RECORD-BREAKING CROWD MUST TURN OUT ON TUESDAY

Atlanta Must Win Attendance Trophy Again—Mayor Orders Half Holiday—Ad Men in Parade.

ADVANCE TICKET SALE SHOWS MUCH INTEREST

Merchants Closing Stores. Chamber of Commerce Mailed Out Postals—Dent Twirls Against More.

Atlanta must and will turn out a record breaking crowd at the opening baseball game of the 1914 season at Ponce de Leon park tomorrow afternoon, when the Nashville Vols come here to pry open the lid.

Atlanta's right to be called "The Best Baseball Town in the South," has been questioned, and from seven different and distinct directions.

Remember the slogan.

"What it takes to win the opening day attendance trophy, Atlanta has got."

That's the dell that we are throwing back at the "show me" cities that doubt such a slogan. It's now up to Atlantans to make that slogan stick, so we can fire it back at them Wednesday morning in screaming seven column headlines.

Final Work.

The final preliminary work on the part of the civic organizations that are in behind the movement to land the opening day attendance trophy for Atlanta, will be complete today. Tuesday morning will see the assembling of the parts of the crowd-getting machine and Tuesday afternoon said machine will be on hand at the ball park.

The chamber of commerce, the ad men, Mayor Woodward and enterprising merchants have lined up behind the proposition to bring the attendance trophy here again this season. They have lined up strong and never before have a bunch of business men shown such a keen interest in baseball.

But the answer is simple. Atlanta's superiority has been smashed. Atlanta's boast that she is "Always Ahead" has been met with jeers. The result is not in doubt as the result.

When Atlanta wants a thing, she usually goes out and gets it—grand opera and the regional bank for example. She wants this attendance trophy, so there can be no other result.

The other cities are to be admired for trying to wrest the honors from Atlanta. Atlanta sets the mark in everything, to which they all aspire.

Saturday Headings.

Harder work is needed to land the attendance trophy this year than last. The teams that open the season away from home on Tuesday, will open at home the following Saturday.

This is a condition, that did not have to be met last season. It is a condition that calls for a most concerted effort on the part of every one interested.

Mobile, New Orleans, Nashville and Memphis will open the season at home on Saturday. It is therefore, strictly up to Atlanta to show these cities that her attendance on a week day can surpass theirs on a week-end.

The cities that copy the same day as Atlanta are, Birmingham, Chattanooga and Montgomery. The first named is the one that is feared the most. The Crackers' defeat of the Barons in 1913 is still stinging the latter.

President Bob Baugh, of the Birmingham baseball club, flung down the gauntlet this spring. President Calloway of the local club picked it up. Mr. Baugh's challenge was backed by the commissioners and civic organizations of Birmingham. The mayor and civic organizations of Atlanta have answered.

Birmingham is in for another drubbing and this time the local fans expect to make it so conclusive that there will be no question in any one's

Daughter Married But Her Parents Don't Know it Yet

Romance of the Switchboard Is Here Revealed for First Time—Bride Is Still at Work.

All last night pretty Maudell Crane, 18, blue-eyed and attractive, sat at her post of duty at a switchboard in the Atlanta Telephone exchange, cherishing a secret which she did not share with even her parents.

Little did she dream, however, that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Crane, 138 Flat Shoals road, will read this story in The Constitution this morning, learning for the first time that she is the bride of Roger F. Gilbert, of 15 Hipuppee, stood, night manager of Scherrer's cafe.

Now, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, please don't say that, even if you were secretly married, it was none of a reporter's business, for, really and truly, everything that happens is an affair of the newspaper reporter. Especially such things of court record as your marriage happens to be.

And, furthermore, you can't expect to keep a marriage secret forever, you know!

The marriage took place last Tuesday, and was performed by Judge Luther Z. Rosser in his chambers in the municipal court. They did not intend to tell father and mother Crane until they had furnished a flat and had prepared to settle down to housekeeping. In the meanwhile, the happy bride had planned to remain at duty in the telephone exchange.

But their plans will out. And, when father and mother Crane learn the pretty romance that lies behind their daughter's marriage, they'll shower innumerable blessings, it is predicted.

You see, both Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert work at night. He manages the Scherrer Peachtree Street Cafe at night, and she manipulates the various wires of her switchboard during the same hours.

One night Gilbert chanced to find the transmitter down from the hook on the telephone in his office. He picked it up, called into the mouthpiece and heard a feminine voice—very sweetly—respond over the wire.

"Sleepy, dear?" he asked.

"Uh-huh!" came the dainty reply.

Well, the rest might be easily guessed. Thirty-six hours later the two met by appointment. Within thirty-six days a love affair had begun. Within six months he popped the question.

Within six days they were married.

Within six more days a horrid newspaper man learned the story.

HERE IS A CHANCE FOR THE CITY HALL

Moncrief Starts Fund to Decorate Building With Electric Lights During the Visit of the Shriners.

Editor Constitution: I notice in today's Constitution that the aldermanic board has refused to concur in the action of council to appropriate for decorating the City Hall with electricity for the Shriners' convention. If the City Hall should ever be decorated in such manner, it should be during this convention, and our aldermanic board, I think are making a great mistake, as that would be a great advertisement for our city.

Let the people of Atlanta get together and have this decorating done and I will give $5.00 as a starter.

Yours very truly,
S. P. MONCRIEF.

Several weeks ago it was proposed to decorate the City Hall building with electric lights during the visit here of the Shriners in May. It was argued that this would be a great advertisement for Atlanta and that, with all the rest of the city properly lighted, it would be a disgrace for the City Hall building to be neglected.

Mr. Moncrief, through the instrumentality of Councilman Dallas, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the City Hall, an appropriation was passed by council, calling for the expenditure of $1,200 for this electric lighting scheme.

Hardly had Councilman Dallas, however, planned for the proper spending of this money, in order that the City Hall be placed on a par with the business buildings of Atlanta, when the aldermanic board met, and decided that since there was no $1,200 available in the city's treasury for this purpose, that it would not be possible to appropriate this much. Consequently the aldermanic board voted the proposition down, and decided to spend about $150 or $200 for this purpose, decorating the building in bunting and flags, instead of with lights.

Now, Mr. Moncrief advances the suggestion that the citizens of Atlanta raise by subscription sufficient funds to properly decorate the building and thus help the city out of her financial embarrassment.

Southern Cooking Proving Big Lure For the Shriners

Fried Chicken, Hot Biscuits, Ham and Gravy—That's What Visitors Want, Says Forrest Adair.

Where can the Shriners of Mecca temple, New York, get a real old-fashioned southern dinner during their visit to Atlanta next month?

They want it, and are trying to make arrangements in advance for enough fried chicken and hot biscuits and ham-and-gravy and other old-timey good things to feed the whole temple. They want to get off by themselves to some place within trolley distance of the city and have the time of their lives together around a real southern dinner.

Who can serve it to them?

"I would like to put the question up to Atlanta," says Forrest Adair, potentate of Yaarab temple. "And at the same time I would like to impress this point on all our people—that the Shriners won't want Delmonico cooking while they are here. Every last one of them that comes from anywhere outside of Dixie will want our typical southern cooking—the things he can't get at home."

Mr. Adair has received a letter about this fried chicken dinner Mecca temple is planning. William Faucett, of the traffic department of the Old Dominion Steamship company, New York, on one of whose steamers the New York Shriners will travel part of the way to Atlanta, has written to S. C. Porter, the company's southern agent in Atlanta, asking him to help; and Mr. Porter has asked Mr. Adair's aid. Now Mr. Adair puts it up to Atlanta.

"Mecca temple will arrive in Atlanta, Monday, May 11," writes Mr. Faucett. "It is their desire to have a real old-fashioned southern dinner on Tuesday, May 12, and they have asked us to suggest some place within trolley distance of Atlanta where they can get it. They would like to get out into the woods or to some large park, where they can lounge around for the afternoon, returning to Atlanta in time for the parade in the evening. They are anxious to have a good dinner, and would be willing to pay up to $1.50 a plate. They would have 100 to 150 persons there to eat it. If you know of such a place will you inform me in order that the committee of Mecca temple may take the matter up directly?"

Mr. Adair considers this a fine opportunity for some good woman who knows how to prepare the real fried chicken and who has a large lawn where she can serve it.

"The very thought of what can be provided for those Shriners who are so hungry for southern cooking just makes my mouth water," he declares.

Perhaps some one woman would undertake this dinner for Mecca temple. Perhaps the ladies of some church might band together and supply it.

Mecca is the original temple of all Shrinedom, and probably is the biggest. The members know what they want, and are willing to pay for it. They want some of that fried chicken they've been hearing about, and some of that hickory-cured ham, and some of those other good dishes that you can't get anywhere but in the south. And they won't be the only folks who'll be looking for those things when they get to Atlanta.

BAN ON SPANIARDS KNOTTY PROBLEM FOR WASHINGTON

Spain Has Placed Safety of Her Subjects in Mexico Entirely in the Hands of the United States.

CARRANZA BEING URGED TO MODIFY VILLA ORDER

Rigid Censorship Exercised at Mexico City—John Lind to Confer With President Wilson During the Week.

Washington, April 12.—Washington officials and diplomats were speculating tonight on the outcome of two conferences to be held this week, one in this city between President Wilson and his personal representative in Mexico, John Lind, and the other at Torreon between General Venustiano Carranza, first chief of the constitutionalists, and General Villa, the victorious rebel army leader.

President Wilson will return to the capital tomorrow from his week-end trip to West Virginia. Mr. Lind is coming up the coast from Vera Cruz aboard the yacht Mayflower, and, though no word has been received from the yacht since she left Mexican waters, he is expected to reach here Tuesday. About the time Mr. Lind is making his report to the president, the Mexican rebel leaders will be meeting for the first time since the days of the Madero revolution, and on this conference much is believed to depend. Officials here think that a face to face talk between Carranza and Villa will result in a clearer understanding concerning the rights of foreigners in Mexico, and especially their privilege of pressing claims through American consular officers.

No News From the Scene of War.

No news from the scene of war came today to either the war or navy department. The navy department also was without a final report from Rear Admiral Mayo on the outcome of his demand that the Mexican federal commander at Tampico salute the Stars and Stripes as a part of his apology for the affront to America in the arrest of United States marines. Officials declared, however, that no anxiety was felt over this matter, as assurance had been given that proper reparation would be made.

It was reported tonight that important dispatches had come to the state department from Mexico City. Secretary Bryan said, however, that he had nothing whatever to give out. The secretary commented on the absence of press reports from the Mexican capital, and remarked that apparently a rigid censorship was being exercised. He had nothing to say about the possible cause of this.

No one is predicting that any change of policy on the part of the United States government will follow Mr. Lind's report to the president, although it is realized that the problems involved in Mexico have undergone radical changes since Mr. Lind went up from Vera Cruz to see the president at Pass Christian during the New Year holidays.

The Expulsion of Spaniards.

One of the results of the Torreon meeting is expected to be a reply to the state department's latest representations, especially in the case of Spaniards, exiled from Torreon. Although Carranza has told the department that he is not disposed to interfere with Villa's course toward the Spaniards, there is a frankly expressed expectation that this stand may be modified.

Should the two rebel leaders decide to pay no heed to Secretary Bryan's demand that the cases of all Spaniards be settled on their individual merits the United States will be confronted with a problem of the greatest gravity, since Spain has placed the safety

HARRIS TO ENTER GOVERNORSHIP

If President Wilson Is Willing for Him to Resign as Census Director—Basis of Harris' Campaign Outlined

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, April 12.—(Special.)—William J. Harris will call on President Wilson during the next few days to learn if it will be agreeable to the president for him to resign as director of the census in June, 1915, to assume the governorship in the event of his election.

Mr. Harris is seriously considering making the race. He does not want to resign his present duties, however, but to hold on until he can reorganize the bureau according to his ideas. He has already carried out a number of reforms and greatly strengthened the force. When he took charge he found nine out of ten of his chiefs of divisions and other associates were republicans. There are not nearly so many now, although changes are necessarily slow under the civil service. In addition to bringing up to date the badly-delayed work of the bureau, Mr. Harris effected a saving of $100,000 in one bureau alone, that devoted to the statistics of cities.

To President Wilson, who has shown a great interest in this work and been kind enough to appoint me to supervise it, should not be willing for me to resign in June, 1915," said Mr. Harris, "I will, of course, serve for the remainder of the administration. I could not well do otherwise."

Basis of Harris' Campaign.

In discussing the prospects for this year's state campaign, Mr. Harris said the lawyers have monopolized the office of governor long enough and the next administration has problems to solve which call for the experience of a business man. His campaign would be based on two main issues:

First—Extending to the cities and counties of Georgia the use of the state's superior credit and enabling them to save interest on bonds through the state's indorsement of these bonds. This practice has been followed with great success in Massachusetts for thirty years, and in Rhode Island and Arizona for seven years.

Second—Restricting the next lease of the Western and Atlantic railroad to the lines and terminals actually necessary for the operation of the system. The five acres in the business district of Chattahoogee, which the state owns, he would handle on a separate plan. His idea is to lease this property for business structures on long time, requiring the lessee to erect substantial brick buildings, which would revert to the state at the expiration of the lease. Thus the state would secure a much larger annual rental from this property than is now done, but would be the owner at the expiration of the lease of the improvements erected without expense to her.

His Record in Legislature.

"I was the first person in Georgia and the state legislature to advocate the imposition of the state's railroad property," said Mr. Harris. "The leasing of the Western and Atlantic is an important business question, and its proper handling will mean much to the state in a financial way. The additional revenue, which can be earned for the state, will go to the common schools fund.

"While in the legislature he applied his business knowledge to aid the state. He offered a bill to change the distribution of the fees from all inspection. Formerly two-thirds of the amount collected in fees went to the inspectors, and one-third went to the State Agricultural college. Mr. Harris' bill, which was passed, gave three-fourths to the state colleges and one-fourth to the inspectors. While Mr. Harris would not conduct a speech-making campaign should he enter the race, as now seems probable, he is one of the best hand-shakers in the state. Not even Judge Dick Russell can beat him at that pastime. It has become a proverb that "Bill Harris knows everybody."

Easter Sunday and the Night That Followed Almost One Continuous Prayer for the Condemned Men.

GUNMEN SEND MESSAGES TO BOYS OF EAST SIDE

Keep Away From Bad Company, the Burden of Their Advice—Two Nuns Visit the Condemned.

Ossining, N. Y., April 12.—Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenberg, Frank Cirofici and Frank Seidenshner have spent their last day on earth.

As the gunmen whose picturesque aliases were flung across the continent after the murder of the New York gambler, Herman Rosenthal, they die at dawn in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison, convicted of that murder.

Declared Their Innocence.

To relatives who bade them good-by today and to their spiritual advisers, the four condemned men again declared their innocence, and as night settled down over the prison and the death watch stood close about their cells, there was nothing to indicate that they would not deny their guilt until the end.

Which would go first to the chair was a secret that only the warden knew. It would depend, it was said, on the gunmen's demeanor. He on whom the ordeal bore heaviest, whose nerves gave evidences of snapping, would be first dispatched, thus to obviate a scene. Prison gossip has it that "Lefty Louie" (Louis Rosenberg) was the most erratic of the four, and that he would march first to the chair. Others thought the first to die would be "Dago Frank" (Frank Cirofici), the Italian of the quartet, who has declared in statements to Governor Glynn and others, that he was far from the scene of the murder when Rosenthal was shot down. James Clancy, warden of the prison, shook his head and turned away when the subject of the order of death was mentioned.

Continuous Prayer for Condemned.

This Easter Sunday and the night that follows was almost one continuous prayer for the condemned. They were on their knees most of the time that they were not talking with relatives. A prisoner, in a distant cell, now and then blew from a battered cornet the quavering notes of "Nearer, My God to Thee," and in the death-house proper a phonograph played sacred music. On the walks in front

REFERENDUM IS TAKEN ON THE COPPER STRIKE

Calumet, Mich., April 12.—It was said tonight at the Western Federation of Miners' district union office at Hancock that returns on the copper strike vote were incomplete and that no figures would be available until tomorrow. At the headquarters of Ahmeek the local vote was given as 1,357 against calling off the strike and 341 for ending it.

No figures were given at the Calumet headquarters, but it was said the vote throughout the district was heavily for continuing the strike. A majority of the members voted, it was said.

REBEL FORCES YIELD TO THE GOVERNMENT

Santo Domingo, April 12.—Rebel forces that have occupied the citadel at Santiago have surrendered to the government. Another rebel force under General Mauricio Jiminez, military chief of the insurrection, which occupied a fortified position at La Vega, also has surrendered to federals under Tancredo Savinon, who has been appointed governor there.

President Bordas, heading 1,500 men, is on his way to Santiago, having taken the field against the insurrectionists a week ago. The government is virtually in control of the republic and peace prevails, except in the northeast portion.

A Week For Putting Savings In the Bank

AUTOMOBILES have been offered at bargains in Constitution ads recently. Did you get one at reduced price? New potatoes were offered at low rates and some grocers have made various low prices on fresh country eggs with great frequency.

Probably this week will see many opportunities for you to save money in household purchases. Begin today.

Figure the regular price and then the price paid by careful shopping and put the difference in the bank—pick the bank from the banks advertised in The Constitution. Read Constitution ads to cut the cost of living without cutting the quality.

Now Is the Opportune Time For Contestants to Enter Big Constitution Contest

Often in the course of a life time a decision concerning a certain policy or course of action becomes imperative. In the correct solution of this problem lies, to some extent, the measure of success to be attained. A moment's indecision when the time of quick action is at hand, hesitancy or procrastination, an advantage overlooked, too often means the difference between success and failure. Regret must always follow in the wake of lost opportunity. Those who live in their yesterdays sadly contemplate what might have been, those who see into tomorrow another chance are happier in their optimism, but many times the anticipation is its own reward; those who have the advantage of these classes of people are those who have their eyes and ears open today. Today is the day of all days. Yesterday is gone forever and tomorrow never comes. So it is that only in today's opportunity have we tangible reality.

Right now opportunity speaks to all who will listen and offers action to the direct benefit of all who are will-

ON "DIVINE HEALING" DR. HOLDERBY PREACHES

Pastor Says Mrs. Etter Is Supported by Authority of the Bible.

During his services Sunday morning at Moore Memorial church Dr. Holderby referred to Mrs. Etter, who is conducting what she calls "Divine Healing" services at the old Broughton Tabernacle.

"Having been asked by a number of people, both in and out of the church, to express my opinion of the teaching and methods of Mrs. Etter, who claims that God can heal the sick, I have no hesitancy in giving my views," said Dr. Holderby.

"I have not attended any of Mrs. Etter's services—but from what I am told as to her doctrine in the matter of God's power to heal the sick, she certainly has behind her the authority of the Bible and is therefore right. I never criticise any one whose object is to do good, although I may not indorse all of their ideas and methods.

"The doctrine of divine healing or healing by faith is certainly taught by Jesus Himself and He gave command to His early church to 'preach the gospel of the kingdom and to heal the sick.' And, the disciples did by the power of Christ. But the church seems to have lost that power because she repudiates the doctrine. The doctrine has become a 'dead letter.'

"Will the church ever regain her lost power? Yes—when she has faith. But this question of 'Divine Healing' is very unpopular with the church today. The man who preaches it is branded as a fanatic or an idiot. If the preacher is not prepared to lose his job, he had better not preach the doctrine of Divine healing."

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT CENTRAL CHURCH

The largest Sunday school in the history of Central Baptist church was the one which assembled yesterday morning, and Superintendent Autry was the happiest man in Atlanta. He and his teachers had prepared a splendid program, which was beautifully rendered, centering in the great theme of Christ's resurrection. There were 665 present.

Immediately following the Sunday school program, Dr. Ridley preached on "Christ's Calls to the Church," to a capacity congregation. At the close of the service in the main auditorium a collection of seven hundred dollars was taken to cover a deficit in the church's running expenses.

At the evening service the pastor spoke on the same subject as at 11 o'clock, to a large congregation, of the same sermon. At this service the congregation was reminded of the coming campaign, when the entire force of the home mission board of the Baptist convention would be in Atlanta's churches. The campaign begins on May 17, and will last for fifteen days.

YOUNG WOMAN ATTACKS PARKHURST IN PULPIT

But Organist Throws on the Pedals and Drowns Voice of Jane Est.

New York, April 12.—Jane Est, a young woman Industrial Workers of the World sympathizer, today at the morning service of the Madison Square Presbyterian church interrupted the service and was arrested. Rising from a seat just over the chancel, Miss Est started an attack on the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, the pastor.

"I want to call your attention to an article in this paper," the young woman said. It was just as the prayer of consecration was about to be offered. As she spoke, she waved a newspaper. "This church," she added, "has a minister who repudiates Christ.——"

The organist, looking over his shoulder and catching sight of the speaker, began running his fingers gently over the keys. Miss Est then essayed to pitch her voice above the melody of the organ, but the organist changed from the treble clef, threw on the pedals and fairly shook the edifice with the sonorous vibrations of the big pipes. Only a syllable or two of what the woman was trying to say reached the congregation.

Hearing of the disturbance the sexton rushed to the street and called a policeman. The two men, assisted by members of the congregation, ejected Miss Est from the building. She was taken to a police station, where she will be charged with disturbing public worship.

Miss Est was arraigned and held in $400 bail for examination Tuesday. She could not furnish bail and was remanded to the Jefferson Market prison, adjoining the court.

Dr. Parkhurst, who was ill, was not in the church when Miss Est began her harangue.

of her subjects in American hands in representations made by the Spanish foreign office both through Ambassador Riano here and Ambassador Willard in Madrid.

As to the situation resulting from the arrest of American marines at Tampico, Secretary Daniels is satisfied that Rear Admiral Mayo, having been informed of Huerta's apology, will consider the incident closed, and may not press his demand for a salute to the flag. Now that Huerta's apology and promised investigation has relieved the tenseness of the situation, the secretary feels that any further reparation may be deferred until the inquiry is completed.

U. S. TRANSPORT HANCOCK ORDERED TO TAMPICO

New Orleans, April 13.—The United States transport Hancock tonight received imperative orders from Washington to proceed at once to Tampico.

It is understood here that the Hancock will take on board marines who are fleeing from the battle-swept city of Tampico, where sharp fighting between Mexican constitutionalists and federals has been reported.

The Hancock will take on 400 tons of coal, filling her bunkers which have an 800-ton capacity, and will sail tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The vessel arrived here two months ago, bringing 944 marines from the first advance base regiment. The marines will remain at the naval station here, it is stated.

When the Hancock steams southtomorrow she will probably be accompanied by the United States hospital ship Solace, under orders to hasten her departure for Tampico. The Solace arrived here early last night, and the crew was given shore leave for eleven days. Two days after the Solace docked she was ordered to proceed immediately to Tampico, but was delayed by coaling and by making repairs to her ice-manufacturing machinery.

With the departure of the Hancock and Solace, the navy will be represented here by but one vessel, the supply ship Culgoa, which arrived

WOMEN WILL HEAR OF HOSPITAL NEEDS

Dr. Elkin, Dr. Summerall, Bishop Nelson and Ivan E. Allen Will Address Federated Club Members.

The need for a Greater Grady hospital will be taken up at a mass meeting today of the Federated Women's Clubs, in the club building on Baker street. The federation will be addressed by Dr. W. S. Elkin, Dr. W. K. Summerall, Bishop C. K. Nelson and Ivan E. Allen, members of the executive committee, which has been formed to further the hospital bond issue. The meeting today will be educational, rather than evangelistic, as every known woman's organization in Atlanta already favors the bond issue.

"It's easy enough to get the support of the women," explained a member of the committee last night. "The average woman knows enough about sickness to realize what a vast difference good facilities may make. We talk about taking good care of the sick and injured in the present Grady hospital is absurd. There isn't room enough for the sick and injured that need care, and, for those who do get in, there isn't room enough to take care of them. Space and air and modern equipment is just as essential to a hospital as doctors and surgical instruments. The present Grady hospital is totally inadequate. It is miles behind the town. If the voters knew how many miles, our campaign in favor of the bond issue would not be necessary."

Outline Organization Plan.

A comprehensive organization plan was outlined for the campaign at a meeting Saturday.

Pledges of support were received from the various branches of civic, business and industrial life of the city and promises were made which indicate that a great concerted movement is beginning in favor of the issue as already recommended by mayor and council.

A central executive committee was organized as follows: Captain J. W. English, J. K. Orr, Ivan E. Allen, Thomas Egleston, S. E. Marks, J. E. Hewitt, John E. Murphey, Frederic J. Paxon, Dr. W. S. Elkin, Wilmer L. Moore, Albert S. Adams, E. H. Goodhart, R. J. McBurney.

Active Campaign Committee.

At the same time a motion was passed providing for the formation of an active campaign committee, to be composed of from 100 to 250 members, and that this committee be sub-divided so that there would be a special subcommittee actively at work in each ward in the city. It was decided to select from ten to twenty-five representative men from each ward. A special committee with R. L. Foreman at its head was appointed by the chair to take the registration lists, select tentatively the personnel of this big working campaign committee, and to report back at an early meeting.

A finance committee was formed by the appointment of Dr. Floyd L. McRae as chairman, with the right to select two more members. At the same time Dr. W. S. Elkin was chosen vice chairman of the general committee.

PASTOR PAVES WAY FOR GREAT REVIVAL

Dr. B. F. Fraser Conducts Easter Rally at St. Paul's Church Preparatory to Old-Time Methodist Meeting.

One of the biggest congregations of the year gathered at St. Paul M. E. church yesterday morning in response to the call of the pastor, Rev. Dr. B. F. Fraser, for an Easter rally preparatory to the old-time Methodist revival which will bring to St. Paul some of the most noted ministers in the country.

The revival really began with the Easter service, which will be followed by meetings each morning during the week, at 7:45 o'clock. While they are preparatory services, these will really be a part of the revival meeting which will last through Sunday, April 26.

For the Easter services, St. Paul had a choir of twenty-four voices, including the best singers chosen from the congregation; and, while the songs selected were the old-time, familiar hymns, they were sung with a fervor and enthusiasm that was refreshing.

Dr. Fraser preached a straight Bible sermon pertinent to Easter, using his text from Matthew xxviii, 5-6, and dealing with the resurrection of Christ. During the course of his forceful sermon Dr. Fraser said he had been criticised in some places where he had served on the ground that he stuck too closely to the Bible and had too little to say about science. He illustrated very forcibly that, while science had never been able to tell us all we know about immortality or the life hereafter, the Bible had done so, and he proposed to stick to it.

Well-Known Preachers Coming.

Every member of the congregation was urged to lend his personal efforts to making a success of the coming revival, and the enthusiasm shown indicated that the entire congregation and Sunday school, too, feels a deep interest, and will do their full share.

Next Friday, Bishop J. C. Kilgo, of Durham, N. C., one of the most forceful of Methodist preachers, will be here to take up the revival at St. Paul. There will arrive the same day Professor E. O. Excell, of Chicago, famous singer, who brings with him one of the best pianists in the country. A big choir will be trained under Professor Excell's direction, and the music will be one of the chief features of the revival.

Bishop Kilgo will conduct his first services at St. Paul Friday, and on Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, he will preach there to men only. Dr. Fraser is determined to make this one of the biggest men's meetings ever held in Atlanta.

Services at Trinity.

There will arrive also on Friday Dr. S. A. Steele, of Columbia, S. C., another of the south's strong preachers, and, while Bishop Kilgo is speaking at St. Paul, Dr. Steele will preach at Trinity.

Rev. George R. Stuart, of Knoxville, the famous platform singer, will also be here for the revival, as will a number of others of national reputation.

Dr. Luke Johnson, pastor of Trinity, has arranged with Dr. Fraser to have these speakers at Trinity from time to time while they are here, and there will be one or two services daily at that church at which these men will speak.

JACKSON HILL CHURCH GIVES PASTOR AN AUTO

Dr. L. E. Barton's Popularity With Congregation Is Thus Shown.

At the morning service Sunday the congregation of the Jackson Hill Baptist church unanimously voted to present the pastor, Dr. L. E. Barton, with an automobile. Dr. Barton is one of the most popular pastors in the city. "You do not know how I appreciate the gift of the church," said Dr. Barton. "I believe I have the finest congregation in the city."

WEATHER DOMINANT IN COTTON MARKET

New Orleans, La., April 13.—Cotton closed at an advance this last week. This was chiefly due to unseasonably cold weather in the cotton region which it was feared, damaged young cotton in the west sections and caused further delay to planting in other sections.

Much liquidation of long cotton was in evidence, being induced by the Easter holidays, and offerings from this source held the market down and prevented weather news from having its full influence.

This coming week the trade will first digest reports from the belt. Higher prices will be inevitable if the belt sends in the reports that would seem justified following the cold weather. On the other hand, if the new week is featured by a favorable turn in the weather the effect of unfavorable accounts from the interior may be only temporary.

The lateness of the crop in the most southern portions of the belt will cause much discussion of the August movement in the near future, and will intensify any bullish features that may develop in the spot market. A large business in cloths and yarns in Manchester will cause the trade to watch for a corresponding increase in the spot demand at Liverpool. Failure of this demand to increase would cause bearish comment regarding supplies held by spinners. Bulls, however, consider that the mills of the world have only moderate to small stocks.

New York Monument To Union Veterans Unveiled April 30

Americus, Ga., April 12.—Information received here this morning was that the New York delegation of veterans and prominent citizens coming to Andersonville national cemetery April 30 for dedicatory ceremonies of the New York state monument will come directly to Americus, going later to Andersonville. Five hundred New Yorkers will constitute the party, and they will be entertained while in Americus with a program arranged by the Americus Chamber of Commerce. An immense barbecue dinner at the Andersonville grounds and automobile drives here are entertainment features contemplated.

RED CROSS TO PREVENT FLOOD AND FAMINE

Washington, April 13.—Plans are being perfected here for beginning work on the immense reclamation project in China fostered by the American National Red Cross to relieve suffering from flood and famine in the Hnai and Yallow river districts of China. Chen Chin Tao, China's financial adviser in its dealings with foreign nations, will reach here from London in about two weeks to confer with Kai-Fu Shah, the new minister to the United States, about arrangements for the large loan necessary to carry out the project.

The Red Cross is anxiously awaiting passage by congress of a pending resolution authorizing President Wilson to detail an army engineer to serve on the commission which will go to China to study the problem. Lieutenant Colonel William L. Sibert, who built the great Gatun locks of the Panama canal, has been mentioned as a possibility in this connection.

The Red Cross member of the commission will be Charles D. Jameson, an engineer who for the past three years has been in China making surveys and preparing a report as to how the work can be done. A third member will be named by the J. G. White Engineering corporation, of New York, which will do the work.

Mr. Jameson, who presented his preliminary report some time ago, showing the need of reclamation "in a section of country which has known but little rest from floods and subsequent famines for the last two thousand five hundred years," is in Washington to consult with Major General George W. Davis, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross.

Mr. Jameson said the project, which will require about six or seven years to complete, will do away with all but abnormal floods in about 17,000 square miles, where now only two crops in five years is the rule. The result, he added, would be to make producers of and save from suffering, starvation and degeneration several millions of people who are fast becoming beggars and robbers.

RAIN IS PREDICTED FOR SOUTH ATLANTIC

Washington, April 13.—Generally fair weather for this week in all parts of the country, except the South Atlantic states, where rain is indicated for the first day or two, was the forecast tonight by the weather bureau.

"It will be cool and frosty over the central and eastern districts," said the bulletin, "and fair weather is likely to continue during the greater portion of the week (clearing by Tuesday in the South Atlantic states), with a return to more moderate temperatures.

"After the middle of the week, a disturbance will appear, but probably without result, other than local rains in the North Pacific states."

What is the Encyclopaedia Britannica?

Why should I own a set?

Why should I buy it NOW?

STRANGE as these questions sound to people who know what a tremendously important and valuable work the Encyclopaedia Britannica is, hundreds and hundreds of men and women who see this advertising are asking themselves these very questions.

For those who have never come in contact with the Britannica we can simply say, "It is the greatest gathering together and compilation for ready reference of essential, practical world-knowledge that has ever been issued."

It is the work of the foremost authorities on every phase of human knowledge.

It is written in a clear, easily read and easy to understand manner.

It is the court of last resort for the greatest thinkers and doers of the day, as well as the "man in the street."

When lawyers, doctors, statesmen, judges, manufacturers, travelers, teachers, scholars, students, engineers, or trained workmen say, "The Encyclopaedia Britannica says—thus or so," controversy and question ceases. It is the authority on every subject touched.

To understand What the Britannica is, is to understand Why you should own it

The successful men of this age, whether leaders of finance, heads of educational institutions, directors of great newspapers, builders of great ditches, bridges or railroads, experts in mining, manufacturing or farming industries, are successful and their opinions carry conviction because they know. THE MAD DOG.

Dr. Claude Smith, Atlanta's city bacteriologist, has united with the state and city boards of health in exposing the danger from rabid dogs and, at the same time, baring some of the fallacies commonly held regarding this menace to the community.

Many people still believe that the dog, or other animal, afflicted with hydrophobia, is dangerous only in warm weather. Hydrophobia is a peril at all times of the year, whether in the dead of winter or the sultriest part of the summer's season. The belief that summer is the season for visitations is traceable to the fact that dogs and animals generally subject to the plague have more ranging ground in the hot than the cold seasons. So the person who omits precautions when cold weather sets in is inviting disaster.

Another common mistake is to compass the immediate death of the animal suspected of causing the infection. In the first place, the premonitory symptoms of hydrophobia are obscure and as yet ill defined. They do not always accurately correspond to the popular notion of frothing at the mouth and extreme and savage irritability. Often it is difficult to distinguish between a dog who bites in the impulse of play or of temper and the dog who is infected with rabies. The safest course is to lock the animal up and subject it to observation. In a few days, if rabies is present, it will make itself unmistakably manifest. If the animal is killed immediately suspicion is roused it may never be settled whether or not it suffered from hydrophobia. The germs may not have developed in the brain, the natural culture ground. In the meantime, the patient is exposed to the agonies of suspense. If a little patience is observed it can be established beyond doubt if the animal and, therefore the patient, is infected. And should infection prove to be present, there is ample time to apply the abortive Pasteur treatment.

Reliable authorities are persuaded that ordinary care would eliminate hydrophobia from Georgia and every other American state within a few years. The one sure preventive is the Pasteur treatment. And the prerequisite to that treatment is such caution and cool-headedness as will prevent the causeless panics that have caused needless suffering, and the increasing and somewhat inexcusable slaughter of dogs, some of them decidedly valuable.

THE COUNTRY SCHOOL.

Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, told the Conference for Education in the South some striking truths about the country school and the country teacher in his recent address at Louisville.

One of Dr. Claxton's premises was that the country school should observe as long a term as the city school. He is right. The city child has the advantage of many secondary educational advantages, such as those coming from observation and contact with the center of civilized influences, which the country child lacks. And if we base education on the assumption that the country child may come to the city, or the city child go to the country, it is essential to base education upon a standard plane as far as feasible.

Another strong point of Dr. Claxton's was that surroundings and terms should be made attractive for the country teacher. So far as possible he would give the country teacher a permanent tenure. The suggestion is a good one. Any person in any occupation who knows they have found their life work is apt to achieve greater efficiency and to pay more attention to self-improvement than the individual who is using his or her present job simply as a stop-gap or a stepping-stone. But if we are to make the tenure of either city or country teachers approximately permanent, we must raise their salaries. There is little inducement in rural Georgia, for instance, for a teacher to become permanently domiciled. And, due to the short sight and parsimony of rich Atlanta, there is hardly more inducement for the city teacher to do likewise.

Slowly but universally a change is coming over our conceptions with regard to the country school. We are daily seeing it more in the light of a vital contribution to society, so far-reaching as to baffle prophecy. We are understanding that the child who is well equipped in the country stands an incomparably better chance to succeed than the child who has been skimped in its schooling.

In Georgia, the awakening has manifested itself in the increasing number of counties that levy special taxes for the support of local school systems. It is to be hoped the idea will make more rapid progress in the future. In this connection, Professor Joseph S. Stewart, who occupies the chair of secondary education in the University of Georgia, deserves distinct credit. He has done much and is doing more to make popular in Georgia the propaganda of local systems for education, for broadening generally the bases of education.

ORGANIZED OBSTINACY.

John Mitchell recently told the federal commission on industrial relations that he believed there should be a federal board empowered to investigate causes of threatened or pending strikes, but without the authority to declare compulsory arbitration.

The plan suggested by Mr. Mitchell already has been tried with remarkable success in Canada. In the dominion they have in operation not a compulsory arbitration, but a compulsory publicity law. It is unlawful there to declare a strike or a lockout until a judicial commission has probed fully the grievance of both sides and made the facts public. The measure is effectual in preventing trouble, for the reason that once the public is familiar with facts it throws its sympathy to whichever of the disputants appears to be in the right. And few industrial disturbances can enjoy long life once the public is thoroughly informed as to the equities and makes its decision manifest. The drawback in our own country is that too frequently capital and labor lock horns first and let the public find out afterward. In the meantime, the public is put to endless inconvenience, the penalty often reaching out into fields seemingly remote from the storm center.

The Constitution would like to see adopted in this country some method approximating the Canadian plan. A system that entailed compulsory arbitration, or at least compulsory mediation, may be desirable.

Organized obstinacy on part of either capital or labor is, in this century, old-fashioned, ruinous, indefensible. We do not overlook the possibility that in extreme instances drastic lessons are required to bring either one or both parties to a realization of their duties. But the crisis must be very radical to justify resort to measures that lead to bloodshed and to far-reaching derangement of the industrial machine. It is not in evidence that public sentiment any longer approves such interferences with the rights of the great third party, the public.

We have seen during the past two years what may be accomplished by mediation under the original Erdman act and, later, under the act in its amplified form. There is no reason why the act should not be still further broadened, to include either compulsory publicity or compulsory arbitration.

IS MONROE DOCTRINE A JOKE?

Prince Henry of Prussia, brother to Kaiser Wilhelm, is in South America ostensibly upon a diplomatic errand. His real mission is to make business friends and customers for Germany. We strive righteously to uphold the Monroe doctrine, to the end of keeping European nations out of South America in the political sense. And, in the meantime, Europe steadily lays her foundations for monopolizing a large part of the South American trade. What does Europe care whose flag floats over South America, so long as she draws the dividends?

Consular agents and higher officials, such as Mr. Root and Colonel Roosevelt, have told us that Europe wins in South America in the matter of business getting where we lose. In other words, that the manufacturers and shippers of Europe study native needs, native customs and conform to both. On the other hand, it is proverbial that the factories and the exporters of the United States feed to their South American trade not what the latter asks, but what it is thought they should absorb.

In the face of such a condition, it is not strange that Germany, England and France should be making large industrial headway in South America, while the trade of the United States is either stationary or receding. We neglect that first requirement of trade, which is first-class banking facilities upon the scene of activity. Most of our financial transactions in South America are consummated through English, French or German houses. Imposing these tremendous handicaps upon ourselves, we fail to get the business that legitimately belongs to us, and are unable to understand the reason.

The Monroe doctrine is a part of our traditions and governmental procedure, and must be accepted as such. But there is another doctrine, the doctrine of common sense and of dollars and cents, which we are neglecting. We can keep the flag of Europe and the armies and navies of Europe out of South America. Can we keep the commercial travelers, the bankers and business men of Europe, out of South America? The visit of Prince Henry, which is only an illustration of similar missions, creates questions on that point.

After all, are we pursuing the shadow and ignoring the substance of the Monroe doctrine? A practical age will have to find the answer to the question.

And now Uncle Joe Cannon has come out in favor of the taxgo. He is still able to hop high to reach a line of limelight.

Log Cabin Sentiments.

It's such a bright world we are looking for it to blaze at any minute.

Hoping for the best is one thing, but working for it beats Hope every day in the year.

The reason some folks don't stay on the hilltop after having climbed to get there is because they forget their raising, and that the valleys are also the habitations of Life.

While the fiddler is reeling off the tunes the world wants to dance the stars to bed, but when it comes to paying the fiddler it's hard for some of us to make change.

They're lookin' every minute for the startled stars to fall;
But she surely knows the pathway—she'll get there after all!

III.

It's the New Time, good people, with all the sort o' speed;
Earth-lights have made the stars dim, an' the buildings scrape the clouds!
The world is just a-spinnin' clear to the heavenly wall;

He Got the Information.

"The story of a man who owned a nose that was fearfully and embarrassingly red, and answered an advertisement in an eastern paper, telling how to cure it, is being told extensively," says The Kansas City Star. "When he answered the advertisement he sent the required dime for the cure. In a few days he received the following advice by mail: 'Keep on drinking until the nose turns blue.'"

DISTRACTING NOISES

DAILY GRIST from the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

JUDGE THOMAS RECEIVING TENDERS OF SUPPORT FROM ALL PARTS OF STATE

Valdosta, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—The dominant political topic in this city and throughout this section just now, is whether Judge W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta, will decide to make the race for governor this year. He is being strongly urged to run by influential friends in every section of the state, but he has not yet reached a decision, or at least has not stated to those closest to him politically what he will do.

Judge Thomas is regarded as the strongest candidate south Georgia could offer. This is unquestionably true in the counties composing the Southern judicial circuit, over which he has presided for a number of years, and in which he served as solicitor general for several terms. His service on the bench and as solicitor has brought him in close touch with the people not only in his own circuit, but in various sections of the state where he has presided over the courts from time to time. His circuit is looked upon as a part of model among Georgia judicial circuits.

It is expected that Judge Thomas will make an announcement of his plans at an early date. He held court in Colquitt county last week.

Judge Thomas has received many letters and telegrams since returning from Moultrie, pledging him earnest support and urging him to get in the race. Prominent men from different sections of south Georgia called on him Saturday and Sunday and gave personal expression of their desire to see him run.

THOMASVILLE INDORSED FOR GOVERNOR AT THOMASVILLE MASS MEETING

Thomasville, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—At a mass meeting of the democratic voters of Thomas county, held in this city this morning, a resolution was adopted indorsing Judge W. E. Thomas, of the southern district, as the proper candidate for governor without reference to any sectional division of the state.

Judge Thomas is very strong here, and if he enters the race, will carry the vote of the county.

It was also decided that the county primary of Thomas will be held on August 19 at the same time as the state primary.

OCILLA FRIENDS WOULD WELCOME ANNOUNCEMENT OF JUDGE THOMAS

Ocilla, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—No recent political announcement has created anything like the interest that was manifested here when the daily papers containing the statement that Judge W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta, might enter the race for governor, were received.

Almost without exception and regardless of faction the voters here agree that Judge Thomas is the one man upon whom south Georgia can and will unite for governor with a reasonable degree of success.

One of the most influential men of Irwin county expressed the general impression in these words:

"Judge Thomas is, in point of ability, the peer of any man who has been mentioned for governor, and in all of his political campaigns no suspicion against his private or political character has even been hinted."

It is the general impression here that all of south Georgia will rally to him if he announces, and it is believed that he will have a very strong support in all other sections of the state.

THE POSITION OF GOVERNOR AND CANDIDATE SEPARATED BY SLATON

In every case possible John M. Slaton, governor of Georgia and candidate for the United States senate to succeed the late Senator Augustus O. Bacon, has separated the two positions he now occupies—the position of governor and his status as candidate.

Even in such small matters as stationery Governor Slaton differentiates. In dealing with matters of state, he uses the stationery provided by the state for official business. In writing to political friends throughout the state in regard to his senatorial race, he uses stationery with the words "John M. Slaton, Atlanta, Ga." on it. He has given orders to keep the two positions as far apart as possible.

In the matter of pardons, etc., he is not allowing his position as candidate to interfere in any manner with his duty as governor.

"I am keeping the two positions as far apart as possible," said Governor Slaton, "and I intend to do so up to the time of election."

J. R. SMITH NOW MENTIONED AS A CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Friends of J. R. Smith are now talking of him as a possible candidate for governor. During the past two or three days this talk has been heard around the hotel lobbies and wherever politicians gather for the exchange of views.

Mr. Smith was the campaign manager for Joseph M. Brown in all of his races, and gained considerable reason of his excellent work. At the time of Senator Bacon's death his name was prominently mentioned as a possible appointee. It is known that his name was given consideration by Governor Slaton.

DR. L. G. HARDMAN PAYS VISIT TO GOVERNOR SLATON AT CAPITOL

Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, the only active announced candidate for governor before the people, paid a visit to Governor Slaton Saturday.

Dr. Hardman stated to reporters that he was in the race to the finish, and would wage an aggressive campaign. He intends making stump speeches all over the state, he said. He left Saturday afternoon for a business trip to Macon.

Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, whose name is frequently mentioned in connection with the governor's race, was another prominent visitor to the city Saturday. It is said that he is considering an announcement.

News comes from Savannah that Hon. J. Randolph Anderson, member of the senate, has opened up headquarters in Savannah and will issue his formal announcement to the public as soon as Governor Slaton issues his statement. Governor Slaton is expected to publish his announcement by the middle of this week.

MACON PROMISES TO BE STORM CENTER OF STATE POLITICS

Macon, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—As a breeding place for candidates for offices, both inside and outside of the state, Macon seems to be trying to break all records this year, about the only office world having that some Macon man is not already announced for or is desirous of filling being that of state senator from the twenty-second district. The reason there is no announced candidate here for that office is the fact that it is Monroe county's time to elect the senator.

Three candidates for the United States senatorship to succeed the late Senator A. O. Bacon have been in the field for some time in the persons of T. S. Felder, John R. Cooper and Harry S. Edwards, the latter on a bull moose ticket.

Now there is a strong probability that the Central City will produce candidates for governor and for congressman from the sixth district. Colonel N. E. Harris is seriously considering the question of running for governor, while the newest political development here is the report that W. D. McNeil, present state senator from the twenty-second district, will be a candidate for congress from the sixth district in opposition to Mr. Wise, of Forsythville, in case Congressman C. L. Bartlett decides not to stand for re-election.

Will Bartlett Run?

Mr. McNeil says that his entry in the race depends entirely on what Congressman Bartlett does, and the latter is maintaining the silence of the sphinx. It will be remembered that Congressman Bartlett in his last race is accredited with the statement that if he was elected just once more he would not ask for the office again, but would retire at the end of his term.

However, it is now stated by a good many people, who ought to know, that Judge Bartlett will get in the running at the proper time. If he does, Mr. McNeil will not run, though there is a possibility that John Bolfenblet, secretary to the late Senator Bacon, may get in the race.

Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, who has announced himself as a candidate for governor, with prohibition as his platform, spoke in Macon Saturday evening before the student body of Mercer university.

John R. Cooper, candidate for the short term in the United States senate, continues his speech-making tour. His latest address to the voters of the state in behalf of his candidacy was made early in the present week at Moultrie, the home of W. C. Vereen, who sought the appointment as senator at the hands of Governor Slaton.

Criticises Cobb County Committee.

Colonel Cooper told his audience that he considered that the Cobb county executive committee had overstepped itself in its resolution demanding that Governor Slaton resign from the governorship by charging that he had an ulterior motive in remaining in his office, but that the position that the present governor should put himself on an equal basis with others who are running for the senatorship and not use the power of the office of governor to bring him votes in his race for senator.

Colonel Cooper is the only one of the candidates who has made many speeches, though T. S. Felder is expected to take the stump just as soon as his resignation as attorney general becomes effective. There is a lot of quiet work being done here in behalf of Mr. Felder, and his friends and supporters are getting things in shape for a vigorous campaign throughout the state in his behalf.

JUDGE CORR IN SIGNED STATEMENT DECLINES TO ENTER GOVERNOR'S RACE

Athens, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Judge Andrew Cobb will not be a candidate for governor of Georgia. In a signed statement he has set forth his reasons why he cannot accede to the very earnest request of a large number of friends that he enter the race.

He states that at first he was not inclined to treat the suggestion seriously, but came to believe from the persistence of many, and all parts of the state, that a statement was due. He says that he gave to the state several years of his best service at a time when it was a sacrifice, directly and indirectly; he says that he would not be averse to giving other years to an effort to fill well the office of governor, but that he is not able to meet the sacrifice it would mean to make the race, and even if successful to hold the office.

Judge Cobb, who has been in the public eye as a specially vigorous judiciary on the superior court bench, has been asked by several of the lawyers here, several more over the state and by scores of letters from divers parts of the state to consider getting into the governor's race.

He has not stated that he will not seriously consider the proposition. He has informally announced, however, for re-election as judge of the western circuit, and will have no opposition for that race if he remains in it.

TWO WARM CONTESTS MARK CAMPAIGN IN MADISON COUNTY

Danielsville, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Politics in the "free state of Madison" is assuming tangible proportions and shape. The registration is complete, with 2,653 registered white voters on the books. The date of the county primary has been set for the 9th of May.

The county officers have no opposition except the sheriff and treasurer. The incumbent sheriff, John Davis, has three public teams opposing him: Stiles Evans, with T. G. Benton as deputy; H. L. Williams, with W. H. Hall as deputy, and J. M. Patton, with J. D. Eberhart as deputy. In the treasurer's race four new men are offering, J. M. White, James Freeman, Charles Hutt and W. L. Chandler.

I. N. B. Thompson, who was several years ago a member of the legislature for several terms, has announced for the house—and has no opposition as yet.

THREE CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES SPEAK TO WILKINSON VOTERS

Irwinton, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Wilkinson superior court was held here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, and each day at the noon hour the voters heard a speech from a candidate for congress from this (tenth) district.

On Monday, Judge Vinson, from Baldwin; Friday, Colonel Willis Evans, of Sandersville, and on Wednesday, Judge Reynolds, of Richmond, spoke. Each speaker was given an attentive hearing.

As there were more candidates than court days, Judge Ben Hill, of Sandersville, failed of an opportunity to be heard. However, he utilized his stay by shaking hands with the voters.

It is impossible at this date to predict who the winner in Wilkinson may be, as each has a good following.

The democratic executive committee has fixed May 9 as the day for the primary for county officers. W. A. Jones, of Gordon, and Dr. J. H. Keegan, of Hickleville, are candidates for representative.

TWO SANDERSVILLE CANDIDATES CAMPAIGNING HARD FOR CONGRESS

Sandersville, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Judge B. T. Rawlings and Hon. A. Willis Evans, both of this city, are campaigning for the tenth district in the race for congress. During this week they will make speeches in several of the counties. No joint debates have been announced, but the public is eagerly awaiting them.

Both candidates have four citizens in the race for various political jobs outside of the county positions this year. They are Rawlings and Evans, for congress; Hardwick, for United States senate, and Beverly D. Evans, for supreme court judge.

Representatives J. J. Harris and S. J. Taylor both will formally announce their candidacy for the legislature next week.

RULES COMMITTEE ASSESSES WARE COUNTY CANDIDATES

Waycross, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Final steps for the primary to be held in Ware on May 20 were taken at a meeting of a subcommittee of the county executive committee on Saturday.

Owing to the probability of a second primary, the rules committee today fixed assessments as follows: For the county primary at $20, excepting the candidates for surveyor, coroner and

May 1 was named as the closing date for all entries.

SMITH TO FORMALLY ANNOUNCE FOR RAILROAD COMMISSION

Brunswick, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—George C. Smith, of this city, who has been mentioned for the past few weeks as a probable candidate for the Georgia railroad commission, today stated that he would be in the race, and that his formal announcement would be made within the next few days.

Mr. Smith arrived at this conclusion after conferring for the past several days with his friends in all sections of the state. Two years ago he was urged to enter the race, but declined at that time; but again the appeal has been made to him by business men in practically every section of the state.

Mr. Smith is one of the best-known business and railroad men in this section of the state, and has numerous friends in all sections. He is a practical railroad man, having served many years of his life to the business. For seven years he was superintendent of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, following a service of five years as trainmaster. Several years ago he resigned the position of superintendent of the A., B. & A. to become general superintendent of the mammoth plant of the Yazoo Naval Stores company in this city, and later was promoted to the position of general manager, which position he still occupies.

While Mr. Smith will not make his race on the south Georgia argument simply because he is a south Georgian, still it is believed that he will receive practically the unanimous support of this section of the state.

Subways for Rapid Transit.

One of the characteristic developments of the last few years in city transportation has been the demand on the part of a great many cities for subway systems. Undoubtedly this has been due in large part to the great success from a transportation and financial standpoint of the New York subway.

Many prominent citizens from other places after visiting New York have returned home with ambitions over subway operation and impressed with the belief that the local railway system in their own town should provide rapid transit by subway within the center of the city and under important traffic arteries. The plan naturally appeals to the civic authorities and to the citizens who do not realize that the profitable nature of the New York subway is due entirely to the great density of population and the peculiar topography of the city which compels a great deal of long distance riding, and that in most cities with a distributed population the construction and operation of subway system as a purely commercial enterprise is financially impracticable.

The fact is, that subway service is a luxury which only the very largest cities can afford, and even in New York the last subway contracts are being subsidized by the city, which practically guarantees the railway companies against loss from their operation.

Never Trouble Trouble.

"Never trouble trouble 'til trouble troubles you,"
Is not a very human, but a proper thing to do.
I hardly need to tell you, for I know you know the same—
The worst of all our troubles are the ones that never came.
Who, for fear of dying, would lie all night awake?
Or forego a sumptuous dinner through dread of stomach ache?

THEATERS IN ATLANTA HAVE PROSPEROUS YEAR

Atlanta Closes Soon, Stock Opens at Lyric, Forsyth Still Running.

The theatrical season, so far as Atlanta is concerned, is nearing its end. But one more week remains after this at the Atlanta, while the Lyric regular season has already ended, and stock begins tonight. The Forsyth is still open with Keith vaudeville. This week the Atlanta is offering a sensational picture in six reels, "Smashing the Vice Trust," while two of the most important shows of the season follow next week in Otis Skinner in "Kismet" and "Damaged Goods." The end, therefore, will be highly interesting, and more worth while than any week of the season, with few exceptions.

Despite the fact that calamity howlers have ruled over the country, and this has been called the worst theatrical season in seventeen years, the Atlanta has fared unusually well. With a poor start, the season looked blue for a few weeks, but then good plays began coming in rapid succession, and kept up until the end of the season finds the playhouse announcing that all records for attendance in the city have been broken, even to that abnormal year, 1910, when the big exposition was held, and the Grand set a great record. The gross receipts have been more than doubled at the playhouse in the three years it has been open.

Manager Homer C. George is the happiest man in Atlanta over the result of the season. The judgment of Klaw & Erlanger in establishing the Atlanta has been thoroughly proven correct, and the business volume has grown to an extent that is little less than wonderful. The result is the eyes of the booking offices have been opened wide, and Atlanta is sure to receive more and better plays than ever before. This season a greater number of performances were given than in any other year, while the class of productions has been unusually high, the full season considered.

Already plans are being made for next season, and a number of the greater shows will be brought here for full weeks. This season four week engagements were played, and in each instance the receipts were far in excess of those drawn by the same companies in New Atlanta.

The Atlanta is not the only Atlanta theater to have a prosperous year. The Forsyth is still open, Keith vaudeville drawing record audiences to that ever popular playhouse, and the indications are that the house will remain open all through the summer. The house has been a big money-maker for Jake Wells ever since it was opened. Manager Cardoza is more than satisfied with his share of Atlanta's prosperity.

RELIGION IS VOLUNTARY, SAYS CARLYLE HAYNES

Church Losing Out by Trying to Compel People to Believe, He Asserts.

"The church is losing out. The power it once had with the people is forsaking it. This is the result of its turning its back on the power of the Spirit of God and reaching out for the power of the state to accomplish the work it has been given to do. It seeks new by human effort and human legislation to compel the people to believe what it teaches and come under its influence, or at least act as if they did believe. This, instead of making Christians, is making hypocrites," was the striking comment of Carlyle B. Haynes, of the American Religious Liberty association, at the closing session of the religious liberty institute last night at the first Seventh-day Adventist church on East Fair street, where for the past three days delegates have been present from the churches of this denomination from nearby places.

In closing the three-day institute which has been in session since last Friday morning the subjects of "The Weapons of the Church," "The Weapons of the State," "The Limits of the Church's Authority," "The Limits of the State's Authority," "The Derivation of the Power of the Church," and "The Derivation of the Power of the State" were presented. The church was filled to capacity during all of the five sessions of the institute yesterday.

On the subject of the limits of the church's authority, Mr. Haynes said: "Religion is voluntary and cannot and ought not to be forced. It is not within the province of the church to punish transgression or sin. It is not for the church to exercise judicial power in matters pertaining to man's relations to his fellows."

HE HAD YELLOW STREAK AND KILLED HIMSELF

Chicago, April 13.—Christ Wolf, a merchant, committed suicide tonight in his office after writing a long note bemoaning his lack of business daring.

"I have had a yellow streak all my life," he wrote. "Take my worthless body, have it cremated and scatter the ashes in the breeze."

Wolf had amassed a fortune of about $100,000.

Everybody's Doing It Now; Even Atlanta's Brave Cops Learn Tango for Big Picnic

The Atlanta police are planning a gala day for the 26th of May, when they will hold their annual picnic at Cedartown, Ga. Several unique and interesting features of the day's entertainment are being arranged by the committee, of which Officer Sam Arrowood is chairman.

Prizes of $10 each have been offered for the "cops" who can dance the tango best. The committee at first, due to their modesty, offered these prizes for the best waltz, but the mayor of Cedartown insisted that they be offered for the tango, which is more up-to-date. Atlanta "cops" will take lessons between now and the date of the picnic.

The picnic will be held on the beautiful grounds of Cedar Grove park, at Cedartown. Besides the prize tangos which will be held in the large dancing pavilion, where a string band of twenty-five pieces will furnish music throughout the day, boating, swimming and fishing in the large lake will be enjoyed.

The committee has chartered two trains of ten coaches each. It is expected that fully 5,000 tickets will be sold. Every policeman is expected to bring his sweetheart, his wife and his family, if he has one.

A match game of the national sport will be one of the entertainment features of the day. A picked team from the entire Atlanta police force will play a team of college stars, picked from ex-stars of college teams who are now living in Cedartown. Chief Beavers will pitch the first ball of the game, and the mayor of Cedartown will umpire strikes, and an Atlanta policeman will umpire bases.

The first section of the excursion train will leave Atlanta at 7:30 o'clock, and the second section at 8 o'clock. The trains will leave Cedartown in the evening at 6:30 o'clock and at 7 o'clock. Tickets will be sold for $1 for the round trip.

The committee is planning an extensive advertising of the picnic. Large signs are being made, which will be placed on the auto patrol machines, which daily go to every portion of the city. Signs will be placed in all of the downtown show windows and other public places.

It is rumored that a sub-rosa committee is secretly working to get Chief of Police James L. Beavers to relieve the policemen during the day from the restraints laid down in "Rule No. 9" of police rules and regulations, code city of Atlanta." Certain officers have declared that if these restraints are removed the signal success of the day is assured.

The proceeds will be used as a fund for a police relief association to benefit police who are injured while on duty.

Selections From Grand Opera Please Big Sunday Audience

If the excerpts played yesterday by Edwin A. Kraft, at the Auditorium organ recital are characteristic of "Der Rosenkavalier," some perturbation and bewilderment on the part of the audience, when it hear the new opera shortly, may be forgiven. Mr. Kraft chose the prelude and waltz. A portion of their startling effect may probably be attributed to the fact that the remainder of the program being made up of recognised classicists. Even with this taken into consideration, however, the two pieces made an extremely bizarre impression.

A note on the program quoted Richard Strauss as saying, "Hofmannsthal's text has a charming and decided rococo tone, and it was because my task to convey this atmosphere to the musical setting." So far as the rococo part is concerned, the composer certainly performed his task well. Few things more rococo than the preludes have been heard in these parts. As to its being charming, individual hearer will have to decide for himself. The waltz was charming. But on the other hand, was not rococo. It was smooth and gracefully proportioned, like all Strauss waltzes, and it fell on the ears without doubt with a touch of infinite calm, but it was not rococo. The prelude was rococo, excessively modern, and not necessarily charming. It contained no premonition of the waltz; in fact, you could see no more imagine a connection between the two than between a Cubist painting and a Corot. Perhaps that was why Mr. Kraft chose them to be played both with manifest interest. If he rinked no flights, the case was one where repression was pardonable.

The first number of the afternoon, the minuet and serenade from "Pagliacci," was perhaps the most effective of the program. The minuet, with its delicate certainty, and the serenade, with its mutation of tone and continuous harmony are peculiarly adapted to the pipe organ. Excellent effects were also secured from the Lohengrin selections. Mr. Kraft chose the introduction to the third act and the bridal chorus. The many opportunities which the latter gives for organ rendition were utilized properly.

The intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," which was the second number of the program, might have been rendered with a little more enthusiasm. Selections from the "Masked Ball" followed "Der Rosenkavalier," and from their position, were doubly satisfying. There was no number on the program, perhaps, which could have been rendered more gracefully and shortcomings of the Strauss opera. Beside the careless gayety and easy drama of Verdi, the charming and rococo tone of "Der Rosenkavalier" seemed blatant. On the other hand, the memory of that very blatancy made one suspect Verdi a bit, as one always does of playing strictly within his own genius, and not daring to seek beyond it.

The prelude and minuet from "Manon" was another selection with which Mr. Kraft scored heavily. Selections from "Il Trovatore" concluded the organ program. Mr. Kraft played Solon Drukenmiller received much applause. One was Madeline McCown;" the other "At Dawning." One was by Mary Corley Fields and the other by Charles W. Cadman. It was probably the first time the names of these particular composers ever appeared on the same program with such names as Leoncavallo, Mascagni, Wagner, Massenet and Verdi.

Mr. Kraft will continue his opera reviews throughout this week and next. More selections will be played in the following order, at 4 o'clock each night: Wednesday night, April 15, "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana." Thursday night, April 16, "Masked Ball" and "Il Trovatore." Thursday night, April 23, "Manon" and "Der Rosenkavalier."

AVOID THESE PITFALLS, URGES JUDGE BROYLES

Warns Young Men Against Liquor, Gambling, Debt, Extravagance and Idling.

Recorder Nash Broyles spoke last night at the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church to an appreciative audience that crowded the church to the doors.

Judge Broyles took as his subject, "Pitfalls on Life's Highway," and warned young men starting out in life against several dangers. He cited extravagance, debt, idleness, gambling, cigarette smoking and whisky drinking.

"A great percentage," said the speaker, "of the cases in my court are the result of some one of these evils. Some of the men whom I have put on probation have gone home and murdered their wives; their weakness was liquor. Nathaniel Pruitt, the barber who committed suicide on April 4, was conquered by whisky—he was placed on probation by my court only a short while ago."

AT THE THEATERS.

"Smashing the Vice Trust."

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the first performance of the wonderful photo drama, "Smashing the Vice Trust," will be given at the Atlanta. This picture depicts ten ways of trapping girls, and District Attorney Whitman's crusade and raids against the vice trust. It is vivid and intensely interesting, as well as spectacular. Over 700 views are shown, the performance running about two hours. The picture will be given each afternoon and each night at 8:30 o'clock during the week and all Atlanta is expected to visit the big playhouse and view it. Reformers find sermons in it and sensationalists find stirring action and altogether everyone is pleased by it.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Louis Simon, assisted by Flavia Arcaro and a company of fourteen musical comedy players, including Lillian Boardman and Fred Lyon, will present the headline act at the Forsyth this week in "The New Persian Garden," conceded to be about the funniest miniature musical comedy in variety. Another feature is to be Stuart Barnes, the most popular singing comedian ever introduced in Atlanta. He is a headliner in vaudeville and a star on every bill that has been fortunate in securing him. A dramatic sketch, "Your Flag and Mine," by Austin Webb and company, will be one of the treats of the bill. Mr. Webb is a starring actor. A comedy feature will be offered by Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry, who present "The Rube," a scream, about the visit of a country lad to a variety theater in New York. Allie White, a charming violinist, and Charles Keller's miniature circus will contribute to the merit of the bill.

"Dope."

(At the Grand.)

A wonderful photo-play will be the attraction at the Grand all the week, with daily matinees at 2 o'clock and evening exhibitions at 8:30 o'clock, at popular prices, 10 and 20 cents. The picture is not a far-fetched scheme built around the drug habit, but the sensational sketch produced with tremendous success in vaudeville by Herman Lieb and a selected company, and is called "Dope." Mr. Lieb who was a member of the Joseph Kilgore company at the Grand several years ago, is conceded to be among the foremost character actors of the time. He has been identified with some of the greatest Broadway successes and for three years has been playing the "Dope" in the Metropolitan vaudeville theaters. The sketch is too massive to take on the road, and here has not been cared on the circuit. For this reason Mr. Lieb and his company posed for the six reels that make up the photo-play.

"The Lily."

(At the Lyric.)

Local theatergoers are going to be given an opportunity this week to prove that they want a dramatic company this season. The spring and summer season at the Lyric opens tonight—there will be evening performances all the week at 8:15 and matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock, and there has been a fine advance reservation for nearly all the performances. In introducing the Lucille LaVerne company, General Director Jake Wells has drafted a success from Richmond and Norfolk, where the popularity of the company would insure the same success that has followed it for four seasons and the organization is here to test the wishes of local theatergoers. The players are all well known by reputation, and will be to the benefit of stage direction that is superb. The opening bill will be David Belasco's wonderful play, "The Lily."

Day Phone Main——— Night Phone West———

13 NORTH BROAD ST. ATLANTA, GA.

What think you?

A few nights ago, a boy twenty years old was shot by another, of twenty-one, in an Atlanta barber shop.

Drunk.

Thursday, at the bottom of the elevator shaft in the Steiner-Emery Building, a man was found dead. "His face was mashed in terribly." "A hole in the back of the neck as from a blow or a bullet." Near by was the whisky flask. Upstairs is a so-called locker club.

Another victim of our disregard for law and life, whether or not he found his liquor and death in the blind-tiger above?

And with these two victims should we not remember the other boy carried from the prize ring to die? His antagonist you will recall was also arrested in one of our bars.

Where are we going? Whither are you leading others? And what is the meaning of this—A dispatch sent The World, of New York, from Atlanta recently said—

"This city has actually shown a decrease in population in the past 18 months—to bring about normal conditions, which will tend to keep the City's population from showing further decreases, the Citizens' League has been formed."

In The Savannah Morning News, the Liberty League in a four full column advertisement used these headlines—

"Leading Atlantans join in war—Form league to enter politics—The Church shall not dominate the State. The richest and most influential men in Atlanta have so declared. Fanaticism, hysteria and sensationalism shall not run Atlanta. Let the preachers return to the pulpit and the Bible—Let politics alone. Will Savannah follow Atlanta, or let the Churches run the City of Savannah?"

Are these advertisements, published in other cities—Is the falsehood published in New York as to Atlanta's population—Are these Atlanta's messages to the world?

A Philadelphia paper has said—

"Certainly nothing that the Forward Movement could have said about Atlanta could have damaged its reputation half as much as the formation of this League."

Men sometimes make mistakes. Leaders in the civic and religious life of Jerusalem, blinded by the sins of greed and self, to get rid of Jesus, bought Judas Iscariot. Easter morning, they found they could not stop with bribing Judas. Graft and rottenness warring against the cross are progressive—They must buy others. Matthew tells it—

"They gave much money unto the soldiers saying, 'Say ye, His disciples came by night and stole Him away while we slept!' so they took the money and did as they were taught."

But the lie failed: for Christ came saying—

"All authority hath been given unto me—Go and make disciples—Lo, I am with you always."

As Dan Crawford phrases it, "Saith the liar, 'Say they stole Him away.' Saith the Truth, 'This will shame even the devil. Me? They could not steal Me away, for lo! I am with you in person to nail down the Resurrection lie—Yes! Nail it down with the Resurrection Truth of my real Presence with you.'"

Corruption ever fails. Christ is risen. To you, He says—

"AS THE FATHER HATH SENT ME, EVEN SO SEND I YOU—YOU ARE WITNESSES OF THESE THINGS—GO PROCLAIM THE GOOD NEWS—GO, MAKE DISCIPLES, TEACHING THEM TO OBSERVE ALL THINGS WHATSOEVER I COMMAND YOU."

Are you obeying?

The writer to the Hebrews speaks of those who "crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh and put Him to an open shame."

What do you do when you sell to others the privilege of breaking up homes, of causing the birth of degenerate children, and of making murderers of men? O Christian member of the respectable club that violates the law—What do you do when you pay your steward to commit a crime? Are you trying to teach men "to observe all things whatsoever?" Jesus commanded you, when you or your representatives directly or indirectly seek to cause jurors and public officials to perjure themselves, as you do if you connive at the breaking of the laws of your state in your club?

Yea, Christ is risen.

Have you not read and heard—

"What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us who is against us?—It is Christ Jesus that died, yea rather, that was raised from the dead, who is at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us.—

"In all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us."

Hear Him today saying—

"Lo, I am with you always even unto the end."

Edited By DICK JEMISON

JOHNSON AND TENER IGNORING FEDERALS

On Eve of Season's Opening the Leaders of Both Major Leagues Are Optimistic Over Prospects.

New York, April 12.—On the eve of the major league baseball season, executives and magnates of the American and National leagues look forward to six months of exciting pennant races and general prosperity.

Organized baseball, ignoring the invasion of its field by the newly-formed Federal group of owners and players, reiterates its faith in the loyalty of its followers and the standard of the game as played by its clubs.

Both President Ban Johnson, of the American league, and President John K. Tener, of the National league, outlining the prospects of their respective organizations for the 1914 season, express the belief that organized baseball will receive the unanimous moral support accorded it by devotees of the game in past years. In fact optimism, harmony and enthusiasm appear to be the words of the hour of the major leagues, as represented by their presidents a few hours before the initial contests of the new baseball year.

Johnson Optimistic.

President Johnson, as the spokesman for the junior association, states:

"The American league has enjoyed entertained the largest aggregate number of patrons in its history during the season of 1913, looks forward to another year of loyal support from the public—support earned by the constant efforts of its club owners to give patrons the best there is in America's national game. The confidence thus established by fourteen years of square dealing with the public is a tremendous asset in case any hostile organization becomes formidable, which we do not anticipate.

"I think the quality of baseball to be played this year will equal the best of that of the past. The Philadelphia Athletics naturally command the greatest respect, because of their pennant and world's series victories, but several other clubs must be considered possible contenders by those attempting to name the winner in advance.

"Washington and Boston are clubs of known strength. Chicago appears to have found a new man of exceptional value. Cleveland has not been seriously crippled by the Federal league invasion, but certainly the loss of Joe Leibold will interfere materially with its success in the early part of the season. Detroit has developed two or three players of splendid promise. Chance is hopeful of success, and has did showing this year and I am encouraged over the outlook for the New York club. St. Louis has one of the best pitching staffs in the league, and a little hitting strength behind this pitching staff will make the Browns dangerous against any club."

Tener Well Pleased.

President Tener, as representative of the National league, expressed similar sentiments as follows:

"At the very best, baseball predictions are no more than personal judgments. So many unforseen and uncertain elements enter into a baseball championship season that it is futile to estimate the relative playing strength of eight well-balanced clubs before their position at the end of the season.

"Generally speaking, I am well pleased over the outlook in the National league and for organized baseball everywhere for the season of 1914. I have not received a report from a single club owner that has struck a pessimistic tone.

"I think competition will be keen in our organization this season. With the probable exception of one club, I believe every team in the National league is stronger this year than in 1913, and, if I am not misled, the competition will naturally produce a good, even stirring fight, for the pennant.

"From my contact with the general public, I am led to believe that interest in baseball never was more spontaneous and its confidence never so strong. It is the enthusiastic interest and unquestioned confidence in organized baseball that leads me to state unhesitatingly that I expect a year of financial and artistic success for organized baseball in general."

Umpires Are Assigned.

National League umpires received their instructions for the season and were assigned for the opening games on Tuesday next at the league headquarters here today.

The playing rules, as amended this year, were discussed thoroughly with a view to getting uniform decisions on various points of play. It was decided to enforce the so-called "infield fly rule as interpreted by National league executives at the annual session past. The balk rule will be enforced, also as last season in those cases where pitchers, with men on bases, drop the ball, either by intent or accidentally, when in the act of delivering the ball to the batter or in throwing to first base. Umpires were instructed to enforce strictly the new rule preventing a coacher at third base from touching a base runner. A runner trying for or rounding that base, who, either through accident or otherwise, is in contact with the coacher, will be declared out.

The umpires reported in fine condition, most of them having spent several weeks of hard work in practice games. Emslie has been umpiring in the Brooklyn winter league games; Rigler has umpired the games of Western reserve, and Quigley has coached and umpired for Washington and Lee. Byron has worked the Philadelphia series and Quigley has fitted himself with exhibition games of the Topeka club. Will Hart has umpired the winter league games at Cincinnati, and Eason has officiated in the Southern league.

The pairing of the officials and their assignments for Tuesday's opening games are as follows: Klem and Hart at Brooklyn, Eason and Quigley at Philadelphia, and Orth and Byron at Cincinnati. Rigler and Emslie at St. Louis. Johnstone will act as substitute for the time being. Lincoln will be ready to assume a major league assignment at any time, though he will be attached to President O'Rourke's staff of the Eastern association.

PREP SCHOOL TITLE HANGS IN BALANCE

G. M. C. and Gordon Battle in Two-Game Series at Barnesville Today and Tuesday.

Barnesville, Ga., April 12.—(Special.) The prep school baseball title of the state of Georgia and of the south may hinge on the games to be played here Monday and Tuesday. At least the results will have a direct bearing on both titles.

Gordon Institute and Georgia Military college will meet here in a two-game series. The team will play two more games later in the season at Milledgeville.

These games promise to be hard fought. Both possess good teams with about the same number of new men on their roster and to dope a winner is a task.

The line-up and batting orders of the two teams are not announced, but Camp and Ellison will probably be the battery for G. M. C. with Maxey and Monahan working for the home boys. Gheesling will probably twirl Tuesday's game for G. M. C. and Slapper for Gordon.

Crackers Won Eleven Games During Exhibition Season; "Hack" Eibel Led Batters

By Dick Jemison.

The Crackers brought their exhibition season to a close Saturday with a close victory over the Rochester Internationals. True, they play a game this afternoon, but it is nothing but a conditioner and something for the players to try out their signals on.

Twenty exhibition games were played, the Crackers winning eleven, losing six and tying three. The Boston Braves were the only team to win a majority from the locals, five games were played with them, the locals winning one, losing two and tying two.

With Cleveland the Crackers won one, lost one and tied one; Newark won three, lost one and tied one; Louisville won one and lost one here. Rochester won one and lost one; the Yankees won the only game they played here, while the Argogas and Medicos were defeated.

Outhit Opponents.

In these games the Crackers outhit the opposition, but were outfielded. In the twenty games the locals hit for a .272 clip against .255 for the opposition, making 178 hits to 165 for the opposition and scoring 114 runs to 94 for the opposition.

The locals made 36 sacrifice hits and stole 24 bases in the 20 games, against 14 and 22 for the opposition. Local batters showed up best in the pinch, batting .333 for 55 times, against .311 for the opposition, and batting 77 times, against 57 for the opposition. In wild pitches, the pitchers and passed balls the Atlanta batteries were better than the opposition also.

Elliott Dent gets credit for the most number of victories by the pitchers during the exhibition season, winning four games and not losing a one.

Eibel figures in the real batting leader for the exhibition season with a percentage of .425 for the twenty games, compiled from 31 hits in 73 times at bat. George Kircher had a higher percentage, but was only in half the number of games.

Eibel's 31 hits were the most that any Cracker made during the training season. Flanagan's 21 being the next in line. Eibel and Welchonce were tied in run-getting, each having 16 tallies.

Hitting.

Here are the individual batting averages:

Players.	G.	AB.	R.	H.	P.C.
Kircher	18	73	16	31	.425
Eibel	20	78	16	31	.397
Reynolds	19	76	6	21	.276
Long	16	58	6	11	.189
Lynch	17	58	4	16	.302
Cunningham	7	23	3	6	.261
Flanagan	20	74	13	21	.284
Munch	19	71	11	18	.253
McConnell	19	65	13	17	.262
Dans	10	24	2	6	.250
Dent	20	74	7	9	.350
Welchonce	19	68	16	14	.241
Holland	7	22	1	4	.221
Kissinger	5	8	0	1	.200
Gilwing	9	24	0	6	.167
Efird	6	6	1	1	.167
Perryman	5	11	0	1	.091
Price	5	6	0	0	.000
Browning	5	5	0	0	.000
Doscher	5	5	0	0	.000

Figures Impressive.

These figures are impressive in showing the batting strength of the Crackers. But compared with the showing of a week previous, they are even more impressive.

A week ago Lynch, Flanagan, Welchonce and McConnell were batting in their true stride, but during the past week these have been picked up their batting eyes and are slamming the pellet to all corners of the field.

Welchonce raised his batting 90 points, McConnell 106, Lynch 84 and Flanagan 25. They will continue to hit, too, during the regular campaign.

It looks like the Crackers are going to have as strong a hitting club as they had last season, with better pitching. The fielding needs a little polishing, but the players have not been taking the chances that they will take in a regular game.

Georgia State League Opens Second Season on Thursday

The Georgia State league, considered by many to be the fastest Class D league in organized baseball, will open its second season on Thursday with eight baseball towns.

The opening games will be as follows:

Brunswick at Thomasville.
Cordele at Valdosta.
Waycross at Americus.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the league, and the league's attendance on the opening day of the season at Waycross won this trophy last season with a paid attendance of 2,726. Brunswick was second was 2,651.

This year all the cities are straining to land the trophy. The mayors are issuing half-holiday proclamations and the business men are working in unison with them.

The race promises to be an excellent one, with every club in the league stronger than last season to present indications. The season is expected to be successful from start to finish.

Here are the managers: Dave Gaston at Americus, Ellis Morse at Cordele, Swick, Rip Reagan at Cordele, M. C. Dudley at Thomasville, Bill Clark at Waycross and Joe Herrold at Valdosta.

SOUTH ATLANTIC CLUBS FAIRLY WELL BALANCED

Pitchers Generally Show Good Form, and Close Race Expected This Season.

Savannah, Ga., April 12.—The first week of play in the South Atlantic league season indicated, as a whole, that the teams are fairly well balanced in playing strength. No club showed decided superiority to any other team that it met, and league officials are of the opinion that the contest for the pennant will be close throughout.

Jacksonville with four games won and one lost, finished the week at the head of the percentage column. Savannah, Columbia and Macon tied for second place with four won and two lost. Albany was in third place, with two won and three lost, while Charleston and Augusta shared fourth place with two won and four lost. Albany was the last team with a lone victory out of five games played.

The Jacksonville club ended the week strong, winning all three games played with Macon on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. On the opening day of the season, Monday, the game from Albany, but was defeated the next day by the latter club. The third game scheduled between the two clubs was postponed on account of rain.

Savannah took two out of three from both Charleston and Augusta. Columbus did the same thing against Augusta and Albany, while Columbia took two games out of three from Augusta and two out of three from Charleston. Macon's lone victory came in the second game played with Columbus.

The pitchers generally showed good form.

GRANT PARK BASEBALL TEAM HOLDS BENEFIT

The Grant Park baseball team entertains in the race for the Park Department league pennant, will hold a benefit on Wednesday night, April 16.

The White City skating rink has been secured for the occasion for day and night. Tickets costing 25 cents each will be sold and all the proceeds will go to the team.

Tickets can be obtained at any of the soft drink stands in the Grant Park section.

EMORY BASEBALL.

Class Teams Resume Play Today—Juniors Lead.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., April 13. (Special.)—The Emory college class baseball games will be resumed Monday, with the seniors playing the sophomores and the juniors playing the freshmen.

The juniors are leading the league with a clean record, having won three games. The seniors are second.

CHATTANOOGA BUYS PITCHER FROM DETROIT

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 12.—(Special.)—Chattanooga has purchased Pitcher Mayer from the Detroit club, this being the only addition to the Lookouts since the beginning of the training season, and the only change save for the release of a few youngsters.

JOE TINKER CLAIMS FEDERAL LEAGUE RAG

Chicago National and American Leaders Are Not So Confident, However.

Chicago, April 12.—Reports from the managers of the three Chicago teams—Joe Tinker, of the Federal league leader, definitely claiming a pennant, Manager O'Day, of the National, and Manager Callahan, of the Americans, were conservative in their prophecies.

O'Day declared cold, wet weather which the Cubs met since they left the extreme south has seriously affected their general condition and had undone much of the good which their sojourn in Tampa had accomplished.

The Nationals' leader, however, figured his team would be first, second or third at the end of the season.

Injury to Larry Chappell, who was expected to be a star of the American league at a great help to the White Sox in their fight this year, is a damper on the hopes of Callahan. Chappell will be out of the game for some time, it is feared, and it is doubtful if the White Sox leaguers Fournier, who was hurt in a practice game, will be able to start. Catcher Daly, whose hitting helped Callahan, has been playing in the outfield, but 14 not considered a first-class performer. However, it seems likely that Callahan will be forced to play Daly or go in right and himself.

Tinker believes his pitchers will win the Federal flag for him, but does not underestimate the services he expects to get from the fast infield.

Baltimore, April 12.—The Federal league, with its numerous recruits from the ranks of the National and American leagues, will open here tomorrow a season that is offering hope will result in a vindication of its claim to rank as a third major league of baseball. Baltimore and Buffalo, which for many years have been represented only by teams in the International league, will play the first game in the contest for the championship of the new "big" league.

By act of the state legislature tomorrow will be a holiday here, and indications are that more than 20,000 persons will pass the portals of Terrapin park if the weather is favorable.

Mayor James H. Preston, of Baltimore, will put the ball in play, and Mayor Louis Emmerman, of Buffalo, is expected to be present, as also are Governor Goldsborough, of Maryland; President James A. Gilmore, of the Federal league; Charles Weeghman, owner of the Chicago club; Robert F. Ward, of the Brooklyn club; William Watkins, of the Indianapolis club, and other Federal league officials.

The Baltimore club will be handicapped by the absence from the game of Third Baseman Kirkpatrick, who broke his ankle yesterday. Walsh probably will take his place.

Crackers and Vols Ready; DENT v. MORE For "Play Ball" Signal

The Crackers and the Vols are ready for the opening gun of the season, which will be fired at Ponce de Leon tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, before the biggest crowd of fans that have ever crowded into the famous ball park.

The rival managers, Schwartz and Smith, will rely on veteran right-handers to open the opening game. Schwartz will twirl Cotton Dent, while Smith will send Eli Dent to the mound.

It is coincident that in the opening game in the two managers will send into action five regular left-hand hitters in the batting order.

The first the team in the Nashville batting order hit left-handed. The Crackers have distributed their left-handers a little more evenly.

Many New Faces.

There will be many new faces on the roster of both clubs, in comparison with the team that they showed when they played against each another last season.

Manager Schwartz, Dave Callahan, Bill Lindsay and Forest More are the members of the Vols who will appeared here last season in that uniform.

Otto Williams, formerly of New Orleans; Bert King, formerly of Chattanooga; Heinie Berger, formerly of Mobile, and Sloan, formerly of Montgomery, are old Southern leaguers with the Vols.

The Crackers will present Elliott Dent and Gil Price, pitchers; Joe Dunn, catcher, and Tommy Long and Harry Welchonce, outfielders, of the old team. Rube Kissinger, formerly of Memphis, is the only old Southern leaguer on the club.

The rest of the Crackers are new blood, either from fast minor leagues or from the big tent via the optional agreement route.

Comparison.

A comparison of the teams will show that the Vols will have the edge on the locals in fielding, while the Crackers will have a big margin in batting and pitching, according to present indications.

But the battles are sure to be hard fought, regardless of what kind of a team the visitors have, they are always the hardest club in the league for the Crackers to lick.

Here is the batting order of the two teams:

NASHVILLE.	ATLANTA.
King, lf	McConnell, 2b.
Hemingway, 2b	Cunningham, rf.
Callahan cf	Welchonce cf.
Williams, 1b	Long, lf.
Schwartz, c	Eibel, 1b.
Lindsey, ss	Flanagan, ss.
Smith, c	Lynch, 3b.

Record Breaking Crowd Must Attend Opening On Tuesday

WANTED 15,000

mind as to which is the best baseball city.

Chamber Gets Busy.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has been a factor in the opening day this year. They jumped right in behind the local club, the minute they heard of Birmingham's deft and the Birmingham chamber's support.

The local chamber of commerce has 1,500 members. Every one of them will receive the following postal card today. The majority of them will heed the request made and join in the general boosting of the season's opening.

"Keep Atlanta Always Ahead—Last year we won the Southern league baseball pennant and the record for attendance. The first game on the 1914 season will be played Tuesday, April 14, Atlanta v. Nashville, game called at 3:15 o'clock. You are urged to be on hand. Employers are urged to close their business and let their employees attend the game. Let's push things as we push with a record-breaking attendance and show our hearty support of baseball. Let's arrange your business to close up, go out and root for Atlanta. (Signed) Mell R. Wilkinson, President; H. J. Leahy, Industrial Secretary, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce."

The chamber of commerce heads announced last night that they had received from practically every one of their members and from those that did not promise to close entirely on the afternoon promised to allow as many of their clerks to attend as possible.

Mayor's Proclamation.

Mayor James G. Woodward will today issue his proclamation declaring Tuesday, April 14, a half holiday legally, on account of the opening of the baseball season.

He has already advised the city government that they can go and let all their clerks go and that he will be on hand. Nothing remains but the official proclamation to come later date to make the closing official throughout the city.

Mayor Woodward has signed with Manager Bill Smith to twirl the opening ball over the plate.

The mayor will officiate in the raising of the pennant some later date in the season to be announced later.

Ad Men Working.

Those hustlers, the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, got right into the big movement to land the opening day attendance record. They are all full of vim with which they take up anything.

First they appointed the following committee to work with Manager Smith and see all the members of the club: Julian Harris, chairman; J. C. Bankard, Cake Davis, Fred Hoyt and George H. Pause. This committee got busy and appointed every ad man a committee of one to get behind the merchants of the city.

With the slogan "Every Ad Man a Booster" and the chamber of commerce behind the interests of Atlanta's opening day proposition it was at once assured.

Parade Tuesday.

The ad men are planning a monster street parade Tuesday afternoon. They have already secured every machine the Ad Men's club that owns an automobile to get busy and borrow or steal one to meet them at Johnson's drug store on Peachtree at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

For those who do not own automobiles, Chairman J. C. Bankard has secured from various sources seven big automobile trucks, each carrying capacity of 50 to 75 persons each.

First come first served for these trucks. All you have to do is get into the parade and ride to the ball park, arriving in time for joining them at the time and place specified.

Perry Schleninger's "High Fly" confection, which is a delightful and tasteful confection, will be thrown around the parade route. Two ad men have purchased several thousand of these confections and the streets will be covered with them during the parade.

The ad men are having banners and placards prepared to be hung during the parade on the trucks, autos and in the hands of those yelling fanatics. There will also be banners stretched across the streets down town advising and keeping fans posted on the order of the big day.

These banners will be stretched across Peachtree and Whitehall streets today and remain up until after the opening.

Merchants Closing.

The merchants of the city have lined up with the other organizations and are promising to close for the afternoon. Partial lists of those who will close up for the afternoon have been printed several times.

It is practically impossible to get a complete list of those who will close during the afternoon. Some one might be done an injustice by having his name left out. Therefore, The Constitution thinks it wise not to mention any of them.

But the ones who will not close will be in the minority. It would be safe to say that every merchant in the immediate business section of the city bounded by Mitchell street to the Candler building, Forsyth street, and Washington street to Madison avenue, east and west, will close up.

Cards in the stores windows announcing that they will close for the afternoon Tuesday will appear today. Banners will be streamed across Whitehall and Peachtree streets. In every conceivable way, Atlanta fans will be reminded of the ball game.

The ticket sale down town has been a big one. Tumlin's stores have been flushed with the sale. To facilitate the quick handling of the immense crowd at the park, an extra box office has been built under the shed on the amusement park side.

Extra turnstiles will be put in.

splendid street car service is promised. It's going to be a gala day.

In closing, remember, Atlanta must win the opening day attendance trophy. Every one must pull together. No half-hearted work can win.

So close your shops and let's go to the game. "I'll be there, will you?" Ask that of your friends.

Fine Uses Pruning Hook.

Memphis, Tenn., April 12.—(Special.)—Mike Finn, manager of the Memphis team, spent the day in the garden today and when he had finished weeding out there were twenty Turtles left in camp.

The players now here are: Pitchers, Liebhardt, Smith, Howard Merritt, George Merritt, Johnson, Kimball, Goulait, Sage, Steele and Harrell; catchers, Schiel and Bemis; Duncakel, first base; Captain Mahoney, second; Shanley, shortstop; Stark and McDermott, third case; Duggan, left field; Love, center field; Coyle, right field. White Defeats Covey.

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., April 12.—John White, professional of the New York Tennis club, today defeated, easily, Colonel George F. Covey, of England, exchampion of the world, in three straight sets at court tennis here today.

White defeated Covey last week, three sets to two. The handicap in today's match was the same, White giving half fifteen and conceding an ace in each alternate game.

Covey made his last appearance in America today. He will sail Saturday for England.

McGoorty Downs Smith.

Sydney, Australia, April 13.—Eddie McGoorty, the American fighter, today knocked out Dave Smith, of Australia, in the tenth round of a fight with Smith. Smith, in the first eight rounds, had the advantage. The fight took place at the stadium. Last January McGoorty knocked out Smith in the first round.

MERCER BAPTISTS TACKLE JACKETS

Old Rivals Meet at Grant Field Today and Tuesday in Hot Series of Baseball Games.

The Tech Yellow Jackets will meet the first of their old-time rivals Monday and Tuesday, when the Mercer Baptists meet them at Grant field.

These two games will not only have a direct bearing on the college baseball title of the state of Georgia, but will figure in the result of the southern title as well.

GREATEST DOG RACE STARTS THIS MORNING

Nome, Alaska, April 12.—The world's greatest dog race, the all-Alaska sweepstakes, will start at 9 o'clock a. m. tomorrow, when four drivers, with dog teams, set out on the snow trail over the course from Nome to Candle and return, a distance of 413 miles. For 75 hours previous, with brief stops for rest and food at reporting stations, dogs and drivers will press on. Snow storms of the last few days has hardened the snow and conditions are ideal for fast time.

Drivers are not limited as to the number of dogs in their teams, but every dog taken out must be brought back, either in harness or riding on the sleds.

Interest in the race, which is for a purse of $3,000 and a trophy cup, is intense in Nome and surrounding camps. Progress of the contest will be telephoned in from stations along the route.

The entries in this year's race are the Allan-Darling team, owned jointly by A. A. (Scotty) Allan, of Nome, and Mrs. C. D. Darling, of Berkeley, Cal., and driven by Allan; the Johnson team, owned and driven by John Johnson; the Ayer team, owned and driven by Fred Ayer, and the Sephala team, owned and driven by Leonard Sephala, all of Nome.

The record time for the course is 74 hours 14 minutes and 20 seconds, made in 1910, by John Johnson driving his team of Siberian wolves. Allan has driven the Darling Malamutes to victory twice, winning in 1911 and 1912. Ayer has not competed in previous sweepstakes races, but won the 74-mile Soloman derby last month. Sephala is an unknown factor. Fay Delsene, who won last year's race in 15 hours and 18 minutes, is not competing. Allan and Ayer are favorites at even betting. Odds of 2 to 1 are offered against Johnson, and 4 to 1 against Sephala.

ITALY IS PREPARING FOR GENERAL STRIKE

Rome, April 12.—In addition to the army, the whole fleet will be employed to facilitate communications and maintain order, if a general strike is started by railway employees Wednesday. The government hopes either to check the strike or minimize its effects. The government appears to be supported by public opinion.

Various organizations of civil service employees have planned at many points to erect barricades, and are ready to take possession of various offices. They believe they have some of the troops on their side. Meanwhile all army officers are under orders to join their regiments. Detachments have been concentrated at places considered most dangerous, especially in Milan and in Rome.

The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway announces that effective April 14, dining car service will be inaugurated on Western & Atlantic Railroad trains Nos. 92, 93, 1 and 2. This provides dining car service on all through day trains of the Western & Atlantic Railroad.

CHRIST IS EVERYWHERE, SAYS DR. JOHN WHITE

Addresses Congregation That Completely Filled the Alamo Theater.

"Where Is Jesus Christ? I'll tell you. He is here, there—everywhere. Christ isn't localized. He's a supreme vital being that is everywhere. What Atlanta needs—most of all—is the consciousness of His presence."

This was the lesson impressed in an interesting sermon delivered at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Dr. John E. White, in the Alamo theater, No. 2, under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's union. The theater was taxed to its capacity to accommodate the congregation.

Dr. White reviewed the crucifixion of Christ. His burial and the ascension. He dwelt upon the havoc that would have been wrought upon the world had Christ remained in the grave and reverted to dust, and told of the inconceivable benefit His ascension had meant to the universe.

During his sermon, the minister related an incident which he said occurred recently in an exclusive club, at which a number of men and women, who were entertaining a visitor, amused themselves by telling risque stories.

At the conclusion of the stories, the guest of honor was called upon for a similar story.

"Friends, I must decline," he responded. "My conscience forbids—and so does my early training. I was bred in a religious home, and my good old Quaker mother trained me differently. I don't know any risque yarns, and I wouldn't tell them if I did. For this reason: My mother always taught me that God was listening to whatever I said, anywhere, any time."

"And," spoke Dr. White, "this incident—as countless others—impresses the need of consciousness among us all of the fact that God is present everywhere."

Rome, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Rome commandery of Knights Templar has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: A. S. Harvey, eminent commander; J. B. Sullivan, generalissimo; B. M. C. Harrington, sword bearer; P. I. Morris, warder; J. P. McFarrin, Ray Stewart and H. L. Sudduth, guards; W. A. Thomason, electrician; J. C. Brown, sentinel; Glover McGhee, organist; B. F. Clark, recorder emeritus.

"Fifth Sunday" Meetings Popular With Farmers

Americus, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—The "fifth Sunday" series of meetings conducted quite recently by Dr. T. D. Ellis, presiding elder of the Americus district, South Georgia conference, while entirely experimental, proved successful even beyond the expectations of Dr. Ellis, who has since been the recipient of congratulations from his friends of all denominations throughout south Georgia, and the experiment will become a fixed and popular institution.

Dr. Ellis selected four points in the confines of his district, those accessible more largely to the rural members of that denomination, and services were held at each of those churches on the fifth Sunday, with other interesting features making up the program for the Saturday preceding.

Lectures on Farming.

Upon that date—Saturday—Dr. Ellis had arranged to have capable and entertaining speakers to deliver talks upon farm topics, cattle raising and kindred subjects, and a dozen speakers took the farmers into the fields of cotton and more corn per acre, and how best to raise live stock. The farmers' wives and the home on the farm were not overlooked, and many topics interesting to the ladies were discussed by the speakers—many of them college professors.

Did the farmers appreciate the efforts thus put forth in their interest and for their instruction? The presence of hundreds of country people at each of the four meetings gave abundant testimony that they did. The scenes resembled an old-time camp meeting, many farmers coming in their automobiles or buggies a distance of fifteen to twenty miles to hear Dr. Ellis' preaching.

One of the most largely-attended meetings was that at Sumter church, near Americus. Fully 700 people, it was estimated, were present. Among the speakers was Professor Crabbe, of the State university, who took for his topic "The soils, how best to preserve them; to fertilise them to the end of securing the best results."

Following Professor Crabbe, Rev. W. C. Glenn delivered an address upon the home—the rural home as the bulwark of Georgia's boundless prosperity. Other speakers followed with brief addresses upon agricultural topics. At the noon hour huge baskets were brought forth and a sumptuous dinner served the hundreds of interested visitors. The outdoor occasion was more enjoyed, or productive of more substantial benefit.

Sermons on Sunday.

On the day following, the "fifth Sunday," the exercises were entirely devotional. The farm lecturers had departed, and to a house filled to its capacity, Dr. A. J. Thomas, pastor of the Americus Methodist church, delivered a brilliant sermon touching upon the religious ideals of the rural home and the importance of upholding the home life and church life in the country districts. After the sermon a great basket dinner was served the crowd—even larger than that attending on the preceding day.

The same program as given at Sumter was carried out at the four other churches, and with equal interest and equal good. So pleased is Dr. Ellis at the success of this innovation that similar meetings are being planned for other points in the Americus district during the summer months.

Great Crowd Expected Today At Oglethorpe Park Auction

Special street cars and ten automobiles will be furnished by the Edwin P. Ansley Realty company this afternoon for the purpose of carrying the large crowds which will go out to Oglethorpe Park to attend the auction of wide areas of beautiful country home sites, which will be sold to the highest bidders.

Ten automobiles will leave the Forsyth building at 2 o'clock and several special electric cars will leave the corner of Walton and Broad streets at 2:10 o'clock to carry out those who will not be able to secure automobiles.

Every salesman of the Ansley Realty company force, which consists of specially trained real estate dealers, will be on hand to furnish information and help conduct the proceedings of the auction sale.

Oglethorpe Park is situated on Peachtree road, and near the site of the proposed Oglethorpe university. It adjoins the Brookhaven Country club's valuable property. It is situated in one of the most beautiful and picturesque rural sites in the entire state, and has the great advantage of lying within a few minutes' trolley car ride of the heart of the city.

PLAN CUT IN SALARIES AT OAKLAND CEMETERY

Mayor Woodward Intimates Too Much Money Is Being Spent There.

Mayor Woodward's policy of economy in the matter of salaries of city officials may next deal a hard blow to the payrolls of the cemetery commission. The mayor has thrown out the hint that too much money is being paid employees of Oakland cemetery, and members of the cemetery commission say that the mayor proposes to cut the salary of J. N. Porter, general manager, from $1,800 per annum to $1,200.

The commission assembled in the office of Mayor Woodward last Thursday, but because of the press of engagements the mayor was unable to take the matter up with the members. He also declines to discuss what plans he will outline to the commission when it meets.

Members take the position that the mayor should not practice economy in the cemetery department for the reason that the finance committee in January provided but a meager $5,000 for all purposes, when, as a matter of fact, that amount is not sufficient to carrying on the gardening work.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ENTER GREAT CONTEST

ing to use it. The Constitution is presenting to the people of Georgia and contiguous territory a generous plan whereby the distribution is effected of over twenty-five thousand dollars in awards of special high merit and many small cash gifts.

Much inquiry during the past few days warrants the belief that considerable interest has been aroused, both locally and throughout the surrounding territory, concerning the voting contest or campaign outlined in this paper presented. A few locations have brought forward candidates, but as yet little action has been taken.

Nominate Yourself Today.

Nominations for this voting contest are now in order. Any woman in the state of Georgia or contiguous territory desiring to register for a share of the costly awards may do so by simply sending in her name to the Contest Department of The Constitution. Immediate response will come to the entrant's name by mail. Or, where possible, a representative of the Contest Department will call and personally give first-hand information upon all matters pertaining to the contest. To send in your nomination is the first step in the right direction. Then, with the information which is gladly furnished, you have matters directly within your own hands. The opportunities within easy reach of industry during this contest are more than good, they are excellent. Think of receiving a Six-60 seven-passenger Oakland touring car as a reward for your diligence and attention to the simple matter of gathering votes for yourself, among your friends, during a very short campaign.

You Have Your Choice.

You may choose a Six-60, seven-passenger Oakland touring car, fully equipped with every convenience of mechanical arrangement that the Oakland Motor Car company, with its millions of capital, have been able to invent and apply. Nothing has been left undone to make this model a standard of excellence both as to usefulness and beauty. You may well be pleased to become the possessor of one of these automobiles at the close of this contest. If you are first in number of votes in your division, an Oakland Six-60 is yours for the taking.

If you should fail to secure the largest number of votes in your division, but should find that you had the second largest number, then a Four-35, five-passenger Velie touring car, valued at $1,560 f.o.b. Atlanta, will be yours.

If, perhaps, so large a car as either of the above named is a little more than you care to possess, then there are nine thirty-five horsepower, five-passenger Overland touring cars, Model 79-T, fully equipped, to choose from. These are conceded to be the standard of cars in this class. While not quite so costly as the larger machines, for service and comfort, the Overland Model 79-T is up to the minute. Equipment is especially full with this car, and for beauty of line and action the Overland is not bettered by any car on the market with the same power. One of these dandy automobiles is yours if you but gain the first place in number of votes in your own district; and you only have to compete with those in your own district for it.

The second prize in each of the nine districts is a $750 Ludden & Bates self-player piano, which is the regular Ludden & Bates cabinet grand upright piano, into which has been built the most perfect player mechanism. The player is, therefore, two instruments in one—a piano for the musician or a self-player for those who have never studied music. A handsome bench and scarf and fifteen rolls of music are included with each player.

Cash Prize Sure.

Any energetic contestant who enters this contest and sends The Constitution $100 or more of new subscriptions and fails to win one of the listed prizes, will be paid a cash prize at the rate of $10 for each $100 of new subscriptions turned in, to be sent to the contestant after the announcement of the results of the contest.

All prizes are free, and they await those whose ambition prompts effort. Clip out the nomination coupon which can always be found on editorial page of The Daily and Sunday Constitution. Write your name upon it and send it to The Constitution. This will entitle you to five thousand votes, and you will find that the votes will come in rapidly thereafter by a little effort on your part. You need not be a subscriber to The Constitution to enter the contest or to make a nomination. Simply fill in the nomination ballot appearing on the editorial page and send it to this office.

Every energetic candidate who enters this contest will receive an award as outlined above.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS IN CENTRAL SERVICE

Reported That 2,000 New Fireproof Freight Cars Will Be Secured.

Reports to the effect that the Illinois Central has extensive plans for improving the freight and passenger service of the Central of Georgia railroad were confirmed by messages from Chicago yesterday.

The information comes to Atlanta that the Illinois Central has placed an order for 5,000 steel fireproof freight cars for use on the Illinois Central, Yazoo and Mississippi Valley and the Central of Georgia lines. Of the total output of the shops, 2,000 cars will be shipped to Atlanta for distribution over the Central lines.

Colonel D. W. Appler, division freight agent of the Central of Georgia, stated Sunday that he knew that the Illinois Central had placed a big order for additional freight cars, but he had not known that any of the cars would be shipped to this division.

"Freight movement is brisk all over the line," Colonel Appler said, "but I don't know of anything just now to necessitate putting in the service on the Central of many additional cars. However, it may be that the Illinois Central has increased the force of the shipment of fruit, particularly resultant good. So pleased is Dr. Ellis at the success of this innovation that similar meetings are being planned for other points in the Americus district during the summer months.

Colonel Appler stated that the news was very gratifying.

Just what the Illinois Central will contribute to the Central in the way of passenger equipment is not stated in the dispatches.

DOCTOR AND WOMAN ACCUSED OF MURDER

Pittsburg, April 12.—Dr. C. C. Meredith, a Pittsburg physician, and Miss Lucy D. Orr, a nurse in his employ, arrested a few days ago on an alleged charge of malpractice in connection with the death of Mrs. Myrtle Allison, a year ago, and released on bail, were rearrested today, charged with the woman's murder. The action followed the exhuming yesterday of the body of a woman buried a year ago under the name of Daisy Davis, but which was identified as that of Mrs. Allison by Dr. L. Harper, the brother of Mrs. Allison is alleged to have been taken to Dr. Meredith's sanitarium at Bellevue, known as the "House of Mystery," after an illegal operation. Records of the local medical department show that a certificate was issued to the sanitarium for the burial of Daisy Davis.

FREE COOKING LESSON BY MRS. S. R. DULL TODAY

Atlanta women desiring to become more adept in the culinary art will be given the opportunity to attend free of charge this afternoon at 3 o'clock the first of a series of cooking lessons to be given by Mrs. S. R. Dull, at 527 Peachtree street. The series will include ten demonstrations, to be held at the same time and place every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday. Those who wish to continue the entire course will be asked to contribute $1 to the Business Men's loan fund.

Mrs. Dull's success as a cooking teacher is well-known and she has taken pains to select attractive menus for these demonstrations. The bill on Monday afternoon will include short cake, tea cakes and cheese balls.

Easter Services.

There were six Easter services at the First Congregational church, colored, yesterday, beginning at 6 o'clock in the morning and going on until 10 o'clock at night. In his Easter sermon at 11 o'clock Dr. H. H. Proctor spoke of the growing light of the Easter revelation, holding that the threefold fact that Jesus was alive, present and regnant constituted the heart of the Eastern message. Professor William Pickens gave a remarkable address in the afternoon on his observations abroad. After all, he said, America is the best country in which the black man can stand. Our civilization is new, and we have an opportunity to have a part in its real shaping. At night the large auditorium of the church was crowded to hear the annual Easter concert by the Sunday school in charge of Eugene Martin, jr., superintendent.

BIG MAJORITY SHOWN AGAINST FREE TOLLS

Washington, April 12.—First returns from a poll Senator Gore is making of delegates to the democratic national convention at Baltimore on the canal tolls issue were announced tonight by the democratic national committee. They showed 332 for repealing the clause of the toll exemption act, 49 against repeal and 11 non-committal.

Debate on the repeal has centered largely in declaration of the Baltimore platform for free tolls and two weeks ago Senator Gore addressed personal letters to each of the thousand odd delegates to the convention asking for their position on this issue.

"Up to date the returns are alike astounding to the champions and opponents of the repeal," said the announcement tonight. "Only two states have given a majority against the repeal. A number of them, so far as the votes have been received, have declared unanimously in favor of the repeal—notably Texas and Pennsylvania. In Illinois the vote to date is 24 to 2 for repeal.

AUTO STRIKES A COW AND MAURY IS KILLED

Galveston, Texas, April 12.—Richard G. Maury, district attorney of Harris county and who has been active in prosecution of recent anti-trust suits as special assistant to the state attorney general, was killed when the automobile he was driving here today struck a cow and was wrecked. Mr. Maury was 36 years old.

FOUR PINNED BENEATH OVERTURNED MACHINE

With a Dislocated Shoulder, John Touchstone Frees Parents and Sister.

Jonesboro, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—The automobile of J. D. Touchstone, of Zetella, in some way became unmanageable this morning, tried to climb an embankment about five miles north of Jonesboro on the main highway and turned over, pinning Mr. Touchstone, his wife, son and daughter beneath the car. His son, John Touchstone, although his shoulder was dislocated, managed to get himself and the others from beneath the car, after which another automobile passing brought him to Jonesboro. He was carried to the Jonesboro hotel, where Mr. W. T. Dodd set the dislocation, and he is now rapidly improving.

Mr. Touchstone, wife and daughter left on the 1 o'clock Central train for their home.

While the car was badly damaged it was brought into town by its own power.

WORKED WONDERS SPITE OF UNBELIEF
"At First I Had No Faith," Says Mother, "But Soon There Was Such a Change."
Ontario, Va.—Mrs. M. L. Anderson, of this town, gives out the following for publication: "I went to Richmond seeking relief, and tried almost everything in the medicine line, but nothing proved a cure until I tried Cardui, the woman's tonic. I had indigestion very bad, and a complication of diseases.
Although, at first, I had no faith in it, I bought a bottle of Cardui, but soon, there was such a change. I was certainly benefited. I felt so different! Then I began to take the medicine in earnest. Now, I can do my work, and I eat and sleep like a young person.
Cardui also cured my daughter of womanly troubles. I keep Cardui in the house all the time. It is a great blessing to all women who need it."
Thousands of ladies have written like Mrs. Anderson, telling of the wonders worked by Cardui in the relief of various forms of weakness and distress, after other remedies had failed to help.
Isn't it likely that you will be helped by Cardui, this remedy which has been in constant successful use for more than half a century? Its record of years of success, in relieving troubles such as your own, is proof that it will help you, too.
Try Cardui.

Farms and Farmers

Address all letters intended for this Department to Col. R. J. Redding, Editor of Farms and Farmers Department, Griffin, Georgia

Farm Demonstration Work.

It is exceedingly gratifying to note the fact that the authorities in charge of the department of agriculture at Washington and of the several state colleges of agriculture are becoming convinced of the necessity for more practical work in promoting the cause of agriculture than has been done for a quarter of a century in the past in the various state departments, colleges, lecture rooms and laboratories, including also the experiment stations of the several states. Twenty-five years ago it was thought that a great advance had been made when the so-called Hatch act was passed providing for the organization of an experiment station in each state, and appropriating $15,000 from the United States treasury for the support of these institutions. And it was a great advance, a very important needed innovation. There were many problems of the farm that were pressing for solution. That the work of these stations has been effective—in great degree—goes without saying; but it was soon found that the practical farmers of the country—at least in the south—were not availing themselves of these researches and demonstrations of the stations, although many thousands of copies of bulletins filled with more or less practical information, illustrations and exhortation, were sent out to the farmers of the country. A small percentage of the most accustomed to reading and to learning from books were availing themselves of the teachings of these bulletins and reports. But the large mass of farmers it benefited at all received the benefit in an indirect way, rather at second hand. There are many thousands of farmers, possessed of good, hard common sense, who are not habitual students of books, agricultural journals and bulletins. They are not classed as "uneducated," for they can "read, write and cipher"—which brings them into the class of literates. But they had not acquired the reading habit, they did not possess libraries of books on agriculture. So many of hard labor, either by person or as superintendents and employers of unskilled labor, left little time for reading and study after 12 to 15 hours per day devoted to the practical duties of farm operations.

But even the more intelligent, those more accustomed to reading and having more leisure, were slow to accept the teachings of bulletins and printed page and to yield to the exhortations delivered at long distance.

Personal exhortations, face-to-face teaching and actual field demonstrations were needed. Show me, said the farmer, that is see it done on the farm. It was too far and too expensive to go to the experiment station to see and to be shown.

And, by the way, it is not so much what has been found out in the last twenty-five years that needs to be disseminated among farmers and adopted by them at once, as of what was well known and practiced even much longer ago than twenty-five years. It is not too much to say that if the farmers generally had been possessed of the information and skill of the few at the beginning of that period, and had persistently applied the same to practice, we would now be making two or three times as much per acre. We would now have our barns and smokehouses filled with plenty; there would be highbred cattle on a thousand hills, better and cheaper dairies in every county, home-raised horses and mules on every farm. Is that an extravagant statement? I think not.

In my annual report as director of the Georgia station, in 1909, I made the following suggestions:

I desire again to express the conviction that the farmers of Georgia, and of the south generally, stand very much in need of that kind of instruction and encouragement which can be made effective only by fact-to-face and voice-to-voice contact. There should be more demonstrative work done. The bread of agricultural life should be carried into every district, and, if possible, into every county in the state, and broken to the needy and hungry in their homes—to the many thousands of farmers, even among those who normally can read and write, if not clother, to whom a bulletin—even written in the most simplest possible style—is 'all Greek,' for the simple reason that they do not read or study."

The above extract prefaced an appeal for the establishment of farmers' institutes, but is equally applicable to the present condition. Farmers' institutes have had their day and are still doing a good work. But it has been found that something more is needed than instruction and exhortation. And that something is Demonstration.

"Seeing is believing," is an old worn proverb. When a man sees two bales of cotton grown on one hundred fifty bushels of corn, or one hundred bushels of oats growing on one acre, there is no getting around the fact. He is obliged to believe it. When a farmer sees a half dozen highbred cows giving from one and a half to two gallons of milk each, at a milking, he cannot dispute the evidence of his own eyes. And so with all the crops and processes on a farm and not on a farm "away off yonder," but on his neighbor's farm or his own, one that he knows all about.

There ought to be a demonstration farm—at least one—in every county in every state of the south. So mote it be!

BURNS EXPECTED TO RETURN SOON

Generally Believed That He Left Atlanta to Investigate Cincinnati Angle to Leo Frank Case.

The destination of Detective William J. Burns, who left Saturday afternoon at 5:10 o'clock over the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is being kept a secret by Burns attaches in Atlanta.

Although it was rumored that the detective was en route to Cincinnati, where he goes to interview Dewey Horwell, Burns officials in Atlanta would neither deny nor verify the report Sunday afternoon. They remained reticent regarding their chief's journey.

It is said, however, that he will return soon, probably tomorrow.

SLADE SHOT TO DEATH BY OFFICER MATTHEWS

Cordele, Ga., April 13.—News has just been received here that Thomas J. Slade, Jr., formerly deputy sheriff of Crisp county and connected with one of the prominent families of the county, was shot and killed by Policeman Matthews, at Oakfield, a small town about sixteen miles south of this city, in the northern part of Worth county, today at 4 o'clock. It has not been learned what was the cause of the trouble and Oakfield cannot be reached tonight by telephone. Slade is survived by a mother and two brothers.

ROW IS EXPECTED OVER R. G. CARTER

City Electrician Turner Is Determined That He Shall Stand Second Examination.

There is likely to be a row when the city board of electrical control meets today to probe the complaint of R. G. Carter, an electrical contractor, against City Electrician R. C. Turner. Carter charges that despite the approval of the board and despite the fact that he has been granted a license by the city clerk's department, the city electrician refused to approve his work, and is threatening to make a case against him.

Frank Reynolds, chairman of the board, will not discuss the Carter case, but he has called the board together for 3 o'clock today, and says that he says the matter will be thoroughly sifted.

"I don't care what Carter or anyone else says, he will have to stand another examination," Turner explained today. "The city code requires that Carter stand another examination, and I propose to see that the law is carried out."

Turner denies that he is antagonizing Carter.

"Carter says that he stood one examination and was successful. That may be true, but the fact remains that he left Atlanta and was absent from the city for a long period. During that time there have been many changes in the electrical code. Also we have no assurance that during the time Carter was absent from the city he was still engaged in the electrical business. My sole reason for insisting that Carter stand another examination is to be assured that the public will be protected."

According to Carter's statement, Turner is opposing him because of his activity in organizing the electricians' union some years ago. He asserts that as the result of the organization of the union the contractors were forced to increase wages, and that the fight now on between himself and the city electrician has been brought about by the influence of the contractors.

Accident on Central.

Cedartown, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) A serious accident happened to the engine that was pulling the Central of Georgia passenger train from Griffin to Cedartown, two miles below Carrollton, Friday night. The main rod of the engine broke and tore up the track and ties, and the engine came near being overturned. The negro fireman jumped, but was uninjured. Engineer O. Y. Ross stuck to his post and applied the emergency brakes, and was not hurt. The train was due here at 10 o'clock, but passengers did not reach the city until about 11 o'clock.

Excellent Crop Prospects Improve Trade Sentiment

There Are Disappointing Features to Outlook, However, Says Bradstreet.

Bradstreet's report says:

Excellent early crop prospects, which buoy sentiment, sharply contrast with disappointing trade distribution, irregularity in industry and cautious buying for future account. However, Easter requirements have made for a larger turnover in retail lines, almost wholly in wearing apparel, though hardware, implements and seeds are also active, but because of cool weather over wide areas, results are by no means uniform. In the more important centers business has been relatively better, and in those zones that cater to the country districts, where lower temperatures added to spring farm work, have been most detrimental to final distribution. At the same time the cold snap has militated against reorders, thus affecting the jobbing trade.

Crop Prospects Good.

While crop prospects, as well as indications of heavy planting this spring, are such as to superinduce optimists as to the future, it is noteworthy that buying continues on the basis of immediate wants. In fact, the situation would seem to suggest that buyers have become wedded to the policy of purchasing in small lots and at frequent intervals, thereby making manufacturers and jobbers carry the risks. In this connection it is to be noted that at most centers mail-order houses are reported doing a thriving business, aid in this respect being furnished by the parcel post system. Reports from industrial centers present decidedly mixed aspects, variations in this or that place being offset by slower operations at other points.

Steel Trade Better.

The steel trade takes hope from favorable crop prospects, but the volume of business is not up to expectations, though orders for equipment of unparalleled better tone during the past few days. However, profits from the Chicago district indicate that specifications for finished steel are quite liberal, and the jobbing trade appears to be favorably circumstanced. Pig iron is very firm, copper is quiet but with apparently favorable statistical position and the brass and copper trades of the Naugatuck valley are on short time. Machinery markets denote a little more activity, but the improvement, such as it is, is not satisfactory. The manufacturing reports from leading New England center is the slowest in years, and reports from eastern cotton mill centers are invested with a good deal of irregularity, southern competition being felt in coarse goods. Lumber is very quiet, and flour milling is only moderately good.

Wheat Report Helps to Inspire Confidence in the Future, Says Dun.

Dun's report says:

Sentiment, especially in the agricultural regions, is strengthened by the splendid government report on winter wheat, and the outlook for an almost phenomenal crop is calculated to inspire greater confidence in the future. Reflecting the brilliant prospects, the leading cereal is receding in value, yet the purchasing power of the farming community should be enhanced if the present promise of a banner trade will obviously expand with an increased production of grain, and monetary conditions are such that no difficulty is likely to be experienced in harvesting and marketing the crops.

Advices Irregular.

Advices from leading centers are still somewhat irregular, but with improvement in certain directions being offset by a reactionary tendency in others. Apart from retail lines, quietness is to be expected during Easter week; when trade invariably is of a pre-holiday character. Developments in financial circles have been without special significance, except that much interest is displayed in the forthcoming issue of $50,000,000 city loan, which evidently will bring a good price when issued. Although the favorable agricultural outlook has created a better feeling in iron and steel, that industry continues in a depressed state and the March returns of the principal producer reveals a large decrease of 372,618 tons in unfilled orders. The rate of pig iron output, however, was higher than in February, but some reduction is likely to occur this month as a few furnaces have already gone out of blast.

Conflicting Comparisons.

Other statistical comparisons remain conflicting; gross earnings of railroads reporting for March were 0.8 per cent less than last year and idle freight cars have increased, whereas bank clearings this week show gains over the two years immediately preceding and surplus stocks of copper have diminished. In respect to prices, also, the latter trade is gathering strength, chiefly because of the insistent demand from foreign consumers. It has been an active week in the large retail centers handling dry goods, but wholesale buying has naturally ruled quiet. Operations are still along conservative lines, yet, in a general sense, values are quite steady. The weather has restricted the distribution of seasonable footwear and the machinery is reported out at numerous factories. This condition finds a reflection in the prevailing dullness in leather and price concessions are not wholly absent. The general trend of the commodity markets continues downward, 31 declines and 15 advances occurring this week in the 310 quotations compiled by Dun's Review.

W. H. BURWELL IS HERE VIEWING THE SITUATION

It Is Probable His Decision in Governor's Race Will Be Known This Week.

Hon. William H. Burwell, of Hancock county, prospective candidate for governor, arrived in the city Sunday, and will remain over Monday to try a case before Judge Reid.

While here Mr. Burwell will hold informal conferences with a number of friends and make a canvass of the political situation. While he would not commit himself definitely at this time, he stated that it was his desire to make the race, and that in all probability he would do so, if, after a careful survey of the situation, he felt the time ripe to make an announcement.

Mr. Burwell made a splendid record as speaker of the house of representatives, and is personally popular all over the state. He is aligned with neither so-called faction, and his race would be pitched on a high plane.

Mr. Burwell, in speaking of his possible race, said:

"One thing is certain: If I enter the race and J. Randolph Anderson and Judge W. E. Thomas are also in it, it will be a race between personal friends, and after the campaign is over we will be as good friends as ever. I have the highest personal regard for both of these gentlemen, and there would be no mud-slinging or bitterness to remember after the election."

WHAT A MAN SAW AT Oglethorpe Park

Mr. Edwin P. Ansley,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir:

Holy Gee! What are you doing and what are you going to do next? I just came back from Fairyland. What a magic wand you possess!

I was out at my country home and thought I would run over and see what was at Oglethorpe Park, and what has already been done by you is like magic, and what will it be when you get through!

Of course, the place is naturally one of the garden spots of this country, and with your energy and knowledge of making beautiful things out of nothing, as before stated, what will this be that is so beautiful already!

Financially, I am not interested in the property, but as a citizen of this county and state, I want to take off my hat to you as a man who does things and does them not only for financial gain, but for his fellowmen. Anyone who makes two blades of grass grow where but one grew before is a benefactor.

Sincerely, your well wisher,

BRYAN REVIEWS TOLLS QUESTION

Secretary Defends Repeal of Exemption Clause in Canal Act, and Says Stand of President Is Justified.

Washington, April 12.—Secretary Bryan in a statement made public today lengthily reviews the Panama tolls question, and in the course of the statement declares that the repeal of the tolls exemption in the Panama canal act "cannot be construed to be a construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty," but is "simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise that question in that way."

Mr. Bryan defends the various features of the subject—the limiting of debate in the house of representatives, the Baltimore platform, and the effect of repeal on the treaty.

Claiming that the opponents of the repeal have based their opposition upon the fact that the president was "surrendering to England," Mr. Bryan declared that the opposition to the repeal could not be tempted to appeal "to prejudice rather than to reason."

What Has Great Britain Done?

"What has Great Britain done," he asked, "to justify the accusation that she is trying to dictate to this country? She has simply called attention to the terms of the treaty, and asked for arbitration of the question of construction, in case our interpretation differs from the British government in the construction to be placed upon the language. The men who are the most insistent upon construing the treaty to permit free tolls delayed for months the ratification of the treaty by Great Britain because of their opposition to any arbitration of the subject. In other words, they refused to submit a treaty to permit discrimination, and then objected to allowing any international court to express an opinion on the subject. As a matter of fact, the treaty grants the rights which Great Britain claims. It is a surrender to Great Britain' for our nation to repeal a law that does not discriminate? The repeal of the law cannot be construed to be a construction of the treaty. It is simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise that question in that way. The author of the treaty over the Wellland canal, Canada withdrew a discrimination which existed in favor of United States ships, 'in order that no cause for friction with the United States authorities in regard to the matter should exist.'

"Why cannot the United States withdraw a discrimination for the same reason? When the treaty involved was before the senate for ratification an attempt was made to so amend it as to permit a discrimination in favor of coastwise vessels, but it was voted down by a decided majority. With this record to support it, how can it be said that foreign nations question our right to make an exception in favor of American vessels?"

The President and Congress.

Discussing the president's right to expect the support of congress when he deals with international questions, Secretary Bryan adds:

"The chief executive speaks for the nation in international affairs, and it is only fair to assume that he speaks advisedly when he declares that intercourse with other nations is seriously embarrassed by the free tolls law which he seeks to repeal.

"We occupy today a proud position among the nations; we are the foremost advocate of peace and the contrast we are becoming more and more a moral factor throughout the world. Shall we afford to surrender this position? Can we afford to belittle the great enterprise which has reached the point of consummation at the isthmus? If our nation desires to be measured by intellectual and ethical standards, how unworthy to brag of our strength and to threaten to use that strength. We are ready to fight' does not arouse the enthusiasm it once did in these centuries ago. Brute force is not the level upon which this nation desires to meet controversies today. The question is not what we can do but what we ought to do. The path of honor is not strewn with the wreck of nations that boasted that they were invincible. This question must be decided on moral principles and not by the counting of our regiments and battleships. What profit is it profit a nation if it conquers the whole world and loses its soul? Is it not doctrine that righteousness exalteth a nation?"

The Baltimore Platform.

Mr. Bryan was a member of the resolutions committee of the Baltimore convention and he says: "The tolls plank platform constitute his first utterance on the subject. Mr. Bryan argues that there are two planks in the Baltimore platform, pertinent to the discussion, one which declares that it is the democratic party in the encouragement of the merchant marine, 'that no discrimination should be developed "without imposing additional burdens upon the people and without injury to the revenues from the public treasuries," and a second plank declaring that 'we favor the exemption from tolls of American coastwise ships.' Mr. Bryan declares that the opposition to bounties is a doctrine "for which the democratic party has stood from time immemorial." He refers to the exemption plank as a "little plank" and says: "What opinion does the little plank contain that it can make those who accept it oblivious of the big planks? By what rule of construction can the small plank be made binding and the large one ignored? The secret of the strange power exerted by the little plank is to be found in the fact that it carefully conceals the means by which it is to be carried out. Had the word 'subsidy' or 'bounty' been inserted in this plank, it could not have secured the indorsement of the convention, because the contradiction between the plank and the large plank would have been immediately apparent. The same words have been used in the drawing of this plank that was used in the drawing of the plank on the merchant marine, and it should be read as follows: 'We favor the exemption from tolls of vessels engaged in coastwise trade passing through the canal, without imposing additional burdens upon the people and without bounties or subsidies from the public treasuries.'

The President Justified.

"But even if the platform had not contained what itself constitutes a repudiation of the position taken by the advocates of free tolls, the president would have been justified in the position that he took by the changed conditions which confronted him. Our platform is a pledge and is as binding upon an official as the commission of a military officer is upon a subordinate —the statement of the fact only is stronger. But the subordinate officer is sometimes compelled to act upon his judgment, where the language of which the commanding officer is not aware has taken place in conditions. It is not only the right of the subordinate to judge the situation for himself where conditions have changed since the order was given, but it is his duty to do so. In the case under consideration the president takes responsibility for an official act which he regards as necessary for his country's welfare, and the people must decide whether or not he is justified; and those who refuse to act with him also assume a responsibility and they, too, must abide the judgment of the public. Such a change has taken place since the Baltimore platform was adopted. Had the democratic national convention assembled been confronted by the conditions which now confront us, had they known what those now know who voted for repeal, no such plank would ever have been placed in the platform. The convention's attention was not even brought to the fact that a majority of the democrats in the house had voted against the free tolls measure, and that it had, in fact, been passed by a combination of a minority of the democrats and a majority of the republicans.

The Platform Pledge.

Mr. Bryan says that platform planks dealing with international questions must be accepted with the understanding "that we act jointly with other nations in international affairs," that even if the plank had not been contradicted by another plank in the platform and even if it "had not concealed a subsidy policy repugnant to democratic principle and history," that even if conditions had not changed, a platform plank should be taken on international questions "as the expression of a wish rather than as the expression of a determination, for no nation can afford to purchase a small advantage in the face of a universal protest."

"If a nation," continued the secretary, "desire to array itself against the world, it should be sure that the thing which it is to gain is worth what it costs. The president, knowing that every commercial nation except our own construes the treaty as a pledge of equal treatment, would be base recreant to his trust had he failed to point out to the American people that our diplomatic relations would be seriously disturbed by the carrying out of the free tolls policy."

Considering the repeal measure upon its merits, Mr. Bryan says, we have just two questions to be decided:

"First, is it desirable for a democratic party to abandon its historic position and become the advocate of subsidies and bounties? Second, even if it is desirable, what is the demonstrable necessity for sacrifice in international prestige and world influence in order to secure the advantages which these subsidies promise to a few people."

PREACHES ON MEANING OF EASTER TO NEGROES

Savannah, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—Richard D. Stinson, head of the Atlanta Industrial School for Colored Youths, preached the Easter sermon in St. Philip's A. M. E. school negro church in this section of the state. Among other things, Stinson said:

"The day can and should mean more to the negro race than to other people. We can recount how much of real, practical benefit has been accorded and how firm is the basis upon which our churches, Sunday schools and homes are being conducted along wise lines. If pretty clothes, much food and cheap pleasure are the height of our ambition, then it is better that the day had never been celebrated. But if that wiser and unselfish view of life, of service, of education and hope is not what it should be, then the celebration has been badly spent."

GUNMEN DIE AT DAWN IN THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Protest Innocence to the Last. Last Hours Spent in Continuous Prayer.

of the prison carioles townspeople passed to and fro, whispering, and every now and then a party of dusty automobilers swung down from their car to survey the buildings. In the cut, just under the prison eaves, express trains roared past, while a wind out of the west whipped up white caps on the Hudson.

Of these scenes in the deathhouse corridors today that which stood out boldest concerned the visit of two nuns. As Father Cashin, the Roman Catholist prison chaplain, led the four gunmen in prayer, two Italian Franciscan sisters, who had come from New York to see "Dago Frank," whom they had taught in his boyhood, knelt outside his cell. Raised curtains, showing the cells bare and immaculate after yesterday's cleansing, disclosed the four gunmen also kneeling. Suddenly the spirit of devotion spread to the whole death chamber. Every one of the sixteen condemned, among them three Chinamen and Hans Schmidt, slayer of Anna Aumuller, joined in the Lord's Prayer, which concluded the services.

Last Words From Gunmen.

The Franciscan sisters, robed and black-hooded, urged the four gunmen to accept their fate as punishment for their sins, whether they were innocent or guilty of murder.

To the boys of the East Side in New York, the Jewish trio of the gunmen sent a final message through Rabbi Jacob Goldstein. "Whitey Lewis" wrote:

"There are many boys who are well brought up and have good parents, who do not look out for the company they get into. Bad company is the cause of their fall. They get a bad record and then no matter whether guilty or not they would be framed up.

"Keep away from bad company is the best message I can send."

"Lefty Louie" said: "Add what I said the other day about bad company. A fellow who honestly earns $6 a week is better off than he who gets $1,000 a week, if he doesn't get it straight.'

"We were supposed to have as many friends as any fellow that was on the East Side, but when it came to a showdown it was only the 'shool' (synagogue) that stood by us, outside of our parents. Stick to the 'shool' and to your parents. If I had life to live over again, I would surely follow this advice."

"Gyp the Blood" said he had nothing to add to what had been said.

The Women Wailed Aloud.

Mrs. Rosenberg, "Lefty Louie's" young wife; Mrs. Horowitz, wife of "Gyp the Blood;" Mr. and Mrs. Cirofici and Paul Cirofici, relatives of "Dago Frank;" Morris and Joseph Seidenshner, brothers of "Whitey Lewis," all spent the early part of the afternoon in a last visit to the death chamber. The women wailed aloud as they went out of the prison and could not compose themselves sufficiently to speak. On the way to the station they said that the men about to die never have maintained their innocence so strongly as in this last remonstrance. They were calm and resigned, however, and it was the gunmen who played the part of consolers.

"I must die sometime," "Lefty Louie" told his wife, "if it pleases God that I die now, I am ready."

"Whitey Lewis" asked his brother to tell their mother that she was not the mother of a murderer. "I have never been more than a little wild," he said.

Near the railroad station a photographer who tried to take a picture of the weeping wife of "Gyp" and "Lefty Louie" was set upon by the Seidenshner brothers, Morris and Joe. He was knocked down and pursued into a small restaurant where he barricaded himself and saved his camera.

Not Alone for Instant.

The prisoners were not left alone for an instant during the day or night. Until the moment of the electrocution they will be under the observation of Dr. Farr and Dr. Mereemo, the prison physicians, in addition to the guards. At 3 o'clock in the morning the final prayers will be said. Father Cashin will kneel with "Dago Frank" and receive his final confession. The Rabbis Goldstein and Kopstein will prepare the other gunmen for the end.

The condemned men's last word from their chief counsel, C. G. Wahle, came in the form of a telegram from Albany in reply to the governor's final refusal to intercede. It was shortly after six when the message reached the prison. "Grieved to inform you," it said, "that the governor has refused to interfere. We pleaded with him for nearly two hours."

Having been told the hour that Mr. Wahle was to make this last appeal the four spent the interval in prayer.

Just before dusk two automobiles from New York swept up the driveway in front of the prison. There were in the party ten men and two women. All were decked in Easter finery. They crowded into the prison reception room and announced that they were relatives and friends of "Gyp," "Lefty" and "Whitey Lewis."

All were denied admission to the death house and they departed disappointed.

"Dago" Frank's two young brothers, John and Paul, and his youngest sister visited him tonight after being held up for some time by the warden. In view of the fact that Mrs. Cirofici was to return on the 6 p. m. train from Albany, after a last attempt to see executive clemency, the warden doubted the advisability of having Frank further disturbed.

"Lefty Louie's" father underwent a nervous breakdown in the warden's office and left without seeing his son. He had started from his home in New York with his wife, but Mrs. Rosenberg was taken ill on the way and returned to her home. Mr. Rosenberg decided, after changing his mind a number of times, that his first duty was to care for her, and hurried back to New York without entering the death house.

Glynn Refused to Interfere.

The last avenue of hope for the four gunmen was closed six days before their execution, when Governor Glynn refused to grant a stay pending the second trial of Lieutenant Charles Becker, who was convicted by a lower courts of having plotted the murder of Herman Rosenthal. In so doing he went him from making graft revelations to District Attorney Whitman. The court of appeals reversed the lower decision for Becker, declared itself unconvinced that he had directed the murder, but upheld the judgment of the lower court that the four gunmen had been the instruments. Motions for a new trial, on the ground of new evidence, made by their attorney, were denied, and they were sentenced to die during the week beginning April 13.

Four days before their execution a delegation of New York rabbis visited Governor Glynn and pleaded in vain with him to postpone the execution until after the second trial of Becker. The governor remained fixed in the opinion that he had already expressed—that Becker's trial had been fair. He could in no way affect the guilt of the gunmen who had been judged guilty by two courts.

Not only during the trial, but in statements given out at Sing Sing, three of the gunmen persisted in the declaration that Dago Frank had not been present at the time of the murder, and was not in any way concerned in the plot to murder Rosenthal. During their stay in the death house all four maintained an attitude of injured innocence, tempered with an optimism growing out of their belief that their fate hinged upon legal points and that if he were not guilty they must be set free. The news crushing hopes of this nature, as announced by the warden, was received with stoical calmness.

Sketch of the Crime.

The crime for which the four gunmen paid the death penalty started a wave of police reform, from which the ripples have not yet subsided. Throughout the revelations made at the time and subsequently stalked the vague, sinister monster known as the "police system."

Rosenthal was shot down early on the morning of July 16, 1912, in front of the Hotel Metropole, in the heart of the tenderloin district, at the announcement from a man who came into the hotel, he dying from his dead before a fusillade of bullets. The murderers leaped into an automobile and escaped. Weeks later, after they had been arrested, the gunmen were found in a flat in Second avenue.

Their conviction and Becker's were based chiefly on the testimony of three go-betweens who turned state's evidence. These men—Jack Rose, Bridgey Webber and Harry Vallon—declared that they had hired the gunmen to kill the gambler, Rosenthal, at Becker's request.

Sam Schepps, a little gambler, corroborated their testimony, and was not arraigned an accomplice.

Becker was a police lieutenant, in charge of the "strong-arm squad" whose duties were to keep in subjection the denizens of the city and to regulate gambling houses and places of ill fame. Rose, Webber and Vallon said that Becker had made use of his position to collect money from these houses. Rosenthal, according to these same witnesses, having a grievance against Becker, was about to give evidence against Becker to the district attorney.

Becker was arrested July 29, 1912, but nearly two months elapsed before the apprehension of the gunmen. Their trial before Justice Goff marked a record of speed in criminal procedure.

LAST APPEAL TO GLYNN PROVES TO BE IN VAIN

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—The last faint glimmer of hope that a reprieve might be granted the four New York gunmen passed today, in the executive chamber of the deserted state capitol Governor Glynn heard the final appeals of two attorneys for the convicted slayers, C. G. P. Wahle and H. L. Kringle, for a stay of the death sentence and then again for the last time refused to interfere with the executions.

For two hours the attorneys pleaded. All appeals to the governor's sympathies were disregarded. Only the new testimony placed before Justice Goff in New York yesterday was presented. When they had finished the governor and his legal adviser, John G. Saxe, retired to a private room.

Every scrap of evidence was gone over carefully, and every affidavit read fully by the governor. Then the gunmen's attorneys were sent for. Pale and a trifle nervous, but with a firm voice the governor said: "Gentlemen, I am sorry, but I cannot see my way clear to change my decision."

With the last chance to save the gunmen from the electric chair gone the attorneys walked slowly from the chamber.

"It seems the boys must die," Mr. Wahle said, "unless the governor changes his decision before morning, they are doomed."

"Did he hold out any hope?" was asked.

"No," he replied, "on the contrary, he said his decision was final."

The governor seemed anxious to know every new fact in the case. Mr. Wahle said, "and I tried to explain them fully. We presented all of the evidence and affidavits produced before Judge Goff yesterday, set forth probably the salient features of the evidence and then gave him and his counsel the affidavits for their own examination. They went over them in private, and then the governor declared there was nothing in them he could cause him to reverse his decision.

"There is nothing left for us to do but to continue our duty as bearers of bad news. We shall telegraph to Ossining, and later return to New York to report the governor's decision to the relatives of the condemned men."

The mother and a sister of "Dago Frank" Cirofici were here tonight to plead with the governor for the gunman's life. They failed to see him, however, as he was steadfast in his previously-announced determination not to talk with relatives of the condemned men.

Learning that it would be impossible to reach the governor, the women sent a message to him by John B. Riley, state superintendent of prisons. Their only reply was that the governor would do nothing further in the case. They then appealed to Mr. Saxe, but with the same result. Later they called on a local priest.

Attorney Wahle, hearing a report that the women were on their way to Albany, waited several hours to meet them, but when they failed to appear he returned to New York. The women went back to New York tonight.

Special officers guarded the executive mansion tonight. Within the last few days threatening letters have been received by the governor, and on one occasion a woman who said she bore a divinely inspired message to the executive appeared. The governor has expressed no fear of any one, but it was thought best to have officers on guard.

Four Gunmen, Their Judge and Prosecutor

1. WHITEY LEWIS. 2. DAGO FRANK. 3. LEFTY LOUIS. 4. GYP THE BLOOD. 5. JUDGE GOFF. 6. SING SING PRISON. 7. DISTRICT ATTORNEY WHITMAN.

Governor Glynn has denied the application of the four gunmen in the Becker case for a commutation of sentence of death or for a reprieve. The men—Frank Cirofici ("Dago Frank"), Louis Rosenberg ("Lefty Louie"), Harry Horwitz ("Gyp the Blood") and Jacob Seidenshner ("Whitey Lewis")—will go to the electric chair in Sing Sing prison at sunrise this morning, April 13. When the court of appeals passed upon the judgment of the court imposing the sentence the date originally fixed for their execution had passed. Therefore it became incumbent upon the court of appeals to set a new date for execution, and it named the week beginning April 13. The only avenue of hope then left open to the four condemned men was executive clemency, and the governor was appealed to. At first he was inclined to grant a reprieve, but after asking for advice from prominent criminal lawyers, he took up the reading of the testimony given at their trial, and from that time a decided change was noticed in his attitude. Frank is 32, Gyp 36, Louie will be 33 this month and Whitey is 34. The crime for which they are to be punished was the shooting of Herman Rosenthal at 3 o'clock in the morning of July 16, 1912, at the front door of the Hotel Metropole, on Forty-third street, a scant hundred feet off brilliantly lighted Broadway. District Attorney Charles S. Whitman proved that the four had been engaged by Jack Rose, Bridgie Weber and Harry Vallon to kill Rosenthal before he could get to the district attorney that morning and "squeal" on Lieutenant Becker, who was accused of grafting and extortion. The three turned state's evidence, and it was on their testimony that the four were convicted and that Becker was found guilty of having instigated the crime. District Attorney Whitman's quick action in the case is believed to have been responsible for the conviction of the four gunmen and Lieutenant Becker. The four personal charges of the case before sunrise, a few minutes after the murder occurred, and the fact that the opposition and poor memories of various members of the metropolitan police has served the case through to a successful conclusion. The men were rushed before and sentenced by Judge Goff. The arrow in the accompanying prison picture indicates the death house at Sing Sing.

PELHAM POLICE CHIEF KILLS PISTOL TOTER

John Harrell Dead and Three Injured in Affair on Street.

Pelham, Ga., April 12.—Chief of Police D. C. Campbell killed John Harrell, on the streets of Pelham, about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Seeing Harrell with his hand on his gun, Chief Campbell ordered Harrell to take his hand off, but, instead of doing as ordered, he drew his gun, whereupon Campbell drew his, and shooting began, about twelve or fifteen shots being fired. Harrell was hit three times, the last time in the temple, and fell dead. Chief Campbell was hit once, in the thigh.

Policeman Haire, coming to the assistance of his chief, was hit in the shoulder, and C. T. Pullen, a citizen, was hit in the leg.

The affray is said to have been the result of a personal feud.

SPRING

Spring is coming.
Spring always affects everything.

For instance, spring chickens, spring vegetables (and, incidentally, spring trading). People like to "browse" around among the green fields and trees about springtime—they are certain to do it. Lots of them would buy home sites if they could get a suitable location; nevertheless, you will find them looking around in the spring.

We know of a beautifully wooded tract of eleven acres that has about 500 feet of frontage on East Lake Drive as well as frontage on two other streets. This is only three blocks from Country club. (By the way, there is a fine spring on this land). Why not cut this up for the spring trade? It will sell, all right. Price, $16,000. Terms.

LAST APPEAL TO GLYNN PROVES TO BE IN VAIN

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—The last faint glimmer of hope that a reprieve might be granted the four New York gunmen passed today, in the executive chamber of the deserted state capitol Governor Glynn heard the final appeals of two attorneys for the convicted slayers, C. G. P. Wahle and H. L. Kringle, for a stay of the death sentence and then again for the last time refused to interfere with the executions.

For two hours the attorneys pleaded. All appeals to the governor's sympathies were disregarded. Only the new testimony placed before Justice Goff in New York yesterday was presented. When they had finished the governor and his legal adviser, John G. Saxe, retired to a private room.

Every scrap of evidence was gone over carefully, and every affidavit read fully by the governor. Then the gunmen's attorneys were sent for. Pale and a trifle nervous, but with a firm voice the governor said: "Gentlemen, I am sorry, but I cannot see my way clear to change my decision."

With the last chance to save the gunmen from the electric chair gone the attorneys walked slowly from the chamber.

"It seems the boys must die," Mr. Wahle said, "unless the governor changes his decision before morning, they are doomed."

"Did he hold out any hope?" was asked.

"No," he replied, "on the contrary, he said his decision was final."

The governor seemed anxious to know every new fact in the case. Mr. Wahle said, "and I tried to explain them fully. We presented all of the evidence and affidavits produced before Judge Goff yesterday, set forth probably the salient features of the evidence and then gave him and his counsel the affidavits for their own examination. They went over them in private, and then the governor declared there was nothing in them he could cause him to reverse his decision.

"There is nothing left for us to do but to continue our duty as bearers of bad news. We shall telegraph to Ossining, and later return to New York to report the governor's decision to the relatives of the condemned men."

The mother and a sister of "Dago Frank" Cirofici were here tonight to plead with the governor for the gunman's life. They failed to see him, however, as he was steadfast in his previously-announced determination not to talk with relatives of the condemned men.

Learning that it would be impossible to reach the governor, the women sent a message to him by John B. Riley, state superintendent of prisons. Their only reply was that the governor would do nothing further in the case. They then appealed to Mr. Saxe, but with the same result. Later they called on a local priest.

Attorney Wahle, hearing a report that the women were on their way to Albany, waited several hours to meet them, but when they failed to appear he returned to New York. The women went back to New York tonight.

Special officers guarded the executive mansion tonight. Within the last few days threatening letters have been received by the governor, and on one occasion a woman who said she bore a divinely inspired message to the executive appeared. The governor has expressed no fear of any one, but it was thought best to have officers on guard.
