WILLIAM J. BURNS DRIVEN OUT OF MARIETTA

W. J. Burns and Dan Lehon Summoned by Solicitor Dorsey To the Frank Retrial Hearing

Subpoenas Served Upon the Noted Detective and Assistant After Their Return From Marietta—J. E. Duffey Arrested and Held as Witness for Resumption of Hearing Monday Morning.

STORY OF MARY RICH DENIED IN AFFIDAVIT GIVEN TO SOLICITOR

Forgery, Bribery, Trickery, Intimidating Witnesses, Threatening to Expose Scandals of Girls, All Made Against Men Who Are Working for the Defense. Prisoner's Character Attacked.

Developments in the Leo Frank case last night included the serving of subpoenas upon Detective William J. Burns and his lieutenant, Dan S. Lehon, demanding their presence before Solicitor Dorsey at the Frank new trial hearing before Judge Hill, and the arrest of J. E. Duffey, who was thrown in jail to await the resumption of the hearing Monday morning.

Lehon and Burns were served with papers in their apartments in the Piedmont hotel shortly after their return from the strenuous trip to Marietta. They were conferring with attorneys for Frank's defense at the time. The subpoenas were served by Detectives Bob Waggoner, Jim Doyal and Deputy Sheriff Newt A. Garner.

DUFFEY PUT UNDER ARREST.

Duffey was arrested by Deputy Garner about 10 o'clock at 81 West Alexander street, where he was spending the night with a friend. He was carried to prison on an attachment issued by Judge Ben Hill Friday morning, when Solicitor Dorsey stated that Duffey was eluding the solicitor's deputies who sought to have him testify before the hearing.

Upon catching sight of the solicitor's deputy, Duffey, who was sitting upon the porch of the residence at No. 87, exclaimed:

"I was just fixing to surrender."

Duffey's testimony relates to blood spots found on the second floor of the pencil factory. He was a witness for the state at Frank's trial, and testified that when he was wounded on the hand some time before the trial, the blood did not drop on the floor.

An affidavit which he recently made for the defense, however, swears that blood did drop on the floor in the identical spots at which blood was found near the lathing machine, and which blood was contended by the state to have come from wounds on Mary Phagan's body.

WANTS TO GET TRUTH.

It was to get at the truth of these conflicting statements that Solicitor Dorsey sought to examine Duffey before Judge Hill.

The serving of a subpoena upon Burns will necessitate the delaying of his trip to Oklahoma, where he goes to testify in a case now in the courts of that state. He wired officials there last night that he would not be able to leave Atlanta until he had appeared before Judge Hill.

The papers were issued for both Burns and Lehon by Solicitor Dorsey. Friday afternoon, shortly following adjournment of the trial, Solicitor Dorsey would not state to reporters the nature of questions which he plans to put to the detectives in his proposed examinations.

SURPRISES SPRUNG.

When Solicitor Dorsey opened his fight before Judge Ben Hill yesterday on the extraordinary motion for a new trial, filed by Leo Frank's defense, sensational surprises came in clusters.

And to cap the climax subpoenas were issued from the solicitor's office demanding the presence of Detective William J. Burns and his assistant, Dan S. Lehon, to appear before the retrial hearing for an examination by Dorsey on Monday.

The subpoenas will be served some time today. Mr. Dorsey would not disclose the nature of the questions he plans to put to the sleuths. When asked by a reporter for The Constitution he merely smiled, saying:

"Oh, I merely want to ask them a few questions."

GREAT PILE OF AFFIDAVITS.

When the retrial hearing opened at 10 o'clock, after a week's adjournment, the solicitor sat at a table that was piled high with affidavits.

A large number of these documents had been made by witnesses who are

GEORGIA CAVALRY ON STRIKE DUTY

Federal Regiment at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Ordered to Colorado Coal Regions. Forces Quadrupled in Zone

Washington, May 1.—Orders to quadruple the forces of federal cavalrymen in the Colorado coal strike regions went from the war department late tonight. The entire Eleventh regiment from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and two troops of the Twelfth, from Fort Robinson, Neb., were ordered to proceed to the scene immediately.

Colonel James Lockett, of the Eleventh, will take supreme command of the situation.

Secretary Garrison issued the orders after a long conference with President Wilson. He said the step was taken not because trouble was expected, but because it had been demonstrated that the five troops of cavalry now in the coal fields did not provide enough men to cover the large territory involved. Reports from Colorado tonight, the secretary added, were very favorable.

The twelve troops of the Eleventh will be distributed through the Trinidad, Walsenburg, Aguilar and Forbes districts, and the two troops from the Twelfth will go to Bowider and Louisville.

No Violence Reported.

Denver, Colo., May 1.—State and federal authorities co-operated today in an effort to settle the Colorado coal strike, but tonight the situation was unchanged, except no violence had been reported.

Regular troops occupy the Trinidad, Fremont county, and Walsenburg districts and state troops still are in service at Ludlow and in the northern coal fields. At the direction of Major Holbrook additional state troops late today were sent from Ludlow to Aguilar.

The action of Secretary Garrison in granting the joint request of Major Holbrook and Governor Ammons for more federal troops, announced today, has served to allay uneasiness in quarters where it was feared the quota of regular soldiers would not be sufficient to maintain order.

While Major Holbrook and Governor Ammons today devoted efforts to get additional troops, the question of disarming strikers and mine employees remained in a secondary position. Weather conditions prevented action by strikers, who had planned to vote on the question. On behalf of the operators, J. F. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, announced that the miners and guards would be disarmed whenever such action was deemed expedient by Major Holbrook.

Horace N. Hawkins, chief counsel, and John Lawson, international executive board member of the United Mine Workers of America, are en route to Trinidad to discuss with Major Hollbrook the question of disarmament.

Ordered Colony "Cleaned Out."

Trinidad, Colo., May 1.—The direct charge that an officer of the Colorado national guard gave an order to "clean out" the Ludlow tent colony and burn the tents was made today before the coroner's jury today by R. J. McDonald, stenographer for the military commission. McDonald testified in the inquest over the Ludlow victims.

The witness said the order was given either by Major Hamrock or Captain Carson, he was not certain which.

McDonald was questioned about the capture and death of Louis Tikas, Greek leader of the strikers. He said that while under fire at one of the battle he heard a commotion behind some box cars, and was told that Tikas was a prisoner, and probably would be hanged.

10,000 MINERS QUIT IN KANAWHA FIELDS

Men Strike Despite Order to Contrary From President of Union.

Charleston, W. Va., May 1.—Ten thousand miners in the Kanawha coal fields quit work today in the face of an order from John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and it is expected that the three thousand who remained at work will be out before tomorrow.

Thereupon Calmes, president of district No. 17, urged the men to remain at work until negotiations were officially broken off with the operators, but they refused to obey.

The conference between the union leaders and the operators began several weeks ago the men made 24 demands, which later were reduced to seven. Further discussion of the points at issue cut this number to three, and on these the operators refused to yield. Further efforts were made today to have the men reconsider their demands for the check off, reaffirmation of the agreement which expired March 31, and that the scale of wages be so arranged that workmen outside the mines should be under the jurisdiction of the United Mine Workers of America.

While the agreement between the operators and miners of the Cabin Creek and Paint Creek districts does not expire until next March, it was reported at the headquarters of operators and miners that many of the men there quit work today.

An audience which filled the Auditorium-Armory to its utmost seating capacity—more than 6,400 people—went to see and hear Farrar in "Madam Butterfly" last night.

It was a wonderful show, a magnificent performance, and Atlanta demonstrated its appreciation by ovation after ovation to Farrar and her co-stars.

Atlanta had dreamed, oh, ever since it was announced months ago that "Madam Butterfly" would be presented this year, of seeing Farrar in the wonderful role of Cio Cio San. But Atlanta never dreamed of how very, very wonderful she really is in this great role! Her singing seemed scarcely less than divine, and her acting held her audience breathless.

Directs from Memory.

And Tomeanini! Without a sign of a score, he directed the orchestra from memory. And with his slender baton he wafted Atlanta across seas of melody and tumultuous mountains of orchestral concords to the dream-Kingdom of Flower. And Atlanta for the while forgot she was in Atlanta.

But this was meant to be a story of the audience and not a story of the presentation of the opera. The latter will be found elsewhere. It is so ordered, and so be it.

All Society There.

Not only Atlanta, but hundreds of the society of the entire south went to see "Butterfly." With the great host of people who were gathered in the Auditorium, it would have been scarcely less than criminal to allow more people to enter the building.

"Butterfly" was a tremendous social event. All society, gorgeously arrayed in garments wonderfully, are, even in instances fearfully made, turned out. The audience was a magnificent display of beauty and of fashion.

It was altogether such an audience as is befitting so beautiful and artistic an opera as "Madam Butterfly."

MAIL STEAMER ARRIVES AT MANILA UNHARMED

Manila, May 2.—The Pacific mail steamer Siberia arrived here at 11 o'clock today. Her captain reports that the vessel had an uneventful voyage from Nagasaki to Manila.

Captain Zeader, of the Siberia, expressed the belief that the reports in circulation yesterday and last night that his vessel was in distress off the coast of Formoes and had sent out calls for assistance, arose over confusion in the call letters of the steamer Persia, "P. M. S.," being mistaken for "S. O. S.," the marine wireless request for aid.

The wireless operator on board the Siberia said the messages and replies yesterday had been bad, making the sending of messages difficult.

AGED WOMAN WADES TO DEATH IN RIVER

Tarboro, N. C., May 1.—Mrs. E. T. Felton, aged 65 years, committed suicide here early today in an unusual manner. Escaping from the vigilance of her daughter, at whose home she lived for two years, she went to the Tar river, fully dressed, and waded into the river until she was swept down stream by the strong current.

The body was recovered late today. Surviving Mrs. Felton are her husband and five childre

AGREEMENT TO ARMISTICE SIGNED BY THREE FORCES IN MEXICAN IMBROGLIO

Reported That Representatives of the United States, Federals and Rebels Have Signed Pact in Mexico City—Blanquet's Order Saves an American Red Cross Official From Death as Spy.

Mexico City, May 1.—It is reported here that a tripartite agreement to an armistice was signed here today by representatives of the United States, the federals and the rebels. Jose Manuel Cardozo de Oliseiera, the Brazilian minister, confirmed the report except as to the actual signing of the agreement.

RYAN SAVED FROM DEATH AS SPY.

Mexico City, May 1.—Dr. Edward Ryan, of the American Red Cross, who was captured at Zacatecas by command of General Joaquin Maas, and sentenced to death as a spy, was saved by an order signed by Minister of War Blanquet, at 11 o'clock last night.

Dr. Ryan will be brought to this city and turned over to the Brazilian legation.

Vera Cruz, May 1.—President Huerta today ordered the immediate release of Dr. Edward Ryan, an American Red Cross official, who was threatened with execution as a spy in Zacatecas. The release was ordered after urgent personal representations to President Huerta by William W. Canada, the American consul here.

Huerta telegraphed to Mr. Canada late today that he did not know that Dr. Ryan was to be put to death, but that he had ordered the federal commander at Zacatecas to release him immediately and give him transportation to Mexico City. From the capital President Huerta promised to send him to Vera Cruz.

NO NEUTRAL ZONE AT TAMPICO.

Washington, May 1.—General Carranza telegraphed Secretary Bryan from Chihuahua tonight that the constitutionalists would not enter into any formal agreement for the establishment of a neutral zone around the oil wells at Tampico. He said, however, that as far as his forces were concerned, the oil companies could resume operations without fear of molestation.

Much Being Accomplished By the Three Mediators

Washington, May 1.—Assurances of peace, with a steady abatement of "war talk," was the dominant feature in Mexican developments here today. Attention still was centered on the work of the South American mediators, who reported steady progress and no deadlock between the parties.

In other quarters, however, the failure of General Carranza thus far to accept the mediators' proposal for a suspension of hostilities caused continued doubt over the outlook for broadening the scope of the mediators' work to a settlement of the whole Mexican situation.

While the gravity and the hopefulness of the situation varied from hour to hour, the South American envoys kept steadily at their work, holding two lengthy sessions at the Argentine legation. Their long conference last night with Secretary Bryan was followed today by a conference with the Spanish ambassador, Senor Riano, who represents the Huerta government. The mediators made no announcement.

Developments Expected.

It was known they were expecting another definite development today, which might lead to a statement later, but its purport was not disclosed. There was reason to believe, however, that it related to the attitude of Carranza.

Summing up what the mediators had accomplished, a well-posted authority said it represented more actually done in a given time than had occurred in the history of intermediation. He specified, beginning April 26, and continuing six days, including today:

Accomplished by Mediators.

First, acceptance of good offices by the United States; second, acceptance by Huerta; third, acceptance by Carranza; fourth, suspension of hostilities by the United States; fifth, suspension of hostilities by Huerta.

A sixth development, it was expected, would further emphasize what was being done.

The Spanish ambassador's conference with the mediators was not to deliver any communication from Huerta, but to go over the general situation. The mediators are putting aside all diplomatic circumlocution and sending cables direct to Huerta and Carranza, and receiving direct replies. The text of the Huerta reply through his foreign minister, accepting good offices, and the Huerta reply to the armistice proposal, received last night, were direct cables to the mediators.

The regular cabinet meeting today was devoted largely to affairs other than Mexico, showing that much of the tension has disappeared. Members of the cabinet spoke hopefully of the mediation proceedings, and felt, from its present aspect, that it would "work

MAYOR TO SPEAK FOR BOND ISSUE

Woodward Will Make Principal Address at Greater Grady Meeting in the Fourth Ward Tonight.

Mayor Woodward will be the principal speaker at the Greater Grady mass meeting tonight in the fourth ward.

The meeting will be held in the North Avenue school. L. D. Burns, secretary of the fourth ward bond committee, has arranged for a brass ban.. and all the other adjuncts of a well-conducted mass meeting. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock. Besides Mayor Woodward, the speakers will be Councilman Claude L. Ashley, Coroner Paul Donehoo, Walter D. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce; Dr. W. R. Summerall, superintendent of Grady hospital, and Mr. Hicks.

The indorsement of another labor organization was received Friday at bond headquarters. The bonds have already been indorsed by the Atlanta Federation of Trades, but many of the locals have also sent in separate indorsements. This one came from the Atlanta Garment Workers, an organization composed largely of women. Incidentally, there is scarcely a woman's organization in Atlanta which has not indorsed the bond issue.

Labor Favors Bonds.

The attitude of labor toward the Grady bonds is considered one of the strongest points in their favor, from the beginning of the campaign the labor organizations have been solidly for a greater Grady.

"No other public question could appeal to the laboring men so much as this one," said N. H. Kirkpatrick, editor of The Journal of Labor. "A good Grady hospital is the one guarantee which a good many workingmen possess that, when they are injured, they will receive proper care and treatment. People with steady, settled incomes or salaries know that if they get sick or are injured their salaries or incomes will go right on—for some time, at least. When the working man gets laid up his income stops. It is the duty of the city to provide for emergencies such as this. There is a large amount of work which can be done without somebody being hurt. When summons is hurt he ought to be sure of a decent place in which to get well. For a city the size of Atlanta not to have such a place is the next kind of public negligence."

Attention was called by Dr. W. R. Summerall to the fact that, with the weather growing warmer, sickness was increasing all over the city and the hospital was having to turn away more cases every day.

Campaign Nears Close.

The campaign for the bonds is now rapidly drawing to a close. Only three more days remain until the bond election. Every ward in the city has been canvassed by the different ward committees, and the general conviction is that nothing can beat the bond issue if its advocates go to the polls and vote for it.

"Indifference is the only thing that can beat the bond issue," said Ivan E. Allen, vice chairman of the general committee. "The city is for it. The voters are for it. What opposition there was has been dwindling every day. It arose from ignorance of the true conditions at Grady hospital. The campaign that has been carried on has been chiefly a campaign of education. It has been to show the voters just what kind of a hospital Atlanta has for its city hospital. The voters know what Grady hospital is like now, and they are ready to vote for an institution more in keeping with Atlanta's size and progressive spirit. If there is any opposition left, it is the opposition of indifference—the opposition of the man who doesn't care enough about the needed improvements to vote for them, or of the citizen who is always in such a hurry that he hasn't time to vote on bonds."

EDITOR IS WOUNDED IN DUEL WITH RIVAL

Havana, May 1.—Dr. Carlos Garrido, editor of La Prensa, and Antonio Iraisoz, editor of La Noche, fought a duel with swords in Havana early today. Senor Iraisoz was seriously wounded in the chest.

NOTED DETECTIVE FORCED TO SEEK REFUGE IN HOTEL FROM BIG CROWD

Mob Surrounded Whitlock House, Yelling for Him to Come Out, and for a Time Violence Was Feared—The Crowd Quieted by Agreement That Burns Get Into Automobile and Leave Cobb County at Once.

TROUBLE BEGAN WHEN BURNS AND A CITIZEN HAVE AN ALTERCATION

Amidst Jeers and Hoots Detective Was Bundled Into Auto and Started for Atlanta While Eggs Began to Fly—Lehon Sought Safety in Sheriff's Office and Was Spirited Out of Marietta.

Attacked by a prominent business man, and threatened by a crowd of angry citizens, from whom he sought refuge in the Whitlock hotel, William J. Burns was rushed from Marietta to Atlanta early last night in an automobile to prevent further trouble. Prominent citizens, however, stated that they did not believe the detective was in any serious danger while in the Cobb county town.

His lieutenant, Dan S. Lehon, of New Orleans, found safety in the sheriff's office in the courthouse. In the meantime, a crowd, 300 strong, surged around the hotel, and for awhile there were fears for the noted detective's safety.

After thirty minutes of disorder, a truce was brought about by level-headed citizens of Marietta. Burns, escorted by Judge Newt Morris and Thomas M. Brumby, a leading business man, was bundled into an automobile and hurried at top speed toward Atlanta.

EGGS HURLED AT AUTO.

Eggs were hurled at the automobile as it whizzed through the town. Several found their mark. One struck Judge Morris. Others bombarded the atmosphere.

The trip to Atlanta was made in thirty minutes in a White Six machine, driven by Mr. Brumby, who is president of the Brumby chair works. Upon reaching the city, Burns went immediately to his apartments in the Piedmont hotel, where a conference was held with Herbert Haas and Reuben R. Arnold, attorneys for Leo Frank's defense. Arrangements were made for the freeing of Lehon, who still sought the protection of the sheriff's office up in Marietta.

At nightfall, Deputy Sheriff G. M. Hicks spirited him through a rear entrance and into an automobile, which, driven by J. F. Shaw, of Marietta, sped him to Atlanta.

The demonstration ensued from an incident in the Brumby garage, where Burns and Lehon were waiting for the limousine in which they had traveled.

C. F. VON HERRMANN, Section Director.

...or Marietta to be repaired. Robert L. Howell, a substantial citizen of Marietta, stepped into the garage and, catching sight of Burns, recognized him by his picture.

"You're Detective Burns, aren't you?" he is said to have asked.

BURNS SEEKS SAFETY.

There was a reply of some kind. The presence of the machine and its occupants had drawn a crowd to the front of the garage, which is near the business section of Marietta. At this reply, hasty words followed. Howell, according to witnesses, struck at the famous sleuth and his blow landed. Cries and shouts came from the crowd. In a twinkling, Burns darted from the garage, through the gathering of men and down the street toward the hotel. He reached the building in a few strides. It was about a block away. Leaping through the doorway, he sought refuge in a room.

The crowd—or, at least, most of it—followed Burns. Lehon, in the meantime, had found safety within the shield of the sheriff's office in the courthouse, only a block or so away, with a number of trusty deputies on hand.

Loud and boisterous cries of "Lynch him!" "Shoot him!" "Mob him!" arose from the gathering around the Whitlock hotel.

A number of more level-headed citizens, including Mayor H. T. Dobbs, Deputy Sheriff Hicks, Judge Newt Morris and Mr. Brumby, went into the room in which Burns had fled. They assured him that they would protect him. Mayor Dobbs stepped upon the porch of the hotel and made a short talk to the mob, rebuking the men and asking them to disperse.

COMPROMISE SUGGESTED.

But the crowd seemed to grow more demonstrative. So Judge Morris stepped before the crowd. He asked that a compromise of some kind be arranged, and suggested that he bring Burns out and have him leave the county at once.

This met approval. There were still jeers and hisses of derision, however. Escorted by the mayor, sheriff, deputies and Judge Morris, Burns emerged from the room toward the automobile of Mr. Brumby, which had rolled up to the sidewalk and was chugging and ready for action. Burns jumped in, the gear was thrown in and the machine started with a snort.

Its acceleration was drowned by the cries and howls of the mob. As fast as possible the machine sped away from the scene, through the midst of the crowd a white, oval-shaped object flashed into the air. It whizzed and splashed against a tree some distance away. An oily yellow coursed over the bark where it had landed.

Another white object traveled through the air. It landed on the back of the machine. Other similar objects flew in the direction of the auto. Soon the air was full of them. The occupants ducked low. Judge Morris, however, was not so fortunate as the other occupants of the car, and one egg struck him. He was the only one hit.

CROWD GOES TO COURTHOUSE.

The mob then made its way to the courthouse, where Lehon bided his time. It was not so demonstrative there, however, as it had been in front of the hotel. Cries and jeers and calls filled the air, but no manifestation of vicious intentions were evident.

As soon as it was learned that Lehon's get-away had been accomplished, the mob dispersed. It was composed of men from all sections of Cobb county, who had come into Marietta to vote at the county primary that was held Friday.

Sheriff Hicks told a reporter for The Constitution over long-distance last night that no arrests had been made, and that none would be made. No action will be taken against Howell.

A reporter called at the Piedmont last night in an effort to see Burns and get his version of the experience.

BURNS' STATEMENT.

He stated that he and Lehon had come to Marietta en route to Cedartown, where they were to meet a prospective witness in the Frank case. They were riding in a taxicab-limousine, which broke down in Marietta. They were having it repaired in Howell's garage when the altercation occurred between Burns and Howell.

"I am none the worse for it," Burns said over the phone. "It was only a mild affair. This man Howell struck me, and I struck him back. I tried to avoid trouble. A crowd of a few men followed me and created a kind of a demonstration in front of the building.

"When the car drove up I walked out to it, and we drove back to Atlanta. It was all caused by this attack of Howell. He seemed to be looking for trouble, and, when I saw what was impending, I walked away to avoid it."

Burns said that he would remain in Atlanta until he had appeared before Judge Hill. He said that he will go to Oklahoma to testify before the courts there in the case in which he is a witness. He intimated last night that he would not be able to come until after Tuesday.

"I'll come, however," he said, "immediately I have finished my testimony, which will occupy no more than two days—possibly much less."

Marietta is the birthplace of Mary Phagan. Feeling has been at high pitch in the place ever since this murder. Her body lies in the quiet little graveyard beneath a mound, over which a monument will soon be erected.

No statement could be had from Howell last night, as he could not be reached over long-distance telephone. The automobile in which Burns and Lehon made their flight from Marietta was returned to Atlanta last night by the chauffeur, who is connected with an Atlanta taxicab concern.

W. J. BURNS AND LEHON ARE CALLED

alleged to have made affidavits for Frank's counsel, and which affidavits are contained in the defense motion for a new trial. One of these, an affidavit made by Mary Rich, denies in whole an affidavit submitted by the defense in which she is purported to swear that she saw Jim Conley at 2:15 o'clock on the afternoon of Mary Phagan's murder.

The Rich woman swears in the prosecution's affidavit that she had never made any such affidavit as was presented by Frank's lawyers. She says that Mrs. Lucile Frank, wife of the convicted man, in company with Rabbi David Marx, approached her and with tears in her eyes pleading with her to help save Frank from the gallows.

This affidavit was not submitted Friday. It will be put before Judge Hill Monday morning, however, when the hearing will be reconvened, after having been adjourned at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Testimony pertaining to actual incidents of immorality were introduced against Frank in affidavits by girl and women employees of the pencil factory. A number of girls who are alleged by the defense to have made affidavits repudiating testimony at the trial deny the documents, saying they have never made them and that they are forgeries.

BURKE ASSAILED.

Numerous attacks were made upon C. W. Burke, the private investigator attached to the offices of Luther Z. Rosser. Witnesses accused him of coercion, trickery and criminal tactics. One girl, Marie Karst, who was a witness for the state in the trial, swears that she was inveigled into assisting Burke in his work of gathering evidence by threats of exposure of a girlhood scandal.

Miss Karst testifies in her affidavit that she had been employed in Burke's office by Burke and that he had sought to have her go secretly into the home of Monteen Stover, another girl witness, live with the Stover girl and seek to reverse the Stover girl's evidence. Miss Karst says she also investigated a number of girl and women witnesses who gave character testimony against Frank.

Mrs. Maggie Nash, who formerly was Maggie Griffin, a character witness at the trial, swears in an affidavit that she had frequently seen Frank accompany a certain woman who worked in the pencil factory, into the ladies' dressing room, where they would stay for a time ranging anywhere from fifteen to thirty minutes.

IN ROOM TOGETHER.

"I don't know, of course," she swears, "what Frank and this woman were doing in there, but I do know that they were in the room which was supposed to be used by only the girls as a dressing room, and I don't know of any business that could have been carried on in that room. The key to the room was carried always by the woman who went with Frank into it."

A new phase of the solicitor's evidence were two affidavits made by W. T. Tucker and his son, I. V. Tucker, who swear they heard screams at ten minutes after 12 o'clock on the day of the Phagan tragedy coming from the pencil factory building. Screams and in the rear somewhere. They were standing, they swear, at Forsyth and Hunter streets, on a trip uptown.

"We were startled by the screams," the father and son testify, "and looked up. They came apparently from the rear of the building, and were traceable to the pencil factory building. We walked on, however, when I. V. Tucker said that he suspected it was only some of the girls in the factory playing."

Mr. Dorsey won a point at the opening of the hearing, when counsel for the defense sought to introduce some of the evidence accumulated by Detective Burns, which consisted of the detective's report on the condition of Mary Phagan's clothing and effects, and on the letters alleged to have been written by Jim Conley to Anna Maud Carter, the negress who accuses Conley of having confessed.

Judge Hill refused to admit the evidence about the clothing, saying that Burns, whose testimony would have been presented in the form of an affidavit, was merely giving his personal opinion. Judge Hill stated that the question of the condition of Mary Phagan's garments and personal belongings was a matter of opinion, and that the matter was brought to a close.

FORGERY CHARGED.

Miss Ruth Robertson, a girl character witness for the state, from whom the defense purported to have an affidavit of repudiation, which was submitted in their motion for a new trial, has sworn to an affidavit for Solicitor Dorsey that she never made any such document, and that it was a forgery.

She also swears that Frank, on one occasion, made an improper proposal to her, giving her $7 and attempting to make an appointment with her. She says she returned the money and did not make the engagement. She also testifies that there were three girls in Frank's office at the time the proposal was made.

An affidavit from the father of the Robertson girl, W. T. Robertson, who is a farmer in Cobb county, tells of conversations with his daughter, in which she told him of Frank's alleged familiarity with Mary Phagan, and of the alleged general bad character he possessed in the pencil factory, of which he was superintendent.

A scathing attack was made upon the character of Mrs. J. B. Simmons, the Birmingham woman and former resident of Atlanta, who had made an affidavit to the effect that she had heard screaming coming from the basement of the pencil factory about 4:30 o'clock on the afternoon Mary Phagan was killed.

Numerous witnesses—Atlanta citizens and detectives of Birmingham—testified that her character was disreputable, and that she could not be believed on oath. Two affidavits by Atlanta men alleged that she had, at one time, been a "woman of the streets" in Atlanta. Birmingham detectives testified that the house in which she lives in Birmingham is a tenderloin resort.

PROMISED REWARD.

Another sensation was created in the Simmons phase of the hearing when an affidavit from Mrs. Simmons herself was introduced by Dorsey. Mrs. Simmons swears that she was promised reward by C. W. Burke for making an affidavit for the defense, which is used in their motion for a new trial.

She says that Burke strove to have her make a false statement against Solicitor Dorsey, and that he wrote a statement for her, which she signed, but the contents of which she was not fully acquainted with. There were numerous falsehoods in it, she now says. Burke, she swears, brought her a basket of fruit, telling her that "it would not do at the time, but, later on, he would send her 'something.'"

Another angle of the attack on C. W. Burke was based on testimony by Nellie Wood, the sister-in-law to the witness, Annie Mae Pettis, who accuses Burke of seeking to approach her under assumed identity, assisted by Jimmie Wrenn, an assistant investigator, who is said to have been working with Burke.

Coupled with the Nellie Wood affidavit was one made by Charley A. Ison, who told of frequently seeing Burke and Jimmie Wrenn conferring with Attorney Luther Z. Rosser in the entrance to the Grant building, on the seventh floor of which Rosser's offices are located.

Mrs. Mamie Edmonds, who was formerly Miss Mae Kitchens, testifies in an affidavit of a visit by Burke, who told her he was a representative of Luther Rosser, and that he had been sent to interview her by Mr. Rosser, the latter of whom had said she had "an honest face."

NOT CONTAINED IN STATEMENT.

She swears that Burke had her statement prepared by a stenographer of the National Pencil factory offices, out of her presence, and that Burke had misled her. She says she told Burke of an incident that occurred at the pencil plant, when Frank had invaded the girls' dressing room, opening the door and gazing upon a group of girls only partly clad, but which, she states, was not contained in the statement Burke prepared for her.

Miss Carrie Smith, a telephone operator, has sworn to an affidavit which Mr. Dorsey introduced, to the effect that she has never repudiated her testimony on the stand, and that she still upholds the character evidence which she gave at the trial.

She also tells of a visit by a man who posed under the name of Maddox, and who said he was writing a book on the Frank case, offering her $75 if she would sign an affidavit which he had prepared. She refused the offer, she swears, and, later, upon going to the offices of Rosser, in the Grant building, saw this man, whom she pronounces Jimmie Burke, sitting in the place.

A charge of an attempt to lure him into repudiation of his testimony is made against Burke and Jimmy Wrenn by R. P. Barrett, the state witness who discovered the hair and blood spots on the lathing machine in the pencil plant. Barrett's affidavit created general surprise.

"Not long after the trial, on one Sunday morning," Barrett swears, "Jimmie Wrenn met me near Marietta and Forsyth streets and entered into a conversation on the Frank case. As we separated, he said: 'Barrett, you are in a good position to make a barrel of money if you'll go to New Orleans and change your statement in the Frank case.'

WANTED ME TO TAKE TRIP.

"I asked him what he wanted me to do. He replied that he simply wanted me to go to New Orleans and change my testimony. I asked him who he was working for. He replied for a Mr. Burke. At the time, I did not know Burke. A little later, he came to my home early one morning and talked with me to the car line. He asked if I had told anybody about his offer. I told him, No.

"He then asked me to let him know before I told anybody—if I intended telling it—so he could leave town in time. In February of this year we met again at the postoffice. He asked if I wouldn't like to make $4 a day and my expenses on a trip to New Orleans and return. He said he was working for a press agent who was writing a story on the Frank trial.

"He said that this press agent wanted to get a statement from every witness of the Frank case. I told him I would go under these conditions. He asked me to meet him at 2:30 o'clock at the Terminal station. I agreed, and we met. He had bought tickets to New Orleans for the both of us. I didn't intend to leave so early, and we postponed the trip.

"In the meantime I communicated with Mr. Stephens, assistant solicitor, and he advised me to see Mr. Dorsey before I left the city. I again saw Jimmy Wrenn, and we walked down Whitehall street to Mitchell. I told him then that I could not make the trip. He then informed me that Mr. Kelly, the press agent, would be in town Monday, and we would go to him and talk it over.

"The following Monday I again met Wrenn by appointment, and we went to the Kimball hotel to talk with this Mr. Kelly. We went up to a room in the Kimball and Wrenn introduced me to a 'Mr. Kelly,' whom I afterward learned was C. W. Burke. This man told me he wanted to get my statement. I referred him to the court record. He dissented against this, saying he wanted all testimony direct from the witness.

SAID HE CAUGHT MURDERER.

"While we were talking, 'Kelly' or Burke—and we learned that he was the man who caught the murderer of Pearl Bryant, in New Castle, Pa.—he told me all about his plan to write a book on the case, and told me that if I followed his instructions I would be rewarded with enough money to buy a handsome house and lot.

"But Burke tricked himself. He saw that I was suspicious of him, and said: 'Barrett, I believe you think we are trying to trick you. If I were to put down a lie and send it to my house then would write back here and say: "Burke, you lie!" Then he stopped without finishing the sentence, for he realized he had given himself away.

"Then I started to leave the room. He pleaded with me to let him write the statement that he wanted from me, and let me go over the statement and check out whatever there was about it I didn't like. I told him to write what he pleased and check what he pleased, but I would have absolutely nothing to do with it. I left him."

The affidavit of Miss Marie Karst is, perhaps, the most sensational introduced. She accuses Burke of trickery and underhand methods. She is the girl who swears she was employed by Burke in the capacity of female detective, and that she became associated with him because of a threat to expose a girlhood scandal.

AFFIDAVIT INVOLVES QUINN.

She is now a student at a local business college. Previous to the Frank trial she was employed in the National Pencil factory. She was a character witness for the prosecution. She had been connected with the pencil plant for a considerable while before the trial of Frank. Her affidavit also involves Lemmie Quinn, a foreman in the factory, and a leading witness for the defense.

Quinn telephoned me a short time after the trial," the Karst girl swears, "and asked me to meet him in front of the Piedmont hotel which I did. He told me that Frank's side had got hold of that scrape in the pencil factory which I was mixed in, and said that if I would see Burke and give him a statement he would keep the scandal out of court.

"He said that unless I did this, they would bring it up in court against me. I told him that he was foreman of the pencil factory and that he ought to have known whether I got drunk or not. He said he didn't know anything about it. This incident in question happened at the pencil factory when I was about fifteen years old. Another girl and I slipped a pint of whisky out of the pocket of one of the workmen and we and two other girls drank home of it.

"The other girls who drank with me were not more than fifteen—some were younger, I suspect. The whisky was stolen as a joke—pure and simple—and we drank it publicly. Everyone knew it was a joke, and most of the people around the factory knew about it. There was no secret about it. None of the girls became under the influence of it. It was just a bit of fun.

QUINN FRIGHTENED ME.

"But when Lemmie brought it up in connection with Burke, it had the effect of frightening me, because I did not want my name to be involved with scandal, and I feared it would be exaggerated. Lemmie Quinn ended his talk by insisting that I go to see C. W. Burke or let him come to see me. He then went to the telephone in a soda fount to which we had walked, and called up Burke.

"Burke came right over and we had soft drinks at a table. Burke asked me to come to see him in the offices of Rosser, Brandon, Slaton & Phillips, on the seventh floor of the Grant building. I didn't go, however. Afterward, Burke met me on the street and asked me to go to see him. I consented. I was not a stenographer, I told him, and he said that he only wanted me to work during the afternoons and that he would pay me $2 a day.

"Burke wanted me to go around and see the girls who had sworn for the state in the trial of Frank as character witnesses, and his principal object was

DENVER AND ATLANTA TO BOOST EACH OTHER

Systematic Campaign Planned by Hotel Men's Association and Convention Bureau.

Plans were set on foot Friday afternoon for a systematic campaign of Atlanta advertisement in Denver, Colo., with a view to bringing travelers, tourists and conventions from the west to this city.

The plan consists of a reciprocal arrangement between the Atlanta Hotel Men's association and the Denver Convention association, the plan being presented at a call meeting of the Atlanta association by Harry N. Burham, secretary of the Denver Convention association.

It is the plan of Mr. Burham that Atlanta shall send its advertising literature to Denver, where it will be placed in the leading hotels, and Denver shall send its advertising literature to Atlanta, where it will be displayed in a similar manner. This proposition was accepted by the Atlanta Hotel Men's association in the adoption of a resolution. It is believed that by this plan both Atlanta and Denver will greatly benefit. Especially is it expected that Denver will benefit in 1915, when the people of the south go west to the Panama exposition, and Atlanta, in the following year, by the advertising the city will receive on account of the large number of tourists and conventions in the west during 1915, which may be expected to come south the following year.

Mr. Burham was jamb-full of Denver talk, and had with him a number of pictures of the western metropolis, showing it to be a "regular" city.

Mr. Burham left Friday night for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will present the same proposition made to Atlanta. He has made reservations at the Piedmont for Shriner week.

BOLLING JONES SPEAKS AT TRINITY ON SUNDAY

The young men's class of Trinity Sunday school will hear an address by Bolling H. Jones tomorrow morning. The teacher of this class has specially invited Mr. Jones to speak on this occasion, and Mr. Jones is leaving his own big crowd of young men at the First Baptist to accept the invitation.

Trinity is at the corner of Washington street and Trinity avenue, and Sunday school begins at 9:30 o'clock. Governor Slaton is the teacher of the young women's class.

UNIVERSITY CLUB WILL MEET WEDNESDAY, MAY 6

The fourth annual meeting of the University club will be postponed from Monday, May 4, to Wednesday, May 6, 8:30 p. m.

At that time, following the reports of officers, there will be a discussion of the club's work and purposes. Officers to serve for the coming year will be nominated.

Atlanta's University club will be maintained and supported, made a permanency, by the spirit that claims for Atlanta primacy in the south in finance, in business, in music and educational appreciation.

The club is fast becoming a statewide educational influence. It is hoped that many non-resident members will attend the annual meeting and participate in a discussion as to how best it can serve the interest of society in Georgia devoted to mental development and recreation.

RAILROAD MEN TO HEAR TEMPLE BAPTIST PASTOR

The railroad men offer another attractive service at the Railroad Young Men's Christian association rooms, 31½ West Alabama street, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. S. L. Morris, pastor of Temple Baptist church, is the chosen speaker. A delightful service of song will be a feature of the hour. The association's excellent orchestra will lead the music. Railroad men will greet their comrades at the door.

DEPUTY WARDEN HOBSON PRAISED BY GRAND JURY

Report Recommends That Many Roads in County Be Graded and Paved.

Several paragraphs in the report of the Fulton county grand jury, returned to Judge Bell Friday afternoon, are devoted to praise of Deputy Warden Hobson of the Adamsville camp. The jury especially complimented the deputy for abolishing the old system of chaining the convicts to their beds at night, and in one paragraph comments that, since the prisoners were put on their good behavior, only three men have been whipped in three months.

The report also upholds Warden Hobson for discharging three paid wagon drivers and replacing them with convicts.

The report recommends that Warden Hobson's plan be put into effect in all the camps. It will save the county about $5,000 a month, the report says.

Warden Girardeau was handed a bouquet for his humane treatment of prisoners.

Charging that the corridors of the jail are dirty, and some of the cells littered with paper and excelsior, the grand jury took a rap at the jail officials. They recommended frequent applications of the scrub-brush.

The grand jury found many of the dirt roads in the county to be in bad condition, and recommended that they be graded and paved.

Tax dodgers were blamed for the lack of school funds. The report declares that, considering the small funds available for county schools, the institutions are efficiently conducted.

The jury recommended that all bridges crossing county roads be erected with concrete.

Judge Bell complimented the jury for the careful investigation it made and the efficient service of each member, and then ordered the body discharged.

ROOSEVELT OUTWALKS BRAZILIAN COMPANIONS

New York, May 1.—Anthony Fiala, the explorer who was in charge of one of the Roosevelt expeditions in Brazil, arrived in New York today from Rio Janeiro. He vividly described the experiences of the expedition both before and after he separated from Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit on February 4. Fiala did not know until today, however, that the colonel had emerged safely from the jungle. He said he had not expected to hear from Mr. Roosevelt before the latter part of June.

Telling of his 400-mile journey across country with Roosevelt, Fiala said the rainy season was on, "and sometimes we would tramp for two days at a time without finding a dry spot big enough for a camp.

"At Matto Grosso we went hunting. In one party, which went for tiger cats, were Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit, a Brazilian chief of police, a Brazilian colonel and several natives. They pushed their way all day through swamps filled with crocodiles and snakes in pursuit of a tiger cat.

"The Brazilians did the best they could and with the negro boys kept up for several hours. But the pace set by the colonel, even in their own jungle, was too much for them. When they finally came out they were carrying the Brazilians' guns and shoes. The Brazilians had quit and were lying on their backs in a dry place recuperating. The tiger cat got away.

Fiala said that the Brazilians regarded Colonel Roosevelt very highly. Each one considered the former president his own personal friend.

Manaos, Brazil, May 1.—Theodore Roosevelt, who arrived here yesterday from his extended trip through the unexplored interior of Brazil, left here today on board the steamer Dunraw or his way down the Amazon river. Mr. Roosevelt is returning to the United States.

WHITSELL IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Valdosta, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—F. S. Whitsell, formerly manager of the Kress store in this city, was brought here under arrest from Montgomery, Ala., today on a charge of bigamy.

Whitsell left here two weeks ago and recently his father came to Valdosta in an effort to straighten out the son's alleged financial difficulties. The father, it appears, unwittingly let it be known that his son had a wife in a northern city, not knowing that he had married here.

Whitsell was married some weeks ago to Miss Reva Bailey, who was employed as a sales lady in the store of which he was manager. A warrant for bigamy was at once sworn out by a brother of the Valdosta wife. Sheriff Gornto located Whitsell in Montgomery, and Deputy Sheriff Hodges was sent to bring him back to Valdosta. The elder Whitsell said that his son was sending money regularly to the northern wife, who had no idea that he had married again. Whitsell will probably be tried in the superior court which meets this month.

MACON PRESBYTERIAL ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Dublin, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The meeting of the Macon Presbyterial has adjourned here after having been in session since Monday evening. Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: President, Mrs. Charles Goodling, Macon; recording secretary, Mrs. J. W. Heath, Camilla; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Samuel Weldon, Albany; treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Toole, Dublin.

Cordele was chosen as the next meeting place of the Presbyterial. This body is made up of the ladies missionaries societies of the Macon Presbytery of the Presbyterian church, and the reports brought in by the various societies this year were most encouraging. A large attendance of ladies was on hand, and they enjoyed their stay in the city here very much.

CITIZENS' BANK WILL SOON BE REORGANIZED

Athens, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—No matter what the result of the state examiner's work in investigating the Citizens' Bank and Trust company, the institution will be reorganized and put upon a better basis than ever with much increased capital. Every dollar will be paid to the depositors of the Citizens', the shortage will be traced to a responsible source, and there are likely to be sensational developments then.

Colonel James M. Smith, of Oglethorpe county, the millionaire farmer, and a dozen other stockholders, any of them worth as much as the capital stock of the present institution, are back of the reorganization movement, it is understood.

Postoffice Contract Let.

Cartersville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The news has reached this city that the contract has been let by the department for the erection of Cartersville's new postoffice building. The new structure will cost $42,000, and will be built by John W. Emory, of Philadelphia. The work on the building, it is understood, will begin at once, if it is not held up by the protests of citizens who believe that Cartersville is entitled to a better building than the one provided for in the present plans.

The Story of Wagner's Opera, Lohengrin.

Elsa (Rappoid) has been accused by her guardian, Frederick, Count of Brabant (Gortz) of murdering her brother, Duke Godfrey. She asserts her innocence. It is agreed that her cause shall be decided by a combat between Fredrick and some champion of Elsa's cause. An unknown knight (Berger) undertakes her defense, thus promising to wed him and never to inquire into his name or origin if he is successful. Frederick is defeated and deprived of his title and estate.

Still, he and his wife, Ortrud (Ober), plot against the knight, urging Elsa to inquire (against her promise) into his identity.

After the marriage ceremony, while Elsa is questioning the knight, Frederick intrudes and is slain.

The next morning, before the king, the unknown knight tells that he is Lohengrin, son of King Percival, keeper of the cup known as the "Holy Grail," but now that he is known, he cannot remain. The swan that drew the boat in which he came appears. Lohengrin removes a chain from its neck, and in its stead appears Godfrey, who had been changed by the sorceress Ortrud into a swan—and so Lohengrin departs to the intense grief of the bride and all.

Cavalleria Rusticana (Mascagni)

Turiddu (Cristalli), before his enlistment in the army, had wooed the coquette Lola (Breslau). On his return from military service he finds Lola the bride of Alfio (Gilly). His love and vanity wounded, he turns to Santuzza (Gadski), but afterwards, meeting Lola, he deceives Santuzza, while Lola is faithless to Alfio. Alfio hears this from Santuzza and challenges Turiddu to a duel, who unwillingly accepts and is slain.

Pagliacci (Leoncavallo)

Traveling minstrels have just come to the little village of Calabris. Tonio (Scotti), the clown of the troupe, is attentive to Nedda (Alten), the wife of the manager of the troupe, Canio (Caruso). Nedda repulses him, he vows revenge. Silvio (Reschiglian) appears, to whom Nedda vows her love and agrees to fly with him. Tonio and Canio surprise them embracing. But Silvio escapes from the enraged Canio. Nedda refuses to disclose who he is.

The second act—all is ready for the play. Silvio comes in with the crowd. During the progress of the little drama, a story strikingly similar to what has just taken place, Nedda as Columbine in the play, refuses to disclose who her lover is to Punchinello (Canio.) He stabs her to death. Silvio rushes forward, and he, too, is stabbed by Canio.

MR. KAHN'S ADDRESS.

It is doubtful if in the history of grand opera in America its mission has been given a broader or more intelligent interpretation than in the address of Otto H. Kahn, published in yesterday's Constitution. Mr. Kahn, foremost among American financiers with world interests, is chairman of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera company. More than any other one man, Atlanta is indebted to him for its five consecutive seasons of grand opera. In his speech at the Capital City club dinner to him and his associate directors, he explained his attitude toward grand opera in Atlanta with a felicity of phrase and a subtlety of analysis that was most impressive.

Two years ago Mr. Kahn had said, in an interview with The Constitution, that thereafter the season appearances of the Metropolitan Opera Company in America would be confined to New York and Atlanta. The reasons he then gave, he elaborated in his more recent utterance. He defines grand opera as the finest and most illuminating of the arts. He believes that its faculty for sowing ideals, for inculcating a love of beauty, for broadening intellectual horizons and kindling exalted aspirations, is one of the most distinct material assets any community can achieve. His philosophy does not concede that grand opera is a luxury or a fashionable fad. He lifts it to the higher realm of food for the development of mind and spirit, an antidote to the vulgarity, the restlessness and the sordidness of life under our high pressure civilization.

These convictions have influenced his conspicuous activities in encouraging grand opera in New York. They have followed his participation in the movement which gave grand opera to Chicago through the Chicago Opera company, of which he is the vice president. They explain the bringing of the Metropolitan grand opera to Atlanta—that it the gateway to the great south it might plant elevating influences similar to those already operating in the metropolis of the nation and in the metropolis of the middle west.

His expert judgment regarding Atlanta, has been amply vindicated. Through the enterprise that his co-operation has made possible, Atlanta has become the radiating center in the south for those ennobling cultural influences flowing from the highest of all arts.

The most enduring service is that which is stripped of the selfish personal equation and based upon the public welfare.

That is the sort of service Otto Kahn is rendering, whether in New York, in Chicago or in Atlanta.

His ambition is not for personal profit or glory. He is beyond the need of either.

His aim is to implant a love for the most exalted ideals of art, to inculcate an understanding of grand opera, the crystallization of art from which flows inspiration to nobler thought, higher citizenship.

In advancing that aim he is unconsciously building a monument to himself for patriotic service, a monument for conspicuous service in the general good, the more notable in that it is not tinged by thought of self, but actuated purely by desire for the advancement of the public ideals.

MR. WARFIELD'S VISIT.

An underlying significance of grand opera week to Atlanta lies in the type and stature of Americans it attracts to the city. Among the notable visitors of the week is S. Davies Warfield, of Baltimore, chairman of the board of directors of the Seaboard Air Line and financier and builder of national prominence. When such men as Warfield and Kahn, and their associates, lay aside affairs of great import to spend a week in any city for purposes other than those of strict business, the implied tribute is unmistakable.

Mr. Warfield's presence here, like that of other distinguished visitors, is a testimonial to the enterprise and initiative of Atlanta. They enhance the city's prestige. They place the stamp of personal approval and patronage upon civic courage and civic devotion to the finer things in life.

Mr. Warfield may, with accuracy, be called a model type of the new southerner, thinking in large terms of the future, alert, aggressive, appreciative. Since his influence has dominated the Seaboard, there has been visible in every branch of that important property the vital influence of his powerful and constructive personality. He has already "proved up" on his original announcement that he intended making the Seaboard an essentially southern institution in its management, and essentially modern in its equipment and its preparation for the south's destiny. When his program for the development of this great property is completely unfolded it will be found to be of incalculable importance to the whole south.

Mr. Warfield's presence in Atlanta this week—and that of the many other prominent business men who are here from all sections of the south—is illustrative of what has come to be a striking feature of grand opera week in Atlanta.

Every year the number of visitors grows larger and it is notable that with each season more prominent men and more charming women from every part of the south are coming to Atlanta to take advantage of an occasion that has become one of unique interest throughout the south. More than ever is this notable this season. There is probably not a city in the south which has not been represented in Atlanta this week, and the best part of it is every visitor goes back home impressed with the glory and the greatness of Atlanta. This one asset alone is of incalculable benefit to Atlanta.

LET THE RULES ALONE.

While the action of Hon. W. J. Harris, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, in sounding the views of the various committeemen with reference to an extra session of the committee, may not be amiss, it is to be hoped that his diagnosis will be unfavorable to an extra session, or to any tinkering with the rules already adopted by the committee.

No set of rules formulated by any human agency can be expected to meet all emergencies or vicissitudes, and the present rules are in keeping with party precedent in Georgia.

Those candidates who have already announced for office have opened their campaigns under these rules, and any changes would be certain to serve as a pretext, if not as a just basis, for criticism and complaint.

A MUNICIPAL HEALTH PLAN 1.

The first requirement of a great municipality is an adequate municipal hospital.

Such an institution is the inevitable corollary to an A-1 sewage and sanitary system.

Atlanta is perfecting an excellent sanitary system, and a garbage disposal system.

Her municipal hospital is the weakest link in her health chain.

There are not enough beds, not enough laboratory facilities, not enough facilities of any sort competently to take care of the Atlantans who have a right to demand the hospital's services.

To the man of means this situation is a negligible problem.

He can go himself or send his sick relatives to one of the splendid private sanitariums with which Atlanta abounds.

But the man in moderate circumstances either wholly lacks this resource, or must employ it at a sacrifice of indebtedness that frequently holds his nose to the grindstone for many years.

The best representatives of all civic elements have united in behalf of Greater Grady.

Every man and woman in Atlanta ought to get in behind the movement that looks to standardizing the weakest link in Atlanta's health chain.

"UTTERLY."

The Colonel has regained civilization. He has cabled from Manaos, in Brazil, of a wonderful quest through the jungles in the course of which birds, beasts and reptiles fell before his trusty rifle.

The Colonel's cable is a thoroughly characteristic one. Never is he able to repress his enthusiasms, nor to strip his sentiments of the ever-exuberant hyperbole.

He twice makes use of the word "utterly" in the length of fifty words, in describing the river made famous by being discovered by the Roosevelt party.

"Utterly" defines the Colonel. He never embarks on any enterprise in a half hearted manner. It is "utterly" or nothing. His friends will pulse with relief, his enemies give an anticipatory shudder. Armed with the same old vigor and zest, the Colonel is again on the job, ready for a fight or a frolic.

JUST from GEORGIA

By Frank L. Stanton

Happy as a Soul Can Be.

I.

Underneath a shady tree,
Hammock just a-swinging;
Happy as a soul can be—
Mockingbirds a-singing,
O'er the meadows green and wide
Fair and flowery visions glide;
Drifting on a dreamy tide
To silvery bells a-ringing.

II.

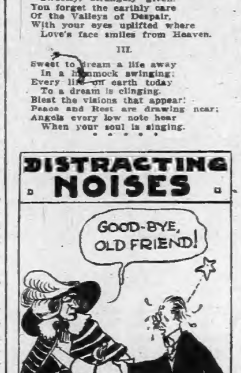

Fleecy clouds that flock the blue,
By no tempests riven;
Peace unto the soul of you
Sweetly, strangely given.
You forget the earthly care
Of the Valleys of Despair,
With your eyes uplifted where
Love's face smiles from Heaven.

III.

Sweet to dream a life away
In a hammock swinging;
Every little earth today
To a dream is clinging.
Blest the visions that appear!
Peace and rest have hovering near;
Angels every low note hear
When your soul is singing.

A "Business" Poet.

A real business poet works for The Dorrance Star, and his verse gladdens the heart of the business office. He sings:

"When the frost is on the counter, and cobwebs fill the shelf, and there's scarcely anybody in the store besides yourself; and your stock is getting shop-worn, and the groceries are stale, and bills enough are coming to make a banker pale; oh, then's the time a feller's kind of blue, and is puzzled with the proper thing to do—but in such a situation one sure remedy applies. If you want to get the customers you've got to advertise."

Little Soldiers.

I.

Talk about yer fightin' folk—
Yer ancient history stuff!
Sez! little fellers marchin'
With broomsticks for guns
And what a bright, fine show they've made.
By mother dressed for dress parade!

II.

They battle in the sunshine—
Storm sandy forts, an' then
You hear the cannon's thunder
An' cheerin' on the men!
Until, at mother's call at night,
They hasten to their beds of white.

Old-Time Patriotism.

This war-paragraph from The Winfield Press:

"The Navy—It's Gone Dry!"

I reckon there's a better time
When army duties fly;
A fight on land's more to my hand;
The navy—it's gone dry!

For lads that sail the stormy seas
The drinkin' jig is up;
The blush is on the grape now,
The juice is in the cup.

The nation of the rum no more—
They'll know not what they're at;
It's tough to toast the country
In a Bryan drink like that!

Sermons on "Money."

"Life has nothing beautiful or helpful to a man who has his heart smothered in a money bag or bound up in his ledger," says The Early County News, and The Dalton Citizen makes this comment:

"True; but a man who has no money can find very little that is beautiful in this world. A life of service, with the wolf of want always at a safe distance, is our idea of the best way to pass through this beautiful and blessed old world."

The Home Critic.

When I say: "The fish won't bite;
My bait they don't admire,"
A voice at once speaks outright:
"They ought to love a liar!
For when he hooks a minnow
He doesn't think it wrong
To say it nearly pulled him in,
Because 'twas two feet long!"

Keeping the Home Pot.

"I'm glad there's a prospect of peace," said the old settler. "For now my ole man kin whip Mexico settin' on the old pine box by the grocery store, jest as easy as he run the government by whittlin' sticks an tellin' how it orter be done."

The Passing of the Old.

The Lawrence Journal-World says of old-timers and new:

"Not only has the forbidding parlor been abandoned, but the spare bedroom is no more. It used to be that the only way country people could get even with the minister for working mother to death was to put him in the spare bedroom to sleep."

Time to Call a Halt, Says Confederate Veteran

Editor Constitution: I am an "old veteran" and know something of the "horrors" of war—I cannot resist the inclination to commend you for your timely and vigorous editorial in today's Constitution, under the title of "The Blood Hunters." I am also glad that you have published Mr. Corrigan's communication, as it was high time somebody who had the courage of their convictions was calling a halt on the efforts of certain individuals, who, for purely selfish purposes, would gladly see this country in a war with Mexico. A good many people in this section regard Mr. Hearst and those under and working for him as very dangerous citizens. Yours very truly,

JOHN B. BELL.

A Diminutive Dinosaur.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

There are now being assembled in the United States National museum the bones of a very small three-horned dinosaur, which, when completely assembled, will measure about six feet in length and stand only about three feet high. Its head is 22 inches long. When its bones are compared with those of the larger members of this family of reptiles it will be seen that this specimen has attained but one-fourth of the usual size. In the national museum are several skulls of large horned dinosaurs, which measure from six to eight feet, and in one case nine feet.

The group to which this new member belongs is called the Ceratopsia, from the horns which adorn their heads; two above the eyes and one on the end of the nose. Unlike the others, this species has small and not prominent horns over the eyes, while the nasal horn is an outgrowth of the nasal bone, and not an additional bone, as is the case with the others. Another peculiarity is that this horn is split lengthwise in such a manner that one side has the appearance of having slipped by the other.

Its jaws are like those of a turtle, there being no front teeth, but a sharp curved beak. Farther back in the jaws, however, are finely sculptured cutting teeth, which show the animal to have been herbivorous. Like the other members of this group, it has a deep collar, known as a frill, but in this specimen it has a very open space on either side of the neck. The frill was covered with horn and formed a defensive armor for the protection of the neck. This particular specimen was found with the foot and tail articulated, which makes it especially interesting as being the first complete and connected specimen ever obtained. The foot has four toes, the first two bones the second with three, the fourth with five, while only a trace of the fifth remains, tending to show the loss of that member through disuse, as is the case with the horse. Parts of the other feet are also in this collection, as well as nearly all the bones of one individual. In the whole specimen there are few bones and parts which will have to be restored. Considering that the first specimens of this family were discovered some forty years ago, it is curious that this small individual is the most complete one that has been found.

The fossils were found in the Blackfoot reservation in northwestern Montana. The partial skeletons of five individuals were uncovered at the same time, and form a most valuable addition to science.

Once Upon a Time.

(From The Chicago Post.)

The cost of living was quite low,
Once upon a time.
We used to save a little dough.
Once upon a time.
We can recall it didn't take
A dollar bill to buy a steak;
We didn't spend all we could make.
Once upon a time.

The women all dressed sensibly.
Once upon a time.
They wore as modest as could be.
Once upon a time.
They didn't wear the low-necked gown
When walking on the street down town,
And skirts so tight they couldn't sit down,
Once upon a time.

The people danced with ease and grace.
Once upon a time.
They didn't scramble round the place.
Once upon a time.
They danced in manner meant to please,
Not on their elbows and their knees;
They turned no handsprings in the breeze,
Once upon a time.

Hysteria was not a fad,
Once upon a time.
The folks were not sensation mad.
Once upon a time.
They were quite strong on sanity,
And it is very plain to see
Things are not what they used to be,
Once upon a time.

Easter at Nazareth.

(Clinton Scollard, in Lippincott's.)

Little town of Nazareth
On the hillside Galilean,
Oh, your name is like a paean
Rising over dole and death!

I can see your domes and towers
Dazzle underneath the noon,
And your drowsy poppy-flowers
In the breezes sway and swoon.

I can see your olives quiver
With their opalescent sheen,
Like the ripples of a river
Gliding grassy banks between.

I can see your graceful daughters
Poise their slim-necked drinking jars,
With their hair like twilight waters,
And their eyes like Syrian stars.

I can see your narrow byways
Where the folk to market wend—
All your dim bazaars and highways,
Every path that once Te trod.

And I know that waking, sleeping,
Until time has ceased to be,
You will hold fast in your keeping
His beloved memory!

Little town of Nazareth
On the hillside Galilean,
Oh, your name is like a paean
Rising over dole and death!

A Legend of the Lily.

(Minna Irving, in Leslie's.)

The gates of the night unfolded
And a seraph came down to earth,
And walked where the roots and grasses
Were striving again to birth.
"What shall I give to mortals,"
He said, "on Easter morn,
As a sign of the new resurrection
And the soul of man reborn?"

The snow lay deep on the churchyard
For the spring was late and cold;
He molded its pearly whiteness
In flowers with hearts of gold—
Wonderful waxen blossoms,
Starry and sweet and pale,
Made for the holy places
Around the altar-rail.

After the dead, dark winter,
After the shrouding snows,
Stiff in its fragrant beauty
The Easter lily blows.
And its buds like angel fingers
Forever point the way
From the frozen clods and shadows,
To the dawn of Easter Day.

DAILY GRIST from the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

J. RANDOLPH ANDERSON CONFIDENT; TALKS OPTIMISTICALLY OF RACE

J. Randolph Anderson, president of the senate and candidate for governor, spent Friday in Atlanta. Mr. Anderson spoke with great confidence of the gubernatorial contest and said he was receiving the most flattering assurances of support from all parts of the state.

"Everywhere I have been I have met with the heartiest of receptions and I feel gratified at the way things look at this stage of the game.

"As nearly as possible I shall cover the state, but owing to the limited time at my disposal I will not be able to visit every county. I shall have to do most of my active campaigning between now and the meeting of the general assembly.

"Southeastern Georgia is solid for me; of that you can be assured. But one of the most gratifying things is the number of letters I am getting from north Georgia counties. I am assured of Floyd and Cobb counties.

"At the present time my race could not possibly be in better shape, and things seem to be improving daily."

W. H. Burwell, speaker of the house, also spent Friday in the city. He returned to his home in Sparta last night. Mr. Burwell, who has been strongly urged to make the race for governor, said he is said to have held back pending some action on the part of Judge W. S. Thomas, of Valdosta, declined to discuss the gubernatorial situation for publication. He would not comment on the announcement of Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, which was made at a mass meeting at Macon Thursday night. However, he let drop one significant remark.

"You will hear from me in a day or two," he said.

There seems to have been a good deal of doubt in the minds of many whether or not Judge W. S. Thomas could be figured on as a candidate in the event Judge Harris made the race. Also there was doubt if Judge Harris would formally enter if Judge Thomas decided to run. Judge Harris is at last definitely in the fight. Judge Thomas is apparently undecided. Altogether the situation is daily growing more and more complicated.

And then there are other possibilities. W. J. Harris is to be reckoned with and there are several strong men being urged to run.

JOHN T. BOIFEUILLET IN CITY; HIS PLANS STILL UNCERTAIN

Hon John T. Boifeuillet, clerk of the house of representatives and secretary to Senator W. S. West, spent Friday in the city en route to Washington. Mr. Boifeuillet has been in Macon for some ten days looking over the situation there.

Rumor has connected his name with the management of Thomas S. Felder's campaign for senator, and he has also been spoken of as candidate for congress.

He stated Friday that he had received letters from all parts of the state inquiring if it were true he was to manage Mr. Felder's campaign, but had not commented himself.

In regard to his running for congress, that seems to depend on whether Mr. Bartlett will be a candidate for re-election. If Mr. Bartlett decides not to run it looks more than probable that Mr. Boifeuillet will oppose Hon. Tom Wise, who has been squarely in the race for some time.

SILENCE OF JOSEPH M. BROWN CAUSING MUCH SPECULATION

There is nothing more awe-inspiring at times than silence—nothing that will cause more uneasiness. "The silence before the storm" has become proverbial. Only too frequently the fellow who whoops and yells and goes through all sorts of gymnastics, attracts no attention; whereas, the silence of the strong or power causes all sorts of uneasiness.

Except for his cards on union labor, Joseph M. Brown, who is living quietly at his home in Marietta, has maintained the silence of the sphinx regarding politics and the probable or possible part he will play in the coming election. Various persons who are supposed to be close to him have made statements that he would run for this or that office, but he has not dignified the statements with denial or acknowledgement.

The belief is rapidly growing that his silence is significant—that he will be heard from about June 1, and that when he is heard from his voice will change the political aspect of things as they now stand.

At all events, the silence of Little Joe is causing more comment at this time than the noise of all the politicians combined.

HARRIS' PROBABLE ANNOUNCEMENT CAUSES INTEREST IN HOME COUNTY

Rockmart, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Much interest is being manifested here over the probable announcement of Hon. William J. Harris for governor.

If Mr. Harris decides to enter the race, and his friends believe that he should do so, his experience in politics and business will stand him in splendid stead as governor.

If Mr. Harris enters the race, and there seems to be little doubt that he will, he will find that his home people will give him strong support.

SECOND COUNTY PRIMARY WILL BE NECESSARY IN WARE

Waycross, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Today was a big day for Ware county politics. The entry lists for the county primary will close at 6 o'clock, and because of this and the uncertainty as to the actual outcome of frequent political rumors, the hour when the lists will close was awaited with deep concern.

Under the rules adopted by the executive committee the majority plan will be used for the 1914 primary, and it is certain that a second primary will be necessary to settle the contest for one or more of the county offices.

Candidates for the legislature will submit their candidacy to the voters along with the county candidates under a rule of the county committee.

The primary will be held May 26, and the second primary, if necessary to settle any contests, will be held with the state primary August 19.

Despite the keen interest in local politics the county is waking up to the state contests and the political talk is probably more active than it has been for ever will be in the history of the county.

W. J. HARRIS URGES CHANGES IN RULES OF STATE PRIMARY

William J. Harris, chairman of the democratic state executive committee, has written to members of the committee urging that the rules of the state primary be changed so that a majority of the voters shall choose the two United States senators instead of their being selected by the state convention. Mr. Harris fears that combinations might be formed which would cause the nomination of "candidates who did not carry a dozen counties in the state if left to a vote of the people."

Mr. Harris adds:

"The rules adopted at the recent meeting of the state democratic executive committee would probably have been satisfactory in the past few years, as heretofore there have been only two or three candidates for governor and United States senator and one candidate has always received a majority of the total votes cast, or a majority of the delegates selected under the county unit system. Under the present rule the convention could nominate the candidate receiving the smallest number of votes for governor.

"If the convention should make an unfortunate nomination, it would give the enemies of the democratic party the opportunity for which they are waiting.

"It seems to me that the committee should be called together and the rules changed so as to require a candidate to have a majority of delegates in order to be nominated.

"The Alabama, South Carolina, Florida and many other states if no candidate receives a majority of the votes in the first primary, then the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes must enter the second primary, and the one then receiving a majority of votes will be nominated.

"The state convention is held just after the second primary. I have discussed this matter with some members of the committee, and they have similar views.

"Please let me know your views. If you think the committee should be called together to consider this matter, please write me what date you think would be satisfactory for the meeting.

"Of course, in the event I decide to be a candidate for governor, I shall take no part in the meeting and shall resign from the committee."

Another Vehement Protest.

Editor Constitution: I want to write you and thank you for your editorial of recent date, entitled "The Blood Hunters." That is without doubt the best editorial I have read in any paper in many a day. Georgia needs to be sown down with sentiment like that to offset the silverine and silly stuff being broadcast from other sources.

Georgia and the nation are under obligation to you for that editorial.

J. E. DOBBS ELECTED CLERK OF THE COURT

Result of the Primary in Cobb and Other Counties of the State.

Marietta, Ga., May 1.—(Special)—At the primary held in Cobb county today J. E. Dobbs defeated A. H. Talley for clerk of the superior court by 75 majority; J. W. Gaines defeated George S. Owens and A. L. Terry for tax receiver by 80 and 150 votes respectively; R. M. Dyer was elected treasurer over the present incumbent, Monte Shaw; John A. Booth was elected coroner over J. H. Nix and W. M. Lance; Jesse N. Gantt was elected county commissioner over the present incumbent, W. R. Hardage by 181 majority; Walter L. Headden defeated Tom Brown for county commissioner by 33 majority.

PRIMARY IN BARTOW PROVES SPIRITED ONE

Cartersville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) The Bartow county democratic white primary was held yesterday, and proved one of the closest and most exciting contests ever held for county offices here.

The race between W. C. Walton, the incumbent, and C. W. Sproull, for county clerk, in which Walton was re-elected, was of great interest, as was that of W. W. Calloway and J. F. Altman for sheriff. Both Calloway and Haines are deputies under Charles N. Smith, who is sheriff, and this contest was bitterly fought. Calloway won by a majority of 127.

The race for treasurer was between the incumbent, Martin Collins, J. J. Calhoun and George H. Gilvatt. This also was a spirited contest, all candidates promising economy and publicity. Collins and Calhoun were defeated by Gilvatt, who declared his intention of depositing county moneys in all county banks instead of one of the Cartersville banks, as been the custom.

Joseph Shaw, re-elected tax collector, while Jo... C. Haney was made receiver, both running against a large field.

The following were elected county commissioners of roads and revenues, out of a field of fifteen: N. M. Adams, Dr. Thomas H. Baker, S. W. Bradford, W. L. Burton and J. C. Mellier.

W. W. Phillips was elected surveyor and W. J. Ingraham coroner.

QUIET PRIMARY HELD IN BALDWIN COUNTY

Milledgeville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) The Baldwin county democratic primary was held today with the following nominations made: Sheriff, S. L. Terry; clerk, Cleveland Cooper; tax collector, K. P. Hawkins; tax receiver, E. P. Lane; treasurer, Otto Conn; coroner, C. I. Newton; surveyor, J. H. Gladney; county commissioners, Dr. C. J. Moran; J. O. Etheridge, W. H. H. Barnes. The election was remarkably quiet and a small vote was polled.

ATKINSON IS ELECTED TREASURER OF MORGAN

Madison, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The county primary for Morgan county was held here today. There was no opposition to any of the county offices except for treasurer and tax receiver. Grady Atkinson, for treasurer, was elected by a decisive majority over E. L. Walker, the incumbent, and A. D. Hutchinsons, R. H. Prior, the present tax receiver, defeated Harris Wilson.

PRIMARY ELECTION IS HELD IN PAULDING

Dallas, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The primary election held in Paulding county today for county officers passed off quietly with the following results:

For clerk superior court, W. L. Denton; for sheriff, E. D. Wheeler; tax receiver, A. A. Morris; tax collector, F. R. Cooper; treasurer, J. P. Bagby; surveyor, J. F. Diffie; coroner, T. D. Langley.

TICKET IS NOMINATED IN HOUSTON COUNTY

Perry, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The result of the primary for county officers in Houston is as follows: Clerk of superior court, C. H. Hardison; sheriff, G. W. Winn; city court judge, A. C. Miller; city court solicitor, R. F. Brown; tax collector, J. D. Cherry; tax receiver, J. B. Hardison; treasurer, J. M. Anderson; coroner, A. D. schilling; surveyor, J. R. Mathews; county commissioner, J. A. McCarley, J. A. McCowan, E. H. Wimberly; Z. Hays and G. D. Logan.

EXPENDITURES OF ARMY WITHIN APPROPRIATION

Washington, May 1.—Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the committee on appropriations, and Representative Hay, chairman of the military affairs committee, conferred with President Wilson today concerning the appropriations and discussed the joint resolution on the house calendar to provide that money for the army may be made available immediately in case the Mexican situation should make its use necessary. Mr. Fitzgerald said that while the army is larger than it was several months ago and the expenditures heavier than were anticipated, it was not believed that the resolution to make the army money available at once would be necessary. Mr. Hay stated the measure merely was for an emergency and put on the calendar as a precautionary measure.

The navy, Mr. Fitzgerald said, was not exceeding its appropriation. The $500,000 appropriated to care for refugees in Mexico, it was thought by the house leaders, would cover extra expenditures necessary in that service.

FRISCO ROAD FORFEITS TERMINAL TO SOUTHERN

New York, May 1.—Failure to pay interest of $140,000 due in June, 1913, when the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad company went into the hands of a receiver, has caused that company to lose its one-half interest in the New Orleans terminal amounting to $8,000,000, leaving the Southern railway in sole possession, the appellate division of the supreme court decided today. A lower court had restrained the Southern from obtaining the railroad's half interest.

The terminal, according to documents in the case, was built in 1903 by a terminal company, issuing $2,000,000 capital stock, divided equally between the two roads. Four million dollars of bonds also were issued and the interest on them was to be paid one-half each by the two roads. A clause in the agreement stipulated that if payment of interest should be defaulted by one road and made by the other, the latter should come into full possession of the terminal.

The clear contract, the decision said, left no way open for the court to save the railroad its property, despite the court's abhorrence of the idea of forfeiture of property.

The losing railroad would have to come to terms with the owner of the terminal if it wished its trains, or those of a subsidiary railroad, to enter the terminal, the decision stated.

FIREHOUSE FOR EIGHTH WARD CONTRACTED FOR

Engine Will Be Named in Honor of Late Alderman J. H. Harwell.

On a bid of $8,637, R. M. Walker, the local contractor, was awarded the contract for erecting the "bungalow" firehouse in the eighth ward. The contract was awarded at a special meeting of the board of fire masters yesterday afternoon. Work will begin immediately, it is understood, and the house will be equipped about the time the June apportionment sheet is made up.

Bids for the eighth ward and fifth warded houses were opened by the firemasters Thursday afternoon, but they were so complicated that the board decided to place the figures with the architects for compilation.

"Harwell" will be the name of the new eighth ward engine. The name will be given in honor of the late Alderman John H. Harwell, affectionately known as "Uncle John." Alderman Harwell was appointed chairman of the 1914 board of firemasters by Mayor Woodward, but he was unable to give much service because of the injury which led to his death.

It was also decided at the meeting of the fire board that a tablet upon which will be inscribed the names of the present members of the board will be installed in the house. The board consists of Mayor James G. Woodward, Chief W. D. Cummings, Aldermen Jesse Armistead, chairman; Councilmen Frank Reynolds, A. W. Partlinger, R. Colcord, S. O. Dallas and Jesse B. Lee.

The board placed with City Attorney Mayson a bill for $44 against W. T. McMichen, a police officer, who ran his machine into the car driven by Assistant Chief Pressley.

CHILDREN IN PANIC WHEN FILM EXPLODES

Unadilla, Ga., May 1.—Children of the public schools were thrown into a panic here tonight when a motion picture film exploded in the school auditorium. The school building was crowded, but was cleared within two minutes.

Several persons were bruised in the rush for the exit, but none seriously hurt.

COL. BERNER LEAVES CAPITAL FOR MACON

Washington, May 1.—(Special.)—Colonel Robert T. Berner, of Macon, who is candidate for district attorney for the southern district of Georgia, left Washington this afternoon for home. No announcement has as yet been made from the department of justice as to who will be named to succeed Alex Akerman, the republican incumbent.

While here, Colonel Berner stopped at the same hotel with Senator Ward and has been entertained by Senator Hoke Smith, but neither admits now supporting him for the place.

It is probable that Senator West would accept Colonel Berner before he would Judge W. A. Covington, if the three men he has recommended are all turned down.

Representative T. W. Hardwick, who has been backing Colonel Berner, will leave tomorrow to resume his speech-making campaign.

"I feel much encouraged by the outlook," said Mr. Hardwick. "I will visit southeast Georgia next week and speak in every county where court is being held. I am in the fight to the end.

Mangum in Bankruptcy.

James T. Mangum, a resident of Atlanta, and an innkeeper by occupation, yesterday filed with Deputy Clerk Henley of the federal court a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. In his schedule of assets and liabilities the petitioner declares his indebtedness $4,226.01 of which $732 are secured while his assets will amount to $500, all real estate.

As a general thing, when a girl becomes convinced that she is a coloratura soprano she doesn't even yawn in her natural voice.

Vote for W. F. Wesley for tax receiver.

SUFFRAGISTS TO HOLD A BIG RALLY TODAY

All Local Organizations Will Meet on Capitol Steps This Afternoon.

Suffrage day will be appropriately celebrated by all of the local organizations in Atlanta today. Elaborate preparations have been made, and the occasion promises to be one of the most enthusiastic ever held in Atlanta.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon an open-air rally will be held on the steps of the capitol, which will be presided over by Rev. A. R. Holderby, of the Moore Memorial church. Special music, vocal and instrumental, will be rendered under the direction of Gerard-Thiers.

Among those who will make speeches are Dr. Fred A. Line, of the First Universalist church; Lucien Lamar Knight, Miss Ida May Blount, Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, and Jerome Jones.

Suffrage day will be celebrated in every city in the county where there is any interest in the movement.

STRAY BULLET COMES NEAR KILLING CHILD

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Early this morning a stray bullet from an unknown source entered the house of R. W. Page, proprietor of The Columbus Ledger, and imbedded itself in a wall not far from where his young daughter lay sleeping. The child was awakened by the crashing of glass as the bullet smashed the window pane. The bullet passed within six inches of her bed.

In the Interest of Fair Play

The undersigned, being the immediate neighbors of Mr. L. O. Wright, indignantly resent certain rumors that are being circulated by W. M. Mayo or his deputies. They have persisted in saying that Mr. Wright was going to withdraw from the race for Sheriff, and that he was running in the interest of Sheriff Mangum, notwithstanding Mr. Wright's denial, and the denial of his deputies, his friends, and everyone connected with his campaign.

Now we brand as false all these rumors, and charge Captain Mayo or his deputies with circulating these rumors when they know them to be false. We do not believe the people of this county will support any man, or set of men, for the responsible office of Sheriff, who are guilty of such deliberate misrepresentation. WE KNOW THAT MR. WRIGHT IS A HIGH-TONED GENTLEMAN, WORTHY OF ANY MAN'S BALLOT, AND IS RUNNING HIS RACE STRICTLY ON A HIGH PLANE, AND IN THE INTEREST OF NO OTHER CANDIDATE. THEREFORE, WE CHALLENGE CAPTAIN MAYO AND HIS DEPUTIES TO PROVE ANYTHING TO THE CONTRARY.

We therefore appeal to the fair minded people of this county to put their stamp of disapproval on such methods by voting for L. O. Wright for Sheriff on May 5th.

MEN AND RELIGION BULLETIN NO. 112

"Restoration of Sanity"

"Now his elder son was in the field; and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing.

"And he called one of the servants and asked what these things meant.

"And he said unto him, 'Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.'

"And he was angry, and would not go in; therefore, came his father out and entreated him—

"'It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.'"

—Luke 15:25-28, 32.

In the angry elder son, Christ pictured the so-called religious man of that day.

In our day, the sin of the elder brother, the church member, is greater: he may be outwardly glad at the prodigal's return, but the fact remains—

You, O elder brother, member of the church of God, you have a part of the boy's wasted substance, spent in riotous living.

Some get more than others.

FOR EXAMPLE, THE MEMBER OF THE CLUB WHO NEVER BUYS A DRINK WITHIN ITS WALLS GETS MOST OF ALL IN A MONETARY WAY FROM ITS LAWLESS TRADE; HE PAYS ONLY HIS DUES; HE DOESN'T POISON FOR HIMSELF, BUT HE GETS THE BENEFIT OF THOSE THINGS WHICH ARE PURCHASED BY THE PROFITS DERIVED FROM THE POISONS SOLD BY THE BAR TO OTHERS.

But, since members of the church of God, for business reasons, have licensed known violators of the law of Georgia to traffic in those things which destroy the souls of men and women and wreck their homes, we all get our share of this liquor money from the locker clubs and saloons and yet have the face to stand and sing "O Weary Prodigal Come" and "Welcome, Wanderer, Welcome" to the poor fools who have been plucked by our leave.

Is it right? Which is the greater shame—

To have it said, "Atlantans, Georgians, are queer; they believe a man should keep his oath of office; you cannot buy liquor there; they believe in saving people before they get into the gutter?"

OR TO HAVE IT SAID, "IN ATLANTA, GOVERNOR, JUDGES, MAYOR AND COUNCIL, SHERIFF AND POLICE, ALL IN GEORGIA RESPECT NEITHER LAWS NOR OATHS; THE LEGISLATURE ENACTS LAWS TO PREVENT MEN FROM PREYING UPON THEIR FELLOW MAN, BUT LEADING CITIZENS AND PUBLIC OFFICIALS UNITE IN IGNORING THEM AND MAKING A MOCK OF LAW?"

Which would indicate the saner condition of government?

For men are seeking and they are going to have a saner government.

Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R.

The Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., cooking school will be held at Craigie house Monday, May 4th, from 10 to 11 o'clock, and continue throughout the week, with Mrs. S. S. Dull, teacher.

Tickets for the course of six lessons are $1.00 and may be had from Mrs. J. O. Wynn, chapter regent or Mrs. E. D. Craven. Single lessons will cost 25c.

While it is expected that all chapter members will attend, non-chapter members will be cordially welcomed.

College Debates.

There will be a conference of the Intercollegiate Prohibition association at the Georgia Technological Y. M. C. A. auditorium today, beginning at 2:30 p. m. There will be two sessions in the day, and an oratorical contest will furnish the splendid program for the evening session, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The W. C. T. U. will offer a gold medal as a prize to one of the contestants. You are invited to be present and enjoy the fine speeches favoring national prohibition by the students from Reinhart, Piedmont, Mercer, State Normal and Technological colleges. Encourage the boys by your presence.

DEAD FEELING ALL THE TIME

Bad Condition of Arkansas Lady, Who Finally Overcame Her Trouble.

Board Camp, Ark.—Mrs. Virgie Bain, of this town, given out the following statement for publication: "When I was just fifteen years old, I suffered dreadfully with a cramp in my stomach, about once a month, and I had a dead feeling all the time—no life to do anything.

I took two bottles of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I felt like a different person. I had tried all kinds of medicine for over a year, but not a thing helped me, until I took Cardui.

A short time ago, I suffered again. I would ache and hurt, until I couldn't stand on my feet to do my work. My back ached and my head hurt all the time.

I was glad I knew about Cardui! I took three bottles and now I never have any aches or pains, and I am cheerful and happy.

Ladies, let's take one another's advice and not suffer so much. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It's a wonderful medicine."

If you have wondered where you could find a remedy to ease your pain and relieve the torment which goes with so many forms of womanly trouble—here is your answer!

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and be relieved, as Mrs. Bain was.

All druggists sell Cardui.

Mrs. Smith's Luncheon.

Mrs. W. J. Smith entertained at a delightful luncheon Sunday at her home in Oakland City, the occasion celebrating her seventy-fourth birthday.

Foliage plants, quantities of old fashioned pink and carnival in artistic arrangement decorated the home, and the gentilly appointed table on which covers were laid for thirty-five had for a central decoration an immense lamp, day cake surmounted by candles, these in the center being arranged in the form of seventy-four. Around this were small crystal vases filled with violets.

Mrs. Smith was a cordial hostess and received her guests wearing a gown of black silk and lace.

Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Mrs. Ophelia Smith Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. W. Zode Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Low Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bradley, Mr. Carl Bell, Misses Adelle, Mary, Thelma, Ada Bess Hunt, Marion and Catherine Smith, Misses Lois and Ruby Butler, Mrs. John A. Gantt, Mrs. Ruby Grier, Miss Clara Gantt, Miss Ploy Love, Messrs. Robert, Lawrence, Wilmer and Zode Smith, Harry Butler and Connor Gantt Smith.

For Mrs. Malone.

Mrs. David Morgan entertained ten guests Wednesday at the Capital City club at a luncheon for her visitor, Mrs. S. H. Malone, of Shreveport, La.

A basket of pink snap dragons was in the center of the table, the place cards were hand painted Venetian scenes and the favors were all suggestive of the opera, other details were in pink and white. Mrs. Malone wore a gown of King's blue taffeta with hat to match and Mrs. Morgan wore black taffeta and Calliot net with black hat.

Tea Postponed.

The informal tea which was to have been given by Mrs. Howard McCall on next Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Joseph Davis, of Albany, and Mrs. George McDonald, of Cuthbert, who are the guests of Mrs. S. B. Nafl, has been postponed on account of serious illness in Mrs. McCall's family.

Rag Rug Exhibit.

The yard committee of the Home for Incurables will hold a rag rug exhibit at an early date, the time and place to be announced later. This is the second display of work by this committee, the first one, early in the spring, meeting with such marked success and creating such a demand for these articles that it was decided there was an imperative need for another display.

It will include a much more varied assortment of rugs, pillow slips and table runners, and, in addition, will be shown a variety of new articles, displaying the many artistic as well as useful purposes to which rag weaving can be applied.

A distinctive feature will be the use of the official Shrine colors in pillow tops, suitable for dens and porches, and forming a most attractive souvenir of the Shrine convention in Atlanta.

Mrs. Brock Entertains.

A pretty compliment to Mrs. C. W. Arnold was the entertainment on Wednesday afternoon given by Mrs. W. D. Brock at her home on Cooper street.

Spring blossoms formed the artistic decoration of the rooms where the guests were received, and in the dining room crystal vases filled with the same fragrant blossoms, continued the spring-like suggestion.

In the game of bridge Mrs. C. W. Arnold received first prize, a handsome box of dainty stationery; Mrs. J. G. Hale received second prize, a hand-painted emory, and Mrs. F. V. Hall cut the consolation, a miniature snookum.

During the afternoon delicious ices were served. Mrs. Brock was assisted in entertaining by Miss Nell Satterwhite, Miss Grace Hudson and Miss Pearl Simmons.

Those in attendance were Mrs. C. W. Arnold, Mrs. J. T. Towns, Mrs. J. J. Simmons, Mrs. E. A. Morgan, Mrs. T. N. Abernathy, Mrs. A. Wheeless, Mrs. W. C. Beddingfield, Mrs. Jack Barrett, Mrs. O. P. Reid, Mrs. W. E. Hudson, Mrs. J. G. Hale, Mrs. C. A. Brock, Mrs. H. F. Krober, Mrs. F. V. Hall, Mrs. F. S. Long, Mrs. Guinea Pettis, Mrs. Carrie Nell Satterwhite, Miss Pearl Simmons and Miss Grace Hudson.

M. P. S. Club Entertained.

Mrs. J. J. Cowart was hostess to the ladies of the M. P. S. club on Thursday afternoon at her home in Hapeville.

Pink and white roses, with asparagus fern in artistic arrangement formed the decoration of the pretty home, and the same lovely flowers adorned the table at which daintily appointed table. Miss Pearl Simmons and Miss Grace Hudson presided at the punch bowl.

During the afternoon a delicious luncheon was served.

After the meeting the ladies were given a delightful automobile ride.

Eleven club members were in attendance. The other guests were Mrs. J. H. Munnicutt, Miss Ada Adamson, Miss Pearl Simmons and Miss Grace Hudson.

For Knoxville Visitors.

Judge and Mrs. W. T. Newman will entertain informally at a bridge party afternoon after the opera matinee at their home on Forrest avenue, in honor of a group of Knoxville visitors who are in the city for the opera. Mrs. Myrtle and Mrs. Tyson Garrison and Mrs. Baxter, and Mrs. Chapman, and Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. Richard Bissell, of Hartford, and Mrs. Alfred Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanford and Mr. Rand.

For Visitors.

Mrs. John A. Hynds entertained eight guests at a pretty luncheon Thursday at her home on Myrtle street for Miss Montgomery, of Chattanooga, and Miss Nan Patterson, of Athens.

A basket of purple iris was the centerpiece of the table, and all other details were in lavender and white.

Mrs. Hynds wore black charmeuse draped with gold net.

Mrs. Hynds will entertain at a small bridge party Tuesday afternoon for Miss Nan Patterson, of Athens, Ga., the guest of Mrs. D. W. Morgan.

Informal Luncheon.

Mrs. Ella Wilcox Wright entertained informally at luncheon yesterday for a group of out-of-town guests. Pink roses decorated the table and the party included Mrs. Gardner Nash and Miss Annie Wright, of Augusta; Mrs. Wright Cole, of Nashville; Mrs. Calvin Holmes, of Knoxville, and Mrs. Charles Phinizy, of Athens.

For Miss Neely.

Mrs. Bell Brown entertained Miss Mozelle Neely and a party of friends at the Capital City club yesterday for luncheon. She is spending the week at the Georgian Terrace with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Neely, of Waynesboro.

Daughters of Zion Meet.

The semi-annual meeting of the Daughters of Zion society was held last Sunday at the club rooms of the Ahavath Zion Sunday school. Miss Rae Jaffe presided and a number of members were installed.

Mr. Myer Steinheim, the superintendent of the Sunday school, addressed the meeting regarding the progress of the Daughters of Zion society as an auxiliary to the Sunday school among the Jewish girls of this community.

Reports of the nominating committee of new officers was in order, and the following new officers for the ensuing year were elected: Miss Rae Jaffe, honorary president; Miss Lillian Pearl, president; Miss Pearl Russ, vice president; Miss Libbi Zion, recording secretary; Miss Rose Greenstein, financial secretary; Miss Rebecca Klotz, treasurer; Miss Sadie Beshar, librarian; Miss Adeline Karasck, librarian.

It was decided to have a picnic in the latter part of May. The committee is composed of Miss Bertha Elkinson, Miss Sarah Harris and Miss Ida Ruse.

Luncheon for Artists.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. E. Gilroy, of New Orleans, entertained at a luncheon yesterday in compliment to several members of the Metropolitan Opera company.

A plateau of pink roses, sweetpeas and valley lilies was the centerpiece of the luncheon table, which was on the east porch of the Piedmont Driving club. Corsage bouquets of orchids and roses marked the place of each lady and boutonniers of sweetpeas for the gentlemen.

The guests were Enrico Caruso, Leon Rothier, Gilly, Segurola, Miss Alma Stanley, Miss Nell Prince, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams, Jr., and Mrs. Joseph D. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Reador and Dr. and Mrs. John Sommerville.

For Macon Visitors.

Mrs. Richard Johnston entertained a group of Macon friends at a luncheon yesterday at the Driving club.

Yellow iris bordered with white iris was the centerpiece of the party table, and the place cards were in white and gold.

Mrs. Johnson wore a gown of black chiffon and lace, with black hat.

Mrs. Carnagy's Tea.

Misses Sarah Simpson and Martha Edwards, of Toccoa, were the guests of honor at the tea given yesterday afternoon at The Georgia Terrace by Mrs. Leslie Warren Carnagy, the guest of Mrs. William Bedford.

The guests were Mrs. William Eckford, Mrs. J. E. Pedder, Mrs. Mell Wilkinson, Mrs. E. L. Bishop, Mrs. Stuart Stringfellow, Mrs. E. T. Winston, Mrs. Palmer Hodgson, of Toccoa, Ga.; Mrs. W. H. Rhett, Mrs. Howell Ware, Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson, Mrs. F. L. Palmer, Mrs. Guy Carpenter, Mrs. Charles Fridgers, Miss Madian Howard, Miss Ruth Hull and Mrs. John Burgess.

Informal Tea.

Mrs. Michael Hoke entertained at a small tea yesterday afternoon at "Fern Bank," in compliment to Mrs. Waring Carrington, of Charleston.

Mrs. Mitchell's Tea.

Mrs. Norwood Mitchell entertained twenty guests at an informal tea yesterday afternoon, at her home on Columbia avenue, in honor of several friends who are here for the opera. Mrs. William Hunt poured tea.

MEETINGS

The Ladies' Altar society, of the Sacred Heart church, will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday, May 4, at 4 p. m. in Marist college hall. The executive board will meet at 3 p. m.

FIELD DAY EXERCISES GET UNDER WAY TODAY

The first division of the field day exercises to be held by the grammar schools of Atlanta will take place this morning at Ponce de Leon park, the program opening at 8:30 o'clock. Boys and girls of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will participate in the contests.

The program will consist of individual and team competitions in the following contests: Shuttle relay races, ball throw races, circle goal ball, potato relay races, captain ball, flag relay races and volley ball. The program will conclude at 12 o'clock. The other division of exercises will take place Monday afternoon.

If you favor the salary system, then you should vote for W. F. Wesley for tax receiver

Col. and Mrs. Peel Entertain At Woodbine For Mr. Kahn

Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel entertained at a beautiful reception Friday afternoon at Woodbine, their home on Peachtree road, in compliment to Mr. Otto Kahn, of New York, and the party of friends with him.

The weather permitted of an al fresco entertainment, and the guests were received on the board porches and refreshments were served on the lawn, as well as within the hospitable home. There was a brilliant musical program rendered by the orchestra, and the scene presented by the assembly of prominent people in garden "party attire" was a most interesting and picturesque one. Mrs. Peel was assisted in entertaining by her daughters, Mrs. William Kiser, Mrs. William Tilt, Mrs. Phinlay Calhoun, and by a number of Atlanta's most attractive women.

The terraced lawn was thrown here and there by mounds of vari-colored flowers, a border of blooming hydrangea defining the line of the broad porch extending across the front of the house. There were potted palms and blooming flowers in the main hall-way and a luxury of flowers in the various apartments opening into the long hallway and music room. Delicious refreshments were served, the guests grouping themselves in the house, on the porches and on the lawn.

Mrs. Peel wore a handsome and picturesque toilet in orchid-colored silk brocaded in a design of flowers in the orchid and Dresden shades. It was finished by a fichu of point d'Alencon lace, and her hat of leghorn straw was trimmed in flowers and given height by an ostrich plume in palest blue.

Toilets of similar attractiveness were worn by the many attractive women present, among them being Mrs. Kenneth Murchison, of New York, Mrs. Ellis' guest; Mrs. Richard Bissell, of Hartford, Conn., Mr. Edelstein's guest; Mrs. Delos Blodgett, Miss Blodgett, Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Tyson, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Ross, of Knoxville; Mrs. John Patterson, of North Carolina, the bearer of Miss Tyson, of Knoxville; Mrs. O'Neil, of Charleston; Miss Hebert, of New Orleans; Mrs. Remsen, of Baltimore; Mrs. Richard Wilson, of Nashville, while Atlanta beauty was brilliantly represented in Mrs. Slaton, Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. Brandon, Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. Albert Howell, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Thomas B. Peters, Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Mrs. John Little, Mrs. Frank Calloway, Mrs. H. M. Atkinson, Mrs. Frank Ellis, Mrs. Richard Johnston and her guest, Mrs. J. Marshall Johnson; Mrs. Gordon Kiser, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, Miss Harriet Calhoun, Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mrs. Howard Bucknell, Mrs. Frank Inman, Mrs. Thornton Mayre, Mrs. Ronald Hansen, Mrs. Marion Smith, Mrs. Carrol Payne. Several hundred guests were hospitably entertained, and the occasion was one of the most elaborate and enjoyable of opera week.

Forty guests were entertained at breakfast by Mr. and Mrs. Peel Wednesday, the party including the grand opera stars. The two rooms in which the breakfast was served were decorated beautifully and suggested the idea of an Italian garden.

SUPPER AFTER THE OPERA.

The Capital City club and the Piedmont Driving club held open house after the opera last evening and several hundred people were served at both clubs. There was music and dancing, and the spirit of hospitality found expression everywhere. Captain James Egleston entertained a party of eighteen after the opera at the Piedmont Driving club, his party invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sanford and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanford, who were with him in his box, Mr. Otto Kahn and his party were entertained at the Driving club, and there were many similar parties there. At the Capital City club there was a repetition of the gaiety of Thursday night, that occasion one of the most brilliant in the club's history. There were music and flowers and dancing contributing to add to the brilliancy of the evening.

Colonel and Mrs. Lowry entertained there for Mr. and Mrs. Rossi and Mr. and Mrs. Chapman. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Murchison, and Mrs. Murchison, also for Mr. Ragan's guests, Mrs. Blodgett, Miss Littlee guests, Mr. Munsey, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Evans.

The grand opera stars were at a long center table over which presided Mr. Peel and Mr. Maddox.

Among the belles of the evening were Miss Tyson, of Knoxville; Miss Schaeffer, of Toccoa; Miss Blodgett, of Grand Rapids; Miss Carney, of Macon; Mrs. Florence Wadley Coleman, of Macon; Miss Tomlinson, of Birmingham; Miss Smith, of Nashville; Miss Phinizy, of Athens; Miss Seley, of Augusta; Mrs. Barrett Phinizy, of Athens; Mrs. Emory Winship, Mrs. Walter Lamar, Mrs. Richard Bissell, of Hartford.

MR. AND MRS. INMAN ENTERTAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Inman entertained a congenial party at luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club yesterday, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanford, of Knoxville, who are among the popular guests to opera. The luncheon was served in the small dining room off the living room. The decorations were a realistic arrangement in pink and white flowers, and the detail decorations reflected those colors. Mrs. Inman wore a becoming toilet in blue, her plumed hat in the same color.

Colonel and Mrs. R. J. Lowry Entertain Knoxville Guests

Colonel and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry entertained sixty guests at breakfast yesterday at the Piedmont Driving club in compliment to the party from Knoxville who are in the city for the grand opera. The guests were seated at tables of different sizes in the main dining room of the club, Colonel and Mrs. Lowry presiding at a table of sixteen where the visiting ladies were seated.

Each table was beautifully decorated in yellow roses and snap dragons, and the detail appointments were in white and yellow.

The place cards were decorated in a design of miniature musicians, and souvenirs were tiny musical instruments. After breakfast Colonel Lowry proposed a toast to his visiting guests, Governor Hooper responded. Judge Newman expressed a welcome to the guests, Clark Howell proposed a toast to the ladies and Mr. Maddox to the guests from the various places represented in the bright party.

The occasion was one of the happiest of the opera season, Mrs. Lowry wore a white embroidered chiffon gown, trimmed in coral-colored velvet. Her hat of leghorn straw was trimmed in pink roses and lace.

Among the Guests.

Among the guests were: Colonel and Mrs. Lowry, Miss Tyson, Governor and Mrs. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. David Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dickey, Mrs. Knoxville; Captain English, Mr. and Mrs. Delos Blodgett, Mrs. Alfred Sanford, Miss Blodgett, Miss Littlee, Miss Blodgett, Mr. Edelstein; Miss Schaeffer, of Toccoa; Mrs. Florence Wadley Coleman, of Macon; Mr. Frank Munsey, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Emerson Brown, of Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. McBurney, Mr. and Mrs. Gerdine, Miss Denny, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy, Dr. and Mrs. Block, Miss Lamar, of Macon; Mr. Smith, Miss Lamar, of Macon; Mr. Frank Munsey, of New York; Mrs. Gerdine, Miss Denny,

Farrar, Martin and Scotti Share Honors in Wonderful Presentation of "Butterfly"

By Isaac Dooly.

That Geraldine Farrar has a place in Atlanta's big heart that no other singer has was proven last night when, as Madame Butterfly, she drew from the largest audience of the season an appreciation and applause almost frenzied at times.

Withholding herself from the appeals made to her to participate in the social galeties of the week, she has preserved her strength and beauty of her voice that she might give of her best to all. That she gave last night superbly.

Never was her art more apparent; from the first scene with the "first love impulse," in all their intensity, when, as the veritable butterfly, she flitted about the stage with consummate grace and witchery, to the very last scene, every individual in the audience me she did the young American officer and his more cautious friend, the consul.

But the butterfly had a heart that became a woman's heart—and a mother's heart—and then began the tragedy which is borne through the last acts by Miss Farrar in the tender, pulsating, deep-reaching notes of Puccini's entrancing music, with the carrying force Toscanini's leadership always means.

And Ricardo Martin, in the beloved character, Pinkerton, manifested the power of art, when, with such clear, ringing voice, he sang with perfection. The British critics have decided that Martin's interpretation of this particular role is the best and the most convincing, and metropolitan critics concede to him mastership of the part.

Those who have heard the great lyric tenor in London, New York and Atlanta unhesitatingly stated that never had they heard Martin sing with the fervor, sweetness and impressiveness that he did last night.

It was Scotti's first appearance before an Atlanta audience this year, and he deserved the splendid receptio accorded him. Singers may come and singers may go, but the Metropolitan can have no greater exponent of the art of music and the drama than Scotti ever proves himself to be. Whether as Scorpia in "Tosca," a part he has invested with marked greatness; as Lescaut, in Puccini's conception of it, or as the American consul, he portrayed the character to perfection. Work is always finished and beautiful. Atlanta is happy that he is to sing the prologue tonight in "Pagliacci."

ATLANTA'S NEVER BLUE, SAYS THIS NEW YORKER

Representative of Vanderbilt Hotel, on Tour of South, Raises City.

"New York is never dead. Often the city is blue, so to speak. But Atlanta! My, but you have a wonderful city. It leaps far ahead of many of the cities I have visited. It is just like New York—its cosmopolitan croyds, buildings which seem to be reaching into the clouds, the general air of activity."

W. L. Black, representing the Vanderbilt hotel interests, who has been in Atlanta several days on a business trip, says he will be sorry to leave here. He has been infected with the opera spirit, chiefly because he is an intimate friend of Riccardo Martin, who sang Pinkerton in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" last night.

Mr. Black, however, is on a strictly business tour. That means that almost every minute of his time is occupied looking after business. Friday he spent almost the entire day among the insurance men of Atlanta. He is after the insurance men who will visit New York soon to attend the big insurance convention. During the early part of the week he visited several cities, telling the cotton men of the wonders of the great Vanderbilt hotel in New York.

Although he does not usually act as booking manager for the Vanderbilt, Mr. Black was sent south on this occasion because the hotel is anxious to get southern business.

Mr. Black is a southern boy. He was in the cotton business in Nashville up to two years ago. He went to New York expecting to pick up a connection with a cotton house in Gotham, but he became connected with the Vanderbilt interests instead, and he is perfectly satisfied.

From Atlanta, Mr. Black will go to Jacksonville. He will spend several days in the Florida metropolis, and will return to New York.

"I hope it won't be long before I come back to Atlanta again," said Mr. Black by way of farewell. "I would like to be here when the Shriners are having their inning."

The Vanderbilt is one of New York's most desirable hotels. Not only does it boast of superb equipment and location, but it jealously guards its reputation as being the most comfortable hotel in the United States.

MARTHA BERRY SCHOOL HOLDS COMMENCEMENT

Rome, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The twelfth annual commencement of the Berry school is now under way. Last night the combined chorus and glee clubs of the Berry school and the Martha Berry School for Girls had a concert for the students of the two schools. Tonight a pageant of American industry was given under the direction of the junior class.

On Saturday the annual meeting of the alumni association will be held at 10 a. m., presided over by the president of the society, W. C. Henson, of Cartersville. At 11 a. m. the diplomas will be awarded the graduates by Judge Moses Wright, of the board of trustees. At 4 p. m. the senior class exercises will be held.

On Sunday the commencement sermon will be preached by the Rev. J. J. Hill, of Athens. At 7:30 the Young Men's Christian association will hold a rally.

DR. BRUNER TO SPEAK AT ALAMO ON SUNDAY

Dr. Weston Bruner, chief evangelist for the Baptist home mission board of the south, will speak at an Alamo theater No. 2, at 37 Whitehall street, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Subject, "The Young Man Up-to-Date."

These Sunday afternoon theater meetings are being held under the auspices of the twenty-seven Baptist Young People's unions of Atlanta, and Frank H. Lovell, state field secretary for the B. Y. P. U. of Georgia, will preside at the meeting.

Special music will be rendered by the large chorus choir from the Central Baptist church, and the singing by a male quartet will be an interesting feature of the program.

REV. HUGHES TO FILL DR. WILMER'S PULPIT

The time of evening service at St. Luke's Episcopal church has been changed from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. The preacher at the 11 o'clock service next Sunday will be the Rev. William M. Hughes, D. D., of Morristown, N. J., and the preacher at the evening service will be the Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints' church, this city. Dr. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's, will be out of the city for several days.

REV. LINE TO PLEAD FOR GREATER GRADY

The sermon subject to be handled by Rev. Fred A. Line at the First Universalist church, 18 East Harris street, next Sunday morning will be, "The Man Next Door." The speaker will make a plea for a Greater Grady, and will discuss briefly Atlanta's needs in general. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. There will be good music.

22 WILL GET DIPLOMAS AT DUBLIN HIGH SCHOOL

Dublin, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—This year twenty-two young men and women will be given diplomas by the Dublin high school at the annual commencement night, which will be May 28. Rev. Croft Williams, of Augusta, will deliver the annual literary address and the diplomas will be delivered by President F. G. Carter, of the city board of education. A new departure for high schools in this state will be the caps and gowns which the graduates will wear. This is probably the first high school class in the state to graduate in caps and gown, and teachers and pupils both regard the innovation with much favor.

W. F. Wesley is the salary system candidate.

Sweet Peas and Roses Given Governor Slaton by Fitzgerald Children

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Two days of this week have been devoted to the rural school commencement which has been held in this city.

The parade was a feature of the exercises, and was witnessed by 500 people, the interesting part of this being the rural schools headed by the Fitzgerald High school and the board of education. There were eighteen schools in line, Ashton being the largest with 123 pupils, the smallest having thirteen.

Governor John M. Slaton was present Tuesday and delivered an inspiring speech, being presented afterward with a beautiful bouquet of sweetpeas from the high school, and one of roses from an admirer. The governor said: "I accept these to give to my wife, as I think she is the fairest flower in Georgia."

The pupils taking part in the contests were a credit to their schools, gold medals and other prizes being awarded for excellence in declamation, oratory, spelling, essay, culinary, fancy work, penmanship, mathematics, music and story-telling. In addition, Lynwood received a prize for the best improved school grounds.

The visitors to the city were entertained by the members of the Woman's club.

MACON TO HAVE MORE ROOM FOR HOSPITAL

Sum of $100,000 Will Be Set Aside for Purchase of Ground.

Macon, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Plans for the enlargement of the Macon hospital, thereby giving to Macon one of the largest and most up-to-date hospitals in the state, are under way. At a meeting today the board of directors adopted a resolution calling on the mayor and council to include in the proposed bond issue to be submitted to the voters of Macon within the next few months for paving and sewerage the sum of $100,000, with which to purchase the ground adjoining the present hospital site, now occupied by the dormitories of the Ballard Normal school, a negro institution.

It is said this ground can be purchased for not more than $20,000. It is located at the corner of New and Pine streets.

The point has been reached where Macon must have more hospital room, the present buildings being entirely inadequate for the needs of the city. Patients from all over south Georgia come here for treatment and often they are here in such numbers that it is impossible to take care of cases that originate right here at home.

The Macon hospital is supported by the county of Bibb and the city of Macon, both of which make annual appropriations toward its upkeep. Charity wards are maintained and almost as many are treated free each year as there are those who pay for the service.

The matter of the bond issue will be laid before the mayor and council at once, but if they fail to hear the plea, other means of securing the money will be devised.

ATLANTA BOYS DEBATE FOR HONOR OF VARSITY

Athens, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Saturday evening, in the chapel of the University of Georgia, the Virginia-South Carolina event of the triangular intercollegiate debates will be held. The question for debate is, "Resolved, That the United States should no longer endeavor to maintain her position as one of the three greatest naval powers." South Carolina has the affirmative, with J. S. Dudley and M. A. Wright as debaters; the negative for the University of Virginia will be championed by J. O. Beatty and A. R. Ehrman.

On the same evening Georgia university will have two teams at work forensically. One goes against South Carolina university at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., Georgia being represented by D. K. McKamy and C. W. Jacobson, and taking the affirmative. The other team, composed of Victor Victor and C. Pinkussohn, both Atlanta boys, goes to Columbia, S. C., to meet the University of Virginia in the hall of the University of South Carolina. Georgia will have the negative against Virginia.

FARRAR IN "BUTTERFLY" DRAWS BIG CROWD HERE

The hotels of Atlanta were crowded to their capacity with visitors to open on Friday, people having flocked to Atlanta from all parts of the south to hear Farrar in "Madame Butterfly" last night.

The hotel registers showed about 300 people from Montgomery alone, all of whom were brought to Atlanta by the grand opera.

CITY BUYS ASPHALT MIXER FOR $13,500; MEANS BIG SAVING

All city paving will hereafter be executed on a business basis through which the city will save approximately $25,000 annually, according to Alderman C. H. Kelley, chairman of the street committee of the general council.

The first move in that direction was indicated Friday, when City Purchasing Agent W. E. Chambers ordered from F. D. Cummer & Sons, of Cleveland, an asphalt mixer which will cost the city $13,500. The machine will be shipped to Atlanta f.o.b. and is due to arrive here next week. With the machine the city will receive a five-year guarantee on a surety bond. The company will also send a demonstrator with the machine to operate it two weeks for the city.

The custom of the past has been to pay the county for laying asphalt in the city and for this work the city paid about 90 cents a yard. The same work will be done with the asphalt mixer at about 73 cents—saving the city 33 cents a yard, it is expected.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY PLANNED FOR NEGROES

A big platform meeting and Sunday school rally will be held by the negroes at the West Mitchell Street Colored Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Representatives of both the white and negro races will take part in the rally.

Among the white men who will address the meeting will be W. Woods White and Judge W. R. Hammond.

Addresses will also be made by the leaders of Atlanta's negroes. There will be special music.

W. J. BURNS AND LEHON ARE CALLED

over and see Montezen Stover and see if I could not get her to change her testimony. Later, he told me he was coming to my house to see if my mother about letting me go down and add work on a street car case which he was to investigate.

MOTHER MADE ME STOP WORKING.

"He also said that he wanted to see mother about letting me do down and live in the house with Monteen Stover for a week and pick her testimony whether or not Montean would alter or change her statement. He came out to see mother, but she refused, and consequently made me stop working with Burke.

"I met Burke and had my talks with him in the private office of Governor John M. Slaton, in the office of Boomer, Brandon, Slaton & Phillips. One day I asked Carrie Smith, a friend of mine, and a witness in the Frank case, to meet me in Governor Slaton's office. I told her to go up to the seventh floor and turn to the left.

"Burke wanted Carrie to change her testimony. He told me that if Carrie didn't give what evidence he wanted, that he had a friend in an assignation house who knew Carrie, and that Carrie came down to this resort frequently, and that she always called him up every time Carrie went down there to notify him, and that if Carrie didn't 'come across' with the right kind of evidence, he would expose her.

"I have known Carrie Smith since she was a baby. We were little sweethearts together. Her reputation is unimpeachable. She has never been guilty of immorality. I did not say anything while he told me this, but just listened. I asked Carrie about it all, and she branded Burke a liar."

MOTION POSTPONED.

The motion to set aside the verdict of guilty because of constitutional rights, presented by John L. Tye in behalf of Frank's defense, was postponed Friday morning because of Attorney Tye's inability to be present. It will be taken up some time next week.

Charges that Detective Burke, in investigating the case for the defense, had posed in the various identities of newspaper reporter, press agent, author, detective and other professions as of as investigating type, were made by various witnesses. It was even stated in an affidavit by one of the character witnesses that he had been assisted by George Wrenn, the youth who recently served a twelve months' sentence for participation in the noted Gilsey $6,000 diamond robbery.

Dorsey's Answer.

Following is the solicitor general's reply to the amendments to the extraordinary motion for a new trial:

State of Georgia—Answering the several amendments to the extraordinary motion for a new trial, as filed by movant, Leo M. Frank, and taking them up in the order in which they were presented to the court, says:

I.

As to the amendment claiming that J. W. Booser, on the afternoon of April 26, 1913, at about 6:15 o'clock, met Jim Conley on Peters street near Castleberry street: The state says that, in the first place, the said Booser is absolutely making up the date that he saw said Jim Conley. The state submits that said Jim Conley did see Booser on several occasions, and probably the day before, and that the defendant, Leo M. Frank, was looking after, for the said Jim Conley, the payment of certain debts which Jim Conley owed on a certain watch. The said Booser's statements, in so far as contained by any other witness, so far as this record shows, by his claim as to seeing Conley at the time and place stated, and is flatly contradicted by said Conley, who is sustained as to his whereabouts by Ivey Jones and other witnesses.

But the state submits that at best, even if the affidavit of the said Booser should be true, that it merely amounts to impeaching evidence, in so far as Jim Conley is concerned, and, under the facts heretofore found by setting aside the verdict of guilty, as rendered against Frank. This would be true, even if the said Booser had contradicted the said Conley at the time whereabouts at an hour which would have rendered it impossible for the said Conley to have aided the said Frank in the manner and form as testified to by the said Conley in the trial of the case of the State v. Leo M. Frank. As a matter of fact, the said Conley would have assisted the said Leo M. Frank in the disposition of the body of Mary Phagan, as testified to, and have been seen by the said Booser. In other words, the testimony of the said Booser, even if true—a thing that the state denies—is with reference to immaterial matter.

Second Amendment.

State of Georgia, answering the second amendment, says that C. B. Ragsdale has repudiated this affidavit, and insists that the state proceed to swear to the falsehoods as contained in the allegations as embodied in this amendment, and says that he was paid money to swear as he did. The true history of all this transaction is not known to the agents of one William J. Burns, a detective of the employ of Frank or some of Frank's friends, who has been co-operating with the said Ragsdale in getting up evidence to overturn the verdict of guilty, and the particulars of the transaction, the state alleges, were handled by one Lehon, an agent of the William J. Burns detective agency.

In addition to this, the said Ragsdale is absolutely unworthy of belief, and the state submits, as the state will show, by the affidavits of many reputable citizens who know the said Ragsdale, in the county of Cherokee, state of Georgia, where he formerly resided, and in the city of Atlanta. Also the state says that one R. L. Barber, who is alleged to corroborate and sustain the story as told by said Ragsdale, is a notoriously bad character in the said county, so shaped and directed matters as to make it appear that this disposition, which the said Barber who was convicted of highway robbery, alleged such an admission from said Conley, and the state insisted that the entire transaction in this case is in keeping with the Ragsdale incident, and that the whole thing is founded upon falsehood.

Fourth. The said Annie Maud Carter, after making said affidavit, was, in the first place, in a position to be shown, placed in hiding, where not only the state's officers and officials cannot see her or interview her with reference to the matters and things to which she has sworn, but her whereabouts is being kept concealed from them, and that this circumstance which the state submits in and of itself should demand at the hands of this court a judgment overruling and denying this application for a new trial, because the state insists that if the transaction referred to in this amendment was worthy of belief there would be no occasion or necessity for the said Annie Maud Carter to be spirited away and beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and the state is informed and believes said Annie Maud Carter to be, and rendered inaccessible by the affidavit of Barber.

That the state submits that the said Barber was convicted of highway robbery, and that his testimony is to be given, to help the defendant and damnate this respondent.

Effort to Poison Conley.

In this respect the state submits that the said Jim Conley was a prophet, because the state will show by affidavits that an effort was made to poison said Jim Conley, and they have, through conviction, been thwarted in their

Effort to Subsidize Barber.

The state submits that the said Barber has absconded and cannot be found, and that the sheriff's officers and officials of the state in control of this transaction, in the county of Cherokee, the said Barber has absconded for the purpose of evading punishment for the willful and deliberate lies sworn in connection with this transaction, and that the said Barber was paid $100 to make said false affidavits, submitted to attorneys for the defendant, Leo M. Frank. These allegations the state will prove by affidavits to be submitted herewith.

This well illustrates the methods. The state is informed and believes, being informed and believing, that resort to other matters in connection with this proceeding ground for setting aside the verdict of guilty, as rendered against Frank. This would be true, even if the said Booser had contradicted the said Conley at the time whereabouts at an hour which would have rendered it impossible for the said Conley to have aided the said Frank in the manner and form as testified to by the said Conley in the trial of the case of the State v. Leo M. Frank. As a matter of fact, the said Conley would have assisted the said Leo M. Frank in the disposition of the body of Mary Phagan, as testified to, and have been seen by the said Booser. In other words, the testimony of the said Booser, even if true—a thing that the state denies—is with reference to immaterial matter.

Second Amendment.

State of Georgia, answering the second amendment, says that C. B. Ragsdale has repudiated this affidavit, and insists that the state proceed to swear to the falsehoods as contained in the allegations as embodied in this amendment, and says that he was paid money to swear as he did. The true history of all this transaction is not known to the agents of one William J. Burns, a detective of the employ of Frank or some of Frank's friends, who has been co-operating with the said Ragsdale in getting up evidence to overturn the verdict of guilty, and the particulars of the transaction, the state alleges, were handled by one Lehon, an agent of the William J. Burns detective agency.

In addition to this, the said Ragsdale is absolutely unworthy of belief, and the state submits, as the state will show, by the affidavits of many reputable citizens who know the said Ragsdale, in the county of Cherokee, state of Georgia, where he formerly resided, and in the city of Atlanta. Also the state says that one R. L. Barber, who is alleged to corroborate and sustain the story as told by said Ragsdale, is a notoriously bad character in the said county, so shaped and directed matters as to make it appear that this disposition, which the said Barber who was convicted of highway robbery, alleged such an admission from said Conley, and the state insisted that the entire transaction in this case is in keeping with the Ragsdale incident, and that the whole thing is founded upon falsehood.

Fourth. The said Annie Maud Carter, after making said affidavit, was, in the first place, in a position to be shown, placed in hiding, where not only the state's officers and officials cannot see her or interview her with reference to the matters and things to which she has sworn, but her whereabouts is being kept concealed from them, and that this circumstance which the state submits in and of itself should demand at the hands of this court a judgment overruling and denying this application for a new trial, because the state insists that if the transaction referred to in this amendment was worthy of belief there would be no occasion or necessity for the said Annie Maud Carter to be spirited away and beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and the state is informed and believes said Annie Maud Carter to be, and rendered inaccessible by the affidavit.

That the contention of the movant, Leo M. Frank, is false is furthermore shown by a statement on the part of the said Annie Maud Carter, made in the shape of an affidavit, in which it will be shown that she made many contradictory statements to what is alleged by movant to have been the facts.

In Reference to Letters.

With reference to the letters contended by said Frank to have been written by the said Conley. The said Conley denies the authorship of said letters. The circumstances indicate that Jim Conley never wrote any such letters, and the state insists that the letters produced, containing vulgar and obscene language and referring to indecent matters, are forgeries. If affidavits, as the state submits will be shown in this case, attributed to certain witnesses, were forged, then the state submits that it is not a far step to forged letters, and the state submits that such is the truth with reference to the same.

At the time of drawing this answer the state is not informed as to what papers attested and alleged affidavit of Annie Maud Carter. But the state says that the pretended and so-called affidavits either witnessed or attested by C. W. Burke, alleged to have been made by Ivey Jones, which the state insists is a forgery, and furthermore the state insists that another affidavit witnessed by said Burke, viz., the affidavit of Miss Ruth Robinson, is a forgery, and in this connection the state calls the attention of the court to the fact that one C. W. Burke attested, not only some of the affidavits of the defendant, Leo M. Frank, but witnessed the affidavit of Dewer Howell, who is in Cincinnati, Ohio, and not accessible, and likewise witnessed the affidavit of Mervis Dalton, who is in Florida and inaccessible, and the affidavit of Mary Rich was attested by C. W. Burke.

Wherefore, the state insists that the extraordinary motion be overruled, as under no circumstances could a different result obtain by virtue of any of the various contentions as set up in either the original or the several amendments to the original extraordinary motion for new trial. Respectfully submitted.

E. A. STEPHENS.

Bell Telephone Service During Shrine Week

WHEN the thousands of visitors come to town during Shrine week the telephone service, along with other public and private utilities, will be under a severe strain to meet the increased demands.

We shall try to render a telephone service as nearly perfect as is humanly possible. Our plans have been completed and all we need now is a little co-operation on the part of the homefolks.

There must be enough pay stations to accommodate the visitors; there must be sufficient trunk lines and stations in hotels, cafes, drug stores, taxicab offices, railroad ticket offices, baggage offices and other public places so that the increased traffic may be handled between these points and our central offices.

Our representatives are calling upon business houses every day to discuss this matter. It may not be possible to see all, so you should telephone the manager's office NOW and arrange for additional service during Shrine week.

If you are to derive all possible benefit from this notable event your telephone door must be wide open. If we are to render a service in keeping with the Atlanta Spirit we must have your co-operation right now.

We have well-trained operators and adequate mechanical equipment.

May we have your co-operation?

PITCHERS TOSS AWAY GAME THAT'S WON

BLOOMER GIRLS PLAY FEDS TODAY

Second Appearance of the Bloomer Girls Locally. Feds Have Organized Good Team—Golden Will Pitch.

The second appearance of the Bloomer Girls' baseball team locally will be this afternoon, at Ponce de Leon, when they again play the Atlanta Federals. The Bloomer Girls made such a big hit with Atlanta fans last Saturday in the game with the Federals that their manager, Grand Exat, decided to bring them here again. Hence, the game this afternoon.

The Bloomer Girls have a crackerjack organization, and have been playing stellar ball all season, winning the majority of their games. They defeated the Feds last Saturday, 6 to 5, and will endeavor to turn the trick again today.

The Feds, under the management of J. C. Smith, have organized into a good semi-pro team, and will play some good games in Atlanta this season. Last Saturday was the first game that they played, and they were not sufficiently organized to give a good account of themselves.

Golden, the crack hurler of the Atlanta Medical college, who recently twirled a no-hit game against the Acworth team, will pitch Saturday's game.

The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. Tickets are 50 cents, and are on sale at Tumlin Bros.

The line-up of the two clubs is as follows:

FEDS.	BLOOMER GIRLS
Askew, c.	Ethel Maloney, c.
Golden, p.	Margaret Cunningham, p.
Holland, 1b.	Selma Welham, 1b.

MAXEY OF GORDON IN SPLENDID TRIM

Barnesville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Maxey was decidedly too much of a puzzle to the Riverside batsmen this afternoon and Gordon won the third game of the series by the score of 2 to 0. Not a single Riverside man reached third base and only one reached second.

Gordon presented a patched line-up. Kingery, the hard-hitting second baseman, was out of the game, and Hughes took his place at second. Holloman going to right field.

Maxey was the bright star of the combat, striking out eleven men and allowing only three hits. Miller, for Riverside, also pitched well, holding the locals to three hits and striking out seven men.

In the third inning Maxey walked. Dunnan flew to center, Hughes to short on a fielder's choice and Maxey scored on Gillicon's smashing single to right field.

In the sixth Gillicon was safe on a wild throw of Smith, took second on the same play and scored on the same throw to first.

The fourth and last game of the series will be played here tomorrow with Dozier doing slab duty for Gordon and Merritt for Riverside.

But he has not lost his interest in baseball, and was a visitor to Caller King's office for a few minutes Friday. Naturally he was more interested in what his team was doing in Memphis than in the Atlanta game.

Pitchers Toss Away Game That Batters Pulled Out; Town Lot Score Is Made

By Paul W. Treznor.

Nashville, Tenn., May 1.—(Special.)—In the weirdest contest staged at the Dell this season, during which the game switched back and forth with each of the respective clubs in the lead, the Vols managed to take the opener from Billy Smith's champions this afternoon by a score of 13 to 16.

The score indicates the terrific hombardment of both teams, two pitchers being used by both clubs during the progress of the melee.

Gil Price started for the Crackers and, in the first two innings, did Vols piled up six runs. After being touched up for another pair, he was yanked in the seventh, giving way to Efird, who proved pie to the Vols by his erratic attempts at twirling. Efird hit the first man, the next batter slashed and the third was walked.

A trio of hits off Efird netted five runs. The fifth run came from behind in the third and added a couple of another pair in the fifth, saving their fireworks until the seventh.

Crackers Get Rogers.

In the unlucky frame, they pounded Rogers from the hill, taking the lead by making four runs. In the same inning the Vols annexed seven runs, clinching the game, although the Crackers threw a giant scare into the Vols by a threatened ninth-inning rally.

In the ninth, Elbel led off with a single off Boland and Price Flanagan laid down a neat sacrifice and beat it out, choking the ball into Boland's hit a long fly to Callahan. Elbel scoring on the sacrifice. Red Dent was walked and the time was ripe for a blow to tie the score, and Manager Smith sent in Reynolds to bat for Dunn. Reynolds fell a victim to Boland's curves and whiffed. Elliott Dent was sent into bring home the baccon, hitting in Efird's place, but he also took his three swings in vain, ending the game.

The Crackers hammered the Vols' pitchers for a total of thirteen wallops, two of them getting to Smith on heavers for seventeen. The Crackers lost the game through Efird's wildness after having it apparently sewed up. Sensational and punk fielding was a feature of the melee, both teams showing flashes of class at various stages as well as putidness.

The Box Score.

New Orleans, May 1.—Kirby's home run over right field fence in the second inning was enough to enable Mobile to defeat New Orleans today in the second game of the series, but Mobile's team work drive, field work and a bad throw gave the visitors another in the fifth, the final score being 2 to 0. Burns leaped against left field fences to catch Clarke's long fly in the fourth inning.

Montgomery, Ala., May 1.—Birmingham bunched hits off Case in the early innings today, and won the second game of the series from Montgomery by a score of 7 to 2. The feature of the game was the brilliant fielding of Daly, who had seven put-outs and one assist. He threw out Montgomery getting a runner trying to score on a fly ball and was otherwise responsible for bunched hits off Brown in only one inning.

Talbotton, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Talbotton lost its second game this afternoon, in Manchester, to the tune of 5 to 7, this being the second game of the season. Douglas, for Talbotton, was put in the box in the opening, and was taken out, Spivey going in, getting forth every effort available to win out, as they needed all the help that could be had. Thunderclaps pitched one of the ablest games that ever a small crowd witnessed in Manchester.

YELLOW JACKETS DOWN ALABAMA

Batting Rally in Eighth Nets Three Runs—Score 4 to 3—Double-Header Today.

TWO GAMES TODAY.

The teams will play a double-header this afternoon, the first game being called promptly at 2:30 o'clock. Tech's pitching will be selected from Bryant, Eubanks and Garlington, while Alabama's box-men are uncertain.

By Hal Reynolds.

By timely hitting, which netted three runs in the ninth, Yellow Jackets succeeded in coming from behind and winning from the Alabama nine by the score of 4 to 3.

This victory for the Jackets broke their hoodoo of losing the first game of the series with the games with Mercer, Vanderbilt, Alabama (in Tuscaloosa), Mississippi, Tech again stepped the first battle.

Coach Alexander took two games out of three in Tuscaloosa with Alabama, they now cannot lose the series. It is the first time the Alabama nine has ever won over the Alabama nine here in the southern championship, and neither team has yet lost a series with any team in the association.

The game was a pretty pitchers' battle, between Pitts and Vandergraff, with Pitts twirling the steadier ball of the two. Vandegraff was forced to retire under the fusillade of Tech hits in the eighth, while the Tech southpaw had the Tuscaloosans eating out of his hand, with the exception of the first inning.

Four Hitters.

Tech's attack revolved around four men—Wooten, T. Montague, Burr and Pitts—each of whom secured two hits off of the Jackets' eight.

The Jackets had their first good opportunity to score in the sixth round, when they had runners on first and second and no men down. Due to some nice work on the part of the visitors' twirler, Tech only made one run.

Alabama threatened a number of times when they would get a man to second. However, Pitts invariably tightened and whiffed the next batsmen.

Joplin, at short, and Cargile, at third, for Alabama, pulled several nice plays on ground balls. All of them were difficult chances, and but for their clever work Tech would have won by much larger margin.

Sewell, playing right for the visitors, made a great catch of a liner from Wooten's bat in the fifth when he ran over to right center and robbed the Jackets' shortstop of a triple. Hill made a couple of good pick-ups and throws of hard chances around the hot corner.

Woosley, also, had a fine day in the field, handling all of his five chances in approved fashion.

With one out in the third inning Fischer dropped Lobert's third strike, but allowed the batter to go to first unmolested. Then, with the bases full, he threw his to Smith, who threw to the plate, forcing Paskert. Batteries: Hagerman, Collamore and Causch; Taylor and Ensenroth. Time, 1:50. Umpires, Connolly and Sheridan.

Tigers 2, White Sox 1.

Detroit, Mich., May 1.—Detroit won the fourth straight game of the series from Chicago today, 2 to 1, but not until after the White Sox repeated their old-time rally of yesterday and nearly pulled it out, one tally of tieing the score. With a base hit an opportune moment might have won the game for the visitors, but Cree and Stanage forced Dubuc and Detroit obtained only three hits.

ANOTHER CRACKER ON HOSPITAL LIST

Catcher Munch Split Finger in Nashville Friday—Sent Home—Billy Misses His Regulars.

It never rains but it pours. Another Cracker has been added to the hospital list in the person of Dutch Munch. Munch split his finger in practice before the game with Nashville Friday.

The following wire was received by the sporting editor of The Constitution from Manager Bill Smith last night:

"Dick Jemison, sporting editor The Constitution: Munch split his thumb in practice here today. Am sending him home tonight. We surely do miss Welchouse and Long mightily. Tough one to lose today after the hops had batted out a victory. Well be back batting them again tomorrow for all we are worth.

COLLEGE GAMES

Vanderbilt 5, Sewanee 3.

Nashville, Tenn., May 2.—(Special.)—Vanderbilt made it two straight over Sewanee this afternoon by trimming the Tigers by a score of 5 to 1.

Jones, first baseman of Sewanee, broke his right leg above the ankle sliding to first base, colliding with Walker. Morgan, Jones' substitute, Turner and E. Brown, for Vanderbilt, were the features of the game. Brothers was on the hill for the Commodores and was master of the situation touched for eight hits, but all were scattered. Walker, Sewanee's pitcher, was hit in the pinches and a smarter of the knocks were for extra bases.

ONE TURTLE CANNED AND TWO ARE SIGNED

Memphis, Tenn., May 1.—(Special.)—Two more Turtles were added to the local roster today and one was released. Ducky Holmes, right-handed pitcher, was purchased from Newark, of the International league, and he goes on his way here. McCabe, outfielder, was secured from the Nashville club and is due here Saturday evening. Duggan, outfielder, was released to Haverhill, of the New England league. Dan, an infielder with Newark, will also report to join the team in a few days. The deal has not been closed yet, though.

HE URGES ARBITRATION OF CANAL TOLLS TANGLE

Norris Begins Debate Without Awaiting Appearance of Bill Before Senate.

Washington, May 1.—Without waiting for the Panama tolls exemption repeal bill to be called formally before the senate, Senator Norris today began debate on the subject with an appeal for a resort to arbitration. He favored the passage of the house repeal measure, with all amendment expressly stating the United States waived no right thereby, but called on President Wilson to invite Great Britain to arbitrate the dispute as to the right of the United States to discriminate in favor of its own vessels.

That portion of the senator's speech attacking the economic arguments used to support the exemption clause drew counter attacks from Senator O'Gorman and other opponents of repeal.

Senator O'Gorman, as chairman of the canals committee, announced that he expected to call up the bill tomorrow. Senator Simmons, leader of the repeal forces, will seek to have it made the unfinished business as soon as it is before the senate until a vote is reached.

Americus Schools Close.

Americus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Eighteen hundred pupils of the Americus public schools put aside books this afternoon for the summer vacation. The schools closed a month earlier than usual in order that the new grammar school, accommodating 700 pupils might be demolished and a more commodious structure erected. The graduating class this session numbers thirty-three members, the greatest since the public school system here was established.

LITTLE ACTIVITY IN COTTON MARKET

Prices Ease Off Under Small Offerings With the Close Unchanged to Six Points Lower.

New York, May 1.—The cotton market was less active today and prices eased off under small offerings in the absence of any aggressive support, with the close steady, net unchanged to 6 points lower.

It was reported at the opening that a new May notices were circulating, but it was rumored that they would be withdrawn. Some southern spot interests credited with having taken about 25,000 bales on the ranges advised last Tuesday. At any rate this morning's leaders seemed to bring no particular pressure against the market, and during the early stages of the unchanged prices to a decline of 3 points, active months sold within 2 points of the highest. Private crop reports giving preliminary acreage figures, showing increases of from 1.5 to 3.4 per cent were considered rather less bearish than expected, while sentiment was somewhat easier and there were also some further unfavorable reports from the Lancashire spinning districts. These features probably helped the mine advance, but evidently failed to create much fresh demand, for the market soon turned easier under scattering liquidation.

Less bullish week-end figures, continued talk of accumulating long spot interests and expectations of more settled weather conditions have encouraged some selling for a further reaction. Offerings did not become heavy anywhere on selling of small lots represented a steady supply, which evidently found a few buyers around the ring and the market was easy at the close. The tone was lower during the afternoon, with summer and new crop positions relatively easy. There was a May drive to cover, and that position closed at a rally of 4 points from the lowest, May 12.76, a minimum of 25 points over July. The local opening stood around a basis of 12.80, 1,200 bales today and this, with rumors of freight engagements of 5,000 bales to Georgia points, led to claims that the movement from the interior to New York was already under way.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 1.—Long selling, particularly of August cotton, forced that position down 12 points at the close today, while other months ranged from 4 to 8 points down. Trading was not active and with the exception of a few prices moved within a narrow range.

Weather reports were conflicting, some being that Texas conditions were not as favorable as had been reported, while others were that the situation was not so bad. Spinners were not inclined to do much under these circumstances. Early in the day traders seemed to be always looking for May tenders in New York. Only a few of these were issued, however, and these stopped and had no effect.

Total exports 4,000.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 1.—(Special.)—The market became nervous above 13 cents on crop movement reports yesterday, due to a feeling that the bull account's time of carrying the crop to a higher level would naturally become favorable after the March and April deliveries had been disposed of, and the increased use of fertilizers has the effect to more thoroughly mature the crop. In Liverpool the old crop is selling for such a premium that they are being pushed to sell quickly as possible. If the arbitration dispatch in the bull market were certain on grade rather than on value, as determined by a commercial basis, there would probably be large tenders. As it is, with food another, the disposition is to push for what is this view which causes us to believe the future course of prices depends on the weather for the growing crop.

Jay, Bond & Co.

New York, May 1.—(Special.)—Business here today was small in volume and represented a desire to sell. This was encouraged by the favorable weather and the unless bullish week-end figures. As to spinners' takings, we do not expect to find that any business in quantity can only be booked at lower level values and this will result in causing miscellaneous liquidation. The accumulation of cotton here in this country is to signify a slowing down in the goods market and a consequent lighter demand for cotton for the present.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, May 1.—(Special.)—The bears continue their hammering of July, which closed today 25 points lower than it was a week ago, while December closed where it did a week ago. There has been very little selling of against purchases in December. July declined 9 points today, while the new crop months ranged from 4 to 8 points. Sentiment for the moment is decidedly bearish, but there is a little more bad weather to bring about a change. Liverpool is due to open 2 to 3 points lower.

Dry Goods.

New York, May 1.—Print cloths were dull. Commission houses complained that reorders on cotton goods were not up to the normal, but on the other hand jobbers and converters were in the market. Indications pointed to an upward trend in woolens and worsted fabrics.

The silk market was not very active. Business in ribbons was of small proportions, but advance orders are being maintained.

Provisions.

Chicago, May 1.—Pork $19.45. Lard $9.85.

Dun's Review.

New York, May 1.—Dun's Review will say tomorrow:

Though some betterment is discernible in certain branches of trade, in others a further slackening occurred, especially in manufacturing, and the volume of business is still far below the normal. Fundamental conditions are sound and the agricultural outlook encouraging for the future, yet hesitancy is general in anticipating forward requirements.

"Complaints are still heard, especially in the east, that commercial failures are unsettled weather, which checks a full retail distribution of seasonable goods, and also hampers outdoor work. Although expansion in building operations is not expected at this period of the year, nearly all reports indicate considerable activity.

"Failures this week were 238, against 225 last year, and 19 in Canada, compared with 24 a year ago."

WHEAT ESTIMATES CAUSE OF DECLINE

Values for the New Crop Months Are Smashed But Net Gain Is Scored by May Contracts.

Chicago, May 1.—Estimates that 2,000,000 more acres of wheat would be harvested in the United States this year than ever before smashed values today for new crop months. May contracts, however, were in strong hands and scored a net gain. The market, as a whole, finished weak at a range varying from 5-8@7-8c decline to 3-8c advance. Corn, too, closed irregular, 1-8c down to 1-4c up; oats unchanged to 1-4c lower, and provisions with a fair set of gains.

Extreme weakness, which developed in the early stages, was checked soon after they had bulged in sympathy with a sharp rise for May in the series here on options for the current month. Harvesting of the crop is only half as much in volume as expected, and for the most part had gone into the possession of one of the houses credited with the heaviest financial backing on the exchange. The consequent relative tightness in respect to May contracts was in evidence throughout the session, although the price for that month receded 7-8c from the top. Prices for the new crop months fell under heavy selling.

Much activity was shown in speculative trading in cash wheat in new crop months. A single leading trader here took nearly 1,000,000 bushels from other prominent dealers today and opposite ideas in regard to probable values.

Much the same situation came about in the corn pit this week. The delivery series of corn, although heavy, passed off without excitement, but deferred futures were under decided selling pressure. Export sales reported from Argentina exceeded what had been looked for.

Oats ruled comparatively firm, as shippers received most of the May deliveries and were inclined to diminish stocks here.

Provisions closed off on account of unloading by packers. Steadiness in the hog market tended to prevent a more serious decline.

Good butcher bugs, 100 to 140, $6.25@6.50.

Heavy and rough hogs, 300 to 350, $7.50@7.60.

Pigs and pen fattened 1½c to 2c under, according to quality. Packers' market unchanged. While the assortment continues to run rough, mostly common, the past several weeks, the commission firms report a good demand in the country for better grades, and a steady to strong market and a 10@15c higher run of this class of cattle is looked for. Medium cattle continue scarce and in good demand. Receipts for May 1 were light during the session. Trimming cattle are scarce and wanted.

Hog receipts moderate and slightly lower in sympathy with the decline in the west. Demand for butcher pigs falling off rapidly on account of the high prices ruling.—Walker.

ALUM BAKING POWDERS DECLARED HARMLESS

Washington, May 1.—Alum baking powders are no more injurious to the health of a person than any other baking powders, that is the broad result, in the use of foods that are leavened with such baking powder, etc.

Such is the conclusion announced today of the referee board of consulting scientific experts of the department of agriculture as the result of experiments to determine the influence of aluminum compounds on the nutrition and health of man. The report gives the results of three sets of extensive experiments on human subjects conducted independently by members of the board and was in response to questions put to it by the department of agriculture. The findings of the board was unanimous and was signed by Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins University, chairman; Russell H. Crittenden, professor of physiological chemistry in Yale university and director of the Sheffield Scientific School; Graham H. Long, professor of chemistry in Northwestern University; Lafayette B. Taylor, professor of physiological chemistry in the University of Pennsylvania, and Theobald Smith, professor of comparative pathology in Harvard.

MANN SELECTS GIFT FOR ELEANOR WILSON

Washington, May 1.—A silver tea service supplemented by a pair of silver candlesticks is the present to representatives wedding present for Miss Eleanor Wilson, the president's daughter. Her marriage to Secretary McAdoo will take place at the White house on May 7.

The gift was chosen by a committee of the house headed by Representative Mann, of Illinois, the minority leader, after consulting with a local firm. It will be suitably engraved and sent to the white house, probably this week. The present, simple but elegant in design, consists of a massive tray, hot water kettle, teapot, cream and sugar. The tray bears the Mann and Jessie Woodrow Wilson upon the occasion of her marriage to Francis Bowes Sayre in diamond lavalliere set in platinum.

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED BY THREE MEDIATORS

out." Secretary Bryan said the point in the negotiations where it was necessary to consult with the for the American government's position had not been reached.

The entire administration is scrupulously avoiding any move that might be construed as designed to influence the mediators. The president has canceled his semi-weekly meeting with the press for the time being on this account.

Have Dual Capacity.

The envoys of Brazil, Argentina and Chile have a dual capacity in their present intermediation. They make up virtually an international court, and as such are entirely independent of the United States being a party to the proceedings. Each of them, however, is accredited to the United States, and they are members of their missions in Washington. For this reason there is a desire to avoid any appearance of having their individual capacity as envoys to the United States influence their attitude as an independent and impartial tribunal, detached from pressure from any of the parties concerned.

Secretaries Bryan and Daniels made efforts today to neutralize the oil wells at Tampico. It developed that the local authorities at the town would take no action until advised by their superiors. So the British embassy communicated with the Huerta government, while the United States consulate, armed with General Carranza. The reopening of the American consulate at Tampico is expected to assist in keeping the wells from being destroyed. General Zaragoza, the federal commander there, has promised American Consul Miller protection.

Secretary Daniels today said he had been informed that most of the wells had been capped with cement and that ordinary gun fire would not injure them. Most of the wells, too, are out of range of fighting in the city.

Situation at Tampico.

Interference with foreign commerce at Tampico produced much discussion at the state and navy departments, but no formal announcement of policy according to precedent, it was said, neither the constitutionalists nor federals have been right to interfere with commercial vessels, though they could seize cargoes after they land.

At the war department Secretary Garrison announced his intention of removing all civil officials at Vera Cruz, replacing them with army officers. Mr. Garrison said no reflection was intended in the action already taken, but that it was customary under military occupation for all officers to be directly responsible to the war department. He said Admiral Fletcher had chosen civilians because the navy did not have the machinery for a municipal government, the army having legal officers and others qualified to handle a government. According to war department officials, it is necessary to make the courts at Vera Cruz military tribunals, or damage suits against the civil government there might result in claims against the American government, martial law removing that possibility.

MORTUARY

Willis G. Carson.

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The funeral of Willis G. Carson, whose death occurred at an out-of-town sanitarium, took place this afternoon from the residence of his uncle, Robert A. Carson. He was the son of the late A. A. Carson.

Mrs. Alice T. Smith.

Mrs. Alice T. Smith, 49 years old, died at the residence, 93 Pulliam street, yesterday. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Sallie J. Bearse; two sisters, two sons, Robert H. and James W.; one daughter, Mrs. J. M. Poole, of Eatonton. The funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from the residence, Rev. G. A. Gaffney officiating, and the body will be taken to Rock Springs for interment.

Lawrence Trippe.

The funeral services of Lawrence Trippe, 56 years old, will be conducted on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Patterson's chapel, and interment will be at Oakland.

"BIG BILL" TETLEY WILL PREACH SUNDAY

"Big Bill" Tetley, of Missouri, who preached at the Baptist Tabernacle several Sundays ago, will fill the pulpit there again tomorrow, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Lincoln McConnell. He is an associate of Dr. McConnell in his evangelistic work.

"Big Bill" will preach at the morning and evening service, the evening service beginning at 8 o'clock. An excellent musical program has been arranged.

HEADED BY MAYOR GUYTON, CITIZENS SCOUR THE TOWN

Guyton, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—Headed by Mayor Futrell and several councilmen, assisted by ministers, doctors, lawyers, merchants and other business men, reinforced by able-bodied citizens and sparrows, by late public, a large number of Guyton citizens turned out en masse in a volunteer service and worked the streets, trimmed trees and blossoms of the peaceful little village in a "clean-up" campaign.

About forty men made up the clean-up delegation. They met at the depot at 7 o'clock, were divided into squads and assigned certain sections for work. Several teams were furnished and a large amount of street cleaning was accomplished with the volunteer gang. Trees were trimmed and rubbish removed from the alleys and backs of stores.

The ladies of the Mothers' club served a substantial dinner at noon under the spreading oaks back of the Baptist church.

JIM CANTRELL MAY LOSE EYESIGHT COMPLETELY

Gainesville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Jim Cantrell, convicted accomplice before the fact in the Hawkins murder, and recently granted a respite until May 29 by Governor John M. Slaton, now thought will lose his eyesight as a result of the measles he has settled in his eyes. Cantrell suffered a severe attack of pneumonia recently, which was accompanied by typhoid, and later measles developed.

Cantrell's physician is doing all possible for the young man, but little hope is held out that he will be able to save his eyesight.

Cantrell, with his younger brother, principal in the murder case, will be hanged here on May 29, unless Governor Slaton can be prevailed upon to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

CONVICTED OF BIGAMY, HE GETS NEW TRIAL

Calhoun, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Horace Hazelwood, who was convicted of bigamy and sentenced for five years at the last term of Gordon county superior court, has been granted a new trial by Judge A. W. Pite. Hazelwood, who has been in jail here for several months pending the hearing for a new trial, has been released on a $600 bond. New evidence tending to show that he had been separated from his first wife for over five years furnished a basis for the new trial plea.

Hazelwood married Miss Mattie Keyes, at Nawnan, Ga., in 1906, but claims to have been separated from her because she was a confirmed opium eater. Last year he married Miss Annie Bell Thomas, of this county, and was soon thereafter arrested on the bigamy charge. The accused man's father, who lives at Canton, went on his bond.

NATHAN CAMPE DIES IN LOCAL SANITARIUM

Nathan Campe, prominent in Norfolk, where he lived since 1856, died last night at a sanitarium in Atlanta. He had been visiting his cousin, Mrs. Morris Macks, when he was taken ill.

Mr. Campe was a Mason, a member of the B'nai B'rith and served in the war as a confederate soldier. He was prominently connected in Norfolk and New York in a business way.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Morris Macks, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Fannie Bearman, of Baltimore, who were with him when he died, and five sons, Sam, Siddie and Leon, of D. Ipke, of New York, and H. N., of Norfolk.

His body will be taken to Norfolk for interment either late tonight or on Sunday.

SENIORS AND FACULTY GUESTS AT BANQUET

The senior class and the faculty of the Atlanta Theological seminary were delightfully entertained at dinner last evening at the Ansley Hotel by Professor and Mrs. Lawrence Phelps.

TRADE COMMISSION BILL MADE PUBLIC

Measure Prvides for Body of Five, Not More Than Three of One Political Party, at $10,000 a Year.

Washington, May 1.—The administration interstate trade commission bill, as framed by a subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce committee for report to the full committee, was made public today. Railroad representatives will be heard on the bill by the committee May 11 and 12, and other interested will be given opportunity to be heard.

The bill would provide for a commission of five, not more than three of one political party, at $10,000 a year. Each commissioner would be allowed $5,000 for a secretary. The commission would be authorized to "investigate the organization, business, financial condition, management and its relations to other corporations, of any corporation engaged in such commerce as congress has the power to regulate under the constitution."

The bill also would empower the commission to require annual or special reports from any corporation subject to make public its information, and to recommend legislation to congress. The bill specifically would provide that nothing in the act should interfere with the attorney general's enforcement of the anti-trust or interstate commerce laws, and the commission would be required to submit to the attorney general any evidence and findings of violations of the law. It would be unlawful under the anti-trust laws, at the request of any party to the suit, the commission would be empowered to sit as master in chancery and recommend to the court a form of decree. The commission would be empowered, on its own initiative or on the application of the attorney general, to investigate the carrying out of any anti-trust decree entered by the courts.

The bill also would empower the commission to call upon the district courts to enforce its orders against corporations.

The measure would prohibit interlocking directorates in competitive corporations and prohibit holding companies, prescribing detailed procedure for the enforcement of these sections. It prescribes that all corporations' stock must be fully paid for. In these sections the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over common carriers is respected.

The bill makes guilt personal by making directors, officers and agents responsible for violations of the law by corporations and providing a fine of $5,000 or one year's imprisonment as a penalty against such officers.

NORDICA IS IMPROVING; STILL SERIOUSLY ILL

Cable From Java Reports That She Has Gained Little Ground.

New York, May 1.—George T. Young has received two cables from Batavia, Java, today, regarding the condition of the wife, Madame Nordica, as follows:

"Condition serious. Gained little ground since yesterday." "No change this morning."

The salary system means lower taxation. Wesley favors the salary system.

AT THE THEATERS

"Ann Boyd."

(At the Lyric.)

Marguerite Clarke's performance in "Ann Boyd" at the Lyric this week is a source of real amusement to her many friends. Admittedly one of the most beautiful women on the stage, in this her attractiveness has been superseded only by her ability which she displayed long beyond peradventure, first in an emotional and then in a light comedy role. She has a particular credit due when one so beautiful takes the red and brown and blue sticks of grease paint and smears over a perfect complexion and with these seams and hollows transforms a youthful, entrancing countenance to the ugliness and age which are shown in Jane Hemiway this week.

Junior Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

The best bill of Junior Keith Vaudeville that far presented holds the boards at the Grand and will be seen for the last times today. There are Shepard and Ashton, who begin that song and play the piano in a novel manner; Wormwood's Monkey Hippodrome, one of the best animal acts that has been seen here in a long time; Trained Dogs, one of the best animal acts of their kind;
