WATERS AND TURMAN HAVE WARM CLASH AT MEETING OVER COUNTY BOARD WORK

Flagrant Misuse of Office and Domination of Commission by Triumvirate Charged by Waters in College Park Address.

TURMAN MAKES ANSWER FROM SEAT IN AUDIENCE

Discusses Donaldson Removal, Employment of Asphalt Expert, Alleged Junket by Board and Other Fulton County Work.

In a narrow, wooden building at College Park, Tull C. Waters and S. B. Turman, county commissioners, dragged into the open last night all the suppressed bitterness and antagonism which has been smouldering between the two factions of the county board for more than a year.

Mr. Waters charged board members with using their office to fulfill political promises with bending to the influence of land gamblers, and with forming a private triumvirate which settled all important matters outside the committee. He intimated, at least by inference, that the attitude of a county commissioner on the asphalt deal was the result of favors rendered by the asphalt company.

Denies Waters' Statement.

Mr. Turman, who happened to be sitting in a corner, promptly got up and when he was given the privilege of the floor denied everything that his fellow commissioner had said. He went back into the history of the board for three years, and dug up one bone of contention after another. The Donaldson removal; the employment of an asphalt expert; the trip which various commissioners have been charged with making at the expense of an asphalt company; all these and sundry other things did Commissioner Turman set forth in answer.

When it was all over Mr. Waters sat, flushed and frowning, in one corner, and Mr. Turman, excited and shaky, in the other, while a little group of College Park residents who had asked Mr. Waters' company to find why certain south side improvements had not been forthcoming during his term as commissioner looked inquiringly at each other and wondered just what they had started.

Asked Waters to Speak.

The whole thing began with the determination of the College Park residents to find out why their section had been slighted by the county board. With this in view, they invited Mr. Waters, who is seeking re-election as commissioner, to come out and explain. Mr. Waters immediately decided he had just been waiting for such a chance.

The meeting took place in a small frame structure which is being utilized temporarily as the city council chamber. Mayor B. S. Huie presided. Instead of depending on what Mr. Waters might have to say, Mr. Huie had ready for him a list of twelve questions, covering College Park's entire interest in the Waters' record as commissioner. College Park —and College Park means East Point and one or two other suburbs—wanted to know several things. Most of all it wanted to know why a certain convict camp in East Point had been removed in the spring of 1913, leaving the paving of an important road unfinished and in such condition that it was impassable.

No One to Shield.

Mr. Waters read the questions, and got up to answer them. He began by saying that he realized that there was cause for dissatisfaction.

"And, of course," he added, "I have to bear the brunt of it because I'm the only candidate running for re-election. You think I haven't done the right thing. Well, I admit it. I haven't done the right thing. I couldn't. And I'm here tonight to tell why." Mr. Waters glanced over in the corner where was Mr. Turman. "There are some members of the board here, but I have nothing to cover up and no one to shield. Now—

"If you read the newspapers you saw, about a year ago, that a combine had been formed in the board. You saw three members appoint themselves to the public works committee. You saw that the precedent of making the vice chairman the next chairman of the committee had been broken. Until then it had been the practice to map out in advance a program of all work that was to be done. I think that a practice right.

"But, after the event of which I am speaking, I knew no more than you people what was going to be done next. There was a program made out in 1913. It went through until the spring of 1913; then work was discontinued. Mr. Waters was referring to work on the East Point road. I don't know why it was discontinued. I can only tell you what happened in 1913. Someone else will have to tell you why. The money was taken from East Point to Red Hill to finish the Jonesboro road. I do not know the reason." Mr. Waters paused for a moment.

Too Many Promises.

"I'm going to be very plain," he said. "There have been too many political promises made by members of the board. I make none. Any man who does either doesn't know what he's doing or he's insincere. The greatest

DR. JULIAN THOMAS IN THE LAW'S TOILS

Former Atlantan's Sure Remedy for High Cost of Living Causes Charge of Misusing Mails.

New York, April 20.—(Special.)—Dr. Julian P. Thomas, formerly of Atlanta, head of the J. P. Thomas Natural company of 523 West Thirty-seventh street, and self-styled inventor of the only sure remedy to cut the high cost of living, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Houghton and held in $5,000 bail today charged with using the mails to defraud. Edmund Honvery, a postoffice inspector, complained that Dr. Thomas wrote to him urging his treatment for an ailment after the inspector had feigned symptoms commonly manifested by a perfectly well man.

Dr. Thomas said the case was a frame-up on the part of rivals in the profession.

"A few years ago when I was experimenting with my invention, the 'wind wagon,'" he said, "I ran into a motorcycle and injured by right leg. The surgeons would have cut my leg off if I hadn't driven them out of my house. With my own treatment and diet it caused the leg to grow together again," he said.

The doctor said he had brought himself to such a state of physical perfection on a diet of one raw onion, half a tomato and one of his raw wheat biscuits that he could lift 2,000 pounds, and the diet, he said, cost him less than 5 cents a day. The postoffice inspectors said Dr. Thomas' gross revenue from his factory was $100 a day for the past five years. They brought down to the federal building as witnesses half a dozen young girls who they found in charge of the doctor's correspondence in his factory in West Thirty-seventh street.

The doctor said he was graduated from the Medical School of the University of Georgia, and had been indorsed by the Long Island City hospital. His invention, the "wind wagon," he explained, was a sort of bicycle with masts and sails.

Phone Helps Lovers Baffle Opposition Of Bride's Parents

Youthful Couple Now on Honeymoon in Florida and Will Ask Parental Blessings at Later Date.

After several months of parental objections, due to their youthful ages, two lovers wearied of the state of affairs Monday afternoon, and at 4 o'clock the telephone bell in the home of pretty 17-year-old Miss Mary Bradley, at 34 Bradley avenue, began to tinkle.

It is useless to state who answered the phone, for Miss Bradley was expecting Louis Anchbacher, a young man who is connected with the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, to call.

"Hello, Mary! I can't stand to wait any longer."

"Neither can I, dear."

"Will you meet me at 5 o'clock at Whitehall and Alabama, and we will marry?"

"Yes, dear."

At 4:45 o'clock "Johnny" Green, who works in the auditing department of the telephone company with Louis, secured the license from the ordinary.

A few moments later Dr. C. A. Ridley, pastor of the Central Baptist church, was notified over phone to be at his residence at 314 South Pryor street at 6 o'clock.

At 5 o'clock Mr. Anchbacher met his bride-to-be. Several friends were anxiously awaiting them.

A motor car has furnished by one of young Anchbacher's friends. Into this machine piled the two lovers, followed by six friends: Mrs. Felix G. Bryant, Mrs. Burton Smith Baker, Miss Louise Donaldson, "Johnny" Green, J. Ridgate Cobb and Harry W. Reynolds. At five minutes to 6 o'clock the car rolled up in front of Dr. Ridley's house. The wedding party was ushered in.

Five minutes later Miss Mary Bradley was the wife of Louis Anchbacher, and the gay party of friends proceeded to salute the blushing bride.

The happy couple are now on their honeymoon in Florida. The parents will be notified later.

Steamers in Collision.

New York, April 20.—The New York and Porto Rico liner Carolina was in collision with the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland, at anchorage, near Quarantine, early today. The Carolina's stem was twisted above the water line and the Cleveland's port plates were dented above and below the water line, causing her to leak. Nearly all passengers on both vessels were asleep. There was little excitement.

STARS AND STRIPES FOR HUERTA

A Hospital Too Small for a City

Grady hospital is, and long has been, too small for the city of Atlanta.

Ten years ago Atlanta had outgrown the facilities the hospital offered.

The hospital's share of the $3,000,000 bond issue cut down the deficiency.

It did not touch many imperative needs.

Today, so phenomenal has been the expansion of Atlanta, that they are almost tragically cramped at Grady.

Often it is necessary to let patients go with an incomplete convalescence because the beds they occupy are required for more desperate cases.

Such a condition militates against the health of the entire community, against the efficiency of the entire community.

Nurses and doctors, each detail of the plant, are overworked to care for the patients the hospital is now able to receive.

This is only one feature which Greater Grady, through the $750,000 bond issue, will remedy.

A VOTE FOR GREATER GRADY IS A VOTE AGAINST THE DISEASE AND DEATH RATES IN ATLANTA. IT IS A VOTE TO MAKE GRADY BIG ENOUGH FOR ATLANTA.

AMERICAN WOMEN LEAVE VERA CRUZ

They Are Taken on Board Steamers — All Merchant Vessels Ordered to Get Out of the Harbor.

Vera Cruz, April 20.—Commander Charles F. Hughes, chief of staff of the United States Atlantic fleet, today called on General Gustavo Maas, commander of the federal troops, at Vera Cruz, and on the commander of the port, and instructed them to order all American merchant vessels out of the harbor.

To Get Foreigners Away.

Commander Hughes went on board the Spanish and the British warships anchored off this port and informed their commanders of his action. William W. Canada, the American consul here, is making arrangements to have the foreigners in the city taken on board the merchant vessels, should necessity arise.

All American and other foreign women have been asked by Consul Canada to take refuge on vessels now in the harbor, preferably on board the Mexico, of the Ward line, and the Esperanza, which has been chartered by the United States navy.

American women, acting on official suggestion, are going on board the boats in the harbor. Consul Canada is endeavoring to inform all foreigners of President Wilson's action.

Ramsdens Not Broken.

The somnolence of Vera Cruz scarcely was disturbed by the Tampico situation so far as surface indications went, except at the piers, from which refugees were being taken to the Ward liner steamers Mexico and Esperanza and at the American consulate, where W. W. Canada, the American consul, had a busy day.

Tables in the out-door dining and drinking places about the central plaza of the city were filled as usual. The international crisis naturally was the chief topic of conversation, but tango teas and other diversions came in for a fair amount of the talk.

Mexicans in many cases fraternised with Americans and in a saloon down near the cable office a dozen American sailors who had strayed that far from the swimming beach, sang popular American songs for hours, while a policeman on the corner twirled his club and smiled.

The most serious phase of the situation was suggested by the crowded lobby of Consul Canada's office. Gathered there throughout the afternoon were many American men and women anxious to secure the latest news from the United States and obtain passes which would enable them to go aboard the refugee boats.

When Senate Votes Today Authority to Wilson to Suppress Huerta, Washington Will Flash Orders to the Fleet to Seize Tampico and Vera Cruz and Bottle Up Huerta in Mexico City—No War on Mexico, but War on Huerta Until He Apologizes for Insult to Stars and Stripes—Final Preparations Made to Strike the Dictator and Make Him Realize Power of United States.

Washington, April 20.—In forty-eight hours, possibly less, the United States government will have taken possession of the Mexican customs houses at Tampico and Vera Cruz.

Detailed plans for landing of marines at these two important coast towns were completed at a conference at the white house between President Wilson, Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels, Major General Wood, and Rear Admirals Fiske and Blue, and John Lind.

"No orders to the army and navy will be issued tonight," was the announcement made after the conference, action temporarily being deferred until congress acts on the joint resolution approving the president's purpose of using the armed forces of the United States to enforce its demands against General Huerta growing out of the arrest at Tampico of American bluejackets.

The resolution passed the house tonight by a vote of 337 to 37, after a spirited debate. For several hours it was considered by the senate foreign relations committee, but the senate will not act until Tuesday at noon.

WILSON IS BACKED BY HOUSE ACTION; SENATE A BIT SLOW

After Spirited Debate House Authorizes President to Use Force to Make Huerta Apologize to United States.

OBJECTIONS IN SENATE TO SINGLING HUERTA

But Agreement Is Finally Reached and Resolution Will Be Adopted Today. Only 37 Votes Cast in the House Against Resolution.

Washington, April 20.—After a spirited debate of more than two hours the house tonight passed the administration resolution approving President Wilson's purpose to use the armed forces of the nation to obtain from General Huerta the fullest recognition of the honor and dignity of the United States.

The vote was 337 to 37. The resolution was passed at 9:35 and went to the senate.

ONLY 37 VOTES FOR GEN. HUERTA.

Those who voted against the resolution in the house were:

Democrats—George, Kindel, Sisson, Stephens (Mississippi), and Witherspoon—5.

Republicans—Ainey, Anderson, Anthony, Bartholdt, Britten, Butler, Campbell, Davis, Fordney, French, Gardner, Gillette, Good, Hayes, Howell, Johnson (Utah), Johnson (Washington), Kahn, Langham, La Follette, Madden, Mann, Mondell, Platt, Sells, Steenerson, Stephens (Minnesota), Volstead, Woods—29.

Progressives—Bell (California), Temple—2.

Independent—Kent—1.

SENATE CAUSES SOME DELAY.

Jerry Sonth, chief clerk of the house, read the resolution in the senate during a desultory stillness.

Senator Shively, acting chairman of the foreign relations committee, asked for immediate consideration of the resolution.

Senator Lodge objected.

"Mr. President," said Senator Lodge, "I am not prepared to say that I shall vote for this resolution, but I am willing to say that I shall not vote against it. I am willing to say that I shall not vote against it. I am willing to say that I shall not vote against it.

Huerta for unequivocal amends to the government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against this government by General Huerta and his representatives.

During the evening there were informal conferences of democrats and republicans and opposition to the phraseology of the resolution was apparent. Many senators, among them a few democrats, objected to sending to set General Huerta as an individual and wanted to amend the resolution to direct it against the de facto government in Mexico City. Others wanted to make the resolution broad enough to cover Mexico generally.

Administration leaders were beginning to rally their forces early in anticipation of republican opposition. Administration senators held that the passage of the resolution was a step which would enable the president practically to prevent war by forcing Huerta to respect Americans and their interests.

The president had made it clear to congress in his message that the executive really had authority to act, but that he preferred the approval of congress before making any important move.

OBJECTIONS MADE TO SINGLING HUERTA.

Members of the house went to bed instead of waiting for the senate to reconvene. Crowds thronged the senate galleries and corridors.

A democratic member of the senate foreign relations committee, at 11:40 o'clock, said he believed no resolution would be favorably reported which individualized Huerta, but that the measure probably would be broadened to include the "de facto government at Mexico City."

Just before midnight Secretary Tumulty left the white house for the hotel where Vice President Marshall, Mrs. Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Garrison were there and all went to the capitol.

At midnight, Acting Chairman Shively reached from a conference with Vice President Marshall, Secretary Tumulty, Secretary Garrison and Postmaster General Burleson to the foreign relations committee room.

"I think there's a chance to iron the difficulty out," he said.

The senate foreign relations committee agreed at midnight to report the resolution, with the preamble amended to read "in view of the situation presented by the president," and eliminating individual reference to Huerta throughout the measure.

At 12:23 o'clock the senate recessed until 12 noon Tuesday under an agreement to consider the resolution at that time.

CHANGES MADE BY THE SENATE.

The resolution as agreed upon by the foreign relations committee read:

"In view of the facts presented by the president of the United States in his address delivered to the congress in joint session the 20th day of April 1914, in regard to certain affronts and indignities committed against the United States in Mexico, be it

"Resolved, That the president is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce his demands for unequivocal amends to the government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against the United States; be it further

"Resolved, That the United States disclaims any hostility to the Mexican people or any purpose to make war upon them."

The purpose of the new resolution, it was said, was to avoid the appearance of a personal issue between the United States and General Huerta, and also to avoid any misinterpretation of the attitude of this government toward the Mexican people as a whole. Administration senators had consented to the changes after Senator Shively's conference with the vice president, Secretary Garrison, Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Tumulty.

When the senate convened at 12:19 o'clock for the regular Tuesday session the calendar was passed over quickly, and Senator Shively presented the new resolution, as a substitute for the measure passed by the house. Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, immediately objected. Senator Lodge urged that the objection be withdrawn and the Rhode Island senator finally consented, reserving the right to object later.

The resolution was read while senate leaders conferred over an agreement for a recess.

LODGE OFFERS SUBSTITUTE.

Senator Lodge presented a substitute for the preamble of the resolution reported by the committee which he will seek to have adopted tomorrow.

It set forth:

"That the state of unrest, violence and anarchy which exists in Mexico, the numerous unchecked and unpunished murders of American citizens and the destruction of their property in that country, the impossibility of securing protection or redress by diplomatic methods in the absence of lawful or effective authority, the inability of Mexico to discharge its international obligations, the unprovoked insults and indignities heaped upon the flag and the uniform of the United States by the armed forces of Huerta in large parts of Mexican territory have become intolerable.

"That the self-respect and dignity of the United States and the duty to protect its citizens and its international rights require that such a course be followed in Mexico by our government as to compel respect and observance of its rights."

MEXICAN REBELS NEED NOT FEAR.

At executive quarters there was a let-up in the late hours. Clerks were on duty for emergencies, but no moves were announced. A high official who was in conference with the president pointed significantly to the fact that no word had been issued to the army, and remarked that the constitutionalists need not be nervous over the situation, for the present action was aimed entirely against Huerta. It was said that one of the reasons the white house was insistent on individualizing Huerta in the resolution was to prevent the constitutionalists from misinterpreting present movements as threatening hostilities against them or the Mexican people generally.

The receipt late tonight of the statement dictated by General Huerta to the Associated Press saying there was no American flag in the Dolphin's whaleboat brought about informal comment from navy department officials who asserted that Rear Admiral Mayo had reported the boat as flying the ensign of the United States at both bow and stern. In any event, the American government considers the arrest of bluejackets in American uniform as unwarranted.

WOOD COMMANDS IF ARMY ACTS.

Secretary Garrison announced that if the army were used in enforcing the demands on Huerta, Major General Wood, whose term as chief of staff expires this week, would go to Texas City to take charge of the situation. General Wood said that should the army be required to move before he could reach there Brigadier General Funston would be in command of any forward movement.

The chief purpose of the meeting today of the joint army and navy board, composed of representatives of the army and navy war colleges, was to prevent clashes of authority between these two branches in the service of where they might be ordered to work in conjunction. It was the first time in many years that the joint board had met.

Besides Admiral Dewey and Major General Wood, who is to succeed General Wood as chief of staff of the army, those who participated in the deliberations of the joint board were:

VOLUNTEER MEASURE PASSED BY THE SENATE

Washington, April 20.—The senate today passed the volunteer army bill for making into the regular service militia regiments in time of war.

However, Senator Reed moved to reconsider the action, stating there was some item which he objected to. That keeps the bill on the table until disposition is made of the reconsideration motion.

The bill has passed the house.

WILSON IS BACKED BY HOUSE ACTION

Speaker Clark briefly urged that Mr. Lodge withdraw his objection to present consideration, but the latter declared that, without wishing to delay consideration either on the floor or in committee, he must insist on the resolution going to the committee. Then at Senator Shively's request the senate adjourned until 12:19 o'clock to allow the foreign relations committee to consider the resolution.

Following adjournment, which is equivalent to a recess, the foreign relations committee immediately went into session. By adjourning until after midnight the danger of another technical objection forcing delay was avoided.

TOO MUCH HUERTA IN RESOLUTION.

After the committee had agreed on an amended resolution, a recess of the senate was taken at 12:35 a. m., until noon tomorrow.

The president, while stating in his message to congress that he has full constitutional authority to act, is waiting for congress to express its approval before ordering Tampico and Vera Cruz to be seized and other steps taken looking to reparation for the arrest of American bluejackets at Tampico.

In a spectacular midnight session the senate today passed the house resolution briefly. Senators objected to individualizing Huerta and a substitute resolution was agreed upon by the foreign relations committee giving the president broad authority to deal with indignities of the United States in Mexico "in view of the situation as presented by the president in his message."

Underwood Urges Action.

Just as soon as the joint session had dissolved, a resolution was introduced in the house justifying the president "in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce the demands upon Victoriano Huerta for unequivocal amends to the government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against this government by General Huerta and his representatives."

A few minutes after the president left the chamber Majority Leader Underwood took the floor and asked unanimous consent to make a statement. A round of applause from the democrats greeted his request and he said:

"It merely calls on the state to the house that the president informs me that it is in the utmost importance that action be taken on the message just delivered today. I wish to ask each member of the house to remain here until a resolution can be passed through the house."

The democratic members of the senate, however, quickly turned to considerations of appointments and the Mexican situation was considered in the foreign relations committee.

Warm Debate Begins.

Warm debate began as soon as the resolution was reported by the foreign affairs committee.

During the consideration in the committee Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, had offered an amendment to restrict the president's activities to "his constitutional authority."

On this Representatives Bartholdt and Ainey voted against the remainder of the committee. On the final vote, however, Representative Ainey alone opposed the measure. He declared it did not go far enough. The discussion in the committee hinged about the use of the word "justified." Some members contended that the president should be "authorized" to use the armed forces of the nation, but it was held that this would be a virtual declaration of war.

After the committee adjourned Chairman Flood presented the resolution on the floor for the action of the house, after conferring again with Secretary of State Bryan and Representative Underwood.

When Representative Flood asked unanimous consent that the resolution and the report be read, Republican Leader Mann reserved the right to object to the present consideration of the resolution and demanded an explanation.

Representative Underwood explained that the administration desired to have the bill passed before night and that reasonable debate would be allowed. He said that the rules committee was prepared to bring in a rule for immediate consideration of the resolution if necessary.

Chairman Flood said that he was prepared to allow half an hour's debate on the resolution on each side of the house. Representative Mann declared that the minority needed two hours' debate.

Round of Democratic Cheers.

"The president has advised us of conditions," said Representative Underwood. "We would not insist on putting this resolution through at this time if this were not a matter of paramount importance. But with the president's message delivered, our troops may be fired on at any time. We should act at once."

A round of democratic applause greeted this statement.

"I am not alarmed by that statement," replied Mr. Mann. "But the president has asked for our advice and we should have time to give it. Before we equip the nation for war we should at least have time to draw our breath. I am always ready to support the president in his conduct of the foreign relations, but I value my country above my allegiance to the president."

A cheer from the republican side greeted this statement.

Shouts of "bring in a rule," "hurry it through" from the democratic side interrupted the efforts to secure unanimous consent agreement. Representative Mann finally agreed that he would accept one hour and a half for the republicans. Representative Underwood said the democrats would be satisfied with one hour. Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, asserted that an opportunity would be given to offer amendments to the bill.

Representative Sisson, democrat, of Mississippi, declaring that the resolution was "a declaration of war, and as such was a matter which congress should fully consider," objected to any agreement.

Special Rule Reported.

Speaker Clark then recognized Chairman Henry, of the rules committee, who presented a special rule for the immediate consideration of the resolution. The rule simply provides that the house "proceed immediately to the consideration" of the Mexican resolution. By agreement between Representative Henry and Representative Campbell, ranking republican on the rules committee, the debate on the rule itself was limited, to twenty minutes, with the understanding that the republican side was to have a fair opportunity for debate on the resolution after the adoption of the rule.

Representative Campbell, of Kansas, republican, opened the opposition to the rule, declaring its purpose was "to make in order a resolution which is a declaration of war."

"We are asked to declare war against Victoriano Huerta. Why?" he asked. "Because American citizens have been ruthlessly murdered? Because American women have been outraged? No. But because a company of sailors were arrested by a subordinate. Is it enough to justify a declaration of war? War, with its awful consequences against the helpless, distracted, poverty-stricken people of Mexico. For the people of Mexico must share with Victoriano Huerta the results of war."

"I am against this war," continued Campbell. "But if you force this war upon my country it will be my war, the war of my country, and I will support it.

"If you force this war on my country, I will stay here until the war is over."

An outburst of laughter and applause from the democratic side greeted this statement, and for more than a minute Mr. Campbell was unable to continue.

Representative Fox, of North Carolina, democrat, supported the rule, declaring "the time has come to put an end to these outrages in Mexico."

Murdock Supports Wilson.

Progressive support for the resolution was pledged by Progressive Leader Murdock.

"This resolution needs one thing more than anything else," he said. "That is the unanimous vote of the congress of the United States. I think my country's dignity is in question. I have but one rule. That is: Follow the flag. The resolution will do one thing that should be done. It will say that around the world that our flag must be respected. I am tired of watching, waiting and I welcome the president's decision to end that policy."

A cheer from the democrats greeted Mr. Murdock's speech. Representative Lenroot, republican, favored the resolution, asserting that its passage was the "best means of preventing war in Mexico."

Representative Foster, of Illinois, made a brief speech supporting the resolution and the rule.

Republican Leader Mann spoke vigorously against the president's policy. "If the incidents which the president has related to us had occurred in England, Germany, France or any other great nation," he declared, "we would not have such a resolution pending here now. But we think that because Mexico is weak we have the moral right to declare a war against her with high hopes of success. We would not declare war against Mexico for something for which I would declare war against Germany or France."

Mr. Mann said the president was "issuing orders" to congress.

"This is a declaration of war," he said. "This is a declaration that the United States is the helpful ally of the murderous gang of cutthroats which we are murdering men and outraging women." He insisted that it was purely a case of personal resentment of the president of the United States because he did not like Huerta.

Mann condoned the methods by which Huerta secured the high position he now holds, "bombarded the republican leader, "nor do I believe in declaring war against him because President Wilson doesn't happen to like him.

"This is more than a salute from Huerta to the American flag. We owe it to the flag to stand for right and justice and peace."

Underwood Closes Debate.

Representative Underwood closed the debate in support of the rule. As he took the floor the applause broke out.

"This resolution," he said, "may mean war—it may mean peace. Let us hope that the influence of the passage of this resolution will be peace and good order in the republic of Mexico and the establishment of friendly relations between the two governments.

"But, whether it means peace or war, there are interests now pending that be maltreated at whatever cost. You are facing that condition today. No one can say our government has not treated Mexico with patience and considerations. We have endeavored to keep out of complications there and if we were in a controversy with one of the great nations of the world.

"War never comes from any one incident, and never has. We have had a year we have been facing a reign of terror and turmoil in Mexico with great patience. We have endeavored to allow Mexico to work out a problem of peace and of government.

"We have hoped from day to day that a peaceful solution might have been reached. But peace never comes to a coward. Peace never comes to a nation that fails to protect its citizens or to enforce respect for its flag.

"Our flag has been dishonored in a foreign land. The president of the United States comes to the house. He has not asked you to declare war, but asks you to sustain him in requiring a decent respect for the honor of and an honorable consideration for the rights of your government."

Mr. Underwood deprecated the position taken by Representative Mann, and recalled how the democrats in congress supported the Spanish war resolution of the McKinley administration.

The rule was adopted by a viva voce vote with a rolling chorus of "ayes" overwhelming the scattering "noes."

Amid shouts of "vote, vote," a unanimous consent agreement was reached limiting debate to two hours and ten minutes. Fifty minutes was controlled by Representative Flood, for Representative Murdock and one hour and ten minutes by Republican Leader Mann. The agreement also provided that only one member might offer amendments to the resolution.

Not Declaration of War.

Representative Flood opened the debate in favor of the resolution after the adoption of the rule.

"In his usual manner the president today demonstrated the necessity of some action to resent insults to the United States flag," Mr. Huerta," he said. "This is not a declaration of war. This is only a step that he has taken now to prevent war. It has been carefully drawn to prevent war."

"Would it give the president the right to blockade the ports of Mexico?" asked Representative Gillett.

"Yes," said Mr. Flood.

"Isn't that an act of war?" asked Mr. Gillett.

Representative Flood said that the blockade he had in mind contemplated simply the preventing of the delivery of munitions to the de facto government in Mexico. He said that the resolution conferred practically no authority on the president that he did not already have.

Representative Harrison, of Mississippi, democratic member of the foreign affairs committee, declared that the American people approved the president's course.

"We are justified now in making these demands," he added, "and the demands are just and right and sanctioned by international law."

Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, republican, arraigned the president's policy, and declared the constitutionalists as "murderous, robbing brigands."

He declared the administration had accepted "miserable and humiliating" replies from Villa and Carranza to its demands. "During all this time," he added, "the Huerta administration has been preserving order, and its conduct toward this government has been perfect.

The Murder of Madero.

Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, democrat, referred to the Madero assassination, and asked how any government could recognize the president of a regime in whose keeping Madero had been when murdered.

Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, republican member of the foreign affairs committee, offered an amendment he had previously unsuccessfully pressed in committee, to insert in the resolution words "within the limits of his constitutional powers" after the reference to the president's use of employment of armed forces. The proposed amendment went over until conclusion of debate.

Representative Heflin, of Alabama, democrat, said congress should let Huerta know "we have one country, one flag, one heart and every man ready to defend that flag."

Representative Gillette, of Massachusetts, republican, declared the incidents cited by President Wilson were trivial. "This is war," he said, "with all its horrors and responsibilities. History will censure and condemn those men who today on this miserable pretext vote for war."

Representative Kent, independent, California, expressing regret that he could not agree with the president, said the resolution was a "declaration of war," and asserted that by passing it congress would "condemn to death many of our citizens in Mexico."

"I have always believed," said Representative Madden, of Illinois, "that nothing than a nation could provoke another nation to war. But here we are asked to declare war against the individual Huerta. We have no cause for war."

Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, republican, said that he was willing to vote the president full support in the future, but he was willing to subscribe to the president's position in the Tampico incident. He presented a substitute for the resolution which would empower the president to use the armed forces of the United States in "commanding respect" for the government of Mexico "and the United States without "justifying the course of the president so far."

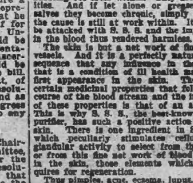
Skin Health Comes From the Blood

Even Slight Eruptions Such As Acne Should Be Treated.



Pimples and other skin troubles do not appear on the surface alone. They are bubbling out from within. They are impurities. And if let alone or greased with salves they become chronic. Sometimes the cause is still at work within. It should be attacked with S. S. S. and the impurities in the blood thus rendered harmless.

The skin is but a net work of fine blood vessels. And if it is perfectly normal consequence that any influence in the blood that is a condition of the skin should at first appearance in the skin. There are various medicinal properties that follow the course of the blood stream and the influence of these properties is that of an antidote. This is why S. S. S., the best-known blood purifier, has such a positive action in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood the impurities that are the work of dead matter in the skin, those elements which if retained cause disease.

Your pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or sores and ulcers through the skin is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

This is why skin troubles of various sorts really and why they do not return.

Under the influence of S. S. S. this fine net work of blood vessels in the skin is constantly taking from the blood the nutrition required for healthy tissue and the cause of disease is just as constantly being removed, scattered and rendered harmless. These facts are more fully explained in a book on skin troubles sent by The Swift Specific Co., 161 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. WILSON CALLS ON CONGRESS TO ALLOW HIM TO USE FORCE AGAINST DICTATOR HUERTA

President Personally Appears Before a Joint Session and Tells of Affronts and Indignities Put on United States by Huerta—No Quarrel With the People of Mexico, Only With Huerta. Congress Applauds Wilson.

Washington, April 20.—President Wilson today answered Huerta's defiance by asking congress, assembled in joint session, for approval to "use the armed forces of the United States in such ways and to such extent as may be necessary to obtain from General Huerta and his adherents the fullest recognition of the rights and dignity of the United States."

The president did not ask for any appropriation of money at this time, nor for authority to call out the national guard.

"There can be no thought of aggression or of selfish aggrandizement," declared the president to the sober-faced throng of senators and representatives which packed the hall of the house.

ONLY FIGHTING GENERAL HUERTA.

"This government can, I earnestly hope, in no circumstances be forced into war with the people of Mexico. If armed conflict should unhappily come as the result of his (Huerta's) attitude of personal resentment towards this government, we should be fighting only General Huerta and those who adhere to him and give him support, and our object would be only to restore to the people of the distracted republic the opportunity to set up again their own laws and their own government.

"There can, in what we do, be no thought of aggression or selfish aggrandizement. We seek to maintain the dignity and authority of the United States only because we wish always to keep our great influence unimpaired for the uses of liberty, both in the United States and wherever else it may be employed for the benefit of mankind."

WILSON CHEERED BY THE CONGRESS.

The president finished reading his address at 2:12 p. m. and left the chamber amid a roar of applause.

There was loud applause, mostly on the democratic side, when the president said he felt it his duty to sustain Admiral Mayo. There was intermittent applause during the remainder of the reading of the address.

When the president referred to the use of armed forces the democrats again applauded. Republican Leader Mann and Progressive Leader Murdock and others on their sides did not join in this nor in the applause that greeted the president at the end of the message.

It was exactly 5 o'clock when congress and crowded galleries broke into a cheer of recognition as Speaker Clark introduced the president.

The outburst of applause subsided into solemn quiet as the president, in a low, but penetrating voice, spoke the opening sentence of his address.

DIPLOMATS IN THE GALLERY.

The diplomatic gallery was crowded close with members of the diplomatic corps while the president spoke. Ambassadors Jusserand of France, Spring Rice of Great Britain and representatives of Austria and the Netherlands occupied the front row of the gallery. Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre and Miss Margaret Wilson were in the white house party.

The first applause that interrupted the president followed his statement that the Tampico incident showed a "spirit" on the part of the Huertiatae. Congress cheered the president's declaration that he hoped Mexico would be able to settle its affairs.

His statement that he desired authority only to uphold the "dignity of the United States" was cheered by both democrats and republicans.

TEXT OF ADDRESS TO CONGRESS.

The president spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Congress:

"It is my duty to call your attention to a situation which has arisen in our dealings with General Victoriano Huerta at Mexico City, which calls for action, and to ask your advice and co-operation in acting upon it. On the 9th of April a paymaster of the United States ship Dolphin landed at the Iturbide bridge, at Tampico, with a whaleboat and boat's crew to take off certain supplies needed by his ship, and while engaged in loading the boat was arrested by an officer and squad of the men of the army of General Huerta. Neither the paymaster or anyone of the boat's crew was armed. Two of the men were in the boat when the arrest took place, and were obliged to leave it and submit to be taken into custody, notwithstanding the fact that the boat carried, both at her bow and at her stern, the flag of the United States. The officer who made the arrest was proceeding up one of the streets of the town with his prisoners when met by an officer of higher authority, who ordered him to return to the landing and await orders, and within an hour and a half from the time of the arrest orders were received from the commander of the Huertista forces at Tampico for the release of the paymaster and his men. The release was followed by apologies from the commander, and later by an expression of regret by General Huerta himself.

MARTIAL LAW PLEADED BY HUERTA.

"General Huerta urged that martial law obtained at the time at Tampico; that orders had been issued that no one should be allowed to land at the Iturbide bridge and that our sailors had no right to land there. Our naval commanders at the port had not been notified of any such prohibition, and, even if they had been, the only justifiable course open to the local authorities would have been to request the paymaster and his crew to withdraw and to lodge a protest with the commanding officer of the fleet. Admiral Mayo regarded the arrest as so serious an affront that he was not satisfied with the apologies offered, but demanded that the flag of the United States be saluted with special ceremony by the military commander of the port.

"This incident cannot be regarded as a trivial one, especially as one of the men arrested were taken from the boat itself—that is to say, from the territory of the United States; but had it stood by itself, it might have been attributed to the ignorance or arrogance of a single officer. Unfortunately it was not an isolated case. A series of incidents have recently occurred which cannot but create the impression that the representatives of General Huerta were willing to go out of their way to show disregard for the dignity and rights of this government and felt perfectly safe in doing what they pleased, making free to show in many ways their irritation and contempt.

MORE INSULTS FROM HUERTA.

"A few days after the incident at Tampico an orderly from the United States ship Minnesota was arrested at Vera Cruz while ashore in uniform to obtain the ship's mail and was for a time thrown into jail. An official dispatch from this government to the embassy at Mexico City was withheld by the authorities of the telegraphic service until peremptorily demanded by the charge d'affaires in person. So far as I can learn such wrongs and annoyances have been suffered to occur only against representatives of the United States. I have heard of no complaints from other governments of similar treatment. Subsequent explanations and formal apologies did not and could not alter the popular impression which it is possible it had been the object of the Huertista authorities to create that the government of the United States was being singled out and might be singled out with impunity for slights and affronts in retaliation for its refusal to recognize the pretensions of General Huerta to be regarded as the constitutional provisional president of the republic of Mexico.

"The manifest danger of such a situation was that such offenses might grow from bad to worse until something happened of so grave and intolerable a sort as to lead directly and inevitably to armed conflict. It was necessary that the apologies of General Huerta and his representatives should go much further; that they should be such as to attract the attention of the whole population to their significance and such as to impress upon General Huerta himself the necessity of seeing to it that no further occasion for explanations and professed regrets should arise.

"I, therefore, felt it my duty to sustain Admiral Mayo in the whole of his demand and to insist that the flag of the United States should be saluted in such a way as to indicate a new spirit and attitude on the part of the Huertiatae.

"Such a salute General Huerta has refused, and I have come to ask your approval and support in the course I now purpose to pursue.

GOVERNMENT IN MEXICO.

"This government can, I earnestly hope, in no circumstances be forced into war with the people of Mexico. Mexico is torn by civil strife. If we accept the tests of its own recent constitution, it has no government. General Huerta has set his power up in the City of Mexico, such as it is, without regard to the constitution. He has put right and by methods for which there can be no justification.

"Only part of the country is under his control. If armed conflict should unhappily come as a result of his attitude of personal resentment towards this government we should be fighting only General Huerta and those who adhere to him and give him their support, and our object would be only to restore to the people of the distracted republic the opportunity to set up again their own laws and their own government.

"But I earnestly hope that war is not now in question. I believe that I speak for the American people when I say that we do not desire to control in any degree the affairs of our sister republic. Our feeling for the people of Mexico is one of deep and genuine friendship and everything that we have so far done or refrained from doing has proceeded from our desire to help them, not to hinder or embarrass them. We would not wish even to exercise the good offices of friendship without their welcome and consent. The people of Mexico are entitled to settle their own domestic affairs in their own way and we sincerely desire to respect their right. The present situation need have none of the grave complications of interference if we deal with it promptly, firmly and wisely.

WILSON WANTS AID OF CONGRESS.

"No doubt I could do what is necessary in the circumstances to enforce our demands for our government without recourse to congress, and yet not exceed my constitutional powers as president; but I do not wish to act on a matter of so grave consequence except in conference and co-operation with both the senate and house. I, therefore, come to ask your approval that I should use the armed forces of the United States in such ways and to such an extent as may be necessary to obtain from General Huerta and his adherents the fullest recognition of the rights and dignity of the United States, even against the distressing conditions now unhappily obtaining in Mexico.

"There can, in what we do, be no thought of aggression or of selfish aggrandizement. We seek to maintain the dignity and authority of the United States only because we wish always to keep our great influence unimpaired for the uses of liberty, both in the United States and wherever else it may be employed for the benefit of mankind."

Flag Not Involved, Says Huerta.

This statement President Huerta dictated to The Associated Press today. He continued:

"I desire to make it plain to the American people that, according to the official report from the commander at Port Tampico received by the Mexican government, there was no flag in the boat which landed and whose crew was detained. I fear that President Wilson has been misinformed on this point and that he will inform the American congress that the boat carried the flag.

"In fact, the American flag has nothing to do with the case, and I desire the American people fully to understand this."

Circulars, mildly anti-American, appeared in the streets late today appealing to the patriotism of Mexicans. There were no outward signs of antagonism to Americans, however, on the part of Mexicans.

As a precautionary measure a special guard of twelve police was installed tonight in the American embassy.

Americans to Remain.

Many American residents have prepared to stay in the Mexican capital whatever be the outcome of the present crisis unless they are ordered to leave by the Mexican authorities. They express belief that they will not be harmed in any eventuality. Others are going to Vera Cruz or are preparing to leave, if necessary.

Newspapers of the federal capital today restricted themselves to brief comment on the statement given out by the foreign minister, devoting themselves chiefly to expressions of approval of the attitude taken by the Mexican government.

El Imparcial declared that General Huerta had given "high proof of his discretion and loyalty," and concluded: "A people, like a man, should prefer death to dishonor."

El Pais said:

"The Tampico incidents as a reason for war are infamous and as a basis for the assertion of right are ridiculous." It adds:

"In these solemn moments serenity is the only thing that can save us, but should the time come to show ourselves patriots, it is indispensable to unite in facing death and sacrifice with the valor of justice."

Mexicans Are Stirred.

News of the deadlock in the negotiations with Washington came as a complete surprise today to the large majority of Mexicans, as the existence of a diplomatic controversy had been kept out of the newspapers. Everywhere today Mexican citizens eagerly read and earnestly discussed the statement from the Mexican foreign minister published in the morning newspapers. They stood in groups on the streets or congregated in the cafes, but nowhere did they give any evidence of hostility toward Americans.

Superlatives Are Useless In Writing "Kismet's" Story

When Atlanta awakened this morning she rubbed her eyes with amazement and exclaimed:

"What a wonderful, wonderful dream I have had!"

And Atlanta would fain have turned over and dreamed some more of this wonderful dream, but presently came the realization that there had been no dream at all, but that last night Atlanta had seen Otis Skinner in his gorgeous production of "Kismet" at the Atlanta theater.

In retrospect it really seems more as if one had dreamed himself through a fantastic chapter of Arabian Nights than that he had really seen these things.

The marvelous magic of stagecraft that is wrought out into the ten bewildering acts of this show almost tax the imagination after the eyes have seen.

The scene of the action is laid in Bagdad, the ancient city of the Arabian Nights stories, and the scenes are reproduced with all the Oriental glory of the settings of the tales that have furnished entertainment to all children.

Kismet is the Arabic word meaning Fate, and it is upon the whims of Fate with Hajj, the beggar, that the story of the play is based. From rags at the break of day to royal robes at night and once more a wanderer upon the face of the earth at dawn does Fate lead Hajj, and many and amazing are the adventures that embellish the journey.

Hardly ever is the pity that a great actor's work is as fleeting as a breath borne in so strongly upon one as when watching the superb work of Otis Skinner as Hajj. When one realizes that such work as that of Otis Skinner last night cannot be handed down to posterity along with the masterpieces of literature, art and music, the one word that forces itself to the lips is "Kismet!" It is, indeed, a tragedy that an ironical fate may well laugh at in diabolic glee.

The manner in which Mr. Skinner never lets one forget that in the mightiest moments of his wealth and power he is still the same being who was the cheating, lying, despicable beggar who whined alms in the name of Allah at the gate of the Mosque of the Carpenters is as complete and finished a piece of art as any masterpiece of painting. The ease with which he fits modulation of voice and spontaneous gesture to the occasion is life itself, and this lightening changes of mind and mood leave one bewildered.

The company which supports Mr. Skinner is without weakness in any particular. Much might be written upon the work of Owen Meech, as Jawan; Willard Webster, in the role of the Caliph; George Gaul, as Mansur; Merle Maddern, as Marsinah; Genevieve Dolaro, as Marsinah's nurse; Grace Hampton, as the wife of Mansur, and the dancing of Rose Coaten, who, incidentally, is a Mobile girl. But any elaboration upon these immediately involves one in the endless task of attempting to describe the excellent work of the whole cast, which includes no less than a hundred people.

The extraordinary number of the cast is characteristic of the almost spendthrift lavishness of the entire production. Some such magnificent scene as that of Mansur's harem, the bazar or the audience hall of the Caliph's palace alone is worth the price of the show.

One feels ashamed of the meagerness of superlatives in essaying a description of the riotous Oriental splendor of such scenes.

Atlanta has four more chances to see "Kismet"—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday night and Wednesday matinee—and none should miss going to see it.

GRAND JURY TO ACT ON LEO FRANK CASE

Reported Body Is Investigating Charges of Perjury Against Number of Witnesses Who Recanted.

The grand jury, it is reported, is planning to indict for perjury several Frank trial witnesses who repudiated their testimony on the witness stand. A secret conference was held ten days ago with Solicitor Dorsey, at which the matter was deferred pending developments.

Action will not be taken, however, for some time, it is said. Solicitor Dorsey, it is stated, does not want to put the prosecution in the attitude of seeking to deter witnesses by fear of prosecution.

Have Little to Say.

A. L. Waldo, foreman of the grand jury, was reluctant to talk to a reporter for The Constitution Monday when asked of the jury's attitude toward perjury charges in the Frank case. He would only state that the jury had not taken any action. He referred the reporter to Solicitor Dorsey for all information. Mr. Dorsey, however, was even more reticent than the jury foreman.

"I will, in all probability, however, take action against those who perjure themselves in the case," he stated. "It would be my duty of office to do so. Whether it is the Frank case or any other case, perjury deserves prosecution."

A big surprise is expected in the fight of the prosecution next Wednesday when the re-trial application comes before Judge Ben Hill for a hearing. Attaches to the solicitor general's office freely admit that Mr. Dorsey has recently come into possession of evidence that will be materially helpful in combatting the new trial motions.

Surprises Are Rumored.

It is reported an affidavit was made before Mr. Dorsey Monday afternoon by a young girl witness for the prosecution, whose name is withheld. It is said that she is one of the number of girl witnesses who have made affidavits for the defense denouncing their testimony.

The solicitor was busy throughout the day interviewing witnesses and conferring with detectives from police headquarters and with private detectives of his own staff. Some of the investigators who were with Dorsey Monday were John Black, Bass Roseer, Pat Campbell, John Skeen and others from Chief Lanford's office. Guy C. Feloary, secretary to the detective chief, was also called before the solicitor. It is reported that he made an affidavit.

Detective William J. Burns returned to town Monday morning at 11:40 o'clock. He has not yet made his report, and it is probable that it will not be submitted until tomorrow morning, when it will supplement the re-trial motions to be submitted before Judge Hill. He stated that he had solved the mystery, and that his report would conclusively show the guilt of the man guilty of Mary Phagan's murder. He would not tell where he had been on his last trip.

A Happy Bald Headed Man

Well-Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has Heavy Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and ready wit, surprised his friends by appearing with a heavy growth of hair; many of his old friends did not know him and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the remarkable growth of my hair to the use of the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home: To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home."—(adv.)

WILSON ACTS THE STATESMAN.

Whether or not the next few hours brings hostilities in Mexico the United States has completed a clean record in its dealings with that unhappy country.

Such is the substance of President Wilson's special message to congress yesterday, in which he outlined the situation and asked for authority to take emergency measures.

The president has been at diligent pains to show that we are in no circumstances opposed to or at war with the Mexican people; that the great masses of that nation have only our sympathy and our wishes for an ultimate peaceful solution of their internal differences.

Mr. Wilson has acted with a restraint and forbearance that, in combination with the firmness now displayed, mark him as a true statesman. The executive rashly disposed would have grasped the chance to plunge the country at once into war with a weaker power. The United States, with its immeasurable superiority over Mexico in the matters of money, men, training and resources could have depended upon an even easier conquest than in the war of '46.

Considering that a war president and a war party generally are popular at the ballot box, Wilson might, with tangible justification on his side, have accepted the gage that Huerta, time and again, has thrown down.

But it happens that Wilson has a conscience. He sees that the usurper in Mexico City is not a representative of the Mexican people, but only of his own selfish, bloody and inordinate ambitions. He tells Mexico, he tells the United States and the world, that we have no quarrel with Mexico, but solely with Huerta.

In that one stroke Wilson serves notice on all Latin-America, including Mexico, that our course is not aimed at territorial aggrandizement or at officious intermeddling, but solely with a view to protect our own interests, and to safeguard the dignity of this country. After the president's message, neither the men near Huerta, nor the constitutionalists in the north, can misconstrue his course, or justifiably kindle with suspicion or offense.

The president has acted up to the precedents of the office he holds.

A WRONG CATTLE POLICY.

A dispatch to The Constitution from Statesboro reports the constantly increasing price of beef and pork products, and gives as one reason the continued exportation of cattle from the county. The story runs that it is a common sight to see large herds being driven to the railroad for distant destinations, and that buyers from all parts of the country have been scouring that district of Georgia.

The development is not a new one.

The Constitution has many times within the past few years reported that counties here and there in Georgia were being practically denuded of cattle to meet the need of outside states.

With the gradual breaking up and disappearance of the large cattle ranges of the west, the remainder of the nation has increasingly been levied upon to supply the demands of the packing houses. The result, in many cases, has been that the choicest cattle have been bought up in various sections of Georgia, as in other southern states, leaving only the animals that are undesirable from the market standpoint.

The lack of foresight of this policy is shown in the rapid rise of prices for beef and pork not only in Statesboro, but equally in all parts of the state.

For the temporary profit from cattle, farmers have sacrificed a larger profit in the future and have taken steps that are sure to undermine the possibilities for re-establishing one of the most remunerative industries open to Georgia or any of the southern states.

The bankers and merchants of Georgia can help remedy this condition by two methods:

(1) By making easier credit conditions for the farmer, so that he will not have to "single-shot" on cotton and sell his beef as soon as it is salable;

(2) By co-operating to the end of establishing packing houses and a propaganda for breeding cattle of the beef grade.

The profit in nourishing both beef and pork industries is shown by the experience of Brooks and other counties in Georgia. They are exporting the finished product at a much greater profit than lies in the crude product.

NAILING THE REPUDIATORS.

The advocates of the Panama free tolls graft under the guise of "patriotism" have been smoked out into the open.

Two of their favorite contentions have been:

(1) That "all nations" in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty did not include the United States.

(2) That free tolls to an over-protected coastwise monopoly was not a "subsidy," but a "patriotic exemption."

In a recent hearing before the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals both of these specious quibbles are knocked into a cocked hat.

Joseph H. Choate, ambassador to Great Britain when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was negotiated, smashes the first point.

Former President Taft takes care of the second.

Mr. Choate is an authority on international law of world-wide distinction.

In correspondence submitted to the committee he declares that over and over again during the negotiations and correspondence over the treaty the keynote of perfect equality as between all the vessels of the United States and Great Britain, and the rest of the world, was reiterated.

He declares the signatories to the treaty never took any other view of the matter.

Former President Taft says he knew he was creating a "subsidy" when he signed the Panama canal tolls act; that he was convinced the point would have to be arbitrated. This, coming from the former head of a party the traditional doctrine of which is subsidies, ought to be conclusive.

Delegates to the Baltimore convention have overwhelmingly declared they did not approve the free tolls plank in the platform, and did approve the plank that ratified the party's immemorial stand against any form of subsidy.

An American international authority who helped negotiate the Hay-Pauncefote treaty declares some of the signatories to that treaty thought anything else than that no form whatever of discrimination was to be practiced.

The president who signed the act perpetrating the discrimination says he realized he was creating a "subsidy" that would inevitably be made the subject of a demand for arbitration.

If the would-be repudiators still yelp "patriotism" and "justification" in view of these disclosures their respect for American intelligence has reached the vanishing point.

A PLAY-GOING CITY.

The casting up of accounts by Atlanta's theatrical managers at the close of the conventional season discloses interesting facts. Every theater in town has broken attendance records, despite the depression we have been told existed in other parts of the country, and that is sure always to make its first effect felt on amusement enterprises. The "Atlanta's" receipts have gone to phenomenal proportions, with two big attractions yet to come. The policy of Klaw & Erlanger in playing half-week and week stands here, when the feature justified such an arrangement, has more than vindicated itself. The "Forsyth," which will probably remain open for the summer, will probably set new figures in the south for patronage of vaudeville. The lesser houses have, striking an average, held their own. All have flourished despite the inroads made by the "movies," and the "movies" themselves have drawn remarkably.

Atlanta is an amusement-loving city, a theater-going city and a city that knows what it wants for its money and that has become habituated to getting it. That is the leading moral of the season-end summary. The Constitution has previously pointed out the evolution in the theatrical business, by which it has become stratified with amusements for every taste and purse; by which the theatrical sheep have become segregated from the theatrical goats; and by which people no longer feel called upon to pay a top price for a bottom show.

Another important deduction is that Atlanta is a prosperous city. No other sort could afford to support the legion of amusements that have been presented this winter, not forgetting that the season is yet to be climaxed by grand opera.

Villa is also hard to beat when it comes to explaining his explanations.

The chautauqua circuit season will help Mr. Bryan to pay his ice bill.

The Ripple of "Old Glory."

They'd better be learning her story,—
It's one they should never forget;
When it comes to the stars of "Old Glory"
"There's life in the old flag yet!"

There's life for the fray,
And she'll ripple some day
O'er the hosts of the foes she has scattered away.

Heroes of old have uplifted
Her folds, and have entwined her bars
Where the smoke of the battle has drifted,
And the states made the light of her stars.

Oh, they'll gleam in the fray,
And she'll ripple some day
O'er the hosts of the foes she has scattered

War Talk in Billville.

As soon as we were certain that we would have trouble with Mexico we started out to drum up a Billville regiment. The fellows who are too lazy to plow were hot to enlist, and the women who want to run for office advised everybody to join us, for if they can get all the men out of the country it'll be easy for 'em to grab the offices. But the row started when we calmly informed the boys that all couldn't be generals, and captains, and so forth—that there would have to be a few privates to shoulder arms. Having made ourself general-in-chief of the Army of Billville, we'll die before we resign; and we won't recognize the "generals" who are appointing themselves right and left. That's the state of affairs at the present writing.

Plowing the Poets.

"It is said that Robert Burns composed his sweetest songs while guiding a plow over the stubby fields of his native land," says The Whitsett Courier, "but we grieve to say that the poets hereabouts are cast in a different mold. Last week we caught six of them and did our best to plow 'em, but they sweated the mules in Latin, and the mules kicked, and the poets got over a ten-rail fence and took to the woods again. They're willing to sing for a living, but work ain't on their line."

All Along the Line With George Fitch

THE CITY OF MEXICO

The City of Mexico, capital of the upper floor of Hades for the last three years, is located in the country for which it is named, so far inland that escape is very difficult indeed.

Mexico is the most difficult city in the world to live in owing to the fact that it frequently attains a velocity of several revolutions a year. Even when it is quiescent, however, it is one of the most interesting cities in America. Those United States cities which feel old and patronized because things happened in them during the seventeenth century should read Mexico's history with some care. It has been a civilized city, so to speak, since 1521. But before that it was a vast city of 300,000, built of stone and situated in the middle of a great lake. This lake was crossed by a single bridge which made it very discouraging for rivals who attempted to march into town and burn the city hall. When this was finally accomplished by Cortez in 1519, however, he not only burned the city an dtore down the temple, which was as big as a small pyramid, but the reduced the population until it could have room standing room in a New York street car. That was the kind of a man Cortez was. His birthday is not celebrated by the oldest Mexican families.

Mexico now has about 350,000 people, most of whom seem to be regarded by the contending Mexican armies as superfluous. It is about a mile and a half above the sea and has a climate which would make the city's future if it could be bottled and sold farther north. It is Spanish in architecture and composition, but enough American business hustle has been grafted on to make it a modern city, full of factories and high finance.

Mexico City has a few show places. A cathedral larger and older than St. Paul's, a national opera house, which has enriched more politicians than it has singers. A dozen tawny statehouse did and several daily newspapers which run whenever they do not annoy the administration. It has beautiful plazas and avenues and puts most United States cities to shame by its appearance. But after the American tourist has seen the public squares in which political insurgents are still backed against a wall and shot they go back home resigned to homeliness and health.

GETTING MAD.

Getting mad consists of cutting out the muffler and taking the hands off of the steering wheel—potentially.

When a man gets mad, he stops thinking with his brain and turned the job over to his fists and lungs. Then, his prettiest mess of ideas on a child produces art with a pail of red paint.

Getting mad is a favorite human occupation. With some people it is a habit and with some a principle. Usually it grows on a man like any other habit. A man begins by getting mad at something maddening and ends by getting mad because the world jostles him while presuming to go by.

After a man has gotten mad a few times a day for several years his wife hangs out a red flag when she sees him coming home and the children keep out of his way until father's temper is investigated.

There are two times in which to get mad. The right time and the wrong time. The wrong time is whenever you can't help it. There is nothing more pitiable than a man who allows his opponent to do the thinking, while he is bursting at the seams with indignation and producing vast clouds of smoky language which is beside the point.

Getting mad because you have many men hunting for jobs is getting drunk dogs. It is also about as futile. Those who are out of unions one is always careful to get mad in the presence of smaller men.

There are, however, those who use getting mad as a weapon of offense and who have their temper ready to hand, where it will work loose like a fire-engine, whenever the alarm comes in. When a man saves up his mad for an important occasion and explodes into righteous and fearful rage exactly on schedule time, he is to formidable and fearful opponent. The right time to get mad is just after the other fellow has shot away all of his ammunition and is feeling vainly to get his brain in gear again.

We must all get mad now and then, but we should insist on setting the dates ourselves.

HANS WAGNER.

Hans Wagner, one of the world's greatest swat soloists, resides in Pittsburg during the overheated season, but is very well known in seven other cities when citie where he is as welcome as smallpox.

Wagner is one of the greatest musicians the world has ever produced. There are people who sneer at his musical ability and claim that a namesake of his, Richard Wagner, who died some years ago, composed a few operas and fearful rage exactly on schedule time, he is a formidable and fearful opponent. The right time to get mad is just after the other fellow has shot away all of his ammunition and is feeling vainly to get his brain in gear again.

We must all get mad now and then, but we should insist on setting the dates ourselves.

HANS WAGNER.

Hans Wagner, one of the world's greatest swat soloists, resides in Pittsburg during the overheated season, but is very well known in seven other cities when citie where he is as welcome as smallpox.

Wagner is one of the greatest musicians the world has ever produced. There are people who sneer at his musical ability and claim that a namesake of his, Richard Wagner, who died some years ago, composed a few operas which no one has ever heard of. This is preposterous, however. Richard Wagner never uplifted more than four or five thousand people at a sitting and it took the whole Pittsburg band of incessant playing to do this; whereas Hans Wagner, by one single exquisite quadruple bass thump, has brought 30,000 delighted people to their feet and has sent them home happier men and women.

Wagner produces his music with a common hickory baseball bat. In his leisure moments he plays shortstop for the Pittsburg team. He is a stout, short man with large, wide-breaching legs and a pair of hands that are as bushy as an oil well. If the regular army were to shoot a three-inch shell at Wagner while he was stooping to pick a ball off the ground with one hand, pick it up with the other and shoot it to first before it had time to explode.

Wagner is an old man, as baseball players go, and has been batting around Pittsburg for a good many years. He pounds the ball .400 and sometimes only .300, but he always bats enough to make himself a great poet in New York, Chicago and elsewhere. Wagnerite is a common and very distressing disease among pitchers, and most of them have suffered from it at one time or another.

Mr. Wagner is a poor conversationalist and rarely attempts to tell an umpire how far the latter has descended from the Ape family. He does most of his talking with his bat. There are few things more eloquent than a balanced hickory remark by this eminent gentleman with the bases full and the enemy only one run ahead.

THE DUCK.

The duck is a sort of nautical hen. It lives on land, but acts as if it was experienced at the job and flops into the water with a low contented quack at every opportunity.

The duck cannot sing as sweetly as the hen, which is saying very little indeed. Though its wild relatives are great travelers it flies about as gracefully as a wounded aeroplane. Poets have never celebrated its mother love and have even declined to give it credit for patience, though it sets a week longer than the hen to hatch its young, provided it is that kind of a duck. Neither does it have the business ability of the hen. The hen has convinced us that when she stops laying humanity will shrivel up and starve. The duck lays an egg twice as large as the hen, but is no sort of a press agent and the price of duck eggs is never quoted.

The duck's one talent is swimming. It swims as gracefully and as well as the preserver. Where the hen would yell for help and drown, the duck finds early of doing nine knots an hour by paddling with its webbed feet. This is because the duck is broad in the beam and designed for marine work. It sits on the water like a sidewheel Mississippi river steamer and attains about the same velocity. The duck is equipped with a waterproof coat of feathers and forms a very pretty sight when it dives under water after a bug, head foremost, its tail pointing toward the zenith and its pink feet doing tange steps in the air.

The duck has a breast that bill with which it eats bugs, worms, vegetables, garbage, flowers, old newspapers, mud and other articles of diet. It offers a desperate resistance while being prepared for the oven and while being carved afterward, but when plucked, roasted and properly dissected, makes a delicious meal. If it was a better advertiser, it would be immensely popular and would have as much effect on the cost of living in this country as it does in China, where one duck qualifies a family for the income tax.

DAILY GRIST from the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

GOVERNOR JOHN M. SLATON WILL MAKE TWO ADDRESSES

Governor John M. Slaton left last night for Brunswick, where he will deliver an address before the Georgia Drainage congress tenight. From Brunswick he will go to Savannah the following day to deliver an address of welcome to the delegates of the National Drainage congress, which meets on Wednesday.

Governor Slaton's mail is steadily increasing. On Monday he received over 150 letters from various parts of the state giving him encouraging reports of his campaign thus far.

"I could not wish for better reports than I have been receiving," said Governor Slaton Monday. "The campaign seems to be in better shape at this time than I had any idea it would be."

DR. HARDMAN IS LINED UP WITH NO SET OR FACTION

Dr. L. G. Hardman, for the first man to openly announce his candidacy for governor and pave the way for the host who apparently are to follow, was in the city Sunday and gave out the following statement:

"Neither geographical lines, factional lines nor vocational lines will play any part in my campaign for governor of Georgia. I stand for a constructive policy, one which will make Georgia a greater state. I am not a candidate of any one section of the state, but, if elected governor, as I confidently expect to be, I will serve the entire state—north, east, south and west—with equal fairness and fidelity.

"There is no factional partisanship in my candidacy. I earnestly advocate political harmony and hope to appeal to the voters of the state without regard to their past political affiliations.

"I am asking the support of all classes alike. If I am elected governor I shall seek to represent the best interests of laborer, as well as capitalist, with the main object of always doing what will be for the proper upbuilding and development of the state and its people as a whole."

JUDGE A. W. FITE LISTENING TO LAW ENFORCEMENT ECHO

Judge A. W. Fite, who some time ago was spoken of as a possible candidate for governor, is said to be still considering the idea of running. He stated that from all parts of the state he is receiving letters urging him to make the race on a platform of law enforcement. In speaking of the matter, he made the following statement:

"I am being urged from all over the state to run, and I may do so. If I knew that I could get to the people I would make the race, and, more than that, I would be elected.

"The people all over Georgia are clamoring for the enforcement of the law, especially the prohibition law, and it is coming sooner or later, and we might as well begin the better for the peace, prosperity and happiness of the people.

"No man should be elected governor who is opposed to the enforcement of the prohibition law and will not pledge himself to see that the prohibition law is enforced."

ATTORNEY GENERAL GRICE HAS BUSY DAY MONDAY

Attorney General Warren Grice had quite a busy day of it Monday. It was the first time since taking the oath of office that he has appeared in the supreme court. A batch of nine murder cases awaited his attention.

Mr. Grice has received an invitation to deliver the commencement address before the Gordon Institute, May 26, and has accepted. Mr. Grice, on account of the exacting duties of his office, will not be able to deliver many speeches during his campaign for attorney general. He feels that his first duty is to perform the duties of attorney general. However, he is receiving hearty assurances of support from all parts of the state.

Will Argentine Cattle Lower the Price of Beef?

(From "Beef from South America and Australia," by Arthur Wallace Dunn, in the American Review of Reviews for January.)

As cattle are now raised in Argentina the increase must be gradual. The time necessary to open pasture lands and produce cattle ready for market is so long that no sudden change in prices is possible by increased production. The cattle-raisers of South America do not believe it would be advisable to make strenuous efforts to increase their output by restoring to the range everything large enough in spacing new pasturage. There is not an unlimited supply of wild cattle on the pampas of Argentina, nor in the hills of Uruguay, nor on the plains of Brazil. A sense of economy has been inculcated. In some way the pictures in the old geographies, showing millions of wild cattle on the pampas of Argentina, have lingered in the minds of our people, and the idea gained a foothold that if we let down the tariff bars these cattle would come stampeding across the borders, or that refrigerated beef would flood our markets.

Many years ago the wild cattle of Argentina were there. Owners of vast tracts of land had millions of head of cattle roaming the pampas. But that was at a time when cattle were killed for their hides and tallow. Refrigeration had not made it possible to ship beef, and when refrigeration came it was found that the beef was not marketable. Then came the great change; from wild, wiry cattle to thoroughbreds; from pampas grass to alfalfa; from vast plains of undefined ownership to fenced pastures. And with the change came the inevitable law of nature that production is most profitable when it scarcely meets the demand. That the stock-raisers of Argentina will attempt to increase their output largely is not likely unless they foresee a largely increased demand. And even with such effort as they may make to increase their product it will be impossible to meet the increase appreciably felt in the meat-consuming regions of the world through a reduction of prices.

The Spirit of Service in Rural Y. M. C. A. Work.

(From "The Rural-Life Engineer and His Work," by David F. St. Clair, in the American Review of Reviews for January.)

The spirit of this resident or local personal leadership is voluntary service. It is planned to inspire all athletic meets with this spirit. To help the other fellow is the keynote of the Friday races among the school boys of a county. It is made to prevail in the organization of the baseball leagues and their tournaments. It predominates in the corn and tomato club contests of the boys and girls. Registered seed and animal prizes, instead of cash prizes, are awarded. Commercialism is taken out of sport and it is made truly democratic and character-building. Corn-growing in this spirit is character-growing. A boy, in getting the scrub out of his corn, or out of his calf or out of his pig, is training the scrub out of his character. The same spirit is injected into the churches and Sunday schools. The denominations are drawn together in union meetings in scores of ways.

But while this spirit animates the policy of the association and its local workers, its dominant working principle in these rural communities, to quote Mr. Hill, "is to do nothing itself which should be done or could better be done by another agency. It is the business of other things to survive than assuming to do everything in sight which needs doing. It helps to chart the needs, define the task, and devise ways and means. If it is necessary, it will bring into being a new organization to meet the situation."

In organizing a county it is planned, if practical, to put an association in walking distance of every boy and to give every ten to fifteen boys in a Bible class a teacher. The value of this personal contact in all teaching and training is recognized as one of the chief factors in the success of the work. Tools, such as buildings, are a secondary consideration.

A Princess' Romance.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

European journals have recently given note of the approaching nuptials between the crown prince of Greece and the Princess Elizabeth, daughter of Carmen Sylva, queen of Rumania, who, though she does not live romances, as some time ago the late Princess Elizabeth, then only seventeen years old, accompanied by a sympathetic lady of the bed-chamber, was taking a morning promenade in the royal park. At some distance from the border of the walk, quite beyond her reach, she saw a cluster of lilies of the valley that she greatly desired to possess. At this moment the lieutenant of the palace guard approached, adroitly gathered the flowers and presented them to the princess, who accepted the gift with no unusual emotion. The next morning the handsome young officer—for he was young and handsome—before disappearing at an angle of the palace let fall in the path of the princess a cluster of lilies, in the center of which was a red carnation.

But this little venture ended quite differently from the romance of Emma Carmen Sylva. The handsome young lieutenant was sent into exile as a military attache to a neighboring power.

Napoleon to Be Avenged.

When the great French Emperor died in exile in 1821 there was probably a wish buried deep in his Corsican heart that the island which became the scene of his humiliation might be wiped from the face of the seas.

Whether or no such a curse was ever cast upon the island, it is certain that St. Helena is rapidly on the road to extinction, at least to become an uninhabitable rock. With the advent of steam navigation the island ceased to be a regular port of call, so that its always scanty exports dwindled almost to the vanishing point; plagues of insects destroyed its vegetation; rats brought thither by foreign vessels multiplied and overran the island until the government was compelled to offer a bounty of 1 penny for every rodent captured. Then the English garrison, which had been practically the sole source of income to the inhabitants, was withdrawn and the needs of the natives became desperate.

Then, as if this series of misfortunes was not enough, the termites—that curse of tropical and semi-tropical countries—invaded the island and will, unless controlled, render the city of Jamestown to a pulp of sawdust.

CITIZENS TO HELP SPEND BOND MONEY

Council Asked to Pass Ordinance Making Greater Hospital Open to All the Physicians of Atlanta.

A resolution providing for a citizens' committee of six to act in conjunction with the council and the trustees in expanding the money realized from the greater Grady hospital was passed Monday afternoon by the council. The mayor will name this committee.

Another important matter in connection with the management of the hospital was referred to the committee on ordinances, and will probably come up for council action at a later session. It is expected to be passed upon before May 5, when the proposed bond issue will be submitted to the voters. It provides for an ordinance throwing the pay wards of greater Grady open to all reputable physicians. If the ordinance is passed, no physician need fear that he will have difficulty in visiting his patients. The ordinance seemed to be regarded by the council as a logical correlative to the bond issue.

Plan Campaign Work.

The actual business of campaigning for the issue is to be thoroughly taken up at a general meeting this afternoon in the council chamber of the members of the council, the board of aldermen, the hospital trustees and the members of all general committees connected with the work of getting better facilities for taking care of the city's sick and injured. The meeting is set for 5 o'clock.

Bishop C. K. Nelson, chairman of the citizens' committee, will preside. Addresses on [illegible] and for the proposed improvement will be made by Mayor J. G. Woodward, Dr. W. B. Sommerall, superintendent of the hospital, and Bishop Nelson. Dr. Sommerall will tell the meeting exactly what the present conditions at the hospital are. The general opinion is that there could be no better argument on the need for improvement.

Organize Committees.

GREEN B. ADAIR DIES OF PARALYTIC STROKE

End Comes After Only Spell of Serious Illness He Had Experienced in Life.

Green B. Adair, prominent pioneer citizen of Atlanta, died suddenly from a stroke of paralysis Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at his residence, 1009 Highland avenue. Mr. Adair was recuperating from the only spell of serious illness he had ever had in his life, and which, after a month's duration, was seemingly at an end.

Mr. Adair was born in Talladega county, Alabama, seventy-seven years ago on the plantation of his father. At the age of 21 he enlisted in the Tenth Alabama regiment, Army of Virginia, and fought under General Robert E. Lee in most of the famous battles of the civil war.

When the war closed he came to Atlanta with his brother, A. D. Adair, and established one of the first wholesale commission houses in the south under the name of Adair & Bro. Thirteen years ago he retired from active business to look after his large estate, which consisted both of farm lands and city property.

Mr. Adair was active in church affairs and was instrumental in building the Second Baptist church, of which he was a member for eighteen years. He later joined the Highland Park Baptist church. He was very liberal in giving to charity.

Surviving him are his widow, formerly Miss Addie Marsh; three sons, G. B. Adair, Jr., Marsh Adair and Spencer Adair; one brother, A. D. Adair; two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Moore and Mrs. Warren Campbell, and three grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at the residence and Drs. White, O'Kelley and Spaulding will conduct the services. Interment will be in Oakland.

MISS DUNAWAY PLEASES IN "LADY OF DECORATION"

The performance was given under the auspices of the Alkahest-Lyceum bureau. Miss Dunaway appeared in ten or more costumes of rare beauty. Miss Fortin played the piano skillfully.

ILLEGITIMATE SON OF JULIA ANDERSON

Witness Swears Dunbar Boy Is Really Bruce Anderson. Georgian to Be Called.

Opelousas, La., April 20.—The boy Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dunbar have accepted as their son, who was kidnaped as Bruce Anderson, according to W. H. Murray, who testified today in the trial of W. C. Walters charged with stealing the Dunbar boy. Murray identified the child in court as the illegitimate son of Julia Anderson.

Murray testified he was a mail carrier and resides at Barnesville, N. C., the home of the Anderson woman. He said he had seen Walters with the child a great deal and knew them both well.

Much to the surprise of those watching the trial, Walters was not recalled for further cross-examination today, as it had been announced the state would do.

The defense has intimated that it will call David L. Bledsoe, said to be a prominent citizen of Iron City Ga., as a witness to corroborate the testimony of Walters. It is expected that Bledsoe will identify the boy found in possession of the defendant at the time of his arrest as the boy who accompanied Walters to Iron City the first week in May, 1913, shortly after the disappearance of Robert Dunbar.

It was rumored that the defense had planned to propose a test—to place the boy chained by the ankle to Robert Dunbar in a room with 100 other boys and to ask Bledsoe to single him out.

The sudden illness of Julia Anderson, brought here from North Carolina by the defense, may delay her appearance as a witness. She has suffered a second attack since her condition being sufficiently grave to require the services of a physician. Julia Anderson and Mrs. C. P. Dunbar both claim the boy found with Walters as their son.

BLEASE COSTS STATE U. S. MANEUVER CAMP

Garrison Resents Insults by Ordering New Location For Camp.

Washington, April 20.—The maneuver camp next summer for regular troops and the militia of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida will be located outside of South Carolina, because of Governor Blease's failure to comply with demands made by Secretary Garrison.

The secretary had given Blease until this morning to disavow all previous statements on the subject, and to invite the war department to have the maneuvers on the Isle of Palms, but, instead of such compliance, Mr. Garrison this morning received a telegram from Governor Blease saying he was sending a special delivery letter on the subject. Mr. Garrison's announcement that the camp would go to one of the other three states followed.

CONGREGATIONAL CLUB BANQUETS DR. BURTON

One hundred members of the Congregational club held a banquet last night at the Congregational church. Dr. A. F. Sherrill, of the Atlanta Theological seminary, presided.

A distinguished guest at the entertainment was Dr. C. E. Burton, newly elected secretary of the Congregational National Home Mission society and lately pastor of Euclid Congregational church, of Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Burton addressed the club upon "The Mission of Congregationalism."

He said it was the purpose of Congregationalism to promote the educational development of the people and create a deeper spirituality, and to bring about greater fellowship among men.

It was announced that the Pilgrims' chorus of the church would give a dinner next Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock. The chorus has about thirty-five members.

SHORTER COLLEGE GIRL PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Rome, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—The first death that has occurred in the student body of Shorter college during the forty years of its existence took place this morning, when Miss Mildred Borum, aged 17, and a member of the freshman class, died of heart failure.

She had previously been in apparently good health, and had retired at 9 o'clock, but had gone back to sleep, to await the usual rising hour of 7 o'clock. Her roommates at first thought that she was feigning sleep, but when they failed to arouse her they called physicians, who found that she had been dead for several minutes. Miss Borum was the daughter of W. D. Borum, a prominent business man of Americus, and her body was sent there for interment. A committee of the faculty and student body accompanied the remains to America, where the funeral will occur Tuesday afternoon.

SENATOR WEST BACKS CRUM FOR ATTORNEY

Cordele Man Presents Letter of Indorsement to Attorney General McReynolds.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, April 20.—(Special.)—Dr. A. R. Crum, of Cordele, called on Attorney General McReynolds this afternoon and presented a letter from Senator West indorsing him for district attorney for the southern district of Georgia. Mr. Crum has little to say of his visit except that he was satisfied with the interview. R. M. Hitch and T. N. Squaw have had their interviews and gone home.

An interesting incident of Mr. Crum's trip was that shortly after he registered at the Hotel Corcoran, a number of D. A. R.'s appeared. Seeing his name, they exclaimed: "The horrid thing! He is making fun of us!" Colonel J. Lindsay Johnson, of Rome, and Clayton Robinson, of Milledgeville, were here today and secured seats in the house gallery for the president's address through the courtesy of Representative Gordon Lee and Representative Howard.

FOR THE FALLEN WOMAN BISHOP KILGO PLEADS

Religion which drives women into the street, but will not take them into the church was denounced as unChristian by Bishop John C. Kilgo, in the revival services which are taking place daily at St. Paul's Methodist church.

Bishop Kilgo had been talking of the Magdalene. He quoted the words, "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

"How many of the Magdalenes of our day and age (in city), he demanded, "would be driven into the streets if their conscientious persecutors remembered this injunction of Christ? For every woman driven out of the city, ten men should be driven with her. It is easy enough for church people to raise the cry of sin, but when the sinner repents what can she do? Would you receive her into this church? No, but you receive the men equally as responsible for her sins into your homes! How different from Christ! It was not against the Magdalene that He turned His wrath, but against the man—the strong, able-bodied, hypocritical men who stoned her through the streets."

Dr. Plato Durham, of Charlotte, N. C., who Bishop Kilgo says is one of the greatest of the younger preachers in America, will arrive in Atlanta Tuesday and will take part in the services.

Dr. Charles L. Goodell, of New York, pastor of the largest Methodist church in the world, will be here Friday morning. He will preach on Friday afternoon to children and will preach from then on through Sunday. On Saturday at 11 o'clock he will preach a special sermon for the evangelical ministers.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 there will be a special service for children. The hours for preaching on Tuesday will be 11 o'clock a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 7:45 p. m.

NEGRO MAN AND WOMAN ROB WENDER OF WATCH

Sam Wender, a young man residing at 267 East Fair street, was attacked last night about 9 o'clock at the corner of Courtland street and Warren place by a negro man and woman and robbed of his gold watch and $2.

The negress struck Wender with a brick and then dragged him into an alley, where they beat and kicked him. Wender sang out "Murder!" in such tones as to put awe into his assailants and they fled.

Wender followed and soon Officers Born and Gaissett joined the pursuit and captured the woman.

The negro gave her name as Emma Green. She was released a month ago by the state, serving a year on the chaingang. She refused to reveal her companion's identity.

Senator Tillman, in a letter to President Harrison, stated that the matter would be brought to the attention of the naval affairs committee, April 23.

DIVORCE SUIT CAUSED HER ATTEMPT ON LIFE

Believed That Mrs. Ella Young, Who Took Bichloride of Mercury, Will Die.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—At the Macon hospital today it was reported that the condition of Mrs. Ella Young, who attempted suicide last Friday by taking five bichlorids of mercury tablets, was unimproved, and it is now doubtful whether or not she will recover.

It has developed that Mrs. Young's attempt on her life was due to the fact that her husband, who is now in Washington county, is suing her for divorce. Since being taken to the hospital she has refused to talk.

Mrs. Young took the poison at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. S. Young, on Telfair street, and then left the house, later being picked up in an unconscious condition on Second street, from where she was taken to the Macon hospital.

Felder Opens Headquarters.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—Thomas S. Felder, former attorney general of Georgia, today opened his headquarters for the campaign for the United States senate at the Lanier hotel. A force of stenographers was put to work preparing campaign literature.

Mr. Felder expects to open his speaking campaign at his home town, Parry, within a few days. His other speaking dates have not yet been decided on.

Wants Baptist Convention.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—Macon is to make a bid for the 1915 Southern Baptist convention. The proposition having this morning been indorsed by the Macon Ministerial association when the proposition was laid before the organization by the Macon Chamber of Commerce.

The ministers have agreed to see that a strong delegation of local Baptists attend the convention this year and aid the chamber of commerce in its fight. STRIKERS AND TROOPS IN AN ALL-DAY BATTLE

Colorado Soldiers Are Using Machine Gun Against the Labor Men.

Trinidad, Colo., April 20.—After an all-day battle between armed strikers and small detachments of state troops, the Ludlow district tonight practically was isolated, with the exact toll of the day's battle still in doubt. Reports received just before dark stated that heavy firing still continued. A machine gun brought by the reinforcements had been planted near the Ludlow station and was sweeping the tanks of the strikers' colony. Several tents were reported on fire.

All telephone wires were down, and telegraphic service was limited to one railroad wire. A report from the military camp at Ludlow said that one soldier was dead and two were wounded, one fatally. Twenty strikers were reported wounded and at least three were said to have been killed, but this was denied at union headquarters.

The military force totals about 100, and fully 400 armed strikers were said to be in the hills at the foot of Hastings and Berwind canyons and along the Colorado and Southeastern tracks. The district was in a high state of excitement.

Citizens are arming themselves in Trinidad.

The Secret of Health is Elimination of Waste

Every business man knows how difficult it is to keep the pipes holes and drawers of his office free from the accumulation of useless papers. Every housewife knows how difficult it is to keep her home free from the accumulation of all manner of useless things. So it is with the body. It is difficult to keep it free from the accumulation of waste matter. Unless the waste is promptly eliminated the machinery of the body soon becomes clogged. This is the beginning of most human ills.

RUMOR OF TROLLEY LINE FROM MARIETTA TO ROME

Rome, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—There is a rumor in financial circles here that a force of locating engineers will shortly take the field for the purpose of determining the route of an interurban railway between Rome and Marietta. It is said that this will be an extension of the Atlanta and Marietta electric railway.

The rumor further states that forty engineers will be put to work immediately upon the extension. It is believed by some that the proposed line has been projected by the Louisville and Nashville railroad, which system, it is declared, is taking this means of paralleling the state road, the Western and Atlantic, on which its lease soon expires. Belief is further strengthened in the rumored project when it is said that propositions are being made to begin the construction of the 100-foot dam on the Etowah river, four miles from Cartersville, where the Georgia Power company will erect a hydro-electric plant capable of producing 30,000-horse power.

TRIAL OF PELHAM CHIEF IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Pelham, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—The criminal docket of Mitchell superior court was taken up this afternoon, Judge E. E. Cox presiding.

The trial of Chief of Police D. C. Campbell, who was indicted by the grand jury last Friday for murder, growing out of the killing of John Harrell, a week ago, is set for Wednesday. It is said about 100 witnesses have been summoned to testify in this case. Several of the best lawyers in this section have been retained, and the case will be one of the hardest fought and most interesting ones tried in this county for some time past. The statement that has been published to the effect that Campbell had been moved from Mitchell county jail on account of the high feeling against him is not true.

CHEAPER GAS PETITION DELAYED FOR A TIME

Gas Consumers' League Still Gathering Data for Fight, Says Electrician Turner.

City Electrician R. J. Turner authorized the statement that the initiative and referendum petitions circulated by the Gas Consumers' league, asking council for $5,000 to probe the Atlanta Gas Light company for the purpose of forcing the company to give Atlanta an 80-cent gas rate, will not be presented to council Monday afternoon.

"All the petitions have been signed," Turner said, "and the league is ready to start the fight. We want plenty of time to expose the Atlanta Gas Light company to show the people that it is possible for the corporation to serve consumers with gas at eighty cents per 1,000 feet and still make money."

Turner declared that the object of the league in delaying the preliminary skirmish in the fight is to avoid, if possible, having the issue submitted to the people at the county election on May 6.

"The issue is a great one in Atlanta and needs careful study. We don't want to rush the matter before the people."

LAWYERS TO MAKE PLEA TOMORROW FOR JIM CANTRELL

Gainesville, Ga., April 20.—(Special.) Attorneys for Jim Cantrell, convicted of being accessory before the fact in the murder of Arthur Hawkins, a few miles out from this place last spring, will appear before Governor Slaton Wednesday to make a last plea for the life of the condemned man.

The supreme court having sustained the lower court in the case of Bartow Cantrell, the younger brother, who killed Hawkins, he will be carried before Judge J. B. Jones at an early date for sentence.

The committee will ask for a commutation to life sentence of both Jim and Bartow Cantrell, and should this be refused it is understood that a further respite for Jim Cantrell will be asked, that the two may hang together.

The third reprieve granted by Governor Slaton to the older Cantrell expires Friday.

Public sentiment has turned toward the Cantrell boys in the past few months, and many petitions have been signed asking for a commutation to life sentence. It is said that Governor Slaton now has petitions bearing about 1,800 names asking a life sentence for the two young men.

SAVANNAH POLICEMAN REMANDED FOR TRIAL

Savannah, Ga., April 20.—(Special.) Walter B. Brooks, the ex-policeman who was arrested for assaulting his aged father-in-law a few hours after his acquittal in the Chatham county superior court a few days ago on the charge of murder, was remanded for trial on the assault charge following a preliminary hearing today. The failure of the wife of Brooks to appear to testify interfered somewhat with the plans of the prosecution, who charge that he had persuaded her to leave the city.

W. E. Ballard, who was assaulted, testified that his son-in-law hit him with a revolver without provocation.

FORCED TO EAT CRUSHED ICE

And Was Not Even Allowed Privilege of Sitting Up, But Finally Wins Out.

Kaplan, La.—Mrs. Casamere Burkhart, of this town, gives out following for publication: "I feel that I owe my life to Cardui, the woman's tonic. I was married last April, and was in fairly good health. Shortly after marriage my health began to fail, and for three long months I was threatened with serious sickness.

I passed most of my time in bed, with a nurse at my bedside. At last, I was told an operation was necessary. I was so weak I could retain nothing on my stomach but crushed ice, and was not even allowed to sit up in bed.

A friend of mine advised me to use Cardui, the woman's tonic, and they got a bottle for me, as a last resort.

After taking Cardui for one week, I was able to be up in my room. After continual use for two months, I was in perfect health, and could do all of my work without tiring.

I take an occasional dose of Cardui and Black-Draught now, to keep my system in good condition.

Several of my friends are using Cardui with good results. I am never without it in the house."

There's a bottle of Cardui waiting for you at your nearest druggists'. Get it and begin taking today. You will never regret it.

Knowledge and Integrity

are two things that must enter into the optical business. Combining these two with high-grade workmanship, careful attention, honest dealings, and the grinding of the greater portion of prescriptions written for glasses by our better oculists, has fully demonstrated the fact that there is something indescribable about the way in which we conduct our business that few opticians have been able to understand. We know when glasses are suited to your eyes, and if you need the service of an oculist we will so advise, but positively will not accept your money without satisfaction from us. Just ask anybody if this is true.

RAILROADS GRANT LOW OPERA RATES

Reservations for Single Seats to Opera Must Be Taken Up at Once.

Persons who have made single seat reservations for grand opera and have not as yet taken up their tickets, are requested to do so at once, or their tickets will be resold. The demand for single seats is much larger than at any other season, and it would be well for all who have not secured seats to do so at once.

At a luncheon of the Atlanta Music Festival association at noon Monday it was announced that the Southeastern Passenger association had agreed to give sppecially low rates from all parts of the south. These rates will be lower than any ever offered except to confederate reunions, so it would seem that the out-of-town crowd this year would be particularly large.

Out-of-town persons who want rooms in Atlanta for opera week other than in hotels are invited by the Music Festival association to communicate their wants to Harvey Johnson, 1007 Third National Bank building. Any Atlantans who are willing to take pay guests into their homes during opera week and any boarding houses which can accommodate such guests are also asked to file their names with Mr. Johnson.

Of the operas to be sung this year interest chiefly centers on "Il Trovatore" and Rosenkavalier." The former is an old favorite, with which every one is familiar, and its tuneful airs are sung by thousands.

"Rosenkavalier" is a new opera, which has caused a good deal of comment in Europe. In this opera Margaret Aber, the talented young contralto, takes a man's part. The story of the opera is piquant, and is said to be highly amusing, and is said to be highly entertaining. Other artists who appear in it and Amato.

STATES HAVE THE RIGHT TO FIX INSURANCE RATE

Question Settled Once for All By Decision of United States Supreme Court.

Washington, April 20.—The right of the state to regulate insurance rates was settled once for all today by the supreme court upholding the former decision the Kansas fire insurance law of 1909.

Chief Justice White and Justices Vandeventer and Lamar dissented, holding insurance was a private contract with which the state had no right to interfere. Justice Lamar declared with vehemence that the decision upheld the principle that states had the right to fix the price of every article on the market.

Justice Lamar declared that the decision would uphold the power of the state to fix the price of an ax, hammer or pocket knife or, if so, of all things, were impressed with a "public interest."

Justice McKenna, for the majority of the court, declared insurance had become so clothed with a public interest as to distinguish it from ordinary business.

Officer, Hit By Car, Asks Light Sentence For Green Motorman

S. J. Roberts, a country boy who has just come to the city and secured a job as motorman for the Georgia Railway and Power company, told Judge Nash Broyles Monday morning that he thought the policeman standing in the middle of the street (who was the traffic policeman at the corner of Mitchell and Forsyth streets) had sense enough to get out of the way of his street car when he ran into him Sunday.

The traffic officer, T. W. Gore, saw the humor of the affair, and asked Judge Broyles to be light on Roberts, although he was pretty badly shaken up by the collision. Judge Broyles fined Roberts $5.75.

Roberts explained that he knew nothing of the traffic laws about a policeman signaling a street car at a corner before it could cross.

BABY MAKES PLAYROOM OF MUNICIPAL COURT

Crawls Into Lap of Judge While Mother and Alleged Father Fight Legal Battle.

The municipal courtroom on Monday was turned for a while into a playroom, while a 4-year-old child romped about, unconscious of the fact that its future would be largely shaped by the decision of Judge Hathcock, who was presiding.

The prisoner was Mitchell E. Sampson, who was on Thursday released from the federal penitentiary after serving a year's sentence for white slavery. Then he fell into the hands of a Fulton county deputy, who served him with a bail-bond and a warrant.

Both documents had been issued by Mrs. May Donaldson, a pretty young actress, who prosecuted Sampson in Monday's trial. She charged him with being the father of her 4-year-old child, a chubby bundle of flaxen curls and blue eyes, who romped all over the courtroom, crawled into Judge Hitchcock's lap, and climbed upon the knee of the man his mother accuses as the prisoner sat on the witness stand.

The charge was dismissed. The man's accuser left the courtroom in tears. She is a striking blonde, and apparently less than 18 years old. The bail trover, which she issued against Sampson, will be heard before the civil division of the municipal court soon. It involves a diamond ring, which she charges was taken from her by Sampson.

Sampson was married to Miss Mae Edmondson, a young Atlanta girl, only a few weeks before his arrest on the white slave charge. The bride's loyalty to him impelled her to take up residence in vicinity of the federal prison when he was sent there, so that she might see him every day that visitors were allowed.

She is now living in Tampa, Fla., and will return to Sampson, he stated, as soon as his legal troubles have ceased.

LOOKING FOR BIG MAN TO HEAD REGIONAL BANK

Names of Wexler, Lane, Jordan, Hand and Harding Are Mentioned.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, April 20.—(Special.)—In anticipation of the organization of the federal reserve bank of Atlanta, Secretary McAdoo has been looking around for the most suitable man to be governor of the bank.

Realizing the great responsibility that will rest upon this official—one of the three directors to be named by the federal reserve bank—the biggest, ablest and best financiers in the south east who can be persuaded to make the position is wanted. Much of the success of the new system will be based upon the man at its head, a man with not only practical business experience, but something broader and bigger than a mere commercial banker is wanted.

Senator Hoke Smith has discussed with Secretary McAdoo the names of Sol Wexler, the president of the Whitney Central National bank, of New Orleans; Mills B. Lane, of the Citizens' bank, Savannah; G. Gunby Jordan, of Columbus; J. L. Hand, of Pelham, and W. G. Harding, of Birmingham, for appointment as governor of the bank.

"I want a successful banker and business man and one with a broad vision as head of the bank," said Senator Smith.

"Among the men in the southeast who could be considered for such a position, a great majority are now carrying loads that they cannot easily lay down in justice to themselves and their stockholders. I know of no greater honor or opportunity for service to our section of the country that could come to a business man than to be given this position. The appointment will not be made until after the president appoints the remaining members of the federal reserve board who will have general charge of the system."

CLAD IN BATHROBE HE MAKES ESCAPE FROM SANITARIUM

The police were searching last night for a man who was parading the streets in bathrobe and stocking feet. The near "September Morn" disciple was J. E. Guthrie, a merchant, who resides and keeps a store at 212 Wylie street. For the past few weeks, Guthrie has been in treatment at a local sanitarium for a nervous trouble, and last night he escaped. Both the nurses after they had refused to let him go home.

It is enough to make some dentists pessimistic just to look at a set of sound teeth.

NO GAME WARDENS IN FULTON COUNTY

Zimmer and His Deputies Resign After Clash With State Game and Fish Commissioner Davis.

A breach which occurred between the game wardens of Fulton county and the state department of game and fish immediately after Charles Davis succeeded Jesse Mercer as state game and fish commissioner, resulted two weeks ago in the resignation of Will V. Zimmer as Fulton county game warden, and culminated Monday in the resignation of his two deputies, leaving Fulton county temporarily without a game warden or a deputy.

Although the resignation of Mr. Zimmer has been in the hands of Commissioner Davis for two weeks, it did not become publicly known until Monday.

Soon after the appointment of Mr. Davis as game commissioner, according to Mr. Zimmer, he asked for the latter's resignation. Mr. Zimmer refused at that time to resign.

Clashes With Davis.

Approximately two months ago, when a case for the infraction of the game laws was pending in the Fulton county courts, Mr. Davis, it is said, berated Mr. Zimmer in the latter being present in the courtroom when the former wanted him there.

Mr. Zimmer then gave Mr. Davis to understand that he "was not a hireling, and was not to be addressed in that manner," which led to warm words between the commissioner and his deputy, with a promise from the latter, it is said, that he would break his walking stick over the former's head.

Following this encounter, Mr. Zimmer tendered his resignation about two weeks ago, stating simply that he realized it would be impossible to render the state reasonable and proper service under your (Commissioner Davis') administration.

The resignation was accepted.

Deputies Resign.

On Monday, when Deputy Wardens A. E. Binder and "Bill" Felker learned definitely that Mr. Zimmer had resigned, they at once decided to stand by their head warden in the matter, and sent their resignations by messenger to the office of Commissioner Davis.

Deputy Felker stated, briefly, that just who will be appointed to succeed Warden Zimmer is not definitely known, but the name of John L. Edmondson, of Atlanta, has been mentioned in this connection.

WARNED BY PREMONITION OF SUICIDE OF HUSBAND

J. E. Sommer Follows Example of Two Brothers, Who Took Their Lives.

While sweeping in the hallway of her home early Monday morning, Mrs. J. E. Sommer, of 32 Kuhn street, noticed a shiny lead bullet. With a premonition that something terrible had happened, Mrs. Sommer went to her husband's bedroom to see if he was there. Not finding him there, she looked into the bathroom.

Peering in, she saw the body of her husband lying on the floor, and a revolver beside him on the tile floor. A bullet had pierced his forehead.

Sommer was 49 years old, and held a position as bookkeeper for the Stafford Publishing company. He was the last of three brothers to take their own life.

Mrs. Sommer arose before her husband Monday morning, and was in the backyard sweeping when she heard a muffled report in the house which she thought was a door slamming.

"My husband's health had been very bad," said Mrs. Sommer. "He has been ill for some time, though he has kept at his work. All day Sunday I could see that he was blue and despondent, and suffering mentally."

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Patterson's chapel. Interment will be at noon Wednesday in the cemetery at Hogansville, Ga.

CHARGE AGAINST KNIGHT NOT PRESSED IN COURT

Wife of Macon Man Accused Him of Trying to Blind Her With Carbolic Acid.

The charge against DeWitt Knight, the young Macon husband whose wife accused him of having blinded her with carbolic acid last month when she was horribly burned about the face and eyes in a room in the Piedmont hotel, was dismissed yesterday.

Mrs. Knight did not appear in court. Her attorneys stated, however, that she did not care to press prosecution. The charges were dropped. Knight was ready for trial, he stated, and had prepared to show that his accuser had attempted suicide.

Mrs. Knight's injuries culminated from a series of domestic troubles. She disappeared from her home in Macon, and was not found by her husband for several days. After a search of a week or more, Knight found his wife boarding a train for Atlanta. He followed her secretly on the train and in a cab to the Piedmont hotel, where she was found lying on the floor, her face severely burned. Knight was in the room.

15-Cent Fare Brings $2,000 Damage Suit By Gainesville Man

Carl N. Davis, who is a prosperous undertaker of Gainesville, Ga., refused to pay 15 cents additional fare on Southern train No. 18 while on a trip from Howell station last February, and because the conductor put him off at Cross Keys he filed suit for $2,000 in superior court Monday afternoon. Davis alleges that he was forced to walk through eight miles of desolate country, with which he was not acquainted.

He lays a large part of the blame to the failure of the Southern railway to establish a ticket office at Howell station, but most of it to the stalwart conductor, who none too gently, so he says, evicted him from the train. Davis says that he paid the conductor $1.35 fare to Gainesville, which itself was over the regular rate. The conductor, he charges, demanded $1.50.

WILL PROBE CHARGES AGAINST ATHENS CHIEF

Athens, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—The police committee of the council, possibly the entire council board and mayor, will investigate Monday evening the conduct of Chief of Police Loyd Brooks, who, some days have charged, was under the influence of intoxicants at the fire which gutted a business block on Broad street Thursday night.

Mr. Brooks is still at his desk at the city hall. He joined in the request for an investigation. The chief was for years, marshal of the city, and was sheriff of Madison county for several terms before moving to Athens.

"Can't afford it" is a stingy man's excuse, but it seldom leads to bankruptcy.

3,000 CATTLE BURNED IN A FIRE AT PEORIA

Peoria, Ill., April 20.—Fire early tonight swept over three blocks destroying the cattle feeding barns and a block of baled hay. It is estimated 3,000 cattle were burned. The loss is estimated at $400,000.

THREE IN A ROW FROM TURTLES

ALABAMA DOWNED BY GEORGIA TEAM

Pass, Three Singles and a Triple in Opening Spasm Gave Exciting Contest to Red and Black.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 20.—(Special.) In one of the hardest fought and hottest games ever seen on the campus, Georgia defeated Alabama here today to the tune of 7 to 2. Both teams played jam-up ball throughout, and the game was full of hard, clean hitting and beautiful fielding.

The visitors won in the first inning, when, on a pass, a three-bagger and three clean singles, they scored three runs. Magee was relieved in this stage by Stevenson, who retired the Georgia batters in order except in the eighth, when they secured a couple of hits. Murray was also in excellent form, fanning twelve of the Crimson batters.

Alabama had a good chance in the fifth, but with three men on and two down, Hagan failed to produce and popped to third. In the ninth, with one down, Joplin hit one on the nose that looked good for two bases, but Clements made a pretty one-hand stab and pulled it down, and Wells fanned. The two teams seemed very evenly matched, Georgia being slightly stronger with the stick. The game tomorrow promises to be another thriller and should be a hard fought and pretty exhibition of baseball.

Crackers Made It Three Straights From Turtles; Final of Series Today

By Herbert Caldwell.

Memphis, Tenn., April 20.—(Special.) Turtle soup was served the Crackers again on Red Elm platter this afternoon and they went at it with an appetite.

Atlanta won the third straight game of the initial home series—score 7 to 2—and further demonstrated the fact that if Memphis is to cut much down figure in the 1914 doings of Southern league baseball there must be some bolstering.

It took two hours and thirty minutes to play the game, and during that time the Turtles lost a game, a player and found a player.

In the second inning Lynch ran into Dunckel at first base, dislocating the Turtle first-sacker's arm, according to the attending physician it will be twenty-one days before Dunckel is fit for work. Allison, secured from the Cubs, and who reported today, was Dunckel's place at first and played a creditable game.

Allison looks like a real ball player. He came here as an outfielder and will try to cop one of the garden jobs when Dunckel's injuries mend.

Slow and Listless.

It was a slow and listless game, with few real bright spots. Seven errors were contributed, of which three were Turtle faults. Several pretty catches in the outfield helped to liven the game. The Turtles outhit in number of hits, but they were not the same kind of hits. Atlanta found George Merritt nine times, while the Turtles kicked Klesinger seven times, giving eleven times.

Rube Kisenger, a 1913 Turtle, started for the invaders, but did not last two innings. Three straight hits off Kisenger in the second produced two runs, and Manager Smith substituted Browning, who, although he was wild at times, was strong when Turtle runs were in sight.

Atlanta scored two runs each in the first, second and sixth innings. McConnell, first up, singled, Bryan sacrificed him to second. Welchonce was out on a grounder, but Long followed with a triple, scoring McConnell. Long scored a minute later, when Stark let Merritt's throw to the catch Long off third get by him.

The Crackers added two more in the second. Love misjudged Flanagan's drive to center and Flanagan landed on second. Lynch's single scored the third base line and Stark heaved wild to Dunckel, letting Flanagan score. Lynch ran into Dunckel, injuring his arm, and went on to second. Allison replaced Dunckel at first. Reynolds dropped a bunt to third, and Stark threw wild to Mullen, covering first, and Lynch scored

"Rube" Retires.

Memphis scored two in their half of the second and had not Browning been sent to the rescue the odds are that they would have scored more. Stark doubled to right for an opener. Shanley followed with a double, scoring Stark, and going to third when Reynolds let the throw home to catch Stark get by him. Mullen singled over second, scoring Shanley. The bleachers were hot after "Rube," but Browning took up the job at this juncture.

Atlanta scored again in the fourth when Reynolds singled. Browning sacrificed to Mullen, who heaved to third with Reynolds standing. Stark caught the throw went wild and Reynolds raced to third and scored on McConnell's double.

Memphis scored one in the fourth. With two out, Allison hit a slow roller grounder to Jennings. Schiel hit for a double and Allison showed his speed when he beat the ball home by a narrow margin.

Coyle opened the fifth with a triple which put a little life into the fray for a minute. Painters were painting a new sign in right field, and the ball hit the sign, almost striking a painter. Flanagan raced for the ball, fell up against the sign and wiped out the last word painted. His back was covered with black paint the remainder of the game. Welchonce claimed that he would be good for two bases, but Umpire Pfenninger ruled otherwise. Love singled to second, scoring Coyle.

Sew Up Game.

The Crackers made the game safe in the sixth with two more markers. Browning walked and McConnell sacrificed, Jennings advancing to center, scoring Browning. Love let the hit get through his legs and Jennings went to third. Kircher missed a home run by about three feet in the left field bleachers and then struck out. Long walked; Elbel singled, counting Jennings and sending Long to third. Reynolds scored on a long fly to Love and had a good chance to score more. Stark singled for a starter, scoring Elbel, sending Stark to third. Mullen filled out to Kircher, who held Stark, second while Stark was scoring. Allison was passed. Schiel grounded to Lynch, who tossed third and doubled Schiel at first.

Why the Crackers did not make more runs is a doubtful problem. About all George Merritt had was a slow white ball and the best wishes of the home fans. He walked six men and struck out as many, but he turned in success.

Six two-base hits were made, with the Turtles annexing two-thirds of them. Two of the twenty safe knocks were triples by Long and Coyle. The batteries for tomorrow's game are doubtful.

ATLANTA WILL PURCHASE ASPHALT REPAIR PLANT

Authority for the purchase of an asphalt repair plant to cost about $15,000 was given by the general council to the street committee yesterday afternoon. According to Alderman C. H. Kelley, chairman of the street committee, the purchase of the plant will mean the saving of thousands of dollars to the city.

Funchal, the capital of Madeira, is a port of call for vessels between Europe and North and South America, and it is estimated that the total annual transient population is about 150,000 persons, of whom 24,000 are en route to or from the United States.

BISLAND IS LOST TO THE CRACKERS

Cleveland Naps Claim Him By Waiver Route From the Browns—He Will Play Regularly.

Rivington Bisland is lost to the Crackers. All hope of getting the sensational fielding, hard-hitting infielder back from the big leagues has flown. "Bissy" is now a member of the Cleveland Naps, being secured by them by the waiver route. It being presumed that Branch Rickey was trying to swive the shortstop out of the league to send him back to the Crackers.

Manager Ray Chapman laid up with a broken leg and several other players injured, the Naps have been in a bad way. Bisland will fit in their infield like a kid glove on a chubby hand and will probably play regularly until Chapman's return.

New Orleans, April 20.—C. Brown, pitching for Birmingham, weakened in the sixth inning, and New Orleans batted in five runs before he was withdrawn. The locals added another in the seventh on a clever double steal. They won the game by a score of 5 to 0.

TECH AND CLEMSON TRACK TEAMS MEET

The Tech track team will meet its first opponent of the season on Saturday when Clemson visits Grant Field.

Although Clemson has won out over Tech in recent years, the Jackets will give the Clemson team a hard battle, as the team is one of the best that has ever represented the school.

GEORGIA AND TECH SCRUBS PLAY FRIDAY

During the varsity nine's absence the Tech scrubs will tackle the Georgia scrubs at Grant Field on Friday afternoon. The game is sure to be a hard fought, as all the former contests between the two have been closely contested.

A man can always find plenty of excuses for taking a drink, but it is hard to find one long enough when he comes home drunk.

PREP TRACK MEET AT G. M. A. SATURDAY

The annual Prep track meet will be held this coming Saturday, April 25, at Georgia Military academy. The four teams that are now in the league will be the only participants, as the withdrawal of the other three from the league at a recent meeting disqualifies them from participating in any of the Prep league events until they are reinstated.

The meet will start at 3 oclock, and the usual events held at a track meet will be pulled off in regular order.

RIVERSIDE AND G. M. C. PLAY 2-2 TIE GAME

Gainesville Ga., April 20.—(Special.) The Riverside Military academy and the Georgia Military college, Soree rivals for the prep school baseball title of the state of Georgia, waged a hot game of ball here this afternoon, the result being a 2 to 2 tie, darkness ending the game.

Morris and Camp, the rival pitchers, twirled wonderful ball and it was their work that stood out most prominently, though they received excellent support from their teammates. Morris was invincible until the ninth inning, when G. M. C. tied up the game. The batting of both sides was light, both pitchers having the numbers of the opposing batsmen practically every minute of the game. The teams meet again tomorrow.

MAYOR IS STYLED ATLANTA'S HUERTA

Warm Clash in Council Follows Attempt to Override Veto of the Sidewalk Paving Contract.

After Mayor James G. Woodward had sent a threat to council that he would refuse to sign the contract with the Cement Stone and Tile company, which amounts to approximately $100,000, council accepted the terms he dictated to a special committee, and following a rather tumultuous session yesterday afternoon, practically sustained his veto.

Alderman Albert Thomson, the mayor's bitterest foe in the general council was on the floor throughout the debate anent the veto message fighting to lead council to override the mayor.

"Mayor Woodward is the Huerta of the city government," said Alderman Thomson. "He is a man of unbounded egotism. He has been bulldozing this council into doing his bidding ever since he has been in office, and it is child's play to send a special committee to him to let him dictate."

Owens Answers Mayor.

When Mayor Woodward's veto message dealing with the resolution authorizing the city to enter into the 1914 contract with the Cement Stone and Tile company was taken up, Alderman Owens, of the eighth ward, the member who was criticised by the mayor in the veto message as having a direct interest in the corporation seeking the contract, read a statement which appeared in full in Sunday's Constitution.

Alderman Owens added to his statement that since the controversy with the mayor arose the stock he held as collateral on notes of W. L. Winship, his former partner in the business, had been replaced by other collateral, and he explained that his only connection with Bishop, or the Cement Stone and Tile company, was that of the holder of purchase money notes representing the payment for the stock.

Councilman Humphrey made the suggestion that a committee of three members of council be appointed to inform the mayor that Alderman Owens had taken other collateral than the stock he originally sold to Bishop. He said he was certain the mayor was simply acting in the interest of the city.

Armistead and Shepard Clash.

At this stage of the discussion Alderman Armistead and Councilman Shepard crossed lances when the latter declared:

"Mayor Woodward is not perfect. If he is, then we ought to send him to heaven. He is too good to be with us."

Alderman Armistead arose to state a point of order. He declared that council was not discussing the mayor's veto, but was engaged in assailing his character.

"I don't think we have a right to attack anyone's character here," he said. "The question before the council is whether or not a committe shall be appointed to confer with the mayor."

Councilman Shepard denied that his remarks assailed the mayor.

Councilmen Humphrey and Knight and Alderman Armistead were appointed to confer with the mayor. Mayor Woodward told the committee that under the assumption made to him he would approve the contract.

"But I'll not sign if council does not sustain my veto!" he threatened.

Legal Says Mayson.

The committee then made a verbal report quoting the mayor as near as possible, and through Councilman Humphrey urged that for the sake of expediency and in fairness to W. L. Winship and the Cement Stone and Tile company that council sustain the veto and approve the contract.

City Attorney Mayson ruled that council could do what it pleased with the contract, would not have to advertise for bids again, and that whatever action was taken would be entirely legal. He explained, however, that he did not believe it to be entirely regular to go into the proposition again without giving the other bidders a chance.

Council gave the matter legal status laying the veto of the mayor on the table which practically amounts to approval, and placing the original resolution awarding the contract to the Cement Stone and Tile company before council as an entirely new proposition introduced by the street committee.

The resolution was then voted on and approved.

Mayor Woodward's vetoes of resolutions providing for laying sewers in various parts of the city on the ground that they were not passed up regularly, were overridden, 15 against 4.

Failing to muster a majority of two-thirds of the members voting, the veto of the resolution authorizing the sale of the Edgewood light plant property to a citizen named Farmer, was sustained. Mayor Woodward vetoed the resolution because he received an offer from the Georgia Cotton Oil company of $5,000 for the property, against $4,500 offered by Farmer.

Twelve members of council voted to override the veto and six to sustain it.

Experts have estimated that if the forests of the world were scientifically operated they would yield the equivalent of from 30 to 150 times the present consumption of wood annually.

TEACHER OF TANGO DENIES CRITICISING DANCERS OF STATE

Miss Klara R. T. Jennings, of Rochester, N. Y., who has conducted several very successful and popular dancing classes in Atlanta, has just returned from Rome, where she has just closed a very successful engagement.

Miss Jennings denies the report that she said while in Rome that the dancers of Atlanta, Rome, Athens and Columbus were anything but graceful, to say the least.

"Such an utterance," said Miss Jennings, "I could never think of making. The dancers of these Georgia cities are as charming, graceful and proper as any it has been my pleasure to meet anywhere."

Miss Jennings left Monday for Athens, where she will visit friends for a few days before going north. Miss Jennings will come back to Atlanta in the fall for the third season of her classes here. She taught at Washington seminary last year.

COTTON RECOVERS FROM RECENT BREAK

Uneasiness Over Mexican Situation, But Many Think Declaration of War Would Have Bullish Effect.

New York, April 20.—Cotton recovered a good part of Saturday's loss figuring today's trading. There was further uneasiness over the Mexican situation, and many brokers thought that even if this country should be forced into a declaration of war the effect on cotton would be more bullish than otherwise, as it would be expected to stimulate the demand for cotton stock, and possibly shame a scarcity of fabrics in the southwest. At any rate, after some early forward trading, the market ruled generally steady, and closed steady at a net gain of from 8 to 15 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 2 points on better cables than did on Saturday's new York break. There were a good many over-Sunday selling orders around the rise, but the offerings also were encouraged by the favorable week end weather forecasts. Liverpool showing a net loss of 2 or 3 points, the Egyptian crop report was bullish, and local connections seemed to be buying the comparatively small amount of May offered for sale with the result the larger local bouses was credited with buying July for certain spot and southern mills. Reports of heavy rain in the central belt on Sunday may also have encouraged buying, as it was construed to new crop positions, in the face of daily forecasts for clear and warmer weather, and as prices worked higher recent sellers began to cover. Active months about 9 points net higher in consequence, with July relatively firm, owing to the strong interests were accumulating that delivery at the prevailing discount. Closing bids were 1 to 4 points off from the best, under realizing.

Spot cotton quiet, middling uplands 13.10. No sales.

ARGENTINE CORN FORCES PRICE DOWN

Only for Brief Interval Does Mexican War Outlook Prevent Fresh Collapse of the Market.

Chicago, April 20.—It was only for a brief interval today that the war outlook prevented a fresh collapse of the corn market. Holders especially seized the opportunity to press the sale of huge amounts, and to get in line with the sharp competition from Argentina. Prices closed weak at a loss of 7-8 to 1 3-4@1 7-8c compared with Saturday night. Wheat finished 1-8c off to 1-8c up, and oats a shade down to a like advance, but provisions demoralized almost as much as corn, with declines varying from 20 to 57 1-2@70c.

It was the fourth successive day of sensational breaks in the price of corn. The most severe smash yet came just before the close, when it seemed as if about all the conspicuous bulls were admitting defeat, and were leaving everything to the mercy of fate. News that a single dealer in Texas had unloaded 700,000 bushels of new crop bushels at Kansas City had much to do with pulling out support from under the market here.

Messages were received from New York that Argentine corn was being placing the domestic cereal from Maine to the Rio Grande. One broker said: "If New York reports are true in offering 1,000,000 bushels of Argentine corn in this port, and at lower prices than are any thus far on the crop.

Wheat held comparatively firm, in view of the corn weakness, but toward the last there was rather free selling by the part of Minneapolis dealers, many who had covered early on account of war talk. Crop reports were in the main favorable, although there was some damage by Hessian fly was reported in Ohio and Indiana, and there was need of rain in Nebraska, and there was some nervousness regarding a possible frost.

Active covering by shorts upheld the oats market. Advices indicated some decrease of planting in the central west.

There was virtually no support for provisions. Corn weakness carried the market down, and the fact that packers' loins orders left no chance for any course but a drastic clean-out.

STOCKS CONTINUE DOWNWARD SWING

Nearly a Score of Low Records Reached — Mexican Crisis Credited With the Bearish Influence.

New York, April 20.—The decline in stocks continued today, and another string of low records for the year, numbering nearly a score, was recorded. In the list were some of the popular trading shares, such as Reading, Union Pacific and Steel. At the opening the market was under pressure, and at lost ground rapidly during the first quarter of an hour. A rally ensued, which restored quotations to a level with the preceding close or above, but during the afternoon the downward swing was resumed. Distinct weakness appeared on this movement, and some of the prominent issues, including Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Reading and Lehigh Valley, lost 1 to 2 points.

The Mexican crisis generally was referred to as the principal influence bearish influence. The news tickers reported a large part of the service in Washington dispatches telling of warlike preparations, and the whole street talked of Mexico. The situation presented an unusual opportunity for the bears, and they utilized it successfully. At the same time there was no evidence of any feeling of nervousness. In the late decline, particularly, the market acted as though liquidation on a considerable large scale was in progress, as well as short selling. It is was by no means apparent that the Mexican situation was the chief cause of the throwing over of real stock. A good deal of this selling was believed to be professional, although a number of stocks, to whom the Mexican crisis came as the last of a series of blows to the market, inducing them to let go.

Oil stocks were particularly weak. The members of the Standard Oil group on the curb were forced down by a wide open market, and each other cut in the price of crude oil.

In the bond market prices were lower, after some irregularity. Rock Island collaterals made a 2-point advance, only to lose it. New York railways adjustment 5s weakened sharply. State and municipal issues also declined. Security Pacific notes, however, were unusually active. Total sales of bonds (par value), $2,550,000. United States bonds declined ¼ to ⅝ on call. Heaviness of these bonds was associated with the Mexican crisis. It was thought that in the event of hostilities a new bond issue would be floated.

Finger-Print Signatures For Illiterate Depositors Adopted by Lowry National

A man may be totally ignorant of writing, and yet carry about with him a signature which is more incontestable and less apt to imitation than any written signature could possibly be. Such is this particular kind of signature that the Lowry National has just completed arrangements for incorporating it as a part of the regular checking business. It is called the finger-print signature.

Hereafter anyone who wants to open an account at the Lowry National need not be deterred by the inability to write. When he becomes a depositor, an impression of his left hand thumb will be taken by the bank and filed away with his name. If the left hand thumb is missing, the right hand thumb and little finger will be utilized in its stead. The little finger is also required in this case, because investigation has shown that right hand thumbs are particularly liable to accident. When the depositor comes to draw out money, he simply signs with his thumb instead of his name, always keeping the name, of course, has to be written by someone. The thumb signature is compared with that on file in the bank, and, if everything is correct, the check is paid.

In this connection it has been successfully used for five years by the National Bank of Cuba, and is also employed by the United States government in dealing with the Indians.

FORMER COUNCILMAN HELD ON WIFE'S PLEA

Says Her Husband, While Intoxicated, Made Her Life Miserable.

Dr. S. D. Warnock, of 136 South Moreland avenue, a former member of council from the fourteenth ward, was arrested early Monday morning and held at police station on charges of his wife that while under the influence of whisky he threatened to cut up to the time of his arrest he had made life miserable for her and her mother-in-law by brandishing a revolver in their faces.

On Monday morning in police court Mrs. Warnock pleaded that her husband be held at police station until he could get over his present spell. On her request, Judge Broyles asked Dr. Warnock to plead guilty to a charge of drunk and disorderly.

When Dr. Warnock did this Judge Broyles fixed his bond at $600, which the doctor gave. His case will be tried this morning.

AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Junior Vaudeville.
(At the Grand.)

Ye humble critic went forth to criticise the initial production of Keith Junior vaudeville last night at the Grand opera house, and came near not getting a chance to do the criticising on account of the crowds which came near keeping him from getting in the show.

Truly it was some crowd—a seething, jamming crowd. The canny passerby would have surmised that war bulletins were being posted free on the theater's interior. Grand officials say it was the largest vaudeville crowd that ever attended a performance in the city.

Furthermore, the show was good. It is the three-a-day kind—10 and 20 cents—and from last night's prospects has won a home here.

The audience went into a gale of laughter over even the archaic joke on mother-in-laws, and when Chandler Fagan sang the regulation song which he composed on members of the audience, the crowd went just a short piece this side of hysterics.

The Grand's bill opens with Mlle. Paula, who does daring feats in mid-air. The next bill is the Four O'Neil sisters, who sing and dance and cut up generally, and whose stunt is a long way short from bad. Daisy and Baker are next. They are billed as the Ragtime Boys from Frisco, and they went strong—very strong, and they were liberal in responding to encores. Kelly and Lafferty, newly married, come next with an act that is fair. Then comes "Noodles" Fagan, the newsboy King, who tells a lot of jokes, sings numerous songs, then introduces his kid competitor, who also scored big points. Fagan got away with it immensely.

"Should a Woman Tell," in four reels —whether she tells it in anything else or not—closes the bill.

Remember, three performances a day —1:30, 7:30, 9:30—at the Grand.
BRITT CRAIG.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Forsyth.)

It seems to depend these days upon the audience as to what kind of a bill you have. If the bill is enigmatic, here's the explanation.

Monday afternoon the bill at the Forsyth was mighty close to a dead number. Monday evening it was a screaming riot. You may take your choice.

About three acts, however, there was little difference of opinion. Those three were "The Green Beetle," a dramatic sketch; Redford and Winchester, burlesque jugglers, and Ergottis and Lilliputians, on the program as "European Rialey artists."

The "Green Beetle" is a weird, uncanny sort of a playlet, that tells the story of a man and a woman's visit to a Chinese curio shop. The man has heart failure and dies there. The Chinaman who runs the place steals the woman. Fifteen years later he attempts the same trick with the child of the woman he had wronged, who is now grown into a young lady, and the mother, appearing on the scene at the critical moment, arrives him with a poisoned fan, and death takes him. Two deaths is enough to cast something of a gloom over almost any play, much less twenty-five or thirty minutes of play. The acting is well done.

The Lilliputians won the hearts of the audience from the start. They are clever in acrobatic work and in balancing, and their line of chatter is good.

Redford and Winchester had 'em laughing all the time—that is the clown part of the act did. The number is about the same as when presented here some years ago.

Now comes the difference in audiences. It was most marked in the case of Conlin, Steele and Carr, in "Follies of Vaudeville." In the afternoon a critical audience was polite, but that's just about the best that the kindest hearted critic could say. At night they backed "Seven Days" off the boards for the number of laughs squeezed into a minute, and that's traveling.

Mae West had her friends in the afternoon. She didn't have so many at the evening performance, it is whispered. Miss West signs herself "the eccentric comedienne." She is all of that. She has little voice, but a personality that makes itself felt from the front row back. She would be more obliging with encores, however, so a lady said on Monday afternoon. The critic agreed. Yes, he was there in the afternoon.

Miss Ethel and Emma Hopkins, in "Luna Land," in second position, are good. Warren Keane and Grace White, the trickologist and the pianiste, open the bill.
ROBERT MORAN.

"Seven Days."
(At the Lyric.)

If Atlanta theatergoers do not soon awaken to the realization that they have one of the best, if not the best, stock company in the United States, it will only be a question of a few weeks before the Lucille LaVerne company will be forced to abandon its engagement at the Lyric and seek encouragement elsewhere.

The company began its second week last night and the lamentable fact that Atlantans are unappreciative stuck out very prominently. Mary Hinehart Roberts' delectable comedy, "Seven Days," was the dainty morsel offered patrons of the theater. In many respects the play was superior to the production many folks paid recently $1.50 to see, and they almost broke their necks to get to the box office. Take it from me, the higher-priced show was not one whit better than Miss LaVerne's effort, and there are better things to follow if our folks will only show the boosted Atlanta spirit.

With only the first six rows comfortably filled, the company worked with a vim and enthusiasm that was simply irresistible. The company is well-balanced, and it is doubtful if there has ever been a comedy produced on a more elaborate scale or with better attention to detail. It is simply impossible to pick out member of the cast over the other. Robert Middlemass was superb as James Wilson and Miss LaVerne charmed as Mrs. Dallas. Forbes Aylmer and Tom Milham were also good. Misses Chaffe, Haskell and Blakeney fitted snugly in parts just suited to their capabilities.

It's up to Atlanta to show its appreciation of the efforts of the company. Other cities would take a pride in such an organization.
JAMES W. MEADE.

Mexican War Play.
(At the Bijou.)

War-like sentiment was cheered to the echo last night at the Bijou, when Eddie Black and his players presented a thrilling Mexican war play. As yet the play has no name. Patrons of the Bijou are to christen it. Fifty dollars is to be given to the person who suggests the most appropriate title. The week's offering was written by Walter VanDyke, stage director of the company, and that it made a most favorable impression was evidenced by the applause which punctuated the play from start to finish.

Eddie Black appears as a fighting Irishman from Atlanta, and he has the big audience in a roar of merriment at his drolleries. Mr. VanDyke, as a German, causes a ripple to laugh at his comedy work, and Miss Alice De-Lane aided materially in the fun-making. Edwin Vail has a capital part and won plenty of applause by his fine work.

Frank Dare appeared as a Mexican renegade, and his work was without a flaw. Newton Ross was also good in a Mexican role. Miss Marie Claire made a charming Dolores Terraza, and Miss Anna Brandt won new friends. Tim Carter also gave a good account of himself.

"Damaged Goods."
(At the Atlanta.)

This morning at 9 o'clock seats will be placed on sale for the sensational play, "Damaged Goods," at the Atlanta. This noted sociological drama will come to Atlanta Friday and Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. It will be presented by a company of rare merit, several members of which were in the New York cast and all of whom received the highest praise from all critics in New Orleans during the past week. The play deals with a disease which is not often discussed, but in no way is the most sensitive shocked. In a way it holds one with an intense grip, which it is hardly possible to shake. It is highly interesting and thrilling.

WATERS AND TURMAN HAVE WARM CLASH

difficulty that confronts the county board is the land gamblers. The commissioners are in constant danger of being misled. I believe that is the worst trouble—the only trouble. A man has to be on the board two or three years before he realizes why the main thoroughfares and the plain people are not served.

By this time Mr. Waters had answered, sight or mind of the question. Part of No. 11 was, "Is it true that this county paid $3 more a ton for asphalt than other cities?" Mr. Waters read it, and said: "It certainly is true."

"Fulton county," he went on, "paid $5 per ton more than New Orleans." The other part was, "Is it true that the commissioners went touring at the expense of the asphalt companies?" To this Mr. Waters replied:

"As to the trips, I simply say I heard the same rumors. We leave that for those who took the trips to explain. I will say this: That after the return of the member of the board who took this trip he could only see one kind of asphalt in the world."

Mr. Waters closed with the charge that Oscar Mills, who is running against him, is backed by the commissioners who form the alleged tight majority of the board—Turman, Hale and Winn—and that his election would mean the appointment of Mr. Smith, whose term expires shortly, as general county superintendent.

The minority member of the board had scarcely sat down when Mr. Turman was on his feet. Mr. Turman explained that a friend had invited him to come along in a motor car.

Mayor Hoke explained courteously that there were some other speakers scheduled first, and that the meeting would be glad to hear from Mr. Turman when they were through. Finally, Mr. Hale introduced the majority commissioner by asking him why that road building in East Point had been stopped.

Turman Denies Charges.

Mr. Turman contradicted specifically every charge that Commissioner Waters had made. He ridiculed the idea of a triumvirate, and declared there had been no antagonism existent among the board members.

He also impugned the stand of Commissioner Waters in a number of matters, a notable one being the discharge of Wood Donaldson. Commissioner Waters, it will be remembered, was the only member of the board who voted for the warden's retention. Mr. Turman called attention to this.

He likewise charged Commissioner Waters with being wrong quite as often on asphalt matters as anyone else.

The meeting ended at 11:26 o'clock, Mr. Waters and Mr. Turman having occupied the floor for an hour each.

HOW HUERTA GLOATED OF TREASON TO MADERO

Washington, April 20.—Huerta's telegram to President Taft on February 15, 1913, was given out again at the white house today and officials decided the words had a significant bearing on the present situation. It follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that I have overthrown this government, the forces are with me and from them on peace and prosperity will reign.

"Your obedient servant,
"VICTORIANO HUERTA,
"Commander-in-Chief."

ONLY A FEW AMERICANS ARE LEFT IN MEXICO

Washington, April 20.—The diplomatic body in Washington has learned that the United States will continue to look after foreigners in northern Mexico in the constitutionalist zone where foreign governments have no consular representatives. In the federal territory these governments will continue to look after their own subjects.

State department estimates placed the number of Americans in Mexico City at 1,500; Vera Cruz, about 500; Tampico, 500; Torreon, 150; Chihuahua, 150; Guadalajara, 100, with others in Guaymas, Mazatlan, Acapulco and other small towns.
