The police declare that the burglars would have escaped with their booty had it not been for the telephone and Chief of Police Beavers has extended his personal thanks and congratulations to the girls for their presence of mind.

Heard Glass Crash.

The young women, while working at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning heard the sound of breaking glass a the burglars smashed the window o the candy store.

Looking out of the exchange window the grils saw the two men enter a store. A third posted himself on the corner as lookout.

While several of the young women watched the burglars, another of the girls telephoned police headquarters and notified the police.

Assistant Chief Jett, Captain Mayo Call Officers Watson and Anderson and Policeman McWilliams went to the scene in an automobile. As the car, driven at top speed, dashed up to the front of the candy store, the negro who stood on the sidewalk saw the officers coming and ran. Port Tampa Negro Shoots 3 Whites; 2 Victims May Die

TAMPA, July 23.—Three white men, Ernest Chaney, Walter Chaney and T. B. Austin, were shot by Columbus Hawkins, a negro, at Port

The three white men, with G. C. Mead, went to Hawkins' house, in the negro quarter, at an early hour to collect a debt which they say Charles Bell, another negro, owed Austin. When they rapped at Hawkins' back door he told them Bell was not there. They went to the front door and were met by Hawkins. He claims they began to shoot, and shows a small wound in his finger as proof.

Hawkins opened fire wounding three of the four. All of his five bullets found a target. All of the white men are seriously hurt and it would be surprising if Ernest Chaney Gantt Sees Solicitor.

J. M. Gantt, a discharged employee of the National Pencil Factory, who Wednesday conferred with Solicitor A. Hooper, denied that he made the saw at 1 o'clock on the day that Marv Phagan was murdered Jim Conley and Leo Frank conversing together n Frank's office.

Intimation that Gantt contemplated making such a statement to the prosecution is said to have come to the defense in an anonymous letter some time ago. The writer said in effect: "I was standing on the street the ther day and heard Gantt talking to some other fellow He told this fellow that he had stood across the street Saturday, April 26, and had looked through the window of the factory and seen Jim Conley talking to Frank in Frank's office. "I don't think Gantt has told this

Lee Grilled Again.

Gantt, the Solicitor and attorney were in the jall together. They remained two and a quarter hours questioning Newt Lee closely. They went over practically the same ground that was covered in the inquest, quiz. ng him about his actions the day of the murder and his whereabouts every minute during the time before he reported at the factory and Asserting that he knows nothing whatever of the alleged bloody club Chief Lanford declared that, if Pinkerton detectives found such a weapon on May 10, or any other date they had failed to report the fact to him. Failure to officially report such a find would be regarded as a breach of the pact between the city detectives and the Pinkertons, as the latter officers, while employed by the pencil factory, have been working hand in hand with city detectives, with the understanding that any evidence they unearthed would be communicated to detective headquarters.

Fall's Resolution, Guaranteeing American Citizens' Rights Abroad, Is Tabled.

WASHINGTON, July 23 .- The Fall rights to American citizens abroad over without debate when the Senate met to-day. This leaves the resolution tabled and ready for consideration at any time the author may see fit to again call it up.

Fall agreed with members of the Senate that enough publicity has been given the Mexican situation for the present and on motion of Senator Simmons, the tariff bill was made the order of business.

Senator Fall made it plain that he was not averse to having his resolution referred to the Foreign Relations Committee in accordance with the suggestion of Chairman Bacon of that "I feel confident that sufficient publicity has been given the Mexican situation through debate on this resolution," said Senator Fall, "to make it plain that the United States either must revoke the order prohibiting the exportation of arms into Mexico, or take a determined attitude with regard to the protection of Americans in Mexico.

Senator Fall said in regard to the Mexican situation that no greater out error could be made than a continuance of the dilatory tactics pursued by the United States in the past. Agreeing with Fall in this view were a large number of Senators in both sides of the chamber.

Mr. Myrick, of Chatham, the chair. nan of the committee, is one of the Representative Wallace Legislature's really tireless workers, and sits patiently through the most exhaustive hearings, without expressing the slightest desire to cut anybody off or shut up the noise.

He seems determined to give every new county proposition coming up a 'square deal" and a full committee hearing, no matter what happens thereafter in the House.

After the new countles are disposed of, however, the work of the Constitutional Amendments Committee will be by no means at an end. There yet is to come up Mr. Edmondson's bill calling for a Constitutional convention, and while the impression is that no such bill likely will pass the House at this session, that would by no means stop the Constitutional Amendments Committee from considering, and recommending it, one way or the other, to the House.

Gainesville Bride to Repudiate Confession When Taken Before Grand Jury.

GAINESVILLE, July 22 .- Repudiating her confession as to the shooting of her ball player husband, Tom Wood, and charging a man with firing the bullet will be the sensational testimony of Mrs. Pearl Thomas Wood before the Hall County Grand Jury this afternoon. This man comes from a prominent family and his arrest is

This man was an old friend of Mrs. Wood's, and when she was told by her husband that he was going to desert her, it is said, she appealed to him. He came to the Wood home on Athens street, where a quarrel began, ending in the probably fatal wounding

Gainesville is greatly excited over morning that Mrs. Wood would completely repudiate her confession and charge the man with firing the shot Jury is in session, and the Solicitor announced this morning that an immediate investigation would be held. At a local hospital Tom Wood lies in a dying condition, a bullet hole in one of his lungs and with but two days at the most in which he can possibly live. At the county jail is his prostrated. Tuesday night she confessed to the killing, declaring that she had determined to kill her husband rather than have him desert her. She declared that he had decided upon a separation and was preparing to leave Gainesville.

According to the account of the shooting, which, it is said, Mrs. Wood will make to the Grand Jury, her hushand, another man and herself were sued, during which the other man drew a pistol. Wood ran from the house and as he darted out the front loor the other man shot, Wood falling fatally wounded upon the porch.

Quarrel Precedes Shooting.

Neighbors rushed in and found Mrs. Wood weeping over the body of her youthful husband. An automobile was obtained and the wounded man placed in it. Mrs. Wood accompanied him to the hospital, holding his head tenderly in her lap, while her cries drew the tears from others in the machine. In contrast to her piteous condition the husband charged her time and again with shooting him. His protestations that "She shot me!" "She shot me!" continued after he had been placed upon the operating table.

Bride Goes to Jail.

A few moments after the wounded man was taken to the hospital Sheriff Spencer arrived there. Mrs. Wood surrendered to him and admitted that she had done the shooting. She begged to be allowed to remain with her husband, but owing to his condition and his continual charges that she had done the shooting, it was thought best to remove her. She was taken to the county jail, where she spent the night weeping and piteously declaring her love for her hus-

"He was preparing to desert me and was going away at midnight," she told the Sheriff. "He came to the house to tell me good-bye. I made up my mind I would rather kill him than have him desert me.

Mrs. Wood is a bride of but a few months. Wood has played with the Gainesville ball club for a long while The courtship began a few months ago, when he was introduced to her at the ball park. She was Miss Pear Thomas, and comes from a highly respected family, which has been living in Gainesville for ten years. She was extremely popular and a host of her friends called at the county jail this Wood's home is in Nashville and his parents are expected to arrive eral hundred suffragists and a sufto-day. Doctors state there is no chance for his recovery.

THE PLAYS

"Good Morning, Judge,"

The universal verdict of the patrons the snapplest, liveliest and most pleasandging from the cordial reception that has been given the attraction so far, standing room will be at a premium the entire week. LIAM 20," writes a young man. "have no bad habits, and for eight months have been in love with a girl of my own age. I have arways given her as good a time as my salary would permit. One day I went to her place of employment, opened the door quietly to surprise her, and found her in the arms of a man who is known to have brought dishonor to at least two young girls.

"I have learned since that she has frequently gone to places of amusement with him. When I told her of his true character she admitted it. but said he was a good spender, and, as she was not engaged to me, I had no right to object. I love her with all my heart and would not see any trouble befall her. Should I stand side and let her pay the price?"

That would be wrong were ou only friends, and an unpardonble crime since you love her. She pleads that she is not engaged w you, and you have no right to bject. Seek an engagement, and give yourself the right!

The girl is going headlong to ruin, and a diverted interest may save her. She is not wicked; she is foolish. She is concerned only for the good times the present may bring. Make her, by the power of your love, see that there are better times in the future. Give her the interest that every girl longs for-the hopes, the dreams, the all-enveloping satisfaction with one's self and life that center around an engagement ring. A Suggestion.

Induce her to change her place of employment; you surely have women friends whose amusements are unquestionable and whose influence is for good. See that they make her acquaintance, and that she is thrown in with them. Teach her the difference between the real and the shadowy. Never find fault with what she has done, or moralize on the degradation from which you hope to save her.

Treat her as if you trusted her. Appeal to her higher nature always, letting her see that you know she is too good to do the things other foolish girls do, and for whom life is never! so long that they get through the

Always keep in her mind the little home you are building for her, and when you take her through the aircastle of your dreams explain its needs and your means as if you were talking to an intelligent being. This will give her a sympathetic understanding of the limitations of your income, and the knowledge that you are saving for her will check any envious sighs for other men who are greater spenders, and cause her to insist on a greater economy than even you had advocated,

Try it! Every good woman is using her influence to redeem some man. If this were not so, humanity would retrograde instead of progress. With these centuries of obligation heaped upon him, every man personally owes to every weak and willful woman all the influence and strength he can muster to save her,

The Best Way. The strongest influence for a woman's good is that which appeals through the heart. All sighing for vanities of dress, position and person is stifled when she loves. Vanity is a stage of silliness that her heart sooner than her head helps her to out-

If this girl loves you, it will not be impossible to rescue her. But, if she loves you or not, if she assents to ar engagement or not, does not lesser your responsibility concerning her. It she will not heed you, and you know you are right concerning this man's dishonorable intentions, you owe it to all womankind to inform the girl' parents of what she is doing.

How to Dance the "Tango-Classique"

Some Rules and Suggestions for the Up-to-Date Whirlers

By LILLIAN LAUFERTY.

THERE are as many rules for dancing as there are successful dancers now before our public -and that number is legion. But the one rule from which we can never get away if we want to really dance is: "Know your subject."

You can no more dance in a finished and attractive manner without all the ingredients that go to make a dance than you can bake a cherry pie with out flour and butter and sugar and water and cherries. Learn this rule by heart before you get up at some giddy "The Dansant," and with one eye on a supposedly admiring gallery, whirl in the mazes of a breakneck awkwardness. Up at the Ziegfeld "Follies of 1913," at the New

"Practice relaxing shoulders, knees and music-keep time, in other words. Follow the music, do steps that you have mastered, and do not do freak steps that don't fit in with your own personality at And above all, keep your toes pointed out all the time. No matter how pretty a step is, it does not look attractive if you do it in pigeon-toed fashion." He illustrated—and the same step done with pointing toe and with turned ankle and inpointed toe became a very different movement.

"Toes are very important in dancing," cried Miss Dolly, "although the modern dancer does not have to stand on them like a ballet dancer, she must keep them out and down, and sway gracefully on the ball of the foot and get the habit of keeping the instep and heel raised. A Good Way to Learn.

"A good way to learn the modern dances is to stand up and just practice relaxing shoulders, elbows, knees and ankles in a sort of gradual shuffle. Do this first standing firmly on your feet, then rise to the balls of the feet and try it again, then take a step or two with the body relaxed and swaying. Do this first without music and in front of a mirror, then add music, and do it again in front of the mirror. And finally do away with the mirror, and just yield as unconsciously as possible to the rythm of the dance. You will be surprised how easily it will come after you have learned to relax.

"Then you must add steps to your ingredients of knowing how to keep time, how to relax and how to express the feeling that music gives you," added Mr. Brown. "Master a quick, little, short step and a long glide, combine them in various ways, add a little ability to kick gracefully—not high necessarily -but with gracefully pointed toe and an appearance of ease-and watch clever dancers for suggestions as

Fat Hens Declared To Be Best Layers

Grain Feeding Gives Desired Result. Expert Tells When Fowl Is Useless.

By JUDGE J. F. MARSHALL. It is no secret with a great many poultrymen and farmers that a wellfed, fat hen is a good egg producer, in spite of the hue and cry by a certain onclusion that it is the fat but energetic hen that gives us the eggs. Corn Not a Bad Feed. I have seen hundreds of hens dressed for the table, and it has been almost a universal rule that the hen that was full of eggs in various stages of formation was also full of layers of fat. I have observed hundreds of farmers who would feed their hens corn almost exclusively the year round and market eggs by the bushel all the time. They were stock farm ers who had more corn to spare than any other kind of grain, and they nade use of it. How often you have heard corn condemned? Some go so far as to assert that it should not be fed to hens at Did you ever stop to think that the olk of the egg is about 60 per cent fat, while the white and shell contain no fat? The yolk being the first part the egg to form must necessarily nave, as the Irishman said, the where-be there ready for the work. Surplus Energy Gives Eggs. We must remember that the egg manufactured from the surplus energy the hen has over and above that necessary to maintain her body in a good, healthy condition. As soon as that point is reached she begins to lay on the reserve, which is fat out of which the egg is made. There may be an occasional hen that will take on fat abnormally and get filled up so as to retard egg production, but we must take the chances on that if we are working for heavy egg production. Such hens usually are not worth much for eggs in any

There is a class of hens that tend to take on fat outside of the digestive tract on the lower part of the abdomen. They get so fat that it is difficult for them to walk. As a rule such hens had just as well be disposed of as soon as found in that condition, for 74 Ivy Street. the fat is in such a position that it can not be utilized in egg formation These are drone hens which give many persons the idea that fat hens are useless. They are the exceptions that prove the rule.

Professor James Rice, of Cornell poultry department, says it has been his experience that hens will consume considerably more food a time before they begin to lay, another indication that they are preparing the system for the great strain to be put upon it. Experiment Suggested. Then did you ever notice how ravenously a hen taking care of chickens will eat in her endeavor to recoup herself, and how, as soon as she has fattened up, she will begin to lay? For the sake of experimenting along

What You Can't Do NOW, You Can Never Do.

There Is No Such Thing as a To-morrow That Is to Do Wonders. To-morrow Means NEVER. It Is a Word of Failure.

Don't plan for anything to-morrow, unless you ARE WORK-ING AT THAT THING TO-DAY.

A picture on this page shows you one of a million young men who say "I will make a start to-morrow."

There is no such start, there is no such to-morrow.

If you can't work to-day, you can't work to-morrow.

If you can't begin the thing to-day, you can NEVER begin it. To-morrow is a word that in every language means NEVER. It means self-deception, disappointment, idleness, lack of purpose.

When a thought comes to you, get at it. Don't say to yourself, "I will do that sometime; perhaps tomorrow." Make a note of the idea, think it over, plan for it, BEGIN IT. If you can't start it now, you never can do it.

The thing to do is to work to-day, and to keep working tomorrow and every other day.

Keep your mind on to-day, devote the hours of to-day TO THE WORK OF TO-DAY.

Then when to-day's working hours are over, and you have actually done all that you can in those hours of work, permit yourself, if you choose, to think of plans and dreams for the fu-

There is not a young man in the country without some good idea, some good plan, some earnest hope in his mind.

But the curse of a million is, that the plan, the idea, is to take form and become real TO-MORROW.

Get away from that to-morrow habit.

You need not take literally the advice, "Live as though this were to be your last day." A man who starts a house must believe that he has days in which to finish it.

The thing to do IS TO START THE HOUSE TO-DAY, and let the to-morrows take care of their work.

We print this picture because it seems, in the attitude of the man sitting under the tree, to typify the attitude of a great many American young men, and to give a needed rebuke.

If you are sitting like this boy, with your arms folded, your feet together and your head down, jump up, throw back your shoulders, take a long breath, and start now up that hill that leads to success.

Pity this poor "futurist" of failure. He is the futurist of to-morrow, the futurist of the plan that will never become real action. He is as dismal a failure in his way as those poor so-called "futurists" who invented what they call a new style of art, and have only succeeded in being unusually hideous.

Don't BAKE Your Baby== Many Mothers Do It

Hese Is Common Sense Advice from the Chicago Health Department. Read It. Profit by It.

There are too many "BAKED" babies in this world. Everywhere you see unfortunate little babies suffering with the heat, dressed in woolen or in stiff, starched clothing that adds to their sorrow, babies better suited to the arctic regions than to a hot summer day in a hot city.

Many mothers need the advice which is given and reproduced here. The two pictures are from a bulletin issued by the Chicago Health Department.

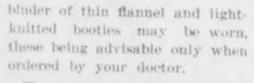

This little tot is comfortable and happy when the Summer days are hot. He is dressed right to stand wrong for hot days. THE BABY IN SUMMERTIME.

A baby can be more comfortable in hot weather than an adult, but few of them are.

The pernicious and senseless habit of dressing a baby in flannels and endless frills and fancies on hot summer days is such a common practice among moths ers of certain nationalities that scores of babies are literally baked to death during the summer months.

During the very hot weather babies should wear only a diaper and a thin gauze shirt. If under six nenths of age, an abdominal

These few clothes are all that are needed, but they must be kept clean, solled garments being promptly removed.

Never replace a used diaper on a baby without first washing it. Wetted or soiled diapers must be washed with as little delay as possible, using hot water in which a little soda has been dissolved. Rinse well and see that they be perfectly dry before

Demain, Morgen, Manana, Domani

All these words mean the same thing. They mean TO-MORROW, and they mean FAILURE.

All clothing should be loose and so adjusted as to permit free motion of the legs and arms. Never put starched, stiff or uncomfortable clothes on a baby. Having dressed your baby correctly, now see that you place the child where it will get fresh outdoor air. Put it in a shaded place on the porch and cover its resting place with mosquito netting to prevent flies from annoying and possibly infecting it. Never keep a baby in the kitchen when you are cooking or washing. When the child must be in the house keep it near an open window in the cleanest and cool-

In very hot weather give your baby a sponge bath two or three times a day, using lukewarm water in which a little salt has been dissolved, or you may use a little alcohol instead of the salt. Never give these baths immediately after feeding; better give them before feeding. Take

Rational dressing, fresh air and cleanliness will do much to keep your baby in good physical condition and will go a long ways toward enabling it to survive the summer dangers.

Writes on Culture

Women, No Matter How Highly Accomplished They May Be, She Says, Lack Real Culture if They Allow Evil Temper, Evil Speaking, Selfishness and Uncharitableness to Grow Into Their Nature.

Written for The Atlanta Georgian By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

DERHAPS there is no word more frequently misused than the word Culture. We often hear a woman spoken of as highly cultured. But in what does her culture

She may speak several languages; she may play several instruments; she may be able to talk understandingly of the arts and sciences; she may kno much of the customs of many lands, but still she may LACK REAL

If she is allowing the weeds of evil temper, evil speaking, selfishness and uncharitableness to grow in her nature, she is not cultured.

That always means that the earth of that land is carefully tilled and that every weed is removed; every ugly thing banished, and every beautiful and useful and valuable thing is fertilized, dug about, encouraged and helped to grow. So It is with the mind.

A Cultivated Person.

Unless ungracious and unlovely traits are removed, and all the virtues cultivated, mere education which comes from books and money can never I ake a cultured person.

What constitutes a cultivated personality? What is it that uplifts character and beautifies con-

The answer to both questions can be found in the advice Buddha gave his pupils five hundred years before Christ was born: "Do nothing to another that you would not have done to you," and by Christ's improved rendition of the motto: "Do unto others as you would that they should do

There is no higher phase of culture, and there is nothing which beautifies conduct and character like the practical and perpetual use of the Golden Rule in daily life.

The majority of people regard the keeping of the Ten Commandments as a literal fulfillment of that rule's obligations; but one who contemplates its entire meaning realizes that it applies to every trivial act of daily life and necessitates culture as well as morality.

The loud, jarring voice, the uncontrolled temper, the neglect of bodily cleanliness and disregard of dress-all these things break

A "cultivated personality" includes cleanliness, neatness, a certain conformation to the customs of the day, or of art, in dress; a well modulated voice, an attentive manner in listening to others, a well poised body, a direct and easy carriage and walk, and a pleasant, agreeable expression of countenance.

The path to character building is a long one; there is no short cut.

It requires continual watchfulness, continual self-control, to travel that path.

But it is a way which grows more beautiful, and the world seems more interesting and life sweeter each year as we advance, when the goal of a beautiful school. After a while he added seven other months to these ten. Equipped with seventeen nonths' education, he became the president of a college. One day when his schooling was over he called a meeting of the feudists in the Cumberlands. One group sat, sullen and armed, at his right. Their enemies, just as sullen and as well armed, sat at his left. He made a plea to them for the sake not of themselves, but of their children; a plea to give the little ones a chance to learn something, to forget the enmity of the feud spirit, and to be able to go out from the mountains as useful men and women.

It was a new idea to these feud followers, but the man's eloquence prevailed to the extent that the two leaders of the clans arose and shook hands.

With a bit of land and fifty dollars the man began to build the college with his own hands. There were plenty of heartaches and discouragements, but no want of trust. Then the college began to be a real thing, visible to the eyes of men.

That was ten or twelve years ago. To-day the college educates about six hundred people annually. Little children, young men and women, fathers and mothers come from all parts of the mountains. eager to get an education

The man who has done all this has never taken a penny in pay, He does his work as a distributer, and therefore has no need to take an anxious thought.

Thirty cents a day will bring one of these mountain people to the college and will pay for board, lodging and education. Less than sixteen cents a day will pay for it all if the farm about the school can supply the student with an opportunity to work to the extent of fourteen cents.

The man who has done all this is J. A. Burns, of Oneida, Kentucky.

He was one of the first to see that the mountain problem was to be met only by the most practical form of Vocational Training, and and he has given a living demonstration of the truth of his idea.

He saw clearly that not only did these people need knowledge, but that they needed the kind of knowledge which they could apply in the daily work of their
