

Wising Cae and in But Oozing the Old "Pep" T. Roosevelt Has Returned

The Colonel Has Paid Sad Physical Penalty for Invading the Jungle, But His Manner Is the Same.

HE BARS ALL POLITICS BUT JABS AT CRITICS

"By George, It is Good to See You All," Cried the Colonel When He Reached Oyster Bay—Celebration Is Postponed.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 19.—Theodore Roosevelt set foot on his native soil at 4:45 o'clock tonight for the first time in seven months. His home-coming was a quiet affair, in sharp contrast with the noisy welcome he received when all New York turned out to greet him on his return from Africa four years ago.

A group of thirty persons, old friends and relatives, stood quietly on the sandy beach at the cove on Oyster Bay, just down the hill from Colonel Roosevelt's home, the Breakers, on an island, leaning heavily on a cane and assisted by two men, to help him descend the steep, rocky steps to the beach. It was a shock to his old friends, to whom his unusual physical condition had been always a source of wonder, to note that he was as spry and vigorous as ever.

But though Colonel Roosevelt had paid this penalty for his adventures in the jungle he gave no sign of change in manner. His voice had the same ring, his gestures were as vigorous and his teeth came together with the same sharp click, he stood there on the beach to greet his old friends. It was a picturesque scene, the little group, some in evening dress, some in day clothes, standing on the beach, while the great man, with his cane, descended the steps.

When he reached the bottom of the steps, he turned and looked back at the group. "By George, it is good to see you all," he cried, and then he turned and walked on to his home.

In 'Jungle' of the Viaduct Mr. White and Trusty Braves Tree Real Live "Billy" Possum

Secretary of the White Provision Company, and the dogs with which he was hunting for the Whitehead street viaduct.

T. Roosevelt, hearing the Brazilian J. J. White, returning laden with trophies, hasn't a thing on W. H. White, Jr., president of the White Provision company, of Atlanta. E. R. Papy, secretary, their crew of trusty and staunch lieutenants and their pack of man-eating for terriers.

The half-ton, accompanying the story is the documentary evidence of a tale so weird as to shock Munchausen and put a crimp in the late lamented Anansi. If the tale were not substantiated.

DIG THE ISSUE POWER COMPANY'S APPROVAL

Power Company Authorized to Substitute Issue of $30,000,000 for Issue Authorized Two Years Ago.

The state railroad commission on Tuesday handed down a ruling empowering the Georgia Railway and Power company to create a bond issue of $30,000,000 in lieu of the authorization given the company, January 4, 1912, to issue a similar amount of bonds.

Of this amount $12,500,000 worth of bonds are authorized to be issued now, while the remaining $17,500,000 is ordered to be held by trustee until the commission shall make a future application and approval by the commission.

TIRED OF BEING "GOAT" MELLEN TELLS OF WASTING OF NEW HAVEN'S MILLIONS

Late Pierpont Morgan, William Rockefeller and Tammany Hall Leaders Involved by Mellen's Remarkable Story of the Wrecking of the Great System.

MELLEN FRANKLY SAYS THAT HE CALLED MORGAN'S OFFICE BOY

Witness Tells How $35,000,000 of New Haven Money Was Wasted in the Westchester Deal at Morgan's Command—Tammany Leader Murphy Came in for "Hold-up"—Mellen Tells of Seeing Roosevelt About Buying Boston and Maine.

Washington, May 19.—A story of the late J. P. Morgan's absolute command in affairs of the New Haven railroad, of the spending of millions in a mad and ignorant attempt to command the all-powerful financial ruler, was told to the interstate commerce commission today by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven. It was the most extraordinary chapter yet unfolded in the commission's inquiry into the alleged exploitation of the great New England railroad.

W. J. BURNS LOSES PERMIT OF BOARD TO OPERATE HERE

With But One Dissenting Vote, Board of Police Commissioners Withdraws Its Permit Granting Him the Right to Run Local Office.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED TO REPORT TO COUNCIL

It Is Probable That the Famous Detective Will Make a Determined Effort in the Courts to Retain License.

With but a single dissenting vote, the board of police commissioners last night revoked the permit to W. J. Burns detective agency to operate in Atlanta.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

A resolution was presented and adopted at the regular meeting Monday that the Burns agency be deprived of authority to operate, and that the license issued to the concern be rescinded.

ROBERTS, PROMOTED TO SERGEANT'S RANK

J. W. Barfield and Eight Others Nominated by Chief Beavers Fail of Election.

A flurry of surprise was created in the meeting of the board of police commissioners last night when Chief J. W. Barfield nominated for election to sergeant's rank the policeman who was recently dropped by the commission from the rank of sergeant to patrolman.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Another Mexican Problem Up to A. B. C. Mediators

REBBS RECALLED BEFORE SAVING WITH THE FEDERALS

Stage Is Set at Niagara Falls, Ontario, for the Opening of the Conference to Consider Peaceful Settlement.

Niagara Falls, Ontario, May 19.—On the eve of the opening here tomorrow of a mediation conference for the settlement of difficulties between the United States and the Mexican government, virtually everything in the hour set for the formal opening of the first session.

With the arrival last tonight from Washington of the two American delegates, Justice Joseph R. Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the personal of the conference awaited for its completion the third mediator, Eduardo Suarez, the Chilean minister.

It was assumed that Suarez's journey and would not reach here until tomorrow.

Drafting the Rules. Ambassador De Gama, of Brazil, and Minister Vazquez, of Argentina, have been here since yesterday, today devoted themselves to the formulation of tentative rules of procedure. The latest announcements were held in abeyance pending their approval by the Chilean mediator, it was understood.

Among other things the rules called for the submission of proposals to all formal negotiations as precedent for the negotiation of any treaty or written agreements as to what had taken place, signed by all parties to the negotiations and drawn up as occasion demanded.

While the mediators continued to wait, the Mexican government representatives were busy with the preparation of their first suggestion. It was more than ever believed that the intervention of President Wilson on the subject was well known, the mediators would be less hopeful of success if the Mexican representatives were unwilling to grant this important concession.

E. S. PAPPY.

Secretary of the White Provision Company, and the dogs with which he was hunting for the Whitehead street viaduct.

T. Roosevelt, hearing the Brazilian J. J. White, returning laden with trophies, hasn't a thing on W. H. White, Jr., president of the White Provision company, of Atlanta.

E. R. Papy, secretary, their crew of trusty and staunch lieutenants and their pack of man-eating for terriers.

The half-ton, accompanying the story is the documentary evidence of a tale so weird as to shock Munchausen and put a crimp in the late lamented Anansi.

If the tale were not substantiated.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Barfield was considered an invaluable aid to Beavers in the famous recent campaign during the early stages, of which he was sergeant of the plainclothes "vice squad." When his name was before the board last night, however, he did not receive a single vote.

Witness Tells How $35,000,000 of New Haven Money Was Wasted in the Westchester Deal at Morgan's Command—Tammany Leader Murphy Came in for "Hold-up"—Mellen Tells of Seeing Roosevelt About Buying Boston and Maine.

Washington, May 19.—A story of the late J. P. Morgan's absolute command in affairs of the New Haven railroad, of the spending of millions in a mad and ignorant attempt to command the all-powerful financial ruler, was told to the interstate commerce commission today by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven.

It was the most extraordinary chapter yet unfolded in the commission's inquiry into the alleged exploitation of the great New England railroad.

Mellen told of the disappearance of fortunes from the treasury through acquiescence at extravagant prices of subsidiary properties.

There was not time in a single day in which to crowd details of all the incidents and events, and much of the witness' testimony. He barely touched on some of the big things, paying the way for exhaustive questioning that will continue tomorrow.

MELLEN'S STORY AMAZED.

Members of the commission, counsel and interested spectators fairly hung on every word of Mr. Mellen today as his story developed dramatically under the examination by Chief Counsel.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Witness Tells How $35,000,000 of New Haven Money Was Wasted in the Westchester Deal at Morgan's Command—Tammany Leader Murphy Came in for "Hold-up"—Mellen Tells of Seeing Roosevelt About Buying Boston and Maine.

Washington, May 19.—A story of the late J. P. Morgan's absolute command in affairs of the New Haven railroad, of the spending of millions in a mad and ignorant attempt to command the all-powerful financial ruler, was told to the interstate commerce commission today by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven.

It was the most extraordinary chapter yet unfolded in the commission's inquiry into the alleged exploitation of the great New England railroad.

Mellen told of the disappearance of fortunes from the treasury through acquiescence at extravagant prices of subsidiary properties.

There was not time in a single day in which to crowd details of all the incidents and events, and much of the witness' testimony. He barely touched on some of the big things, paying the way for exhaustive questioning that will continue tomorrow.

MELLEN'S STORY AMAZED.

Members of the commission, counsel and interested spectators fairly hung on every word of Mr. Mellen today as his story developed dramatically under the examination by Chief Counsel.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

Mr. Mellen told of the loss of $35,000,000 of New Haven money in the Westchester deal at Morgan's command.

T. R. BARS POLITICS AND KNOCKS CRITICS

New York, May 19.—Theodore Roosevelt today returned home to find a veritable army of many months to South America. Accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Roosevelt, he arrived in New York at 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

Quarantine shortly before 4 o'clock on Monday morning, the Colonel Roosevelt reaffirmed the verity of the "policy of good will" which he had expressed himself as to presidential candidates.

Madam, what can you make? Anything, no matter what, can be sold by holding or phoning to The Constitution an inexpensive little Want Ad.

Home Workers Should Turn Talent Into Profit

Here is an opportunity for women who make at home various articles of furniture, woodwork, home-made dolls, etc., to sell them at a profit.

Madam, what can you make? Anything, no matter what, can be sold by holding or phoning to The Constitution an inexpensive little Want Ad.

Madam, what can you make? Anything, no matter what, can be sold by holding or phoning to The Constitution an inexpensive little Want Ad.

Constitution to Announce Nominee List in $25,270 Contest Thursday Morning

Tomorrow morning will appear the first list of prospective candidates who have been submitted previous to May 17 in The Constitution's $25,270 five-gift contest.

The contest occasioned by the grand opera, and followed by the Shriners' convention, has held its contest in an

Weather Prophecy GENERALLY FAIR

Georgia—Generally fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Lowest temperature: . . . . . 57
Highest temperature: . . . . . 68
Rainfall in past 24 hours: . . . . . 1.00
Deficiency since January 1, 1914: . . . . . 2.52

STATION	TEMP.	WIND	SEA	WAVE	WIND	SEA	WAVE
ATLANTA	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
BIRMINGHAM	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
CHICAGO	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
CINCINNATI	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
CLEVELAND	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
DALLAS	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
DENVER	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
DETROIT	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
HOUSTON	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
KANSAS CITY	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
LOUISVILLE	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
MEMPHIS	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
MOBILE	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
NEWARK	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
NEW YORK	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
PHOENIX	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
PITTSBURGH	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
PORTLAND	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
RICHMOND	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
SAN FRANCISCO	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
ST. LOUIS	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
ST. PAUL	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
SPRINGFIELD	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
WASH. D. C.	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
WICHITA	57	10	76	50	10	76	50
WINDS	57	10	76	50	10	76	50 and to report its findings to council. It is composed of Commissioners King, Venable and Collier. They were in-

Light Pure Food Groceries

Have them charged on your Dry Goods account. Fast deliveries. Phones: M. 1061, and Atlanta 464, 463.

For Wednesday

May 20

PERRIS BACON, sliced or in strips—sold 35c week over. Wednesday, one day only.

25c

HAMS, ARMOUR'S "STAR,"

17c

BUTTER, CLOVER BLOOM,

30c

COFFEE, HIGH'S SPECIAL,

19c

FLOUR, THE FAMOUS "WHITE CREST," of which we are sole agents in Atlanta, 24-lb. sack.

85c

15 cans Rapid PORK and BEANS.

45c

8 cans sliced HAWAIIAN PINE-APPLE.

$1.00

6 cans RED ROCK No. 3 selected CALIFORNIA WHITE CHERRIES, $1.00

3 cans FRESH HERRING 27c

3 cans FRANCO-AMERICAN POTTED BEEF—delicious for PICNICS.

SPECIAL WEDNESDAY.

96 lbs. 5-cup BROOMS.

48c

LIGHTHOUSE CLEANER.

25c

FREE DEMONSTRATIONS BLOCKS OF CELEBRATED ATLANTA-MADE Cakes and CRACKERS—TASTE FREE, AND NOTICE HOW FINELY BAKED.

FREE DEMONSTRATIONS EVERY MINUTE—"TET-LEVEY" TEAS, WE ARE SELLING MORE AND MORE OF THIS FAMOUS TEA EVERY DAY. MRS. HEGGIE STILL IN CHARGE WITH HER EXPERT ASSISTANTS.

PATRONIZE OUR DELI, CATERING FOR ALL YOUR COOKED MEATS, FANCY SAUSAGES, CHEESES, ETC.

Everybody Sing

The Prettiest Walt Song—Just Out "Dear Old Atlanta Town"

For sale at the Krone Store on West 10th St. at the corner, 11th Street Building, and every where else.

PORCH SWINGS

Are a household necessity in the summer time. We furnish chain and hang for you ready for use.

PRICE $3---$5---$8.50---$10

KING HAMMOCKS

are a combination of Comfort and Beauty

HAMMOCKS

The weaves and patterns of our 1914 stock are the prettiest we have ever carried. Priced $1.25 to $8.00.

COUCH-HAMMOCK

Six feet long, arranged to swing to ceiling or frame—$8.00 and $10.00.

COUCH-HAMMOCK AND FRAME.

Can be moved anywhere. Let the baby sleep in the open air. $4, $4.50 and $6.

KING HARDWARE CO.

Agents for Fairbanks Scales FIVE STORES IN ATLANTA

53 Peachtree 144 Marietta 87 Whitehall 122 Decatur 252 Peters

strated to ascertain the operative alleged to be working with the Bureau of Investigation. The matter was referred to the committee.

The committee will meet next Friday, and will report to council at council regular meeting next Monday, at which time the board recommendation will also be submitted. Mr. Collier, who is in charge of the committee, said the committee will also be able to make a report on the matter.

The matter went through the committee hurriedly. The matter was presented and a motion made for its adoption. It was put to question, which caused momentary delay. No question arose. The vote was cast after which Mr. Jones said that every man attached to the committee had been approved by the board.

It was also decided to make a motion to explain the board's action in revoking the license or permits of detective organizations. He declared that only council had the power to revoke licenses, although the board could withdraw its permission to obtain license.

It was reported after the meeting that a strong fight will be made by the Bureau officials in the courts. The article has connections with many prominent banking and mercantile organizations, and is attached to the American Bankers' association.

MEXICAN PROBLEM UP TO MEDIATORS

Continued From Page One.

proceedings and the importance attached to them by other South and Central American countries, was evidenced by the arrival here today of Dr. Gordon Cordova, minister from Ecuador to the United States. He declared he had come to the United States to see the president.

It is understood that Dr. Cordova is coming and that other Latin American diplomats or their representatives will also be on the scene. Dr. Cordova's announcement of the mediation was accepted here as an indication of similar interest with the interest of his government in the mediation of the other Pan-American countries.

In these close relations with the United States more than the mediation means much more than the mediation of the problem between the United States and Mexico. It was said the general Pan-American desire to see the mediation a success was as great as that of the three big South American Correct designing of men's clothes has been brought almost to a science. Expert designers, such as we employ, do much more than make clothes that fit the body; they fit a man's occupation and attitude, and age.

It is really an art, and we employ men who are artists in it.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Good Clothes Makers

countries whose good offices have been accepted. The arrival of the Ecuadorian minister, therefore, is the latest of much comment as to the effect of the mediation upon the relations between the United States and the other Pan-American nations.

Tomorrow will be devoted mainly to the formalities incident to the starting of an international mediation of this character. Welcome to Canadian roll and that of the United States, and the other Pan-American nations.

LEADING ON A CANE, ROOSEVELT RETURNS

Continued From Page One.

on board a tug which proceeded to Oyster Bay. Friends who had been alarmed by reports of Colonel Roosevelt's recent illness, were greatly surprised when they saw him in the city, and he used a cane, but his face showed no signs of weakness. He had not lost an ounce of his vigor and was as energetic as ever.

As the tug which carried several of his friends, including Mr. Roosevelt, was approaching the Algonquin, the familiar figure of the president was seen far over the water. As he waved his hand to the friends who were gathered on the tug, the crowd on the shore smiled.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

RIGHTS FOR WOMEN

General Conference Stood 171 to 105 Against Granting Laity Rights—No New Bishops to Be Chosen.

On board a tug which proceeded to Oyster Bay. Friends who had been alarmed by reports of Colonel Roosevelt's recent illness, were greatly surprised when they saw him in the city, and he used a cane, but his face showed no signs of weakness. He had not lost an ounce of his vigor and was as energetic as ever.

As the tug which carried several of his friends, including Mr. Roosevelt, was approaching the Algonquin, the familiar figure of the president was seen far over the water. As he waved his hand to the friends who were gathered on the tug, the crowd on the shore smiled.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

CROWDS THROG MACON FOR GEORGIA JUBILEE

Arrival of Prince, Auto Floral Parade and Ball Feature First Day.

On board a tug which proceeded to Oyster Bay. Friends who had been alarmed by reports of Colonel Roosevelt's recent illness, were greatly surprised when they saw him in the city, and he used a cane, but his face showed no signs of weakness. He had not lost an ounce of his vigor and was as energetic as ever.

As the tug which carried several of his friends, including Mr. Roosevelt, was approaching the Algonquin, the familiar figure of the president was seen far over the water. As he waved his hand to the friends who were gathered on the tug, the crowd on the shore smiled.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

the prison in preparing them. Special men were made of the new material by the Jubilee association. The social feature of the Jubilee tonight was the German-American ball at the Volunteers' armory.

Tomorrow will be marked by the parade of the South. The parade will be a city-wide woman suffrage parade in the morning. The parade will be a city-wide woman suffrage parade in the morning.

On board a tug which proceeded to Oyster Bay. Friends who had been alarmed by reports of Colonel Roosevelt's recent illness, were greatly surprised when they saw him in the city, and he used a cane, but his face showed no signs of weakness. He had not lost an ounce of his vigor and was as energetic as ever.

As the tug which carried several of his friends, including Mr. Roosevelt, was approaching the Algonquin, the familiar figure of the president was seen far over the water. As he waved his hand to the friends who were gathered on the tug, the crowd on the shore smiled.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway. The colonel, who had been in the city for several days, was met by the collector of the port, Dudley Field Malone, and a host of newspaper men scrambled up the companionway.

33. The Orator's, Conversationalist's and Letter-Writer's Treasury

The new Britannica also supplies accurate information and contains the best of all subjects, business, science, literature, history, and the arts. It is a treasure house of knowledge, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

34. A Library of Sports, Games and Pastimes

The new Britannica also covers with authority all kinds of indoor and outdoor games and sports, including all the latest developments in the various games and sports. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

35. An Instructive Book for Real Estate Men

The new Britannica has 1,194 separate articles on cities in the United States, containing valuable information as to their conditions, their resources, and their development. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

36. A Hand-Book of Food Products

The new Britannica deals with the origin, production, and use of food products. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

37. A Register of Recent Events and Progress

The new Britannica is also a detailed register and summary of contemporary events, explaining and illustrating the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

38. An Up-to-Date Hand-Book of the Sciences

You want the new Britannica because it also contains a full and complete summary of the progress of the sciences. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

39. A Fact-Book for Printers, Binders and Paper Makers

The new Britannica is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

40. A Hand-Book for Fiction Lovers

The new Britannica also contains a full and complete summary of the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

67 Kinds of Books—All in This One Big Book

(Nos. 1 to 32 published Monday. Today, Nos. 33 to 67)

We could if we had the space tell you about the new Encyclopaedia Britannica—this wonderful storehouse of up-to-date knowledge—from many more than 67 points of view.

We are trying to convince you, not that this work contains the sum of human knowledge—that is probably of little or no interest to you—but that it will be useful and instructive to you, if you should buy it, no matter what your special interest; or fad or hobby or need may be.

When you go to sea you know that wireless telegraphy will insure you against danger when it comes. If you buy the new Britannica, even if you don't read it, you still know that when you do want to use it—in an emergency, or at any other time of need—you can depend upon it to help you.

It insures you against ignorance, just as the wireless telegraph insures a traveler against the perils of the sea. With the Britannica as your schoolmaster, you need never say again—"I don't know."

It will not take you long to read the few paragraphs that follow. Just run your pencil through any of them that don't apply to you—then look back and see if the paragraphs that stand good will convince you that you must have the Britannica—NOW—before it is too late to get it at the present low prices.

If not, don't buy it.

The NEW ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

41. A Fact-Book for Engineers

The new Britannica is also an invaluable library for members of all the engineering professions, containing comprehensive articles by 75 experts on all branches of mechanical, electrical, hydraulic, structural, railroad and marine engineering, and every other branch of engineering, as well as every subject connected with engineering, including the latest developments in the various branches of the profession.

42. A Hand-Book of Jewelry and Precious Stones

The new Britannica also tells you about gems, precious stones, minerals, metals, and the various branches of the jewelry trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

43. A Library of Political and Social Science

The new Britannica also keeps you abreast of the most advanced thought in the evolution of politics and society, a subject of the greatest importance to every citizen. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

44. A Hand-Book of Parlor Entertainments

It is just as good fun to devote some evenings to amusements and social life, and to develop quickness of mind and a memory of what has been said, as it is to play the game of cards or to play the game of billiards. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

45. A Fact-Book for Contractors, Builders and Architects

The new Britannica contains articles by practical experts on building, construction, and the various branches of the building trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

46. A Working Library for College Students

There is no college library in which there is not at least one copy of the new Britannica, but the college student who has a set in his or her own room gets a tremendous advantage for then it can be consulted during the quiet hours of study, without the interruption of the library attendant, and the temptation to waste a little more time in the library is avoided.

47. A Useful Book to All Parents

The parent page in the Britannica covers, among other subjects, the education of children, and the various branches of the education of children, and the various branches of the education of children.

48. A Library of Mines and Mining

The new Britannica supplies full information of mine production and mining of all kinds throughout the world, and the various branches of the mining trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

49. A Library for Hunters and Fishermen

The new Britannica contains illustrations of all the game animals and birds of the world, and the various branches of the hunting and fishing trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

50. A Manual of Banking and Finance

The new Britannica is rich in serviceable information for bankers, brokers, and financiers, and all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

51. A Hand-Book of Manners and Customs

The new Britannica explains in the most plain and reliable way the customs and manners of all the world's great peoples in all the world's great cities. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

52. A Library for Decorators and Designers

The new Britannica is full of valuable information and suggestions for decorators and designers, and all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

53. An Inexhaustible Fact-Book for Country Dwellers

The new Britannica contains practical information for country dwellers, and all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

54. A Temperance Library

The new Britannica supplies the facts that underlie all discussions between Temperance advocates and their opponents, containing articles on all forms of alcoholic beverages, and the various branches of the temperance trade.

55. An Insurance Library

The new Britannica contains useful information for insurance companies, and all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

56. A Critical Guide to Poetry

The new Britannica gives assistance to the lover of poetry, furnishing him with a critical guide to the world's great poets, and the various branches of the poetry trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

57. A Key to the Classics

The new Britannica affords the best of guidance to the Latin and Greek student, describing and criticizing the works of the great classical authors, and the various branches of the classical trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

58. A Library of Fine Arts and Architecture

You want the new Britannica because it contains a full and complete summary of the progress of the fine arts and architecture. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

59. A Library for Sunday-School Teachers and Pupils

The new Britannica contains articles on all the books of the Bible, and the various branches of the Bible trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

60. A Library of Exploration and Adventure

The new Britannica is an ideal book of facts for red-blooded boys and for all readers who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

61. A Trustworthy Fact-Book of Mental Phenomena

The new Britannica is of invaluable assistance to the student of mental phenomena, and all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

62. A Hand-Book of Novel Ideas for Earning Money

The new Britannica contains information about many side-line occupations, and the various branches of the earning money trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

63. A Hand-Book of Law

You want the new Britannica because it contains a full and complete summary of the progress of the law. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

64. A Critical Guide to the World's Humorous Literature

The new Britannica contains critical accounts of all the most famous works of humorous literature, and the various branches of the humorous trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

65. An Ideal Library for School Teachers

The new Britannica gives the teacher a full and complete summary of the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

66. A Library for Catholics

The new Britannica contains articles on all the subjects of interest to Catholics, and the various branches of the Catholic trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

67. A Library of Military and Naval History and Science

The new Britannica contains information about military and naval history and science, and the various branches of the military and naval trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

68. A Library of Recent Events and Progress

The new Britannica is also a detailed register and summary of contemporary events, explaining and illustrating the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

69. A Library of the Sciences

You want the new Britannica because it also contains a full and complete summary of the progress of the sciences. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

70. A Library of the Arts and Crafts

The new Britannica contains articles on all the arts and crafts, and the various branches of the arts and crafts trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

71. A Library of the History of the World

The new Britannica contains a full and complete summary of the history of the world, and the various branches of the history trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

72. A Library of the Literature of the World

The new Britannica contains a full and complete summary of the literature of the world, and the various branches of the literature trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

$5. Down

29 vols.—41,000 articles, 44,000,000 words of text. Printed on India paper; each volume only 1 inch thick.

65. An Ideal Library for School Teachers

The new Britannica gives the teacher a full and complete summary of the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

66. A Library for Catholics

The new Britannica contains articles on all the subjects of interest to Catholics, and the various branches of the Catholic trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

67. A Library of Military and Naval History and Science

The new Britannica contains information about military and naval history and science, and the various branches of the military and naval trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

68. A Library of Recent Events and Progress

The new Britannica is also a detailed register and summary of contemporary events, explaining and illustrating the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

69. A Library of the Sciences

You want the new Britannica because it also contains a full and complete summary of the progress of the sciences. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

70. A Library of the Arts and Crafts

The new Britannica contains articles on all the arts and crafts, and the various branches of the arts and crafts trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

71. A Library of the History of the World

The new Britannica contains a full and complete summary of the history of the world, and the various branches of the history trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

72. A Library of the Literature of the World

The new Britannica contains a full and complete summary of the literature of the world, and the various branches of the literature trade. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world. It is a book that should be in every home, and a source of information for all who are interested in the progress of the world.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica
Head Office, 120 W. 32nd St, New York

THE CONSTITUTION

Published Daily, Sunday, Tri-Weekly

CLARK HOWELL,
Editor and General Manager.
Director: Clark Howell, Robt. Robinson,
Albert Howell, Jr., J. B. Black, W. G. Brady.
Telephone: Main 300.

Entered at the postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.
Postage paid at Atlanta, Ga., May 20, 1914.

Subscription Rates:
United States and Mexico, 10 cents per week.
Foreign, 15 cents per week.
Single copies, 5 cents.

ATLANTA, GA., May 20, 1914.

By Mail: The Constitution of the United States, (Payable in advance.)
DAILY AND SUNDAY, 10 CENTS PER COPY.
SUNDAY, 15 CENTS PER COPY.
Tri-Weekly, 10 CENTS PER COPY.

By Carrier:
In Atlanta, 60 cents per month or 15 cents per week.
Outside of Atlanta, 60 cents per month or 15 cents per week.

For the Constitution of the United States, apply to the Editor, The Constitution, 117 1/2 N. 10th St., Atlanta, Ga.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York City 22 1/2 N. 10th St. The Constitution can be had. Thirty-eight cents (Times building corner, Thirty-eighth street and Broadway).

The Constitution is not responsible for advertisements in its columns. Local circulation dealers or agents.

GIVE BUSINESS A CHANCE.

The American Federation of Labor is attacking the trust program of democratic leaders in congress formulated with the approval of the president.

An unfortunate complication is threatened, which bears out the reiterated contentions of The Constitution, that now is not the time for further capital legislative action; that with the needed and approved tariff and currency revisions out of the way, congress ought to go home, give business time to readjust itself and then stand in the fall elections upon the achievements already recorded.

For a time there were encouraging intimations that the framers of the party's policy themselves subscribed to this sober view. That delusion is on the verge of vanishing. The anti-trust, the anti-impediment, the anti-everything else folly shows signs of revival and of giving prosperity and the country a merry dance because the turbulence is readjusted.

It was to have been expected that as soon as congress embarked upon further troubles it should have kicked up obstacles. The cloud raised by organized labor's disaffection is merely a symptom.

As the program advances further, other and equally vigorous protests must be anticipated. Business is in revolt against extreme action in the matter of interlocking directorate legislation that threatens industry in every state. Most of all, it is in a state of suspended animation, for the simple reason that, after nearly six years of "regulating," it does not yet know for what to prepare or against what peril to guard.

The country's legislative status and the party program are not yet complete. There confoundedly is work to be done. Everyone knows this. But there is a time for everything! And today is not the time to protest the racking of business. Had congress adjourned after completing currency and tariff revisions, it would have avoided drawing the life of the federation of labor.

When in a chippy sea with the barometer sinking the sensible mariner puts into port or at least reefs all or goes ahead on quarter speed. The democratic party is not observing these ordinary precautions. It is well that warning be passed along, from skipper to cabin-boy.

It is just a storm sign now. Ignored, it may overcast the heavens and test every beam and bulwark of the ship.

Gentlemen of congress! Quit! Go home! You've done enough for one time and, like the law of the story book, you'll kick the peck of milk if you linger longer!

God blesses a chance!
God knows it needs it!

MR. HARMAN HIGHLY HONORED

Signal literary recognition has come to Henry H. Harman, a well-known citizen and journalist of Atlanta, in an extended and complimentary review recently given by Mr. Harman's selections by no less critical and formidable to make him a factor to ignore which it would be to ignore the Boston (Mass.)

The Constitution reproduces the editor's appreciation, and Mr. Harman extends over two Diamond Bars, a commendation from 31 Whittall Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Established 1887

THE BOLL WEevil

TAINTED MONEY—AND THE SENATE

By Martin V. Colvin.
The boll weevil was a subject of discussion in the United States senate a few days ago. The subject was the boll weevil and the money it had cost the country.

It is now, in these days of materialism, that a poet sings with sufficient clearness to draw to him the eyes of the nation. That is what Mr. Harman has done. It is the more notable, in that, like Edmund Clarence Stedman, the famous humorist of New York, he adds practical achievement to his remarkable gifts as a poet and a scholar.

President Wilson holds that the long-enslaved and oppressed Mexican people is the pivot around which must turn any real solution of the Mexican problem.

This speaks in his instructions to the American representatives before the mediation conference in Mexico that the American troops will not be withdrawn until the situation is settled fundamentally.

The intermittent struggles of more than a century in Mexico have, essentially, had a striving toward democracy as their basis.

Our revolutionary war, the French revolution, every important overturn in world history have in some part partaken of this powerful instinct.

In the case of Mexico the striving has often been unconscious, so far as motive was concerned, for the people who form the bulk of Mexico's population would not know how to spell democracy. They did, and do, know that their little has gradually been segregated from their ownership by legal and illegal trickery, by right of might, and turned over to wealthy overlords.

These latter have not found it difficult to perpetuate the semi-slavery of the people. The laws, created by this upper crust of rich and cultured Mexicans, worked all on the side of the oppressor and virtually ignored the worker.

For the slightest dereliction in debt, or the faintest suggestion of breach of contract, which the people could not read nor understand, his time of servitude could be indefinitely extended.

Along with this system of peonage has gone a uniform denial of educational advantages for the children of the laboring class, and must not be tolerated. So as the people found his land shrinking and, finally, disappearing, he found himself as fillet, more impotent than ever. Under the powerful hand of Porfirio Diaz this teeming, but unorganized, class was held in leash for nearly three decades. Diaz's mental process became indurated, he failed to see the irretrievable ferment, and had to refuse in Europe, Mexico, Germany and weakling, was done to death by fire, though he had been spared he would not have proved the man for a task truly herculean.

That task is the gradual reorganization of most of the land of Mexico, the unrolling of the curtain from the past over several centuries; the holding of the balance true, as between foreign concessions and the people; the adjustment of foreign claims; the education of the people by laws which is unavoidable, by gentler means than these will operate. It will be seen that genius of a high order and infinite patience and tolerance are required for the task.

President Wilson has accurately appraised the situation.

It is the poem that calls our energies to Mexico. It is the spirit of democracy that is behind the poem.

PEACE OR A SWORD?

Laden with spoils and enthusiasm, despite his agonizing sleep, the great Roosevelt once more comes plunging out of the wilderness into the maelstrom of affairs in this country. While his return will lack some of the spectacular features of his African adventures, in Europe, there will be plenty of people in this country glad to know that the Colonel is again in our midst. Whatever his politics, the Colonel is a kind of national institution, in which Americans feel a proprietary or a curious interest according to the individual case.

The question arises, does the Colonel, politically speaking, come bearing peace or a sword? From now on, that issue will increasingly agitate people who follow politics in this country, and that means nearly everybody, since politics, next to poker and baseball, is the national sport.

Our guess is that it is a flashing falchion in the hands of the Colonel, and that, after familiarizing himself with precisely what has happened since his departure, he will use it to the glorification of T. Roosevelt and the embarrassment of his partisan foes. The conjecture is given color by the fact that ever since he was restored to the office of the Colonel he has been "taking a crack" at Mr. Wilson, at the peace-loving Tatt and at various and sundry other gentlemen who might assume leadership with his personal ambitions.

The man who thinks Roosevelt is a dead cock in the political pit needs to revise his estimates upward. It is a perfectly safe assertion that if the wind blows in the right direction, the Colonel has a card more after that "third cup of coffee." At least, it is certain that if he cannot land it for himself, he has a following sufficiently formidable to make him a factor to ignore which it would be to ignore the Boston (Mass.)

The Constitution reproduces the editor's appreciation, and Mr. Harman extends over two Diamond Bars, a commendation from 31 Whittall Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Established 1887

THE BOLL WEevil

TAINTED MONEY—AND THE SENATE

By Martin V. Colvin.
The boll weevil was a subject of discussion in the United States senate a few days ago. The subject was the boll weevil and the money it had cost the country.

It is now, in these days of materialism, that a poet sings with sufficient clearness to draw to him the eyes of the nation. That is what Mr. Harman has done. It is the more notable, in that, like Edmund Clarence Stedman, the famous humorist of New York, he adds practical achievement to his remarkable gifts as a poet and a scholar.

President Wilson holds that the long-enslaved and oppressed Mexican people is the pivot around which must turn any real solution of the Mexican problem.

This speaks in his instructions to the American representatives before the mediation conference in Mexico that the American troops will not be withdrawn until the situation is settled fundamentally.

The intermittent struggles of more than a century in Mexico have, essentially, had a striving toward democracy as their basis.

Our revolutionary war, the French revolution, every important overturn in world history have in some part partaken of this powerful instinct.

In the case of Mexico the striving has often been unconscious, so far as motive was concerned, for the people who form the bulk of Mexico's population would not know how to spell democracy. They did, and do, know that their little has gradually been segregated from their ownership by legal and illegal trickery, by right of might, and turned over to wealthy overlords.

These latter have not found it difficult to perpetuate the semi-slavery of the people. The laws, created by this upper crust of rich and cultured Mexicans, worked all on the side of the oppressor and virtually ignored the worker.

For the slightest dereliction in debt, or the faintest suggestion of breach of contract, which the people could not read nor understand, his time of servitude could be indefinitely extended.

Along with this system of peonage has gone a uniform denial of educational advantages for the children of the laboring class, and must not be tolerated. So as the people found his land shrinking and, finally, disappearing, he found himself as fillet, more impotent than ever. Under the powerful hand of Porfirio Diaz this teeming, but unorganized, class was held in leash for nearly three decades. Diaz's mental process became indurated, he failed to see the irretrievable ferment, and had to refuse in Europe, Mexico, Germany and weakling, was done to death by fire, though he had been spared he would not have proved the man for a task truly herculean.

That task is the gradual reorganization of most of the land of Mexico, the unrolling of the curtain from the past over several centuries; the holding of the balance true, as between foreign concessions and the people; the adjustment of foreign claims; the education of the people by laws which is unavoidable, by gentler means than these will operate. It will be seen that genius of a high order and infinite patience and tolerance are required for the task.

President Wilson has accurately appraised the situation.

It is the poem that calls our energies to Mexico. It is the spirit of democracy that is behind the poem.

PEACE OR A SWORD?

Laden with spoils and enthusiasm, despite his agonizing sleep, the great Roosevelt once more comes plunging out of the wilderness into the maelstrom of affairs in this country. While his return will lack some of the spectacular features of his African adventures, in Europe, there will be plenty of people in this country glad to know that the Colonel is again in our midst. Whatever his politics, the Colonel is a kind of national institution, in which Americans feel a proprietary or a curious interest according to the individual case.

The question arises, does the Colonel, politically speaking, come bearing peace or a sword? From now on, that issue will increasingly agitate people who follow politics in this country, and that means nearly everybody, since politics, next to poker and baseball, is the national sport.

Our guess is that it is a flashing falchion in the hands of the Colonel, and that, after familiarizing himself with precisely what has happened since his departure, he will use it to the glorification of T. Roosevelt and the embarrassment of his partisan foes. The conjecture is given color by the fact that ever since he was restored to the office of the Colonel he has been "taking a crack" at Mr. Wilson, at the peace-loving Tatt and at various and sundry other gentlemen who might assume leadership with his personal ambitions.

The man who thinks Roosevelt is a dead cock in the political pit needs to revise his estimates upward. It is a perfectly safe assertion that if the wind blows in the right direction, the Colonel has a card more after that "third cup of coffee." At least, it is certain that if he cannot land it for himself, he has a following sufficiently formidable to make him a factor to ignore which it would be to ignore the Boston (Mass.)

The Constitution reproduces the editor's appreciation, and Mr. Harman extends over two Diamond Bars, a commendation from 31 Whittall Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Established 1887

The Boll Weevil

TAINTED MONEY—AND THE SENATE

By Martin V. Colvin.
The boll weevil was a subject of discussion in the United States senate a few days ago. The subject was the boll weevil and the money it had cost the country.

It is now, in these days of materialism, that a poet sings with sufficient clearness to draw to him the eyes of the nation. That is what Mr. Harman has done. It is the more notable, in that, like Edmund Clarence Stedman, the famous humorist of New York, he adds practical achievement to his remarkable gifts as a poet and a scholar.

President Wilson holds that the long-enslaved and oppressed Mexican people is the pivot around which must turn any real solution of the Mexican problem.

This speaks in his instructions to the American representatives before the mediation conference in Mexico that the American troops will not be withdrawn until the situation is settled fundamentally.

The intermittent struggles of more than a century in Mexico have, essentially, had a striving toward democracy as their basis.

Our revolutionary war, the French revolution, every important overturn in world history have in some part partaken of this powerful instinct.

In the case of Mexico the striving has often been unconscious, so far as motive was concerned, for the people who form the bulk of Mexico's population would not know how to spell democracy. They did, and do, know that their little has gradually been segregated from their ownership by legal and illegal trickery, by right of might, and turned over to wealthy overlords.

These latter have not found it difficult to perpetuate the semi-slavery of the people. The laws, created by this upper crust of rich and cultured Mexicans, worked all on the side of the oppressor and virtually ignored the worker.

For the slightest dereliction in debt, or the faintest suggestion of breach of contract, which the people could not read nor understand, his time of servitude could be indefinitely extended.

Along with this system of peonage has gone a uniform denial of educational advantages for the children of the laboring class, and must not be tolerated. So as the people found his land shrinking and, finally, disappearing, he found himself as fillet, more impotent than ever. Under the powerful hand of Porfirio Diaz this teeming, but unorganized, class was held in leash for nearly three decades. Diaz's mental process became indurated, he failed to see the irretrievable ferment, and had to refuse in Europe, Mexico, Germany and weakling, was done to death by fire, though he had been spared he would not have proved the man for a task truly herculean.

That task is the gradual reorganization of most of the land of Mexico, the unrolling of the curtain from the past over several centuries; the holding of the balance true, as between foreign concessions and the people; the adjustment of foreign claims; the education of the people by laws which is unavoidable, by gentler means than these will operate. It will be seen that genius of a high order and infinite patience and tolerance are required for the task.

President Wilson has accurately appraised the situation.

It is the poem that calls our energies to Mexico. It is the spirit of democracy that is behind the poem.

PEACE OR A SWORD?

Laden with spoils and enthusiasm, despite his agonizing sleep, the great Roosevelt once more comes plunging out of the wilderness into the maelstrom of affairs in this country. While his return will lack some of the spectacular features of his African adventures, in Europe, there will be plenty of people in this country glad to know that the Colonel is again in our midst. Whatever his politics, the Colonel is a kind of national institution, in which Americans feel a proprietary or a curious interest according to the individual case.

The question arises, does the Colonel, politically speaking, come bearing peace or a sword? From now on, that issue will increasingly agitate people who follow politics in this country, and that means nearly everybody, since politics, next to poker and baseball, is the national sport.

Our guess is that it is a flashing falchion in the hands of the Colonel, and that, after familiarizing himself with precisely what has happened since his departure, he will use it to the glorification of T. Roosevelt and the embarrassment of his partisan foes. The conjecture is given color by the fact that ever since he was restored to the office of the Colonel he has been "taking a crack" at Mr. Wilson, at the peace-loving Tatt and at various and sundry other gentlemen who might assume leadership with his personal ambitions.

The man who thinks Roosevelt is a dead cock in the political pit needs to revise his estimates upward. It is a perfectly safe assertion that if the wind blows in the right direction, the Colonel has a card more after that "third cup of coffee." At least, it is certain that if he cannot land it for himself, he has a following sufficiently formidable to make him a factor to ignore which it would be to ignore the Boston (Mass.)

The Constitution reproduces the editor's appreciation, and Mr. Harman extends over two Diamond Bars, a commendation from 31 Whittall Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Established 1887

THE BOLL WEevil

TAINTED MONEY—AND THE SENATE

By Martin V. Colvin.
The boll weevil was a subject of discussion in the United States senate a few days ago. The subject was the boll weevil and the money it had cost the country.

It is now, in these days of materialism, that a poet sings with sufficient clearness to draw to him the eyes of the nation. That is what Mr. Harman has done. It is the more notable, in that, like Edmund Clarence Stedman, the famous humorist of New York, he adds practical achievement to his remarkable gifts as a poet and a scholar.

President Wilson holds that the long-enslaved and oppressed Mexican people is the pivot around which must turn any real solution of the Mexican problem.

This speaks in his instructions to the American representatives before the mediation conference in Mexico that the American troops will not be withdrawn until the situation is settled fundamentally.

The intermittent struggles of more than a century in Mexico have, essentially, had a striving toward democracy as their basis.

Our revolutionary war, the French revolution, every important overturn in world history have in some part partaken of this powerful instinct.

In the case of Mexico the striving has often been unconscious, so far as motive was concerned, for the people who form the bulk of Mexico's population would not know how to spell democracy. They did, and do, know that their little has gradually been segregated from their ownership by legal and illegal trickery, by right of might, and turned over to wealthy overlords.

These latter have not found it difficult to perpetuate the semi-slavery of the people. The laws, created by this upper crust of rich and cultured Mexicans, worked all on the side of the oppressor and virtually ignored the worker.

For the slightest dereliction in debt, or the faintest suggestion of breach of contract, which the people could not read nor understand, his time of servitude could be indefinitely extended.

Along with this system of peonage has gone a uniform denial of educational advantages for the children of the laboring class, and must not be tolerated. So as the people found his land shrinking and, finally, disappearing, he found himself as fillet, more impotent than ever. Under the powerful hand of Porfirio Diaz this teeming, but unorganized, class was held in leash for nearly three decades. Diaz's mental process became indurated, he failed to see the irretrievable ferment, and had to refuse in Europe, Mexico, Germany and weakling, was done to death by fire, though he had been spared he would not have proved the man for a task truly herculean.

That task is the gradual reorganization of most of the land of Mexico, the unrolling of the curtain from the past over several centuries; the holding of the balance true, as between foreign concessions and the people; the adjustment of foreign claims; the education of the people by laws which is unavoidable, by gentler means than these will operate. It will be seen that genius of a high order and infinite patience and tolerance are required for the task.

President Wilson has accurately appraised the situation.

It is the poem that calls our energies to Mexico. It is the spirit of democracy that is behind the poem.

PEACE OR A SWORD?

Laden with spoils and enthusiasm, despite his agonizing sleep, the great Roosevelt once more comes plunging out of the wilderness into the maelstrom of affairs in this country. While his return will lack some of the spectacular features of his African adventures, in Europe, there will be plenty of people in this country glad to know that the Colonel is again in our midst. Whatever his politics, the Colonel is a kind of national institution, in which Americans feel a proprietary or a curious interest according to the individual case.

The question arises, does the Colonel, politically speaking, come bearing peace or a sword? From now on, that issue will increasingly agitate people who follow politics in this country, and that means nearly everybody, since politics, next to poker and baseball, is the national sport.

Our guess is that it is a flashing falchion in the hands of the Colonel, and that, after familiarizing himself with precisely what has happened since his departure, he will use it to the glorification of T. Roosevelt and the embarrassment of his partisan foes. The conjecture is given color by the fact that ever since he was restored to the office of the Colonel he has been "taking a crack" at Mr. Wilson, at the peace-loving Tatt and at various and sundry other gentlemen who might assume leadership with his personal ambitions.

The man who thinks Roosevelt is a dead cock in the political pit needs to revise his estimates upward. It is a perfectly safe assertion that if the wind blows in the right direction, the Colonel has a card more after that "third cup of coffee." At least, it is certain that if he cannot land it for himself, he has a following sufficiently formidable to make him a factor to ignore which it would be to ignore the Boston (Mass.)

The Constitution reproduces the editor's appreciation, and Mr. Harman extends over two Diamond Bars, a commendation from 31 Whittall Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Established 1887

THE BOLL WEevil

TAINTED MONEY—AND THE SENATE

By Martin V. Colvin.
The boll weevil was a subject of discussion in the United States senate a few days ago. The subject was the boll weevil and the money it had cost the country.

It is now, in these days of materialism, that a poet sings with sufficient clearness to draw to him the eyes of the nation. That is what Mr. Harman has done. It is the more notable, in that, like Edmund Clarence Stedman, the famous humorist of New York, he adds practical achievement to his remarkable gifts as a poet and a scholar.

President Wilson holds that the long-enslaved and oppressed Mexican people is the pivot around which must turn any real solution of the Mexican problem.

This speaks in his instructions to the American representatives before the mediation conference in Mexico that the American troops will not be withdrawn until the situation is settled fundamentally.

The intermittent struggles of more than a century in Mexico have, essentially, had a striving toward democracy as their basis.

Our revolutionary war, the French revolution, every important overturn in world history have in some part partaken of this powerful instinct.

In the case of Mexico the striving has often been unconscious, so far as motive was concerned, for the people who form the bulk of Mexico's population would not know how to spell democracy. They did, and do, know that their little has gradually been segregated from their ownership by legal and illegal trickery, by right of might, and turned over to wealthy overlords.

These latter have not found it difficult to perpetuate the semi-slavery of the people. The laws, created by this upper crust of rich and cultured Mexicans, worked all on the side of the oppressor and virtually ignored the worker.

For the slightest dereliction in debt, or the faintest suggestion of breach of contract, which the people could not read nor understand, his time of servitude could be indefinitely extended.

Along with this system of peonage has gone a uniform denial of educational advantages for the children of the laboring class, and must not be tolerated. So as the people found his land shrinking and, finally, disappearing, he found himself as fillet, more impotent than ever. Under the powerful hand of Porfirio Diaz this teeming, but unorganized, class was held in leash for nearly three decades. Diaz's mental process became indurated, he failed to see the irretrievable ferment, and had to refuse in Europe, Mexico, Germany and weakling, was done to death by fire, though he had been spared he would not have proved the man for a task truly herculean.

That task is the gradual reorganization of most of the land of Mexico, the unrolling of the curtain from the past over several centuries; the holding of the balance true, as between foreign concessions and the people; the adjustment of foreign claims; the education of the people by laws which is unavoidable, by gentler means than these will operate. It will be seen that genius of a high order and infinite patience and tolerance are required for the task.

President Wilson has accurately appraised the situation.

It is the poem that calls our energies to Mexico. It is the spirit of democracy that is behind the poem.

PEACE OR A SWORD?

Laden with spoils and enthusiasm, despite his agonizing sleep, the great Roosevelt once more comes plunging out of the wilderness into the maelstrom of affairs in this country. While his return will lack some of the spectacular features of his African adventures, in Europe, there will be plenty of people in this country glad to know that the Colonel is again in our midst. Whatever his politics, the Colonel is a kind of national institution, in which Americans feel a proprietary or a curious interest according to the individual case.

The question arises, does the Colonel, politically speaking, come bearing peace or a sword? From now on, that issue will increasingly agitate people who follow politics in this country, and that means nearly everybody, since politics, next to poker and baseball, is the national sport.

Our guess is that it is a flashing falchion in the hands of the Colonel, and that, after familiarizing himself with precisely what has happened since his departure, he will use it to the glorification of T. Roosevelt and the embarrassment of his partisan foes. The conjecture is given color by the fact that ever since he was restored to the office of the Colonel he has been "taking a crack" at Mr. Wilson, at the peace-loving Tatt and at various and sundry other gentlemen who might assume leadership with his personal ambitions.

The man who thinks Roosevelt is a dead cock in the political pit needs to revise his estimates upward. It is a perfectly safe assertion that if the wind blows in the right direction, the Colonel has a card more after that "third cup of coffee." At least, it is certain that if he cannot land it for himself, he has a following sufficiently formidable to make him a factor to ignore which it would be to ignore the Boston (Mass.)

The Constitution reproduces the editor's appreciation, and Mr. Harman extends over two Diamond Bars, a commendation from 31 Whittall Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Established 1887

THE BOLL WEevil

TAINTED MONEY—AND THE SENATE

By Martin V. Colvin.
The boll weevil was a subject of discussion in the United States senate a few days ago. The subject was the boll weevil and the money it had cost the country.

It is now, in these days of materialism, that a poet sings with sufficient clearness to draw to him the eyes of the nation. That is what Mr. Harman has done. It is the more notable, in that, like Edmund Clarence Stedman, the famous humorist of New York, he adds practical achievement to his remarkable gifts as a poet and a scholar.

President Wilson holds that the long-enslaved and oppressed Mexican people is the pivot around which must turn any real solution of the Mexican problem.

This speaks in his instructions to the American representatives before the mediation conference in Mexico that the American troops will not be withdrawn until the situation is settled fundamentally.

The intermittent struggles of more than a century in Mexico have, essentially, had a striving toward democracy as their basis.

Our revolutionary war, the French revolution, every important overturn in world history have in some part partaken of this powerful instinct.

In the case of Mexico the striving has often been unconscious, so far as motive was concerned, for the people who form the bulk of Mexico's population would not know how to spell democracy. They did, and do, know that their little has gradually been segregated from their ownership by legal and illegal trickery, by right of might, and turned over to wealthy overlords.

These latter have not found it difficult to perpetuate the semi-slavery of the people. The laws, created by this upper crust of rich and cultured Mexicans, worked all on the side of the oppressor and virtually ignored the worker.

For the slightest dereliction in debt, or the faintest suggestion of breach of contract, which the people could not read nor understand, his time of servitude could be indefinitely extended.

Along with this system of peonage has gone a uniform denial of educational advantages for the children of the laboring class, and must not be tolerated. So as the people found his land shrinking and, finally, disappearing, he found himself as fillet, more impotent than ever. Under the powerful hand of Porfirio Diaz this teeming, but unorganized, class was held in leash for nearly three decades. Diaz's mental process became indurated, he failed to see the irretrievable ferment, and had to refuse in Europe, Mexico, Germany and weakling, was done to death by fire, though he had been spared he would not have proved the man for a task truly herculean.

That task is the gradual reorganization of most of the land of Mexico, the unrolling of the curtain from the past over several centuries; the holding of the balance true, as between foreign concessions and the people; the adjustment of foreign claims; the education of the people by laws which is unavoidable, by gentler means than these will operate. It will be seen that genius of a high order and infinite patience and tolerance are required for the task.

President Wilson has accurately

ATLANTIC CHRYSLER

Situated directly on the ocean front with a view of the Beach and Boardwalk from all public lobbies and main guest rooms. American plan; capacity 400; always open. WALTER J. BARRY.

Hotel Brighton Ocean City.
Beach front to Every modern convenience. Unexcelled views. Short ride by trolley to Atlantic
Write for booklet. Opens June 15.
R. R. MOODY.

LIFE OF NEWEST RULER THREATENED BY REBELS

bania to Protect Life of Prince William.

Durazzo, Albania, May 19.—A mixed force of marines from the international fleet was landed here today

The position of the prince has been threatened by the increasing hostility between Essad Pasha, formerly Turkish commander at Scutari, and the other members of the Albanian ministry.

confronted with the members of his family on board an Austrian warship. He was threatened by the increasing hostility of the Emperor, Pasha, formerly Turkish ambassador in Vienna, and the members of the Albanian ministry. He was conveyed with the members of his family on board an Austrian warship. He was threatened by the increasing hostility of the Emperor, Pasha, formerly Turkish ambassador in Vienna, and the members of the Albanian ministry. He was conveyed with the members of his family on board an Austrian warship.

According to other reports, Prince William a fortnight ago discovered se-et plans drawn up by Enver Pasha and ordered him to disarm his bodyguard. Enver Pasha refused, whereupon the Albania gendarmerie, commanded by Dutch officers, attacked Enver's residence.

hundred men from the Australian and Italian warships are guarding the prince's palace.

NOTHING IN CHARGES DECLARES JOHN BURKE

New Orleans, May 18—John Burke, formerly connected with the commissary department of the Panama canal zone government and who was indicted by a federal grand jury in New York recently, charged with accepting a bribe of $100,000, today declared he arrived in New Orleans with his work on the Panama canal zone government en route from Colon to New York. In New York he was indicted on charges under the indictment, Mr. Burke said.

"I expect to proceed to New York tomorrow," he said. "The charges against me have been expatriated by two boards of inquiry. I am not expected to have any trouble in vindicating myself before any court. There is absolutely nothing in the charges against me."

NEW KODAK CATALOGS
Just received new 1914 kodak and repro camera catalogs; yours for the asking. W. K. Hawkes Co., Kodak
Dept., 14 Whitehall.

Bonds for Investment
High-grade municipal, railroad and public service corporation bonds.
Send for List of Offerings
Harris, Forbes & Co.

Successors to N. W. Harris & Co.
Pine Street, Corner William
NEW YORK

Atlanta
Investment Securities

than e Rates osit Boxes

Lowest Cost
Your Valuables
Feature of
Banking Service

owry
l Bank

$2,250,000

D., Cotton Merchants
E, NEW YORK
New Orleans Cotton Exchange.
Members Liverpool Cotton Assn-age and sale of cotton and cotton vention and liberal terms given for
y. Correspondence invited.

ARDSON & CO.
ACCOUNTANTS
AMERICAN NAT'L BANK BUILDING
PENSACOLA, FLA.

F CLOTHING
Will bring cash for shoes
Vestige. 166 Decatur st.

S 10c Line WANT ADS

