondence course is running and also the old justice—long in office—who was ousted before the grand jury by a third recent graduate of the university. Elected, the latter would qualify at once for twenty years in office, if he wanted to stay that long. That is the way in Athens and Clarke—a good officeholder sticks practically till he resigns or dies or is removed for cause.

All the old county officers are offering for re-election as usual, there being so far no opposition except in the case of E. H. Lisbon, who has been tax collector for thirty-five years and has never had formidable opposition or a criticism.

The race for the legislature is not yet shaping up. Senator R. T. DuBose will give way to a gentleman from Elbert county, it being the time, in rotation, for that county to furnish the member from the thirtieth. Dr. J. T. R. Brown is a candidate, and will likely not have opposition.

Representative J. F. Rhodes, of Clarke, will be in the race for a return trip, and there has been no utterance from Representative Frank A. Ligon, of Jackson. If he does not run there will probably be half a dozen in the running for his place.

FIGHT ALL ALONG THE LINE

FOR FLOYD COUNTY OFFICES

Rome, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—One interesting campaign for county offices has already opened in Floyd county with a fight in prospect all along the line. The county primary has not yet been set, but will probably be some time in May or the early part of June.

For sheriff, W. G. Dunahoo, the incumbent, will be opposed by E. E. Barron, one of his deputies; and Tax Collector John M. Vandiver will be opposed by Leonard G. Todd. Tax Receiver J. F. Hutchins will seek re-election, and will be opposed by Zack Salmon, T. B. Hendricks and possibly others.

J. Scott Jones is a candidate to succeed himself as county commissioner for another term. County Commissioner J. M. Yarbrough will not seek re-election, and for his place T. C. Miller, of the Chulio district, has announced as a candidate.

NEW EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

10 NAMED IN JONES COUNTY

Gray, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—The democrats of Jones county met in mass meeting Monday and elected a new executive committee.

Two primaries were agreed upon, one April 17 for county officers, and state primary in August.

SIXTEEN CANDIDATES FOR THESE TWO OFFICES IN BANKS COUNTY

Maysville, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Banks county has ten candidates for county treasurer and six for tax collector.

No date has been set for primary election, but some time in May will be probably chosen.

Seldom in the history of politics in this county has there been as many as sixteen candidates in the field seeking two offices, and the voters are promised a lively time before the campaign is over.

HANDSHAKING CAMPAIGN BEING CONDUCTED IN BEN HILL COUNTY

Fitzgerald, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—The many candidates for county offices at the coming primary on April 1 keep the voters busy shaking hands these days.

All of the old officers are to be re-elected, and as many more want to be elected in their places.

The registration books close on March 28, and every candidate is seeing that all his friends are registered.

GWINNETT COMMITTEE FAVORS HOLDING ALL THE PRIMARIES

Lawrenceville, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) There will be two primary elections held in Gwinnett this year. The democratic executive committee met at the courthouse at the noon hour of recess Monday and set the date for nominating the county candidates for Thursday, May 14.

All the county officers will be voted on at that time except the members of the legislature, who will be chosen at the August election, along with the state house officers, United States senators and congressmen.

Candidates have until May 1 to get into the running, and the primary rule was adopted. This means that the candidate getting the highest vote for the office to which he aspires will be the nominee.

A subcommittee consisting of Judge E. O. Dobbs, J. E. McElroy and H. E. Harmon was appointed to answer the candidates for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the election. This committee will publish the schedule of assessments later.

Chairman N. L. Hutchins presided, and the meeting was a perfectly harmonious one throughout its session. Secretary H. H. Whitworth kept minutes of the meeting.

HART COUNTY IS BLESSED; NOT A CANDIDATE IN FIELD

Hartwell, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Hart county politics are absolutely at a standstill. The candidates are evidently waiting for the peach bloom time. No candidates have announced and the people generally are delighted, as they are tired of long and annoying campaigns.

Hon. A. A. McCurry, who has represented Hart county in the legislature, is understood, will be a candidate for re-election to succeed himself. No other candidates for the legislature have been announced so far as your correspondent has heard.

Dr. Thomas R. Bonner, of Lavonia, has announced for the solicitorship from this district. Dr. Bonner lived for a number of years in Hartwell, and has a host of friends in Hart county who would be delighted to see him in the senate from the thirty-first district.

Those who are close to the situation predict that Hon. Thomas J. Brown, of Elbert county, the present solicitor general of the northern circuit, will not be in the race for congress this year against Congressman Samuel J. Tribble. Mr. Brown served with Tribble for several years.

This section seems to be united on Governor Slaton for the senate.

MARCH 27 SET AS DATE FOR TALBOT COUNTY PRIMARY

Talbotton, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—The democratic executive committee has set March 27 as the date for the state and county primary. Much interest is manifested in some of the races.

H. P. Mendial is opposed for sheriff by T. F. Mahone and County Treasurer Williams has opposition in the person of W. W. Childs.

THE GIRAFFE.

By GEORGE PITCH
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

The giraffe is the skyscraper of the animal kingdom. It is a medium sized animal whose neck has been stretched out by Nature in a frivolous mood until it is long enough to use as a wireless mast.

The giraffe inhabits Africa with very poor success, being enthusiastically eaten by lions, tigers and other overgrown cats. Nature spent so much time on the giraffe's neck, that she failed to develop its powers of defense and also neglected to give it a voice. Armed with six feet of throat and no larynx, the giraffe is not even able to complain against a cruel fate which compels it to suffer in silence instead of raising a roar like a member of congress who has been left off the appropriation committee.

The giraffe has a tastefully designed body and looks somewhat like a zebra which has stretched itself out of shape trying to get its head out from between a pair of fence palings. It has a long prehensile tongue which it wraps around the topmost branches of young trees when feeding and bites off leaves, twigs and fruits. The giraffe's neck is a snap as far as eating goes, but in a miserable failure when it comes to drinking. When thirsty, the giraffe finds a water hole and then folds himself up like a camp chair and bolsts water up its longdistance pump like a new style waterworks plant. It is useless to try to catch the giraffe by poisoning him, as he does not notice the effects until the next day—when yesterday's meal arrives at headquarters.

The giraffe is very shy and can run like Ty Cobb stealing second. Large giraffes are worth $10,000 apiece to menagerie and 37 cents to farmers. One giraffe let loose in Michigan would eat up a peach orchard a week—from the top down. An effort is now being made to tame them and teach them to act as portable telephone poles for military use, but it has not been a success. As soon as a giraffe is tamed, he catches cold in some section of his neck and wanders into the labyrinthine hence. Nothing would be more annoying to the farmer than to have to get up early on a hot day and bury a deceased giraffe in an old asiatian well.

Seen in a Shop for Children

Suits for girls from 10 to 16 years show all the newest style features of the present season, which have had to be modified very little to suit the youthful figure.

Pleats seem to prevail in the jackets, with the Eton effects particularly favored. Some of these little coats are cut quite long in the back, giving the smart cutaway lines so well liked.

Fancy collars of silk or of the same material are seen on many of the suits. Not a few pompadour crepe linings are used.

The skirts mirror all the favored modes in women's skirts. There are cunning peg-top effects, tunic arrangements and even suggestions of the minaret styles.

Gabardine has been used extensively in making up these models, with serge holding its own—nothing is more practical for daily wear—and plaid materials utilized in many jaunty styles. High colors are preferred, especially for the little tots of 6 and 7. Red and tans and the new tango shades have been freely used, in both suits and dresses.

The wash dresses are delightful this season in their soft, simplicity. The dressier models are of sheer white organdie, delicately embroidered, while voile, sponge, ratine and plaid ginghams form the every-day little frocks. One of those adorable organdies, white, scattered over with tiny sprigs of flowers, was held in at the shoulders and high waist line by a Victorian fichu of white mull that gave it the quaintest old-time look. The ends of the fichu were caught up onto the waist with bunches of small pink satin roses. From one of these bunches hung a little bag of the same material as the frock, in which to carry the tiny tot's handkerchief.

Flounced skirts are seen on many of the wash frocks, as well as odd little peplum effects and the peg-top cut. The waist line is kept normal for the most part, only occasionally being lengthened to the hips.

Illustrating a smart use of the vest effect, which shares honors with variations of the bolero in favored waist designs, was a plaid dress in soft, dull shades of blue. The long square vest, reaching midway to the low belt, was of white linen, finely tucked, with a row of white linen buttons down each side. Collars and cuffs were of white linen, very simply embroidered.

Dresses in shoulder strap style with lingerie blouses will be much worn a little later on, particularly in the plaids and checked materials. Dotted challis, accordion pleated and hanging from shallow yokes, are attractive and practical little dresses to have for the cool days that will come now and then. A serge dress of this order also, was buttoned straight up and down the front with large satin buttons and bound button holes. A high waist line was indicated, but not held in by a heavy smocking done in silk to match the fabrics. Detachable muslin ruffles at the neck and elbows added a touch of grown-up modishness.

Another frock that is sure to delight the small wearer herself because of the two big pockets that are slipped into the front width of the skirt at the hip level is of dark blue linen. It has kimono sleeves and is hung from the shoulders by pleats set into a shallow yoke. The neck is finished with a broad Byron collar and a bridle of heavy cord hangs from under the collar in front, outlining also the two pockets of the quaint little dress.

PRAYER RUGS FOR TABLE COVERS

Small rugs are used in bedrooms with the space under the bed left uncovered. Prayer rugs are used for table covers, pillow tops and chair seats. The Oriental designing in rugs is cleverly reproduced in design and rugs. These rugs can now be ordered any size.

Subcommittee Named By Eugene D. Thomas For County Primary

The subcommittee which will handle the details of the county primary, which has been set for May 5, has been named by Eugene D. Thomas, chairman of the Fulton county democratic executive committee.

The members of this committee are: Albert D. Thomson, chairman; J. O. Cochran, secretary; Albert Howell, Jr., George M. Hope and Frank Wood. This committee has already met and on Tuesday fixed the entry fees for the various candidates who will make the forthcoming county race as follows:

For candidates for sheriff, tax collector, tax receiver and clerk of the superior court, $150 each.

For candidates for coroner, county commissioner and county treasurer, $50 each.

It was announced by the secretary of the committee on Tuesday that this year's entry fees are smaller than they have been for some years past.

"The subcommittee reduced expenses as far as it could," said Secretary Cochran, "without hampering the convenience of the voters."

The Story of Women's Spring Suits Is a Changing One Newcomers Each Day

The Suits are fascinating! Femininity is the keynote.

We have turned from Russia and the Orient and become inspired by the old costumes dear to our mothers; the quaint be-ruffled garments, lovely in color, which possess much sentiment and such charming femininity.

Just ruffles and puffs and flares—or trimmed with yards of ruching or footing—and made to look as frilly as possible.

The Suits have every color of the rainbow, and some the rainbow hasn't. A green like sea water in a deep pool, a yellow like ripe corn, a color neither violet nor blue, but some of both. In plain cloths they might look garish, but the wool crepes, the gabardines, the waffle cloths and other new materials have too soft a surface for that.

Within the past few days we have unpacked scores of such suits—some actual copies of Paris models; many more inspired by Paris. Very rich indeed are this season's suits; carried out in luxurious silks—failles, moires, poplins and brocades; besides a host of finest wool fabrics.

But we particularly want you to see these—

Little Women's Suits at $18.50

13 to 17-Year Sizes.

Elegant little suits of wool novelty materials in tango, wistaria, Copenhagen and Hague blue and mode; jaunty little short-front coats with embroidered crepe collar; tunic skirt; suits that young women may put on right now and wear late into the summer, and of value seldom to be had at this price—$18.50.

Wonderful Suits for Women at $25.00

There are so many women who want to pay just this amount for a suit that we make it a point to provide the very best to be had at that price.

And there are styles almost without number to select from. There are novelty coats with ruffled or flared-tunic skirts; dressy—and thoroughly practical.

And for those who wish strict simplicity, there are elegant, plain tailored models, smart and very stylish. The materials, too, are beautiful; silk poplins and moire silks in all the new colors; peau de soie in black only; wool crepes and poplins in all the fashionable hues. Many of the suits have novelty collars.

These and many others will be displayed here today. We want you to see them.

JACKSON AND BROYLES SCORE BUSINESS MEN

Sale of Liquor Condemned in Unmeasured Terms at Meeting of Epworth League.

Scoring the stand of "our friends, the well-known business men of Atlanta," for their inconsistency in their stand for a more liberal policy for the city, particularly in regard to the sale of liquor, and staunchly supporting the church for having its word to say and bringing its influence to bear upon the question, Judge Broyles and Marion Jackson addressed a meeting of the Epworth league at the First Methodist church last night.

Mr. Jackson waxed warm in his defense of the aggressive attitude of the churches of Atlanta. Said Mr. Jackson:

"Why should the churches of Atlanta not point their fingers at men who wear the ermine and the garb of—well, what's the use to call names? You know who I mean—other men who hold offices of trust and who are going back upon their oaths of office.

"Do you suppose," he continued, "that I do not know the pleasure of an evening with so-called 'good fellows'? I know the pleasure of an evening of drinking with friends. I have seen both sides of life. And I also know, and you know, that such evenings of pleasure lead men and women to disgraceful graves.

Alleged Good Fellowship.

"Yet they say the church should not talk about it. How, in the name of God, can the church keep hands off?

"A man cannot lead a Christian life and stand for such things as these."

Judge Broyles, who spoke for the first time in his life before the Epworth league last night, stated that he had been so busy helping Chief of Police James L. Beavers "run this old town good and tight" that he had not had time to prepare a speech, which comment brought from his hearers much applause.

Judge Broyles declared that the struggles of the civil war were but a mere skirmish when compared with the terrific warfare being waged upon crime.

"Yet after all these centuries of waging war upon crime," he said, "the fact that crime is still rampant indicates that the campaign has somehow been hitched on the wrong basis.

"The churches, however, are fighting, though it be feebly at times, along the right lines. If we would stop the wave of crime, we cannot do it merely by preaching. So much! We must stop it at the sources of the rivers of crime that feed it—at the springs of crime.

Drink the Source of Crime.

"I know of no more prolific source of crime than that of drinking and selling intoxicating liquor."

Judge Broyles stated that he spoke upon the authority of twenty years of experience. He cited a number of instances that had come under his observation as police court judge to substantiate his statement.

Then continued Judge Broyles:

"Some of our well-known business friends went to the legislature when the prohibition bill was pending and said that the passage of the measure would be the ruin of Atlanta—that values on Peachtree street would drop and the town would be dead. What do we see today? Why, people owning a few feet of property on Peachtree street have become millionaires!

"Our friends, the business men, now argue that the prohibition law doesn't prohibit.

"Maybe we have not stopped the sale of liquor, but we have slowed it up considerably. In 1907 there were recorded in Atlanta 7,000 cases of drunkenness. In 1913 there were recorded in Atlanta 4,000 cases of drunkenness. This shows a decrease of 4,000 cases of drunkenness in the last six years and does not take into consideration that in that length of time our population has increased by 50,000 people.

All Laws Broken.

"Of course, the prohibition law does not stop the sale of liquor. The law is being broken every day. This is but another illustration of the absurdity of their arguments, though. Where will you find a law on the statute books that is not broken? From the beginning of the time when we have had a law against murder it has been broken. One has but to glance over the pages of any newspaper to see how all laws are repeatedly broken."

Judge Broyles closed his address with a bit of wholesome advice to young people about the ill effects of the misuse of whisky.

Miss Rambo, just before the close of the meeting, made an appeal to the Epworth league to donate a room, to be known as the "Epworth" room, to the proposed new Wesley Memorial hospital, for which she is a committee member raising funds. The enthusiasm over Mrs. Rambo's suggestion at last night's meeting seemed to assure the establishment of the room.

Chief Beavers, who was to have spoken also, was detained at the meeting of the police commissioners.

MERCER NAMED ENGINEER OF GRANITE HIGHWAY

The executive committee of the Granite Highway association met Tuesday morning at the offices of the Decatur board of trade and named C. S. Mercer, of Decatur, as engineer to draw up a survey of the proposed granite highway. Frank H. Burle, of New York, good roads expert, advised the committee on advanced methods of road building.

Engineer Mercer will begin work right away on the survey and profile of the road and expects to make a report about April 1. A bond binder will be used in the construction.

DINING CAR SERVICE, COTTON BELT ROUTE, EXAMINES EMPLOYES

L. P. Smith, traveling passenger agent, Cotton Belt Route, Birmingham, Ala., is in the city today, and announces a new feature adopted by that company. Mr. Smith states that H. Jennings, superintendent of the dining car service, Cotton Belt Route, has inaugurated a new and departure in his department. All employees of the dining car department have to stand a rigid physical examination as to communicable diseases, only two other roads in the United States—the Pennsylvania and the Northern Pacific roads—having adopted this feature.

The feature is a thorough examination of each and every man employed in that department who handles food on the dining cars. All employees who have communicable diseases, such as tuberculosis, are removed from the service of the company. Up to date sixty employees have been examined, and only one man had any such disease; not a single case of tuberculosis was found. This one man was found to be suffering from Brights disease. While this was not a communicable disease, he was removed from service and sent to the company's hospital for treatment.

He will be treated by the company's physicians, and at cost to himself. This examination is thorough in every detail, and will be made every ninety days.

Bell House Head Cook Falls Dead One Week After Mrs. Bell Dies

Malinda Fuller, aged 57 years, for seventeen years the head cook at the Bell house, dropped dead last night at the Bell house.

Aunt Malinda was greatly beloved by the Bell house force, and her death will be greatly regretted.

It was just one week ago to the day that Miss Emma E. Bell, the gracious hostess of the Bell house, died.

COMMITTEES TRY FOR BIG SUBSCRIPTIONS

Committees who are working for the Wesley Memorial hospital fund will today concentrate on contributions of $1,000 and over, the idea being that for such a sum a contributor will have the honor of having furnished a memorial room in the new edifice, which in the second day's campaign already shows every sign of being an actual fact, so far as financing it goes, before the week is out.

Today the campaigners announced that to date $12,946.40 had been contributed to the cause. The Park Street church committee brought in the largest report on Tuesday, the ladies of that committee turning over pledges amounting to slightly over $1,000.

FIRST ALL-STEEL TRAIN ARRIVES IN ATLANTA

The first Central of Georgia all-steel train from Savannah to Atlanta through Macon, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Fourteen new steel cars were placed in service on trains Nos. 1 and 2 of the Central operating between Atlanta and Savannah. The cars include four open coaches, four combination coaches, three express cars and the baggage and mail cars. The new coaches, with inner finishings of mahogany and attractive upholstered seats, hold eighty people each, and are eighty feet in length. Several months ago the Central put on an all-steel train between Macon and Columbus.

DELTA TAU DELTAS TO HOLD BANQUET TONIGHT

The regular monthly dinner of the Atlanta Alumni chapter of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity will be held Wednesday night in the mahogany dining room of the Ansley hotel at 7:30 o'clock.

After the banquet the regular meeting will be held and this will be doubly interesting owing to the fact that a report will be had from the two delegates who attended the joint conference of the southern and eastern divisions of the fraternity recently held in Washington. There were a great many in attendance at this conference of the division, and at the final banquet the members of the fraternity had the privilege of hearing such a toast-list in action as is seldom the privilege of anyone. Speaker Champ Clark acted as toastmaster, and with him on the list were members of congress and other officials high in the service of Uncle Sam.

PEOPLE'S LEAGUE HELD NO MEETING TUESDAY

Owing to the fact that Jesse Mercer, chairman of the organization, was suddenly called out of town Monday, the meeting of the entire membership of the People's Administrative League scheduled for last night at the Hotel Ansley was called off.

The finance committee of the organization held a short session at the Ansley, but refused to make public the result of their deliberations.

CLIFFORD M. WALKER SPENDS DAY IN CITY

Clifford M. Walker, of Monroe, who will run for the attorney generalship of Georgia to succeed Attorney General Thomas S. Felder, who will run for the United States senatorship to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Bacon, was in Atlanta on Tuesday.

Mr. Walker is a prominent attorney of Monroe and was formerly solicitor general of his circuit. He has the support of a large number of friends about the state.

To date he is in the race for the attorney generalship without opposition. The name of Judge J. D. Pottle has been mentioned as a possible opponent, but as yet nothing has been heard from him.

NEGRO PROVES ALIBI AND IS ACQUITTED

Roscoe Thompson, a negro, on trial Monday and Tuesday for an alleged attack upon a white girl living on Fair street, was acquitted on the charge by a jury in Judge Ben Hill's court on Tuesday afternoon.

The negro's attorney, Colonel Burton Smith, produced a complete alibi for Thompson. The girl in the case failed to identify the negro save by the "sound of his voice."

The hearing of the case consumed the better part of two court days.

RESULTS OF CIVIL WAR DISCUSSED BY BROOKS

"The Results of the Civil War in Georgia," this being the first of a series of lectures planned by the club for the bringing together of its members and friends and the maintenance of the proper high ideals of the club, was the subject of an address delivered at the University club Tuesday night by Dr. Robert Preston Brooks, of the University of Georgia.

Dr. Brooks treated his subject in a most interesting manner, discussing it from three angles, these being the social, the industrial and the agricultural revolutions in Georgia.

MANY FRIENDS GRIEVE OVER BUTLER'S DEATH

Brilliant Publisher of Buffalo News Was Known in Atlanta.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 10.—(Special.) All Buffalo is today shocked over the death of Edward H. Butler, proprietor of the Buffalo News, as announced in the morning papers. He was universally esteemed here and while he has always been a strong republican in politics, many of his warmest personal friends have been among the democrats. So that, regardless of political affiliation, the whole city is grieving over his death.

A striking feature of the large number of telegrams received today is that a great many of them come from the southern states. While, as stated, Mr. Butler was a republican, he was a pioneer in the party in promoting fraternity between the sections. He took up the work years ago at the time that Grady was its spokesman in the south, and he worked along that line through the editorial columns of his paper was scarcely less conspicuous than the work done by Grady in the south.

Mr. Butler was a self-made man, having started in the newspaper business as a newsboy. His parents were excellent people, living near Buffalo, but they were not in affluent circumstances. Young Edward, as a boy, contributed to make his own way and he succeeded wonderfully. He established The Buffalo News, which is now the most successful newspaper enterprise in New York state outside of the papers of New York city.

He leaves two children, the oldest son, Edward, Jr., being a graduate of Yale and having married Miss Kate Robinson, of Atlanta, Ga., several years ago. This young couple is most highly esteemed in Buffalo. After graduating at Yale young Edward started in at the bottom on The News and has been working his way up ever since. He is not only capable of succeeding his father in the management of the paper, but it is certain that he will do so in a brilliant way, for he has already won his spurs. Mr. Butler left one other child, Miss Ada Butler, who married a few years ago.

Mr. Butler frequently visited in Atlanta and owned a winter home in Darlington, S. C. A large number of sympathetic telegrams from both places have been received today.

LINTERS TO BE BARRED FROM COTTON FIGURES

Washington, March 10.—Future annual reports of the census bureau on the quantity of cotton ginned will not, as heretofore, include the quantity of linters in the total production of cotton for the crop but will relate only to lint cotton. This change in the method of publishing the statistics of cotton was announced today by Director Harris, of the census bureau, and will be effective beginning with the next report on March 20. Information as to the production of linters, however, the director states, will be given in a footnote so that comparative figures may be computed on the basis of reports in previous years. In explaining why he regarded the change advisable Director Harris said:

"The annual reports on the quantity of cotton ginned have heretofore included the quantity of linters obtained by the oil mills. Formerly there was only a comparatively small quantity of linters obtained and they were of such a grade as could be used to some extent for the same purposes as were the lower grades of cotton. Many of the oil mills now have installed machinery for the closer delinting of the seed. This has resulted in a large increase in the total quantity of linters produced each year and at the same time in lowering the average quality of the fiber so that now only a small part, if any, is used as a substitute for lint cotton."

ELEVEN TRUE BILLS ARE HANDED DOWN

The Fulton county grand jury, for the March term, held a routine session on Tuesday, handing down eleven true bills.

Burnett Hickman, a negro now in jail awaiting a hearing on the charge of having shot and killed Nightwatchman Bennett, of the Seaboard railway, was indicted on a charge of murder.

Hickman was brought before Judge Luther Rosser on Monday, but was too ill to plead, suffering from two bullet wounds in his chest received in his fight with the man he killed.

COMMISSIONER PRICE WARNED LAW VIOLATORS

The hearing of charges against retail grocers, dealers and manufacturers violating the pure food law before Commissioner of Agriculture Hoke Price on Tuesday, took no sensational turns. Those of the alleged violators who were summoned appeared before the commissioner, and were merely warned to correct their methods and to steer clear of violation in the future. Other men who had been summoned communicated with the commissioner, asking postponements of their hearings on the ground of inability to be present. This was granted.

"It is not my purpose," said Commissioner Price, "to deal harshly with violators of this law until they have had opportunity to acquaint us with the meaning of the law. All these men appeared in a courteous manner and with me in the enforcement of the law, and I do not anticipate further trouble. A word to the wise is sufficient."

Vessels Personal Property.

In the case of the St. Simons Transit company v. the Mayor and Council of Brunswick the supreme court on Tuesday handed down a decision to the effect that "vessels and other water craft are personal property, and are taxable like all other such property within the jurisdiction of a municipality wherein the situs of taxation is located."

CLOUDS FORECAST TODAY, AND COLDER WEATHER THURSDAY

Following is the weather forecast for Atlanta and vicinity:

The approach of spring is always slow and there are many retrogressions in temperature before summer really has full away. Colder weather has again appeared in the extreme northwest, and until the weather begins to get really warm in the west and northwest we shall continue to have occasional moderate cold spells. The weather will remain fine tonight and become somewhat warmer with light southerly winds, but on Wednesday increasing cloudiness will set in, the sky will probably become overcast in the afternoon and light showers may begin before night, with fresh southerly winds. It will begin to turn moderately colder again after the rain, that is, Thursday morning. The temperature Wednesday morning will be about 50 degrees, rising to perhaps 65 degrees during the day. Next day it will not be so warm.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed with Referee in Bankruptcy Edelstein, of Atlanta, an installment peddler. The petitioner writes his liabilities down at $2,770.16, with assets amounting to $1,134.

MRS. FAIN FINED $100 AND BOUND OVER TO CRIMINAL COURT

Mrs. J. V. Fain, whose home was raided Sunday afternoon by Officers Dorsett and Roberts, who found there seventeen cases of blind tiger liquor, failed in her attempt to deceive Judge Broyles yesterday by not appearing on a copy of charges which had been served her by the officers, sending in a physician's excuse that she was unable to appear in court. Judge Broyles did not like the looks of the certificate and sent the city physician, Dr. Martin, to the Fain home, at 328 Simpson street, to investigate her condition.

Martin returned with the woman, and as she appeared before the judge to defend herself on the charge of violating the city's law against the selling of whisky Judge Broyles told her that she was the best looking rich woman he had ever seen.

Her county affected the judge only to the extent of this remark, though, as a few minutes later he heavily fined the pretty little woman $100 or thirty days in the stockade in addition to binding her over to the criminal court under a $500 bond.

Her husband, who was tried on the same charge, was fined $200 and sentenced to thirty days in the stockade and also bound over under a $500 bond.

DIAPHANOUS BEST DESCRIBES THE LATEST LINGERIE

Lingerie of New Spring Mere Cobwebs of Laces

Undermuslins aren't undermuslins any more; they are mere cobwebs of lace held together by bits of ribbon. Chiffon, that most perishable of all fabrics, forms many of the more elaborate garments, while net is extensively used for every article of lingerie, and in the less expensive grades as well.

Combinations and princess slips are often entirely of net or point d'esprit and trimmed with lace about the neck and bottom. Crepe de chine, so well adapted to the present clinging modes, has been utilized in many styles.

The novel dancing trousers have been developed in the greatest variety of materials. These garments are fashioned like scant Turkish trousers drawn into a ribbon or elastic at the waist and ankles. Frills of lace fall about the ankles caught here and there with a tiny ribbon or chiffon flower.

The garter trouser is also a direct result of the season's immense vogue for dancing. From round elastics, ribbon-covered and trimmed, fall ruffles that may be of chiffon, crepe de chine, shadow lace, or hainsook with deep inserts of lace. These provide the charming frou-frou about the feet so necessary with the close, transparent skirts in vogue, yet add no bulk to the upper figure.

Many new styles have appeared recently, designed especially for the corsetless figure. A dainty exception to the rule of lace-decked garments is a combination of batiste consisting of the new tango closed drawers and a sort of scant chemise that slips on over the head and has a wide belt that runs through slides and is placed high to support the bust. Featherstitching in delicate colors forms the only trimming of this unique garment.

These are made up also in crepe de chine, China silk and the sheerest nainsook, trimmed very simply with narrow insertion.

Novelty Without Corsets.

The suspender drawers are another novelty that will be appreciated by the woman who has discarded corsets. They are made with a high waistline to which, on either side, are attached straps that are carried over the shoulder, closely simulating suspenders, even to the little buckle by which they may be adjusted to the proper length.

Even the most practical of garments nowadays have decided claims to beauty. Night gowns of cotton crepe or soft flannel have daintily embroidered collar and cuffs, and the many warm gowns designed for sleeping out of doors may be found in pretty colors and attractive styles.

The negligee is fast becoming as much a part of a woman's wardrobe as her evening gown or tailor-made. It may be an elaborate affair of chiffon and lace or a simple kimono, picturesque in coloring and cut, but she has found that it is no longer a luxury, but a necessity for certain hours of the day.

As in all other apparel for spring, crepes will predominate in negligees and dressing sacques. Batistes and figured lawn, trimmed with shadow lace, have also appeared in most attractive models. Japanese silks, often having plain borders that are cleverly used as trimming features, are especially desirable for traveling.

While the empire effects retain their strong hold on feminine fancy, models that are draped in the prevailing long, straight lines are extensively shown.

Net frills trim many of the charming matinees. Accordion pleated crepe formed one of these which was edged with shirred ribbon and had wide net ruffles in the sleeves and about the low cut neck.

Correct Modes in Corsets.

It is impossible to deny that the new pose of the figure, so generally adopted, is graceful and charming, but it must be supple and elastic, not limp or dejected, and to assume it naturally, the correct corset is imperative.

The newest models feature the extremely low bust and free hips. Although a few have small gussets set in below the waist line in front, permitting the figure to take the slightly outward curve now considered perfectly natural, the majority show a tendency to return to the flat, straight line.

Many of these models can scarcely be called corsets at all in the sense of encasing the upper figure—rather are they more aptly called hip sheaths. They are laced to give flat back lines and the straight hip lines, supporting the waist only so far as is essential to give perfect poise to the upper figure. This conforming of the natural upper lines of the form to the hipless effects gives an easy, graceful carriage to full figures and to medium and slender figures that freedom and suppleness that make for the youthful uncorseted effect so much in vogue in the present modes.

Materials used are the softest that it is possible to employ and still retain the shape and resist the strain.

The extremely low bust of the new corsets has brought out in greater variety than ever before brassieres of many fabrics. Cotton tricot of fine quality, in white or in flesh color, forms one of the newest models, which is quite boneless and so cut it gives comfort to the bust, and at the same time attains the natural figure effect so much desired.

The panel front brassiere has been especially designed to take care of the blouse effect of the transparent waist. It has a soft, loose front panel of fine lace and embroidery that falls over the regulation brassiere which fits snugly and holds the bust in restriction.

His Safe Plan.

This Store May Be Likened to a Big Fashion Book—Wherein Are Pictured the Authentic and Authoritative Styles for Spring

And this we would have you take as an invitation to come and turn the pages with us, to see in reality and not through the pen of a writer the genuine beauty of the fashions as they have been interpreted by those high in authority in matters of style. You who have read your fashion books, who are finding many interesting things in this paper about the new things, may turn now, this morning, to the real, where form and color and becomingness lend their appeal.

It is a wonderful picture book, this store right now. We have made every preparation that you may enjoy it. Suppose we turn some of its pages, merely to give you a glimpse of what it contains.

The Suit Page

It is a picture of many colors, of gay colors, of new forms. You will see this one has the shortest little Eton coat, that one a most wonderfully ruffled skirt. Here is a new blue, there a striking green, again a soft wistaria. And always you will recognize that the suits embody the marks of distinction that the printed fashion books have told of.

And the charm of it all is that here you may choose the one you would have as your own!

The Dress Page

In many instances it is like a page from a book of years ago. Dress fashions are quaint and therefore new. The ruffles and frills of other years grace the favored fashions of this good season. You will like them!

One thing you will note at once is the splendid variety—not simply numbers, any store could gather as many dresses—but where could one find so many dresses that emphasize so many style points?

We speak of the pussy willow taffetas, the two-toned taffetas, the glace taffetas, the crepes de chine for street, for afternoon and evening wear.

The Wrap Page

Light affairs of taffeta as often lined with Dresden silks as unlined, shirred and ruffled, many of them little Etons. You see at once what a delight they will be for wear with the cotton crepe dresses—these in black and green and shades of blue. The heavier coats are oftenest of ratine, or wool faille. They are fashioned rather full and "easy"—they are colorful, as becomes the season.

The Waist Page

Perhaps the word blouse would be more becoming this season—waists are more blouse-y than heretofore. The new silhouette requires them so. Fabrics help the cause. Soft crepes, crepes over net, and frills and frills and frills, in collars, in cuffs, in overhanging yokes. We hear it on all sides that it is to be a big waist season. It is already, in this waist store!

Were they so minded, it could hardly be expected that women should resist such styles.

The Corset Page

Right now Mrs. Marvin is with us demonstrating the splendid La Vida models, models that really effect the new uncorseted look.

Artists have dipped their brushes in the rainbow and have designed patterns of rarest beauty. Weavers have woven them into crepes that crinkle under the finger, taffetas that are anything but the crackling taffetas we knew in other years, the pussy willow, plain and flowered, the glace and the two-toned.

The Children's Page

A delight to both mothers and children. A relief to mothers that here they will find it so easy to complete the young folks' wardrobe—and to the children—a new suit, a new dress, a new hat, a new coat, that has been selected because it was prettier.

The Lace and Embroidery Page

In a season of frillings and rufflings, laces loom large. Shadow laces, net laces of exquisitely fine texture and daintily traced patterns, new two-tone laces of silk, the pattern usually in relief in a lighter shade; these are the kinds you will see in variety—as is the fashion. The embroidered crepe dress patterns will take much of your sight-seeing time—never such beautiful and intricate designs! With these are the flouncings and the allovers to match that presage prettiest spring frocks.

The Dress Cottons Page

Again it is crepes and a world of them, plain crepes, ratine crepes, voile crepes, brocaded crepes, walrus crepes—we call them cottons—often they are as much silk as cotton. Many are flowered in the dainty Dresden designs.

It is calculated that this page will be most helpful to those now starting their spring sewing.

THREE DANDY BOUTS AT THE COLUMBIA

Terry Nelson v. Jack McMahon in the Main Bout Tonight.

Three dandy bouts, with Terry Nelson, the Greek lightweight, meeting Jack McMahon, the tough Chicago 115-pounder, in the main bout, will be the attraction for local fans at the Columbia theater tonight.

The second bout of the evening should be as good as the best, as Kid Brown, the tough Greek bantam, who gave Kid Young a tough scrap last week, is billed to meet Young Goldman, and the winner of this go will get Spider Britt next week. This is a prize that both boys have been after for some time. These boys will battle over the six-round route.

Air Currents Greatest Worry to Birdmen In Flight Across Atlantic

New York, March 10.—Lieutenant John C. Porte, a retired British naval officer, who is to pilot the Rodman Wanamaker trans Atlantic flier, sailed today for England on the Lusitania. He has spent over a week with Glenn H. Curtiss, at Hammondsport, looking over the machine and making various suggestions as to the design of equipment.

Lieutenant Porte plans to return to this country in about a month, and remain until the actual flight takes place.

Lieutenant Porte said that he regretted that the United States weather bureau did not have more information about air currents at high altitudes.

"The hardest problem ahead of us," he said, "is to tell just what height we should fly in order to get the most advantage of the steady air currents above the earth. I believe the trip to Europe will be made at an elevation of 5,000 feet or thereabouts. That is, unless we get more definite data than we now have before we start."

Herreshoff and Travers Sail to Compete Abroad In England and France

New York, March 10.—Fred Herreshoff, of Garden City, twice runner-up in the national amateur golf championship and former holder of the international cup tan title, will sail next Thursday for England in company with Jerome D. Travers, the holder of the national title.

After the British amateur tournament in May they will go to France for the French event and will return to England in time for the open tournament at the end of May. They will sail for America about July 1.

SANTAL-MIDY

A Promising Receiver

"DUTCH" MUNCH,

Nixon's Yannigans Play Regulars at Ponce Today; Warm Weather Helps Work

EIBLE EN ROUTE; JENNINGS' CASE

A Wire received by Manager Smith last night from Hank Eible, first baseman, said, "I am on my way." The first sacker will get here this afternoon.

Manager Smith wired Marley Jennings Tuesday that unless he reported to camp at Macon he would be suspended for the rest of the season.

By Dick Jemison.

Catcher Joe Dunn was yesterday's only arrival in the Cracker training quarters, bringing the total players on hand up to twenty-one.

Joe did not don the war togs Tuesday. His trunk was delayed in transit and Josephus is patiently awaiting its arrival. He expects to get into action today.

Joe looks better than he looked at any time last season and admits that he is several pounds lighter than he has been in two years.

The veteran receiver has been working hard all winter and reported in splendid trim, ready to jump right into harness.

After a days work and the numerous incident thereto, Joe believes he's ready for a strenuous battle.

Two Jumped Today.

Latest advices from Pitcher Hamilton, signed by Manager Smith Monday, and First Baseman Eible, are that they will show up at the training grounds this afternoon.

Pitchers Eiford and Kissinger are both due here Thursday having written that they would report at that time.

This accounts for every one but Infielder Broadwater, who is sick, and Pitcher Stidger, from whom nothing has been heard.

Infielder Jennings and Pitcher Hedgepath can be eliminated from any further discussion, as they have been suspended. Neither is scheduled to report until June 1.

Game Today.

With a continuance of the warm weather that prevailed yesterday, Manager Smith will send his regulars against Al Nixon's Pepperites in a six-inning tray this afternoon.

This game will be free to the public, and will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. Only six innings will be played with two twirlers working three innings each for each side.

The line-up that will be used will be as follows:

PEPPERITES.	Pos.	REGULARS.
Manush	Third base	Schmidt
Walsh	Shortstop	Schwind
McMillan	Second base	McConnell
Amazon	First base	Eible or Dunn
Walsh	Catcher	Manush
Lawrence	Pitcher	Doscher
Browning	Pitcher	Perryman

If Eible reports this morning, as expected, he will play first base. If not, Catcher Joe Dunn will hold down that position for the regulars.

Just what the line-up will be against the Baptist Tabernacle Saturday is not known just now, but as this six-inning fracas will be played today, Thursday and Friday, some definite line-up will be gained by then.

Nixon is Infield.

It is more than likely that Al Nixon, the human pepper box, may be turned into an infielder. Nixon has no ground ball, this fellow is wasting his talents in the outfield. If he was a right-hander it's a cinch he would be at one of the infield positions.

There has been some talk of making a first baseman out of Nixon. This plan will all depend on what form Hank Eible shows at the initial cushion. If Eible fails to develop into the kind of first baseman that his record indicates and he is expected to show, do not be surprised if Nixon is tried out there.

The only thing against Nixon is his height, but he is as big as Stuffy McInnis, of the Athletics, and Stuffy is considered first baseman material.

Nixon's speed, too fact that he is left-handed and the quick way in which he handles a ball, would make up for any lack of size that he might have as a handicap.

There is going to be a lot of trouble horning the pepper kid off the Crackers. We, for one, hope he is never horned off, and wherever he is put, you can gamble that he will always give his best and work his hardest.

Wasuah Is Right.

Frank Manush looks like the Manush of New Orleans days when he was regarded as the best third baseman in the Southern league. He is showing more of that form this spring than he has since he has been a Cracker.

Frank's leg does not appear to bother him in the least, and he can go either side with equal speed and appears sure of ground balls. He is also swinging at the ball.

Nealon Lynch, the little red-headed third-sacker, is going to have the battle of his life beating out Manush for that place. It's going to be a warm battle between these two right up until the opening of the season.

George Kircher and his vicious way of hitting that baseball is earning a lot of friends among the fans. That with a splendid throwing arm, this lad is going to horn into a berth somewhere unless the other candidates watch him mighty closely.

The Regular-Pepperite games for the remainder of this week will serve as a method of greeting what line on all the candidates on the squad, especially the pitchers and outfielders. By next week something definite as to prospects of candidates and camp prospects as a whole can be gained.

"Two Lucky Tramps.

(At the Columbia.)

Crowded houses continue to be the rule at the Columbia theater, where George Miller and Jennie Delmar are playing a week's engagement in "Two Lucky Tramps," which is without a doubt one of the funniest burlesques seen in Atlanta in years. Frank Beaumont and Dot Woods have big parts and both keep the house rocking with laughter. The nio numbers and the bio musical production of the first act are worth the bill, which is given twice a day at matinee and night.

"Ziegfeld Follies."

(At the Atlanta.)

Plans is now being completed in the forthcoming presentation of the Ziegfeld Follies, which will be at the Atlanta Thursday and Friday with Friday matinee. In spite of the name "Follies" this is known the world around as the most popular musical entertainment in the world, the organization has never before been seen here and the comic features are being looked forward to with keen interest. There are over one hundred and fifteen entertainers in the Follies company. The big cast comprises: Jose Collins, Frank Tinney, Leon Errol, Mae Murray, Elizabeth Price, Stella Chamberlain, Miss Anderson, Lee Kohlmar, Lillian Lee, Willie Le Hunt, Gertrude Bernard, Dolly Davis, Mary Gibbon, Peter Swift, Max Schack, Ora Le Fevre, Florence Gardner, Lettie Vernon, Bessie Gross, Rose Wertz, May Hennessey, Dorothy Godfrey, Val Dayne, Dorothy Newell, Aimee Grant Addison Pring, Lillian Lorraine, Lillian Lorraine, Charles Mitchell, Fawn Conway, Charles Purcell, Flo Hart, Arthur Hoyt and Eleanor Deal. Seats are now on sale.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

A splendid Keith vaudeville is crowding the Forsyth, as usual, matinee and night. The bill is a full of specialties and of real worth and of more than ordinary interest, there being a pleasing novelty in each act is different. Perhaps the best in the bill, however, is the merry-go-round vaudeville that has contributed so much to the success of the Forsyth as the busiest theater in Atlanta. Laddie Cliff the head liner, has a "peach of a new song and dance" that has been seen in the Forsyth before. Cliff's Scottish songs are always. They must be new, because the writer has never been heard here before. He dances in a fashion that distinguishes him as a star in his line, and he has been forced to respond to a curtain speech at every performance.

JONES COMPLIMENTED FOR EFFICIENT WORK

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, March 10.—(Special.)—Rolling H. Jones, postmaster at Atlanta, is highly complimented in the report of the efficiency committeeon of the postoffice department in a report made public today by the first assistant postmaster general, Daniel C. Roper. The patrons of the Atlanta office are urged to co-operate in making this a model office.

The Atlanta office is hereafter to have two divisions, one handling finances and the other the mails. It is announced that the schedules for the distribuich and receipt of mail at the stations has been revised to eliminate unnecessary trips, to make certain connections and quicker deliveries. A foreman of carriers will inspect frequently the route of each mail carrier.

Large users of the mails are requested to send to the office thirty daily packets of letters already faced, that is prepared with the address side so ready for stamping. Arrangements for the early delivery of incoming newspapers now held on board trains with bulky and less important mail were perfected by the committee.

Changes in Saddler.

Many changes in the physical condition of the building and equipment are recommended, as well as the disposition of the working force. A new system for rating efficiency has been devised to encourage the best efforts.

A system of accounting and auditing will be adopted, whereby a double check will be placed upon every financial transaction, and at the same time the transactions and records will be simplified. The vaults are to be arranged and protected, with the threefold purpose of safeguarding the government, removing temptation and securing officers and employees against unjust suspicion in case of speculation.

The report is signed by J. C Koons and G. D. Ellsworth, superintendents of the divisions of salaries and allowances and postmaster appointments, and Postoffice Inspectors Ryan, Pullen and Colvin. The recommendations of the committee have been approved and Postmaster Rolling H. Jones, of Atlanta, who was appointed last September, is engaged in putting them into effect.

TO DEFINE LIABILITY OF COMMON CARRIERS

Washington, March 10.—Senator Cummins' amendment to the interstate commerce law to define liability of common carriers for freight was tentatively approved by a senate committee today with amendments.

Carriers would be held liable for the full actual value of property notwithstanding any limitation in bills of lading or receipts, and it would be unlawful to incorporate in bills of lading any limitation of time within which notice of loss or damage to property must be given or suit thereafter begun, until the interstate commerce commission has affirmatively acted

New Orleans, March 10.—Pitcher Fred Liebemann, Chicago semi-professional, recently signed by the New Orleans club, has been resold to the Mobile club. Mobile is also said to be negotiating for the release of Pitcher Ora Williams, who was farmed to the Clarksdale, Miss., club last season.

$20,000 FIRE DESTROYS STORES IN LOUISVILLE

Flames Start in Store of R. L. Bostick—Entire Building Wiped Out.

Louisville, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) Fire of unknown origin broke out this morning in the rear of R. L. Bostick's general merchandise store on Broad street, completely destroying the building, including the Louisville Drug company store. The loss to these two firms will aggregate $20,000, with about $10,000 insurance. Although right in the business section of the town, the fire was confined to one building. Considerable damage was done from water.

The losers were B. F. Ramsay, dry goods and notions, $5,000; C. V. & W. J. Clark, general merchandise, $1,500; J. R. Williams company, grocery and hardware store, $1,000; Reagan & Clark, fancy grocery, $500. The Louisville Drug company and R. L. Bostick suffered a total loss.

The alarm was given about 2 o'clock, but when the fire was discovered it had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building.

Fires at Statesboro.

Statesboro, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) Statesboro seems to be having her share of fires. A few weeks ago the pretty home of Mrs John Lee, on South Main street, was destroyed, then the plant of the Flitch-Ellis Manufacturing company, formerly the Bulloch Oil mills, was partially destroyed, resulting in a loss of several thousand dollars, and Sunday night the barn of Morgan Cliff, on South Main street, in which was his $2,000 automobile, was destroyed. The machine was also burned

Sweeney Signs With Yankees.

Chicago, March 10.—Ed Sweeney, catcher, who has been negotiating with the Federals here, signed a new contract with the New York American league team today, it was announced at the office of that club.

MILLINERY For the EARLY SPRING

HATS FOR STREET EASIER ON MALES

Women Strike Note of Moderation in Contrast to Protruding Feathers of the Past Season.

The long and eccentric feathers of the winter's vogue have been modified many new and interesting ou—reated and the small head-sizes consid-rably enlarged—these are the changes one notices first in the millinery offerings for spring.

A note of moderation is struck in size, shape and trimming that is a natural reaction of the extreme styles of the past season. While the brims are not large, they are of a size that is bound to prove more generally becoming than the very small ones in recent favor.

A great variety of shapes is shown, with a preference perhaps for the rolling or upturned brims. Adaptations of the sailor are very smart, especially those having a slight dip at the front and back. Especially new is the shape of some of the crowns—sectangular. This idea is also carried out on a few of the round brims.

The tricorne has lost nothing of its jaunty charm in the attractive variations it has developed. Besides the regularly upturned tricornes, which are still in evidence, and so smart on certain types, there is a shape which turns up sharply across the back and into a shallow point in front, the width being considerably greater from side to side than from back to front.

The mushroom styles are good, and lend themselves well to the vogue for silk-covered crowns. One demure model, small and of the softest Milan, had the crown covered with accordion pleated messaline in gendarme blue. The sole trimming was a small cockade of blue feathers set at a surprising angle, toward the face, the brim at that point being bit of cloth inclined to offset the droop of the mushroom brim.

Upturned brims that widen and flare toward the back are numerous, with either ribbon or feather trimming. A charming, airy grace was imparted to a clever shape of this description by the poisoning of two pairs of small cadmary-colored wings, one at the edge of the brim at its greatest height, the other toward the front of the brim on the low side. While the eccentricities—ridiculous—placing of feather ornaments that prevailed during the winter has been brought within reasonable bounds perhaps just in time to avoid legislation against them, one notices still certain roguish tendencies among designers.

Simple Flat Shapes.

Here is a simple enough flat shape, with the brim slightly rolled to the side, the entire top covered with a soft, figured crepe in quiet colors, and pierced perilously on the very edge of the brim a feather stuck up, small to be sure, but wired to an unexpected angle. And there is a perfectly round sailor shape, the crown covered with blue changeable silk with four small, rounded double wings of green and black placed about it at right angles and equi-distant.

For the most part, however, the spring offerings are simple in line and trimming. Colors tend to the darker shades, although a Pocahontas shade and a brilliant electric blue may be numbered among the favorites. Purple, nouveau blue, fawn and mocha, as well as the enduring taupe shades, are prominent in both braids and trimmings.

Except in the extremely tailored models, the softer braids predominate. Milan, supple and adaptable, is much used. Hemp and leghorn, and a new braid called Aigo—in reality the revival of a braid that was popular several years ago—form many of the smartest hats. A few Panamas also, chic indications of midsummer's trend. Knitted scarfs constitute the sole trimming of many of these. Quills are seen on several of the stiff-brimmed models, while the delicate Numidie and Goura continue to hold their own in spite of a long season of popularity. Ostrich fantasies, always graceful and becoming, trim many of the dressier models.

Silk crepe, in both Dresden and Oriental designs, covering the crown and entire upper brim promises to be a marked characteristic of spring modes. Printed ratine, in the lighter weights, is also used in this way.

A novel touch on a small hat of black Aigo braid was a scarlet poppy, in beaded passementerie, so cleverly applied to the upturned brim at the side front as to look as if it were beaded directly onto the braid. Two single-ply ostrich feathers were placed at the back of this French model.

A beautiful shade of rose-mauve was used to form the crown of a black hemp, straight brim hat of good lines. A narrow piping of the satin was carried around the upper brim, about an inch back from the edge, and a Nubuddie, caught half way to the tip with a narrow band of satin, was placed directly in the front.

High Colors Effective.

This piping with a bright colored silk is employed to good advantage on many of the somber-hued models. Orange corded with taupe, green with black, fuchsia with midnight blue are most effective.

Moire ribbon, which seems eminently more suited to spring than winter millinery, continues in high favor. One of the exclusive shops features a bonnet shaped effection, the crown completely swathed with moire ribbon in the exquisite fuchsia shade, and having a bow of moderate dimensions upstanding at the back.

Flowers are little used as yet. Occasionally one sees a little bunch of French blossoms tucked close on the upper brim to carry out a color note, but aside from that feathers and ribbons hold full sway.

Veilings will not abate a jot in popularity for spring. Many of the novelties that appeared late in the season will be carried over, but developed in the lighter and more open meshes.

Shadow lace effects, too becoming to be soon forsaken, show new designs more filmy and fascinating than ever before. Beauty spot designs show the butterfly, the dragon, the sunburst, the large velvet dot and, any number of odd floral designs. Plain mesh veils, particularly the hexagon meshes, are well liked, and in the bordered French veils will be found many novel designs.

The vogue of the long sleave is assured for spring and summer wear. From the viewpoint of attractiveness every woman will welcome the news because the hand and arm are never so attractively dressed as when soft wrinkles above the wrist make the hand appear smaller and more shapely. For the woman of limited purse, however, it is not an unmixed blessing.

Lengths will run from eight button to sixteen, with not a few twenty button lengths for formal wear. Champagne shades will vie with blacks and whites for favor. Heavy black stitching on the whites and champagnes are very smart.

Silk gloves, particularly with contrasting stitching, will be much worn, while chamois and doeskin, for shopping and outing wear are both stylish and practical.

How to Clean Gloves.

A hint from a glove manufacturer about the washing of leather gloves, such as chamois and doeskin, will be appreciated by the woman who has had her gloves stiffen up after a few washes. It is very simple: Add a teaspoonful of sweet or olive oil to the first water and to the smart rinsing water. It is absorbed by the leather and tends to keep the gloves soft and pliant, adding greatly to their wearing qualities.

FILMY FURBELOWS FOR MILADY'S NECK

Transparency and a certain charming picturesqueness is demanded of the newest feminine neckwear. The universal acceptance of the low, soft surplice bodice which has received added impetus with the approach of warmer days, makes a delightful necessity of many and varied neck accessories.

Fichus of finest silk tulle, softly trimmed; guimpe, with and without sleeves, tastefully trimmed with net plaitings, Medici collars of shadow lace; collar and cuff sets of hand-embroidered batiste, edged with tiny pleated ruffles of wash tulle; vests of pleated chiffon and collars in the Byron style of taffeta or satin, with attached vests of lace—these are but a few of the charming confections for the neck to be found in the shops.

SPARTANS ARE DEFEATED IN MIGHTY WORD BATTLE

Granite Hill, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—The greatest spelling contest ever known in Hancock county was held recently at the school auditorium in Sparta. The contest lasted nearly four hours, but at last the challenging party, Sparta high school, went down in defeat before the Tenth District Agricultural school.

The fight at Thermopylae echoed through all the after centuries of Grecian history. But the three hundred brave Spartans who perished in that memorable battle, and who defended their country with such intrepid courage, were not more patriotic and loyal than were the twelve young Spartans who so ably represented their school on Friday evening.

COTTON ADVANCED ON HEAVY BUYING

Market Closed Firm, With March Selling 58 Points Over May—Spot Cotton Is Quiet.

New York, March 10.—Cotton was more active during the same weeks past and ruled generally firm, with active months some 30 to 45 points above the new records of Monday morning. Houses with Wall street and western connections were heavy buyers during the day, particularly of the new crop months, and outside business generally showed some improvement. An idea that latest developments at Washington rendered any immediate legislative action against the cotton exchanges improbable, was supposed to be partly responsible for increased activity of the market. Aside from that, the talk around the ring circled in no particular change in the news, but buying was probably encouraged by continued reports of relatively steady spot markets and the apparent failure of the increasing March premium to attract shipments here from the south. The close was firm and from 7 to 20 points net higher, with March selling 58 points over May.

Liverpool did not fully meet the local advance of late yesterday, and the opening here was easy, with a net advance of 1 points on March, but generally it 5 points lower in sympathy. Some of yesterday's most prominent buyers were active buyers again this morning, however, and prices soon became firmer.

Liverpool was a heavy seller of both summer and early new crop months on the advance, and the market was unsettled with considerable realizing caused slight weakening during the morning. After the close of the English markets offerings became less active, while the buying movement showed increasing hostility and prices worked higher. Last prices were at practically the best of the day.

New Orleans, March 10.—Cotton ranged within narrow limits today reacting at a net gain of 12 to 1 points on the active months for several days past covering shorts were the best buyers. In the early part of the session prices worked 4 to 5 points under yesterday's last quotations, but the setback was not well sustained.

Trade reports indicate the improved outlook for the new crop is the result of better weather conditions and also to some extent to prospects of legislation. Dispatches from Texas stated that present weather conditions would allow a large area in the eastern sections of the state to be planted in the near future. In the face of this October held up well, standing at the highest in a new advance of 6 points. At the highest of the day the trading months were 4 to 6 points up.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, March 10.—(Special.)—There was a very good rise to the market today and it closed firm at a net gain of from five to fourteen points. The feature of the day was the heavy buying of December. Interest in new crop months is increasing every day, and it looks as though the market in this belt for the next month or so, there would be a big demand for cotton, and Liverpool would have to look to spot cotton. The opened about 15 to 20 points weak and they rallied 40 points before profit taking. The movement continues larger than even the bears had expected and any little advance would be followed by a prompt break to new levels.

SHORTS IN WHEAT CAUGHT NAPPING

They Had to Bid Up Prices Trying to Cover—Market Closed Strong—Corn Is Higher.

Chicago, March 10.—Short sellers overreached themselves today in wheat. On trying to cover, they found the market bare of offerings and had to bid up prices to an unexpected extent. The result was a strong close at an advance of ¾ to ⅞ net. Corn finished with 1-16 to ⅛ gain, and oats with a gain of 1-16 to ⅛, but provisions 2½ to 10 off.

Impetus for the shorts to protect their trade was found in a decided falling off in the world's available supply. The total for the week was made a noticeable contrast as against a generous enlargement during the corresponding time a year ago. It was also pointed out that the receipts each day for February and the first instance for more than eight in March about the only other bullish news was a complaint from Kansas that some acts were in need of moisture. Cold had been frozen. Flurried buying on this part of the map was chiefly in variance with their attitude earlier in the week. Fluctuations for crop advices both foreign and domestic, beguiled traders to act as though a change as the pits being caught napping never had been noticed.

Rumors of an improved cash demand stimulated the upturn in corn. Illinois and Iowa reports indicated also a diminishing of receipts. Besides, the pit was evidently oversold the same as in wheat, having grown unduly bearish in consequence of the mild weather.

Notwithstanding a rush of selling had borne hard against oats, the market for that cereal rallied with others.

Provisions suffered from selling that was largely local. Moreover, the high prices for hogs failed to act as an offset.

Smart Footwear for Spring

However dashing her spring costume may be, her footwear is destined to assume the same charm of Puritan days gone by. For "Colonials" is the edict of the shoemakers.

Patent leather will form the majority of these—indeed, it will dominate all the spring boots and slippers—and they will have for the most part turned soles and Cuban Louis heels. Buckles are either oval or square, in leather like the slipper or in metal. A new style dancing pump in the colonial effect is of mat kid, with gunmetal buckle and a low covered wood heel. What is called the leather "spool heel" is seen on many of the colonials that have the welted sole.

For afternoon wear they show many novel combinations of leathers, such as gray with white kid, finished with a kid covered buckle. Strap slippers are being revived, a natural consequence of the vogue of the ribbon-laced sandal. A smart pair of patent leather slippers noticed recently had quarters and straps of gray checked matelasse and were trimmed with small cut steel buttons. The tango pumps with their pretty ankle laces continue in favor for evening and house wear.

Wear High Button Boot.

The high, buttoned boot will be much worn this spring. Patent leather vamps, with tops of cloth, kid or suede, and French or Spanish heels predominate. Spat effects in colors to match the costumes will be affected by the chic follower of fashion. An exclusive bootshop is showing a boot with an extra high cut gray matelasse top, patent leather vamp, and two-inch Louis heel, that should have many admirers.

Tan leathers, except in the darker shades, are not in such high favor as in the past seasons. Bronze, however, has been utilized to a considerable extent in both high and low shoes.

With the first breath of summer it is predicted that white shoes will claim feminine allegiance as widely as ever before. Canvas and buckskin are preferred for commoner wear, with kid, for both high and low shoes, in the dressy styles.

Novelties in Hosiery.

Colors are coming into their own again in the newest hosiery. The preference is for shades to match the costume.

In white, black, blue or gray may be found fine English silk stockings with plain tops and Derby ribs below the knee.

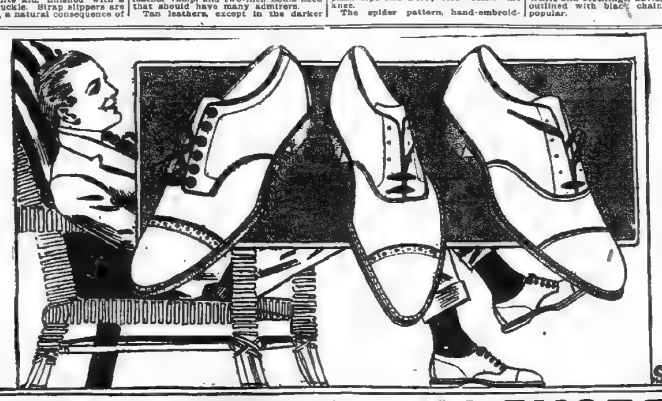

The spider pattern, hand-embroidered in any color on a pure thread silk stocking may be bought for $2.00.

The latest Parisian novelty shows two colors combined, the lighter forming a sort of panel effect down the front, that is sometimes in the shape ow two V's whose points meet just above the instep.

Another attractive style has the foot of black, shading up into a flesh tint. A white silk cord laces up the side and ties in a tiny bow with tasseled ends.

The embroidered anklet forms the sole decoration of fine silk hosiery in practically every shade.

Open work and drop-stitch clocks are seen on many of the late designs. White silk stockings, having the clocks outlined with black, chain stitch are popular.

NEW THINGS IN SHOES

By Charles W. Galloway.

Styles in shoes, is a phrase that will have more significance when used in referring to the spring showing, than is usually implied by the expression. The elements of real style have been entering more and more into the construction of shoes for some seasons and now that there is a tendency on the part of the wearer to take kindly to novelties in shoes, makers have given more attention to the production of novelties i shoes, makers have given the spring showing.

First of all, it may be said that cloth tops are expected to be a very important factor in the spring demand. Cloth tops were introduced, or rather re-introduced for fall, and the discriminating dresser took to them at once. Their introduction was in the nature of an experiment, and was limited to a very small number of combinations. The forthcoming season will bring out many more, among them, gray uppers over either black or tan, gray over tan, white over gray or black—these and variations from these fundamental colors. White over patent and gray over patent will, it is thought, be the popular combinations for such semi-dress affairs which usually occur at the summer club or for lawn functions. All of these combinations will appear in Oxfords for spring.

Flat Heel Shoe Proper.

The custom or English last is easily the favorite. Flat or seven-eighths heels lead, and a tendency favoring the long vamp is apparent. It is said that we are getting away from the short vamps. The long forequarter styles are expected to lead by a wide margin. This is a move in the right direction of greater comfort.

The business man, it is thought, will call for black or dark tans. In fact, there is a strong disposition to favor the darker shades of tan in both the regular and the oxford shoes. While there may be some pumps worn on the streets, this is not expected to be an authoritative vogue. The Oxfords of general use will be the regular heights. Button shoes lead strongly, although provisions have been made for the man who favors the lace or the blucher, the latter being favored by many who take to comfort, or who may have trouble in getting shoes that will give the least degree of discomfort to tender feet.

Another feature which is incorporated in the spring styles is the rubber sole and another, the Elkskin sole. These have hitherto been used mainly in shoes for outing purposes, and for that matter will continue to be a feature of the construction of outing shoes, but they will become more and more a feature of shoes for general purpose and street wear.

Rubber or Elkskin soles have never been surpassed for walking comfort, and it is this that makes them favorites. They may be had with either tan or black uppers, and either in flat heel or with a separate heel. It is thought that the separate heel will be in the lead owing to the natural desire to require a heel support. They come mostly in the straight ball.

It is commented in the stores that there has been a distinct tendency toward the higher priced shoes.

White Shoes Stylish.

White cloth shoes and white buck will, it is thought, also be favorites mainly for semi-outing wear. Buttons will also offer another novel feature, in that they will be of various shades harmonizing with the leather of the lower part of the shoe or with the cloth of the upper. For the man with the highly developed idea of color harmony the color schemes that may be worked out in a man's attire by the use of footwear effects harmonizing with the hose, the suit, hat or some other, instead of other, articles of apparel offer wonderful possibilities. The same conditions may hold some degree of terror for the man who is little versed or used to ensembling colors. Here the advice of the salesman may be deemed necessary. The conventional black or the conservative brown or tan which appear to be the leading colors are always available and harmonize with almost any other color, shade or combination.

THREE HELD AS YEGGS BY POLICE OF MACON

Officers Think They Have Solved Mystery of Many Safe Blowings.

Macon, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—With the arrest of Wiess Jordan and Louis Jenkins, two young whites men, together with Jim Lee Watson, another young man now in the hospital suffering from gunshot wounds inflicted recently by the night watchman of the Massee & Felton lumber plant, the police believe they have solved the mystery of the blowing of the safe at B. H. Middlebrooks' store a couple of weeks ago, and have also rounded up a gang of professional yeggmen who have been operating extensively throughout this section of the state during the last few months.

Jordan has been in jail several days, being held on information furnished by an acquaintance of his to whom Jordan is alleged to have told of his part in the robbery. Jenkins was arrested today, but told the police that they could never convict him until they got a third party, who was still at large.

From Jordan the police say they have secured complete details of several robberies, including the names of all those who participated, and they expect to have other members of the gang in custody before long.

It was learned today that Jenkins is an escaped convict from the Troupe county gang.

ALLEGED YEGGS NABBED

Two Held in Milledgeville. Other Arrests to Follow.

Milledgeville, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—By order of Detective C. P. Moore, the sheriff and city police today arrested and placed in jail John Jordan, a local white man, and John Hurley, a negro employed by him. They are charged with being members of the gang of yeggmen who blew open the safe of C. H. Bonner here a month ago, getting away with a large sum of money.

They are implicated by an alleged confession of Jack Lynch, alias Mack Lunsford, who was arrested in Atlanta Saturday charged with being leader of the robbers. He is confined in Macon jail.

Brantley has been allowed bond in the sum of $7,500, which has not been given at this hour. It is rumored that other arrests will be made here, as Lynch said five of the gang live here.

BROTHER'S CONFESSION DOESN'T FREE V. H. DAVIS

Brunswick, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) Sheriff W. H. Bowie returned to the city yesterday from New Orleans, where he went for A. R. Davis, the self-confessed murderer of Mrs. Mary Davis, and who died just an hour before the sheriff reached the hospital in which he was confined.

It was hoped that the sheriff would be able to secure while in New Orleans some additional facts which would throw some new light on the murder mystery, but he learned nothing further than has already been published. He said Davis had made a full confession of the crime, but that he never had stated why he murdered Mrs. Davis. The return of the sheriff, therefore, does not throw any new light on the case so far as V. H. Davis, husband of the murdered woman, is concerned, as he will be held for another trial in the superior court in May.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED WHILE MOTHER IS AWAY

Gainesville, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) Thelma Mayfield, the little 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mayfield, was burned to death a few miles out from this city this morning about 10 o'clock. The mother of the little girl had left the room only a few moments when she heard the screams of the little one, but that he never had stated why he murdered Mrs. Davis. The return of the sheriff, therefore, does not throw any new light on the case so far as V. H. Davis, husband of the murdered woman, is concerned, as he will be held for another trial in the superior court in May.

PEACH CROP AFFECTED, BUT ONLY IN SPOTS

Fort Valley, Ga, March 10.—(Special.)—The recent cold spells have affected the peach crop of this section only in spots, some orchards damming considerably hurt, while others are not in the least affected. The cause of this being the difference in the manner of cultivation, some of the farms, together with the nature of the soil.

However, there will be a most favorable crop for the 1914 season. In many orchards the buds are quite pink and will soon be in full blossoms.

TWO CENTRAL TRAINS MEET WITH ACCIDENTS

Griffin, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—Two Central of Georgia passenger trains running into this place have their schedules completely deranged yesterday on account of overturning of the engine of one and the derailment of the other. The passenger train from Chattanooga was delayed several hours, when the engine turned over at Banning, near Cedartown. Train from here to Cedartown was derailed at Experiment, a suburb of this place. Spreading of tracks is given as the cause of both accidents. No injuries to men are reported.

To Observe Peace Day.

Athens, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—"Peace day" will be celebrated by the public schols of Athens pursuant to a special request made by the Laura Hoffman Harris chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which met yesterday evening and asked the schools to appropriately observe this anniversary of the end of the war.

Wacoochee Bridge Burns.

Columbus, Ga., March 10.—(Special.) The bridge over Wacoochee creek at Wacoochee, Ala., fourteen miles from here, burned last night. It was 160 feet long.

ATLANTA STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

E. J. Witt, sales manager for Fernwood estates, a subdivision on Peachtree road opposite the grounds of the Capital City Country club (Haven Haven), reports the following recent sales:

Increasing Interest Shown.

Mr. Witt states that since the announcement about a week ago that work on Ogleethorpe university would begin immediately, considerable interest has been shown in this property, the activity being quite marked in going to the north. Another cause of activity in these sections is the fact that the club is spending something like $50,000 in extending its golf course and beautifying its grounds, many new trees overlooking these grounds, and it is his opinion that this will be the center of this season's activity. Everything is out of the ordinary, in that lots are being sold on a basis of acreage price in that section. Another unusual feature is the co-operative plan of installing improvements.

Hurt Building Lease.

Samuel Bueknoff, representing the Automatic Electric company, of Chicago, has leased offices at 1124 Hurt building, where he has opened a southern agency for the company. His company deals in automatic electric appliances, particularly the "auto-phone, which is a telephone with an automatic switchboard for intercommunication. The industrial and statistical bureau of the chamber of commerce was instrumental in bringing this agency to Atlanta.

The demand for offices in the Hurt building continues to be good, and the lively building is also being filled with satisfactory speed. These conditions indicate that Atlanta will be entirely ready to fill other office buildings at the time the several proposed structures have been completed.

Hanbage Jr.'s Application.

Application for the building permit for the apartment house which, as announced several weeks ago, John A. Hanbage, Jr., will build on Lafayette drive, in Ansley Park, has been made. The application calls for a $60,000 building, of which R. M. Walker is the contractor and C. N. Canton is the architect.

Peters Park Contract.

Contract has been let to the Nichols Contracting company for the grading of work in Peters park, a new residence subdivision which will soon be developed just north of Georgia Tech.

New Salesmen.

Three new salesmen, all of extensive experience in the real estate business, have joined the sales force of the Hancock Realty company's agency. They are W. Donald Kennally, who has been W. B. Matthews, the last named of whom has been for a number of years connected with the R. M. Grant & Co. agency.

SPRING STYLES TYPICALLY ENGLISH

Styles for Forthcoming Spring and Summer Told

Styles, like events, often cast their shadows before them. Indications of what may be expected in styles always appear a season or two in advance, either in a moderated form, or it may be in an extreme form, though confined in use to a few of the ultra-fashionable.

This, though, is not the birth of a vogue which often sees the first light of day abroad. There is no style dictator in America; neither is there abroad, whose recognition is universal. Nevertheless we look to London for the fashions and it is undesired that London still exerts an influence in this respect. It may be said that all the principal style features of the last century had their birth in London.

"English designing, modified with American ideas and tailoring" is the way one prominent in the tailoring field put it and it might be added that the modifications often eliminate such, and in other instances leave but a vestige of the original idea. American styles thus constituted are, however, internationally known and talked of because of their grace of line and contour, their style and their elegance.

These indications do not, however, always plainly reveal the forthcoming vogue. As the season approaches, the authoritative styles become elongated, while those which are not so authentic disappear. We discern the regime in advance, before they are displayed on the tables of your favorite tailor, is important and hence this treatise thereon.

Modified English Styles.

English styles, modified with American ideas, describes better than any other words of the same number could the styles for this forthcoming spring and summer. First of all, it may be said that less cloth will go into suits than ever before. The athletic suit, as it will become popularly called, the "Mix" suit, is without doubt the leading model. The characteristics of this suit are, as its name implies, the absence of any superfluous trimmings. Coats will be tighter and trousers likewise, though this is not intended to convey the impression that the skin-tight trousers of a few years ago will come back, that is not just now, though there is no means of knowing what this tendency might bring us to. The peg-top and semi-peg, even the conservative width, seems to be due for a change to the narrower legs. And, speaking of the tendency toward the smaller clothing, and with reference to trousers in particular, for the younger element these must be tight at the waist and tight around the seat as well, so that while a belt may be worn, it will not be a necessity. Three-piece suits entirely will be worn by all who have due regard to the dictates of fashion, two-piece suits, which saw a decline in demand last summer, will pass this forthcoming season, except in suits of tropical weight English worsted cloth, a fabric which has come into high favor recently for hot weather wear.

The lightweight wool fabrics which will be used will be made up with an almost total absence of trimmings, or it may be said a total lack of superfluous trimmings, so that any one of the garments which compose the suit can be crumpled up into a very small bundle. The lightweight suits are made largely with patch pockets and in semi-English style. Stiffening or padding of any sort will be notable because of its entire absence.

Half Lining in Cool Climate.

For those who might regard the unlined coats as being a little too close to nature, especially in localities where the weather is varying, suits made along the same general lines, though with half lining, have been provided.

Gray, blue and green, the latter more on the order of an olive shade and also a myrtle green, will be among the popular spring colors. Brown in the lighter shades may be had, but this, it is thought, will not be a large factor. Both the lightweight suits and those which are made in other fabrics will be made up according to this model.

For early spring, it is thought that the lined models will be favored, and many business men will continue to favor these latter models for the season, except possibly for outing. These latter depart slightly more from the tightness that will be carried out in the construction of models for summer wear and for the younger element. Shapeliness will characterize all the models, however, for the forthcoming season.

Much has been said about the probability that English productions have a tremendous influence upon the future of clothing in the matter of style and fabric. With the English vogue now of long standing in this country, during which time it has been adapted to the American wearer, little can be expected in the nature of radical departures, at least, for the next season. Coats for spring will be just a trifle shorter, the waistcoats a trifle lower at the neck opening, and the trousers tighter as commented herein.

Poor Cloth Eliminated.

Sharp colors will be popular. Blue and gray, black and white, blue and white, and mixed combinations and sharp contrasts lead.

The cutaway frock coat is replacing the Prince Albert for professional men, and many business men of more mature years favor this model, while as a semi-dress occasion coat, made of black or oxford, either with or without bound edges, it is exceedingly popular. Fancy striped or small checked trousers are worn with this coat.

An invisible herringbone pattern, made in cutaway frock style, is an innovation that is expected to prove popular. Such suits with bound edge coats will continue to be favored by many.

Of overcoats for early spring, it may be said that these, too, are made without lining. Coverts will be popular with many, though it is not thought that they will lead.

Fancy patterns in soft worsted, together with black and gray plain colored materials. The Balmacaan mode, popular this winter in heavyweight cloth, will be popular with some. Favor will be divided between two models in spring overcoats, and these two may be said to be remote from each other in cut. One is a coat which follows closely the lines of the body, waisted and moderately tight. The other, an extremely loose model. In the latter the fancy patterns will lead, while the first mentioned will be favored in the plainer and more conservative fabrics.

FURNITURE BUYING MADE EASY THIS YEAR

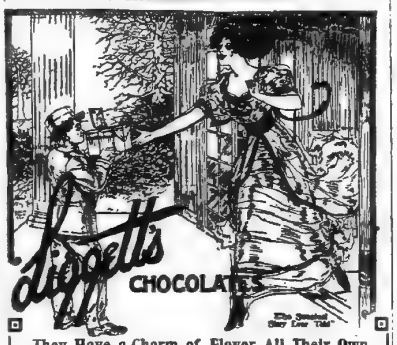

There never was a time when there were so many good examples of every kind of furniture—really honest furniture—to choose from. If you have learned the lessons of suitability and sincerity, and have a knowledge of artistic harmony, you will be able to select the right pieces for the right places.

The new fashioned wicker furniture is used quite as much in rooms as on porches. Don't hesitate to occasionally buy an odd piece of well designed furniture, for it will give a distinctive touch to the entire room. The old high-boy with its chest of drawers is a valuable acquisition. The low-boy may be used as a writing table in the library, as a serving table in the dining room, or as a dressing table in the bedroom. The Wingor fire-side chairs are wonderfully comfortable and are found in excellent reproductions. Color in furniture covering is an important factor in making or marring a pleasant interior.

Secretaries, combining the functions of a bookcase and a desk, were formerly made in large numbers, and are counted very desirable possessions. A great many Chinese lacquer pieces are seen in connection with the grade for Chinese decorative schemes. The most favored wood used now is antique mahogany for fine pieces, though a great deal of white and tinted enameled furniture is used, and even the less valuable pieces show a combination of cane and wood.

The pink of propriety is not raised in the florist's hothouse.

BEAUTIFUL,

Silk Shirts of Solid Colors Prevail; Haberdashers Offer Spring Novelties

Spring will be a season of novelties in furnishings. In almost every article of haberdashery there are many novelties to be had. This may not be so apparent early in the spring because of a disposition on the part of the furnisher to avoid novelties in a large measure. Many of them are afraid to introduce novelties because of the precarious nature of demand for that kind of articles. However, as the season advances and the call for novelties of the various kinds becomes more pronounced they will become more in demand. After all, it is the demand of the man who wishes to dress "just a little different" than the other one which determines largely what will be the style. The manufacturer is constantly creating novelties which the retailer has first opportunity to accept or reject. Their ultimate popularity depends upon whether the consumer takes to them or not, and in doing so the conservative retailer is compelled to buy them. Some, however, never get beyond the manufacturers' or the retailers' shelves. What to wear, then, is an all-important question which we will try to aid in solving. Of the more important articles of haberdashery shirts probably rank first. The importance of this article is more than ever due to its importance of apparel than an article of adornment this forthcoming season, because it seems evident now that little of the shirt will be in evidence. The waistcoat will be more generally worn in the spring than ever. Except with Palm Beach suits or when one is engaged in the more violent sports, the waistcoat will be worn, thus permitting very little of the shirt to be visible.

However, there are reasons to believe that no less care will be given to the selection of this article of apparel.

Reign of Silk Continues.

The reign of silks continues despite several conditions which have arisen affecting this line of goods. The demand for silks has given rise to the production of inferior grades which have been used in the manufacture of shirts and which have not given satisfaction. The result has been that silk shirts will not take a place in front rank of demand, though it is evident that the better grades, those that retail at about and above $5 will continue to be called for by many who favor this class of exquisite apparel. In this variety it seems certain that the louder patterns—wide stripes of strong and contrasting colors—will be called for. Crepe silks will also be much in evidence.

In crepe silks solid high colors are more preferable than stripes.

Another novelty, though not unheard of before, expected to meet with considerable favor will be the cross stripes and cross pleats. Starched, turned back cuffs will vie for popularity with the soft cuffs. Of the cotton materials, woven madras will lead, with woven percales and printed madras following in the order named. The long point collars, of which the supply up to recently has been inadequate, will be the popular summer collar, both in plain white and in madras. The latter will be called for more this forthcoming season than in the past. As predicted, the soft collar will not be a large factor in spring and summer apparel, though it is thought to have a certain legitimate field, that when actually engaged in the more violent sports, at the country club or the field, though better taste demands discrimination even then.

Speaking of the country club, another article of apparel which is said to be gaining in popularity for use on the golf course or tennis court is the combination outing shirt and knee-length drawers. The adoption of this garment by the leading makers, who advertise extensively, will bring this article to the attention of many to whom it will appeal for outing purposes. A new one will be brought out for spring, the chief advantage being that it is so constructed as to not make it necessary to entirely undress in order to change. For the benefit of those wished to make a hurried change at the club, in order to be dressed for dinner or for return to his business or his home, the necessity for removing all the clothes to don a street shirt was a disadvantage which the new contrivance will overcome.

Buying Better Neckwear.

It is commented by those who are in a position to know, that men are buying better neckwear now than ever, and this characteristic it is believed will continue into the spring. Accordingly, makers and dispensers of neckwear are preparing their lines with this in view and the result will in all probability be a richer and more beautiful array of scarfs in all retail emporiums. Four-in-hands are expected to lead, it is thought, over the lower priced cascades, except where staples are concerned. Plain colors, however, are expected to be strong. Paisleys will lead. Rumshundas and twills are being produced in stripes and figured effects. Figures will be more popular than for some time, while stripes are expected to regain some of their lost prestige in a season or two ago. A feature in this is the introduction of many new weaves and colorings. Rep, mesh and crepe are prominent in spring lines, as are also wide and narrow rib coatings. Blue and gray for background colors with lacquard patterns, particularly in stripes, will be popular, as will small floral designs. Variety will rule the neckwear field in which there will be less tendency to match any color or article of apparel. Contrasts will be the keynote of scarf selection. Fancy crepes with colored designs and scroll effects as well as numerous bordered ends will appeal for the popular favor though this will be somewhat divided.

In underwear, union suits will be farther in the lead than ever before, prominent in the features of which will be the closed crotch. Lisle will be favored for the early spring, giving way, as the hot weather approaches, to the strictly athletic union suit of cut nainsook, crepe and kindred fabrics, which makes typical summer underwear. Some furnishers are buying these latter with half sleeves, maintaining that half sleeves are a sanitary golf costume over the knit.

In jewelry, the combinations in scarf pins and cuff links to match or to harmonize with the scarf or the shirt will be the prevailing rule. Light weight and light colored malacca canes with crook handles are a popular stick.

Chamois and washable chamoisette gloves will be worn, and in this connection it might be added that gloves will be worn more this forthcoming spring. Of course, for warm weather wear, the lighter gloves are the things, their function being to keep the hands unsoiled.

White Socks Fashionable.

Socks are an important part of man's attire. They are constantly engaging more attention of the discriminating dresser. There is no doubt but that white socks will reach a high point in esteem for spring. The innovation in the shape introduction of clocks. These had gotten into disuse in favor of plain colors which some maintain, are now getting tired of, and the probable return to clocks is the result. White clocks on black socks, black clocks on white socks are expected, to be called for to quite an extent. Taking the field of furnishings as a whole from the wearer's viewpoint, it is observed that men are no longer looking askance at innovations even though radical. Infinitely more attention to detail is given to the selection and the proper matching of the various little things," about his apparel. He is becoming more fastidious and it would not be surprising in view of the distinct tendency of the present day if men should not in time give as much thought to their attire as women, a condition much desired by the haberdasher and those whose function is to supply the new apparel.

ALASKA RAIL MEASURE READY FOR PRESIDENT

Conference Report Adopted by Both Houses—Wilson Will Sign at Once.

Washington, March 10.—The Alaska railway bill, providing for the construction of a thousand miles of Government railroad and the expenditure of $35,000,000 was ready for the president's signature late today when the senate adopted the conference report already adopted by the house.

President Wilson has indicated his intention of signing the bill as soon as he receives the white house, and tentative plans for constructing the first government railroad already have been considered at the interior department. Secretary Lane, long an advocate of the project, is prepared to go ahead with it as soon as the president gives the word.

Action After Long Debate.

Final action in congress on the bill came after a long debate in the senate, the result of the conference committee appointed to settle differences between the two houses being adopted 46 to 37. The measure authorizes the construction of not more than one thousand miles of railroad to connect Alaska's coal fields with the coast, the route to be selected by the president, to whom also are left many other important details as to whether the road is to be operated by the government itself or leased after it is built.

The discussion today was principally on a suggestion by Senator Cummins that the senate conferees be instructed to insert the language of the bill as passed by the senate and stricken out by the house, providing that the president in constructing the railroad must, if existing railroad lines in Alaska are to be bought and used as a part of the system, buy or arrange for the purchase of those lines before construction of extensions is begun.

Cummins Voices Objections.

Senator Cummins declared that leaving it discretionary with the president whether the government should begin erecting lines into the interior at the northern termini of existing private railroads from the Alaskan seaboard, might so enhance the value of existing roads that syndicates could demand a prohibitive price from the government.

Senator Pittman replied that such a thing would be so obviously outrageous that no president would yield to any influence which could bring out such a result. The bill as perfected, he said, directed the president to construct a continuous line from the seaboard to the interior and that, obviously, it first would be settled whether the main line should be built by the government or purchased outright or by condemnation from existing corporations before any extensions were urged in the Alaskan interior.

There was also extended debate on Senator Norris' contention that the language of the bill placed on the president the obligation to make an effort to lease the railroad after it is built, before the government undertakes to operate it itself. Other senators insisted, however, that the language already made this optional.

WILLIAM J. CUMMINS TAKEN TO SING SING

New York, March 10.—William J. Cummins, one-time head of the defunct Carnegie Trust Company, who was convicted nearly three years ago of the larceny of $1,000,000, was taken to Sing Sing prison from the Tombs today to serve a sentence of not less than four years and not more than eight years and eight months. By reason of appeals and other methods, counsel for Cummins had succeeded in delaying for nearly 900 days after his conviction. He will now appeal to Governor Glynn for a pardon, on the ground that he rendered assistance to the state in the hearings regarding the trust company.

ANOTHER HUNGER STRIKE FOR MRS. PANKHURST

Militant Suffragette Lodged in Jail—Police Eluded Her Followers.

London, March 10.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst once more is a hunger striking prisoner in Holloway jail, but she is confident she will secure her release in a few days under the "cat and mouse" law.

By stopping the Scotch Express on which Mrs. Pankhurst was brought from Glasgow after her arrest in that city last night, and compelling the militant leader to alight at a small way-station outside of London, the police today succeeded in eluding swarms of militant suffragettes who were awaiting her arrival in the city railroad stations.

From the suburban station Mrs. Pankhurst was driven in a motor car to Holloway jail. A large crowd of suffragettes was assembled about the jail, but as a strong detachment of police was on hand no attempt was made to rescue the militant leader.

SUMMER BUNGALOWS A FASCINATING SUBJECT

At this season of the year the furnishings for the all-year-round house, or summer bungalow form an extremely fascinating subject.

Though there may be constant discussion between the house owner and the apartment dweller of the comparative advantages of the different manners of living, it seems that once again people are yearning for their own homes and a bit of garden to care for and enjoy.

Architects have responded to the call for small houses so that these small places have been perfected with all the new comforts and conveniences. Fortunately the American people are giving more thought to real comfort and less to pretense and show.

Headwear For Men

Hats for spring present some novel features, although it cannot be said that there are any radical changes from those of a season or two ago. The separations are subtle, nevertheless are distinctly different, and of such a nature that the man who cares about his apparel cannot disregard them.

Probably the most distinct feature of spring hats is known as the puggaree band. This is a fabric band gathered into tucks, somewhat loosely and extending breathwise around the hat. This will appear in soft hats and upon blankets and Panamas.

A draped taffeta band is another novelty that will, it is believed, meet with considerable approval. This band consists of a wide piece of taffeta ribbon draped around the hat something on the order of that style in which a milliner might drape a piece of silk around a lady's hat. Of course the draping is not near so full as that which the milliner might do, but the idea is the same. Men are less fearful of wearing things that are unusual or out of the ordinary than they have ever been, and it is expected that the draped or puggaree band hats will be welcomed. Higher crowns and narrow brims will be one characteristic of all spring hats. Pencil curl brims will prevail.

Derby Only in Black.

Stiff hats for early spring will have dimensions of 3¼ and 3¼x2; soft hats and straws will have the same general character. As usual, black is the only color for derby hats. Efforts every season to bring out colors in stiff hats have regularly failed. There is no call for other than blacks.

It is another fact worthy of comment that soft hats for spring will favor the darker shades. Grays will be the leading color, in fact, dark gray even more closely defines the leading color, but this must not be taken to mean that there will be a lack of variety in coloring. It is really a revelation to note the numerous mixtures in gray; each while being generalized as gray, displays distinct differences from other grays. Mixtures are expected to be strong in hats, and while there has probably been no definite move to make these mixture match any other article of apparel, the fact that mixtures prevail in suitings also gives the thought that possibly there will be a tendency on the part of the wearer to match the suit after a manner. This facility for matching the suit was the one thing that helped to make the cloth hat popular with many, and if a harmonious effect can be gained between the color scheme of the suit and the felt hat, it would not be surprising if that became quite a fad. Predictions are, however, in the nature of speculation, but this is one of the possibilities of the season. Next to gray it may be said that blue hats will be worn quite extensively, with brown also a favorite.

"Raisin" a New Shade.

The new shade of the season will be known as "raisin." If one can see in his mind's eye the color of dried raisin, he might have just a slight conception of the color. To what extent this will be taken to is problematical. Contrasting bands will be another feature of the spring hat. It is predicted that the Bunkok and the Panama will be stronger than ever in the order named. These will have about the same shape as the soft felt hats, even to the broken crease straight from front to back, broken at the center by being pressed apart. This will be incorporated in the Panamas and Bankoks, which, as noted, will be in high crown and narrow brim shapes.

For outing or traveling there is no hat as serviceable as the stitched silk hat made with a scull crown and turned-up brim. They are light and can be folded up to occupy a small space. Last season the demand for these exceeded the supply.

DAINTY MORNING BONNETS IN VOGUE

The instinctive feminine love for becoming clothes and pretty things finds its expression in a hundred different ways, and a good looking woman takes care that her charms shall be becomingly set off at all times.

Nothing is so fatal to a woman's powers of attraction as to contract the habit of neglecting her appearance, even at times when a certain "negligee" is excusable.

Nor, indeed, is there any reason for this, for never was such ingenuity displayed as at present in the creation of pretty and becoming garments for wear in the informal intimacy of the home.

Among these must be mentioned the fascinating little "morning caps" which are fashionable just now and which recall the delicate elegance of the eighteenth century. Worn with a "saut-de-lit," a dressing gown, or even while taking the morning chocolate, or while perusing the morning paper in bed, they form a delightful frame for a pretty face. These little caps may be made in all sorts of ways and many women take a pleasure in designing their own according to individual taste.

Season of Capes Ahead.

We are to have a season of cape fashions, as well as of wraps that are extremely capelike in appearance. The capes are both long and short, full enough to godet more or less at the lower edge.

"ROKEBY VENUS" CUT BY A MILITANT WOMAN

Notorious May Richardson Uses Knife on Famous Picture by Velasquez.

London, March 10.—A militant suffragette inflicted severe damage today on the famous Velasquez picture known as the "Rokeby Venus," which is hung in the National gallery, Trafalgar square. The picture was purchased for $225,000 in 1906, and presented to the nation. Art experts have estimated its present market value as $500,000.

The woman entered the gallery and attacked the picture with a sharp knife, making six or seven bad cuts across the canvas. She was arrested.

The perpetrator of the outrage was the notorious militant suffragette, May Richardson, who has been sentenced to several terms of imprisonment since the beginning of the militant movement. She was arrested at Bristol on July 4 last year for dropping a scroll of paper on the knees of King George as he was driving through the city. After she had served three months' imprisonment she was arrested again in November for burning a house at Hampton, but immediately started a hunger strike and was released a few weeks later in a serious condition.

Many of the public art collections such as those at Hampton Court palace, and especially galleries where valuable porcelain is on exhibition, were closed a year ago on account of militant outrages and have not been opened since. The National gallery was closed after today's outrage.

"I tried to destroy the picture of the most beautiful woman in mythological history as a protest against the government for destroying Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who is the most beautiful character in modern history."

The magistrate committed Miss Richardson for trial and refused to grant bail.

The keeper of the National gallery told the magistrate that the selling price of the pictures had been depreciated by the outrage by $75,000.

The prisoner harangued the court, saying:

"Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, has turned the criminal code into a farce. This is the tenth time I have been brought before a magistrate this year. He cannot coerce me and cannot compel me to serve a sentence. He can only repeat the farce of releasing me."

Six or seven of the slashes made by Miss Richardson are sharp, clean cuts on the most important portion of the canvas—the nude shoulders and back of Venus. The seventh injury is a ragged bruise a couple of inches in diameter and will be more difficult to repair.

Miss Richardson, who made no attempt to escape after the outrage, carried a sort of miniature hatchet in her muff and not a knife as was at first stated. She is already under sentence of four months' imprisonment, but was liberated because she was suffering from appendicitis.

TRUST PRACTICES LAID TO A TOBACCO COMPANY

Attorney General McReynolds to Sue the Metropolitan of New York.

Washington, March 10.—Attorney General McReynolds tonight decided to prepare suit against the Metropolitan Tobacco company, of New York, under the Sherman anti-trust law. The decision was based on evidence of alleged restraints of trade, laid before Mr. McReynolds today by H. Snowden Marshall, United States district attorney at New York, and his assistant, C. A. Thompson, who has investigated the case.

The principal complaint against the Metropolitan company is alleged discriminations against independent dealers. The Metropolitan acts as distributing agent for producing companies that make up the old tobacco "trust," and while it would be principal distributer for independents necessarily would be parties to the solution of the old cranin Tobacco company.

According to Mr. Marshall's report, investigation has shown that the Metropolitan sells to certain jobbers direct at the same rates it sells to retailers, and sometimes below Metropolitan goods at no profit at all.

Officials of the disintegrated companies of the old American Tobacco company, which use the Metropolitan company as distributing agent, have talked with department officials about a severance of their relations, and as a result in the understanding here is that a conspiracy in restraint of trade will be difficult to establish, though action would be based on the allegation that there is restraint of trade.

Charges of Incidents.

The fact that there have been negotiations between officials of the tobacco companies and department representatives was pointed out tonight as a reason for believing the entire matter might be settled out of court. Independent dealers, however, have charged that nothing but the elimination of the Metropolitan would restore competition to the Greater New York field.

Attorney General McReynolds has been particularly interested in the Metropolitan case because he was attorney for the government in the suit against the old tobacco "trust." He was greatly interested in evidence produced today, and unless the Metropolitan is willing to conform to the department's view of the Sherman act, proceedings will be pressed.

RAIL OUTLOOK GLOOMY, SAYS PRESIDENT REA

Philadelphia, March 10.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company stockholders at their annual meeting today, authorized the board of directors to issue $50,000,000 under which bonds may be issued in such amounts and at such times as may be required properly to finance the company.

President Samuel Rea, who presided, read a statement in which he denied published reports alleging that railroads had manipulated their accounts to show increased costs of operation. Mr. Rea also referred to the question of increased freight rates, stating that the interstate commerce commission and state commissions probably had failed to appreciate the consequence of unfavorable enactments and regulation, dealing with every phase of railroad operation. The result, said, was higher maintenance and operating charges. The railroads as a whole have not been spending enough for maintenance, he added. Continuing, Mr. Rea said:

"No serious public objection is being given to the investors who have furnished the capital for all the railroads and thereby provided the most substantial foundations for the past and present progress of the country.

"If large numbers of railroad men and others depending on railroads for every character of supplies and work are out of employment and a general loss of confidence exists and suspicion has been engendered, no attempt must be made to place this responsibility upon the railroad management. The time has come when all fair-minded men and investors must individually and collectively impress on their state and federal representatives that they are a part of the nation entitled to at least fair consideration.

"This statement is not made to predict calamity, but it is made to prevent calamity."

WEST POINT IS BARRED TO JAMES W. M'CLURE

Washington, March 10.—Unless specifically directed by President Wilson, the war department will not reopen the case of James W. McClure, of Paris, Ky., who was excluded from appointment as a cadet at the West Point Military academy, thereby leading his brother to prefer charges against the General Thomas H. Barry, former superintendent, and Major Fred W. Sladden, commandant of cadets, of making false official statements in the matter.

Senator Paynter, who had interested himself in the case, has been informed by the war department that the academic board reported that McClure had failed to qualify, and that the action in which fact had been regarded sufficient to warrant the disapproval of his application for a new appointment.

LABOR LEADERS WILL MAKE THORO' CANVASS

Concerted Effort to Bring Out Full Strength of Vote for Labor Candidates.

Believing that concerted action on the part of labor is essential to the success of its candidates, the Labor Legislative league, at its meeting last night, appointed a committee to canvass the ranks of organized labor and urge support for its candidates in the coming elections.

The league, at its recent meeting, selected W. S. Wier, a member of the Typographical union, as its candidate for county commissioner, and S. A. Albright, of the Musicians, for a place in the general assembly.

Following the meeting of the league, the executive committee met and elected as a committee, W. A. Caraway, W. S. Wier, S. A. Albright, Carl Karsten and Louis P. Marquard for the purpose of going before the various labor organizations at their next meetings. The committee will inform the organizations that the league has selected its candidates and urges all laboring men to support them.

Members of almost every organization in the city attended the meeting and pledged moral and financial support.

William S. Wier, candidate for county commissioner, urged the league to appoint a committee to canvass the city and explain the object of the league in putting forward candidates. As the result, the league resolved itself into a committee of the whole to carry out the suggestion, and will spread the propaganda broadcast among the voters of Atlanta and Fulton county.

One very important matter discussed at the meeting related to the registration of voters. It was decided that the league will send out literature calling the attention of voters to the fact that the registration books close on May 5. Each member of the league pledged himself to bring at least six non-members to the registration office and see that they are registered.

Miss Pickens' Indorsement.

Already the league has gained the indorsement of the Typographical union, and a committee from that organization has been appointed to work in the interest of the league candidates. A rule prevailing among the organizations prevents the discussion of political matters in their meetings, and for that reason the league has found it to be an exceedingly difficult matter to reach the various organizations. However, a majority of the unions have agreed to listen to the league, and will go into a committee of the whole whenever the league committee asks for a conference.

Members of the league expect to finance the campaigns of the candidates with the dues and initiation fees of the league. The executive committee will act as a ways and means committee to devise the method of raising funds and supporting the campaign.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED IN BRAZILIAN STATE

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, March 10.—Martial law was proclaimed today throughout the state of Ceara. Federal troops have been placed on guard at the principal commercial and private houses in Fortaleza, the state capital, owing to the outbreak of a strike. Martial law was proclaimed in this city several days ago.

The commander of the troops at Fortaleza telegraphed to the minister of war that the mob was at a state still and the strikers were parading the streets, wrecking public streets cars and breaking into private dwellings.

The local authorities of the state of Ceara are powerless to enforce order and the federal commander reports that a force of rebels is encamped at about 16 miles from Fortaleza.

OLD ICE CO. PLANT BURNS TO GROUND

For a Time Entire Block at Bell and Decatur Streets Was Threatened.

The old Atlanta Ice and Coal plant, situated on Decatur street, near the corner of Bell street, was burned practically to the ground last night in a fire that was first discovered about 10:30 o'clock and waged stubbornly until 12 o'clock. The loss was total, but no value could be estimated, as the building was old, half fallen down and had not been in use for five years.

Three firemen from No. 1 station house risked their lives in order to put out the flames which threatened to envelope the entire neighborhood for a while by running their hose up the side of the building from the sidewalk, while overhead telephone wires were melting from the heat of the flames and falling across highly-charged electrical power lines to the ground. The insulation of the power lines burned through in several places and at one moment it looked as though they would melt and fall to the pavement.

Sparks from the burning plant set five to two other houses on the opposite side of the street, causing great fear among the women inhabitants of the places, who ran into the streets crying frantically. These houses were put out by special detailed firemen and one woman shouted loud her thanks to the Lord for saving her houses.

A throng of 5,000 spectators were attracted to the scene by the flames.

COLONY OF STRIKERS INVADED BY TROOPS

Trinidad, Colo., March 10.—Striking miners were fired to a high pitch of excitement tonight over the action of the state militia in invading the strikers' tent colony at Forbes today and taking down eleven tents, acting under instructions of Adjutant General John Chase, ordering the strikers to take a number of strikers to leave the colony and ordering the remainder will be to take with them their household effects.

None of the tents taken down today were occupied, and strikers with wives or children will not be required to move.

At local union headquarters it is said the tents are the property of the union, and are rented or leased by that organization, and every effort will be made to prevent the strikers from leaving.

Evidence alleged to show complicity of members of the strike colony in the alleged murder of Nell Smith, a miner of Forbes, and a report that the strikers are arming themselves, led to the action by the state troops, according to the military authorities.

Spring Styles in New York As a Passerby Viewed Them

By Joan Ohl

Spring is with us in New York!

You may doubt the truth of this when you see the headliner of "another blizzard" which we have been having for the last month, but overhead the sky is often blue and straw hair defy the snow, even if the rest of woman's costume must be covered by a fur coat and ungraceful "arctics."

That is New York's mad passion for rushing the season. I spent last summer shivering in France and England, having no opportunity to wear my dainty dresses made in Paris for the spring season. On my return in September I found New York so delightfully hot that I unpacked and donned my coolest things, only to find myself conspicuous. Every woman in town was wearing a heavy silk suit, or black velvet, hat pulled over her ears —and furs!

Herald of Spring.

Fifth avenue, at this season, is the herald of spring. The flower stores are a glimpse of the fair southland with their myriads of daffodils, hyacinths, tulips and azaleas, and, oh, the wonderful Easter lilies! Then, too, are gardens, for the dainty frocks displayed are poems to this first season and hats might be a florist's pride.

Yesterday Fifth avenue bloomed forth. Never have I seen more pretty dresses on one occasion. There little silk suits, gowns and cunning hats on every side, behind and before me, while only a few women ventured to wear new spring headgear, for the most part severely tailored models in black or blue, trimmed only with a gull, stuck at random as a frenzied poet might put his old quill pen!

Styles are so varied it is difficult to give a resume. Many are graceful, charming and graceful, in dainty colors and much lace. All the skirts are ruffled, some in three deep flounces to the feet, while others have a full drapery edged by ruffles about the hips.

Taffeta still holds sway for afternoon, as it lends itself most readily to ruffles, puffs and bustles, and seems to come in more wonderful tones of peacock blue and yellow, the season's favorite colors, than other materials. Last season's yellows, mustard and sulphur, which were so chic but ugly, have disappeared and are supplanted by pure gold and daffodil hues.

Distress These Suits.

Perhaps it is because I have been away from home and fashion these four years, so have not been led gradually to the present styles, that tailor suits seem ugly and regretful beyond expression, with their deforming silhouette of narrow shoulders and skirts and bulging hip and bustle effects. Indeed, tailor suits in their lack of simplicity and cut seem going back to Louisa Alcott's day, when, in one of my favorites, "Tom slowly approached the flannel, who looked as if the wind had blown her clothes into rags, such a flapping of sashes, scallops, ruffles, curls and feathers was there."

The jackets are all loose, kimono fashion or verging on the old bolero, short in front, this displaying a scalloped vest or wide girdle, and sagging down in the back. Skirts are never plain, but have two or three overskirts or circular ruffles, all shorter in front, giving a most away-backed appearance.

I examined with more curiosity than courtesy one of fashion's most ardent devotees, at tea the other afternoon. Her suit was of dark blue, the shapeless jacket very short in front and sloping to the back, cut in scallops all around. Her skirt was of three circular flounces, set at uneven distances and all on the same slant, while the center flounce had a scalloped edge. To crown this there was a dark blue straw hat, tiny and close fitting, with little flaring wings on either side, and the lady's hair was done in the newest extremes, drawn back from and showing the ears, which were ornamented by jet loop earrings, and there was a curl on either cheek, plastered down. Speckled slippers completed the costume. Smart, yes; but graceful, no.

The prettiest wraps are capes, and made on Norfolk jacket lines, though very loose, some even so full about the bottom that they seem cut in circular capes. The newest from Paris are in corduroy and velvet and such heavenly colors! Scarlet, rose, purple, green and gold, with often a tiny hat to match. There are quaint wraps, too, for midsummer, in taffeta, with many pinked ruffles; and parasols, too, cut in points and ruffle edged to match. What could be more quaintly early Victorian?

Nothing Startling.

There is no startling innovation where waists are concerned. They are still of fine lace over flesh-colored silk, and the Medici collar has not been, and is more in vogue than ever. Sleeves often have one drapery of bright chiffon in jacket or bolero form, and I noticed several of the newest with jumper effect in taffeta.

Some of the autumn's fashions have vanished and left no trace. All the way up and down Fifth avenue there is not a single minaret tunic to be found, and the black tulle hats with revs of hard jet beads, have gone, too.

Hats, indeed, are smaller than ever, some seeming only fit for a doll's head. They are not the rational shapes of last year which actually fitted our simply coiffed heads, but fantastic little shepherdess effects with great handsavix which tip them far up on one side or high in the back and over our noses. Few of them are really pretty, for they are sprinkled with a quantity of small flowers having no apparent relation to each other or to the hat, and there is seldom a definite color scheme, or purpose in life. But did a Watteau shepherdess ever have either?

Up to the present, but one big hat has been displayed, a leghorn whose crown was covered with gray-blue satin and the brim by a flat wreath of ostrich feathers in the same tone. Along the edge were scattered three tiny bunches of flowers, giving an effect more English than French.

Some people are already wearing little silk hats which lives up the dullest scene, as they are most often in brilliant red, rose or yellow. These small sailors are also made in plaid silk, with perhaps a tiny black or gold wing at one side, and I saw, in the most summerlike weather of all, a white sailor whose crown and upper brim were covered with what looked like blue Turkish toweling with tiny white polka dots.

Violets Are Popular.

Violets are one of fashion's standbys, and a French toque made of the big single blooms has these little violet wings on either side. There is a round muff entirely of violets, and the whole outfit looking more like a flower carnival than ordinary accessories to one's costume.

One Watteau hat, a tiny pad tilted far up on the side, was so strewn with little flowers, even on the wide bandeau, it looked more like a fancy layer cake than a covering for the head from wind and sun.

A shop which caters only to the very young had a window of most charming evening dresses for the not-yet-debutante. One was of creamy lace, the skirt of three deep flounces headed by tiny rose garlands. The bodice was of simplest draped lace and there was a wide sash of pale pink taffeta.

Another might have stepped from the pages of Kate Greenaway. It was of pink taffeta strewn with tiny bouquets of moss rosebuds and forget-me-nots. The skirt was draped into a bustle effect, beneath a wide box plait which came from the shoulders. One side of the waist was draped in lace, the other in the flowered silk, and a deep girdle of dark blue silk crossed and recrossed in front, passing under the box plait.

Fairy Frock in Green.

A fairy frock in palest green had a tulle overdress, finished above the knees in three scalloped ruffles, piped in green. The bodice drapery was embroidered in tiny baskets of rose geranium, while a deep belt of geranium pink completed the costume.

Another window was devoted to the tiny tot, everything a mother's heart could wish for, from the bassinet to frocks for the 2-year-old, in flowered crepe de chine, with great bows of rose-sprinkled ribbon. Even the tiny soap cups, pin cushions, washstand sets all had rosebuds and the furniture was too delightful.

Things you ought to know about the New Fashions

Women's Hats for Spring Are a New Story

Hardly a trace of the former styles or wearing of hats can be found in the models of the coming season. The styles of long ago and the paintings of the early eighteenth century artist Watteau, have had a great influence on the styles of Millinery his season. Flowers easily take the precedence in trimmings. The art of the milliner in the ability to blend and harmonize colors of brilliant hues first with the hat, then with the ribbons, small fruit, and then with the flowers, prove these hats creations.

The pageant of styles on view this week is the most interesting demonstration of changing fashions this store has ever shown. Third Floor.

"Newness"

That is the keynote of this announcement of "Fashion Styles" for the Spring Season. Wearing apparel for Ladies and Young Ladies never has been shown at High's Store in such gloriously lavish manner. The life blood of the Fashion World is "Newness" and "Change." What a dreary world it would be if everybody, all the time, all the year around, wore the same sort of garments, made of the same material, of the same color and all fashioned in the same way. The very idea is unthinkable!

So the styles change each season, one style or one fabric will not please everybody. There will be, as always, a variety, so fascinating that all may find something in our vast showing which will meet their individual liking and requirements. Fashion is based on a conception of what is fit and proper, and the idea of what is fit and proper gets its origin from the great centers where Fashions are originated in Europe and America. The Fashion stamp of American clothes will now, as always, be on American women. We are ready to show them to you today.
