able to Plea.

Washington, November 26.—The United States government has been asked by the principal South American nations to co-operate with them in negotiations with European belligerents to bring about the exclusion of all belligerent warships from the waters of the two Americas and to restore the trade of Pan-American countries with each other.

Argentina, Chile, Peru and Uruguay have had their suggestions before the Washington government, while the Brazilian government is considering taking a similar step. Virtually all the Central and South American countries have been circled by some of the principal nations resulting in a series of diplomatic conferences in Washington and the capitals of South America, which are now in progress.

Trade Restoration Sought.
While the proposals are different in character and scope, they all seek the same end—the restoration of the trade between the North and South Americas paralyzed by the European war. The movement has also for its object the restoration of peace and commerce between the countries of the Americas and the exclusion of all belligerent warships from the waters of the Americas on questions of neutrality.

Various Plans.
The various plans thus far formally communicated to the United States are as follows:
1. The establishment of a neutral zone in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans north of the Tropic of Cancer and south of the Tropic of Capricorn, to agree not to engage in hostilities.

2. The convocation of a diplomatic conference to discuss the restoration of trade and commerce between the countries with powers to protect and restore Pan-American commerce.

3. The appointment by the Pan-American conference of a committee to study the question of the restoration of trade and commerce between the countries with powers to protect and restore Pan-American commerce.

4. The prohibition by all nations of the Americas of the sale of arms and munitions to the belligerent countries of the Americas.

5. The prohibition by all nations of the Americas of the sale of arms and munitions to the belligerent countries of the Americas.

6. The prohibition by all nations of the Americas of the sale of arms and munitions to the belligerent countries of the Americas.

The present council will hold two more meetings before adjourning for the winter. The next meeting will be on December 1st. At this meeting Alderman James R. Nutting, chairman of the subcommittee of the general bond committee, will report on the progress of the city's financial condition.

BELGIANS WERE HUNGRY ON THANKSGIVING DAY

New York, November 35.—Thanksgiving day found 7,000 Belgians in the city crying out for bread and only 100,000 pounds of emergency food on hand to appease the hunger. The Belgians, many of whom are in the city for the first time, are required each day to stand in the lines for bread and upon which the Belgians must depend for their daily food. The ration of food for the Belgians is less than half that amount.

The foregoing explains a pitiable scene which was witnessed at the mission for Relief of Belgians, carried on for the first time at the strikers' hall.

A cable from the Belgian consul in New York, the commission, declared the situation desperate and urged immediate assistance from the United States. It requested several ships to the Atlantic as well as the immediate relief of all them with supplies.

The commission is leading in distributions, the commission says.

In the south, even though it suffers from the lack of food, it will send a shipload of provisions to the north. The ship will be sent in cotton sacks and will be loaded with food to turn into clothing. Virginia is preparing a cargo of food for January shipments.

to have been drinking but at his suggestion proceeded to go home. When investigating the cause of a reported shot, the officers discovered the body of the deceased about ten minutes later lying on the sidewalk at Capitol avenue and East Fair. A bullet hole was drilled through his right temple and under his right eye.

M. Purton, of the South River street, who the man was seen while walking on Capitol avenue a few doors from Fair street. He ran back looking in all directions, and reached the spot at the same time the police came. He stated that he would have seen any person leaving the vicinity.

It was also brought out that Hyden had threatened to take his life only two weeks ago, when his family, it is said, objected to his friendship with a certain young lady. Another friend testified that Hyden was "down in the mouth about a girl" last Saturday.

There were produced at the inquest forty-nine bullets of .25 caliber, corresponding to those found in the gun. It was shown that this gun had been bought by Hyden at a pawnshop earlier in the evening, and that he had exhibited it to several friends whom he had known.

M. H. and G. C. Hyden, brothers of the dead man, and D. W. and J. M. Hyden, uncles, stated at the inquest that after a thorough investigation of the case they were convinced that Gardie Hyden was murdered. They pointed to the torn clothing, the cash on the forehead and to the fact that there was no known motive for the young man to commit suicide, as he had a good position and was usually a good spirit.

They stated that the cash in his forehead could not have come from the fall of the body, for the nose was unharmed. The funeral will be held at the First Presbyterian church, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Interment will be near Oakdale, Ga.

The deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. Hyden, his father, Mr. M. Hyden, his brothers, G. C. M. H. Daniel and Edith Hyden.

LITTLE HOPE OFFERED YOUNG NAVAL OFFICERS

Washington, November 26.—Junior lieutenants of the class of 1914, who hoped to reach the grade of lieutenant commander in less than forty years under the present pay regulations, are the opinion of Rear Admiral Victor Sims, chief of the bureau of navigation. Only legislation providing redistribution of grades, which would be a far cry, could give any of the men of the first class in the navy a chance of reaching the grade of lieutenant commander in less than forty years.

Mr. Sims, who is in command of the navy, said that the present regulations are so strict that it is impossible for any of the men of the first class in the navy to reach the grade of lieutenant commander in less than forty years. He said that the only way to reach that grade is by the promotion of a lieutenant commander to the grade of lieutenant.

right, where were concerned the interests of—

The children!

The incompetency is plainer. It is no longer defensible. The primary duty of the new administration taking office in 1915 will be to wipe it out and place Atlanta's educational plant on a par of dignity and sufficiency with her other civic equipment.

WAR AND COTTON.

It would be interesting to know to exactly what extent the European war has affected the present price of cotton. There has been a common tendency to make it wholly responsible for existing conditions, predicated on the assumption that had it not been for the battle of the Tians cotton would be bringing 70 cents or more.

As a matter of fact, it is a trifle too early to draw an average price for the season, since the bulk of the crop yet to be sold and the final round-up may show a much higher general level. But a two-year comparison, covering 1913 and 1914 is illuminating, as showing what price tendencies are located when a big crop comes into the market under normal conditions.

The crop of 1913 was 13,982,811 bales of average grade of strict low middling, and the average price was 13.67. The big crop of 1914 was 15,553,079 bales of average grade of strict low middling, and the average price only 9.58.

Now comes along a bumper crop in 1914, rated at 16,000,000, and it is bringing only 9 cents a pound less than the big crop of 1911, with the season yet to close. It is possible before all cotton of the current season is retired, the average price will be nearer 8 than 7 1/2 cents.

But it is illogical to ignore the effect of bumper crop and of large reserve stock. No man can say, with anything approaching certainty, just what the price would have been had not the Germans and the allies tampered with the free supply and demand. But it is fair to assume that the price would have not reached the 13.67 level of last year, and that it would probably have been below the 9.59 average of 1911.

Everything considered, the cotton business is emerging from a crisis with more vitality than the circumstances ordinarily would prefigure. If reduction of average next year is sharp enough, the position of this crop will be better than it is strong. If another bumper crop is planted the average price crop will be materially affected for the worse.

TOO ZEALOUS UP-LIFT.

It is difficult to restrain a good-natured smile over the protest made by those who are making great Chicago against being overcheated. As reported by the Associated Press, an organization of society women supervising the municipal fairs has decreed that no dances should proceed without the presence of twelve chaplains, ten investigators, a social secretary and one professional nurse.

The array is truly appalling. As one moderate Atlanta young man said, after reading the story, "We ought to have good time with such a mob hanging round."

And who could? Every man, woman and child of us is a natural-born, yearning and aggressive reformer. We want to re-arrange the moral of the "volunteer" and that spirit, and the finer, more fragrant spirit of Jesus Christ, has gone into the campaigns to help the lot of young women, such as that campaign in Chicago.

It is universally admitted that the "volunteer" is a dangerous institution, in as danger of forgetting that those they would have as human as themselves. For instance, the Chicago working girls reported, "We should have distributed on the Lake Shore drive, who hunt the darkest balconies and nooks of palms! Don't we want to have good time as these other girls in another station?"

The situation must have been embarrassing. A little more gentlemanlike, a little less Phariseism in "uplift" would give it greater effectiveness.

THE LESS, THE BETTER.

Passing through Washington the other day, Speaker Champ Clark predicted that the coming session would bring forth a "do nothing" congress.

Let us hope that, in the larger session, the "do nothing" congress will be a credit to the city, the new federal building, which is another splendid community asset; we have the Auditorium, a wonderful community advertisement, and now the magnificent new county courthouse, costing a million and a quarter dollars.

The time has come to add as a capstone to these civic treasures, magnificent and a adequate play for the education of our children. It is well to build city halls, and an auditorium and courthouses, but it is the children that count. They are the most precious assets of the community, the citizens of tomorrow, who shall administer the institutions we shall bequeath them.

The city should erect high school buildings capable of accommodating not only every boy and girl who will seek for admission, but capable of serving far into the future. The day for building for the present is passed. There should be new grammar schools and additions and improvements to all one sufficient to accommodate every child who applies.

We have both splendidly and with a sane propriety in other civic directions. We have been building with a world short-
