MORE PROGRESS FOR RUSSIANS.

Petrograd, February 1.—A communication issued by the general staff of the Russian army reports some further progress in East Prussia and southeast of Trier, where they

"In the forests to the north of Gumbinnen and Pilschke the troops, continuing the combat, have made progress at some points.

"On the left bank of the Vistula on January 24, a desperate combat took place. In the region of Berlin the Germans, who had captured one of our trenches on the preceding day, were attacked by our troops. After an extremely tenacious struggle we succeeded, with the aid of a bayonet charge, in dislodging the enemy from the trench. We almost annihilated two entire companies of Germans, captured three officers and more than sixty soldiers and also took a rapid firing gun.

"In the course of the day the enemy made a new attempt to drive us from our advanced trenches, but was everywhere repulsed. A bloody struggle, except in one of our squares where some elements of the enemy succeeded in establishing themselves.

An examination of prisoners disclosed the fact that the Germans, in their attack of the 23rd upon a part of our trenches at Berlin, had employed four regiments of infantry, some of which were composed of seasoned units.

"Our artillery on the left bank of the Vistula continued to do good work. The enemy with perceptible advantage to us. It demolished a German outpost and some German and wounded damaged certain German trenches, put three machine guns out of action and silenced some of the enemy's cannon.

"In the Carpathians. The fighting continued along the front between Mount Dukla and Mount Wyszok. Generally speaking, our position along this front is as before. In the left wing, the front between Nijmja Polianka and Lelivka, we are progressing satisfactorily, and every day we take some prisoners.

"In Bukovina there has been nothing more than unimportant encounters between advance detachments.

NEW DELEGATE PLAN APPROVED BY G. P.

Cut in Representation Goes in to Effect for the 1916 Convention.

Washington, February 1.—Secretary James B. Reynolds, of the republican national committee, today announced that the new plan of representation in the next republican national convention, proposed by the republican national committee, had been approved by states representing 190 electoral votes—some twenty-five more than necessary under the conditions made by the national committee—and will be put in effect when the committee meets to arrange for the next national convention.

Secretary Reynolds' statement says: "At a meeting of the committee, held in Washington in December, 1912, it was decided that the basis of representation should be changed. If republican state conventions in states representing a majority of the votes in the electoral college, which would be equivalent to the majority of delegates in the national convention, should authorize the change."

At that time the following resolution was passed: "That the action of this committee, representing, as it does, the practically unopposed majority of the republican voters of the various states, be and it is hereby resolved, that the national convention to be held in 1916 shall be composed of delegates from each congressional district in which the vote for the republican nominee for congress in 1914, shall have been not less than 25,000."

Provided, however, that the total number of delegates to which any state is entitled shall be chosen from the state-at-large if the law of the state in which the election occurs so provides.

Provided further, that in the case of any state electing to represent three in congress from the state-at-large, such state shall be entitled to as many delegates, elected at large, as though the state were divided into separate congressional districts."

The resolution also provides for alternate delegates from the District of Columbia, Alaska and the Insular Possessions, and the approval of the new system in such number of states as are entitled to cast a majority of votes in the present electoral college.

Mr. Reynolds' statement further says: "The stated chief feature of this plan and the electoral votes that it will carry are as follows: California, 13; Colorado, 10; Delaware, 3; Florida, 11; Illinois, 15; Indiana, 15; Maine, 6; Massachusetts, 11; Michigan, 15; Minnesota, 15; Missouri, 15; Nebraska, 15; New Jersey, 14; New York, 46; North Carolina, 12; Ohio, 15; Oklahoma, 5; Oregon, 5; Rhode Island, 3; South Carolina, 8; Tennessee, 10; Texas, 15; Utah, 3; Vermont, 3; Virginia, 12; Washington, 10; West Virginia, 5; Wisconsin, 10; Wyoming, 3."

He changed his mind

One of our salesmen tried to interest a well known Canadian manufacturer in the "L. B. Automatic Index" method of filing.

"No! We've just bought a filing cabinet from one of your competitors," he was told.

"Nothing daunted," as they say in the story books, our salesman produced his demonstration outfit and showed how, by installing the "L. B. Automatic Index," the manufacturer could get along without the filing cabinet that had been ordered.

The order for it was cancelled. The "L. B. Automatic Index" was installed for what it would have cost for the new filing cabinet. The customer secured more space and a better system of filing.

Germany is endeavoring to postpone it until she can wear down England's far greater resources by the use of submarines, an undertaking by no means as unpropitious as it looks.

On the continent, as a whole, one would say that a deadlock had been reached. If Russia or Rumania and Italy can throw fresh troops into the field the deadlock will be broken. The consensus of unbiased opinion is that ultimately the victor must yield to superior numbers and other resources. The date at which that yielding may be fixed is another matter.

MEBANE, MASTER-BUILDER.

B. Frank Mebane, of Spray, N. C., thorough cattle expert and captain of industry, is the kind of master-builder that exemplifies his faith with his check book as well as his influence and enthusiasm.

Several days ago Mr. Mebane, in a letter to his friend, Captain J. W. English, offered to take up with President McCray, of the Herford Cattle-Association of America, the matter of holding in Georgia a cattle and sales show as a means to stimulate the live stock industry in this state.

The response among organizations in Georgia has given Mr. Mebane a new insight into the "Atlanta" and the Georgia spirit. He has written to Governor Craig, of his own state, offering to be one of a hundred men to give a thousand dollars each for the permanent establishment of the Herford Association of the State of Georgia.

Mr. Mebane writes The Constitution that if the legislators of North Carolina turn down his offer, not only will he transfer it to Georgia, but that "furthermore, I will be of fifty to put up five thousand dollars each for the permanent establishment of the Herford Association of the State of Georgia."

Mr. Mebane's words ring a challenge to Georgia as well as North Carolina, and we believe it will not go unheeded.

This public-spirited North Carolinian calls the roll of the states that have profited by scientific agriculture, and the cattle industry, notably Wisconsin and Minnesota, and including practically all the middle western states. He says the resources of North Carolina are even better than those of these states. He wants to see a great live stock and scientific agricultural practically built up there. "If we don't do it," he says, "Georgia will."

There is nothing irreconcilable between Georgia and North Carolina and every southern state building up a profitable home-supporting and exportable cattle industry, in connection with scientific agriculture. The demand is so great there is no danger any state will have a monopoly.

Experts time and again have testified that the section south of Mason and Dixon's line most honest furnish the nation with beef and mutton of the best food it takes training for that task and profit. The Constitution repeats: Georgia could not make a better investment than to invest a large sum in extending knowledge along these lines. It will come back a hundred fold.

But until the state has time to set machinery at work, private enterprise and public spirit must be found equal to the task. Where are the men in Georgia who will duplicate for this state what the North Carolinian quoted wants for his own state? The opportunity is there. The reward is certain. It is time for Georgia to get busy!

AN ERROR ABOUT DAVIS.

A Baltimore dispatch that recently went, the rounds of the press containing this misleading sentence:

"Joseph Milledge-foreman of the jury that acquitted Jefferson Davis of treason, died yesterday."

The statement is, of course, a historical error. Jefferson Davis was never convicted of treason, for the very good reason that he was not brought to trial for that offense. It is true he was held for some time under the charge, but the federal government did not press the charge. Ultimately, the former president of the confederacy was released.

The error is one that almost corrects itself, but it is as well to keep the record perfectly straight.

A writer in the New York Times says "the movie causes eye strain." Probably that's why regiments of Mexican generals don't shoot straight.

Several leading papers note improvement in their state legislatures, which strengthens the belief that the millennium is several million years nearer.

Says the Chicago Herald: "Russia has ordered a million horsemen from the Panslavic congress. Germany should retaliate by ordering a million rabbit feet from the south."

It is said that there are poets behind the guns, and they can't outshoot them.

With so many governments to choose from, Mexico is as hard to please as her generals would be without a revolution.

The opinion of the Zeppelin captains is that the English climate is beneath criticism.

The latest grog of the republicans is that the officers continue to go round and round them.

While in the upper regions what shouldn't forget its railing.

WIFE AND CHILDREN GET INMAN ESTATE

During Lifetime Prominent
Atlanta Gave Away Over
$1,000,000 to Charity and Educational Institutions.

His widow, Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, his two sons, Henry A. and Frank M. Inman, and his daughter, Mrs. John W. Cooper, of Philadelphia, are the beneficiaries named in the will of the late Samuel M. Inman, which was filed for probate in the office of Ordinary John R. Wilkinson yesterday morning.

The property disposed of by the will consists in the main of improved real estate in the Terminal district. The document was made March 15, 1903, and was witnessed by Henry D. Hynds, C. R. Howard, Jr., and W. A. Stewart. Mr. Inman and the two sons were named executors.

There are two codicils to the will, the last of which was made in 1908. The property was divided into two parts, one of which was to be held in trust for the benefit of the widow and children, and the other was to be given to charity and educational institutions.

The Inman residence at 552 Peachtree street and all personal property were bequeathed to Mrs. Inman. This was one of the most valuable real estate holdings in the city. The home is furnished with the latest appliances and art collections.

Mrs. Inman was also left a life estate in the improved business buildings at the corner of West Mitchell and Madison avenues. Upon the death of Mr. Inman the possession reverts to his three children, Mrs. Cooper, and the two sons.

The oldest son, Henry A. Inman, was donated a block of business estate fronting Forsyth and Nelson streets and Madison and Trinity avenues, now known as the Gate City hotel property. On the lot is a four-story building.

The youngest son, Frank M. Inman, the younger son, he left a block of improved business buildings on the western side of Forsyth street, between Mitchell and Nelson streets, likewise the business property on the northern side of Forsyth street, at the corner of Madison avenue.

Property and holdings not included in the will, it was stipulated, are to be divided equally between Mrs. Inman and the children. These unnamed possessions include such personal property, stocks and bonds.

John A. Hynds, nephew of the dead capitalist and for many years his personal legal adviser, gave out the following statement:

"Mr. Inman believed that it was better for a man to give to educational and charitable objects while he was alive and could see that the money was properly applied. He frequently remarked that he had often seen the results of this character's thought. That he lived up to his own ideas in this regard is evident from the fact that he gave away during his lifetime more than a million dollars. And he doubled every donation of any importance he ever made by giving himself along with his money, personally seeing that it was wisely applied, judiciously expended and safely invested. His will is a masterpiece of wisdom and foresight."

How You Can Buy a $100 Diamond Without Feeling the Outlay.

We require one-fifth cash on our diamonds. On a hundred-dollar stone the cash payment would be $20.00.

This leaves a balance of $80.00. Should you want to distribute the payments over ten months, we would add 6% simple interest ($2.20), making a total of $82.20. This amount would figure ten payments of $8.22 each.

This plan applies on stones worth more or less than $100.00, and you can arrange the payments for any number of months up to ten.

Fruit Exchange to Help Find Markets for Georgia Crops

Before the session of the executive committee of the Georgia Marketing association, assembled for the first time to secure markets for Georgia-grown products, V. R. Hunter, president of the Georgia Fruit exchange, stated that he felt almost commissioned to state that his exchange would find a market for all the fruit and other perishables raised by the farmers of the state. He proposed to find such a market outside the state for products of this class.

Mr. Hunter stated that he has already communicated with the executive committee of the exchange, and that this subject will be given careful consideration within the week. Those connected with the movement for direct exportation in Georgia state that this move on the part of the Georgia Fruit exchange will be one of vast importance in materializing their aims.
