

DRINKING HABITS OF T. ROOSEVELT UP FOR AN AIRING

Twelve Jurors Are Chosen to Decide Whether Colonel Is a Drunkard as Charged by Michigan Editor.

ROOSEVELT KEPT TAB ON CHOICE OF JURORS

Indications Are That Trial Will Be Long—Roosevelt Accompanied by Pinchot, Garfield, Loeb and Others.

Marquette, Mich., May 26.—A suit involving allegations of drunkenness on the part of a former president of the United States will be heard here beginning tomorrow by a jury composed of four miners, three teamsters, two farmers, one blacksmith, one locomotive fireman and one woodsman.

The plaintiff, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who is suing George A. Newett, an Ishpeming newspaper publisher, for $10,000 damages because of an editorial charging him with drunkenness, probably will be the first witness tomorrow.

The jury was completed at 11 o'clock tonight. As soon as the jury had been sworn Judge Richard C. Plannigan ordered the jurors kept in confinement until a verdict is rendered.

Colonel Roosevelt was present throughout the night session. The defendant, Newett, was not present. Many would-be spectators were turned away tonight.

Before the case was called the courtroom was half filled with spectators, including many women, mostly seated in the balconies.

Colonel Roosevelt, who arrived here early in the day, reached the courthouse shortly before the case was called.

Accompanying Colonel Roosevelt were Robert Bacon, former assistant secretary of state; Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy; Gifford Pinchot, James K. Garfield, Regis H. Foster, former governor of Michigan; Dr. Alexander Lambert, Jacob A. Riis, Dr. Hixey, former surgeon general of the navy; Lawrence Abbott, W. Emlen Roosevelt, and his son, Phillip; William Loeb, Jr.; Elison Gardner, Louis Curtis, O. K. Davis, Frank Tyree, John Callan O'Loughlin and James Sloan. All of these are witnesses.

Sloan and Tyree are secret service men who accompanied Colonel Roosevelt on many of his campaign tours.

The distinguished plaintiff entered the courtroom with rapid strides, and there was a craning of necks for a moment to see him, but there was no demonstration, and presently the spectators had eyes only for the venemous examined.

George A. Newett, the defendant, whose paper, the Iron Ore, of Ishpeming, Mich., alleged that Colonel Roosevelt "got drunk, and that not infrequently," sat at a table with his lawyers, William P. Belden, of Ishpeming, and Horace Andrews, of Cleveland. He appeared exhausted from his recent serious illness, and at the time with his eyes closed.

Roosevelt in Jocular Mood. The former president was one of a number occupying seats within the railing, and by his side during most of the afternoon sat Mr. Garfield, Myron Sherwood, a local lawyer and mine owner, a casual visitor at the trial, by chance occupied the seat on Colonel Roosevelt's left, but they found time to whisper a few words to

GENERAL PROBE BEGUN OF THE POSTAL SERVICE

Atlanta Office May Be Investigated—No Present Movement to Oust McKee.

By John Corrigan, Jr. Washington, May 26.—(Special.)—Postmaster General Burleson may order an investigation of the Atlanta postoffice in connection with the general inquiry he has put on foot to ascertain the cause for the present inefficiency postal service.

The outstanding reasons now given for mail deliveries is the great growth of the parcel post system and the operation of the 8-hour law for postal clerks and carriers. Back of all is the "economy" program of the Hitchcock administration and failure to provide for the extension of the service.

Daniel C. Roper, the first assistant postmaster general, when asked about the reported investigation said that inspectors had been sent to the large cities of the east where the congestion is greatest and the need of relief most pressing.

Atlanta's postoffice will be investigated, he said. He professed to have no information about any movement on foot to oust H. L. McKee, the present postmaster.

Overman Attacks Civil Service. President Taft's efficiency and economy commission was today quoted by Senator Overman, of North Carolina, in support of his claim that the civil service has not been impartially administered, but has been used as a cloak to protect political workers.

In a resolution which he offered and which the senate adopted, he asks the president to submit to the senate that part of the commission's report of March, 1912, dealing with the operation of the civil service. "That report shows that the law has been shamefully abused and that its administration has been rotten to the core," he declared.

While no objection was made to the resolution, republican senators vigorously oppose the attempt to upset the civil service organization.

Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, indicated that such a movement would be vigorously resisted. Senator Crawford, of South Dakota, in an interview, announced his hostility to the proposed raid on the merit system; Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut, also stated that the change would not be effected without a fight.

Alaska Marshalship for Georgia. Lewis T. Erwin, whose nomination to be United States marshal in Alaska has been favorably acted upon by the senate judiciary committee, is a native of Georgia. He was born and raised in Bartow county, and later moved to Tennessee and thence to Alaska.

Erwin's nomination has brought his matrimonial affairs into the light against him. While on his way to the Baltimore convention to work for Wilson's nomination he was arrested at Virginia, Wash., on a charge of bigamy, a court of full power to pay his divorced wife alimony. The case was compromised for $250.

It seemed he had paid more than the amount agreed upon, but made the court believe otherwise.

All these charges were investigated by the senate committee which recommended favorable action on his nomination.

Virginians Coming for Lee's Remains. Bones of "Light Horse Harry" to Be Taken From Georgia to Native State.

Roanoke, Va., May 25.—A committee of the Virginia legislature starts for Georgia today for the purpose of bringing to his native state the remains of General Robert E. Lee, better known as "Light Horse Harry Lee," the father of General Robert E. Lee.

General Lee died at Savannah on his return journey from Cuba, where he had been in command of his army. He was buried at Cumberland Island, near that city, and his grave has since been cared for by the Georgia chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The general assembly of 1891 appropriated the sum of $500 for the purpose of having his remains brought back to Virginia, but the war between the states prevented.

At the last session of the general assembly a committee of three was appointed to carry into effect the act of 1891.

The remains will be interred in the vault of the Lee family, in the Lee family burying place at the University, but without ceremonies, save an escort of cadet corps of the Virginia Military Institute and students of the Washington and Lee university.

SHRILL REBEL YELL ONCE MORE HEARD AT CHICKAMAUGA

Dwindling Legions of Lost Cause in Reunion on Scene of One of Their Bloodiest Victories.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 26.—Camp A. T. Stewart and the thousands of visitors in the city tonight eagerly awaited the formal opening tomorrow of the twenty-third annual United Confederate Veterans' reunion, which will continue for three days.

Interest on the eve of the first session centered in the weather, the election of a commander-in-chief and the contest for the next annual reunion city.

Threatening clouds hovered on the brow of Lookout mountain the greater part of the day. Despite the forecast for fair weather, a slight precipitation fell early in the afternoon and again tonight. This rain only wadded closer together the intertwining United States and confederate flags and bunting with which the city is abundantly adorned.

The showers also were beneficial in setting the dust, which had accumulated in the vicinity of Camp Stewart from the incessant marching of veterans to the tent city. Fair weather is predicted for tomorrow.

General Young to Be Re-Elected. While indications tonight were that there is a possibility of a contest over the election of a commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, it was generally believed that General Bennett H. Young, the present commander, would in all probability be re-elected.

General Young served during the war between the states under the command of General Alfred Forest, known throughout the country as the "Wizard of the Saddle." General Young was chosen at the last reunion, held in Macon, Ga.

Friends of General K. M. Van Zandt, of Fort Worth, Texas, commander of the Texas-Mississippi department, whose name has been mentioned as a possible successor to General Young, tonight announced that the Texas general had agreed to allow his name to be suggested as a candidate for the office.

General Van Zandt last year was General Young's closest contestant for the honor.

Delegations tonight entered the field for the 1914 United Confederate Veterans' reunion. Other cities in the contest include Nashville, Tenn.; Richmond, Va.; Baltimore, Md.; and San Antonio, Texas. A delegation from Denver, Colo., also is in the city endeavoring to secure either the 1914 or 1915 reunion for that city.

Activities at Camp A. P. Stewart late today assumed regular army proportions. At one time during the afternoon a complete rout of the sturdy veterans was witnessed. The cavalry, which had invincible infantrymen fled to cover with all the agility they could muster. The enemy was a sudden shower which came without warning, and ended soon after the soldiers had rushed well into the nearby tents.

The first "ractions" of the encampment were served in the "mess" tent tonight. This impromptu dining room had a capacity of 2,500 and was filled, though many veterans obtained food in the city. Steaming tins of coffee and abundant supplies of food were served to all.

After the evening meal, campfires were kindled. Seated around these on campfires, the veterans recounted most of the important battles and many minor engagements which occurred during the war between the states.

After the states, the veterans recounted most of the important battles and many minor engagements which occurred during the war between the states.

Women Who Straddle Saddle. "It is known that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mr. Roosevelt's oldest daughter, and Miss Helen Taft, eschewed the cross saddle entirely, and if President Wilson will persist in even an allusion to his daughters on this subject, they will be forced to straddle."

WILSON DRAGS TARIFF LOBBY INTO THE OPEN

President Issues a Statement Declaring That Agents of the Special Interests Are Thick in National Capital.

MONEY WITHOUT LIMIT BEING SPENT BY LOBBY

Effort Being Made to Create Sentiment Hostile to Tariff Revision—The Government Should Be Relieved of Lobby

Washington, May 26.—President Wilson uttered congressional circles today when an emphatic statement denouncing the "industrious" and "insidious" lobby in Washington attempting to create public sentiment against certain features of the Underwood tariff bill.

This was accepted at the capital as referring to the unusual efforts being made against free raw wool and free sugar.

While the president was declaring it his opinion that the public should be relieved "from the intolerable burden," senators and representatives were viewing on every hand the evidences of the lobbyists which beset them; and significance was attached to a statement made by Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, which now has the tariff bill in hand, that, in his opinion, the lobbyists were not making any headway.

To Regulate Lobbying. The president's declaration that the lobbyists were so thick "that one could throw a brick without hitting one," revived interest in two bills recently introduced in the house and senate to regulate lobbying on pending legislation.

Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, and Representative C. B. Smith, of New York, have declared their intention to press bills they have introduced which would restrict the work of lobbyists, require their registration and require that they be licensed to appear before any committee or to carry on a campaign for or against proposed legislation. BURNS AGENCY QUITS THE PHAGAN CASE; TOBIE LEAVES TODAY

Dan P. Lehon Holds Conference With Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey and Other Officials and Then Makes Announcement of Severance of Connection With Case.

FELDER TO CONTINUE PROBE, HE DECLARES; NO STATEMENT SOON

Washington, May 26.—The senate banking and currency committee began its investigation of what is the matter with the nation's currency system and how its defects should be remedied late today, when a list of questions to be sent to bankers and financial experts were approved and prepared for immediate distribution. There are thirty-two questions in the list, enough, the committee believed, after careful consideration, to delve thoroughly into the subject of currency reform.

With them to the financial experts will go a letter suggesting answers be given to such as seem worth while.

"These questions," the letter says, "are not to be understood as intimating what point of view will be taken by the committee, nor even by the member who has proposed any particular question."

Summary of the Questions. The questions summarized, follow: What are the essential defects of our banking and currency system? Enumerate its advantages and disadvantages and what purposes are to be attained by an improved system.

Should national banks continue to have bonded reserves currency and should present reserve requirements for such banks be changed? Should elastic currency be authorized, and if so, should it be limited, and to what amount; should it be notes of individual banks, or even by the association, a number of regional associations, or the treasury?

If such notes are from the treasury, should they be on pledge of security, and of what kind, and should they be a first lien of the government on the concern to which issued? Should all currency have a gold basis, and how should it be issued, and what per cent of reserve should be required? What should be the limit if notes are issued to or by an association, should it be based on capital stock and surplus?

What device should be used to retire such currency when demand subsides? Should a tax be laid on the currency graduated to conform with the volume issued by the reserve association or with the length of time outstanding? Should there be a central association with branches or reserve associations, with or without a central control, and if a number under such control, should it be wholly with representatives of the associations, wholly by the government, or by both?

Should such association be a geographical territory and exercise its reserve functions there exclusively, or should members of banks be permitted to choose which near association they should join, disregarding fixed territory? Should state banks or trust companies be stockholders in such association and under what conditions? Should any regional reserve associations should they be?

What should be the minimum capital stock, and what amount to each bank? How should directors of such association be elected and in what numbers, and on what terms of office? What should be the general nature of business of such association? Should it accept credits other than those of banks, pay interest on deposits; discount double-name commercial paper and other bills, or in actual terms of all and should its discount rate be public, subject to weekly change? Should it loan directly to member banks with or without collateral security, with interest equal for all the public and subject to weekly change, and should reserve associations be permitted to deal with each in purchase and sale of paper, exchange security and gold?

Should government deposits be withdrawn from banks and placed with such associations; how should they be apportioned, at what interest, and how soon could this be done? Should a national bank keep reserve with the association to which it belongs, except that in its vaults, or should it be allowed to use other associations; and if so, how much? Should a reserve association be required to maintain a reserve within its deposits? What amount? In gold only, or lawful money? Should the liability of each member bank be limited to its stock subscription, and if not, what should be its liability?

Should each association do business with banks other than members, and of what character? Should national banks be permitted upon payment of a commission, to loan their credit by accepting bills arising out of the ordinary courses of commerce and about reserve associations be permitted to deal in those acceptances in transactions with banks or other associations? Should there be a limit to such acceptances, and what limit? Should members should associations be permitted to pay their banks, and should any share of the profits of an association be distributed to member banks in proportion to the average deposit during the year? What is your opinion of the plan of the national monetary commission, and what modifications would you suggest, if any?

Senator Nelson, republican member of the senate committee on banking and currency, introduced today a bill proposing a system of "asset-secured" currency for national banks, under which the banks of the country could, if necessary, issue emergency currency to the total amount of $250,000,000. The bill would give banks

Economy--An Ever-Pertinent Theme.

There are various ways of exercising judicious economy, chiefly by going to such merchants whose prices afford you the most substantial savings, quality of merchandise considered.

The easiest way is to locate the best buying places through the advertising that these stores do.

Study The Constitution advertisements if you want to practice the kind of economy that will put real dollars in the family purse--not imaginary dollars.

As you see the paper at any time, but more particularly when you have some real immediate need. Look the advertisements through and you will be surprised to note how much you can save. It is a mighty good habit to form. And it is a good thing to encourage in your friends.

BOUGHT MOTORCYCLE AND RODE TO DEATH

Wilmington, N. C., May 25.—Speeding up a main street at Newbern, N. C., General Forest Lee, of the revenue cutter "Hancock," stationed there, was dethroned from a motorcycle. He was driving around a curve at a rate of sixty miles an hour, and instantly killed. Lee had just purchased the machine and was not familiar with its mechanism.

In Blazing Bi-Plane He Volplaned From Height of 1,200 Feet and Lives

Salisbury, England, May 25.—Volplaning from a height of 1,200 feet in a blazing biplane, the British aviator, Colwyn Pizey, and a passenger, H. Fellowes, reached the ground in safety this evening and stepped from the machine just as an explosion of the gasoline tank wrecked it. The aeroplane fell in easy flight over the outskirts of the town when suddenly the carburetor took fire. Breaking the inlet valve, the aviator shut off the gasoline and started a steep volplane. The rush of air fanned the flames, and to those who witnessed the incident, it seemed as though the men had but a slender chance for life. Tongues of fire swept under the passenger seat, and Fellowes drew himself up and clung to the stays while the aeroplane made its swift descent. Pizey held the wheel in firm grip, although the flames seared his hands, and succeeded in making a splendid landing. Just as the men sprang from the machine the gas tank blew up, but they practically escaped injury.

would not be greatly needed any longer. He praised us for the work we did in the short time we were on the case, and said we had developed new phases which would prove invaluable to his case.

Confidence in Felder.
The Burns agent also declared his belief in Colonel Felder's sincere and honest attitude in the Phagan case. He said the attorney had employed his agency only to apprehend the slayer, and that upon his arrival in Atlanta, he had been told by Felder that, from all appearances, Frank was guilty.

He stated, too, that he had never exerted a single effort toward investigating alleged corruption in the police or detective department, and that he had never anticipated doing so.

Colonel T. B. Felder, foremost figure in the bribery charges and counter charges of police corruption, would make no statement to reporters today. He would not comment himself on Lehon's statement that the Burns man had detached themselves from the Phagan investigation.

Mr. Felder says, however, that his individual investigation would continue as in the past, and that he had no intention whatever of ending his efforts. Not until he deems it reasonable, he declares, will he issue additional statements to the newspapers.

Lehon Reaches Atlanta.
Lehon came from New Orleans Monday in answer to instructions given. It is said, from his New York office, sending him to investigate the Atlanta situation. He immediately conferred with the solicitor general and others.

The indictment of Leo Frank has not served to lessen in the slightest the energy of the police headquarters detectives, the Pinkerton men and the solicitor general's staff. Chief Lanford and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, both say that they each unearthed evidence sufficient to convict the suspected superintendant. No new developments arose Monday.

Frank maintains his attitude of silence, refusing to see anyone besides his friends and relatives. A stranger greeting him in his cell at the Tower gets only a fleeting glimpse of the prisoner.

Bribery Attempts Denied.
Strong denial is made, however, of rumored bribery attempts to pay witnesses for the prosecution to leave the city. These denials are made by attorneys representing the suspect. Another denial of a published report was made Monday by Colonel Felder, who declared that the rumor of his elimination from the Phagan case was false to the core, and that his efforts would be just as vigorous with renewed vigor.

It was published that Mr. Felder is eliminated entirely from the case, and that, up until the time he had begun to "bombard" the public with statements of his belief of Frank's guilt, it was generally believed he was in the suspect's employ. Complete denial is made of this report.

The following unsigned statement has been personally submitted to The Constitution by a young girl employee of the National Pencil factory, who champions conditions in that plant and the character of their imprisoned superintendant:

"I wish to speak in behalf of our factory and the girls working there and would like for the public to know that we all thought just as much of little Mary Phagan as we possibly could, and are just as anxious to see the guilty punished as the rest of the public.

"Nothing was ever said about the girls of the National Pencil factory until after the terrible murder, but since then there has been one continual talk just as though we were to blame for the deed.

Good As Any Girls.
"If the public would only interest themselves enough to look into other factories and stores, they would soon find that the girls of the National Pencil factory are just as good as any other set of working girls in the city.

"Of course, it looks rather hard to the public for us to have to work in the building where one of our companions was so horribly murdered. But, even at that, we are all poor girls, trying to make an honest living and we try not to think of the gruesome tragedy that occurred here.

"We try to look on the bright side of this trouble, and hope that we will be all right once more. We all hope and pray that the guilty will be duly punished and the innocent given their freedom, for we all feel that our superintendant was not a soul to be trusted, much less commit such a horrible crime.

"Hoping the guilty man will soon be brought to justice, and that the public will soon be satisfied, I am, as a girl of the National Pencil factory."

Confers With Police.
C. C. Sears, superintendent of the Atlanta branch of the Burns Detective agency, conferred with Chief Beavers and Chief Lanford Monday afternoon, telling them of the severance of connection with the Phagan investigation, and notifying them that he would mail letters of explanation to the police department some time today.

According to Chief Lanford, Superintendent Sears gave as the reason for the Burns action the desire to get out of an unfortunate situation. To be said, would return immediately to Chicago to resume his duties as chief of the criminal department.

Regarding the Burns' agent, Chief Lanford said:

"To be, I believe, is straight and honest. He was victimized by Felder. The Burns man, I am convinced, was working toward the interest of those seeking to clear the mystery. He just happened the wrong boat, that was all—the old dog Tray, got mixed in the wrong company."

CHIEF JAMES L. BEAVERS' REPLY TO MAJOR WOODWARD.
"If Beavers and Lanford" permitted February, a trusted man, to go out and circulate lies about corruption in the police department in an attempt to get a statement to The Constitution late Monday afternoon. The mayor declared that February's part in the conspiracy has destroyed his usefulness with the department, and he is not fit to serve with honor in the city.

"In my opinion, and I believe every decent citizen of Atlanta will agree with me, February is not fit to serve in the department in any capacity," Mayor Woodward continued. "How can Beavers or Lanford, or the members of the police commission, place faith in him. He has dragged the department through filth of his own making. He has cast reflection, by his act on the Blue Uniforms."

Major Woodward scathingly denounced Chief Beavers' allegation that he (Woodward) urged the reopening of the Manhattan avenue district. He admitted telling Beavers that the district would be opened as a result of public demand for the interest of society, because of the scattered conditions.

He declared that he has never placed a straw in the way of Chief Beavers' vice crusade, and explained that whenever he called the chief in his office it was for the purpose of referring complaints to him—complaints of bad conditions in respectable neighborhoods.

Major Woodward said that on one occasion he referred to the chief a letter written by a respectable woman—the mother of little children—who complained that there was an immoral house near her home, and she wanted the police to protect her and her babies.

"This woman told me that she had written Chief Beavers about the house some ten days before she wrote me, and nothing was ever done," Mayor Woodward said. "All that I have ever heard of the complaint is that the house is quieted down."

Major Woodward says that the only time he has called Beavers to task was when he received complaints of women being insulted in the central portions of the city.

Protect Respectable Women.
"I told him of the conditions as reported to me, and urged him to clean up the central portions of the city so that respectable women might be safe."

As to the Eva Clark affair, Mayor Woodward said that the women came to him and explained that herself and her mother wanted to move into a house on the Grady hospital street—Armstrong street—and that he informed her that she had the right to live wherever she pleased, just so long as she conducted a moral house and lived within the law. He says that he laid the whole matter before Beavers just as the Clark women laid it before him.

Major Woodward further stated that the whole affair casts a dirty reflection on the heads of the police department and that the part they played in it branded them as being unfit to guard the lives and property of the people of Atlanta.

"Men who will allow their personal characters and their offices to be dragged through such a mess cannot hope to gain the respect and esteem of the people they serve," he said. "When February came to me and told me that Beavers and Lanford were protecting disorderly houses and blind tigers, I knew that it was either true or that he was lying."

Gave Him Benefit of Doubt.
"I decided, for the time being, to give him the benefit of the doubt. If I knew that that visit to the Williams house would be the last time I would see him I would have shown him up for the liar that he is. But in the interest of the public I decided to give him leeway. I did not expose him, because I did not want to do the police department an injustice."

"I think I have made my position clear to the people. I am just as anxious now as I was at that time to correct any evils in the city government."

FEBRUARY AND THE POLICE ARE ATTACKED BY MALOE.
Chief of Police James L. Beavers issued the following statement Monday morning:

"As for Colyar, I never heard of him until the thing came to me. He may be a crook. As far as I know, it seems that Mr. Felder has known him for a long time, but it is no uncommon thing for one crook to turn up another to the police, or turn up another to the public."

"When I heard of this deal that Mr. Felder was trying to make in the Phagan case, I told Chief Lanford to advise with Solicitor Dorse and get his advice in the matter. I do not want anything done that would not be perfectly legitimate."

"G. C. February, who is a trusted man in the detective department, was instructed to carry out the deal with the chief of police," Mr. Felder has been closely associated with Colyar for a long time and certainly should have known what manner of man he is.

"If he knew him to be a crook, why did he enter into a deal like this with him if he wanted to do the straight thing? I say that I never heard of this man Colyar, but I would have listened to any report or rumor about his being the guilty party in a case like that of the Phagan murder."

"It seems that Mr. Felder in his ramblings through the precincts to get election and understood to tell about the government of Scotland and the conditions in Ireland, as if that had anything to do with this case he's trying to distract attention from."

"What he has done and as far as his evidence he claims to have about my moral turpitude as chief of police or as a citizen, I defy him to show anything wrong. If he is a good citizen, which he claims to be, why did he not go to the police commission and lay the evidence before them?"

Would Be in South Carolina.
"Now, Mr. Felder knows well enough that if he had anything that would have been damaging against the police department he would have hurried to bring it to the proper authorities."

"What is what you are hired to do by a gang you are very close to."

"I would say that some one has been misled by Mr. Felder, or no doubt he would be in South Carolina today, where he belongs."

"I see that Mr. Woodward says he has nothing against me personally. Now I don't quite understand his connection with the Phagan affair, and he knew that G. C. February was a trusted employee of the police department and if February knew of crookedness or graft in the department he would have forced him to divulge it or seen that he was turned out of the department."

Would Have Been Guilty.
"If February had known anything of the kind and not made it known he would have been guilty."

"Mr. Woodward knows that in the frequent talks with me since he has been mayor there has hardly been a time that he did not bring up the question of the right district, and he gave me to understand in his first talk with me that these women should be allowed to go back to Manhattan avenue where they had previously pillaged their nefarious trade.

"No longer than last Saturday a week ago he asked me if I was willing for Eva Clark and her mother to move into a house on Armstrong street in front of the Grady hospital, where they had previously lived."

"I told him I would answer him as I did Alderman McClelland; that it was none of my business as long as the chief of police allowed that he should do what he would have to take the consequences."

"Mr. Woodward also told me the first of the year that if my vice policy continued the police department would be raking with graft like the New York department."

Graft on Outside.
"I told him that no graft had ever existed and I was satisfied there would never be any."

"I told him that from what I had heard someone outside the police department had been receiving money from the vice racket before he talked about the graft and extortion."

"I am ready and willing to compare my past record both as a citizen and as an official with Mr. Woodward as to which is in the right and which is in the wrong."

ENEMY SHOT DOWN BY "HUB" TALLEY.
Policeman Milam Attacked by Negro Gambler, Who Is Shot Trying to Escape.

While raiding a negro "skin game" at 67 Thurman street last night at 8 o'clock, Call Officer Milam had a narrow escape from death at the hands of a big negro named Chief McClelland. Milam, with his partner, Call Officer Wood, obtained entrance to the house, and just as Milam opened the door, the negro made a lunge at him with a long, sharp knife. Officer Wood, who was on the other side of the room, called to Milam to watch out. Milam knocked the negro back and the negro ran at him with the knife a second time, and the officer was compelled to shoot in self-defense. The bullet went through the negro's neck, and he ran for two blocks before he was finally caught. He was carried to the Grady hospital. Four other negroes were captured while attempting to escape.

This is the third time within two weeks and a half that an officer has been in danger in raiding a crap game. Several weeks ago Detective S. P. Webb was shot in the jaw while raiding a game near Alexander street. Sunday night a negro shot twice at Patrolman C. F. Preston on Auburn avenue when ordered to move on by the officer. Last night's affair makes the third time.

Officers say that the negroes of Atlanta have become exceedingly surly and unruly in the past few months, and are giving no end of trouble. They are being rounded in as fast as new violations are made.

Dr. Donaldson in City.
Rev. C. N. Donaldson, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, Charleston, S. C., arrived in the city Monday morning and delivered an address before the Baptist Ministers' conference at their morning session. Dr. Donaldson will be in Atlanta or Kirkwood until Saturday, when he returns to fill his pulpit in Charleston on Sunday. He is greatly pleased and encouraged in his new field of labor.

Workman Is Hurt.
Knocked unconscious with a hole out in his head by a falling iron, while working on the twelfth floor of Hotel Wincoff, L. Page, a laborer, was rushed to the Tabernacle infirmary in Patterson ambulance yesterday, and it was some time before he regained consciousness. Besides gashing his face in several places, the iron which had fallen from the fourteenth floor, out a three-inch hole in his head.

Never Able to Find Man.
The case dragged on till January of the case, and the police were never able to discover the man at whom Talley is said to have fired.

The solicitor explained that finally he ordered the case nolle prossed, when it appeared that the man's identity would never be disclosed. Talley paid the costs, amounting to $42.25, and was freed.

He soon began his usual offenses again and was held in the room for his court on charges of selling whiskey. When convicted he pleaded insanity, and on June 28 his father, W. M. Talley, took out a writ of lunacy against him.

Later he was adjudged insane and his brother, W. B. Talley, and two sisters signed the writ of lunacy and he went to the asylum.

After he was allowed to leave the asylum he again got into trouble with the police and was given a thirty-day sentence by Judge Broyles. In order to avoid going to jail he took out a writ of habeas corpus in superior court last October and was set out on bond. Later he was allowed to settle these cases, and Talley was not heard from in court circles until the shooting which took place Monday morning.

"What it runs back eight or ten years, and would take a day's work to run down," said Sergeant Bullard, Monday afternoon, when asked about Talley's police court record.

"We've had him down here for almost every conceivable offense," he continued, "and the docket is cluttered with charges against him."

HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN "SKIN GAME" RAID.

Policeman Milam Attacked by Negro Gambler, Who Is Shot Trying to Escape.

While raiding a negro "skin game" at 67 Thurman street last night at 8 o'clock, Call Officer Milam had a narrow escape from death at the hands of a big negro named Chief McClelland. Milam, with his partner, Call Officer Wood, obtained entrance to the house, and just as Milam opened the door, the negro made a lunge at him with a long, sharp knife. Officer Wood, who was on the other side of the room, called to Milam to watch out. Milam knocked the negro back and the negro ran at him with the knife a second time, and the officer was compelled to shoot in self-defense. The bullet went through the negro's neck, and he ran for two blocks before he was finally caught. He was carried to the Grady hospital. Four other negroes were captured while attempting to escape.

This is the third time within two weeks and a half that an officer has been in danger in raiding a crap game. Several weeks ago Detective S. P. Webb was shot in the jaw while raiding a game near Alexander street. Sunday night a negro shot twice at Patrolman C. F. Preston on Auburn avenue when ordered to move on by the officer. Last night's affair makes the third time.

Officers say that the negroes of Atlanta have become exceedingly surly and unruly in the past few months, and are giving no end of trouble. They are being rounded in as fast as new violations are made.

Never Able to Find Man.
The case dragged on till January of the case, and the police were never able to discover the man at whom Talley is said to have fired.

The solicitor explained that finally he ordered the case nolle prossed, when it appeared that the man's identity would never be disclosed. Talley paid the costs, amounting to $42.25, and was freed.

He soon began his usual offenses again and was held in the room for his court on charges of selling whiskey. When convicted he pleaded insanity, and on June 28 his father, W. M. Talley, took out a writ of lunacy against him.

Later he was adjudged insane and his brother, W. B. Talley, and two sisters signed the writ of lunacy and he went to the asylum.

After he was allowed to leave the asylum he again got into trouble with the police and was given a thirty-day sentence by Judge Broyles. In order to avoid going to jail he took out a writ of habeas corpus in superior court last October and was set out on bond. Later he was allowed to settle these cases, and Talley was not heard from in court circles until the shooting which took place Monday morning.

"What it runs back eight or ten years, and would take a day's work to run down," said Sergeant Bullard, Monday afternoon, when asked about Talley's police court record.

"We've had him down here for almost every conceivable offense," he continued, "and the docket is cluttered with charges against him."

PRESTON MAKES NEW RECORD TRYING CASES.

A new record for the city of Atlanta was established yesterday when Recorder Pro Tem W. H. Preston tried 47 cases, most of whom were foreigners, in the remarkably short time of one hour. The 47 composed the crowd in the Continental club at 51-2 South Broad street, which was raided Sunday night.

When Judge Preston saw the great crowd of defendants, witnesses and officers, he said:

"I guess that we will take these in batches of ten," which was done. George Foulis, who ran the establishment, was bound over to the criminal court in the sum of $5,000, charged with running a disorderly house, keeping it open on the Sabbath day, tipping and running a gambling house.

Artist Samples, George Taffas and Charlie Churolos were bound over for gambling in the sum of $200 apiece. The rest were freed.

When Judge Preston was told by one of the witnesses and defendants that gambling and open selling of liquor had been going on there on Sunday, he said:

"I'm surprised that the police had never gotten onto this place before. I shall instruct the chief to see that it is immediately closed."

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR TECH LUNCHEON

Committee Perfects Details of Part Commerce Chamber Will Take in Celebration.

Much enthusiasm for the quarter-century celebration of the Georgia School of Technology was manifested at a meeting of the committee on arrangements of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. There were present at the meeting Mel R. Wilkinson, Dr. K. G. Matheson, J. B. McCrary, W. L. Moore, Robert Gregg, A. B. Colcord, George M. Hope, David Woodward, J. S. Floyd, F. M. Inman, J. T. Holleman, H. M. Willet, W. P. Walthall, John W. Grant, E. C. Koutz, F. J. Paxson, W. G. Cooper and Samuel A. Carter.

A letter from V. H. Krieger, who was prevented from being present by illness, was read. He pledged the committee his hearty co-operation. Speeches were made by several of those present, giving the speakers' ideas as to the part the Chamber of Commerce should take in the celebration. It has been decided to have an afternoon luncheon on July 11. There will be entertained as guests of honor visiting alumni of the Tech, the faculty and trustees, delegates from other colleges and the mayor and council.

The following special committee to confer with Atlanta graduates of the institution and to secure their co-operation was selected: A. B. Colcord, Robert Gregg, J. B. McCrary and W. P. Walthall.

This Man Can Dislocate Every Part of His Body

Possibly the most curious of the many freaks of nature is shown in the person of Ellis Whitman, an ordinary looking young man, who reached Atlanta yesterday afternoon on a tour around the world. So loose are the ligaments which bind his anatomy together that he can dislocate practically every organ in his body.

The man can throw his head down into the lower portion of his body, apparently below his diaphragm, until his breathing is felt at his waist line. His hips and shoulders fall out of joint and flip back into position with the utmost ease.

Whitman states that he has been giving demonstrations before various medical societies, and will endeavor to demonstrate his ability before the Fulton County Medical society.

By his remarkable control of the muscles and ligaments of his body, Whitman can perform several "stunts" that would make the professional vaudeville entertainer pall before him. By simply placing a pen on his hip and throwing the joint out of place, he can flip the pen across the room as an arrow is shot from a bow.

Standing 18 inches away from an object he can throw his right shoulder out of socket until the arm is so elongated that his fingers reach out and touch the object.

"Every doctor who has seen me perform these dislocations has warned me against it," says Whitman. "but it is my way of earning a living and I intend to keep it up as I have done from the time I was 5 years old, and my mother noticed the looseness of my ligaments."

"The dislocations I give," he continued, "are those of the shoulder, sub-clavicular, sub-coracoid, sub-glenoid, sub-acromion, sub-spinous; of the hips, anterior, posterior, sciatic; of the spine, scoliosis, kyphosis, lateral curvature and lordosis."

Whitman, who gives his age as 34 years, states that he has been around the world in the course of his travels, and that he was used by Dr. Feinberg, a professor in Heidelberg university, in demonstrations to show his students the new methods of setting dislocated bones.

He bears with him letters from many physicians, telling of his having given demonstrations before them, and he has recently returned from a trip to Newfoundland. He expects to remain here for two days, and then visit Tennessee. He is now stopping at 10 South Broad street.

MEETING TONIGHT WILL BOOST GROCERS' PARADE

There will be a meeting at Tatt hall this evening at 8:15 o'clock of the retail grocers and commission men of Atlanta to perfect plans for the big parade which the retailers and their employees expect to pull off on June 4, to inaugurate the Wednesday half-holiday to be given during the months of June, July and August.

Interest in the half-holiday is growing daily, and there is no doubt that the parade will be one of the biggest seen in Atlanta. It is likely that there will be more than 100 automobiles in line. It was announced Monday that the meat packers would join in the celebration, and the commission men, with sixty-five autos. The Tip-Top bakery has also agreed to come in with a large quota of machines.

Among the speakers who will boost the movement along tonight are Harry Schlessinger, John McCullough and Olin Stamps.

EXPECTS BOLL WEEVIL INVASION IN AUGUST

Unless all signs fail, the boll weevil will begin operations in Georgia this summer, probably the latter part of July or the first of August. The first counties to be attacked will be Clay, Early, Miller and DeKalb. Such is the opinion of State Entomologist Lee Worsham, who discussed the situation yesterday.

"The weevil will reach that part of the state in ample time to do great damage," said Mr. Worsham, "and will probably destroy one-half to one-third of this season's crop. The advance into other parts of Georgia will be gradual, but in time the entire cotton belt will be infected."

Mr. Worsham said that the farmers of southwest Georgia had organized a fight against the weevil, and if they persevered they might keep down the damage materially. He believed that by planting a cotton that would mature early a good percentage of the crop might be made to mature before the pest began its attack.

JABBED WITH UMBRELLA. HE SUES FOR $2,500

Charging that W. M. Henry attacked him with an umbrella in the lobby of the Albion building, on Peachtree, and attempted to poke the pointed end of the rainstick into his eyes, O. Sutton brought a $2,500 damage suit against Henry yesterday in superior court.

The schedule outlining the injuries Sutton claims to have inflicted upon him is a long one, and asserts that Henry struck him first on the back of the neck and later struck him on and about the face, arms, shoulders, breast and divers other parts of his body, and then threw him into a corner and beat him up with his fists.

Sutton also declares that Henry jabbed the end of the umbrella into the back of his neck and brought the blood, and that he tried to put out his eyes by jabbing it into them. Sutton declares the attack was unprovoked, and says that in it Henry ruined his $50 suit of clothes. The petition was filed by Attorney Frank L. Neufville.

RETAIL HARDWARE MEN CONVENE TOMORROW

Preparations are well under way for the annual convention of the Georgia Retail Hardware Dealers' association at the Auditorium beginning tomorrow and continuing through Thursday and Friday. It is anticipated that there will be a good attendance of hardware dealers from all parts of the state. The officers of the retail hardware dealers are as follows: President, T. G. Greene, Eatonton; first vice president, J. R. Hall, Moultrie; second vice president, J. E. Sapp, Albany; secretary and treasurer, J. L. Moore, Madison.

CHIEFS OF WOODMEN REACH CITY TODAY

Joseph Cullen Root and John T. Yates Will Be Extensively Entertained.

Yates, sovereign secretary of the order, of Omaha, Neb., will arrive in Atlanta Tuesday noon and will be extensively entertained by the Atlanta Woodmen for two days. General Yates will be accompanied by his wife.

The party will be met at the Terminal station at noon by officials of local camps, officers of the uniform rank and members of the Georgia head of officials of the order, who will escort them to the Piedmont hotel. The visitors will be entertained at a reception in Cab's hall Tuesday night, given by J. C. Root camp, No. 80, assisted by other camps in the city and the state officials of the order and their wives. At this reception the distinguished officials will be welcomed in an address by Dr. F. L. Rosenthal, of Columbus, head camp, representing the 800 camps of Georgia. General Yates will be the principal speaker of the evening. Judge Roan and others will also speak.

HIT BY ATLANTA MAN ON MOTOR, CRIPPLE WILL DIE

Macon, Ga., May 26.—(Special).—Ed Green, of Monticello, a cripple, who was being wheeled across Mulberry street, at Spring street, this afternoon, was run down and probably fatally injured by W. J. Radcliff, a young man, who has been making Atlanta his home recently, when the latter lost control of his new motorcycle.

In attempting to stop his machine, it is thought Radcliff threw the valve open and the motorcycle, springing forward striking the wheel chair in which Green was riding directly in the center. The cripple was thrown out, four of his ribs broken, his right collarbone fractured, his skull fractured and his body badly cut and bruised. He will probably die.

Radcliff was arrested and held on the charge of violating the city ordinance, pending the outcome of Green's injury.

Green was here on a visit to his sister, Mrs. J. J. Clay, of North Highlands, and is well known to Macon people.

PRESIDENT SOULE BECOMES SOULE OF UNITED STATES

Athens, Ga., May 26.—(Special).—Dr. Andrew McNair Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture, took the oath of allegiance to Uncle Sam and gave up his citizenship to the King of England today in the federal court, which convened this morning, Judge W. F. Newman presiding.

He has been a resident of the United States for nearly twenty years, and is one of the country's most useful and prominent agricultural leaders, but through circumstances which changed his residence several times just when he was about to perfect the term of residence to become naturalized, he never till this year was in position to become an American citizen.

GRADUATING EXERCISES HELD AT STATE NORMAL

Athens, Ga., May 26.—(Special).—The commencement at the State Normal was concluded tonight in the graduating exercises, in which only a few of the seventy-nine members of the senior class took part.

The program was designed to indicate something of the work in several lines done by the class. Misses Ada Jane Nolan, Luiza Waters, Katherine Colley, Jessie Reed, Eunice Labor, Blanch Walters and Susie Tanner, with the Normal School Glee club, rendered several musical numbers, instrumental and vocal solos and chorus work; Miss Kathleen Knox read a paper on "Present Conditions in Georgia Country Schools," Miss Fox Mott a paper on "Social Phases of Education," "The Real Mission of the Country School," was the theme by Miss Eleanor Adams, and the delivery of diplomas and of certificates in the several departments by President Jerre M. Pound concluded the exercises.

This morning at 11:25 President S. C. Mitchell, of the University of South Carolina, Columbia, delivered the annual baccalaureate address.

FAIR AND WARMER IS PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Fair weather and a rising temperature is again predicted for today. The fact that a storm area is passing over Ohio and adjoining states may possibly cause some cloudiness according to Forecaster C. F. von Herrmann, but there should be no rain, and chances are that Atlanta will escape without the clouds.

Temperatures for Monday were back precisely to conditions at 9 o'clock in the morning the thermometer on top of the Empire building registered 66 degrees, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon which is the hour at which the highest temperature of the day is usually reached, the mercury rose to 76 degrees.

FIFTH DISTRICT SCHOOL CLOSING EXERCISES

Monroe, Ga., May 26.—(Special).—The commencement exercises of the Fifth District Agricultural and Mechanical school began Saturday evening. The Saturday evening entertainment consisted of a play, "Back to the Country Store," in three acts.

Sunday morning the commencement sermon was delivered by Dr. D. W. Key, pastor of the First Baptist church of Monroe.

Tonight another interesting program, consisting of plays, drills, etc., was rendered.

The graduating exercises occur Tuesday evening, when the baccalaureate address will be delivered by Professor D. L. Earnest, of the State Normal school at Athens.

The graduating class is composed of the following pupils: Jay Camp, Douglas county; Miss Jewel Cook, of Campbell county; Miss Mary Briscoe, of Walton county; Russell Cannon, of South Carolina; Harry Camp, of Walton county.

ONLY FEW GIRLS FALL BECAUSE OF LOW PAY

So Prof. Taylor, Social Service Worker, Tells Vice Probers.

Chicago, May 26.—Economic conditions or low wages are responsible for not more than 13 per cent of all cases of immorality among girls and women, in the opinion of Professor Graham Taylor, head of Chicago's common social settlement who was a witness today before the senate vice commission.

"This commission could do no more valuable work than to recommend the abolition of the bar permit to the public dance hall," said Professor Taylor.

F. C. Jones, president of the United States Broom and Brush company, which employs fifty-three women in its factory told the commission that he thought $7.00 would be a fair minimum wage for women.

Louis G. Swift, president of Swift & Co. and representatives of Armour & Co. and Morris & Co. testified concerning the wages and surroundings of the thousands of foreign girls and women "back of the stock yards," said to be the largest foreign settlement on this continent.

Mr. Swift testified that only fourteen of the women employees of the packing houses received the minimum wage. Other witnesses said the foreign women, temperamentally different from American girls, settled the question of morality or immorality for themselves regardless of employer's welfare work.

The average wage of the seven hundred women employed by Swift & Co. is $10.50 a week according to Mr. Swift.

M. B. Harding, superintendent of the Chicago plant of Armour & Co. said the foreign girls preferred factory work to domestic service.

"The officers of the company cannot persuade these girls to come to their homes to work," he said.

C. L. Christie, assistant superintendent for Morris & Co., said all the big companies spent much money on welfare work but it was hard to reach the foreign girls.

Professor Graham Taylor head of "Chicago Commons," a social settlement speaking before the commission by request, surprised the legislative body by accusing it of being "spectacularly hysterical and sensational." Professor Taylor read statistics to prove that only 12 per cent of vice can be connected with low wages.

"You highbrows have got away from the questions, professor," said Senator Beall, of the vice commission. "We know we are lawless here, but we know a thing or two. How can a poor girl with $3.50 a week have as good a chance to be pure as one with $7.50?"

CAPTAIN COOK GIVEN HAT BY OLD VETERANS

As the W. H. T. Walker Camp 925, United Confederate Veterans were forming in line yesterday morning to march to the railway station to train for Chattanooga, Comrade J. H. Shelnett, a veteran with one leg stepped to the front and lifting from a table a peaked cap, asked the attention of the members of his camp. The package contained a black lining hat of military shape. Mr. Shelnett turned toward Captain J. H. Cook, their commander saying:

"Simply to show the appreciation of your work in leading us to take our camp to Chattanooga at this reunion, its members have decided to present you with this token of our esteem."

Captain Cook accepted the gift and ordered his men to fall in. Thirty minutes later Camp Walker was ready for the advance on Chattanooga, from which the gray-clad men fell back stubbornly and doggedly fifty years ago with Captain Cook in command.

Smallpox at Chapel Hill.

Raleigh N. C., May 26.—Three smallpox cases at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill today resulted in an order for compulsory vaccination of the remaining student body. The faculty declared tonight that the segregation of the cases has been so thorough that no danger attends the commencement at a university at which Vice President Marshall will be the speaking attraction next week. The outbreak is believed to have resulted from athletic trips.

CORRECTED BY ALSTON.

Robert C. Alston has furnished The Constitution with the following statement in regard to a story that appeared on Monday morning:

"Editor Constitution: In your issue of the 26th, your paper purports to quote from a lecture I delivered at the Atlanta law school on interstate commerce two weeks ago. The report is very erroneous. It attributes to me statements which I did not make and sentiments which I do not entertain. The young gentleman who reported the lecture failed to catch its substance and its spirit.

LAW SCHOOL ORATORS WILL COMPETE TODAY

The preliminary hearing of the candidates for the faculty prize in oratory of the Atlanta Law school will be held today before Mrs. William C. Spiker, professor of oratory.

The following students will compete: Leonard J. Grossman, the senior class, and M. J. Wood, R. E. L. Cone, Dupont Hood, Samuel Castleton, George F. Northern, Pierce Burns, Richard Gordon and Wilhelm A. Hassel, of other classes.

The fastidious taste of some of the seniors this year led to a hot fight for the adoption of dress suits, as the official graduation garb in lieu of the time honored cap and gown. A compromise was reached by adopting the cap and gown. The canes will be of ebony with silver handles, upon which will be engraved a monogram and the Atlanta Law school seal.

REYNOLDS IS CRUSHED

If L. Reynolds, of 80 Windsor street, an employee of the Southern railway, was injured at the Southern shops last night shortly before midnight by being crushed between two cars.

He was rushed in Patterson's ambulance to the Atlanta hospital, where his condition was reported not to be of a very serious nature. Two ribs are believed to have been broken.

JUDGE JOSEPH R. LAMAR WILL ARRIVE TOMORROW

Judge Joseph R. Lamar, of the United States supreme court, will reach Atlanta tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock and will be met by a committee from the Georgia Bar association, who will escort him to Warm Springs for the night. The session will last two days, and the chief address will be made by Judge Lamar.

The Atlanta lawyers were anxious to entertain him while in Atlanta, but it was found that the would have just time enough to make train connection, and that after the meeting he would be forced by his work to return to Washington, where the supreme court is expected soon to pass down a decision in the Minnesota rate case, which is of extreme interest to all the railroad interests, bringing new elements into the rate situation.

Judge Pardee and Mrs. Pardee will leave for Warm Springs on the same train with Judge Lamar. Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, is president of the Georgia Bar association, George Owens, of Savannah, first vice president, and Orville Park, secretary.

Coin Assorter Is Invented By Atlanta Business Man

The coins are poured pell-mell into the hopper at the top, and as the crank is turned the chains of various size move from the left to the right. The silver dollars stop at the top chain, while everything else falls through. The half-dollars stop at the second chain, the quarters at the third, the nickles at the fourth, the pennies at the next, while the dimes drop all the way to the bottom. The chains carry the coins to the right of the machine where they drop into pockets for the separate denominations. The machine is made of aluminum and brass and when manufactured in numbers will weigh only 15 or 20 pounds.

Wonderful progress in the saving of human time and labor is attained by a new invention that has just this week been completed by an Atlanta man. It is a coin assorter—the first machine of its kind ever invented. Taking a handful of coins, or a bucketful, the invention acts with what seems almost human thought, and divides the entire amount within a very few seconds into piles of various coins. In addition to this it counts every coin that goes through. Thus in a very few moments it does the work that many a tired bank clerk does over for hours, saving indeed an invaluable acquisition for the banking and commercial houses.

Ed Haralson—an Atlanta business man known to hundreds of people here, but little suspected of being an inventor—is the man who has made this remarkable machine. He is a son of M. Haralson, the well-known real estate man of Atlanta, and he has lived in this section nearly all his life. Three years ago, when he was agent for the Wales adding machine in Atlanta, the idea first came to him, through his familiarity with adding machines and cash registers, that a machine could in some way be worked out which would assort coins accurately.

He experimented on various theories for two years and a half before he finally struck the endless chain mechanism. Each link of the chain having a little projection just far enough from the next one to let a coin of a certain size slip through, stopping at the chain just below.

Six months ago Mr. Haralson gave up the agency he then had in Memphis to return to Atlanta and devote his entire time to the invention. He installed a workshop at 773 Marietta street, and at times has had as many as six mechanics working on the various parts of the machine. He has at last evolved the completed invention, and the working model has been shown to a few Atlantans for the first time during the past week. Patent has been applied for and allowed, and will be taken out within a week or two. A company will probably be formed, with Atlanta capital backing it, to manufacture the machines in this city as a distinct "Atlanta-made" product, and it is believed that a great future lies ahead of the invention. In revolutionary methods in banks and business institutions.

WITH THE THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.

Maggie Cline, billed as the Irish queen, and owning to some seventy years, is the feature of the bill at the Forsyth this week.

Miss Cline is to vaudeville what Sarah Bernhardt is to the legitimate. Year in and year out she has shown little change in looks or in ability. Her circle of friends has widened—that's the only result of the years.

Dancing will just a little, anyway, singing all the time, and leading the orchestra (she's great at that), her work always pleases a big part of the people in front.

The Great Howard was both fortunate and unfortunate in the after-dinner show. He was intended to be gale owing to the railway error, but decided to go on anyway.

"I'll do something, Hugh," he told Manager Cardosa, and the way he "got" the audience showed that he is clever in other lines of stage work as well as the ventriloquist. He played on several instruments, including a piano, banjo and drum and wound up with the "bones," and he certainly can get music out of the sticks. "Nine years ago when I was an amateur, I used to be an end man," is the explanation he made to a friend after the show was over. At the night show he did his regular act. It was a big hit.

There is one thing certain this week, and that is that people will stay to see the last act, for although acrobats are not usually drawing cards here, the two men who wind up the show, the Equit brothers, are about the best old-timers can remember. Perhaps their most remarkable feat is that of climbing a ladder with one brother balanced on the head of the climber.

Madden and Fitzpatrick, a couple of old entertainers who were here several years ago, are back again with a new act, every bit as good as the old. It gives opportunity for a song that appeals, some skillful piano playing, and offers both comedy and pathos.

Caesar Neal, booked as the "Carnoo of New York's east side," has a great voice, and drew several encores at the afternoon show. Carl Rosine and company open with a neat music act, and Kirk and Fogarty are good in songs and chatter.

SERVIA AND BULGARIA ON THE VERGE OF WAR

Having Conquered Turkey, Balkan Allies Prepare to Fight One Another.

Sofia, May 26.—The Servians' demand for revision of the treaty alliance in its essential parts amounts to abrogation, according to the semi-official Mr. It is understood that Russia, supported by the other powers, will do everything possible to prevent a conflict between the allies.

It is expected the Bulgarian cabinet will finally refuse the Servian demand and insist upon strict compliance with massed near Sofia, and other troops are being hurried forward in Macedonia.

Great Britain Supports Bulgaria.

London, May 27.—A correspondent of The Chronicle is informed on high authority that Bulgaria will have the support of Great Britain, but at the present moment it is uncertain what course France and Russia will take. Russia objects to the breaking up of the Balkan league, but unless asked to do so by both Servia and Bulgaria, will not likely act as mediator. It is believed Servia, relying on the support of Greece, intends to keep all districts occupied in Macedonia.

Sheriff Comes for Negro.

Sheriff R. E. Goddard, of Blount county, one of the best-known officials in Tennessee, came to Atlanta yesterday to get Addis Smith, a negro wanted in Tennessee for larceny. The Smith negro refused to return without acquisition papers, so it will be several days before Mr. Goddard can take him back. While in the city Mr. Goddard met Chief Beavers, and the two had quite a pleasant time together.

Court Opens in Rome.

The United States district court for the eastern division of the northern district of Georgia convened yesterday morning in Athens with an unusually large calendar. Judge Newman, accompanied by United States District Attorney Carter Tate, Assistant District Attorney Henley, Marshal Johnson and his first deputy, Captain Rihhard and Deputy Clerk John Dean Stewart, left Atlanta today night to get ready for the opening of the session.

Mrs. Camilla W. Callaway.

Mrs. Camilla Willingham Callaway, wife of R. M. Callaway, aged 37, died Sunday night at the residence, 202 Ponce de Leon avenue. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Marcella Callaway, three sons, Rex, R. E. and A. V. Callaway, and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Pison. The funeral will be at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the residence of Mrs. M. Huggitt officiating. Interment will be in West View.

He Threatened Wilson.

Philadelphia, May 26.—Richard Lindsay, said to be from Chicago, is under arrest here on a charge of sending threatening letters to President Wilson. He will be examined as to his sanity. Lindsay, it was charged by secret service operatives, wrote letters to the president demanding $300,000 ransom for an alleged assault upon him in Chicago by a man whom he called Maxwell.

Most men are alike—in appearance. Each has a head, two arms and two legs. But, there resemblance ends.

Some of them think.

And the thinkers are the successes. They are the doers of deeds. They realize that to rest is to rust. They are forever seeking new ways and better ways. They are forever making two sales where the failure makes only one. You'll find these thinkers are alive to the value of advertising.

They don't act like the girl that threw her lover a kiss in the dark. She knew what she was doing, but the other party didn't. No, sir, these men that think let folks know they're alive. They back up their ads with the goods and leave nothing undone to please customers.

You'll find these thinkers use The Constitution. The deeper they think the more frequently their ads appear in this paper. They appreciate the value of a newspaper read by progressive people at the breakfast table.

To which class do you belong? So? Well, there is nothing but your apathy that prevents you from walking in the ranks with the successes. We're possessed of the idea that you have the gray matter in your head just like others. The thing for you to do is to use it. In other

Fight Between Mayor and Council May Bankrupt Griffin Treasury

Griffin Ga. May 26—(Special)—The final chapter in the long fight between Mayor J. H. Smith and the Griffin city council over the purchase of an auto fire truck will be written Tuesday night in council meeting when a vote will be made to pay the American LaFrance company the sum of $5,500 for a fire truck purchased over the strong protest of the mayor and the complaints of citizens. The truck is in the city on trial and a formal acceptance will be completed and payment made Tuesday night.

The conflict between the mayor and council began some months ago when in regular session a resolution was passed directing the mayor and clerk to immediately make a contract with the American LaFrance fire engine company for a special fire truck. The contract was in hand at that time and was offered the mayor.

Mayor Smith, however, has not been considered before Mayor Smith, who is a banker and a prominent citizen, has appointed a committee to investigate the matter and to receive other bids. The mayor overruled the council's action that the proposed contract be accepted and the manner of payment was left to the mayor's discretion.

The mayor refused to sign the contract. The council then voted to send their former action to the city council and to place the matter on the agenda for the next meeting. The council then voted to place the matter on the agenda for the next meeting.

STAGGERS THROUGH DOCTOR'S DOORWAY AND DROPS DEAD

Savannah Ga. May 26—(Special)—After ringing the doorbell at the doctor's door today, a man called in the hallway and called to the doctor that he had a patient in his house who was dying. The doctor came to the house and found the patient dead before the doctor could reach his side.

Heart failure was the cause of death, said Dr. H. H. Smith. The patient had been in the hospital for several months and was suffering from a long illness. The doctor was called to the house at 10 o'clock and found the patient dead at 11 o'clock.

FELTON WON'T ACT AS NAVAL STORES RECEIVER

Macon Ga. May 26—(Special)—Judge W. H. Felton of Macon has declined to serve as one of the receivers for the Naval Stores company, which has plants at Brunswick and Gulfport, Miss.

He stated that his duties as head of the public utilities companies in Macon, controlled by the local interests, makes it impossible for him to devote the time that would be required of the receiver.

Judge Speer last Saturday named Judge Felton, James S. Bradley and Homer T. Yarnan as receivers for the $3,000,000 naval stores corporation. A bond of $10,000 is required of each receiver.

DELAY OF A DAY IN TALLULAH CASE

Absent Witnesses Cause Postponement—Attorneys for State Have Disagreement as to Longer Postponement

By J. Walter LeCraw, Staff Correspondent.

Clayton Ga. May 26—(Special)—There was disappointment in store for a courtroom crowded close with lawyers, capitalists, witnesses and hundreds of other people interested in the famous Tallulah Falls land suit when the hearing was postponed for a day upon being called today in the Rabun county superior court.

Having been set for 2 o'clock today the courtroom was filled to overflowing when at 10 o'clock the hearing began. The court was held at the table before the bench were Attorney General T. S. Felder, Edgar Watkins and R. C. Ellis representing the state of Georgia in the case while Alex King, Luther Z. Rosser, Charles T. Hopkins and C. C. Dean represented the Georgia Railway and Power company, defendant in the suit.

Everything was in readiness for the hearing except the fact that three of the important witnesses for the state were absent. Two of them being declared to be ill in Tallulah Falls. Judge J. B. Jones who is to conduct the hearing listened to the statements of the attorney general as to the importance of the testimony of the three witnesses and finally ordered a postponement of the hearing until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Ellis Springs a Surprise

R. C. Ellis the Tallulah Falls lawyer who is on the special committee appointed to represent the Tallulah Falls Conservation association in the hearing sprung the announcement of the afternoon by rising a few minutes after the court had gathered to the fact that the case be postponed till the August term of the Rabun court in order that the conservation association might prepare other important evidence in the case.

Attorney General Felder had stated barely a moment before that the state was ready to proceed with its case if arrangements could be made to get the testimony of the three absent witnesses. When Mr. Ellis unexpectedly made his request Mr. Felder jumped from his seat in a moment.

Judge J. B. Jones confessed that this is a surprise to him. He said I thought that Mr. Ellis and I were working in harmony in this case and thought that the postponement in our conference a few minutes ago that we wanted to proceed with it without any delay.

The work at Tallulah has proceeded at a rapid rate and there is a possibility of the water being turned into the tunnel within the next two months. We are therefore especially anxious that the case proceed at once so that a decision may be reached just at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. Ellis after a few moments of conference then with the attorney general withdrew his request for a postponement saying that the following day would be satisfactory. In the opening of the case Mr. Ellis was also suitable to the attorneys for the power company. Judge Jones gave orders to the issuing of attachments to the three absent witnesses and the reopening of court the following morning.

J. A. Taylor postmaster of Tallulah Falls and Caleb Woodall and Wiley Pitts also of Tallulah are the three witnesses whose absence delayed the case. Their testimony concerns the exact position of the ground at Tallulah Falls and the land corners of the property in question.

Clayton will therefore be the host for several days to come for the hundreds of more people who have gathered here for the hearing. All the hotels of the town are filled to overflowing.

Switch Engine Brings Party

A party of prominent Atlanta men were so anxious to get to Clayton in time for the opening of court Monday morning that they secured a switch engine of the Tallulah Falls railway to bring them on a special trip from the Falls to Clayton this morning.

Preston Arkwright president of the Georgia Railway and Power company was one of those who sat on a plank on top of the coal tender of the engine and gazed over the scenic beauties of Rabun county on this unique trip.

Charles T. Hopkins and Luther Z. Rosser who are among the power company's lawyers sat on either side of Mr. Arkwright and took good care to see that he did not fall off. Alex King, who sits with the power company counsel and Alit Saul of the publicity department of the company, also took the ride on the engine. The party had come up from Atlanta on Sunday and stopped over at the Falls to look over the grounds which are being only 14 miles farther north than the Falls.

Demurrers Not to Stop Case

The demurrers which have been filed by each side in the suit will not stop the hearing of the case in the case according to the belief of attorneys connected with both sides. The power company has filed a demurrer asking that the suit be thrown out of court on the ground that the original petition for the suit did not show sufficient evidence to prove that the deeds given by the state in 1818 and 1819 conveyed the land only to the top of the gorge.

The state has also filed demurrer to the answer of the power company to the petition and when the case is formally called Tuesday morning these will probably be argued for a few moments by the lawyers but it is generally accepted that the case is to proceed to a thorough hearing which will probably consume at least three or four days.

WEST VIRGINIA PROBE ATTACKED BY BACON

Washington May 26—The resolution for an investigation of conditions in the West Virginia coal strike zone was favorably reported to the senate today by the education and labor committee and was declared by the President Marshall to have been agreed to by unanimous consent but wound up by again becoming the unfinished business a position it occupied two weeks ago. It will come before the senate automatically at the conclusion of tomorrow morning's business and the vote ordered today probably will be taken before adjournment.

Although Senator Bacon made a vigorous attack upon investigation of the conduct of state officials by the senate, and warned against such an "invasion" of state rights Senator Goff announced that he did not intend to fight further against its adoption. He was generally agreed that it would be passed.

Did you ever stop long enough to apply the law of supply and demand to PEACHTREE RESIDENCE PROPERTY?

It probably has occurred to you that Peachtree central and semi-central property has advanced up into the thousands per front foot because the SUPPLY of it is LIMITED.

A moment's thought will convince you that the same is true of Peachtree residence property; there is just so much of it and there can NEVER be any more.

And when supply is permanently limited, it follows by well-known law, that GROWING VALUE MUST RESPOND TO GROWING DEMAND.

Atlanta is growing at the rate of 15,000 new population every year.

We are getting to the answer.

By just the percentage that Atlanta increases in population each year, by just that percentage grows the DEMAND FOR PEACHTREE HOMES.

And market value grows in even greater proportion. Current sales compared to prices of a few years back readily establish the truth of this assertion.

The answer is this:

AN ETERNAL DEBT.

Increasing bank clearings and the steady tramp of the great armies of development will not diminish the south's appreciation for that other army—the thinned and tattered and grizzled army of the sixties—that is gathering today in Chattanooga to celebrate the memories of the most gigantic civil war in the world's history.

But when sentiment, sweet and fragrant though it be, and emotion, tender and impelling, have exhausted their influence, there remains the most binding of all obligations—the obligation of gratitude. For these crippled and falling men who today meet under the shadow of Lookout are the ancestors of the new south and of the new America.

It is fitting that we pay tribute to the valor of those who laid down their lives for the Confederacy, as well as to the survivors. They gave all that they possessed in the defense of a cause which to them was sacred and all-compelling.

We are today the heirs of these men. They faced chaos, the need of re-establishing government with every ancient institution overturned; the need of making brick without straw; of building stability of rule and firmness of prosperity confronted by such adverse conditions as have never before plagued a conquered people.

The progress and development we now enjoy has really been created by the survivors of the civil war. So that we are under obligations to them in a substantial, none less than a sentimental sense.

It is a many-sided, an eternal debt the south owes these gray old men now meeting in historic Chattanooga.

LIBELING PUBLIC MEN.

President Roosevelt's suit for libel against the Michigan editor is chiefly important as marking the cumulative tendency on part of public men to hold the press to a sharp accountability for unfounded personal utterances. Recent proposals to establish a press censorship and similar developments all contribute to the same tendency.

All this is an inevitable accompaniment of a free press and a free government. Newspaper owners and editors work under and serve as high a standard of ethics as any other profession. But there are always to be found rabid or irresponsible individuals who abuse their rights and pervert their functions. By no part of the population is the character-assassin more thoroughly discredited and repudiated than by the overwhelming percentage of the honest followers of his own calling.

Since no man in his senses would seriously propose to abridge the rights of the press because of a few casual infringements, the next best remedy is that which Roosevelt has chosen. Whatever the issue in his individual case, existence will be made more bearable for the public man and his family if notice is served that reckless and perverted attacks upon private character can not go unchallenged.

WHAT ABOUT THE "CROPPER"?

Within a very few years the farmers of the United States will no doubt be able to command credit upon their acres at a lower rate of interest than at any previous time in American history. This is foreshadowed by the enormous governmental and private activity looking to the simplification of rural credits. Specifically, two current developments are significant. One is the proposal to incorporate in the new currency bill a provision empowering national banks to accept farm mortgages as collateral.

But it will be a mistake for the farmer to assume that the placing at his disposal facilities for better credit will be sufficient to remove all of his difficulties. The Constitution, for instance, has recently devoted a great deal of space toward demonstrating the dangers and loss of the all-cotton crop system in this state.

It is hardly to be expected that the "cropper" will be better off, or his dependence upon the banker, the merchant or the landlord any less binding than under the present system. If the banker, the merchant and the landlord continue to exact that the return for credit or for rent shall be altogether in cotton—all the cheap credit in the world will not improve the lot of the "cropper" or the condition of the agricultural system of which he is so large a part.

All of which is cited not to disparage rural credits; on the other hand, The Constitution is an enthusiastic advocate of the movement to introduce this system. But if we are to effect a revolutionary change in our prevailing agricultural method—a method that yearly strips the profits of a single crop and sends them out of the state to pay for food that should be raised within the state—the change must come through convincing every man who has to do with farming in Georgia that the right way is the diversification way.

ANOTHER CANAL.

Dr. Salvador Castrillo, retiring minister from Nicaragua, is confident that the United States eventually will build another transcontinental canal and this time across his country.

Who knows? To this day there is doubt in the minds of many people as to the relative feasibility of the Nicaragua and Panama routes. John T. Morgan, the illustrious Alabama senator, whose labors probably made a canal of any sort possible, died in the conviction that the United States made a fatal mistake in committing itself to the Panama, rather than the Nicaragua route.

It is claimed, and probably with reason, that the route between our Atlantic and Pacific ports can be shortened nearly 2,000 miles by the Nicaragua route. Dr. Castrillo advances this as an argument for a supplementary canal. He also says, with some truth, that the day may come when increasing traffic will so glut the Panama canal as to make profitable the opening up of the Nicaragua route.

The Washington Post notes that New Jersey "has a lobster colony." Of course, it will not have the temerity to ask the administration for office.

Secretary Bryan will never enter suit against an editor for accusing him of the grape juice habit.

The high cost of living will make many immune from the vacation fever.

JUST from GEORGIA

When Summer Comes to See Us. When Summer comes to see us, you bet we're all at home: Down by the river's the place we love to roam; Through pathways of daisies—that's the way we go, And listen to the river's song because we love it so.

Welcome the season When earth's amazing bright, And the Promised Land of Plenty Is dawning on our sight.

When Summer comes to see us, though tolling still is best, There's still a big majority to seek the vale of Rest; Down by the river, where the fish are biting free, Or at a game of checkers 'neath the old mulberry tree.

Welcome the season; Folks that sow will reap, But we'd rather hear the south wind A-singin' us to sleep.

The Meeting of the Veterans. Today the veterans of the gray meet in Chattanooga— "Once more the flags have their rippled, red way Over the brave hearts that beat 'neath the gray;— Once more the drum Thrills the message: 'They come! And the silver-sweet bugles in melody play."

The "thin, gray line" will have heartiest welcome there, as everywhere, and the camp fires will twinkle on the battlefields they knew, while cups clink healths to them on all sides.

The Office-seeker Speaks.

"Don't you go to Washington," the office-seeker said; "You bet I won't," the farmer cried. "The Jes' let 'em take the offices an' fill 'em, fur an' nigh; I hear the green fields singin' of the good times by an' by."

"There's nothin' much, I tell you, in that office-seekin' place; The open door you hear about is slammed right in your face." "I know it," said the farmer; "I see the green fields shine; I'll take Jes' twenty acres of the old home-place for mine."

That's what builds up the country, no matter what be said— The pathways where the toilers in the old home-meadows tread; We've got to play with politics, but when the play is done We come back to the old place where the green fields felt the sun.

"The other day," says The Adams Enterprise, "Mr. Bryan drank a toast to himself in plain ice water. The ice that makes ice impossible in this neighborhood, but you just lower a gallon jug in a 60-foot well, and corn licker comes up so cool you can drink a health to the whole country and afterwards smack your mouth so loud that they can almost hear you and shout 'Amen' to the farthest limits of town!"

The World's Song. Still the world is singing As fast goes Time and Tide: "I am, for turning To the brighter side."

"Toll in the cities And where the fields you view: The bright heaven above you And the green earth for you!"

The Determined Cyclone. "I shut de door on de cyclone," said Brother Williams, "but he'd done made up his mind ter come in, so he took de roof off, an' carried de chimney away fer good measure; then he turned 'round an' look de two big sides of de house off, and whilst I wuz prayin' ter de Lawd ter please deliver, he landed me in de top of a oak tree, then took me an' de tree so fur dat I had trouble in findin' de way back home. Brotherin', when Satan is ridin' de cyclone it's no use ter lock de door on him, fer he'll only make it wuss fer you when he blows de roof off."

They say that Richmond Pearson Hobson wants the dream of war with Japan to come true because he predicted it.

Still there's no danger of having too many grape juice statesmen in congress.

Evidently, the Greeks love fighting too well to give their enemies a holiday.

New News of Yesterday

The Virginian Who Was True to His Constituents.

By E. J. EDWARDS. (Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) The late Benjamin Douglas Silliman, who was for several years before his death, in 1899, the oldest active practicing lawyer in the country, must have been about 90 years of age when I had a most entertaining conversation with him. Mr. Silliman was born in 1805; he was 21 years of age at the time of his death. For many years he was the oldest living graduate of Yale college. At 90 Mr. Silliman's mental faculties seemed to be unimpaired; certainly he talked with great vividness of men and events of which he had knowledge during his active career at the bar of nearly seventy years, and also when prominent in politics in the days when the whig party was increasing in strength, until at last it won the presidential victory in 1840.

I had heard that Mr. Silliman was a delegate to the whig convention of 1839, at which William Henry Harrison, of Ohio, was nominated for president, and John Tyler, of Virginia, for vice president. I asked Mr. Silliman if it were true that the nomination of vice president had been offered to several distinguished whigs and declined by them until at last it was offered to John Tyler, a Virginia whig, who accepted.

"That is faithful history," Mr. Silliman said. "I am a good witness to the truth of the statement because I have personal knowledge of the facts. 'As a young man, I took great interest in the movements which, after 1826, were so concentrated as to create the great national whig party. I was a strong believer in the protective policy advocated by Henry Clay. I was also a very great admirer of Mr. Clay. I presume it was for that reason that I was elected a delegate from one of the New York state districts to the whig convention which was held at Harrisburg in the late fall of 1839, about a year before the presidential election."

"That was a momentous gathering. There were many young men present who afterwards gained national reputations. It was at this convention that the west rather than the states of the Atlantic coast became the dominant factor in American presidential politics. 'Mr. Clay, whose state was Kentucky, was regarded as a southern man. The splendid growth of the country north of the Ohio river and west of the Allegheny mountains had made it possible for the states and territories to concentrate very great creative strength at the Harrisburg convention. That strength was demonstrated when William Henry Harrison was nominated for president instead of Henry Clay."

"I remember that after inquiring among the delegations from the various states it was decided that the best man to put in nomination for vice president was Benjamin Watkins Leigh, of Virginia. It is my recollection that Mr. Leigh himself knew nothing about this, but I can recall with what manly dignity he rose on the floor of the convention when his name was proposed and said that, as he was elected as a delegate to support the nomination of Henry Clay for president, his constituents might regard it as a betrayal of trust if he should accept a nomination for vice president after Henry Clay had been defeated for the presidential nomination. The whole convention was visibly affected by Mr. Leigh's presence, and by his brief statement. I only wish that he had accepted; he was one of the noblest of men, a staunch whig and a true patriot. He was a man of very great statesmanlike qualities. We should have had a great president had he succeeded to the presidency after the death of President Harrison."

"Delegates came to me and asked me if I would support the nomination of Senator Nathaniel Tallmadge of New York. I said that Senator Tallmadge was a good man and a strong man, but that he, too, was a Henry Clay whig, and I was sure he would decline the offer of the nomination. That was exactly what he did. I learned, too, that the offer was made to Samuel L. Southard, of New Jersey, who declined it, and then the delegates being at a dead end, elected by these repeated declinations, the nomination was offered to John Tyler, of Virginia, who accepted it without hesitation."

"I look back to that convention of the whig party at Harrisburg as one of the most valuable of the experiences of my life. I learned more of politics of the better kind when I was at that convention than I had before learned in all my life. 'I can only say again that I wish Mr. Leigh, of Virginia, had been nominated for vice president instead of John Tyler. I think if he had been chosen the whig party would have been victorious at the presidential election of 1840.'"

A PUBLIC DEFENDER.

By Philip Weltner, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia.

The tricks of the advocate have largely obscured the true purpose of a trial at law. It has come to be a battle of wits. In the melee, the contestants and the state lose sight of the accused. He sits in the dock, lost to his meaning, confused and afraid. He has paid a lawyer to conceal the truth to set him free. The solicitor is fighting to secure a conviction. Of the wearying grind, of the farcical solemnity of formal oaths, and technical points, he stands in awe-struck ignorance. Now and then, utterly dazed by the muddled tangle, he anxiously scans the faces of the judge and jury to catch, if he can, some sign of hope. It is a knock-down-drag-out fight between his lawyer and the state. When the trial is done, if he is acquitted, the crowd congratulates his lawyer. If he is convicted, they congratulate the solicitor. If he thinks at all, this must strike him as incongruous, as those of him congratulating an under-taken upon skillfully embalming the corpse.

Everybody knows this is true. Some have taken pains to discover a remedy. A few suggest a public defender. These last propose to effect the faith of the system by furnishing the accused with counsel as keen as that employed by the state. By so doing they think to minimize the danger of a miscarriage of justice. No one would for a moment attack the sincerity of those who advocate this plan, but its very advocates must admit that it is hardly more than a faint-hearted compromise. Why perpetuate in this manner a system immoral to its

The World's Mysteries

WHENCE CAME THE WORD "YANKEE"?

The origin of the word "Yankee" which is generally applied to people living in the New England states, and which is frequently used by the south to designate the north, has created considerable controversy. It is believed to have been derived from the manner in which the Indians endeavored to pronounce the word "English," which they rendered "Yenghees," whence the word "Yankee."

The statement in Irving's "Knickerbocker's History of New York," concerning the tribe of Yankeoes is a mere joke; and another suggestion that the Yankeoes were so indomitable that the Puritans of New England, after subduing them, adopted their name according to an Indian custom which gave the name of the conquered to the conquerors, is not to be relied upon, as no history of New England makes any mention of that redoubtable tribe, nor is there any authority for the belief that the custom spoken of ever existed among the Aborigines of America.

Equally wide of the mark is the attempt to trace Yankee Doodle from Tengeh Dounia, which is said to have been good Persian for America, though how such an insular and stationary people as the Persians should ever hear of America and coin a word, especially to express the name of the country, and to suit their vocabulary, does not seem to have been considered by those who suggested that fanciful derivation.

It is likely, although it has never been absolutely verified, that the word Yankee undoubtedly had the Yenghees origin referred to above, but it does not seem to have been

SCHOOL BOOKS

Editor Constitution: I shall at the next session of the legislature introduce a bill for the state through its text-book commission to edit and have printed by competitive bids, and to furnish to the children at cost, all books used in the common and high schools of this state.

Ontario, Canada, has not as many children as Georgia, nor do they appropriate $2,500,000 a year to public schools as we do. What difference is there between Georgia and Ontario, except an imaginary line. The cost in Ontario on the first five readers and high school arithmetic is 50 cents. In Georgia, these books cost $1.75. Now, the Ontario books contain more pages and are better books than ours. What causes the difference in price? The difference is 242 per cent against us. Ontario commenced in 1909 to edit and have printed by competitive bids all books used in all schools in the province. The prices are at the same ratio on all books there as compared to ours.

Some say that it cost Ontario money to establish its system. This is true. I have the cost of the entire set of readers, including editing, copyrights, drawings, cover plates for books, flags and the entire cost of preparation, and it was $8,694.89. The minister of education writes me that in the six months of its operation there the purchasers of the readers alone saved $70,250, or more than eight times the cost of the entire series.

We are spending over one million dollars yearly for school books, and a saving of 242 per cent of this seems worthy of the most earnest consideration of every newspaper and public-spirited man in Georgia.

C. R. MCROREY, Representative-elect from Schley county, Blauville, Ga., May 24, 1913.

core? Why tolerate the debauch of justice into two contending camps, vying with each other in vainglorious fashion, when the thing really at stake is an immortal soul? Upon the solicitor rests the burden of bringing to light the truth. He is, in theory, as much of counsel for the accused as for the state. In fact, first principles teach us that a criminal case does not sound in the name of the State v. John Doe, but in the name of the State for John Doe. The state is a sovereign authority ordering the good of all her subjects. If some have offended, the state must take them into its custody, but only for the purpose of making them over into worthy citizens.

Those who put their trust in the expedient of a public defender would in effect, if not in intention, fix upon the state the unholy scramble of loading crimes on cowering human pawns. Criminal courts must cease to seek the truth to damn the convicted. Measures of compromise will fail. Here is no resting place. We must fight on until there is wiped off the pages of our criminal jurisprudence the legend, "Abandon all hope, ye who enter here," and there is written in its stead, "The truth shall make you free."

Our laws must be written to lift fallen humanity, and not chain man to sure doom. When that is done, the law, written in righteousness, will be righteously administered.

very common until the time of the revolutionary war. No one seems to have met with it in writings previous to that time, and in a few letters written in 1775, in which the writer considered it something new, and intended to be contemptuous, used as it was by the colonials to describe the British soldiers.

Noah Webster, in his dictionary, gives the Yenghees origin of the word upon the authority of Heckewelder. But this authority may be questioned, for while Heckewelder is excellent authority upon Indian subjects, yet he spent his time principally among the Delawares and the Six Nations, and was not likely to be well acquainted with the Massachusetts Indians, who spoke a different dialect.

A several of the British regiments transferred to Boston after the beginning of the trouble, had been stationed in the middle colonies, and had considerable experience in Indian warfare, and may thus have acquired a knowledge of the word.

That the word was rather uncommon in New England is shown by various letters written from there. One from Rev. William Gordon, published in The Pennsylvania Gazette, May 10, 1775, says: "They (the British troops) were roughly handled by the Yankees, a term of reproach for the New Englanders, who applied to the regulars."

Another letter published in the same paper a few weeks later, dated Hartford, Conn., gives an account of the capture of several letters from English officers in Boston, some of which were full of invectives against "the poor Yankees, as they call us."

From these facts it would seem probable that the word was so unusual in New England that the writers thought themselves obliged to explain it. It was soon adopted, however, and a term of reproach for the regulars of Newbury fitted out at a privateer called the Yankee Hero, and the name was used when speaking of a New Englander, being spelled at times Yankee, Yanke, Yankeo, Yanku and Yankee, as if its orthography was not settled.

The origin of "Yankee Doodle," the popular air, is no clearer than the origin of Yankee. It is said that it was composed by Dr. Schuckberg in 1755, when the colonial troops united with the British regulars near Albany. But it is stated by a writer that the air was written as early as Cromwell's time, the only alteration being that "Yankee Doodle" was substituted for "Nankee Doodle," the latter name being used to apply to Cromwell.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON, The Famous Prose Poet.

THE LAST EXPENSE.

"There really ought to be a law," remarked the melancholy boarder. "I met Mrs. Pinkrotter this afternoon and had a talk with her. You know her husband died several months ago, and she says the undertaker's charges were so outrageous she hardly dares hope to get out of debt during the term of her natural life. I think it a shame that any man should be permitted to hold up a widow in such a fashion."

"We have heard only the stricken widow's side of the story up to the hour of going to press," observed the star boarder. "and it is possible that the bereaved relict couldn't stand cross-examination very well. If we had the urbane undertaker here he might be able to prove an aibbi."

and at all seasons as being a heartless boarder and who prey upon the afflicted, but I believe that he is a much maligned man. I was well acquainted with Job Pinkrotter, and knew his wife fairly well. She always was a frivolous creature, given to vainglory. Nature intended her for a drum major, but got his wires crossed at the eleven hours, and she was sick a long time, and consumed great quantities of drugs and medicines. Drugs and medicines do not grow on the trees, as you well know, my dear Mrs. Jiggers. The apothecary and the chiropractor had to be paid, and long before death came to Job's relief, his available assets were all used up. I can't say that I ensure him for dying, considering every thing."

"When he was dead, Mrs. Pinkrotter realized at once that she had the opportunity of her life to cut a wide swath. I wasn't present at the time, but I know that sort of woman so well that her curves are as an open book to me. She made up her mind to have a swaggy funeral that would make all the other women in the block green with envy. It would be something that people would talk about for years to come, and hang the expense."

"Now, a safe and sane woman, under such conditions, would make economy her first consideration. I can imagine, Mrs. Jiggers, what you would do if I should die in the house, with a smile of forgiveness upon my pale lips. I would take the coffin, I would take him for something cheap and serviceable in the way of a coffin, something slightly shellworn, yet warranted to keep in any climate. If the undertaker tried to show you his Parisian caskets, with the name of Worth blown in the lining, you would rebuke him at once. Having done your shopping early you would take the chosen coffin under your arm and return home, and lay me to my rest with a large wreath of immortelles, purchased at the second-hand store, on my brow. How sleep the brave who sink to rest boxed in a cheap old hawwood chest."

"But Mrs. Pinkrotter lacks your judgment, Mrs. Jiggers. She went to the undertaker and asked him to show her the coffin worn by the elite that season. I have no doubt that the undertaker tried to sell her cheap but useful goods, but she was bound and determined to have the best goods in the shop, and she got what she wanted. Her husband rode to the boneyard in the tonneau of the finest hearse in town, when he would have been satisfied to ride in a wheelbarrow. When a man is as dead as Pinkrotter was at that juncture, all conveniences look alike to him."

"The fact that the undertaker gave her credit for all she wanted shows that his heart was in the right place, and now she goes around calling him a pirate."

"My sympathies are with the undertaker in every instance. He never has the same customer twice. The clothier sells me a suit of clothes as often as my stand-off is good; the barber shaves me several times a week; the tobacconist sells me sauerkraut every day; but when I need the services of the undertaker, Mrs. Jiggers, it is for the first and last time. It is his only chance to get a walk-off from that particular job. Can you blame him if he charges all the traffic will bear? We should be surprised at his moderation."

"But coffins and embalming fluids, and dead men's bones are a grewsome subject for the supper table, so I will ask you to pass some of your celebrated ham, mangle, with a medium of the alleged cream."

DEATH BLOW GIVEN PATENT MONOPOLY

U S Supreme Court Declares Retailers Have Right to Cut Prices on Patented Articles Court Reverses Self.

Washington, May 26—The so called patent monopoly which threatened to prevent cut rates by retailers in all patented articles on the market was destroyed today by a decision of the supreme court of the United States.

The court held that the owners of patents are not given the right by the patent law to control the price at which retailers must sell to the consumers. The decision in words applied only to a nerve tonic for which a patent had been issued but will control all patented articles being sold under restrictions not to resell at cut rates.

The court reversed the policy adopted in the famous mimeograph case, decided a little over a year ago when only seven justices were on the bench but allowed that case to stand so far as it goes. Thus was accomplished what has been unsuccessfully sought in congress ever since the mimeograph case was decided.

Revered Former Justice

In the mimeograph case Justice McKenna, Curtis, Brandeis and Van Vleet upheld the right of patent owners to place restrictions on the nature of articles to be used in the patent. CAPITOL GOSSIP

Outlook Good in Irwin.

Representative in the house from Irwin county was a caller at the capitol yesterday. Mr. Henderson is president of the Ocella Southern railway and he was in the city to confer with Controller General Wright in regard to the tax assessment of the road. While here he talked very optimistically about the prospects for a cotton crop in Irwin county and south Georgia generally.

Things are moving on nicely with our farmers, said Mr. Henderson. The stand of cotton is normally good. We have not had any hard rains but we do not need much rain. We may have had plenty to germinate the seed and to keep things going. If conditions continue to be favorable I believe we will have a good crop of cotton this year.

Governor in Athens.

Governor Brown is in Athens this week having come there Saturday afternoon to attend the graduating exercises of the Lucy Cobb Institute where his daughter, Miss Cora Brown will receive her diploma tomorrow. With a fine record in her studies and in athletics, Miss Brown was named for herself a large number of friends throughout the state and will be one of the debutantes of the next season.

Street Railway Consolidation.

I think of a plan granted yesterday by the board of state for the consolidation and merger of the Chattooga and Chickamauga Interurban railway and the Chattahoochee railway. The former which runs from Chattooga to the government reservation at Fort Oglethorpe has been taken over by the latter.

Would Increase Stock.

A petition was received yesterday by the railroad commissioner from the Columbus Gas Lights company asking for permission to issue $100,000 of additional stock. The purpose of the new issue is to enable the company to retire an equal amount of outstanding bills payable.

AT THE THEATERS

"St. Elmo"

(At the Atlanta)

St. Elmo, old time favorite of the theatergoers, which was chosen by vote of the patrons of the Atlanta theater and is being presented this week by the Billy Long stock company has sold at once and has the grip upon the audience.

The vivid way in which the author paints human emotions as shown in the changing of a man's life by the death of the woman he loves and the man whom he idolized and believed above other fellowmen cannot but appeal to all who have human emotions and who have felt in lesser degree the emotions of St. Elmo. Mrs. Long after whom the play takes its name.

In its portrayal by the stock company today Edwin Vail carries on well the part of St. Elmo. His features and characteristics seem to blend well with the part. He was in the first act by a man whose heart has been blackened as also in the final act when the love of the little girl of Lookout Mountain and the unfulfilling belief of the old man have affected his heart until he again realizes that life may mean something to him again.

Miss Bill Long in the role of Edna Park makes an ideal childish heroine as she has in the role of a young woman who was interrupted by the bar-foot little girl whose life was wiped up in her grandfather's business whose little finger stood at the base of the mountain well received as was her emotional acting later when years are supposed to have passed, and she has taken a higher place in the world before she fills the vacant place in St. Elmo's life. The other members of the company also appear well in their parts none of which are minor ones.

JAIL DOORS CLOSE ON MRS. PANKHURST

London, May 26—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst leader of the militant suffragettes was today returned to Holloway jail having in the opinion of the authorities recovered her health sufficiently to serve another period of her three years sentence.

Mrs. Pankhurst's evident not strong when she was taken to the prison. The court declared vehemently that she would continue her hunger strike until she died or the government gave women the vote.

When the gates of Holloway and opened to receive her a score of militant suffragettes tried to rush the prison and the wardens had difficulty in preventing them from entering with their leader. For a long time they remained outside shouting. We will keep on fighting until we win.

Name of Davies Withdrawn

Washington, May 26—President Wilson today withdrew the nomination of Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin to be commissioner of corporations. It was brought to the president's attention that the position was an appointive one not requiring confirmation by the senate. Several senators had announced their intention to oppose the nomination. Davies had resigned his place as secretary of the democratic national committee. The president is now expected to announce the appointment.

WHO'S "SMITH"? HIS NAME'S DENNIS!

Miss Susanne Carroll, a noted southern beauty, to whom Robert W. Chambers dedicated his recent novel "The Gay Rebellion" is going to marry the lucky man is Major John Philip Hill United States district attorney for Maryland. The engagement has just been announced. When Mr. Chambers dedicated his book to Miss Carroll he wrote "Though I do not and Smith incline to frown I do not fear for you Susanne have long since won my heart. Everybody now knows that J. H. is Major Hill but the mystery of Smith still remains. Of course it doesn't make much difference now who Smith is. His name is Dennis anyway. The wedding will take place in June and will be of interest not only to Baltimore and New York society but also to many people in Europe where Miss Carroll spent her girlhood. Miss Carroll is a granddaughter of Mrs. Tucker Carroll with whom she has made her home in New York city the last few winters. She is also a great grand daughter of Charles Carroll of Carrollton a signer of the Declaration of Independence. IMPORTANT PROBLEMS CONCERNING NEGROES ARE ABLY DISCUSSED

The eighteenth annual conference for the study of negro problems took place at Atlanta university yesterday. The theme this year was "Moral and Religious Among Negro Americans." A large number of students and friends gathered at the morning session at 10 o'clock the subject being Social Service and the School.

In the afternoon there was a unique and interesting scene upon the campus. One hundred and seventy little negro children from the five free kindergartens went through with their customary exercises on the terrace east of the main building. The children were divided into the different groups and had hand work. These five kindergartens are situated on 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th streets in Whitehall alley. The Leonard street orphan's home and the Leonard street mission of the Central Baptist church.

The following children's part of the program were reports from the officers of the association and papers describing other efforts for social betterment among the negroes. The superintendent of the Red Orphanage in Covington Ga. told of orphan work for little boys. The superintendent of the Leonard street orphan's home in this city told of a similar work for girls. The work of the Neighborhood Union an organization of negro women for the improvement of living conditions in negro communities was presented by one of the officers.

The evening session given to the subject of South America and the American Negro was addressed by the principal of Haines Institute in Augusta, Ga. and by Dr. W. P. B. DuBois of New York city. The first speaker dwelt upon the importance of the negroes in the world and their place in the world's education and their place in the world's progress.

The best known visitor at this conference is Dr. W. P. B. DuBois. For thirteen years Dr. DuBois was at the head of the sociological department of Atlanta university and under his guidance the conference for the study of negro problems has been developed. Two years ago Dr. DuBois went to New York to take up the work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He has since then however had the general direction of the conference investigation work. At the morning session he spoke upon the negro problem as a part of the larger social problem of the world showing the direct relation between the attitude of mankind toward the darker races.

NO LIQUOR ALLOWED IN THE INDIAN COUNTRY

Washington, May 26—Federal laws against the introduction of liquor into Indian country were today held by the supreme court to prohibit the introduction of liquor from neighboring states into Oklahoma counties occupied by Indians.

NO PENALTY CARRIED BY THE WEBB MEASURE

Knoxville, Tenn., May 26—That no conviction can be secured under the Webb act was the statement of Judge J. T. Sanford in his charge to the federal grand jury today.

The Webb act was described as an act that had no power to inflict a penalty and therefore it was explained, no conviction could possibly be secured under its provisions.

Its chief worth was stated to be that it removed from interstate shippers of liquor the protection of federal legislation and gave the states greater freedom in enforcing their respective state liquor laws.

WILSON TURNS LIGHT ON THE TARIFF LOBBY

penalties would be imposed for violations. Democratic leaders were almost unanimous in support of the president's statement maintaining that they are well able to handle the important pending tariff legislation and that sugar and wool will be thoroughly considered and discussed by the finance committee and democratic caucus before it is reported. No change of policy relating to either schedule has yet been determined however it is emphatically declared by the members of the committee.

Systematic Misrepresentation.

The president made his statement to the newspaper correspondents at the white house. The president said he had no doubt that a few so called lobbyists were here on legitimate errands but that the great majority were occupied in a systematic misrepresentation of facts. While the president believed that the lobby opposition is concentrated against free sugar and free wool he is not apprehensive that it will be successful.

The president made it clear that he believed the scientific business methods and efficiency would overcome tariff cuts and that with the application of scientific methods Louisiana would not only be able to continue in the sugar industry but do so profitably.

Statement Exposing Lobby.

The statement by President Wilson follows: I think that the public ought to know the extraordinary exertion being made by the lobby in Washington to gain recognition for certain alterations of the tariff bill. Washington has seldom seen so numerous so insidious or so insidious a lobby. The newspapers are being filled with paid advertisements calculated to mislead the public opinion of public men only but also the public opinion of the country itself. There is every evidence that money without limit is being spent to sustain this lobby and to create an appearance of a vigorous public opinion antagonistic to some of the chief items of the tariff bill.

It is of serious interest of the country that the people at large should have no lobby and be voiceless in the public opinion of the matter of tariff matters. The committee took the matter under advisement after Mr. Kingsley had given the assurance that the entire surplus of the New York Life company was held in reserve for the participation of the tariff holders.

In the senate Senator Cummins questioned the methods by which experts of the finance committee had reduced the specific rates in the Payne Aldrich bill to the equivalent of value on rates in the Underwood bill. He leading in many instances Senator Simmons said he would endeavor to ascertain the methods employed by the experts.

Kingsley Given Grilling.

Darwin F. Kingsley president of the New York Life Insurance company appeared today to the senate subcommittee income tax section to exempt all insurance written for profit and mutual benefit and not for profits. He had a spirited exchange with Senator Williams over campaign contributions disclosed in the Hughes investigation several years ago.

When your company paid $250,000 to a campaign fund and asked Senator Williams "none of that money ever was participated in by the policy holders was it?"

"No it was not said Mr. Kingsley. Then that proved that your company's assertion that policy holders participated in all the earnings of the company was false didn't it?"

It proved, Mr. Kingsley returned that the judgment of the company's officers who paid this campaign contribution to think it was necessary to protect the assets of the company was bad.

It proved more than that asserted Senator Williams. It was also a statement that policy holders and a democrat and I took part of my money and gave it away to protect me against my own party. But has all that sort of thing been done away with in the insurance business?"

Absolutely replied President Kingsley. He explained laws which prohibit it.

President Kingsley submitted a detailed statement of his company's business and resources to show that it conducted business actually on a mutual basis. The total assets of the company last year were $719,000,000 and he declared not a dollar was kept back from the fund in which policy holders participated.

DEFENSE SHOWS HAND IN THE TRIAL OF WOOD

Testimony to Prove Wool Trust Chief Didn't Plan "Planting" of Dynamite.

Boston, May 25.—Indications that the defense would rely upon its ability to prove that Frederick E. Atteaux, who is admitted to have received checks from the American Woolen company, was employed by the company in a legitimate capacity, developed at the dynamite conspiracy trial today. The government alleges that money paid to Atteaux upon authority of the president of the American Woolen company, William M. Wood, was in furtherance of a conspiracy entered into by Wood, Atteaux, Dennis Collins, John J. Breen and Ernest W. Pittman to cast suspicion upon the textile strikers at Lawrence by "planting" dynamite on premises occupied by them.

William H. Dwyer, Jr., treasurer of the woolen company, who was summoned as a witness for the prosecution, testified under cross-examination that Atteaux was instructed to visit various places where the company's factories are located and confer with the mill agents regarding labor troubles.

The payments to Atteaux in two checks totalling $2,500, were entered according to the witness, in the manner that all legitimate disbursements were recorded on the company's books.

Testimony that Atteaux had performed similar services for the company in 1902 during the labor troubles, and that he had been paid in the same manner, was given by C. C. Wiggin, vice president and controller of the woolen company. For this work the witness said Atteaux received $1,000. The son of the president was introduced and shown to be identical in form with the voucher of Atteaux's account in 1912. The witness explained that any expenditure authorized by President Wood would be paid without question.

Attorney William M. Butler was called in an attempt by the state to establish that Wood and Atteaux met at the offices of the American Woolen company on January 19, 1912, the day the dynamite was "planted." The witness denied that he had been in the company's office on that day or had seen Wood and Atteaux together. He also denied that he had told the prosecutor to the contrary.

MASSEY MUST RETURN OR FORFEIT HIS BOND

Columbia, S. C., May 25.—(Special.)—W. J. Massee, the wealthy Mecon, Ga., capitalist, is ordered to be remanded to the sheriff of Spartanburg county and by him turned over to a proper officer of the state of Tennessee to be taken back there and stand trial unless it is shown that the requisition issued for Massee by Governor Hooper is officially withdrawn. In an opinion rendered today by the state supreme court reversing the order of Circuit Judge Sease, who discharged Massee on a writ of habeas corpus, Massee is out on a $10,000 bond and is at his home in Georgia.

The supreme court holds that Judge Sease erred in allowing Mr. Massee bail and that the circuit judge or state courts in habeas corpus proceedings testing the validity of extradition papers can go so far only as to inquire whether they are regularly made out under the federal laws.

HE FAILED ON "EXAMS" AND KILLED HIMSELF

Lille, France, May 25.—Disappointment at his failure to pass his examinations caused a medical student named Currier to commit suicide at the university here today. At the moment when the dean of the faculty was reading the list of results and had reached the student's name with the announcement that he had not qualified he drew a revolver and shot himself in the breast.

Wilson and Alaska.

Washington, May 25.—President Wilson told Senators Chamberlain and Jones today that he felt kindly toward the proposal for government construction of railroads in Alaska. Mr. Wilson expressed his hope that a bill might be passed this session, but made it clear that in view of the urgency for tariff and currency reform, he would be unable as yet to recommend any thing.

GEORGIA COTTON MEN WANT HIGHER RATES

President Gordon Tells Senators Reductions in Underwood Bill Are Too Drastic.

By John Corrigan, Jr. Washington, May 25.—(Special.)—F. B. Gordon, president of the Columbus Manufacturing company, appeared before a sub-committee of the senate finance committee today and insisted that the reductions in the Underwood bill were too drastic and would cripple the cotton textile industry.

He presented the resolutions adopted by the cotton mill men of Georgia at their convention in Columbus a few days ago.

He predicted that the increased competition from abroad in the finer grades of goods would drive the local manufacturers who now make these goods into the field of heavier goods.

"This will surely lead to overproduction," he said, "the most deadly sin that can afflict any manufacturing industry. When that results, the price is made by the weak mill or the timid holder, and there is a rush to get rid of goods without a loss, if possible."

Other Georgia mill men who appeared before the committee were F. W. Smith, president of the Muscogee Manufacturing company, and J. D. Massey, treasurer of the Eagle and Phoenix mills, Columbus.

GRASSHOPPER ARMY ADVANCING ON TEXAS

Amarillo, Texas, May 25.—Traveling northward a column of grasshoppers 5 miles wide and 18 miles long is reported in northeastern New Mexico today. Reports that millions of grasshoppers seem to spread as they travel and also the appearance of smaller bodies of grasshoppers in sections of west Texas have caused fear of a general grasshopper pest in the southern portion of Texas, western Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The New Mexico column is today between Elida and Texline. It is reported entirely denuding the land of grass as well as destroying all kinds of crops, especially alfalfa. The grasshoppers are in a starving condition by lack of pasturage after the grasshoppers passed.

Government, state and railroad experts have combined forces in New Mexico to fight the grasshoppers by using poison.

SCOTT'S BODY TO STAY IN ANTARCTIC TOMB

London, May 25.—No effort is to be made to disturb the body of Captain Robert F. Scott, nor those of the heroes who died with him while returning from the expedition to the South Pole.

Lord Curzon made this announcement today at a meeting of the Royal Geographical society, when the society's medals were presented to the widows of Captain Scott and Dr. Edward A. Wilson, and to surviving members of the expedition. Relatives of the Antarctic victims has expressed the unanimous desire that the recovery of the bodies never should be attempted.

USED UMBRELLA RIB TO GET $1,000 FROM BANK

Toledo, May 25.—With a bent umbrella giving him a means of escape, James Evans, of Chicago, robbed the Northern National bank at noon today of two rolls of bills, each containing $500. The money was abstracted from the teller's window. Pursued by bank attaches, Evans ran into the arms of a policeman.

FRANCE SUPPRESSING ANTI-ARMY AGITATORS

Paris, May 25.—Energetic action was taken by the French government against the anti-military campaign in France today. More than eighty offices of the General Confederation of Labor exchanges in Paris and provincial cities were occupied by the police.

All documents found in the bureaux were seized by order of the government, which intends to prosecute on charges of sedition, the organizers of recent demonstrations among the soldiers against the newly introduced three years' term of service in the active army.

The arrangements of the police were carefully made, and the seizures were carried out simultaneously everywhere. It was asserted that much incriminating material was found.

RICHMOND COUNTY WON'T HAVE CENT IN A FEW MONTHS

Augusta, May 25.—(Special.)—"Within three months, at the present rate of expense Richmond county will be without a cent of its credit," said W. A. Clark, county treasurer, in a lengthy communication to an Augusta newspaper dealing with the financial affairs of the county received yesterday.

Comparison of figures given in the statement show that the expenditures of the county board of education have increased 110 per cent in the last decade or from a total expenditure in 1902 of $98,000 to $202,000 in 1912.

The increase of $104,000 in the last ten years has been made, he says, despite the fact that two city schools have been eliminated from the system and only one city school has been added, which has school fees and an endowment.

"The most unique feature of the report is an item for $8,843.91 labeled 'Improvements 1660th District.' This I am informed, is the cost of a bungalow now erected at Greenwood, Ga., where the rising generations of that community are to be initiated into mysteries and miseries that develop in the manufacture of Charlotte russe and lemon pie.

"I further informed that this bungalow has been equipped with an incubator attachment, where the little ones will probably be taught to count their chickens before they are hatched. Twenty years ago, with a county digest of $24,000.00 the school rate was 21 mills. Last year, the digest $22,000.00 and the rate of tax was 39 mills and the board says it will be necessary to raise the rate for 1913."

Alleged Robber Captured.

Augusta, Ga., May 25.—(Special.)—Suspected of being the robber of the Hayley Creek Valley postoffice, Tom Toole, believed to be an escaped convict was arrested yesterday on the charge of robbery. He was seen attempting to dispose of stamps at fifteen prices, and the police notified on his person were found about 50 postal cards and a quantity of stamps.

Lieutenant Britt, of the local police force says Toole is the man who escaped from the county chargin' gang several years ago while under an 8-year sentence. He is standing in the apprehension of the parties guilty of the Horse Creek postoffice robbery.

Denounces Socialism.

Augusta, Ga., May 25.—(Special.)—Socialism was denounced as being fundamentally wrong and morally degrading as a means employed by the satan to undermine the Christian church by Rev. R. W. Thiot, pastor of Curtis Baptist church, in a sermon on that subject yesterday.

Dr. Thiot is delivering a series of sermons on "The Signs of the Times," and warning churchgoers of the city of the approaching time for the second coming of Christ.

BIG LAGRANGE MILL TO BE DOUBLED IN SIZE

LaGrange, Ga., May 25.—(Special.)—The Park mill, which has been out of operation for a number of months, will be immediately doubled in size, equipped with new machinery and started in operation as soon as the improvements and additions can be completed.

The Atlanta and West Point railroad will at once construct additional sidings for the mill for the delivery of the final negotiations looking to the reopening and enlargement of the Park mill were completed very recently by Howard Park, one of the most aggressive and active business men of LaGrange. He has secured ample eastern backing for the work, and from present indications the enlargement of the Park mill will be one of the most potent factors in the development of LaGrange, which has occurred for some time.

Mr. Park will also start work within the next sixty days on four new stores in the heart of the business district of LaGrange.

Adding to Greensboro Mill.

Greensboro, Ma., May 25.—(Special.)—Among the recent improvements in the Business life of Greensboro is the work being done on the Mary Lolla cotton mills. The mill's capacity will be doubled, at a cost of $100,000, and the work will be finished by June 6. Two large new reservoirs have been added, and several new homes have been erected. Over 200 hands will be employed, with a payroll of over $40,000 a year. Practically all of this money is spent here. The Georgia railroad has constructed two new tracks, at a cost of $7,000, and will add another spur track to cost $6,000.

HIGH COURT TO PASS ON THE GOMPERS CASE

Washington, May 25.—The district supreme court here, which originally sentenced Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison to jail for contempt of court, filed a petition with the supreme court of the United States today, asking the highest tribunal to review the decision of the district court of appeals, which affirmed the conviction of the three men, but reduced their sentences. At the same time the high court gave no other consideration another application for a review of a writ of error presented by attorneys for the convicted.

Gompers originally was sentenced to twelve months, Mitchell to nine and Morrison to six. The district court of appeals affirmed the conviction and reduced Gompers' sentence to thirty days, and Mitchell's and Morrison's to a fine of $500 each.

Attorneys for the labor leaders ask a review and reversal of the lower court on many grounds, the district supreme court, against which it is alleged the men committed contempt in the Buck Stove and Range case, asks review on the ground that the court of appeals had no authority to reduce the sentences after affirming the convictions.

Those best informed on the history of jurisprudence in the supreme court of the United States have no other instance in which one inferior court had applied to the highest tribunal to reverse another inferior court.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL BUYS 180-ACRE FARM

Athens, Ga., May 25.—(Special.)—The closing and reversal of the lower year showed fewer changes in the personnel of the faculty than has been the case in several years. Miss Gertrude Elizabeth, Miss Beesie Reed and Miss Annie Mathews resigned. Miss Sully McArthur is elected teacher of common school singing. Miss Bessie Baird, from the Stout Memorial Institute, Wisconsin, is named assistant in the domestic science department.

A second scholarship assistant in musical training is to be supplied, two vacancies in the training school made by transferring the teachers are open, and a new position is to be filled, lay principal of the dormitories, who will have ultimate direction of the dormitory life of the institution.

Authorized by the board of trustees to do so, the State Normal has bought a farm of 180 acres of good land on the river, two miles from Athens, and will utilize the tract for a dairy and truck garden of sufficient proportions to raise all the milk and butter, the hogs, some of the beef and all the vegetables the dormitories feeding 500 students will need.

Gainesville, Ga., May 26.—(Special)—Brenau college closes this week for the summer after a year of unprecedented success. The commencement exercises, which began last Friday, have been unusually interesting in mater banquet. They were treated by the girls and Miss Sadie Andrews of Atlanta responded beautifully to the welcome.

fulfilled her duties with dignity.

The long tables were brilliant with great masses of flowers and on the white damask fringed table of rooms and carnations were set up. The Brenau club of Atlanta had a special table and the girls of the class and the class of 1909 were seated at the honor table near the large windows.

banquet, the class of 1909 returned to the college and the class of 1907 to the future class of 1908. The

DRINKING HABITS OF COL. ROOSEVELT

each other which seemed to be of a jocular and pleasing nature the former president smiling and shaking his head in a laugh with difficulty.
During the day Judge Richard C.
Flannigan who presided received a telegram from Minneapolis as follows:

Don't let this sensational trial continue until I have arrived.
It was signed Jacob Miles Judge
Flannigan turned the message over to Frank Tree who was one of Colonel Roosevelt's guards while president and who is here as a witness.
Flannigan notified the chief of police of Minneapolis who wired back that Miles was insane and had been arrested.

James H. Pound of Detroit questioned the verdict of the plaintiff
Hick's associate attorneys, William H. Van Benschoten of New York and W. S. Hill of Marquette. The Detroit lawyer made it a point to ask possible jurors as to their acquaintance with the alleged defendant. He asked if a man publishes something untruthful about another you think he should be punished?

Rutledge was excused by the plain-tiff's counsel for cause.
Colonel Roosevelt sitting about 20 feet from the jury box listened attentively to the examination of the witness.
Frequently he leaned over to talk to James R. Garfield who sat beside him or looking about the courtroom nodding to people he recognized.

William J. Irving, a miner of Republican fame, is employed by the Cambria Iron company. He does not read Iron Ore in the paper in which the alleged libelous editorial appeared.
Have you any opinions which would prejudice you from giving a fair trial asked Pound.

I've made up my mind yes sir challenged for cause said Pound.
Excused said the court and the miner departed.

Label a Serious Offense
Pryor said that he believed that the label was a serious offense. He said he had no prejudice against the publication by newspapers of candidate dates for the characteristics habits and conduct of candidates.
No prejudice against such criticism said Pryor.

Thomas Howard a farmer said he was not prejudiced against either the plaintiffs or the defendants. He said he would award adequate damages if it was proved that a man was damaged by libel.
William Stansbury clerk a native of Cornwall England was asked if he had any prejudice against the plaintiff was an habitual drunkard and the defense is that the charge was justified. Would you be able to give the plaintiff a fair hearing?

Mr. Young a republican was till his recent resignation a member of congress from the Marquette district.
The validity of his election was questioned in the house by the protections and he resigned. Driscoll was dismissed on challenge by Pound targeting the result of the discussion of the alleged libelous editorial.
Get Rid of His Opinion
John Veale a night watchman who was born in Ireland said he had heard of the suit brought by Colonel Posse velt and he had expressed an opinion in favor of the plaintiff. He said he had no prejudice against either party.
You have that opinion yet haven't you? asked Colonel Roosevelt's attorney.
No I haven't it now.
When did you lose it?
I lost it when I expressed an opinion and did not believe in it.
You said that article about Colonel Roosevelt?
Yes I did.
Did you form an opinion then?
Yes I did.
Veale was excused for cause.
John I. Keeton a clerk had expressed an opinion he said but was not sure what it was. He was excused for cause.
W. Wasmuth a beer salesman came next.
You have taken sides about this question haven't you? asked Attorney Pound.
No replied the witness.
You have no opinion one way or the other?
No.
Why wasn't everybody talking of it in October?
Maybe in Marquette but not in my town Negaunee.
Do you know Mr. Young?
Slightly.
Wasmuth also knew the defendant and Mr. Belden attorney for Newell casually. He declared that he was unbiased having given the case little thought.
Do you want to sit on this jury?
It is a matter of indifference to me replied the salesman.
Said He Was an Elk.
He said he was an Elk belonging to the Negaunee lodge but did not know whether Newell was a member of the Esperanza Elk lodge. Miles away
Wasmuth thought he could be fair, even though the plaintiff had been resident of the United States.
Robert Bruce employee of a firm not competing with the defendant charges against Colonel Roosevelt as published but he never read the editorial on which the alleged libel is based. He said he knew of no reason why he could not try the case fairly.
Do you think you could give a fair charge of drunkenness against a man is serious?
I think it is a serious charge.
Bruce said he would give no greater weight to the testimony of Colonel Roosevelt than he would to that of Mr.
Veale.
Michael Hennessey a farmer said he never heard of any one expressing an opinion as to the falsity or truth of the editorial published about Colonel Roosevelt. He said he considered such charges serious if they were true.
And of course, if they were true
the court would call you there was no libel said Attorney Belden.
Judge Expects Long Trial
Early in the night session Judge
Flannigan addressed the veniremen saying:
"From the time the jury is formed,

to the return of the verdict, the jury will be in close confinement under guard of the sheriff. Before counsel exercise any of their peremptory challenges I wish to ask, are there any among you who are sick, or whose presence at home the next week or two is absolutely necessary?
To this there were no replies.
Samuel Grenfall, a miner coming originally from New Zealand, was excused on peremptory challenge from Mr. Pound. J. A. Wasmuth a beer salesman went the same way. The defense excused George Williamson, a Negaunee miner.
Before being dismissed because he said his detention on the jury perhaps for two weeks would seriously interfere with his business Frank Larson, a saloonkeeper was asked by Colonel Roosevelt's attorney. Would the fact that you are in the liquor business influence you in arriving at a verdict in this case?
No sir I think not.
You heard it discussed about your place didn't you that The Iron Ore excused Colonel Roosevelt of being a drunkard?
It may have been discussed there but I formed no opinion as to the merits of it.
Would you being kept on the jury
for several weeks and locked up seriously injure your business?
Yes I think it would injure it.
One week wouldn't but two weeks could.
Judge Flannigan ruled. I think under the circumstances we will excuse him.
Hull Miner Barred
Wearing a big blue badge on which was an emblem of a miner and a moose August Brody a miner and barred from the jury box. He had been examined by the court and found that he had heard of the publication of an article charging that Colonel Roosevelt was in the habit of getting drunk. He had formed no opinion about it. He was excused peremptorily by the defense.
Despite the lateness of the hour to which the work of selecting a jury extended the courtroom bright with a myriad of electric lights and shining mahogany furnishings was still filled with spectators. Women still lingered in the balcony and all the seats outside of the railings were occupied. Colonel Roosevelt remained in attendance giving close attention to questions asked the veniremen.

New Homes Are Being Opened Every Day Everywhere

There's a hint in that, Mr. Storekeeper.
Do you catch it?
THE CONSTITUTION advertisers know what that means.
It means that people will want rugs, china, draperies, crockery, silverware, furniture, bedding, kitchen articles and dozens of other things.
It is customary for some stores in the larger cities to set apart one day each week on which to advertise only things for household service.
All other lines are eliminated
on this one day.
It is Housekeeper's Day.
Very good policy for small storekeepers in every part of the United States to follow.
The stores that do so, work
up a good and lasting trade, for very soon, thrifty housekeepers get in the habit of watching for such advertisements and reading them closely.

PROSECUTION RESTS IN THE GIBSON CASE

Newburgh N. Y., May 26.—The prosecution rested today its case against Burton W. Gibson, a New York lawyer, who is on trial here charged with murdering Mrs. Rosa Mozhik Szabo, his client, by strangling her in the waters of Greenwood lake last July. Witnesses who testified to show Gibson a alleged motive, and physicians who swore Mrs. Szabo was choked to death and not drowned, were called to the stand by the people today. Bank tellers told of Gibson withdrawing sums of money deposited in his clients name. A surrogate clerk from New York testified how Gibson qualified as Mrs. Szabo's executor after probate of her will.
Tonight the defense opened its case.
Harry Kohl, of counsel for Gibson told the jury he would show that Mrs.
Szabo's death was accidental.

HIS JUMP GAVE RIGHT TO RECOVER DAMAGES

Washington, May 26.—Martin Pederson was carrying bolts across a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western bridge interstate track. The supreme court today held that Pederson was engaged in interstate commerce and might recover under the federal employers liability law. Justice Lamar dissented.

Superseded by U. S. Law

Washington May 26.—The Oklaoma employers liability law so far as it applies to interstate commerce was
