STATE TAKES UP CASE OF POINTE KNIGHT

Exposure of Evidence by Prisoner's Lawyer Aids Prosecution in Preparing for Battle.

With certain of the strong defenses of L. H. Frank exposed by the preliminary battle over the custody of the negro Conley, the prosecution in the Phagan murder mystery went to work on the case Saturday with its first definite line of attack.

It was assumed that the accused man's lawyer would not react with fighting suspicion away from Frank, but would seek to fasten the guilt so firmly upon Conley that Frank, not only would be acquitted, but that he would be cleared of every stain which has been cast upon his name and reputation by the terrible charges lodged against him.

Report was filed Saturday morning that the attorney for Frank had not yet acknowledged defeat in their efforts to have Conley commit the crime. Instead of at the police station, where they charge he is improperly protected and "hoisted" by the detectives. The next move was required to be the swearing out of a grand jury to compel Conley's removal to the tower.

Sinclair's Mother Reviles Kemp 'Southerner Would Have Shot Him' 'Author Not Free Love Believer'

Novelist and Family Sail for Germany to Study Family Conditions There.

NEW YORK, June 14.—If my son, Upton, had been a true Southerner he would have killed Harry Kemp! This was the vindictive utterance of Mrs. Sinclair, mother of the novelist and Ardente, as he and her son, his new wife and the latter's sister, Miss Dolle Kembrough, were about to leave for Germany to study family conditions there.

Upton's silent contempt for Kemp shows his great charity of mind, continued Mrs. Sinclair. She added in spite of the many stories printed of her son's liberal views, he is not a believer in free love.

Sinclair declined to discuss Kemp, "the tramp poet," who was successful in wrecking Sinclair's married happiness by winning the love of his wife, Mrs. Meta Fuller Sinclair.

CITIZENS INQUIRY ON DEEP VICE

Grand Jury to Go Into Court Again Tuesday, Taking Up Dictograph Records.

It was practically certain Saturday the Grand Jury had determined to investigate the vice and dictograph charges when it met again Tuesday.

Foreman L. H. Beck Saturday morning said every mail brought him numerous communications touching on some phase of the vice or dictograph question, and that every one urged a thorough investigation. He said if the routine cases could be disposed of, or put aside, the probe would begin in earnest next week.

"We would have taken this matter up long ago had it not been for the critical cases presented by the Solicitor," said Mr. Beck. "When we meet and the witnesses in the cases have been summoned, it would be unjust not to dispose of the cases and let them go. If the calendar is light next week in all probability we will go into the general investigation."

While names of witnesses have been furnished in anonymous communications, almost every person who has testified before the Grand Jury in its investigation thus far has furnished the names of persons who would testify to substantiate one or the other side in the controversy. Some of the witnesses say they can tell of the existence of wholesale vice, while others state the conditions are better in Atlanta than they have ever been.

Colonel Thomas B. Faylor, Mayor James O. Watson, Chief of Police J. Lee H. Brown and Detective Chief Newport Lanford have each registered a request with the Grand Jury that the telegraph incident and the counter charges be investigated.

FEAR RIOT AT FUNERAL OF MILITANT PARTY

Police Guard Route and Troops
Are Ready—Mrs. Pankhurst
Rearrested as Precaution.

Special Cable To The Atlanta Georgian.
LONDON, June 14.—Police precautions on a grand scale were taken by Scotland Yard to prevent disorder in connection with the funeral parade here today, planned by militant suffragettes in honor of the memory of Emily Wilding Davison, the suffragette who received mortal injuries in trying to break up the Derby.

Home Secretary McKenna made preparations for any contingencies which might arise from the possibility of rioting being fanned among the militants, worked up to a pitch of frenzy, which would lead to actual bloodshed.

The headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union were thronged hours before the time set for the start of the procession from Victoria station, where the offices of Kinseyway the police had a difficult time keeping a lane open for traffic.

Mrs. Charlotte Despard, one of the influential members of the union, told the press that she had been arrested as though Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst were there to guide them.

There was no session of the trial against the militant suffragettes, and in order to allow them to attend the Davison funeral.

PROSPERITY STOCKS SALES

Gems and Pianos, a Drug in Dull
Years, Are Going Fast—Jobbers Busy and Happy.

Were there any slowing down of business in Atlanta, luxuries would be the first to feel the change. Jewelry certainly is to be classed as a luxury—something the public can dispense with in any pinch of circumstances.

"Sales of diamonds are on the gain," says H. W. Anderson, of Maier & Herold, jewelers. "Our diamond business has increased about 50 per cent a year. In general, the volume of our sales held even for the first four months of the year. May showed a gain. June will show a greater gain, from indications. This is comparing with 1912, which in itself was the greatest of 26 consecutive years."

Pianos are not among the necessities of life, whatever the musician may think. Piano sales fell off in 1912 years.

H. S. Holmes, of the Cleveland-Manning Piano Company, says the business of that concern for May was ahead of any month of this year, and the total date for 1913 ahead of any year's sales for an equal period.

"Collections are improving," says Mr. Holmes, "instead of declining. Piano sales are the first to fall off in bad times, and the last to recover afterwards. Since our sales are increasing, we take it as an indication that general conditions must be sound."

Jobbers supplying the territory contributed to Atlanta are satisfied with the present state of affairs. They are selling customers what they need, in great quantities.

Weather conditions were ideal, the ponies were in excellent condition, and it was expected that to-day's game would furnish even more thrills than did Tuesday's, which was won by the Americans by the score of 1:11 goals to 3.

The Americans were slight betting favorites, odds of 4 to 1 being offered, but there was little English money in sight.

They Cut Honey From Honeymoon

Birmingham Couple Achieve Fame
Magic City Grasps at New Fad

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker, of Birmingham, who declare their honeymoon in Europe was devoid of romance.

Joseph Walker and Bride, Back From European Wedding Tour, Popularize Latest Way.

The "Magic City" of the South, otherwise known as Birmingham, Alabama on the map at last—it has a fad, the first ever recorded in the smoky city, termed the "Walker Honeymoon," named for Joseph Walker, who, with his bride, says there wasn't any honeymoon to their "honeymoon" across the seas.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker, who have just returned from their brief trip, told reporters in New York their "honeymoon" trip was entirely voluntary, in common terms, or romance, the stirring news was flashed to all parts of the country, including Birmingham, and now the "Magic City" who are engaging themselves and getting married are following suit—in other words, they have "cut the romance stuff" for it's the fad.

If reports are true, florists and others who have been making big trades off as a result of numerous church weddings in the Magic City are preparing to cut slashes and profits in various ways to meet the demand in business, since the "Walker Honeymoon" fad hit the town immediately.

In short, Old Romance is on its last legs in Birmingham, for what the Walkers, who are among the first socially, in the city, say, goes. And this is entirely natural, say the fadists, for the "Magic City" is first, last and all the time an industrial city—and whoever heard of such a combination as romance and industry?

FIGHT WARD TO CRASH FRANK'S DEFENSE

State Plans Battle on Points
Outlined by Prisoner's Lawyer.

With certain of the strong defenses of Leo M. Frank exposed by the preliminary battle over the custody of the negro Conley, the prosecution in the Phagan murder mystery went to work on the case Saturday with its first definite idea of the sort of a stronghold it must assault.

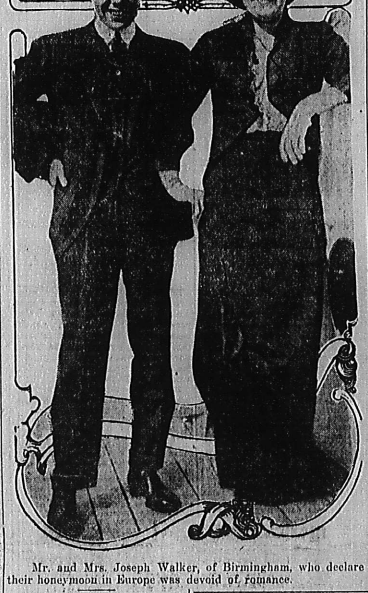

It was assumed that the accused man's lawyers would not rest with flailing suspicion away from Frank, but would seek to fasten the guilt firmly upon Conley that Frank not only would be acquitted, but that he would be cleared of every stain which has been cast upon his name and reputation by the terrible charges lodged against him.

Report was late Saturday morning that the attorneys for Frank had not yet acknowledged defeat in their efforts to have Conley confined at the Tower instead of at the police station, where they charge he is improperly protected and "petted" by the detectives. The next move was rumored to be the swearing out of a warrant charging the negro with the murder, to compel Conley's removal to the Tower.

Luther Z. Rosner, chief of counsel for Frank, has branded as most unusual a report that the procedure which has allowed the negro, who has confessed to being accessory after the fact, to have Conley confined at the Tower instead of at the police station, where they charge he is improperly protected and "petted" by the detectives. The next move was rumored to be the swearing out of a warrant charging the negro with the murder, to compel Conley's removal to the Tower.

Chief of Detectives Lanford said that if he was apprised of the contemplated move of the attorney to see the negro's stories investigated by an impartial body, he would be sure to have the investigation into the possibility that he is even more seriously connected with the crime which resulted in the gruesome death of Mary Phagan.

JUDGE SPEER UNDER FIRE; RECORDS PROBED

Inspector of Department of Justice in Macon Investigating Official and Private Character.

MACON, GA., June 13.—The entire official record of Judge Emory Speer is being investigated by a special agent of the Department of Justice, J. T. Lewis, an assistant in the United States Attorney General's office, and a personal representative of Attorney General McPherson, has been in Macon for a week engaged in this work.

Not only the official acts, but also the personal character of Judge Speer is also being scrutinized, with the view of determining if there is any foundation for charges of an impeachable nature.

Judge Speer is fully informed as to the purpose of the visit of Inspector Lewis to Macon.

Started by Huff Changes. It is said that the investigation was promoted by the charges made last year by Colonel W. A. Huff, who has since been found guilty for sending to Judge Speer the letters which contained the accusations. However, the Huff civil case does not, it is said, figure to any great extent in the investigation, the probe being concerned with the judge's record for the past 25 years.

Inspector Lewis has interviewed numerous Macon attorneys, court officials and citizens, and he has begun the taking of affidavits. Newspaper files are also being consulted.

District Attorney Alexander Akerman declines to make any statement as to the investigation, referring to the investigation to the Attorney General for information. Mr. Lewis also refuses to discuss the assignment.

Not Opposed by Bartlett. It is believed here that Congressman Bartlett was approached by the Department of Justice in regard to the investigation of Judge Speer, and that he did not oppose it.

Colonel Huff states that regardless of the activity of the Department of Justice he is proceeding with his plan of publishing a book on the charges which he will make against Judge Speer. He says that his charges have slight connection with the case, but deal almost altogether with the fact that Judge Speer has been found guilty by the special agent in charge of the investigation.

The disclosure that Judge Speer under fire has caused a genuine sensation here.

Lucky '13' Follows President Wilson All of Hoodoo Day

WASHINGTON, June 13.—As usual, the fatality of the number 13 followed President Wilson on this Friday, June 13. The President awoke this morning to the realization that this was his "lucky day."

The hands of the simple alarm clock which serves to awaken the Chief Executive pointed to 7:13 o'clock as he awoke. Exactly one hour later the President sat down to breakfast, and 8:13 marked his entrance to the executive offices, where he found that Joseph Tumulty (13 letters) had placed 13 roses in his vase.

Thirteen names in connection with the Industrial Commission were presented by Secretary of Commerce Redfish, who arrived at 10:29 (the figures). The cabinet session was unusually late, it being 11:15 before the President called the meeting to order, noting that five of the men assembled (William J. Bryan, Franklin K. Lane, David C. Houston, William Wilson and William McAdoo) each had 13 letters to his name.

Aviators Fight Fire At 2,000 Feet in Air. ST. LOUIS, June 13.—Tony Janus and Arthur Iminger had a thrilling fight with fire 2,000 feet in the air at Alton, Ill., this morning. Janus is flying to Chicago in a hydro-aeroplane. Near Alton one of the tail rods worked loose and Iminger turned in the machine and caught the rod, intending to hold it.

Iminger had to stand over the engine pipe and his coat caught fire from the engine sparks. Janus released the levers quickly, and, seizing the burning coat, tore it from Iminger's back.

Motorcyclist Injures Bicyclist Internally. Edward Stewart, a negro, started across the street on his motorcycle Friday morning to go to his work at the St. John's hospital.

C. A. Cate, a Southern Railway switchman, who was riding his motorcycle at a high rate of speed down Marston Street, failed to see the negro and his machine knocked Stewart art down and injured him internally. He was taken to Grady hospital, where his condition was stated to be serious.

A charge of speeding was lodged against Cate.

VICE INQUIRY RESUMED BY GRAND JURY

Action Creates Surprise, as Probe Was Thought at End—R. R. Jackson on Stand.

The Grand Jury again took up an inquiry into the vice situation Friday afternoon, when a number of witnesses were called to ascertain the exact methods used by the Atlanta police department in their endeavor to stamp out vice.

The announcement that the Grand Jury would probe deeper into the vice situation came as a complete surprise, for it was stated several days ago that the Grand Jury had finished with this question.

R. R. Jackson, a former justice of the peace, now a member of the law firm of Gohler & Jackson, was summoned to appear before the Grand Jury, together with John H. Gossett, a former bailiff, who is now employed in Jackson's office.

Mr. Jackson stated that he knew of no reason why the Grand Jury should call him. He admitted, however, that for many years he represented in an official capacity many women of questionable character, and that his knowledge of the residents of the hoodlum at one time was fairly accurate.

It is now thought that the Grand Jury will uncover the exact conditions of vice in this city previous to the closing of the houses, for the purpose of determining whether conditions are worse now than they were at the time the houses were closed.

Many other witnesses are scheduled to come before the Grand Jury, and there is no doubt that the probe is on its earnest.

Jackson Tells Vice Facts. R. R. Jackson was before the Grand Jury for more than an hour. He testified at length explaining many matters relating to vice in this city and was questioned closely regarding the order of the courts in restraining order prohibiting the vice from closing up the house of Mrs. M. P. Jackson.

Mr. Jackson quoted the law to the Grand Jury, and stated that under the law judges in the District Court have no other alternative than to grant the restraining order. Jackson gave a gross account of the vice concerning vice as a general problem. He is considered the most important witness that has been summoned by the Grand Jury during the whole of the vice probe.

Washington detectives are securing a charge of speeding was lodged against Cate.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers, who is in Washington, secured the aid of the District detectives to have the youth located. Although the search has been in progress two days, it has carried the detectives no further than to locate Miss Jeanette Hoening, a law clerk, who said she witnessed the murder, without rendering it or making any report. Miss Hoening said the paper was signed by her in room 402 of the Western Building, occupied by the Louisville and Nashville Hotel.

Chief Beavers would not comment on any new leads in the case. He was of the same opinion, Chief Lenford had expressed—that the paper was not genuine and if genuine were produced he would testify that it was a forgery.

Colony Faces No Difficulty. A colony of new immigrants has no special difficulty in locating Georgia. He said the young men had been employed as a stenographer for one month and had been returning to Atlanta. He was out of Georgia for two months and had been furnished every agency in America with letters stating that the jury had determined to make an exhaustive investigation.

Friday, the 13th, Ends Atlanta Jinx; Big Pump Working

Friday, the 13th, was a lucky day for Atlanta, viewed from the angle from which "Zode" Smith, manager of the waterworks, looked at the situation. The day brought nothing but good luck to him, and he walked into his office at the City Hall wearing a smile like unto the one worn by the gentleman in the moon.

"Why shouldn't I smile?" he asked, when questioned about the cause of his ultra-pleasant disposition. Then he answered the question: "That 10,000,000-gallon pump at the river is working to-day, the first time since last April. If you had had the same bunch of trouble lifted from you that I've had lifted from me, you'd be smiling, too."

The big 10,000,000-gallon pump put only got out of order in April, but it almost went to pieces.

NEGRO FREED BUT JAILED AGAIN ON SUSPICION

Rosser Declares Gibbering Statements' Point Out Swearer as Guilty of Slaying.

James Conley, self-confessed accessory after the fact in the murder of Mary Phagan, Friday was discharged by Judge L. B. Noon, entirely from the custody of the State on the petition of Hollister Dorsey.

Technically free, Conley was at once rearrested and held by the police on suspicion in the murder mystery. The action of Judge Noon constituted a victory for Hollister Dorsey, who was fighting to prevent the authorities returning Conley to the Tower from which he had been taken on the representation of his attorney, William M. Smith, that the negro was threatened and intimidated in the Tower.

Attorney Z. Rosser, attorney for Leo Frank, made a bitter protest against the liberation of the negro, who was the only legal alternative to returning him to the county jail. He made a still stronger protest in a formal written statement placed on file as a record in the case.

Accused Conley as Slayer. In this morning's edition of the Atlanta Georgian, together with the attorney's complete alternative to returning him to the county jail. He made a still stronger protest in a formal written statement placed on file as a record in the case.

Attorney Rosser pointed out these highly suspicious circumstances in detail and went on to say that there was still more evidence which might be regarded as incriminating if the facts could be brought to the attention of the Grand Jury.

Less than ten minutes was occupied in the disposal of the case, Judge Noon did not read either the statements of Attorney Rosser or that of William M. Smith, who submitted the reasons he wished his client kept in the police station. The dispatch with which the petition was accorded to be granted, stated that the negro had been arrested and had fought legal battle but had been separated from his attorney.

Judge Noon said he was without authority to hold the negro in the custody of the State so long as he had no formal application from either side. The Solicitor, he said, was asking for the release of the prisoner, and Attorney Rosser had characterized his statement only as a "suggestion."

Smith's Charge. Attorney Smith's statement to the court charged intimidation, and that influenced unduly to Conley and brought to Frank back at the back of the movement to transfer Conley back to the jail. He alleged that neither the interests of justice nor the interests of Conley could be safeguarded by removing Conley from the police station.

Sheriff Mangum branded as an infamous lie the charge that the interests of Conley could not be safeguarded in the county jail, and had not been safeguarded. The only person who was in the charge of the negro during and threatening Conley characterized the accusation as absurd and grossly and willfully exaggerated. It was present to testify at the hearing but was not called.

Part of the Petition. Mr. Rosser's paper was headed: Application of Hugh M. Dorsey, James Hollister Dorsey, to release James Conley from Legal Custody.

In answer to the petition and order of the court, the following was filed on us, as attorney, we have made our own investigation and show cause as follows:

If in the intention of the Solicitor General is to discharge this negro from custody because he is in the fact not a material witness against Frank or (b) although he is a material witness, his interests and the interests of the State are such that he ought to have his liberty and be trusted to obey the subpoena of this court, then consider it as a witness only, he ought to be discharged and not to be held in custody...

But if the Solicitor believes that one of a number of contradictory statements made by this negro may, if properly preserved, be made available in the prosecution of Frank and that the negro may destroy its value if left free to talk, and in order to stop his mouth it is necessary that the detectives should keep him in charge, then we think we have the right to protest against any order of a court of justice that winks at such a purpose.

Release Not Considered.

We are constrained to the conclusion that it is not the purpose for any reason to release this negro, but in maintaining the order we would continue the present illegal confinement. That Frank is himself deeply interested in this proceeding. That the consent of the Solicitor and the will of the negro is all that is required to reverse the will of the law is erroneous. The State has the right in the interest of justice to put a witness in custody, but where it is clearly and in whole known that the highest importance, the law has been violated, the State has the right to put a witness in custody, but where it is clearly and in whole known that the highest importance, the law has been violated, the State has the right to put a witness in custody...

RETAIL ACTIVITY FOR BUSINESS

Dealers Report Sale Increases in All Lines, With Unusually Good Collections.

Retail trade in Atlanta is making a remarkable showing. Nearly every Whitehall Street merchant reports an increase of sales over 1912, good collections and remarkable amount of cash trade.

They were not so cheering, the statements made by the merchants in their unanimity. Busy streets, busy clerks, and busy office forces bear out the assertions of prosperity and further emphasize the fact that the depression in New York is by no means to be taken as typical of the conditions in this city.

"I don't like a croaker," remarked P. J. Parson. "The other day, I raised a friend's head of conservative business, dropped in to see me. He certainly was blue.

"Business is rotten," he ejaculated. "I don't know anything about the inside of your business," I told him, but I'll bet you a box of cigars that your sales are ahead of last year's."

"That he went the box of Havana cigars is an odd thing, but his accounting department runs a total of his sales, and wrote me a note saying that he had sold the cigars and got rid of the blue. He also showed several hundred dollars' worth of profit over last year's.

PLAN BOULEVARD ON IYVY TRACKS TO ALLEVIATE CONGESTION

Council Committee and Arkwright Tentatively Agree to Scheme to Ease Congestion.

Ivy Street for a boulevard and Piedmont Avenue for double track car service was the plan tentatively agreed by the street railway committee of the General Council and President P. B. Arkwright, of the Georgia Railway and Power Company, Thursday afternoon.

Pending grading and repaving, Ivy Street has been stripped of car tracks, and to compensate the street railway company for loss of Ivy Street franchises by permitting the laying of double tracks on Piedmont Avenue.

President Arkwright agreed this scheme would be advantageous to the city and to the street railway company as well as to the city.

The double track service on Piedmont would extend from East Pine Street to Decatur, it would take care of the street railway company's traffic north of East Pine Street, and would relieve congestion to Pine Street.

With Ivy Street as an exclusive vehicle thoroughfare, even this kind of traffic would be diverted there from Peachtree street, faster schedules could be maintained. Vehicles in turn, could make faster progress on Ivy Street.

The Ivy Street boulevard project came up when President Arkwright asked the Street Railway Company for two franchises, one on Piedmont Avenue from Decatur to Gilmer, and one on Ivy Street from Woodwood to Auburn. These franchises are for short rights of way designed to facilitate ingress and egress to and from the car barns.

It was shown that it was made known the desire of the committee to convert Ivy Street into a boulevard and divert street car traffic to Piedmont Avenue.

Arkwright asks more time. The plan would include the street franchise sought by the street car line from East Pine Street to Edgewood. President Arkwright suggested that the plan would be accepted by the committee, but Arkwright further times before agreeing to the plan.

At the convention in Atlanta, it was proposed that the street railway company should be given the right to sell its franchise for the street car line, but the plan was not adopted.

In This Weather--GIVE YOUR BABY A DRINK OFTEN

It Cries for Water Oftener Than for Food Copyright, 1913.

Warm weather means, unhappily, the usual numerous and unnecessary deaths of children. White hearses come out in this weather...

Thousands of children in the big cities are killed every year-- In New York, for instance, because tenement house owners have more influence with politicians than mothers and children...

And children die all over the country, because the lesson of pasteurization has not been thoroughly taught and doctors that ought to know better are stupid enough to oppose it...

There are a few things for mothers to remember. If you are worried about your baby, have a doctor see it, A GOOD DOCTOR.

Don't wean the baby when the weather is very hot, if you can possibly help it, or when it is ill. The change in food upsets the digestion and may be fatal at a critical moment.

FEED YOUR BABY REGULARLY. Sacrifice everything to this important point. The child's stomach gets used to food at certain times, and digests it easily at those times, if the food is regular.

Get a doctor's advice about feeding a baby if it is delicate. Every two hours in the daytime, and every four hours at night will do for a healthy child.

Don't dress your baby warmly, HAVE NOTHING TIGHT AROUND ITS NECK OR STOMACH, KEEP EVERYTHING LOOSE AND AIRY EVERYWHERE.

Have your windows open day and night. Keep the baby off the dirty floor, where it gets germs on its little hands and puts them in its mouth.

Remember that in the really hot weather the thinnest possible clothing is all that a child needs. One little, thin, cotton shirt, low-necked and without sleeves, will do while the baby is indoors.

Avoid strong draughts. But better a draught than not enough air.

Above all, give your baby enough to drink. If the baby cries in hot weather, give it two or three spoonfuls of water, cool, BUT NOT ICE.

Boil the water that you give your baby. And KEEP THE BOILED WATER TIGHTLY OOKED IN A CLEAN BOTTLE so that germs won't get into it.

Feed it with a spoon dipped in hot water, A CLEAN SPOON.

Dangerous signs of disease that carry off children suddenly are vomiting and diarrhoea. Notify your doctor, or the Health Department, AT ONCE.

Let your baby REST. KEEP THE FLIES AWAY FROM IT, THEY BRING DISEASE.

A young baby, washed clean in the morning, with cool but not cold water, put on its back almost naked on a bed with a mosquito netting thrown over the top of the bed (but not touching the child)--such a baby, fed regularly, with water to drink when it wants it, will be happy in hot weather.

Don't let the children tease the baby. Don't let grownup people play with it and tire it. Remember that it is GROWING UP AND DOING NOTHING ELSE. Don't try to awaken its intelligence or make it laugh.

If you stir up the little brain you disturb the little stomach.

Remember, WHENEVER A BABY CRIES SOMETHING IS WRONG.

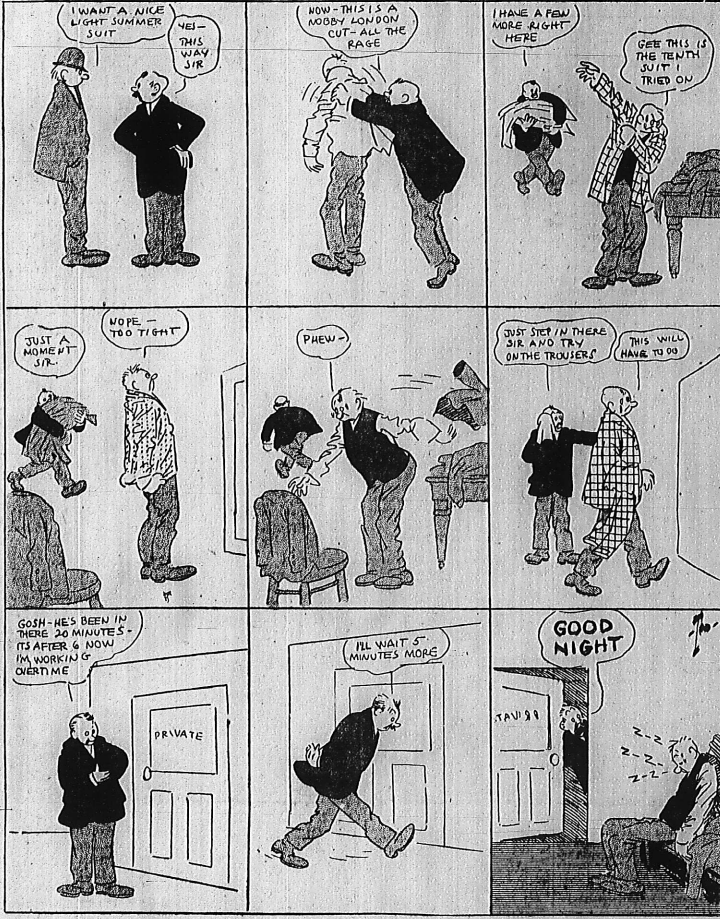

Don't get cross; FIND OUT WHAT'S THE MATTER; that's your business. It may be a tight string, a bandage drawn too closely around the legs, need a change of linen, or it may be thirst.

Don't feed the baby every time it cries. Give it water. Remember that.

If you offer to nurse a baby when it is thirsty it will take the breast or the bottle TO BELIEVE ITS THIRST, and thus YOU FOIBE IT TO OVEREAT.

Incidentally, vote and work for better conditions in this rotten world, which allows tens of thousands of children to die every year needlessly, because of poverty and official neglect.

The Dead Hand

Writes on The Dead Hand Young Men Are To Be Advised, He Says, to Cut Off the Dead Hands of Their Grandfathers Who Hold Them Back, and Listen for the Applause of Grandfathers Who Cheer Them On.

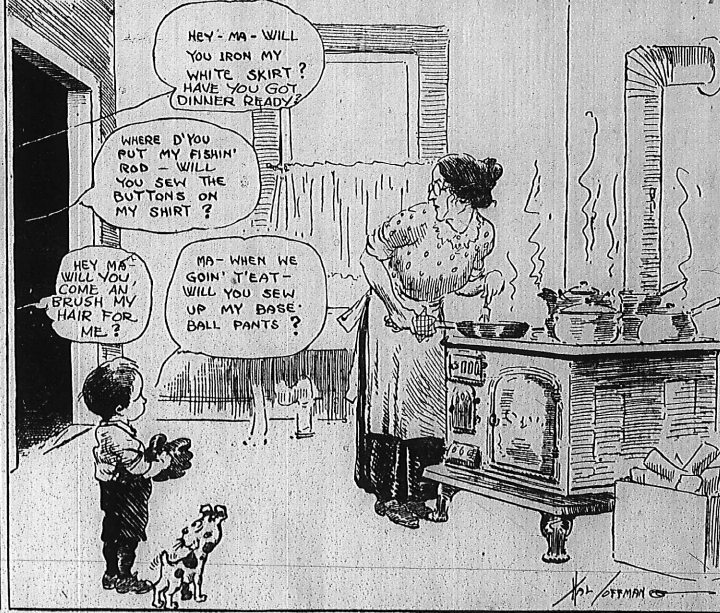

WRITTEN FOR THE GEORGIAN BY REV. DR. JOHN E. WHITE

In Sir Walter Scott's novel, 'Old Mortality,' the central figure is an aged man obsessed with the idea that when people die they ought to die and be forgotten. He therefore made it his business to travel from churchyard to churchyard laboriously chiseling off the names on the tombstones.

The genius of Sir Walter discerned in human nature a ground for 'Old Mortality's' mad fancy. To cut the names off the tombstones was the romantic way of protesting the clutch of the past upon the present--the remorseless grip of the dead hand.

Song of the Little Americans in Congress

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

GIVE us public buildings! Pass around the pork! Every hungry Congressman wants to load his fork! Fight and wrangle over jobs! That is what we're for; Reluctant the foolish, clap that proppesses a war! Shipa? We wouldn't give a rap for all the ships afloat. What's the sense of battleships? Sailors cannot vote! Let the navy rot and rust! What gives HER a thrill? Is joining in the 'TEAS' that pass a public building bill.
