YOUNG MAN SHOOTS DOWN GIRL WHO HAD REFUSED TO MARRY HIM, AND THEN PUTS END TO HIS LIFE

Futile Love Declared Cause of Officer's Suicide

GIANT POLICEMAN PUTS END TO LIFE WITH PISTOL SHOT

Mrs. Helen Norton Tells Police That W. F. Atherton "Killed Himself Over Me."

SPURIOUS LOVE NOTE FIGURES IN HEARING

Letter Was Signed by Atherton, But Two Days Before His Death He Had Denied Writing It.

In a darkened little room that formerly served as a kitchenette in the Gordon hotel, 10 1-2 Walton street, W. F. Atherton, the tallest member of the Atlanta police force, Saturday afternoon, with the revolver furnished him by the city, fired a bullet into his brain and died a few moments later.

In an adjoining room lived pretty Mrs. Helen Norton, wife of an Atlanta garageman, who told the police that Atherton killed himself because of a hopeless passion for her.

She was hysterical, and kept repeating: "He killed himself over me; I swear before God he did."

Verdict of Suicide.

A coroner's jury empaneled Saturday night, after investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of the giant patrolman, whose beat was just in front of the Gordon hotel, rendered a verdict of suicide.

A mysterious love letter, addressed to Mrs. Norton and signed with Atherton's name, the signature being proved spurious at the inquest, featured the hearing, which was of a private nature.

A. H. Setzer, proprietor of the hotel, testified that Atherton brought the letter to him Thursday and explained that some unknown person had called him over the telephone and said that a strange man then at the postoffice was writing the letter, would sign Atherton's name to it and send it by messenger to Mrs. Norton at the Gordon hotel.

Atherton added that he immediately jumped into his automobile and drove to Walton and Broad streets, where he saw the messenger and took the letter from him. Atherton, Mr. Setzer testified, denied writing the letter and expressed the opinion that some fellow-policeman who had a grudge against him, was trying to get him off his beat in order to report him to Chief Beavers and get him discharged from the force.

The letter was a highly impassioned love plea and bore strong resemblance to form letters published in so-called "books of etiquette."

Impassioned Letter.

The text of the forged letter was as follows:

"My Dearest Little Angelface: Ever since the day I was introduced to you, my mind has been so filled with the idea of yourself and my whole soul so absorbed by the passion of love, that my thoughts have been completely distracted from my daily pursuits. Dearest, fear, delight and a thousand other emotions have successfully agitated me and all my efforts to repress these feelings have been vain.

"Being no longer able to resort to

STATE WILL CITE LEO FRANK'S CASE IN DUPRE HEARING

Decision of the Supreme Court in Instance of Alleged Prejudiced Juror to Be Brought Up.

ALLEN PLANS ATTACK ON TWO MORE JURORS

Will Be Ready to Reveal Names When Hearing Is Resumed in Court on Monday Morning.

Leo M. Frank's case, the greatest cause celebre' ever tried in Fulton county, will be revived Monday afternoon when Judge J. D. Humphries again takes up the hearing conducted to determine whether or not certain jurors in the case of Frank B. DuPre, the Peachtree bandit, were prejudiced, as charged by H. A. Allen, counsel for the youthful slayer.

E. A. Stephens, assistant solicitor-general, declared Saturday that when the hearing is resumed Solicitor-General John A. Boykin will attack Mr. Allen's position, using supreme court rulings in the Frank case as his ammunition supply.

"Those familiar with the Frank case will remember that attorneys for Frank sought a new trial immediately on the ground that a juror, Henslee, before he was summoned on the panel, had made statements in which he declared himself convinced of the guilt of Frank," said Mr. Stephens.

Many Affidavits Offered.

"Affidavits to this effect poured in from all parts of the state. It seemed from them that Henslee had been making these declarations everywhere he went, and in some places that he'd never been.

"When the matter came to an issue, Henslee simply made an affidavit that he had answered the qualifying questions for service on a jury truthfully. He declared that when he took the oath of a juror he was fair and impartial to Frank and without prejudice in the cause.

"On this showing the trial judge refused to grant a new trial. His de-

FORSYTH THEATER TO BECOME HOME OF STOCK COMPANY

BROADWAY SUCCESSES WILL BE PRESENTED

Theater Being Completely Renovated—Rehearsals for "Adam and Eva" Start March 13.

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF.

On Monday, March 20, the Forsyth theater will be converted into the home of a permanent dramatic stock company, headed by the famous and beautiful Clara Joel, star of a half dozen national successes, supported by actors hand-picked in New York by Walter Baldwin, veteran manager, who will be in charge of the company, which he promises to make an Atlanta institution.

This was the announcement made by Dan Michaelove, director of theaters for Southern Enterprises, on his return from New York, where he had personal supervision of the company's organization.

Rehearsals will begin March 13, when the entire force of the company will be assembled in Atlanta and in the meantime, the Forsyth is being completely renovated and rearranged to restore it to its ancient glory that it enjoyed when it was one of the city's leading playhouses.

"Adam and Eva" will be the opening bill of the company, serving not only to introduce Miss Joel, but also to pave the way for William Boyd, the leading man, who starred in this vehicle during the season of 1920-1921.

To Give Broadway Successes.

Mr. Michaelove declares that it will be the policy of the company to produce plays that bear the trademark of "Broadway success" and produce them right up to New York standards.

"We feel that Atlanta is entitled to the best that can be provided in the way of dramatic entertainment and is entitled to the best at prices that will make theatrical entertainment a pleasure rather than a privation. With this end in view we have organized this stock company. We are sparing no expense in salaries, scenic equipment, royalty rights, etc., but we are saving tremendous money

STATE IS WINNER IN $250,000 SUIT

Supreme Court Holds That Georgia Has Right to Issue Executions in White Case.

The supreme court Saturday handed down an important decision in a tax case which came up from the Richmond superior court, in which it upheld the right of the state of Georgia to issue executions against securities aggregating $250,000 in value owned by the estate of the late James B. White, one of Augusta's wealthiest citizens.

Tax officials of Richmond county discovered recently that taxes on securities owned by the late Mr. White, who died in 1917, had not been paid. The securities were in the possession of Henry Clews & Co., a New York banking house. The value of these securities were ascertained and proceedings brought in the Richmond superior court.

R. E. Pierce, of the firm of Pierce Bros., who represented the state and Richmond county in the case, gave out the following information on the case Saturday night. Mr. Pierce is stopping in Atlanta at a local hotel:

Pierce Explains Case.

"J. B. White, one of Augusta's wealthiest citizens, died in 1917. He left a will appointing Judge E. H. Callaway as executor of his estate. Upon filing of an inventory of the property owned by White, the tax

If You Are Interested in Building

You will find much in today's Constitution to claim your attention.

First, there is a complete ten-page section concerning the new Hotel Cecil, which has its formal opening Monday evening. Scores of firms and individuals who supplied all manner of building material for this handsome structure are represented therein. Builders can get a good "line" on many of Atlanta's leading contractors and building material dealers by looking over this section closely.

In the main news and real estate sections are also carried the advertisements of a number of expert plumbers, whose announcements will interest prospective builders. There are also several lumber concerns and many real estate dealers who have special messages that will interest those whose minds are running toward the goal of a home-owner.

FARM BODIES OPEN CAMPAIGN AGAINST NATIONAL STRIKE

NEW UNION ALLIANCE SEEN AS DANGEROUS

But It Is Evident That Mine Workers' Union Is Losing Fight for High Wages.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON, Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, March 4.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Farm organizations of the country, headed by the National Grange and strongly re-enforced by the Federation of Farm Bureaus, the National Farmers' union and others, today began a systematic nation-wide campaign toward building up an overwhelming public opinion for the enforcement of a "fair and just settlement" to the end that the threatened joint strike on April 1 of union mine workers and railroad employees throughout the nation shall be averted.

Millions of letters are being sent out calling attention to the seriousness of the situation, and to what such a strike will mean to all the economic interests of the country.

Tells of Danger.

"Although it is claimed that coal enough to last for a month or more is now above ground, any stoppage of production obviously will result in higher prices in the near future. If railroad workers strike, the transportation upon which the food of millions depend will stop.

"A railroad strike now means farmers' products remaining unsold and spoiling in his barns. And that may mean famine, suffering and perhaps death in the cities. It means farm supplies piled up in railroad yards while fields wait for seeds, fertilizer and machinery necessary to make them productive.

"A strike in April at planting time wrecks a year's crop production plans. "A coal strike comes less directly

Tar and Feathers Threat Is Received By Texas Governor

Austin, Texas, March 4.—A letter was received by Governor Neff today threatening him with a coat of tar and feathers if he ever visited Mexia again. The letter was dated Fort Worth and signed "the gun club."

Governor Neff said he paid little attention to the letter.

GRADY EXECUTIVES HELD BLAMELESS BY INVESTIGATORS

Council Committee Holds That They Were Not at Fault for Alleged Discourtesies.

After agreeing that executive officials of Grady hospital were in no manner to blame for the failure of C. A. Schultz, 159 Jett street, to receive notice of the death of his wife at the hospital last Monday, or for alleged discourtesies suffered by members of the Schultz family at the hospital after the death of Mrs. Schultz, the hospital and charities committee of council Saturday afternoon adopted a resolution by council, and with the recommendation that council take whatever action it may deem proper in the case.

Alderman D. R. Wilder, chairman of the committee, presided at the session of the committee held Saturday afternoon to investigate the Schultz charges and at the conclusion of the hearing announced that the members of council will be given an opportunity of deciding for themselves certain conflicting statements made by witnesses in the case involving the question of whether or not the night telephone operator at the hospital notified the night telephone operator at the police station of the death of Mrs. Schultz.

Circumstances Deplorable.

It was agreed by the committee that the peculiar circumstances surrounding the Schultz case were deplorable, and that it was unfortunate that Mr. Schultz and the members of his family failed to receive any notice whatever of the death of Mrs. Schultz. The committee went so far in its findings as to suggest that Superintendent Steve R. Johnson, of Grady hospital, be given power to reprimand, at his discretion, any attaches of the hospital whom he deemed negligent in the case.

Following the hearing Saturday it was learned that Mr. Schultz has re-

APARTMENT HOUSE TO COST $900,000 PLANNED FOR CITY

Magnificent Structure Will Be Erected on Piedmont Avenue, Overlooking Piedmont Park.

ARCHITECT ATTACKS ATLANTA ZONE PLAN

Co-operative Ownership Plan Announced by Which Tenants Will Buy Their Apartments.

Affording Atlanta another palatial apartment house to rank in size and elegance with any residential structure in the south, the Southern Development company will erect a nine-story apartment house overlooking Piedmont park from an imposing site on the northwest corner of Piedmont avenue and East Twelfth street at a cost of $900,000, according to announcement Saturday by J. F. Leitner, Atlanta architect. The apartments will be known as "The Park Mansions."

The structure will be situated on property owned by the Raoul Heirs, Inc., of which Mrs. Mary Millis is president. The site was formerly the property of the late W. G. Raoul, Atlanta capitalist.

A co-operative ownership plan whereby the tenants own instead of rent their apartment is under way, it is said. The Southern Development company announced that many of the 96 apartments have already been sold from the architect's plans, to Atlanta's leading citizens. The tenant ownership plan was originated in large northern cities during the war, and has met with considerable success, particularly in New York and Washington.

Scores Zoning Plan.

In announcing the project Architect Leitner severely arraigned the provisions of the proposed zoning system which would limit the height of apartment houses, skyscrapers and other large structures, and which if finally enacted into law, would prohibit the completion of Park Mansions to a height of nine stories.

"Some parts of the plan are good," he said, "but in my opinion most of it is detrimental to the progress of

G. O. P. ENDS YEAR OF ADMINISTRATION IN PITIFUL STATE

POLITICAL FOOTBALL HAS BEEN BONUS FATE

While Unemployment, Tariff and Taxation Rise as Other Ghosts to Haunt Harding.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON, Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, March 4.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—One year ago today Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, took the oath of office as president of the United States.

In the first year of his administration, he has been backed by an overwhelming majority in both branches of congress. The errors of the republican administration, therefore, cannot be charged either to a lack of co-ordination between the executive and legislative branches of the government, or to any inability to function "one hundred per cent republicanism" through the activity of a virile minority.

And yet, in the one year of Hardingism, the country has been torn by turmoil, strife, unredeemed campaign pledges, and popular dissatisfaction, such as has never been known before under any administration since the Declaration of Independence.

Beginning this day, the record year of the present regime, a cursory review of the past twelve months not only brings prominently into the focus dissension in the controlling party ranks, such as unheard of in former administrations of either party, but as the veil to the future is lifted, the ghosts of party dissatisfaction and turmoil pass like phantoms of the night that can serve only to frighten the leaders as to the outcome of the congressional elections of 1922; and particularly as to the possibility of a one-term administration.

In the campaign of 1920, based upon the pledges of the republican party broader and more idealistic sense of "awarding" patriotism.

And yet, when faced with the stern proposition of legislating a bonus, the party in control has not only played political football with so serious and

BONDS OF ATLANTA HAVE QUICK SALE

$2,250,000 Worth of Securities Sold by Atlanta National Bank Within Four Days' Time.

While but four days have elapsed since the Atlanta National bank bought the first batch of $2,800,000 municipal improvement bonds sold by the city last Tuesday to the highest bidder, that institution has resold to investors $2,250,000 worth of the bonds, it was learned Saturday.

This is declared to be remarkable evidence of high regard held in the financial world for securities of the city of Atlanta and their value as a medium of good investment.

Most of the bonds had been taken by Saturday morning, and those left are short maturity bonds, according to R. W. Courts, Jr., secretary of the First Trust and Savings corporation, which is a bond department of the Atlanta National and is handling the sale of the paper.

Mr. Courts said insurance companies were the heaviest buyers, but one individual purchased $50,000 worth. He received two $15,000 orders Saturday morning. About $500,000 worth had been sold to Atlanta purchasers, he said, and the other sales were to parties outside of the state, bringing money into Georgia.

The bonds are 30-year serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

The Atlanta National bid $2,875,000

SHOOTING OCCURS IN CAR IN FRONT OF HOME OF GIRL

NEIGHBORS ATTRACTED BY SCREAMS OF GIRL

Coroner Donehoo Notified and Announces That He Will Make Investigation on Sunday.

John Archibald Patch, 27 years old, of 129 Windsor street, is dead with a bullet wound through his heart, said by the police to have been self-inflicted, and Miss Louise Quinn, 22 years of age, of 182 Holderness street, is suffering from a severe flesh wound in the right arm caused by a bullet from the pistol of Patch, following what authorities are convinced was an attempt on the part of the young man to end his own life and that of the girl he loved late Saturday night.

Coroner Donehoo will hold an inquest Sunday.

Patch and Miss Quinn worked in the same office of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, and it is reported that for a year and a half Patch has been attentive to the girl and had tried to persuade her to marry him. Her alleged repeated refusals are believed to have been responsible for his suicide and his attempt to end her life at the same time.

The shooting took place at the corner of Oak and Holderness streets after the two had been to a moving picture show and were returning to Miss Quinn's home.

Attracted by Screams.

Neighbors in the section told newspaper men that they heard two shots followed by a woman's frantic screams for help. Rushing to the spot, they said, they saw Miss Quinn jump out of a high-powered touring car belonging to Patch.

Thomas Reed, of 327 Oak street, one of the first to reach the automobile, stated that he discovered the body of Patch huddled forward on the front seat almost under the steering wheel. The wounded man, who was alive at the time, was removed from the car and laid on the sidewalk, but he expired in a short time.

The police were notified by J. M. DeFoor, of 174 Holderness street, and they arrived at the scene of the tragedy just as Patch died. Call officers immediately communicated with headquarters, and Chief of Police Beavers, Captain of Police A. J. Holcomb, Detective Lieutenant Ryan and several detectives were rushed to the scene, instituting an immediate investigation.

The two officers who first answered the call were accompanied by Police Commissioner W. M. Johnson, who was at the station at the time of the shooting.

Revolver Is Found.

Miss Quinn told the officers that she was astounded at the action of Patch and that he had given no hint of his intention of killing himself and her. She said that on their return from the movie, Patch insisted that she drive the automobile, and that the car was in motion when the shots were fired.

She added that she heard only the first shot and felt a burning sensation in her right arm, whereupon she hastily stopped the car and sprung

SUCCESS REPORTED FOR COTTON POOL

Despite raw, rainy weather the latter part of the week, the campaign of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association, conducted through a series of county-wide mass meetings, marched forward with increasing indications of success in the signing up of the 200,000-bale total by April 1.

The noticeable feature in all meetings in the southwest Georgia district was that the educational publicity, in which the newspapers throughout have co-operated so liberally, has enabled the farmers to get a real graps of the gospel of co-operative marketing. In the second place, with this knowledge has come enthusiasm, and the farmers have become aroused to the fact that the movement must be put over this month, and consequently are volunteering their services to help out the county men in every way possible.

In short a spirit of determination to win and put Georgia's 200,000 units of co-operation into the big 3,000,000-bale national pool for the 1922 crop has taken hold of the farmers. Many business men are taking an active interest and the meetings of the past week have been marked by instances of banker-farmers and merchant-farmers being the first to volunteer their membership in the association at the public gatherings.

Splendid responses in signed contracts and volunteer workers were forthcoming from the meetings in Coffee, Ben Hill and Berrien counties, in the eastern end of the southwest Georgia territory, where Mr. Elmore was the speaker. Smaller meetings in other county seats of that general section, due to weather conditions, were no less enthusiastic in support of the movement, and in Irwin, Tift, Turner and Cook counties practically every farmer that attended pledged his co-operation in committee work in addition to taking membership. All the county representatives report the listing of a goodly corps of farmer co-operators in the big Victory week drive which begins March 13.

At Albany, which is the headquarters of the southwest Georgia district, under the able co-operation of the chamber of commerce, and the uniformly active support of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, an unusually good meeting, considering the weather, was addressed by W. C. Lassetter, editor of The Progressive Farmer, who was besieged with questions by farmers large and small in the interesting discussion which took place.

Regular full time county representatives of the association have taken up work in Randolph, Terrell, Sumter and Macon counties in the past week, and possibly the largest aggregate sign-up of any four counties in the southwest Georgia district will come out of those splendid sections.

Beginning Monday, J. D. Coghlan, Texas farmer and member of the cotton pool of that state, will speak in Leesburg and at Sylvester in the afternoon. He goes to Arlington and Blakely on Tuesday and to Oglethorpe and Butler on Wednesday, which closes the present speaking tour in this district.

NEWMAN NAMED RUDISILL'S ASSISTANT

Macon, Ga., March 4.—(Special.) Nicholas L. Newman, foreman of the money order division of the Macon postoffice for the past six years, was today named assistant postmaster. Postmaster Hillyer Rudisill has forwarded the appointment to the first assistant postmaster-general for approval.

Mr. Newman held the title of cashier of the Macon postoffice until last year, when the title was changed to foreman. He is the senior in the finance division of the local office.

Righton B. Miller, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Miller, who has been substitute clerk in the Macon office, has been appointed to the regular clerical force.

Mr. Rudisill today received his commission as postmaster for a period of four years. It is understood there will be no other changes at the present time.

Atlanta to Urge U. S. Acceptance Of Ford's Offer

Ex-Governor Emmett O'Neal, of Alabam, Will Make Address.

Plans for a great public mass meeting at the Audtoirium next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to organize citizens of Atlanta and Georgia behind the offer of Henry Ford to lease and develop Muscle Shoals, were laid at a meeting in Mayor Key's office Saturday afternoon.

Ex-Governor Emmett O'Neal, of Alabama, a leading spirit in the Alabama fight in behalf of the Ford proposal, will be the principal speaker, having accepted an invitation wired Saturday by the committee arranging a programm for the meeting.

It is planned to invite to the next Sunday rally, in addition to the general public of Atlanta, Georgia representatives in the national congress, national and state presidents of farm and other organizations, and the mayors or their representatives from every Georgia city and town. The Atlanta gathering is proposed preliminary to a statewide mass meeting to solidify sentiment from boundary to boundary of the state back of the Ford offer.

Movement Launched.

The Ford movement was launched and an executive committee appointed at a meeting held Saturday at noon at city hall. This committee arranged Saturday afternoon numerous details of the next Sunday rally and is composed of Mayor Key, chairman; Frank P. Rice, James P. Nevin, T. J. Ripley, Marvin Roane, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, G. C. Whipple, R. N. Thompson, and C. W. McClure, chairman of the preliminary meeting, as ex officio member.

Georgia Tech's band will be invited to play, and a concert on the big Auditorium instrument will be rendered by Charles Sheldon, city organist.

Congressman Lamar Jeffers, of the fourth Alabama district, who chanced to be in Atlanta on special business from Washington Staurday, attended the meeting, and made a strong speech in which he charged that the "fertilizer, aluminum, water development and other powerful interests are backing the offer of the Alabama Power company to defeat Ford." He declared that the Alabama company, should it gain control of the properties, would throttle the power development of the state.

"The people of my state don't want the Alabama Power company to get Muscle Shoals," he said. "They believe that Ford has the genius, the money and the ability to develop the plant; they believe he will pay employees a fairer wage, and they believe he will sell his output of power, fertilizer and other commodities at a fair price."

"Screws Put on Congress."

He asserted that "the screws are being put on members of congress by the giant interests opposed to Ford," and declared that if Ford's contract is approved it will be because of the weight of public sentiment bearing on congress.

Mayor Key opened the meeting with a statement of the many advantages that would come to Atlanta and Georgia through the government's acceptance of the Ford offer.

"It has come now to a fight between Henry Ford and the Alabama Power company," he stated. "I don't know anything about the Alabama Power company, but if it is no better than the power company here, then it ought not to get anything.

"The acceptance of the offer of Henry Ford would put Atlanta in the position to compete with any manufacturing communities in the country. It would place thousands of unemployed in profitable work. I only wish there were 10,000 Henry Fords in this country. Georgians should not allow an opportunity to indorse this movement to pass."

More Speeches Made.

Others who made vigorous speeches were C. W. McClure, J. B. Nevin, Frank P. Rice, Marvin Roane, T. J. Ripley, R. N. Thompson and J. E. Cambes.

Mayor Key will preside at the public rally next Sunday and introduce former Governor O'Neal. Rev. C. B. Wilmer will be invited to open the occasion with prayer and Rev. Henry Alford Porter to pronounce a benediction at its close.

Besides the mayors of all the Georgia cities, special invitations to attend will be sent to United States Senators William J. Harris and Tom Watson, Congressman W. D. Upshaw, Charles S. Barrett, national president of the Farmers' union; J. H. Mills, state president; J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture; Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State Agricultural college; J. W. Morton, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau federation; H. G. Hastings, president of the Georgia association.

Will Invite City Bodies.

C. W. McClure was named to present the personal invitation of the committee to civic bodies of the city at their meetings this week, and Mrs. Boykin was appointed to ask the women's organizations to attend.

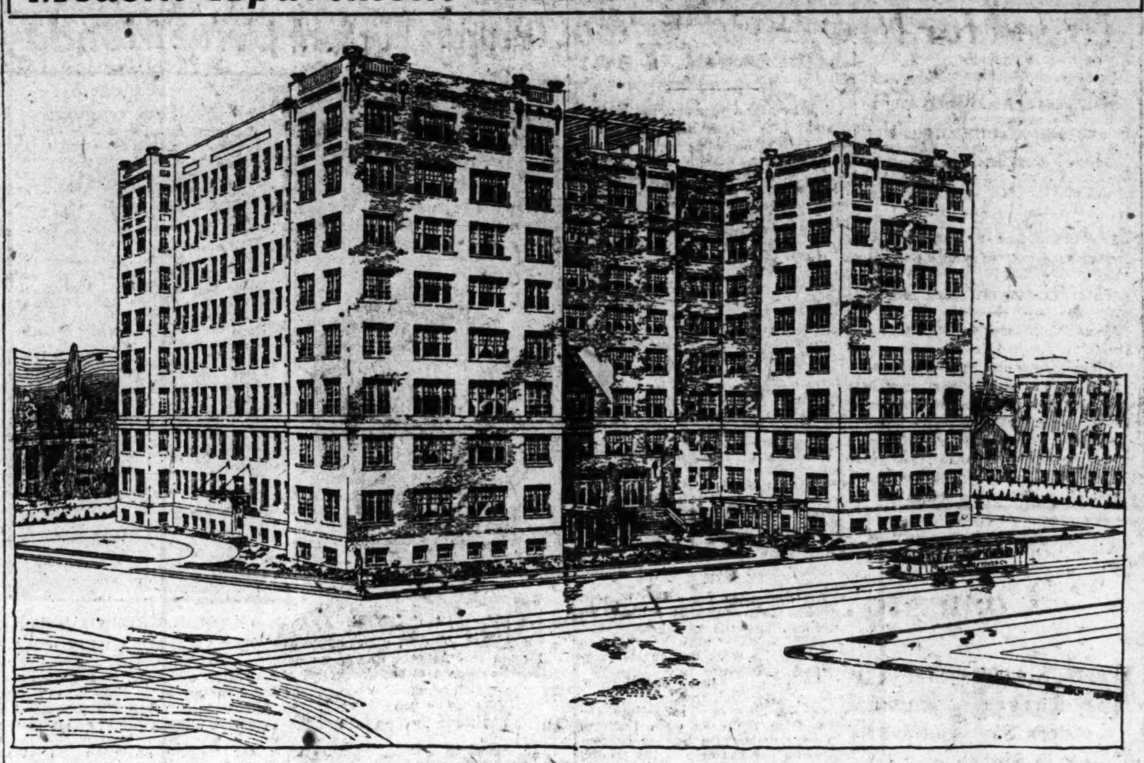
The Boy Scouts will be requested to lend their assistance at the rally by acting as ushers. A program committee composed of Mayor Key, chairman; F. P. Rice and C. W. McClure, was named, and a publicity committee, composed of T. J. Ripley, chairman; Donald Denny, of The Georgian; Carl Taylor, of The Journal, and Henson Tatum, of The Constitution.

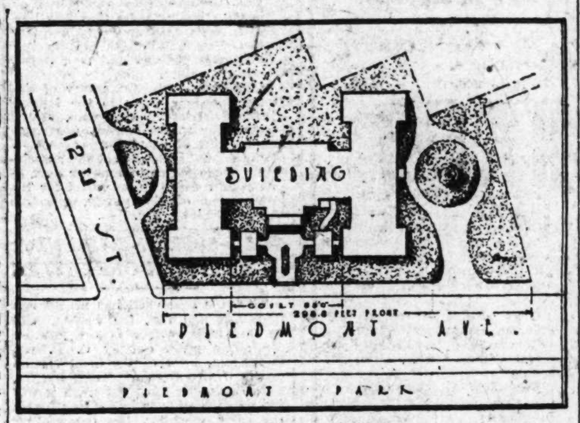
NEGRO PHYSICIAN GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Macon, Ga., March 4.—Melvin C. Mitchell, negro physician, was found guilty of murder today in connection with the poisoning of his nephew, Henry Mitchell. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The state endeavored to show that the accused had benefited by a $25,000 life insurance policy which was in his nephew's name.

Modern Apartment House Planned For Atlnata





The Park Mansions, a $900,000 apartment house planned for the northwestern corner of Piedmont avenue and East Twelfth street by the Southern Development company. The structure will be one of the largest and most palatial in the south. Each apartment will be owned by the occupant, and a board of control elected by the occupants from among themselves will manage the building. The small sketch shows the ground plan of the apartments. The plans are by Architect J. F. Leitner of Atlanta, and Architect W. J. Wilkins, of Wilmington, N. C.

EMERGENCY TAX CASE INJUNCTION TO STAND

Supreme Court Sustains Judge Pendleton's Decision Holding Levy Invalid.

Through a decision of the supreme court handed down Saturday the levying of an emergency tax by city council in 1921 was declared invalid and an injunction granted a group of members of the Atlanta Real Estate board by Judge John T. Pendleton in the Fulton superior court restraining the city from collecting the tax was sustained. The decision of the court will not have any effect on the city's income for 1921 due to the fact that pending the decision over the emergency tax question the state legislature amended the city's charter, increasing the regular tax rate from $1.25 to $1.50 per $100.

The city council and mayor in 1919 and 1920 levied and collected an emergency tax. Court proceedings by taxpayers were not taken to enjoin the collection. An ordinance was passed by city council, approved by the mayor, declaring an emergency and levying a tax of 45 cents per $100. The following April mayor and council reduced the tax from 45 to 12 1-2 cents per $100, but prior to the reduction, a group of prominent members of the Atlanta Real Estate board instituted proceedings in Fulton superior court to enjoin the collection.

They contended that the charter language did not authorize mayor and council to levey an emergency tax in an emergency declared by them, but only in an emergency existing in fact. The mayor and council contended that the language authorized an emergency tax in case of an emergency, to be judged by them.

Judge Pendleton heard the case and granted an interlocutory injunction restraining the collection, and from that judgment the city of Atlanta excepted and appealed to the supreme court.

The supreme court decision read in part as follows:

"The provision in the charter of the city of Atlanta does not authorize the mayor and council to conclusively determine that an emergency exists, so as to justify the exercise of the charter authority to levy an additional tax. The power to levy such tax is dependent upon the existence of an emergency in fact, and a declaration by the mayor and council that an emergency in a given case does exist is open to inquiry by the courts.

"The evidence in this case was insufficient to show the existence of an emergency within the meaning of the charter of the city of Atlanta upon which to base the levy of an additional tax."

Four Labor Leaders Found Not Guilty Of Graft Charges

Chicago, March 4.—Simon O'Donnell, formerly president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, and three labor leaders, charged with graft, extortion and conspiracy in connection with an alleged building trust here today, were found not guilty by a jury.

NAME OF STREET CHANGED IN DECATUR

Decatur, March 4.—An old "landmark" has been restored to Decatur by the board of commissioners changing the name of Hopkins street to Mead avenue.

Mead avenue extends from East Lake drive on the south to College avenue on the north, practically the full distance between the north Decatur and the south Decatur lines of the Georgia Railway and Power company. In the early days of this community it was a section of the old "Mead road," named in honor of a substantial pioneer farmer who at one time owned the land that later became the townsite of Oakhurst, now a part of Decatur.

When Oakhurst was annexed to Decatur several years ago, the name of Mead road was changed to Hopkins street.

Largely because of confusion arising out of the proximity of Hopkins street, Atlanta, the residents of Hopkins street, Decatur, requested the commission to change the name back to Mead, substituting "avenue" for "road."

The petition was "one hundred per cent" unanimous, being signed by a representative of every household on the street, and was approved by Mayor Dabney and Commissioners Allen and Webb; Commissioners Campbell and George voting against it.

PEYTON MORTON DIES AT HOME IN RICHMOND

News of the death of his brother, Peyton A. Morton, in Richmond, Va., was received Thursday night by James Morton, well-known executive in the religious and civic work of Atlanta. Mr. Morton left Atlanta Friday for Richmond, where the funeral will be held.

TO CITE FRANK'S CASE IN DUPRE HEARING

cision was carried to the supreme court. It was upheld by that court and is written all over the Georgia reports, and it would be well to bear in mind that the supreme court of the United States upheld every one of these decisions."

Mr. Stephens made this declaration following an announcement by Attorney Allen that he would challenge the impartiality of at least two other jurors when the hearing is resumed Monday.

Allen Assembles Evidence.

In the meantime, Mr. Allen is understood to have assembled testimony attacking the partiality of five members of the trial jury, and declares that he welcomes the oral hearing in that it will give him opportunity to cross-examine the jurors in question if they are put up by the solicitor.

He would not disclose Saturday the names of the two additional jurors against whom he will direct his fire. "It will be plenty of time to reveal their names when the hearing is called," said the attorney. "I have witnesses who heard them make prejudicial remarks in reference to DuPre," he continued. "However, these witnesses did not care to make affidavits, but if I get a chance in cross-examination, I think I can bring out facts sufficient to prove that there was a very grave and intense prejudice, which absolutely precluded my client from getting a fair hearing."

Pending the result of this hearing in Atlanta, Judge H. A. Mathews, of Macon, who tried the DuPre case, Saturday continued DuPre's application for a new trial until March 11. In fixing this new date for the hearing, Judge Mathews issued a formal order staying the execution of DuPre, which was set for March 10. The order was issued in Macon.

APARTMENT HOUSE TO COST $900,000

Atlanta and harmful to the present property owners." He said that zoning, as suggested by the present planning commission, "punctures the tires of progress and pours sand in its gearcase."

Associated with Mr. Leitner in preparing the Park Mansions plan was W. J. Wilkins, an architect of Wilmington, N. C. The plans call for 96 apartments of from four to six rooms each. Construction will be of reinforced concerte and hollow tile, faced with rough texture face brick, and will be absolutely fireproof. Interior partitions, stair enclosures and locker rooms will be fireproof.

Each of its eight residence floors will contain twelve dwellings, varying in design to provide luxurious living quarters for a good-sized family or the well-to-do bachelor or bachelor-maid. The floor arrangement permits each room to have a generous supply of window light.

Cafe on Ground Floor.

A fine cafe will be located on the ground floor. The remainder of the first floor will be devoted to a suite for the manager, the elevator lobby and a spacious reception room.

A roof garden will afford the tenants a delightful place of summer enjoyment. The garden will command a fine view of Piedmont park and the surrounding residential section.

The lot will provide ample space for lawns and flower gardens on every side of the building and driveways for the approach of vehicles. Outside the cafe entrances pergolas will be built.

Actual construction work will begin in the immediate future, and hundreds of laborers and skilled workmen will be given employment when contracts have been let.

Mr. Leitner, who has offices at 809 Grant building, talked at length on the proposed zoning system.

Discusses Zoning Plan.

"No one will dispute the fact that when a new residence section, as Ansley Park, for instance, is opened up and by agreement purchasers decide to build nothing but residences and to leave a clearance of from 25 to 50 feet between the building front and the street, appearances are kept in appreciable and much more desirable condition," he said, "but viewed from different angles the matter assumes another aspect.

"Aside from the fact that hundreds will be caused a considerable loss by their present property not being in the zone where its value could be realized, it should be considered from the standpoint of what is the best for Atlanta. Atlanta wants to build. It wants to be a big city. It is striving to keep up with its reputation of being the best city in the south.

"It will do this, but in my opinion zoning as I have studied it from the present suggestion of the commission punctures the tires of progress and pours sand in its gearcase.

"Some of the benefits promised by the zoning system are these: relief of traffic congestion, extension of the business area, and a subsequent value of real estate.

Would Congestion Be Less?

"As for congestion of streets, if the district allotted to office buildings were covered with 12-story buildings, would the traffic be less than if a few high buildings occupied the area?

"Erection of office buildings would stop in every section for no private citizen or corporation would risk an investment in an office building away from the present business section, even so near in as Forrest avenue and Peachtree.

"It is not disputed that a 20-story office building can be built at a lower price per square foot and operated at less expense proportionately than one of twelve stories, or any other building for that matter, and leased at a more reasonable rate and it is for this reason that no one could erect a 12-story building and compete with the higher buildings now in use.

"If the zoning plan limited combustible buildings without elevators to three stories, I would heartily agree with it in every particular, but to stop the building operations of a real city by restricting the height of fireproof apartments equipped with elevators to three stories, is what I believe Atlantans should never do."

GEORGIA LEADING IN ROAD PROJECTS

More Than Forty Per Cent of Federal Aid Money Allotted to the Southeast Spent Here.

Georgia led every state in the union in the completion of federal aid projects in 1921 and more than 40 per cent of the federal aid money allotted to the states of the southeast was spent in Georgia, according to figures made public Saturday by the state highway department. In 1921, 97 projects were completed in Georgia at a cost of $8,386,469. The nearest southeastern state to Georgia is North Carolina, which completed 42 projects at a cost of $2,954,675.

Listing Delaware and Maryland as South Atlantic states, there were 282 projects completed in 1921 in this group at a total cost of $20,619,636. Following is the statement of the highway department, showing the work in the South Atlantic states and also showing the total work in Georgia, compared with other leading states of the union:

"The federal aid projects which were completed, and payments made as of December 31, 1921, are as follows:

South Atlantic States.

State.	No. of projects.	Total cost.
Delaware ...	6	$ 1,615,761.46
Maryland ...	48	3,361,059.76
Virginia	27	1,235,053.90
W. Virginia.	18	610,782.71
N. Carolina..	42	2,954,675.61
S. Carolina...	43	2,421,833.86
Georgia	97	8,386,469.12
Florida	1	33,951.88
Total	282	$20,619,638.30

"It will be seen from this tabulation that Georgia has completed federal aid roads and bridges to a greater value than any other state in this section, and it may also be noted that Georgia has completed approximately 40 per cent of all of the work done in the above mentioned eight South Atlantic states. This statement, which shows the amount of money expended in every state in the union up until December 31, 1921, on federal aid work, also shows that Georgia leads every state in the union, having completed 97 projects amounting to an expenditure of $8,386,469.12.

"The states coming next in the expenditure of federal funds and in the order named are:

State.	No. of Projects.	Total cost
Illinois	63	$7,904,700.02
Minnesota ..	73	7,552,289.13
Washington..	65	6,854,895.52
Texas	76	6,219,069.10
Pennsylvania	28	4,167,718.48
Wisconsin ..	85	3,700,129.09

"The state of North Carolina shows 42 projects with an expenditure of $2,954,675.61, and Florida is shown with one completed project with an expenditure of $83,951.88."

Athens Daily News Receivership Plea Denied by Judge

Hartwell, Ga., March 4.—(Special.)—The petition for a receivership for The Athens News, brought by T. J. Simmons following alleged cancellation of a contract by the paper, was denied by Judge W. L. Hodges in superior court here today.

The court ruled that the petitioner did not show sufficient cause, while five stockholders appeared and testified they were worth approximately $300,000 together and would be responsible in event of any suits being won against the paper.

The treasury department of the United States handles more money than any other institution on earth.

Vigor of Youth in A New Discovery

Have you lost your youth, vigor and "pep?" Does life seem dull and work a grind? Don't worry. Science has discovered a new vitalizer superior even to the much discussed "goat gland" and "monkey gland" treatment.

The principal ingredient is an extract from the bark of an African tree. It is said to be the most amazing invigorator ever discovered. Combined with it are other tonic and vitalizing elements of proved merit. In most cases, the compound produces marked improvement in a day or two, and in a short time the vitality is raised, the circulation improved and the glow of health is felt in every part.

The new vitalizer contains expensive chemicals, but manufacturing in enormous quantities has brought the cost within the reach of all. Furthermore, the laboratories producing this new vitalizer, which is called Re-Bild-Tabs, are so confident of its power that they offer it on the basis of "no results, no pay."

Any reader of this paper may test the new discovery without risk. Send no money, but just your name and address, to the Re-Bild Laboratories, 375, Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo., and a full treatment of Re-Bild Tabs will be mailed. Pay 12 and postage to the postman on delivery. If not delighted by the results at the end of a week, notify the laboratories and your money will be refunded in full. Do not hesitate about accepting this test offer, as it is fully guaranteed.—(adv.)
