

NO WAR DECLARED BUT WAR IS RAGING IN BALKAN STATES

Result of the Struggle Will Decide Whether Bulgaria Shall Be Predominant in Southeast Europe.

FIGHTING VERY HEAVY AND LOSSES APPALLING

Servians and Greeks Reported Victorious, But This Is Denied by Bulgaria—Roumania Is Mobilizing.

Saloniki, July 3.—King Constantine and his staff moved their headquarters to Kilkish this morning. It is reported that another great battle began today at Kilkish, about 5 miles northwest of Kilkish. The tenth Greek division has entered Guevgheli.

London, July 3.—The condition of affairs in the Balkan rupture is extraordinary. The twenty-four hours which the Bulgarian government accorded to Greece and Serbia to cease operations have expired. During the same period Bulgaria undertook to abstain from hostilities in order to give Russia time to intervene in favor of peace. But hostilities are being carried on by both sides, apparently with the fierceness characteristic of the Balkan soldiers, and no declaration of war has yet been made. The respective diplomatic representatives are still at their posts.

There is now only the faintest hope that Russia or the powers will be able to prevent the struggle which is to decide whether or not Bulgaria shall be predominant in the Balkan confederation. A new complication arose today in the decision of Roumania to mobilize her army. What role Roumania will play is quite unknown, but she is generally expected to follow her traditional policy of waiting on events, in readiness to take advantage whenever it may be obtained with the least risk and trouble. Roumania's mobilization causes uneasiness in Austria, where it is regarded as a defeat for Austrian diplomacy.

Little news has come to hand today of the military operations in Macedonia, and owing to the fact that Bulgaria, as in the former campaign, is very reticent concerning her military movements, it is difficult to report from the Servian and Greek side are clearly exaggerated. It is exceedingly difficult to form any estimate of the actual position of affairs. It is believed from the disposition of her troops that Bulgaria has carefully prepared a plan to place some of her forces between the Greeks and Servians and prevent their junction and it is reported that the Bulgarians are excavating a great flanking movement in the direction of Egri Palanka.

The Belgrade government issued no reports from the theater of war today, but according to the Daily Premier Pachitch to the Servian legation at London, the Servian losses in the first three days fighting were 6,000 killed and wounded. This included the great Serb hero, Colonel Rodia, who captured 2,000 prisoners and 200 guns from the Bulgarians, whose casualties exceeded the Servian. Sixty of the prisoners were of fliers.

That very heavy fighting occurred is confirmed by the arrival of 2,000 wounded at Belgrade. Official reports issued at Athens claim the capture of Guevgheli and Kilkish after a fighting and heavy losses. It is added that Bulgarian prisoners declare that the Bulgarians are preparing to attack Salonki.

Greek King Is Alive. The Salonki correspondent of the Daily Telegraph describes King Constantine of Greece as being displaying amazing rapidity in his military movements. The Greek second division, which left Salonki Tuesday afternoon, camped at night at Balda, 15 miles to the north, where the king arrived the next morning. He ordered a general advance of eight divisions and at dusk Wednesday the divisions and at dusk Wednesday were entrenched at the point of the bayonet. The correspondent adds:

"I believe that the battle of Kilkish will be immortalized as one of the finest examples of the offensive in the military history of the world. The Bulgarians made a great stand within three miles of Kilkish but the Greeks, 8,000 strong, delivered a terrific bayonet charge, taking the positions and causing immense losses."

GOVERNOR DEVISING PLAN TO PAY TEACHERS

First Problem Tackled by Him Is Raising Loan to Relieve Their Pressing Needs.

After the legislature adjourned for the week yesterday and the governor was given a breathing spell from the rush of callers that have occupied a large part of his time since his inauguration, that official got busy devising a plan to raise some money for the school teachers.

As there is no money in the state treasury, with which to pay these badly treated servants of the state, the funds needed to relieve their immediate necessities will in all probability have to be secured by a temporary loan. Just how to get this money and to get it on the best terms for the state is the first problem which the governor has set himself to solve.

The governor is not fully satisfied as to the extent of the authority given him in the amendment to the constitution adopted last year, increasing the amount of the temporary loan, that the chief executive may raise from $200,000 to $500,000, and he is looking carefully into the authorities before he takes action in the matter.

Another difficulty that he will have confronting him, after he has satisfied himself as to his authority to make the loan or has obtained authority from the legislature to make it, will be getting the money. Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Georgia School of Technology, has just returned from New York, and was in conference with the governor for some time Thursday.

Dr. Matheson reports that the money market of New York is tighter than it has been at any time since the panic of 1907. He says that it is almost an impossibility to borrow money in that market on any reasonable terms.

Now the governor would prefer to make the loan in Georgia. If the bankers here can furnish the state with the money needed, but it is more than likely that he will have to go to New York for it. Even there he may find it hard to get, and a more than ordinary rate of interest may be demanded.

It is a well-known fact that the problem of paying the teachers when their money is due is one of the most serious ones that the governor will have to handle. He not only hopes to secure the money as early as possible, but also to secure such legislation from the next general assembly as will end the delay in payment in coming years.

HOUSE MAY ACT NEXT WEEK

In this connection attention may be called to the joint resolution which was introduced in the house this week by Representatives Moye, of Johnson, and Moss, of Cobb, requesting the governor to borrow money as soon as possible to the extent of his constitutional authority in order that a payment may be made on the school fund. This resolution will probably be referred to the rules committee and action taken when the house meets again next week.

BANDIT IS KILLED; BROTHER WOUNDED

Officers Surprise Andrew and Randall Solomon, Wanted for Car Robberies in Coffee County.

Waycross, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—When they approached the home of Henry Marrier, half a mile from Kirkland, Andrew Solomon and Randall Solomon, wanted for car robberies, burglaries and assaults with intent to murder, were late today surprised by a posse of five Coffee county deputies. When he responded to the call of halt by bringing his shotgun up for action, Andrew Solomon was shot and killed, and Randall Solomon received three wounds from which it is feared he will die.

Randall stopped shooting before his brother and called to the officers not to shoot again. Andrew ran off twenty feet before he was brought down. Both men fired at the officers, who were concealed in a barn and a chicken house, but failed to hit any of them.

Officers Are Threatened

Although in a dying condition, Randall told members of the posse that if he lived through this affair he would certainly get some of them. His defiance rang out in spite of his weakness.

In the party that caught the Solomons were N. Kirkland, Jeff Kirkland, Early Shaw, Ike Furney and Charlie Stalls. There are two more members of the gang that officers want, men supposed to be named Smith and Register. They made no attempt to leave the swamp today, nor have they been seen by any of the people living around Kirkland.

It is said that the Solomons were going to Marrier's house to get him to join them on a fishing trip. Deputy Kirkland got from Randall Solomon a diamond ring taken by the gang when a drug store at Pearson was robbed. Keys of all kinds were also taken, indicating that the Solomons have been implicated in the numerous burglaries reported through this section.

Since last February Randall Solomon has been wanted for escaping from the Berrien county gang, where he was serving a fifteen-year sentence for arson.

Wanted for Assault

Andrew Solomon has been wanted for assault with intent to murder in Coffee county. His wife is in Waycross and has been making this city her home for some time. Up to a late hour tonight she had not been notified of the fate of her husband.

According to a statement made by Edgar Carver, the first member of the gang arrested, the Solomons were hired to do the shooting that wounded three men in a Kirkland store a month ago. Twenty-five dollars was the amount they were to be paid for the shooting, and Malcolm Tanner was the only man the Solomons were instructed to shoot. That the Solomons received only $5 of the amount promised was also a part of the statement.

CHARGED WITH MURDER HE COMMITS SUICIDE

G. H. Bailey Slashes Throat With Razor After Being Refused Bail.

Anniston, Ala., July 3.—As a climax to the preliminary trial of G. H. Bailey, a prominent merchant, charged with the murder of C. W. Saunders here about two weeks ago, the defendant committed suicide in the county jail tonight somewhere between 10 and 11 o'clock by cutting his throat.

It is thought that he cut himself with a safety razor blade, as some of the prisoners in the jail were found to be in possession of blades. However, nothing could be found in his cell or on the ground below his window with which he could have cut himself.

A relative of the deceased says that Bailey was worried this afternoon after the trial, when he stated to him that people swore to things he had never heard of; also that that the grueling he was put through by the prosecution had been very trying. His body was turned over to Coroner Murphy to be prepared for burial.

He leaves a wife and several children. He was related by marriage to Judge Pelham, of the court of appeals of Alabama.

BURLESON IS DEFIED BY POSTMASTER FISK

Frisco Official Says That He Can Only Be Removed by President Wilson.

San Francisco, July 3.—In reply to a demand, after a request from Postmaster General Burleson, Arthur G. Fisk again refused today to resign as postmaster of San Francisco. In answering a telegram from Burleson, he wired:

"I do not recognize the right of any one to remove me except the president of the United States."

Postmaster General Burleson's telegram to Postmaster Fisk was as follows: "Referring to your telegram 30th ultimo, your resignation is demanded and your removal will be effected for administrative reasons in the interest of better and more economical service at San Francisco."

Postmaster Fisk replied: "I cannot know what administrative reasons may have arisen that would lead you to overthrow the custom and courtesy of years in demanding the resignation of an official who has served as postmaster of this city for nearly ten years and who holds the commission of the president of the United States, entitling him to continue to hold the office for three years longer."

"In view of the correspondence on file at this office, I cannot understand your statement that the administrative reasons for my removal are to obtain better and more economical service. You have recently caused this office to be inspected by eastern postoffice inspectors and if this investigation has developed deficiency in my office and any valid reason for my removal it ought to be made public. I do not recognize the right of any one to remove me except the president of the United States. Notwithstanding my great respect for the office you hold, I must, in justice to myself, respectfully, but firmly, refuse to comply with your demand for my resignation."

Washington, July 3.—"If Mr. Fisk does not resign he will be removed." That was the reply made late today by Postmaster General Burleson to the refusal of Postmaster Arthur G. Fisk of San Francisco to relinquish his office. Mr. Burleson made it known to President Wilson and he was of one mind on the matter. He said that complaints of inefficiency of service in San Francisco had reached the department from many sources. Finally, former charges against Mr. Fisk were filed and it was decided to give the postmaster an opportunity to resign.

LIMPING GRAY MEN ONCE MORE CHARGE UP CEMETERY RIDGE

Handful of Veterans of Gen. Pickett's Division Re-Enact the Famous Dash That Made Them Immortal.

PRESIDENT WILSON MAKES SPEECH TODAY

Addresses Were Made Thursday by Several Governors and by Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall.

Gettysburg (Pa.) Battlefield, July 3. A handful of men in gray re-enacted today the charge of Pickett across the field of Gettysburg. Up the slope of Cemetery ridge, where death kept step with them in '63, 150 veterans of the Virginia regiments of that immortal brigade made their slow parade. Under the brow of the ridge in the Bloody Angle, where the Philadelphia brigade stood that day, was a handful in blue, scarcely larger, waiting to meet the onslaught of peace.

There were no flashing sabers, no belching guns; only eyes that dimmed fast and kindly faces behind the stone wall that marks the Angle. At the end, in place of wounds or prison or death, were handshakes, speeches and mingling cheers.

The veterans in gray marched for a quarter of a mile over the ground that they traversed during the charge. They came up the slope in column of fours, irregularly but responsive to the commands of Major W. W. Bentley, one of the few officers of either Pickett's or the Philadelphia brigades present.

Faded Confederate Flag.

Ahead of them marched a band, and well down the column was a faded confederate flag, its red field pierced with many holes, its cross bars dim and its shaft colored with the sweat of many a man who died that it might fly high in the last desperate effort to pierce the union line.

Its progress was slow and painful, for the ground in the field was high and its plowed surface was not easy for world-weary feet. Up to the very edge of the stone wall, covered now with tangled vines, shaded by trees and peaceful as a summer lane, they marched in the hot sun while the band played "Dixie." There they stood for half an hour while their comrades in blue peered across at them.

Finch Crossed in Amity.

As the men in gray formed in a long line facing the wall the stars and bars crossed in amity. The stars and stripes were unfurled and the crowd that came to watch burst into a cheer. Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Mississippi, made a long speech, and Major Bentley answered him on behalf of the south. The Union United States army battery, where General Armistead died.

One hundred Atlanta manufacturers gathered around the banquet board at the new Hotel Ansley last night.

Twenty three of the big manufacturers present subscribed for space in the permanent exhibit.

The amount thought necessary for such an exhibit—$22,000—will be raised in a short while.

President Moore of the chamber of commerce presided and in his address urged that every step possible be taken to make the permanent exhibit a success.

Brooks Moran, chairman of the committee on the permanent manufacturers exhibit, told of the work done elsewhere by permanent exhibits.

Holling H. Jones of the Atlanta Stove works said: The day of selling whole catalogues has passed.

PROPOSED IN ARNOLD BILL BY BROTHER LEGISLATORS

Two well-known Georgia brothers have introduced in the house of representatives a bill for providing for permanent registration along the line of the suggestion of Governor Slaton.

One Hon. R. J. Arnold is the representative from Henry county and the other Hon. R. J. Arnold is the representative from Oglethorpe. These are the only two brothers in the legislature.

The former Dr. Arnold went from Oglethorpe to Henry thirty years ago, after attending the University of Georgia. He became a prominent citizen.

Both of the Messrs. Arnold are very much impressed with the fact that the people of Georgia are put to unnecessary annoyance every year in the matter of registration.

The plan of the Arnold bill is to qualify under the present registration law of Georgia.

The celebration of the glorious fourth and the 137th birthday of the nation bids fair to be as quiet as any year in the history of the state.

Late last night Chief of Police James L. Beavers had issued no orders regarding the use of fireworks in the city limits to celebrate the fourth.

Besides innumerable private excursions to the county many organizations have made arrangements for all day picnics in the woods and a regular old-fashioned picnic time with basket tennis and games.

All city parks will be open today and will be the scene of many picnics. Piedmont park will be the favorite this afternoon when hundreds of fathers will take a dip in the lake.

Old Ponys will be crowded to the capacity of the grandstands and bleachers when Bill Smith's boys go after New Orleans this afternoon.

There will also be innumerable amateur baseball games about the city. The city hall and state capitol will be closed during the entire day.

The sheriff's office, clerk's office and solicitor's office are those which will not open at all. Others will be open for business during the earlier part of the day.

The criminal division of superior court adjourned on Wednesday but one or two branches of the civil division are expected to be running as usual.

The company recognizing that it is the girls' camp allows them to determine such details of administration.

Miss Kathryn C. Tatum is in charge of the arrangements for the camp. She is assisted by Mrs. Bettie Mitchell.

There will be eight tents on the grounds in Camp Wyanoke and it has been estimated that there will be forty girls in camp throughout the summer.

Though each girl will stay only for her vacation and the faces will be constantly changing so as to include all the city employees of the telephone company before the summer is over.

Those Popular Excursions to Warm Springs via A. B. & A., commence Sunday, May 25. Only $1 round trip.

ONLY ONE MAIL TODAY IN RESIDENCE SECTIONS

Observing national holiday hours the Atlanta postoffice will shut up shop at 12 o'clock today so that all employees may have a half day off.

There will be no mail deliveries carried during the morning hours in the business section of the city and the delivery in residential parts.

Throughout the morning hours the general delivery windows and the stamp sales windows will be closed.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS ARE FORBIDDEN TO DISCUSS ANY PHASE OF PENDING MILITARY LEGISLATION, ACCORDING TO ORDER FROM ADJUTANT GENERAL J. VAN HOUT NASH, WHO INSISTS THAT IT IS WRONG FOR THE MILITIA AS AN ORGANIZATION TO TAKE PART IN WHAT MIGHT BE CONSTRUED AS A POLITICAL CAMPAIGN.

Officers and members of the militia have been given to understand that the obedience of the orders will subject the offender to a court-martial.

There will be no mail deliveries carried during the morning hours in the business section of the city and the delivery in residential parts.

Throughout the morning hours the general delivery windows and the stamp sales windows will be closed.

The plan of the Arnold bill is to qualify under the present registration law of Georgia.

The celebration of the glorious fourth and the 137th birthday of the nation bids fair to be as quiet as any year in the history of the state.

Late last night Chief of Police James L. Beavers had issued no orders regarding the use of fireworks in the city limits to celebrate the fourth.

Besides innumerable private excursions to the county many organizations have made arrangements for all day picnics in the woods and a regular old-fashioned picnic time with basket tennis and games.

All city parks will be open today and will be the scene of many picnics. Piedmont park will be the favorite this afternoon when hundreds of fathers will take a dip in the lake.

Old Ponys will be crowded to the capacity of the grandstands and bleachers when Bill Smith's boys go after New Orleans this afternoon.

There will also be innumerable amateur baseball games about the city. The city hall and state capitol will be closed during the entire day.

The sheriff's office, clerk's office and solicitor's office are those which will not open at all. Others will be open for business during the earlier part of the day.

The criminal division of superior court adjourned on Wednesday but one or two branches of the civil division are expected to be running as usual.

The company recognizing that it is the girls' camp allows them to determine such details of administration.

Miss Kathryn C. Tatum is in charge of the arrangements for the camp. She is assisted by Mrs. Bettie Mitchell.

Letters to Chief Beavers Charge Laxity to Police

Two letters accusing the police department of alleged laxity in preventing burglaries and attempting to apprehend the robbers have been received by Chief Beavers. Each is from a prominent business firm, both of which have suffered recent burglaries.

The first was written by George Moore, of the firm of George Moore, confectionery dealers, located at 68-70-72 Central avenue. This establishment has been burglarized twice within the past month.

Entrance was gained each time through a large plateglass door panel. Less than three weeks ago robbers cut the glass with a diamond, lifting it out and entering through the opening. Wednesday night the panel was smashed. Considerable loot was stolen on each occasion.

Moore accuses the police of carelessness. The second letter is from the R. M. Grant real estate firm, and intimates that inasmuch as an alarming number of robberies are being committed daily, the police are failing to cope with the situation as capably as should be expected.

Moore's letter is as follows: "Atlanta, Ga., July 3. 'J. L. Beavers, Chief of Police—Dear Sir: I beg to call your attention to the recent robberies that have occurred at my place located on the corner of Central avenue and East Hunter streets."

"My store was broken into about three or four weeks ago, and again last night. The first time, entrance was gained by removing the entire glass and the next time the panel was broken out."

"I am located on one of the most public corners in Atlanta, and for some one to remove the entire glass door from my place on one occasion and on another to smash the glass, looks like carelessness on some one's part."

"Yours very respectfully, (Signed) GEORGE MOORE."

The Grant letter follows: "Chief James L. Beavers, Police Headquarters—Dear Sir: Someone broke into 20 East Baker street this week, stealing a large amount of plumbing fixtures out of the house."

"We would be glad if you would give this matter attention and use every effort to apprehend the parties who did this."

"It looks to us as though, with the great amount of this kind of work that is being done, that it could be traced to some source."

"Yours very truly, 'B. M. GRANT & CO., Per A. L. ADAMS."

Each of the two letters has been filed in the station sergeant's office. Thursday they were read to the three police officers, and the captains have been instructed to give the communications prompt attention.

The shooting happened in the yard of the Biggers residence, Kaincannon, who lives at 421 Central avenue, was visiting the injured lad. In displaying the toy revolver it was exploded in some manner. The wadding of a blank shell struck his companion in the right leg, inflicting an ugly wound.

The boy was carried in an ambulance to Grady hospital, where medical effort is being made to check gangrene poisoning. Policemen Milam and Cochran, who investigated the case, have been unable to locate the Kaincannon youth. He is about 15 years old.

He will probably be arrested if found. The style of pistol with which the Biggers child was wounded has already been declared by Recorder Broyles to be a weapon, and a case can be docketed against the boy for discharging firearms in the city limits.

JOY RIDES PROVIDED FOR ALL MACON KIDS

Bridges Smith Plans Novel Way of Giving Children Good Time on Fourth.

Macon, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—Tomorrow Macon will have her most unique celebration of the Fourth of July. Instead of the roar of cannon-crackers some of the "Peace on earth, good will to men" spirit of the Christmases will be adopted.

Every child in Macon, rich or poor, who has never enjoyed the experience of riding in an automobile, will for once in his or her life be taken for a spin along paved streets and country roads. There will be a joy ride such as has seldom been seen anywhere. There will be no formal parade, but the one hundred automobiles will be filled as rapidly as possible and whisked away with their loads of youngsters.

The idea was suggested by Bridges Smith, the most loved man in Macon, who has twice been mayor and is now city clerk. The Constitution recently described him as a man "who adds sweetness to politics."

The joy ride was simply Bridges' way of giving the Macon children a "safe and sane" Fourth, and Macon people think no better plan could possibly have been adopted. This is shown by the ready response of automobile owners.

Robinson Goes to Macon.

Macon, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—R. F. Robinson, formerly traveling freight agent of the Atlantic Coast Line railway, out of Atlanta, has been assigned to Macon and will be commercial agent for the same road out of this city. Offices will be opened up here before the end of the week.

W. H. Kinard who has served the Atlantic Coast Line railway and the Georgia railroad, jointly, as commercial agent, will now devote his entire attention to the latter road.

Puts Through Big Deal.

Macon, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—A deal involving a twenty-story office building at 48 Broadway, valued at $7,000,000, and a 50-acre tract of land in Florida, has just been put through by G. C. Hardeman, of Macon. His commission on the deal, it is said, will amount to a quarter of a million dollars.

The new 20-story building has just been erected, and the capitalists who own it have since been desirous of getting some land in Florida. The new owners will form an operating company and operate the building themselves.

DRINK AT PARKS DECLARED PURE BY COMMISSIONERS

That the ice cream and soft drinks served by Charles L. Chesebrough, manager of the refreshment stands in Grant and Piedmont parks, is clean and wholesome, were the statements made by Councilman S. S. Shepard and Commissioners M. B. Young, R. A. Burnett and M. P. Green, at the special meeting of the park board yesterday afternoon.

The board met at the request of Chesebrough for the purpose of making an investigation of the report that the refreshments served at the park were not clean.

Councilman Shepard, who is an ex-officio member of the board, and Commissioners Young, Burnett and Green made individual investigations. They each declared that the reports were unfounded and that the reports published in an afternoon paper were not correct and unfair.

President Cochran suggested that the health board be requested to look after the stands and make inspections. "I'll be pleased to have the board suggest anything that will aid me in making my places more attractive," Chesebrough said. "I have been injured in my business by the unfair reports, and want the board to make a thorough investigation."

The board adopted a resolution offered by Commissioner Young, which commends the quality of refreshments served at the parks, and which characterizes as unfair the published reports. Chesebrough appeared before the board with his attorney, James L. Key.

MYRICK AMONG LEADERS OF GEORGIA LEGISLATURE

Shelby Myrick, of Chatham, is one of the new representatives who will in all probability make his mark in this legislature. Though a new man, Mr. Myrick is so well known as a lawyer and is so highly thought of by the speaker of the house that he has been chosen for the chairmanship of one of the most important committees, namely, constitutional amendments.

Head of his committee this year as well as last, he is a member of the ways and means and general judiciary No. 1. The fact that he is not in any way connected with the new county movements, together with his known judicial temperament, had great weight with the speaker in making him chairman of constitutional amendments. He is also a man to expedite business and that will be one of the most important requirements for the many matters of unusual importance that will come before it.

Favors Tax Revision. Myrick has strong views on tax revision. So urgent does he regard legislation on this line this summer that he has prepared a tax reform bill of his own which he will introduce at an early date. He believes that the more phases of the question that are presented in the bills with which the ways and means committee has to deal, the greater the probability that will be adopted.

MELODIES OF OLD SOUTH ARE HEARD AT NEGRO FESTIVAL

The opening program, which was rendered last night, consisted of an elaborate and entertaining pageant, or tableau, showing the progress of the negro race since the days of African paganism to the present day. Each stage of progress was represented by a scene typical of the period. The members of the association participating in the program were dressed in the costumes of the period.

The feature of Thursday evening was the singing of Anita Paul Brown, of Chicago, soprano soloist. She has a voice of remarkable strength and beauty. In her rendition of the "Swanee River" she proved herself an artist. Many white people were present. The festival will extend through Friday night, with matinee and night performances.

GAINEVILLE LINEMAN IS FATALLY SHOCKED

Gainesville, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—James West, an employee of the Georgia Power and Light company, while working upon the steel awning in front of the Gainesville office of that corporation, was fatally shocked this morning. He was engaged in shaving off the insulation of a wire which came in contact with another high current wire. He cried out once and then dropped back on to the awning.

He was immediately taken down and carried into the office of the Georgia Power company, where the work of resuscitation was begun. Doctors were summoned and care immediately. The work of resuscitation continued from 9:20 a. m. until 12 o'clock, but it was useless. The shock had killed him instantly.

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO FREE NEWT LEE

Attorney Chappell Declares Belief That Lee Has No Knowledge of Guilty Parties.

An early effort is likely to be made to free Newt Lee, the negro night watchman who discovered the body of Mary Phagan, and who has since been held for suspected complicity in the crime. This is intimated in a statement issued by the negro's counsel, Bernard L. Chappell, who says he has arrived at the conclusion that his client knows absolutely nothing about the murder, except his grewsome discovery.

Lee was not indicted, although his name was submitted before the grand jury at the same time action was taken against Leo Frank. No amount of cross-examination can break his story in any respect, and he has told the same straightforward tale throughout imprisonment.

Attorney Chappell hinted that he would institute habeas corpus proceedings in the attempt to liberate the watchman.

When In Doubt Wear Blue. In one shade or another blue suits have been worn upwards of two thousand years, so there's really nothing new about the blue. But when you ask about the tailoring of these blue suits—the style, the quality—you have introduced a favorite theme, for we speak with knowledge, and we deal with experience on the subject of clothes and these points that make them fine. There's nothing more distinctive in the whole field of color than the blue suit, if the tailor is "on the job." On the contrary, the fabric throws into conspicuous relief any defect of inefficiency. PRIVATE BRANCH EXCHANGE WOULD SAVE CITY MONEY

Chief W. B. Cummings, of the fire department, and a representative of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, appeared before the electrical committee of council, yesterday afternoon, and unfolded a scheme for the installation of a private branch exchange in the fire department which will save several hundred dollars to the city. The scheme comprehends the installation of a board at fire headquarters which will serve the entire departments and some other branches of the city. The system will cut out many phones now in use in the department. The increased expense to the city will be $301.99, but the saving every year will amount to $38.91. While the committee considers the scheme favorably it decided to let the board of firemasters take up the proposal of the telephone company and report it to council.

WHERE WINDMILLS REIGN AND RURAL BANKS GROW

By Harvie Jordan. Lecurwarden, Holland, June 19.—(Special.) The larger part of Holland, agriculturally, is devoted to the operation of dairies, for butter and cheese, the growing of vegetables and fruits. Practically the whole country is from two to ten feet below sea level, hence great dykes have had to be built along the entire sea coast to keep the sea out, just as in ancient times great rack walls had to be built around the old cities to keep the invading barbarians and other enemies out. The inland country is also level and flat, with the exception of the sand dunes near the coast. When the rains fall, artificial methods have to be resorted to in order to get the surplus water off the cultivated fields and pastures. To do this the fields are cut up by small ditches running in parallel lines about two acres apart and crossing in squares about five acres square. Sea level canals have been constructed at higher levels which flow into the open sea.

At intervals of from a quarter to half a mile apart, large, old-fashioned wooden windmills have been erected for the purpose of pumping the rainwater out of the lower ditches up into the sea level canals and thereby sending the surplus water out to sea. But for this artificial method of sending the surplus rainfall the land would be constant water and the cultivation of the soil impossible. The building through the farms of these sea level canals, which are several feet higher than the land, makes Holland on a large scale almost what the city of Venice is on a small scale. The farmers use these canals for highways of travel in boats instead of the usual method of travel in wagons or on horseback. They haul their farm products to market in boats and haul out stable manure to be put on the land in the same way.

The Land of Windmills. Holland is known as the country of big wooden windmills, canals and wooden shoes. Hundreds of these enormous windmills can be seen every where. They haul their, the four long wind shields slowly turning, making a most picturesque and interesting sight. Vegetation is always green, and could not be otherwise under the conditions as rendered by the canals. The Friesian cow when fat will weigh 1,400 to 1,500 pounds, and they give from four to five gallons of rich milk daily. The best of these cows when fresh with milk cost from $160 to $175 each. In some of the dairies they are kept tied up in their clean stalls, and they are not allowed to graze or being allowed to leave the stall during the time. When the milk begins to fall they are sold for beef, bringing an average of $120 a head.

Co-operative Societies. During the past thirty or forty years farmers' co-operative buying and marketing societies have developed very rapidly and successfully in this country. The most successful societies are those representing dairies engaged in butter and cheese making and in the raising of poultry. The co-operative marketing of garden products is perhaps more highly developed in Holland than any other country. The individual grower does not market his produce, but is a member of the association of which he is a member. I visited one of these unique sales depots, near The Hague, last Thursday to witness its practical operation, and it would be a very interesting thing to see here would be advisable. The market I visited was a large open building constructed over and on both sides of a canal about twelve feet wide. On one side several long tiers of benches were erected, where the buyers sit.

On the other side, tables and chairs for the accountants, and the auctioneer stood beside a large automatic electric apparatus, consisting of a dial with figures around the circle from 1 to 100, very much like a clock in appearance. A long hand revolves around the dial pointing as it travels to the various numbers. A boat loaded with cucumbers, eggplants and carrots came along and stopped between the buyers on one side and the auctioneer on the other. The auctioneer called out the vegetables for sale (first or second class) and awaited a bid. The buyer signified his bid by holding a finger on an electric button to press when the finger on the dial reaches a certain figure which stops the indicating hand.

Long-time land mortgages of from thirty to forty years are made at 4 1/2 per cent annum with an additional 1/2 per cent premium annually for repaying the loan. We go to Amsterdam next Tuesday, after visiting some of the co-operative butter and cheese making dairies up here in Friesland. Next Wednesday we go to Berlin to see the full crop of Dutch apples, and to spend our Thursday of Germany, then to France, England and Ireland. We start back to New York July 18.

I Want to Be There, Too. Yes, I wish I was there, too, instead of being here. Where those "cool breezes blow" with you, Jennie, dear. Out there where the violets are kissed by the dew. Oh, Jennie, my dear, how I long to be with you. I want to hear the birds sing in the early morn. And I want to hear the rustling of the waving blades of corn. I want to draw water from the deep moss-covered well. I want to take a stroll with my little Sarah Nell. I want to get out early in the cool June morning air. And pluck a milk-white rose for my darling Jennie's hair. Oh, I'm getting so impatient to be where the violets sing. And listen to the birds sing at the close of sleepy day. I want to walk with Jennie in the cooling evening breeze. And I want to hear the humming of the drowsy honey bee. I want to hold your hand, dear, while we watch the milky way. And inhale the fragrant odors of the clover and the hay. I want to watch the sunbeams chase the softly flowing shadows. And I want to see the cattle grazing in the peaceful meadows. I want to see the bumping birds fly from flower to flower. Oh, I'm longing for the coming of that happy, happy hour. Jennie, dear, I know you're waiting for your sweetheart's coming. And long before you see him you will hear the wheels a-crumbling. Until then keep sweet and happy, and don't get in a hurry. For there's no place in our heaven for discord nor for worry. JOHN R. BRAIN YOUTH. By George Matthew Adams. (Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) Some one has given to us the striking sentence: "To the young, Nature does nothing but give; from the old she does nothing but take away." Your Brain is the only Power in your entire body that may not age. Keep Your Brain in Your Brain. To your Brain your Will may say: "Life at its longest is but like the looking back and reviewing of a single day." For Youth never returns to your muscles and to your bones and to your arteries—but Youth trusts along with your Brain—if your Will says so. Keep Your Brain in Your Brain. William B. Glendon, past eighty, chopping down trees, translating the Classics anew, freeing the fields and solving mysteries—stands out as one of the most striking examples of those who have kept their Brains young as their bodies grew old. Keep Your Brain in Your Brain. It is interest that puts Youth into your Brain and drives away age. Just so long as you are interested in something you are doing, just so long will work grow upon you, strengthening your loyalty and enthusiasm and every ounce of your effort. Keep Youth alive in Your Brain. In Old Madrid. (From The Chicago Journal.) A story is being told of a couple of tourists in Spain who could not speak the language and, consequently, had some difficulty in making known their wants. One day they came to a wayside inn and tried to obtain some meat—roast beef, for choice. But nobody could understand them. "What are we to do?" asked one of them despairingly. "I know," said the other, a ray of hope appearing. "I'll draw a picture of a cow. Then they'll understand." He made a rough sketch of a cow, put a "T" beneath it, and banded it to the waiter, who instantly went off to execute their order. A few minutes later he returned with two ticks for a locust bull fight.

A Story of the Moment PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS.

By WALT MASON. The Famous Prose Poet. (Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) "Experience, my son, still teaches that he is doubly wise who lives beneath the elm and beeches, among the gnats and flies." remarked the wild man of the woods, with visible emotion. "Happiness is the end and aim of all human critics. Twenty centuries have taught us that happiness cannot be found in the busy haunts. Why, then, do men not repair to the sylvan solitudes?" "It is perhaps a wise provision of nature that they do not, when you come to think it over; for if all men did that, the sylvan solitudes would be converted into busy haunts and there would be no possibility of establishing a lodge in some vast wilderness. I never thought of that before. "It is true that the forest primeval has some minor drawbacks. The mosquitoes are numerous and should be punished for offensive partisanship. They cause me much travail of spirit at times and I am afraid I have used unadmirable language when trying to reach a bite between the shoulder-blades. There is nothing more trying than to make vain efforts to scratch a mosquito bite which has the itch of the itch. They are as irritating as annoying. Here in the woods we have the large greenish black flies. They weigh about a pound each when full grown, and when they bite you it is impossible to ignore the matter or treat it as a jest. "One of those flies seems to take a great deal of interest in my nose. Nearly every time I go to sleep it comes and performs a surgical operation on that organ. Not being well versed in anatomy, I can't say whether these bluebottle flies sting or bite, but in either case, the results are annoying. You see how my nose is swollen and inflamed. It looks more like a Chinese lantern than a nose, and if a temperance worker came into these woods I know he'd form a wrong estimate of my thirst. I took a nap under yonder stately sycamore this morning, and was roused by an intense pain in my nose. I realized at once that the fly had stung it again, and as I compounded a slippery elm poultice to allay the throbbing pain, I almost made up my mind to return to the busy haunts and have done with the woods. "But a moment's reflection persuaded me that such a course would be foolish. It is true that the town dweller can so arrange his house as to keep out the flies and mosquitoes and hornets, but does that bring him peace of mind? Does that contribute to his happiness? Not on your life, my son. The health cranks make his life a burden. The health cranks have yet extended their operations to the deep tangled wilderness, so a normal man cannot have some fun; but the man in the town, however he may guard himself, stalks abroad with a rusty scythe, looking for a chance to gather him in. If he goes to the well for a drink of water, the ubiquitous crank dashes the dipper from his hand, and tells him it's battle, murder and sudden death to drink water without boiling it. Well water is so thick with germs that you can cut it with a knife and pile it up like bricks. "The newspapers and magazines are shrieking at him all the time, telling him that a dead cat left in the alley over night means seven funerals in the neighborhood, and his whiskers are full of deadly microbes and should be sawed off, that the family cat carries bubonic plague and the mange from one house to another, that it is dangerous to carry a horse for such a condition that he can't take any thing but a high temperature and respiration, and if a hair falls, he thinks it a symptom of some deadly disease that will carry him off before he has time to kiss his grandmother and bid his aunt a last farewell. Who would care to live under such conditions? Better to be at rest with the rude forefathers of the hamlet.

Better, far better to dwell in the woods, and have the copulent blackbats ply their nefarious trade and ruin your Sunday nose."

THANKS FROM A TEACHER. Editor Constitution: Being one of the teachers of Georgia, I wish to thank you for the excellent work you have done in the interest of the teachers and the state along the line of securing prompt pay for the teachers. I agree with you that this can be done without embarrassment or inconvenience to the state if we but reconstruct our system of making tax returns, so that the returns will represent real and true values.

Right here I have an idea that I have not yet seen suggested. In order to attract people to the farm and to check the tendency to hold real estate in large boundaries, let's have a man to hold a home-land of say, thirty acres of farm land, free from taxation. The tax rate on any excess of this to be 1 mill up to sixty acres, 2 mills for any excess up to ninety acres, and so on, till the rate will be prohibitory. Such a scheme, with efficient means of levying and collecting the taxes, I think, would go a long way toward filling the empty tills of the state treasury and put an efficient check on the land sharks. About the State Road. Editor Constitution: I have read with some interest the suggestions of Governor Brown, in his last message, with reference to the future of the "state road," in which he referred to the doubling-up of some between Atlanta and Chattanooga. If the business of the road will warrant such expenditure it seems to me that it would be an excellent move for the state to thus improve its present route and reap the reward through increased rental. I am not in possession of any statistics, hence am not in position to discuss other phases of the question, but think that would be the first point which should be considered. B. E. YOUMANS. Mines in the United States. (Engineering and Mining Journal.) How many mines are there in the United States? This is a question that often is asked us. As nearly as we can determine there are about 6,000 coal mines. Of metal mines there are about 8,000 producing and developing. With respect to the metallurgical works we can speak more accurately. There are twenty-eight lead smelting works, twenty-eight zinc and six iron. There are 124 open-hearth steel works, 124 Bessemer works. Thus there is a total of 613 metallurgical works of the classes herein enumerated.

JUST FROM GEORGIA

A Song of "Old Glory." "Old Glory" is up there, and waving as free As the light that is falling on you and on me; The emblem of freedom, which was and shall be— Oh, the stars shine their best on "Old Glory!"

Dr. J. C. Williams' 4th JULY NOTES.

When you start in to celebrate Freedom don't preach from a keg of dynamite, or you might raise higher the flag flies. While you needn't make a Sunday of it, Fourth still would never know what a day it is if you celebrate it lak you had des broke out of a lunatic asylum. Do Georgy melon is so juicy, an' so fillin', do no man kin feast on it on de Fourth o' July an' snap his fingers at de meat trust.

Still the Packer's Mighty Law. In these here times of toiling—the way high prices go, With all the bills from Billville our pocket's mighty low! In the valleys of the dreamers, on the summits of the hills, We want to hear the rustle of the crisp Ten Dollar bills!

This is No Fable. The Sedgewick Pantagruff doesn't know the authorship of this fable, but commends the moral it points to: "A man who never amounted to much once got a job running the engine of a sawmill. He was greatly impressed with the importance of his position, and wanted everyone to know that he was the man who made all the wheels go round. The first morning he steamed up the engine he jerked the whistle wide open and made the welkin ring for miles around, saying to himself as the echoes bounced over the hills 'I am certainly the big noise in this part of the country.' Just then the foreman started the force on a big day's work and discovered that there was not enough steam left to start the machinery. He of the big noise was promptly canned and the job was given to a hobo. Moral: You can't saw wood if you use all the steam blowing your whistle."

In Summer Days. This is a picture of a summer paradise, as painted by the poet of the Baltimore Sun: "The musk of ripening peaches in the lane, And harvest apples golden through the trees; The shrill cicada knitting socks again, And honey dripping from the gold-legged bees; A truce of bare feet in the dust, and lo, The village lads on swimming ventures go."

Not Worried at All. "They say the sun's light is dying out?" "Gloey malleluta!" cried the optimistic one. "I've just taken stock in a big gas company!"

His Day. Just like the candidates of old— Even where the rabbits jump, The Fourth of July orator Holds down the ringing stump! And what "Old Glory" never knew, This day of days he tells to you!

Not an avalanche of bills at present, but give the legislature a chance to get up steam. A sane Fourth and a sane Christmas will do more than anything else to put the freetracker trust out of business. How that "War in the East" does love the front page! The present belligerent attitude of the Balkan allies follows naturally. The pie was tempting, and there wasn't enough of it to go round. The lobbyist is sitting on a barbed wire fence and trying to look pleasant. That currency question has been a thorn in the consumer's side ever since the rise in prices cried "Hands up!" to his last dollar. And some will make a sane Fourth of it by toiling at the same old tasks as if they didn't have time for a hurrah! Now for the bills from Billville, in the famous old province of Bill!

Balley, of The Houston Post, has his usual fling at the Georgia legislature, but his paragraphs are so bright that our confident home-statesmen forgive him.

Such a system would in the long run mean countless millions to Georgia in encouragement to development. Rome has also wrought splendidly in the matter of scout tours, along the line recently mentioned by The Constitution in connection with Athens. The chamber of commerce expects soon to receive from the printer 20,000 blue print auto guide maps and route retails from Cincinnati, Louisville, Bowling Green, Nashville, Chattanooga, Rome, Atlanta and Jacksonville. It is the plan of Director Daniel to mail these guides out to well-known tourists as an invitation to visit this section of the country. The possibilities for publicity in this idea for both Rome and the south generally are manifest. Rome also makes a strong bid for week-end auto tourists from Atlanta. The distance can be covered in three hours or less over fine highways. And the city is worth visiting. It has a manufacturers' exhibit hall, the only one to be found in any city of Rome's size; three rivers; swimming, boating and fishing and a fine country club, and is one of the very best cities of its size in the country.

CHICAGO WILL SHOW US. Governor Danne, of Illinois, has signed the bill extending partial suffrage to women. It is estimated that 1,600,000 women will come under the provisions of the law. We are inclined to think the estimate is excessive, but there's nothing in squabbling over figures in this case. The most significant point is that women are now to be given a chance to demonstrate their electoral fitness in the largest city that has yet given them this right. Upon how women meet the municipal and general citizenship problems in Chicago depends to a great extent the progress of the suffrage movement elsewhere. It is fair to assume that if the woman voter "makes good" in Chicago that similar movements will be hastened in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other large cities of the country and of the world. Chicago rises, therefore, to the importance of a great experimental center. Fortunately, the politics of the city is sufficiently complicated to offer a testing-ground for almost every problem incident to political life.

THE BALKAN MENACE. It is not merely bloodshed and tragedy that the Balkan eruption threatens. The chief stake in the squabbles now being fought out in the near east is the prosperity of almost all civilization. The more unthinking Americans may believe that war in the old world does not affect financial conditions on this side of the water. The belief is a comforting delusion. Our civilization has become so complicated that the remotest country is not immune to the effects of the actions of its near and far neighbors. That principle has already been demonstrated with regard to the war in the Balkan states. For many months Europe has been hoarding gold. You may say that is very commendable on the part of Europe. The trouble is that the process has made the old world slow up in her purchase of American securities and of all other American goods save those of absolute necessity. That is not all. In her anxiety to get hold of all the gold possible, Europe has raided our stores of the precious metal and our antiquated currency and banking laws offer no protection in the world against this operation. Right now, therefore, about the most considerable danger to American prophecy is the discouraging recurrence of hostilities in the Balkans. We will quickly adjust ourselves to new tariff conditions. The new currency law will afford much relief. But if the Balkans keep on warring long enough they may embroil all Europe in their quarrel. And that may affect us. For these reasons, not to mention humanitarian motives, America has much to gain in an early subsidence of the disturbance in the near east.

BULLY FOR JOSEPHUS. In the language of the street, you "must hand it to" Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels. He has invented a sort of antidote for the heat. And any man with that to his credit rises to the nth power of public beneficiaries at this time of the year. "When hot, think of cotton," murmured the secretary the other day. Now, to the fat citizen mopping his brow, that advice might seem provocative. But the secretary knew whereof he spoke. Cotton, he explained, is the one crop that keeps the financial balance on the right side of the American ledger. And cotton, he proceeded, grows and hardens so fast these hot days and nights that one inevitably compares it to the beanstalk of the Jack of our childhood. The secretary is right. Were it not for cotton every man, woman and child in America would get a financial jolt each year. It is the strong link that keeps the old world coming to our market with its gold. It is the salvation of the merchant and the anchor of the financier. That thought will not lower the mercenary mercury one notch. But it ought to make us a little more patient, as we contemplate what other magic the vertical rays of the sun are working.

ROME'S WORK FOR HIGHWAYS. The Rome Chamber of Commerce, largely upon the initiative of Louis Spencer Daniel, managing director, has entered upon a vigorous crusade to secure the enactment of a state highway law for Georgia. At a recent meeting resolutions were adopted outlining the known lack of uniformity in roadway construction in Georgia, and providing for a definite system. The "Rome plan" would put highway building in charge of a commission of experts, and inaugurate co-operation between county and state, but with the state's authority final. A valuable feature of the plan is the proviso that roads shall be built from county site to county site, converging in Atlanta and starting from every part of the state boundaries.

A HOLE IN THE SIEVE. Georgia's method of collecting taxes is like bailing out a boat with a sieve. Such a job is, of course, hopeless at best. When there is a hole in the sieve it simply becomes worse. In a recent editorial calling for tax reform The Macon Telegraph indicates this impressive-looking hole:

Grand juries have been known to direct county tax receivers to lower assessments so that state taxes might be evaded. And in virtually every county where such has occurred, the people get returned to them for schools and pensions more money than they pay into the state treasury. Thus a system of pernicious inequality has grown up because it is made the duty of no one to see that equality shall prevail.

We pass by any speculation as to the number of times this particular species of manipulation may have been practiced in Georgia. If it happened at one time and in one place, it is logical to believe it happened at other times and places. After all, that is not the point. The chief cause for alarm is that such conditions do exist and can easily multiply under the Georgia law. So far as any central authority is concerned, taxation is today a matter of local option in Georgia. The counties and individuals give what they please. Personal and real property is returned not at a scientifically estimated percentage of its market value, but at the whim of the holder. The tax receiver may or may not know that the taxpayer is making ridiculously false returns. In any case, the tax receiver holds an elective office. He is not apt to antagonize his people. He must not be expected to display superhuman attributes.

This sieve-system of collecting revenue, together with the holes in the sieve, are responsible for disreputable practice of making teachers wait a year for pay, or shylock their pay for from 5 to 25 per cent. It is responsible for the pinching of each state institution. Uncorrected, it is going to get worse from year to year and widen the gap between expenditures and income. Sooner or later it may gravely impair the state's credit. Equalizing taxes will not increase the tax of the poor man or unjustly increase the tax of any other man. In the long run it will lower the tax rate of all. The present legislature is faced by the paramount duty of applying the remedy. No commission is needed for this job. The legislature should itself do the work.

There is considerable criticism of the money washed by the government laundry, still, any old bill looks good to a friend in need. The man who gives us the old, stereotyped hot weather advice is as frequent as rattlesnakes in July, and just about as popular.

BANKERS WARNED BY CARTER GLASS

He Says Some Are Unfairly Attacking Currency Bill. Measure Not Responsible for Fall U S 2s

Washington, July 3.—(Special)—Representative Carter Glass, chairman of the House Banking and Currency committee, today issued a vigorous statement in regard to the attacks on the currency bill. He said that the administration's bill was responsible for the fall of the 2 percent U S 2s bonds.

Representative Glass said that the currency bill had not done with the falling of the 2 percent U S 2s bonds. He said that the bill was particularly vigorous in referring to the attacks on the currency bill. He said that the bill was particularly vigorous in referring to the attacks on the currency bill.

FIGHTING FOR CONTROL OF BRINSON RAILROAD

President G M Brinson Has Differences With Syndicate Represented by Jas Imbrie

Savannah, Ga., July 3.—(Special)—A hard fight is on in Savannah for the control of a Georgia railroad. In the offices of the Brinson railroad here a conference was held today between the president and directors of the Brinson railroad and James Imbrie of New York who represents a syndicate that proposed to finance extensive additions to the road.

The debate on woman's suffrage in Georgia was held tonight and the teams picked represent the best of more than 75 inter school debates held during the last winter and spring on this subject.

HIGH SCHOOL CONTESTS BEGIN IN CLASSIC CITY

Competition in Piano Playing and Debate on Woman Suffrage Start Things Going.

Athens, Ga., July 3.—(Special)—From every district of the state there are from ten to fifteen high school girls and boys in Athens today for the annual state high school contests which begin with the piano contest for the $300 scholarship in Brenau Conservatory of Music. The contest was held today afternoon in the choral hall of the University of Georgia and the following young ladies entered.

First district Claudia Hood of Pembroke and Cautia Tammell of Metter second district Eunice Van Landingham of Cairo third, Lucille Pearce of Athens fourth, Lucille L. Chapman fifth, Robie Lowe of Lithonia sixth, (1) via Brown of Griffin eighth Ruth Lewis of Washington ninth Ruth Edwards of Toocoo tenth Ruth Hargrove eleventh Elizabeth Lawrence of Baxley, and Ernest Dasher of Valdosta will pass.

The other matter was the creation by special rule of a new enrollment committee. The great influx of bills has more than filled the hands of the committee on engrossment so that help was necessary.

When the house reconvenes next Monday it will find plenty of work on hand. The committees have already got their work well under way.

The house adjourned before 11 o'clock until next Monday morning. The majority of the representatives left immediately for their homes or to attend various barbecues and Fourth of July celebrations to be held about the state.

The following bills were introduced in the house. By Messrs. Stovall and Wall of Elbert and Mr. Thompson of Madison To fix the salaries of county treasurers at $200 per annum after January 1, 1915.

By Mr. Pharr of Gwinnett To provide for one registration for all elections.

By Mr. Wheatley of Sumter A resolution to allow the representatives of the counties of Wheeler and Beckley a seat upon the floor of the house.

SEATS, BUT NO VOTES, FOR NEW COUNTY MEN

Proposition to Put Them on the Same Plane as Territorial Delegates in Congress.

One of two matters of particular interest which came before the house Thursday indicates a further effort to give Beckley and Wheeler counties whose representatives Browning and McArthur were unseated Wednesday representation on the floor. This came in the form of a resolution proposed by Representative Wheatley of Sumter asking that the Beckley and Wheeler county men be allowed seats on the floor of the house and that they be consulted on local matters but be denied the privilege of voting.

The resolution which was referred to the committee on rules would put the two members from the new counties on the same plane as territorial delegates in the congress of the United States. It is hardly probable that the resolution will pass.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS DENIED SENATE HALL

Ladies Indignant at Solons' Refusal to Allow Use of the Chamber for Speeches

Woman suffrage struck a rocky road in the Georgia state senate Thursday morning when a resolution instigated by some workers for the cause was laid on the table by a vote of twenty to seven.

The resolution was introduced by Senator Hule of the thirty fifth district by request. The resolution asked that the use of the senate chamber be and the same is hereby granted to Mrs. S. E. Cunningham Mrs. William H. Felton Mrs. H. Augusta Howard and Mrs. J. J. Ansley Mrs. J. H. Sibley and several gentlemen (all citizens of Georgia) on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock July 8 and 9 for the purpose of delivering addresses on the Scope of the Elective Franchise.

Upon the reading of the measure Senator W. W. Stark of the thirty third district said I presume that these good ladies of Georgia desire to enlighten this body of senators upon the subject of woman suffrage.

So far as I am informed the senator is correct" stated President Anderson.

In that case" replied the senator from the thirty third. I make the motion that the resolution be indefinitely tabled.

Upon the motion to table division was called and the vote stood twenty to seven to table the resolution.

No Sympathy With Cause. It happened that Mrs. Mary L. McLondon and Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall the president and secretary respectively of the Georgia Women's Suffrage association were on the floor at the time and they privately called the anti woman suffrage senator to account for his action.

Why did you make that motion to table our resolution senator? asked Mrs. McLondon.

WOLF OF WALL ST. IS CLAIMED TO BE FORMER ATLANTAN

In the pictures of David Lamar known as the Wolf of Wall Street and the man who has admitted impersonating a number of influential men in an attempt to finance Wall street financiers Atlantans have recognized the man who came here in 1892 and promoted various schemes in the manner of a Get Rich Quick Wallingford until he finally landed in jail.

Lamar came here and rented a fashionable home and started out on a money getting scheme at once. He secured $99 from Sam Hall a well known Atlantian to establish a society paper but Mr. Hall never saw the paper and soon learned that he was never to see his money again.

Through a technicality Lamar escaped the clutches of the law and at once began to organize a street and advertising concern. From Dr. Joe Jacobs he secured $1,000. That scheme fell through but Lamar kept the money he had got. Years later Dr. Jacobs ran across the man in New York and got his money back.

Finally when his various schemes had lost the faith that he seemed able to inspire he left here and went to Mobile. There he posed as a New York capitalist.

GEORGE L. BELL, JR., IS ADMITTED TO PRACTICE OF LAW George L. Bell, Jr., son of Judge George L. Bell of the Fulton superior court was admitted to the practice of law yesterday. He graduated but a year ago from the Boys High school and has not yet reached his majority. He is probably the youngest member of the legal profession in Georgia.

He expects to attend the law school another year and in the meantime is in the office with his brother Charles Bell of the firm of B. H. Ellis where he expects to get familiar with the summer with the actual work of the profession.

Mr. Bell in company with several others was formally sworn in as a lawyer yesterday in the city hall by Deputy Clerk T. H. Jefferson Thursday morning. Others who took the oath were C. T. Brackett, J. S. Orr and Thomas A. Perry, Jr.

BOARD TO MAKE EFFORT TO GET AUTO FOR TURNER

Members of the board of electrical control are going to make a determined effort to get an automobile for the use of City Electrician R. C. Turner. At the meeting of the board Thursday afternoon the matter was again brought up by a resolution urging council to authorize the purchase. The finance committee turned down the request when it was last made for the reason that the city was pinched for money.

City Electrician Turner has found a way to get the money. The city is going to collect a rebate on the white way lighting which amounts to about $18 a light and it has been proposed that $50 be taken from the fund which will accrue in the department from that source. An additional $200 will be taken from another fund.

Special Order 131313 Puts Ban on Profanity In the Detective Bureau Detective Chief Lanford issued special order No. 131313 yesterday. It pertained to profanity in the detective bureau. Hereafter it declares no one attached to the department shall express himself in the language profane or obscene when in the presence of the reporters and besides it doesn't sound nice.

Other than that he would not commit himself.

WHIFFS

THE CRACKERS are again traveling at their true clip. The team must have just hit a natural slump that all good ball clubs grab every now and then.

THE MEMBERS of the Atlanta team have taken exception to Whiffs criticisms. They accuse this column of knocking. We deny the allegation flat footed.

OUR CRITICISMS were made in all fairness, hopefulness and optimism. Even when criticism we hoped for the better of the club in the league.

BUT WHY all this conflagration about nothing. It is just a difference of opinion after all. We thought we were right in criticizing and we still think so.

TO NAME the winners in the three important fights of the day is a task that Whiffs does not attempt.

JOHN DOBBS is peeved over the trade engineered by President Jones with the New Orleans club.

THE CRACKERS seem to have lost Pop Boy Smith. He went into the game Wednesday and allowed only one hit in four innings.

THE GUINS have been showing perceptible signs of slipping of late but one must give them the benefit of the doubt.

THE CRACKERS have a good ball club. The present slump has been the result of the loss of the pitcher.

TODAY is the busiest day of the year in the sporting calendar. It is possibly the only day.

Price Blanks the Pelicans; Bisland and Smith Hit Hard; Two Star Fielding Plays

By Dick Jemison. All Price pitched another one of his excellent games yesterday afternoon and the transferred game between the Pelicans and the Crackers was captured by the Crackers 7 to 0.

Price held the Pelicans to seven hits and kept them scattered throughout the fray. He was backed up by faultless and wide awake support by his teammates.

Walker whom the New Orleans papers have been touting as the Walter Johnson of the Southern league started out like a lion and wound up like a lamb.

Bisland had a good day with the bat. He hit two triples, being hard smashed and the timely variety. Both drove in runs.

In the third inning Welchone struck a hot grounder past the pitcher's box that looked like a hit but McDowell of the New Orleans second sacker dove at it.

Tommy Long contributed the other feature of the game when he pitched out against the signs in right field after Spencer's liner capturing it just as he hit the sign.

The Crackers scored first in the second inning when Smith worked Walker for a free strike. But Walker and county when Bisland drove out a three sacker to left.

In the fourth inning left off with a single went to third on a passed ball and talked the pitcher into a hit. Bisland hit to Williams who threw him to first.

The morning game will start at 10 o'clock. The Crackers will have Chapman behind the bat. Brenton and Adams will probably be the opposing batters.

Box Score for Atlanta vs New Orleans. Atlanta 7, New Orleans 0. Total runs 7, hits 10, errors 0.

COMISKEY BACKS DOWN ON LOCALS

Recalls Proposition for "Pop Boy" Smith—The Former Baron's Work Wednesday the Cause

Charles Comiskey The Old Roman owner of the Chicago White Sox has backed down on his proposition to the Crackers and the locals may not get Clarence Pop Boy Smith after all.

Comiskey offered Smith to the Crackers for $2,000 under optional agreement. This was in a night letter Tuesday night.

Smith pitched the last four innings of the game against the Detroit Tigers on Wednesday and held that hard hitting crowd to one hit.

Comiskey does not let the Crackers have Smith that he will send another hurler down here this request having been made of him by the local club.

McNeil and Richards Will Handicap the Other Riders At Motordrome Tonight

Just by way of showing that they are real riders Jack McNeil and Tex Richards have agreed to make handicap affairs out of the Bobby Whitcomb sweepstakes and the motordrome purse tonight.

McNeil and Richards will start a quarter of a lap in the preliminary heats and a half lap back in the final heats. To win the races they will have to pick up this handicap and overhaul the men who get away ahead.

Of course this does not stand if Morley Graves gets his machine running right. He has a tremendous new machine and he is turning it up today. If he gets it going at his best Richards and McNeil will not have time to think of any handicaps.

Thursday for Georgia
Title

By Hal Reynolds
In the play off of the match in the final round yesterday afternoon at the Driving club for the doubles championship of the state Grant and Thornton won the title in a straight set 6 4 11 3 7 5.
Play began with Grant and Thornton having the advantage in the first set, they having captured the first set 6 4 and the score being 4 all in the second when rain broke it up last Saturday week.
Grant and Thornton quickly won the first game played yesterday, making the score 8 7 in their favor but Smith and Mansfield put over several pretty shots in succession winning the game and making it deuce.

Yet Play Lead
Both teams used net play whenever it was possible although the serving side always reaches the net first the server usually handing out a high serve in order to have time to reach the net.

For the first five games of the match the server won his game each time until the sixth when Smith lost his Grant and Thornton winning the game and thereby the set.

Smith and Mansfield were put on the defensive from the very beginning Grant and Thornton capturing the first game and always the first one after the score was deuce.

In the third set after Grant and Thornton had Smith and Mansfield 3 1 the latter won the 21th game and with the score fifth forty against them in the sixth set up and finally won out, trying the score 3 all.

Losers Led Once
The only time that Smith and Mansfield led in games during the afternoon was in the third set when they had their opponents 4 but Grant and Thornton came strong in the next game with their net work and cross court shots winning the game and also the next two which gave them the game 7 5 and also the match.

Grant and Thornton were playing on numerous occasions when he returned the hard shot which his opponents directed at him Grant and Thornton played him almost entirely throughout the match.

In the final in the mixed doubles Miss Stanton and Thornton won by default from Miss Muse and Carter as Carter is playing in the tournament now going on at Augusta and was out of town.

$1,983,564,757 LOST ON FOUR COTTON CROPS

Agricultural Department Furnishes Some Startling Figures for Southern Farmers.

Washington July 3—The enormous sum of $1,983,564,757 represents the hypothetical money loss through damage from various causes to the cotton crops of 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1912 in the United States the department of agriculture bureau of statistics has figured out. No less than 16,994,759 pounds of lint loss is the aggregate of lint damage to the four crops. The causes and extent of this damage to cotton forms an interesting feature of a report just issued. Climatic conditions formed the principal element of loss.

Damage to the 1912 crop amounted to $168,349,251 or 3,765,157,000 pounds of lint cotton. The total damage from climatic conditions was $287,200,000 of which $115,300,000 was due to deficient moisture $112,100,000 to excess moisture and $7,000,000 to heat of hot winds.
Other causes and extent of damage were Plant diseases $62,900,000; insect damage $31,900,000; animal damage $909,000; defective seed $4,600,000 and other damages from unknown causes $12,400,000.
A feature of the report is the decreasing extent of damage from insects indicating the success of the fight against the boll weevil. Last year the damage from insects was $4,600,000 and in the four years the extent in 1911 being $39,900,000 in 1910 it was $90,100,000 and in 1909 $111,300,000.
Damage from excessive moisture last year was the principal cause of an increase in the extent of loss over 1911 when the total damage was $409,470,000. In 1910 it was $523,893,936 and in 1909 it was $590,861,517. Deficient moisture was the principal cause of loss in the latter three years.

HEWELL MURDER CASE IS STILL A MYSTERY

Dublin Ga July 3—(Special)—The investigation of the Hewell murder mystery which has puzzled the officers of this county for the past ten days is still going on. Two detectives have been employed to aid in the search for the perpetrators of the deed but no information as to what progress has been made has been given out by anyone. There is a desire on the part of all the officers to keep the investigation as quiet as possible and as a consequence none of them are doing any talking.

"MOVIES" MAY RESTORE GIRL TO HER MOTHER

San Francisco, July 3—The "movies" may be instrumental in restoring Olga Ellis, 5 years old, to the mother from whom she was taken in Revere, Mass., and brought to California.

For six months the police of Boston have sought John Ellis, of Revere, who is said to have left that city with his daughter after the court had awarded her to the care of her mother, Mrs. Harriet C. Ellis.
A school teacher of Berkeley Cal became interested in the case and gave a picture of the child and the mother's address to a moving picture agency, which showed it in California cities.
Mrs. Myrtle Palmer, housekeeper in a hotel here saw the mother's appeal at a moving picture theater recently and recognized the little girl as one who had stayed at the hotel with her father for several weeks. He had registered here she said as D. Delleic and had gone to Eureka Cal.
Mrs. Palmer notified the police and search for the man and child has been instituted in Eureka.

The tables were on the side porch and the rear porch looking toward the lake and each table had as a centerpiece a crystal vase filled with blooming flowers.

The menu served was delicious, including the dishes most relished in summer, and there was music during dinner.

Jessie Wilson "Thirteenth" Girl To Become White House Bride

Washington, July 3.—President Wilson's declaration that the generally supposed hoo-doo "13" was his lucky number, and always had been, was recalled by society today in connection with the announcement of the engagement of Miss Jessie Wilson, second daughter of the president and Mrs. Wilson, to Francis B. Sayre, of Lancaster, Pa. The influence of the President's lucky "13" is believed, extends to the entire Wilson family. For Miss Wilson, engaged in 1913 and to become a matron in 1918, will be the "thirteenth" white house bride.

The first wedding in the white house during the Madison administration, when in 1811 Miss Lucy Payne Washington became the wife of Todd, of Kentucky. Miss Washington was a sister of Mrs. Madison, and in the following year Mrs. Madison gave up the white house for the wedding of a cousin, Miss Anna Todd.

Weddings followed after that in the Monroe and Adams administrations until President Jackson set the records for nuptials performed under official auspices. During his regime three weddings were solemnized. The last wedding was that of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, in 1908.

The only president of the United States to marry in the white house was President Cleveland, who married Miss Frances Folsom there in 1886. The total to date is twelve. Miss Wilson's wedding will be the thirteenth.

But Rallies in Last Half Hour
Wiped Out Some of the Loss.

New York July 3—The cotton market broke following the publication of the government crop report today but offerings did not become general and slight rallies occurred in the last half hour with the close steady at a net decline of 9 to 12 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 2 points on continuing reports of a better spot demand in Liverpool and steady cables. Realizing the advance at about the opening figures and that the market on the whole was to be expected to be in the middle of the morning. There was a moderate Liverpool selling of near months while New Orleans and Memphis showed moderate sellers on new crop positions but there was continued nervousness as to the showing of the official crop statement and prices rallied toward midday on renewed covering.

Just before the report was issued, a few months were 2 to 3 points above the closing figures of last night but the closing of 81.8 proved a little higher than expected and the market immediately weakened. After showing a net loss of 13 to 15 points it rallied on reports from the lowest but soon eased off again under pressure which seemed to come chiefly from commission houses. Covering seemed chiefly responsible for the late rally and was probably the main factor in the recovery of the boll. As all the American markets were remain closed until next Monday morning. The government's estimate of acreage indicating an increase of 20 per cent over last year fell somewhat below the statement as a whole was made the basis for widely varying deductions as to possible output.

WHEAT LOST NEARLY ALL GAIN LATE IN DAY

Rumors of Large Export Business Could Not Be Verified—Corn Higher.

Chicago July 3—Persistent rumors that a large amount of export business had been done gave the bulls control of the wheat market today, but the resulting gain largely disappeared when diligent inquiry failed to show that the stories had much basis.

Bullish cables tended to make plausible the belief that export trade in wheat was in progress on a liberal scale. Less favorable crop advices came from both Russia and France and there was an uneasy feeling in regard to Balkan war developments.

Corn scored a fair advance because of predictions of a lighter movement from the interior and on account of a pinch bug damage in Kansas and Illinois. A rather active market disposition to curtail risks over the holidays acted later as an offset.

Oats followed the general course of other grain but kept inside narrow limits with trade light. Holders of provisions took advantage of higher hog prices and realized profits in a vigorous manner. Eventual most of the advance of wheat and flour equaled 427,000 bushels. Primary receipts of wheat were 572,000 bushels compared with a holiday a year ago.

CAUCUS TO BIND ALL DEMOCRATS

No Senator to Be Allowed to Bolt Tariff Bill—Measure Is Completed and Ready to Be Launched in Senate.

Washington, July 3.—After three months of tinkering, democratic tariff revision at last is on the way ready for launching in the senate as the Underwood-Simmons bill. The democratic caucus of the senate late today finally approved the measure as revised by the finance committee majority and by its own action, and a final meeting of the caucus will be held Saturday, when the resolution to bind the senators to its support will be presented and adopted.

Rates Lower, Revenue More.

For the first time in history the bill as it comes through the senate revision machinery is a lower measure than passed the house, notwithstanding that the estimated revenues to be derived from the bill as it now framed are larger by about $5,000,000 than under the measure as it came from the house. The total estimated revenue under the Underwood-Simmons measure will be, including the income tax about $30,000,000. For the first year it will be $8,000,000 more than the revenue as set by the senate caucus which approved the amendment of the finance committee postponing effectiveness of the cut in sugar until March 1, 1914.

Tomorrow majority members of the finance committee will meet to check up on the final draft of the bill, and also to fix a date when all the schedules not specifically provided for shall be made effective.

The same of the caucus is that some time after the passage of the bill should be granted, and it is planned to fix October 1, 1913, as the date when the tariff revision should go into effect and a few other matters otherwise discussed, shall become operative. As to wool, a recommendation of the finance subcommittee will be made Saturday.

Notice was given tonight that the resolution binding the democrats to support the bill would be introduced Saturday, and every member was urged to be present. Senators from Kentucky and Missouri, and Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, will not be bound. No other defection from the party ranks is expected and even Senator Hitchcock is not going to oppose the bill. If all the democrats accept the terms of the binding resolution and administration leaders were assured tonight that they would, there would be a clear majority for the vote of two-thirds without the vote of the vice president.

The caucus resolution will pledge the members to support the bill as ratified, to introduce no amendments and to vote against any amendments offered by the republicans or by democrats who left the caucus. Another resolution which was adopted today directs the finance committee in order to expedite consideration of the bill, to suspend objection to all requests for bringing up anything in the senate except the tariff bill. It is proposed to cut off all long speeches in morning-hour business of the senate and keep the way clear for the measure until it has been passed. It also is proposed to hold sessions beginning at 11 o'clock as soon as the debate begins and later to begin at 10 o'clock every day.

Bill in Senate Next Week.

Senator Simmons will call a meeting of the full membership of the finance committee on Monday afternoon, and he plans to report the bill to the senate not later than Wednesday. Then it is the disposition of the democratic leaders to grant a few days' time for senators to prepare themselves for the debate which will begin in earnest not later than Monday, July 1. If plans of the leaders do not miscarry, the bill should be passed by the middle of August.

Some changes in the bill were made by the caucus today and it is expected that the caucus will bring up the bill against the recommendation of the finance committee, was upon reconsideration, reduced to the free list at 15 per cent and values of the pipes and other articles which were charged, were costing a thousand dollars or less being made dutiable at 15 per cent, and costing $1,000 or costing more than $1,000 45 per cent. Denatured alcohol and raw fur were put on the free list. The provision requiring manufacturers of sweet wines to pay the full revenue tax on the amount used in their production was approved by the caucus despite a final protest from California congressmen, but a provision proposed which would give them two years to pay the tax until the tariff revision is not expected to operate as a strong protective measure, and is aimed chiefly at Asiatic countries.

Five Children Burned.

Valencia, Pa., July 2.—Five children of W. H. Hays, a dairyman residing near here, were burned to death this morning. The children, Ethel, Howard, Mary, Willard and Robert Hays, were asleep in their home, when the father and mother had gone to a distant pasture field to milk. The house caught fire from an overheated stove, and before help could reach the little ones, who ranged in age from 9 months to 11 years, they were dead.

KNOCKS SUMNER SHERIFF FOR AMERICUS LYING

Grand Jury Adjourns Without Returning Single Indictment Against Any of Mobmen.

Americus, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—After having laboriously endeavored throughout four days to fix responsibility for the recent lynching of the negro, William Redding, upon the streets of Americus, the grand jury, convened in special session for this purpose, adjourned tonight without returning a single indictment against any of the mobmen.

The grand jury thoroughly examined 160 witnesses, including Sheriff Fuller, Deputy Sheriff Harvey and a general number of witnesses who had been called upon which to find an indictment.

The presentations returned tonight obtain evidence sufficient to return a verdict.

From the evidence before us, we are fully convinced that the sheriff and his deputies were very lax in fulfilling their duty in protecting their prisoner. Although the law is very clear that they could have summoned a posse to protect the jail, there was no evidence brought before us that they made any effort to do so, although numbers testified that they went to him and offered their services.

"While we deplore this horrible affair and have labored faithfully to obtain evidence sufficient to punish the guilty parties, we are forced to adjourn with no true bills against any one connected therewith. We have labored earnestly for four days in this matter, and are satisfied that if we had had the co-operation of the public at large in our deliberation, the result would have been different."

Lee Keen, Threatened With Lynching, Is Caught Near Dublin.

Dublin, Ga., July 3.—(Special.)—Lee Keen, a white man, was arrested near here this morning on the charge of attempting to assault an 8-year-old white girl in "his county in the town of Rockledge Tuesday night.

It is said that the child was seen with Keen about dusk in Keen's buggy, after a notice was heard by a lady in Rockledge that seemed to come from the barn in the rear of her home. She ran to the barn and Keen. It is said, jumped from the corn crib and ran off. The child was found inside the barn crying and was taken to her grandparents.

Keen made his escape and was not found until today in an old deserted barn a few miles from Dublin. He had been captured Tuesday night in the vicinity of Rockledge he would probably have been lynched, as the people of that town were much wrought up over the affair. Keen was lodged in jail by Deputy Sheriff Linder. Several citizens in the neighborhood were also under suspicion in the capture. He is under bond to appear in Montgomery court on the charge of being implicated in the killing of a man near Soperton a few weeks ago.
