Summery Suits
Blue Serge and Others

June sees the summer man step upon the stage of styledom dressed for the part.

It is our cue to set ourselves to see that he is properly fitted for the appearance.

Our planning was done with the realization of what Atlanta citizens want and are entitled to.

Muse clothes for Atlanta men are individualized fashions—standard, so far as American clothes standards apply, but original and different just in so far as Atlanta is distinctive among American cities.

On this special June occasion, may we commend a light-weight, fine quality blue serge suit for a fashion that never fails the world over—for the quality that travels in the same class for far-reaching service.

The elasticity of the blue serge suit service is exemplified in the drawing when white trousers make of it another suit.

DROUGHT BREAKING,
SAYS WEATHER MAN

All Sections of State Have Fared Better Than Middle
Georgia, Where No Rain
Has Fallen for Many Days.

Weatherman von Herrmann gave out the highly pleasing information yesterday that the continued drought is gradually breaking, and that the entire state will soon receive its long-needed share of rain.

Some portions of Georgia have had no rain at all during the present dry spell, while other sections have had a little.

An investigation into weather records Thursday revealed the fact that in middle Georgia there has been no precipitation since the beginning of the present drought. This area of territory extends from Columbus to Macon to Augusta.

Atlanta and adjacent country, however, has had several showers in the past few days, and the prospects are good for plenty more. There have been a few summer showers in southern Georgia which occurred on May 21 and last Wednesday.

North Georgia had rain last Wednesday, when there was a general shower. The leading section of the state, Southwest Georgia, seems to have fared better than other parts of the state, receiving downpours on May 27 and 28 and on June 1.

Weather Forecaster von Herrmann stated that the drought was gradually breaking. He expected rain Saturday afternoon. That was disappointed.

Unsettled weather conditions are predicted to prevail through the rest of the week, with frequent showers.

HARRISON SAYS DRY MAY HAS NOT HURT COTTON

Washington, June 4.—(Special).—That the dry weather during May has not inflicted little damage on the cotton crop of the southeastern states, but on the other hand has really been of benefit to the proper growth of the plant, and that a good yield of cotton may be expected with reasonably favorable weather conditions for the remainder of the season, is the belief expressed by President Harrison, in a statement issued today.

Mr. Harrison's view of the situation is based on reports received from the department of farm improvement of the Southern, the agents of which he is close touch with farmers and conditions generally throughout the Southern territory.

DR. HARDEMAN SPEAKS TO TIFTON S. SCHOOLS

Tifton, Ga., June 4.—(Special).—Tifton's Sunday schools held their annual union picnic yesterday. It was a record-breaker, about 2,000 people attended. The Sunday schools of the county had been invited and about 20 of the members were present.

In the morning Dr. L. H. Hardehan, who is the pastor of the First Baptist church in Tifton, was called on and made a short speech. He said that he was glad to see the Sunday school work along so well.

MEDICAL SCHOLARS

Augusta, Ga., June 4.—(Special).—Four members of the State Board of Medical Examiners are in Augusta conducting an examination for the benefit of the graduating class of the medical department of the University of Georgia. The members of the board who are here are President J. W. Palmer, M. D., of Albany; Vice President A. Fleming, M. D., of Waycross; Dr. J. H. Patterson, of Columbus; and Dr. G. H. Walker, of Boston. BULLDOGS WORTH $2,000
LOSE LIVES IN BLAZE

The dog kennels at the home of F. M. Galbreath, Kirkwood, caught fire Thursday morning, and nine bulldogs valued at $2,000 were burned to death. A strange coincidence of fate lies in the fact that the bulldogs were the property of Mrs. Louise Schelver, mother of Mrs. Galbreath, and that in a similar way one year ago.

Only two of the dogs were saved. These had been carried into the house to protect the bulldogs during the fire. They were killed while the house was burning.

Society

Brilliant Opening of Season At Capital City Country Club

The opening of the social summer season at the Capital City Country Club last evening proved to be a beautiful and brilliant occasion, concluding with dinner served last night and a dance following.

Early in the afternoon many of the members went out for golf. The ladies joined them, and there were tea parties, which the younger people enjoyed swimming and boating and a group playing tennis.

The entire club house was decorated for the occasion, and there was music from 5 o'clock on through the evening. The terrace back of the clubhouse made a pretty approach to the lake. Later, when the lights of hundreds of Japanese lanterns shone out around the lake, and the orchestra played the bacchanale from "Tales From Hoffman," it was a beautiful setting for a "Venezia Love Song" or any other kind of love song.

Dinner was served on the porch overlooking the terrace, and each table was lovely with flowers. The menu reflected credit on the cuisine and management, and the occasion throughout was a most successful one.

The approach to the club yesterday was most interesting. The trees forming the driveway to the entrance to the club have grown; the lawn on ing, a bridge-lect. The rooms were artistically decorated with quantities of garden flowers and after the game they decorated tables in the dining room. The top score at bridge was a pair of sixes, made by Mrs. J. H. B. and Mrs. J. H. B. The guest of honor was Mrs. J. H. B. The evening was a white napery dined with girls and sang of pink lake.

For Miss Jenkins.

Miss Bell Krumpholtz entertained her guests at the East Lake club yesterday afternoon for the purpose of introducing to the club a new member, Miss Jenkins. The party later had dinner at East Lake.

Smith-Head.

The bride was lovely in her traveling gown, and the wedding was a most successful one. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Head, assisted by Mr. J. H. Head. The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and a large number of friends.

Freeman-Ewing.

SHRINERS' CONVENTION ADVERTISED ATLANTA

That the Shrine convention has been the greatest advertising medium Atlanta has ever had, is the testimony of the Shrine secretary, who was in the city Thursday arranging for the meeting of the congress here in October.

Atlanta, he said, has been made known to the world as a convention city, and that this was probably the greatest and most profitable achievement.

Mr. Pennybacker declared that 30,000 invitations had been mailed, and that he expected at least 1,000 delegates to the congress. The exhibition of road-building machinery will be at the auditorium.

Each member of our organization will hold a meeting tonight at their hall in the Shrine building. The following notes have been mailed out by A. C. Crickman, chief, and W. A. Somerville, secretary.

SHE GAVE UP ALL HER WORK

On Account of Her Weakness, But Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Brought Back Strength.

Summit, Va.—Mrs. Leonora Walker, of this place, has the following to say regarding her experience with Cardui.

"I began to take Cardui, I suffered with womanly troubles, and, along with what I thought was stomach trouble. I was so weak, I had to give up all my household work; and could not do any of the cooking."

"I commenced taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and after the third day I began to feel better. Have now used five bottles, and am well, and can do all of my household work and cooking by myself. I feel like a new woman."

"I shall be only too glad to do anything I can, to help relieve the Cardui Home Treatment, for it is so good for suffering women. I shall never be without it."

For over half a century, Cardui has been helping to build weak, nervous, tired-out women, back to strength and health. It goes to the seat of the trouble and builds up womanly strength where it is most needed.

Cardui may be the very medicine your system has long been needing. Get a bottle from your druggist today. It cannot harm you, and should surely do you what it has done for so many thousands of others.

J. Randolph Anderson

Will Open Campaign

By Marietta Speech

J. Randolph Anderson, of Savannah, candidate for governor, will deliver the opening speech of his campaign in the courthouse at Marietta tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. It is reported there will be a good attendance from Cobb and adjoining counties to hear him.

Mr. Anderson has long owned a farm in Cobb county, where he spends much of his time during the summer, and it was largely owing to the fact that many friends there invited him to come to Marietta for his opening address.

In this opening speech Mr. Anderson will clearly define his position on the important state issues, and among other things, will have an interesting statement to make relative to his attitude toward the Western and Atlantic railroad, the state property.

Mr. Anderson expects to follow this address with speeches in other sections of the state as occasion will permit, and will make it a point to see and talk with the people of the state during the state primary of August 11.

The house committee on agriculture has agreed to report favorably the Lever bill regulating cotton exchanges. The Lever measure, or other measures substantially embodying its principles, has for some years been pending in house and senate.

The abuses of the New York Cotton Exchange, and the manner in which it takes toll of farmer and cotton factor, is an old story. Honest and democratic efforts toward a remedy have been stretching over a long period of years.

Results have been nil, except at intervals to induce a hypocritical bluff at reform on part of the New York institution.

Regulation should be undertaken in no spirit of balking, bitterness, persecution or grandstanding. It should be recognized that hedging is a legitimate function of all exchanges, and that the abolition of the exchanges in this country will mean control of our cotton industry abroad. All that is needed is expressed in the simple statement of the Vicksburg Cotton Exchange, and that is a "fair and honest cotton contract."

AN IMPENDING CATASTROPHY.
One of the most amazing chapters in all history is comprised in the state of semi-anarchy to which the militant suffragettes have reduced Great Britain, the storm-center being located in London. Here now comes that the authorities are absolutely powerless. Imprisonment as a remedy or a deterrent is a burlesque. The women forthwith go on a hunger strike. Rather than let them starve the authorities temporarily release them, when forthwith they resume their raids and assaults.

Mrs. Pankhurst is now installed in a house opposite Buckingham Palace, keeping the king under surveillance. The king himself is afraid to venture out, lest he meet with indignity, even bodily injury, at the hands of these temerarious women. Priceless pictures continue to be slashed. The "arson squad" is at work, and the police watch helplessly, not knowing when or where next to expect an outbreak in this country.

The astounding and dangerous feature is that the women appear absolutely indifferent as to whether they live or die. They have become obsessed with an idea. They are no longer responsible, mentally. Being their cause justifies martyrdom, they cheerfully court that end. The mischief of it all is that the virus is spreading. At first a very few of the more intemperate of the viragoes were willing to risk their lives. Today the instinct for immolation, perverted and degraded as any sound psychology will testify, runs through the rank and file.

A baffling complication is that the suffragettes are said to be receiving financial support in lavish measure from the highest classes of English society. So long as they can command money in abundance the task of checking them is doubly a dilemma.

Viewing these facts, one can understand, if not sympathize, with the typically brutish epigram of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who, upon recently landing in this country, said the one way to conquer the militants was to "lynch them." Is the world topsy-turvy? Is English law, proverbial for its stoutness, palsied? Is English reason, proverbially puffed, dried up, at its fountainhead? How would appear so, since London, the world's biggest city, is absolutely tyrannized by petticoats. The feebleness of the authorities is humorous, where it is not pitiful and menacing. The present condition may be compared to a fire. Stamp out the first sparks, and you scotch the evil. Play with them, and you invite catastrophe. The British authorities, by dalliance and false sensitiveness, have sown the wind. It is the whirlwind they are reaping.

The state of tension, the hurricane of hysteria rising in the British capital gives plausibility at least to this gloomy prophecy: Unless conditions mend, the slow-witted and vacillating authorities may find themselves faced by the terrible tragedy of mob violence against women, or unnatural civil conflict that will appall civilization.

COLONEL R. J. REDDING.
The death yesterday of Colonel R. J. Redding, reported in our news columns, is a substantial loss to the best agricultural interests of Georgia. To Colonel Redding the end came peacefully and suddenly, as he had often expressed the hope it would. He was found lifeless in his bed in the early morning.

Colonel Redding was a patriarch and a pioneer in the cause of scientific and practical agricultural research in Georgia and the south. For many years he was director of the experiment station at Griffin, and his keen mind, long experience and sustained enthusiasm produced results that benefited farming not only in Georgia, but throughout the south.

For many years Colonel Redding had been in charge of the farm page of The Constitution. In that capacity he was recognized as an authority wherever The Daily or Tri-Weekly Constitution penetrated, and that means on every rural free delivery route in the south. He served the basic industry of his state well and truly. When scientific agriculture shall come to be universal in Georgia, the historian will recognize that to Colonel Redding belongs much of the credit for patiently and with devotion laying its foundations.

THE END OF THE TETHER.
The testimony of several of the directors of the New Haven system before the interstate commerce commission bids fair to become historic. Now that the damage has been done and the property brought to the brink of bankruptcy, they coquettishly admit that they have become "directors that direct." The burden of their error refrain is "We'll never be barked again by Mellon or anybody else."

It isn't the directors who play bene to the break of bankruptcy, they coquettishly admit that they have become "directors that direct." The burden of their error refrain is "We'll never be barked again by Mellon or anybody else."

JUST FROM GEORGIA

THE WORLD-WINNER.
Know the way to win the prize, the way to win the prize, the way to win the prize.

When he didn't have a dime, what did he do? When the sky was hopeless, when the day was dimmed, when the world was "Good morning" in a hearty sort of way.

An' the world said: 'Ho! Here's a fellow good to know! Here's a fellow good to know! Where the sweetest roses grow!'

This was his contentment! When with shadow you abide, the watchful world'll shun you an' take the other side; But 'whenever you're in the trouble, an' you'll get a good story—' 'Tis 'till the world "Good morning" in a hearty sort of way.

Then the world says: 'Ho! Here's a fellow good to know! Here's a fellow good to know! Where the sweetest roses grow!'
