OPPORTUNITIES HALT IN CASE OF LADIES

Beavers Tells Clubs—Tells of Complaints.

Chief of Police Beavers inaugurated a war on all of the locker clubs of the city Friday which are selling liquor to boys and girls under age or are in any way violating the locker club regulations. The crusade is especially designed to keep young girls out of the locker club.

Chief Beavers' action followed instructions from the Grand Jury Friday morning ordering the police department to clean the city of all its salaried, loafers and other persons of evil repute. It was the sentiment of the Grand Jury that the presence of this class of people constituted a constant menace to the welfare of the city and very probably was largely to blame for the wave of crime which has swept Atlanta in the last few weeks.

The chief made it plain that the police would continue their campaign against the clubs until the vicious practices of which many citizens have complained in the department have been wiped out. He declared that he had received scores of complaints which related that boys and girls of tender years had been seen intoxicated in many of the clubs of the city. Here is the chief's order as it was given to every policeman on the force:

Beavers Called by Grand Jury to Tell More in Vice Probe

The Grand Jury plunged into the vice problem again when it met Friday morning. Chief of Police James M. Beavers was called over the telephone and was closeted with the jury for more than an hour. When he left the room he would make no statement other than he had been questioned on some phase of the vice investigation.

Foreman L. H. Beck and the Assistant Solicitor, E. A. Stephens, would not discuss the somewhat "inside" nature of the investigation.

It was understood the chief was questioned closely about "houses in the midst," which communications to the foreman charge are in existence in Atlanta.

Play in both matches began at 10 o'clock while a large crowd gathered the court of the Piedmont Driving Club. The veteran Thornton displayed his old time form, but Carter started off with a rush that put Thornton to the wall. Hallman and Orr started their match with perfect play.

Saturday will be the last day of the tournament, the men's doubles and mixed doubles being the programme.

Fortune Menace to Heirs, Not Builder, Minister Declares

That all wealthy men are not bad and that the peril of their riches is not for their children, was the declaration of the Rev. Dr. W. H. Riley at the Baptist Tabernacle last night in the opening sermon of a series on the Book of Job.

Few Witnesses of the Scores Examined Will Be Called When Case Is Heard.

That the trial of Leo M. Franklin will be a much shorter time than is generally thought was indicated in a statement by Judge L. B. Root, the judge said the greatest difficulty and almost as great a length of time would be consumed in drawing a jury as in the hearing of the case. He said the actual taking of evidence might not consume more than a day, under Root's estimate that he expected neither side to introduce the scores of witnesses who had been examined and made affidavits, but that from these witnesses the State and the defense would select the most material evidence, or select points and then introduce the most reliable testimony, who could cover the ground.

For instance, eight or different persons might be able to testify on some different minor points, while there would be one witness who could testify to the same thing, the difference in witness could be the difference in thought would be the one to go on the stand, and the others would not be called.

Controversy Over Peachtree Paving Breaks Out Again

The asphalt controversy between the city and county officials was revived Friday by unfavorable reports on the Peachtree Road work. This asphalt costs about $40 a ton, while similar material can be purchased for a little more than $30 a ton.

WILLING TO GO BEFORE THE PEOPLE

Accepts Thomson's Proposal to Have Warring Factions Re-sign and Run Again.

Mayor James G. Woodward declared Friday he would accept the challenge of a number of Councilmen and Aldermen that they all resign and run before the people in the fall election to determine who was right in the acute controversy between the Mayor and Council.

"Their purpose would be accomplished to the letter by the submission of the proposed new charter, which they recently threw in the washbasket, to the people," he said, "it legislates us all out of office."

"The charter fight is more a matter of personalities than anything else, anyway. More than 5,000 voters have demanded through signed post-cards that they be allowed to express themselves."

Mayor Ready to Run Again.

"Let them submit the charter, I'll run before the people with them."

The situation grew serious Friday as a result of a reopening of the fight between Mayor Woodward and the Council over the $200,000 promissory note. Councilmen and Aldermen of the Fourth Ward, had suggested the resignation plan. Councilmen, Charles L. Ashley, of the Fourth Ward, W. D. White, of the Ninth Ward, C. C. Mason, of the Tenth Ward, George W. Brown, of the Sixth Ward, and C. D. Knight, of the Second Ward, and Alderman J. R. Nutting, of the Sixth Ward, stated positively they were ready to resign and run on the new charter.

Mayor Woodward had tentatively agreed to the $200,000 promissory contract, it was passed by the Aldermen Board Thursday afternoon in a way that the Mayor disapproved. Alderman J. H. Harwell, friend of the Mayor, used his Aldermanic prerogative and held up the matter for two weeks by moving reconsideration. When the contract finally reaches the Mayor his disapproval is expected.

Officials of the Destructor Company of New York, which is building the incinerator are very much worried over the turn of affairs. The incinerator is almost complete, but the company had not received a cent of pay from the city.

The issue now is one of five legal points. The usual plan is for the Council to authorize a contract and the Mayor to execute it. In this instance, the Council has accepted a request of the Destructor Company by resolution. The point is that Council feared the Mayor might refuse to execute the contract and they would be blocked. If he disapproves the resolution passed he can be overridden.

Flet Fight in Council.

Alderman Harwell said the Mayor had pledged his good faith to execute the contract so long as no reference was made to the old contract, feared illegal by the State Supreme Court. But he asserted that the Mayor would veto Council's present action and the whole matter would again land in the courts.

A real flat fight was enacted as a sequel to the recent clash of words between Mayor Woodward and Alderman James R. Nutting in the Council chamber just before the convening of the session by Reporter Walter Meade, of the Constitution, and Alderman Nutting.

Alderman Nutting entered the room and demanded of Reporter Meade why his report of the Woodward controversy was so full of misstatements. Alderman Nutting raised one finger at the reporter, but they talked in low tones and there was surprise in the chamber when Meade struck the Alderman a heavy blow on the nose. Alderman Nutting was again against City Marshal James Fuller, but, regaining his balance, he struck back at the reporter, blood streaming from a small wound on the nose. Immediately they were separated.

Alderman Nutting said he was seeking an explanation and was much surprised at being struck.

Reporter Meade said that Alderman Nutting strongly intimated that he was a liar, and that he could not stand for that.

Mayor Tom Warren said he did not expect any more of this kind of a fight.

Deputy Latham Target Champion

Sheriff O. Wheeler Mangum, whose expression shows he is partial to barbecue.

Coin Six Times at Distance of One Hundred Yards.

"Barbecue," said Sheriff O. Wheeler Mangum, "is a great nerve food. It keeps the eye clear and the arm steady. I always make my best target record of the year at Lowry Arnold's cue."

Well above 60, the Sheriff is one of the best revolver shots in the county. He came within a few points of establishing the highest score Thursday when deglutite and the county police contested for the record after the barbecue given by the Solicitor of the City Court.

Henry Latham, Solicitor Arnold's deputy, made the record. At 100 yards he knocked a 50-cent piece from a log six times in succession. His nearest rival was Mr. Arnold and the third the Sheriff.

CONNORS URGES BREEZE CHECKS
BETTER MEAT INSPECTION TRIES FLIGHT

Commissioner Says Many Packing Houses Are in Awful Condition. Wants Bigger Force.

"Slaughter and packing house conditions in Georgia are horrible in many instances," said Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Connors Friday morning when commenting upon his hearing of charges against Swift & Co.'s American agency Thursday.

"The pure food department is making every effort to prevent the offering of bad meats for sale and will strenuously prosecute every violation. We are badly handicapped, however, on account of the few men we have. We should have at least half a dozen additional inspectors. Inspector Methvin has done splendid work."

"In my report I am recommending that an additional appropriation be made for carrying on the work. This could be taken out of the earnings of the department."

"In one place near Marietta Mr. Methvin discovered conditions too horrible to relate. In other places conditions nearly as bad have been reported. The people of Georgia should have pure meats and I sincerely trust the Legislature will see the wisdom of increasing the appropriation."

While no other cases are booked for a hearing before Commissioner Connors, close tabs is being kept on several places in being kept on several places and a second finding of bad conditions will be followed by prosecution.

Judge Sees a Short Trial for Frank

Fortune Menace to Heirs, Not Builder, Minister Declares

Few Witnesses of the Scores Examined Will Be Called When Case is Heard.

That the trial of Leo M. Frank will take a much shorter time than is generally thought was indicated in a statement by Judge L. R. Roan. The judge said the greatest difficulty was not the number of witnesses, but that from these witnesses the State and the defense would select the most material evidence, or salient points, and then introduce the most reliable witnesses who could cover the ground.

For instance, eight or ten different persons might be able to testify on some different minor points, while only one or two would be called to testify to the same thing, the difference being that the latter, he thought, would be the one to go on the stand, and the others would not be summoned.

Affidavits Are Plentiful.

As a matter of fact, it is known that there would be affidavits on almost every witness of the pencil factory. While he questioned, he found little that they any new light on the case. He examined closely and had each sign an affidavit, he found little that they any new light on the case.

Witnesses Examined.

Other witnesses by the score were brought to the Solicitor's office as a result of the wild rumors connecting with the crime. Those who had seen Mary Phagan at various times during the trial, he said, and it was very doubtful whether they would be called.

That the trial of Leo M. Frank will take a much shorter time than is generally thought was indicated in a statement by Judge L. R. Roan. The judge said the greatest difficulty was not the number of witnesses, but that from these witnesses the State and the defense would select the most material evidence, or salient points, and then introduce the most reliable witnesses who could cover the ground.

For instance, eight or ten different persons might be able to testify on some different minor points, while only one or two would be called to testify to the same thing, the difference being that the latter, he thought, would be the one to go on the stand, and the others would not be summoned.

Affidavits Are Plentiful.

As a matter of fact, it is known that there would be affidavits on almost every witness of the pencil factory. While he questioned, he found little that they any new light on the case. He examined closely and had each sign an affidavit, he found little that they any new light on the case.

Witnesses Examined.

Other witnesses by the score were brought to the Solicitor's office as a result of the wild rumors connecting with the crime. Those who had seen Mary Phagan at various times during the trial, he said, and it was very doubtful whether they would be called.

CHIEF PLANS TO CRUSH ROBBER BANDS

Will Crim Jails if Necessary, He Declares--Policemen Receive Special Empatic Orders.

Vigorous war on looters and vagrants who haunt saloons, pool rooms and street corners was declared by Police Chief James L. Beavers Friday morning, as the first step in a campaign to rind up the gangs of burglars and footpads who have been terrorizing parts of Atlanta for the last two weeks.

Chief Beavers made a personal plea to members of the day watch to arrest every person who does not give a satisfactory account of himself, and to force all suspects to prove they have a means of livelihood other than hanging around pool rooms and street corners.

Wants Them All Arrested.
"Beginning Friday morning," said the chief to the patrolmen, "I want every loafer and vagrant in Atlanta arrested. Every man must keep a close watch and pick up all suspicious characters."

"Go into the pool rooms and the saloons, and if you see loafers there, arrest them. If they claim they work, take their names and addresses and investigate, and you find they are trying to crack them up."

"If you must drive out this element that breeds crime and vice."
Detectives Get Orders, Too.
Chief Beavers announced that he will issue personal instructions to the evening and morning watches, and impress upon them the necessity for increased vigilance to rid the city of the gangs of criminals that have flocked here within the last week or ten days.

The detectives have been given orders similar to those issued to the patrolmen, and Chief Beavers says he will crowd the city jail with loafers and vagrants if necessary to stop the epidemic of crime.

FORK TALK BEING DONE

Few Witnesses of the Scores Examined Will Be Called When Case Is Heard.

That the trial of Leo M. Frank will be a much shorter time than generally thought was indicated in a statement by Judge L. S. Hoan, the judge said the greatest difficulty almost as great a length of time would be consumed in drawing a jury and then introducing the most reliable evidence, or in presenting the case. He said the actual taking of evidence might not consume more than a day. Judge Hoan intimated that he expected neither side to introduce the scores of witnesses who had been examined and made affidavits, but that from these witnesses the state and the defense would select the most material evidence, or salient points, and then introduce the most reliable witness who could cover the ground.

PROPOSITION TO BE PUT TO WOODWARD THAT MAYOR AND ALL MEMBERS RESIGN.

So acute has become the breach between Mayor James O. Woodward and the City Council that definite plans are under way for a referendum of the whole matter to the people in the fall election. Deciding the situation to be hopeless, a number of Councilmen are banding together to take up Councilman Thomson's plan and make a formal proposition to Mayor Woodward that he and the whole Council resign and run for reelection, permitting the people to decide who is right in this clash of policy.

The situation grew serious Friday as a result of a reopening of the fight between Mayor Woodward and the Council over the $260,000 crematory contract. Councilman Albert Thomson of the Fourth Ward, had suggested the resignation plan. Councilmen Thomson, Claude L. Ashley, of the Fourth Ward, W. D. White, of the Ninth Ward; C. C. Mason, of the Tenth Ward; George H. Boynton, of the Sixth Ward, and G. D. Knight, of the Second Ward, stated positively they were ready to resign and run on that issue.

A number of other Councilmen and Aldermen stated privately that they felt like resigning for good.

Good Jobs, Says Mayor.
Mayor Woodward said the plan was a good job. He declared that the very same plan was proposed by the new charter, demanded by a mass meeting of more than 500 people, but that Council was as dead as a post. He said that fifteen members of Council would have the privilege of seeing what the people thought of them in the fall elections.

Mayor Woodward had tentatively agreed to the $185,000 crematory contract, it was passed up by the "Aldermen Board" Thursday afternoon in a way that the Mayor disapproved. Alderman J. H. Harwell, friend of the Mayor, was a dignified and impressive celebration of the day.

A movement has been started to have the principal observance under the direction of prominent officials. It will take the form of patriotic exercises in which the reading of the Declaration of Independence will have a part. It is proposed to have some speaker of prominence to deliver an address on the significance of the day.

An effort will be made to limit the observance as far as possible all of the features of the celebration which, while they appeal to the young people, are hedged with a great deal of danger. The use of giant cranes, other explosives and pistols will be discouraged, although, as a matter of fact, they are very little in evidence even now.
