Second Big Naval Battle Taking Place Off Chilean Coast, According to Reports From Valparaiso.

GOOD HOPE FOUNDERED IN FORMER ENGAGEMENT

Admiralty Announces Sinking of Admiral Craddock's Ship With All on Board, Monmouth Ran Aground.

Press dispatches telling of a previous German-British naval engagement are confirmed in the message.

GOOD HOPE FOUNDERED, ADMIRALTY ANNOUNCES

London, November 6.—It was the British cruiser Good Hope, Rear Admiral Craddock's flagship, that foundered after being set on fire by shells from the German warships in the naval battle off the Chilean coast last Sunday. The British cruiser Monmouth, which the Germans said they had sunk, was badly damaged and is possible she is the warship reported ashore today on the coast of Chile. So far as is known, none of the Good Hope crew survived.

This was the news given out tonight by the admiralty just as the British public was beginning to think German accounts of the battle were exaggerated. The only bit of satisfaction for the British is that their little Pacific fleet chose to give battle to a very much stronger squadron and was not overwhelmed until the warship reported ashore today on the coast of Chile.

The British cruiser Glasgow, which was with the Good Hope and Monmouth, also put up a fight against the two German cruisers Leipzig and Dresden and when her bigger sister sank, she put up a fight against the Leipzig. The fall of Tsing-Tau ends the most picturesque of the minor phases of the great world war now raging.

ALLIES LOSE 2,000 AND SEVERAL SHIPS.

Her demands ignored, Japan proceeded cautiously with plans to seize the German settlement on the Chinese mainland.

The operations in this isolated theater of the war have been reduced to a scale of some 300 square miles, as compared with the whole continent of Europe, but on that account they have been none the less interesting. Aeronautics and all other accomplishments of modern warfare have figured in both Japanese and German operations.

The strength of the attacking force as compared with the little garrison of some 1,000 men and the few German vessels at Kiao-Chow was so disproportionate that at the beginning of the campaign it was taken for granted that the German possession would fall. The surprise was that so small a force could hold out so long. Reports from various sources placed together indicate that the allies' loss around Kiao-Chow has been upward of 2,000 and several second-rate warships.

Details of the operations have been secret, but the first general operation undertaken by the Japanese was the sweeping of the waters around Kiao-Chow for German mines. In this connection a hundred Japanese women were sent to the front to assist in the work. But the effort was declined.

The Japanese navy has been successful in the employment of women in warlike operations. During the mine-sweeping campaign at least a Japanese mine-draughting boat was blown up.

GERMAN-OWNED ROAD TAKEN BY JAPS.
The next general move on the part of the Japanese was to take the German-owned railway running westward of Kiao-Chow. A British detachment of some 200 men, under Major V. B. Bernard, and 400 Indian Sikhs, under Brigadier-General Sir G. G. Dyer, were sent to the center of the Japanese line in the treatment of this railway.

Fighting continued from the middle of September to the middle of October. On the night of October 17, the Japanese warships and aeroplanes entered the harbor and the Japanese position. In one of the most successful operations of the campaign, the Japanese were reported that the Japanese were continuing operations at various points to a score or more.

TORPEDO BOAT SINKS CRUISER TACHIBANA.
On the night of October 17, the most serious of the Japanese naval losses occurred when the cruiser Tachibana was blown up by the German torpedo boat S-57.

It was reported October 21 that the Japanese had installed their batteries on the coast of Kiao-Chow. The first of these on the night of October 21, the Japanese evacuated some time ago and the German and Japanese forces were in a position to attack the city. The Japanese were reported that the Japanese were continuing operations at various points to a score or more.

Garrison and Daniels Planning to Make Army and Navy More Powerful and Efficient.

Washington, November 6.—Secretary Garrison and Daniels in their forthcoming annual reports will lay before congress the lessons they believe the American army and navy should draw from the war in Europe. The reports will be asked, but methods of obtaining a mobile and adequate army and a powerful and efficient navy will be discussed in detail.

Secretary Garrison will emphasize the necessity for a definite permanent military policy. Secretary Daniels will recommend a military bill, but probably will ask for authority to examine a lump sum for military purposes.

The work of submarines in the European war has resulted in the last congress, appropriated more than $4,000,000 for the construction of submarines. It is said to be a sea-going vessel, practically twice the size of those used in coast patrol. Such a vessel, according to naval officers, will be a more powerful and efficient than the present submarine.

Here Submarine War. There is every likelihood that Secretary Daniels will ask for a second submarine of the same type and size as the present submarine, but he will also ask for a new submarine, which will be a sea-going vessel, practically twice the size of those used in coast patrol.

Garrison and Daniels Planning to Make Army and Navy More Powerful and Efficient.

Washington, November 6.—Secretary Garrison and Daniels in their forthcoming annual reports will lay before congress the lessons they believe the American army and navy should draw from the war in Europe. The reports will be asked, but methods of obtaining a mobile and adequate army and a powerful and efficient navy will be discussed in detail.

Secretary Garrison will emphasize the necessity for a definite permanent military policy. Secretary Daniels will recommend a military bill, but probably will ask for authority to examine a lump sum for military purposes.

The work of submarines in the European war has resulted in the last congress, appropriated more than $4,000,000 for the construction of submarines. It is said to be a sea-going vessel, practically twice the size of those used in coast patrol. Such a vessel, according to naval officers, will be a more powerful and efficient than the present submarine.

Here Submarine War. There is every likelihood that Secretary Daniels will ask for a second submarine of the same type and size as the present submarine, but he will also ask for a new submarine, which will be a sea-going vessel, practically twice the size of those used in coast patrol.

THESE MEN ARE TRAINING FAST LOT OF FOOTBALL PLAYERS IN PREP LEAGUE

Under the leadership of these coaches, the Atlanta Prep league is giving the public the best athletic entertainment in the history of the schools. The high schools of the city have always had good material for athletic teams, but only recently have the boys been put under the care of competent coaches. It would be hard to find a better lot of prep coaches than those engaged by the Atlanta schools, and their work is sure to tell in future athletics. Those in the picture are Coaches Wood of Boys' Hi; Bean of Marist; McClarty of Tech Hi; Moore of Boys' Hi; Martin of Tech Hi; Nicholson of Pencock; Sheffer of G. M. A.

Atlanta People Urged to Come Out and Help Visitors Clear Expenses

BY C. G. LIVERY.

For several years it has been customary for the senior class of T. H. S. to elect a number of representatives to various intervarsity sports such as basketball and baseball, and to date these two teams have never met on the gridiron. Several members of the senior class have expressed a desire to see some buzzy edgogues in a game of football and seems to have met with universal approval except with Prof. Culver who nearly wants to play three-minute quarters.

The seniors want to play as clean as possible and they are in this proposed name. In order to secure a fair balance he would suggest that Prof. Martin, a former all-southern and on the Vandy team last year, be elected captain of the T. H. S. team, act as referee. While ty's in the UP, he could certainly endow a chair in the department. The Prof. Holt and Jackson, two 1960 graduates, are making such appeals. But to avoid "centrism" in this minor subject we will leave it to the students to make their own decision.

Since there ever since school started this year there has been a day set aside each week for the profit made at the school. The day is called "Profit Day" of the annual. On those days there has been made anywhere from a dollar to $1000. The money is given to the students advanced the school. The money is used for the things that the school needs.

Tuesday was the first "welfare day" and over four dollars were made. The money was given to the students and supporters can look forward to the next day.

Our school is to meet the Savannah High school in a football game at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. The Savannah boys always bring a strong team. It is one of the best teams in the state. It is interesting to watch the game. The entire gate receipts will be used for the school. The gate receipts will be large. The attendance of the Atlanta prep schools are estimated to be around 1000.

Calhoun Fifth Grade Visits Fulton Court House

The fifth grade enjoyed a visit to the to court house last Wednesday, and, as Mr. Murre has been unable to appear, the prisoners on the basement, where the prisoners are kept before trial, to the top floor, where they are held until they are taken to court to study civil. The children of the prisoners are being educated by the chief warden, James J. Calhoun, chief tax collector, Judge Calhoun, Sheriff Mangum and Mr. Merry, county commissioner.

The second grade got the banner last week, which is evidence enough that they are doing well in their school attendance.

James J. Calhoun has had a spelling match and Laurine Lantham refused to be spelled down, for which she was given a gold medal. She also refused to be a geography match, but as there were no other girls to match her, she won the match; their names will not be written down in the "history" of Calhoun school.

James J. Calhoun has also been defeated both to their string of victories by defeating both Williams and Forrest Adams, and James J. Calhoun.

Boys Improve School at Faith Street School

How short the days are! We are enjoying the summer so much that it is so pleasant to feel the warmth of the sun on our faces and to see the bright colors which nature is putting on.

The larger boys of our school have been given the ground to make the flower beds in the school yard. They have planted some evergreen bushes and flowers and are taking good care of the things look so much better. They are so busy that they do not have time to nice brick walk from the stone steps to the curb stones. On the girls' yard they have planted some flowers and a flower bed, so that it would be easy for the girls to plant any kind of flowers they wished.

The fourth grade had in attendance last week with average

We are not disposed to gloat over the woman suffragists for their defeat on Tuesday in four of the seven States which voted upon Constitutional amendments granting to women the right to vote. They gained two States, Montana and Nevada, and they lost three, Wyoming, Colorado and Idaho. The victory of the women may now vote on all issues and for all offices in the eleven States—Montana, Nevada, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, Kansas, and Oregon—and the Territory of Alaska. They have restricted suffrage in Illinois, of which, it is reported, they did not largely avail themselves. In Ohio, where they were defeated, Ohio and Missouri have now set aside proposed Constitutional amendments—the result in Nebraska is still in doubt—and the untiring suffragists must begin their fight anew in those States. They must also work with unabated zeal to secure the second round of amendments in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Ohio, and to overcome the opposition which has thus far defeated their plans in New Jersey and Wisconsin. Then there will be only twenty-four other States to work in.—New York Times.

HAVE worn an old-fashioned air, and this is a deception for it is a town of push, a place of working upwards—or used to be—and it holds an increasing number of families who can look back on less well-to-do ancestry. Hence, likely, some of its canniness. The town is a place of sports, and without the apparent overwhelming good fortune of a few, the location, it nevertheless, has spoiled the aspirations of a number of rival cities. It does a large business in Brazilian coffee and United States wheat and is a place of considerable wealth, and, therefore, unforgettable. Any mild stranger who has undergone their unimpeachable appraisal, had his gold pieces bitten in his presence, and his words weighed on jeweler's scales, would find the worth of the process or not, remember that the original statement, it would seem, are in a canny variety.

One feature of South American business which has long claimed the attention—and mostly the unfavorable attention—of American businessmen is that of the "day's credit" in vogue there. Several of the men here expressed a desire to know whether our branches in which operation in South America will also aim in extending six or eight month credits. This was indirectly answered by a New York banker, who stated that these long credits were not an abuse fostered by English-German competition in trade. He explained that when the Germans entered the market they found that English merchandise was selling up almost as fast as an investment to win away England's trade, they offered "day's credit." The English met this challenge, and in turn raised by their German competitors, until

A booking agent for a chautauqua bureau visited all town in the middle west. He called on a large hall that in order to introduce a chautauqua would be necessary to see the most prominent man in town. Together they called on the "first citizen" and a booking agent was introduced.

"Mr. Jones," said he, "I called to see you in regard to a chautauqua."

"It won't do a bit of good," spoke up the prominent man. "My wife and I have looked over all the chautauques carefully and have already decided on another machine."—Everybody's Magazine.
