Dr. Starnes Leads Organists' War on Old 'Jingle' Hymns

Never again will Atlanta churchgoers or any other churchgoers, for that matter, "sing and jingle" on such familiar hymns as "Thou art the Life Line," "The King's Business," etc. If Dr. Starnes and his followers at the national convention of organists at Asbury Park, N. J., have their way, numerous organists, heard by Dr. Starnes, announced disapproval of certain hymns sung for generations.

No hard and fast line has been drawn in this contemplated omission. Anything with a "jingle" or a "jingle," the organists' association, headed by Dr. Starnes, announced disapproval of certain hymns sung for generations.

Goose Hits Paralytic; Quick Cure Wrought

LOWANVILLE, Aug. 10.—Arthur J. Roddington, a rancher, suffering from partial paralysis of the arms and legs for several years, was holding around near his ranch when a goose flew across the road and struck Roddington on the back of the neck.

He instinctively threw up his hands to his neck. When he recovered his composure, he found that he had the complete use of his arms and legs.

Asbury H. Hodgson, Influential Citizen of Athens, Is Dead

Asbury Hall Hodgson, of Athens, well known to many Atlantans, died last night at his summer home at Dillard, Ga., where he had gone in the hope of recuperating. He had been in feeble health the past few years.

Mr. Hodgson was a successful business man of Athens. He was active in the work of upbuilding his home town. At the time of his death he was a member of the firm of Hodgson Brothers, president of the Southern Manufacturing Company, one of the largest cotton mills in the State, and was interested in many other concerns. He was a steward of the Methodist church. He aided many charities.

Police Seek Missing Mother and Child

Detective Staunley searched for Mrs. Edna E. Mills, 26, and her pretty 8-year-old girl, who are reported to have disappeared Thursday from their flat in the Fairley Apartments.

Mrs. Mills, the husband, his father and child, and has asked the police to use every effort to find them.

According to information obtained by the husband, Mrs. Mills and the little girl went with another woman

New Brain Surgery Device Is Invented

SPECIAL Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, LONDON, Aug. 10.—Delegates to the medical congress are greatly interested in Dr. R. H. Clarke's device for mapping out the brain and removing parts which are perhaps boys to various disorders of the body.

The instrument has a tiny tube, a needle, supported on a thin tube, and the direction of the needle is regulated to a hair's breadth by a series of scales.

Surgeons who examined the machine here convinced the time is not far distant when they will be able with it to operate for paralysis and insanity.

Strikers Beg for Copper Mine Jobs

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 10.—End in the near future to the strike of 3,000 copper miners in the Calumet region was predicted today by the operators when 1,000 members of the miners' union appeared at the Calumet and Hecla company's mine early today and asked for their old jobs.

Reports from over the district today said that mines were being put in operation with the aid of non-union workers and disaffected strikers.

Law League Notices Tenderline to Leave

EUPATULA, Aug. 10.—Following the restricted district, representatives of the Law and Order League served notices on the residents of the district that unless they leave the city within a reasonable time the league will carry its case before the Grand Jury and have the State court take the action that the Council believes that segregation is the best solution of the social evil.

Premier Gets Hero Cross

ATHENS, Aug. 10.—Premier Constantine, of Greece, was today decorated by King Constantine with the grand cross of the Order of our Saviour for his valuable services to Greece during the Italian war.

MODERN JIM BLOUSE DROWNS

Dancers Rush From Sinking Boat While Engineer Holds Prow on Shore, Then Dies.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Aug. 10.—Divers who explored the steambath, Peter Lee on the bottom of the Mississippi River at Lake Providence, La., today reported finding the body of Engineer Frank O'Neal, the boat holding the engine throttle.

He died there when the boat sank last night, having stayed at his post and held the boat's nose against the shore until the last of the 100 passengers, most of them women, were helped ashore.

O'Neal's act is practically a realization of the martyrdom of Jim Blake, famed in the poem as the steamboat engineer who held her nose to the bank till all were saved, then was burned to death at his post.

A dance was on when the Peter Lee struck a sunken coal barge. A hole was torn in her side. The captain ordered the pilot to steer for the shore. The boat struck and all passengers and crew began taking off the piers.

"Frank O'Neal in the engine room kept the stern wheel churning while the water poured into the hold.

A negro shouted through the engine room door that the boat was sinking.

"I know it!" shouted O'Neal. "You fellows get on up front where you can get off! I'll hold her nose against the shore!"

The last passenger was safely landed when the boat sank in 40 feet of water.

SAVING SALTER USED FUNDS WALL ST.

Chairman of Investigation Committee Hints at Impeachment Proceedings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Governor William Sulzer, of New York, was nearly $50,000 in debt as the result of stock market speculations at the time of his nomination, and used contributions to his campaign fund to make additional purchases of stocks while this debt was hanging over him, according to testimony presented to the Finance committee of the Legislature.

The evidence is sufficient to warrant proceedings to impeach the Governor for violation of the corrupt practices act, Chairman Fraley declared. A decision as to the committee's recommendation is expected by Monday.

The Governor, according to the evidence, had dealings with three different stock exchange firms and was saved from being sold out by one firm by L. N. Josephthal, a Wall Street banker, and a member of the Governor's staff, an investment adviser, Josephthal, it was brought out, paid a "kick" of $15,779 still standing against the account on July 11.

This was after the Governor had received repeated calls for more margin.

Used Campaign Funds.

The Governor's transactions with the other firms were for cash, and it was in connection with one of these that Governor Sulzer, according to the evidence, used campaign contributions.

Arranged chronologically, the testimony appeared to show that on January 1, 1912, there stood on the books of the stock exchange firm of Harris & Fuller an indebtedness of $4,499 against the purchase by Governor Sulzer of 100 shares of "Big Four" 100-shares American bond and 100 shares of Southern Pacific. This testimony was given by Morris H. Cull, president of the firm who on Wednesday had refused to answer the questions of the committee. He has now testified.

Josephthal announced that the Governor had agreed that Mr. Fuller's lips should be sealed for him.

There were no other purchases of stock recorded on this account, according to the witness, until December 6, 1912, when the Governor bought 100 shares of "Big Four," making 400 in all.

On December 11 the firm, according to a letter produced by the witness, made its first call upon the Governor for more margin. The book showed that on November 15 previous the Governor had paid in $10,000 against the account, and that on December 16, apparently in response to the call for margin, he paid in $5,000 more.

During Governor's Campaign.

In October of the same year the evidence indicated that Frederick Cook Co., the Governor's alleged "dummy," purchased from Buyer, Griswold & Co., 200 shares of "Big Four" railroad stock outright at $6, for $1,200, the 222 representing commission. This was at the height of Mr. Sulzer's campaign for the governorship and transcripts from the "Friday" books showed the stock bought on October 16 was paid for partly in checks, at $1,200.

The increase is partly an account of the establishment of a number of wholesale houses. Two additional clerks have been employed in the office during the past year.

House Votes Three Appropriations for Agricultural Work

The House of Representatives today passed several important appropriations.

For the Entomological Department to fight black rot and the boll weevil, the such enemies of cotton, $20,000 was voted.

For publications and maintenance of the Department of Agriculture, $10,000 was appropriated.

For the chemical department in the Department of Agriculture $7,500 was ordered.

These bills now go to the Senate for approval.

Grubb Sets Monday For Rate Argument

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 10.—Judge Grubb, of the Federal Court, today ordered that the Alabama Railroad Commission putting into effect the 3 1/2-cent passenger rate Tuesday next, decided that inasmuch as Judges Shelby and Pardee sit with him on the original question it was necessary to get a majority of the three on the subject of the restraining order by putting an appeal from the decision.

Judge Grubb made the statement, however, that without the restraining order it would hardly do any good to appeal. Judge Shelby offered Monday as the date for the argument. Briefs have been sent to Judge Pardee and Shelby.

Arnold Sees O'Neal Regarding Judship

ANNISTON, Aug. 10.—J. J. Arnold, whom Governor O'Neal appointed chief justice to succeed E. J. Crook, resigned, but who was not defeated by W. H. Cooper, who died Thursday, went to Montgomery yesterday to see the Governor in regard to a second appointment as associate justice.

John M. Crook, chief clerk, has declared that he is an applicant for the place, as have A. H. Stimpson, clerk of the City Court, and W. L. McCan, who managed O'Neal's campaign in his county. Trial cases only Judge Arnold and W. F. McCartney, a local newspaper man, in the race.

Held in Florida as Slayer of 5 in 1896

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 10.—A white man who gives his name as W. T. Hester, has been arrested at Kistmiller, charged with the murder of his wife and four other persons in 1896.

He was committed seventeen years ago. He will be held until California officers are sent for him.

The description sent out from California tallies exactly with the man held at Kistmiller, even to a mark on one of his feet. Blackley denies he is Dutton, the man who did the killing in California, but ex-sheriff Frevall, who arrested him, says he admitted killing two men in that State.

Girard, Ala., Postoffice Growth Phenomenal

COLLETSVILLE, Aug. 10.—A remarkable record is shown by the report of the Girard, Ala., postoffice for the year ending June 30, 1913, which has just been made public.

The report for June 30, 1912, showed the receipts of the office to be $2,974.90, while the report for June 30, 1913, showed that the receipts for the year were $19,213.16, or an increase of $16,238.26.

The increase is partly an account of the establishment of a number of wholesale houses. Two additional clerks have been employed in the office during the past year.

WOMEN NEVER CAME INTO FACTORY OFFICE, WITNESS TESTIFIES

The second week of the Frank trial ended at 12:30 Saturday with a bitter battle in progress over the testimony of Herbert G. Schiff, assistant superintendent of the National Pencil Factory.

Schiff was called soon after court opened in the forenoon and was on the stand when the adjournment was taken until Monday.

Schiff, besides denying that Frank ever had women in his office, describes in elaborate detail the duties of the superintendent, particularly his work on the afternoon the little Phagan girl came to her death. It was the purpose of the defense to show that it would have been most improbable that Frank, after committing a murder, calmly could have sat down with the burden of guilt resting on his conscience and proceeded with his usual presence in the intricate and involved computations required in making out the financial sheet.

Dorsey was given the witness toward the close of the session and started at once to attack Schiff's estimates of time that it would have required for the various details of the work. Schiff made a good witness and the solicitor was able to make little headway in his cross-questioning.

Says Frank Explained Nervousness.

Schiff admitted to Dorsey, however, that Frank was really anxious to get the Pinkertons on the job and that Frank called from his home three times at intervals of little more than an hour, instructing Schiff to take the matter up with Big Montag, one of the officers of the pencil factory company. He said Frank declared it to be the factory's duty to its employees.

Schiff also admitted that Frank several times explained his nervousness on Sunday, the day when the body was found, by the abrupt manner in which he had been taken from his house without any breakfast or coffee and by the visit to the morgue where the light suddenly was turned upon the body of the girl victim as she lay before his eyes.

A search Saturday for C. B. Dalton, the man who told of visiting the factory with Miss Daisy Hopkins, developed that he had disappeared from the courthouse. He was called for by the defense when court opened, but did not answer. One of the girls mentioned in his story declares in a letter to The Georgian, that Dalton lied in his statement.

The cross-examination of Schiff will be resumed when court opens Monday morning.

Financial Sheets Put in Evidence.

Reuben Arnold had in court the financial sheet over which there has been much discussion since the murder mystery developed. Schiff identified the series of figures and notations as in Frank's handwriting. Arnold had also every financial sheet for the year previous to the crime, and Schiff identified them all as Frank's work. He said that the least complicated of the financial sheets never took less than 2 1/2 or three hours to compile.

The financial sheet identified as this one Frank prepared the afternoon of April 26, the day of the murder, was displayed as an evidence that the writing of Frank was not tremulous, irregular or in any way different from his handwriting in the 61 other financial sheets on file.

Schiff went into the highly complex methods in which the financial sheet is made up, in order to show for the defense the clarity of mind that was required in order to complete the sheet without mistake or confusion.

He narrated that costs and profits were estimated each week out of thousands of pencils of different classifications and grades, on hundreds of gross of rubber leads, on the various classes of pencils, boxes, "skeletons" on which the pencils were arranged, and other items of material that entered into the manufacture of the pencils. Schiff also read a number of orders to illustrate the amount of other work that ordinarily is taken care of on Saturdays.

An attack was made upon the testimony of young George Epps, who court opened Saturday morning. Epps was called to the stand and made a full and complete statement of the visit of a Georgian reporter to his home Sunday evening, April 14, last time either of you had seen Mary Phagan, who was killed. Epps declared that he did not talk to the reporter. He reported that the sister reported that she had seen Mary Phagan Thursday before, but that young Epps, although present, said nothing. Epps declared that he had seen the girl occasionally. Arnold questioned the boy.

HERE'S THE TIME CLOCK PUZZLE IN FRANK TRIAL; CAN YOU FIGURE IT OUT?

THE RIDDLE OF THE CLOCK IN THE PHAGAN MYSTERY

Jim Conley swears Mary Phagan went up the stairs of the National Pencil Factory and was murdered before Monteen Stover arrived. He says he saw Miss Stover go up and leave. Monteen Stover, State's witness, swears she arrived at 12:05.

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

All of this, according to Conley, before Monteen Stover entered the factory—that is, before 12:05 certainly—swears that she saw the "body" lying on the floor of the factory before 12:05, necessarily.

HOW TIME HAS BECOME THE CRUCIAL POINT IN THE TRIAL OF LEO M. FRANK

CONFESIONS OF HOLLOWAY SPOLS CLOSE OF GOOD DAY FOR THE DEFENSE

What promised to be a very favorable day for the defense in the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, was today applied at its close Friday by the withdrawal of K. F. Holloway, day witness for the State, from the trial. Holloway's confession under the fire of the Solicitor General was more than offset by the importance of the testimony which had gone before.

ACCUSED STUDIES FOR HALF HOUR DEFENSE'S MODE OF FACTORY

Indications were strong that the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, would be in progress from ten days to two weeks longer when the third week began Monday morning.

Solicitor Dorsey had not yet completed his cross examination of Herbert G. Schiff, assistant to Frank at the National Pencil factory, when court reconvened. Schiff had made an excellent witness for the defense and it had been impossible for the Solicitor to make much headway in developing circumstances incriminating to the defendant.

Mrs. Jacob Belg, aunt of Leo Frank, was the third woman visitor of his family to the court Monday morning. She had a seat near the prisoner and his mother and wife.

Before court convened Frank asked permission to examine the paper model of the National Pencil Company that had been offered in evidence by the defense. He spent some thirty minutes closely examining this model.

Frank was in court early. His wife and mother came in and kissed him, taking seats on either side of him.

Schiff had made an excellent witness for the defense and it had been impossible for the Solicitor to make much headway in developing circumstances incriminating to the defendant.

Mrs. Jacob Belg, aunt of Leo Frank, was the third woman visitor of his family to the court Monday morning. She had a seat near the prisoner and his mother and wife.

Before court convened Frank asked permission to examine the paper model of the National Pencil Company that had been offered in evidence by the defense. He spent some thirty minutes closely examining this model.

Frank was in court early. His wife and mother came in and kissed him, taking seats on either side of him.

INTEREST UNABATED AS DRAMATIC FRANK TRIAL ENTERS ON THIRD WEEK

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

The third week of the most remarkable murder trial ever known in Georgia opened to-day with no apparent lessening of the acute interest and grim appeal heretofore attaching to it.

The public has come to realize thoroughly and completely that the issue is a battle not only between the State and the defendant, Leo Frank, but between Leo Frank and the negro Jim Conley.

Presumably, the defense will take the entire week rounding out its case and perfecting its understanding of Conley's story.

It does not seem that the State will have employed approximately the same amount of time in telling its story that the State employed in telling the other side.

The first powerful and bewildering shock of Conley's tale, unanticipated in its full sinister details, was passed away in a measure, it seems.

It is but the simple truth to say that the day of and the day following Conley's awful charge, in addition to the one of murder, marked the climax of the State's case and the zenith of feeling against Frank.

Then it was that the outlook for the defense seemed to be the most dismal, and then it was that the State's most loyal friends and sympathizers began to grow apprehensive and sore afraid.

Doubt Begins to Grow. Since the defense began its pleading, however, there has been something of a revolution of feeling.

Not that the defense is out of the woods yet, by any means—as a matter of fact, the defense still is very deep in the woods, and while there may be those who think the darkness is lessening, they are not so sure.

As the frightful charge of perjury was the most prejudicial thing injected by the State against Frank, so as a natural consequence, it is that to put his character frankly in issue the thing remaining most to be done is to remove that prejudice, if possible.

As the matter stands now, the attitude of Frank's character, as entirely upon Conley's word—Conley has been corroborated not at all on any direct charge, and he has been corroborated, even indirectly, in the most doubtful way.

It is rather curious, in a way, that practically every vitally effective and controlling point in this case should reduce itself eventually to a question of truth between Frank and Conley.

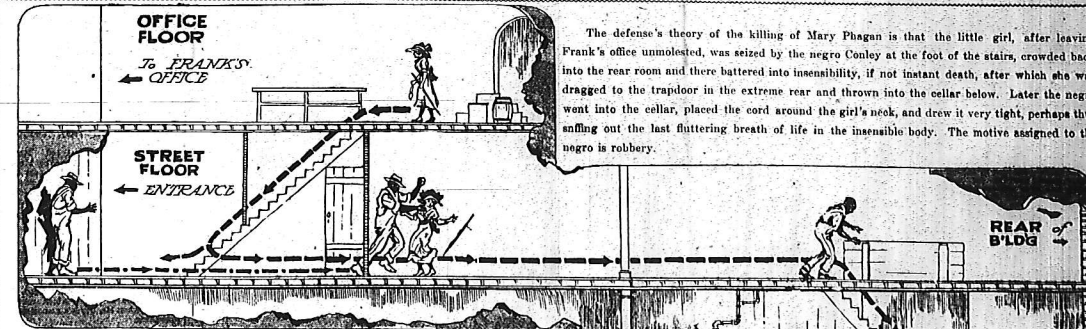

Nothing Fidgety About Frank. The Leo Frank of this week of his trial is not the Leo Frank of last week and week before last.

If spectators were inclined for a time to think the quiet, reserved, unassuming young man sitting over there beyond Luther Rosser and Buckner Arnold, the slight, thin man immediately behind the only two women in the entire court room, was in any way indifferent to or unconcerned with the progress of the trial—his own trial, and for a brutal murder, at that—they have changed their mind now.

They have changed their minds as completely as Leo Frank has changed his attitude. If there is anything in external appearance and surface indications I should say that Frank is, in practically any and all circumstances, a man of very marked sensibility.

DIAGRAM SHOWING DEFENSE'S THEORY OF THE KILLING

The defense's theory of the killing of Mary Phagan is that the little girl, after leaving Frank's office unmolested, was seized by the negro Conley at the foot of the stairs, crowded back into the rear room and there battered into insensibility, if not instant death, after which she was dragged to the trapdoor in the extreme rear and thrown into the cellar below. Later the negro went into the cellar, placed the cord around the girl's neck, and drew it very tight, perhaps thus snuffing out the last fluttering breath of life in the insensible body. The motive assigned to the negro is robbery.

Grief-Stricken Mother Follows Testimony Without Bitterness

By TABLETON COLLIER.

That black-and-white woman in the corner of the courtroom—nobody has noticed her much. Things have happened so swiftly in the Frank trial that all eyes are on the rash of events, waiting for a quiver on the face of Leo Frank, watching with morbid gaze the brave faces of Frank's wife and his mother, studying and passing about the case the numerous witnesses present.

And the woman is an unobtrusive, so plainly out of all. The tears, whose traces are evident on her face, were not shed as a result of this trial. The lines under her eyes are older than two weeks. Her sorrow—and it is plain that she has undergone a sorrow—came some time ago. Now the first poignant pain of it has passed and only a dull ache remains.

What she is doing as she sits in the courtroom in an attitude which speaks much of distress and resignation. The thoughts that pass in her mind are revealed in that attitude and in her glad face. And the sign of them is to be seen.

Not matter what happens, the dull ache will always be there at her heart. Mary Phagan's Mother. Because, you see, it is her little girl that all this is about. The black-and-white woman in Mrs. W. J. Coleman, Mary Phagan's mother, and Mary Phagan's mother.

Mrs. Coleman has not been in the courtroom during all the trial. Mary Coleman, the mother, is not noticeably attentive. Her eyes wander here and there, but her body changes nothing of its posture of listlessness, loose none of its air of being detached from the courtroom and its incidents.

She is there plainly without resentment toward any one in particular. There is no vulnerability in her soul—you can read that in her face. It is in that that she looks around with her well-worn stare, as if in wonder that her little girl could be the cause of all this.

She is there plainly without resentment toward any one in particular. There is no vulnerability in her soul—you can read that in her face. It is in that that she looks around with her well-worn stare, as if in wonder that her little girl could be the cause of all this.

is almost as if she, having suffered so much, is unwilling that any others suffer. She sits there and looks curiously, wonderingly, a little dully, and sometimes they mention Mary Phagan's last meal of cabbage. It is remarkable that a dish of homely cabbage should become a great thing there. It is something grimly ludicrous in the situation. And there are some, the freest and the unfeeling, who have made it a subject of jest.

Glorified in Love. But in Mrs. Coleman the mother must be something awfully intimate in the subject. She cooked the cabbage. She chopped it and prepared it as her little daughter liked. The simple meal was glorified by the love that must have gone into its making—housewife love for those in her care, mother-love for the whelps and dearest of her children. The cabbage subject must be of tremendous interest to Mrs. Coleman.

Whatever her interest, though, it is never keenly shown. Apathy seems to be the chief characteristic of her in the courtroom—no, not apathy, but just a dull wonder. You read plainly from her worn face and her figure that she is not seeking vengeance. Sometimes you might wonder why she is there in the courtroom. You establish curiosity as the motive, curiosity and the natural, jealous mother-desire to hear directly from the mouth of the one whom she loves about her little girl as she last was seen.

It must be almost like awaiting a message that she is there, awaiting her full grief.

SATON ASKS TAX LAW MESSAGE

Urges Immediate Action to Equalize Levy and Increase Revenue of State.

In a vigorous message pointing out the need of speedy action, Governor John M. Slaton Monday urged the Legislature to enact laws looking to the reform of the tax system and the equalization of taxes in the State. Asserting that the greatest disparity in the tax returns of the State is not between the city and rural communities, but between the rural communities themselves, Governor Slaton urged the enactment of laws that would equalize each county to put its proportionate share of the expense of the State.

Shows Disparity in Returns.
The rural areas will make returns three times as much in proportion to volume as the city, and the Governor's message, what would argue to be placed in favor of the industrial "heavy lines are not the ordinary operating companies, a fiction, and all should be and I believe are willing to contribute their proportionate share of the general burden."

Legislation Accomplishing this purpose, both in regard to visible and invisible property, will so operate as to make the same percentage of effective on every citizen, regardless of the county in which he lives."

Scores State of Treasury.
In his message Governor Slaton attacked the deplorable condition of the State Treasury, which he nearly enough failed to meet the expense of the State government and means that under a system of the equalization a deficit of this size could not be met.

EXPERTS TESTIMONY ON CABBAGE TESTS CALLED WILD GUESS

A bitter arraignment of the professional ethics and fairness of Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the State Board of Health, and a thorough-going attack on his theories and conclusions marked the Frank trial Monday afternoon.

Only a Conjecture, He Says.
"Such testimony can not be determined with accuracy that is assumed by the testimony referred to. It is only a conjecture at the best,"—Prof. George Bachman.

Appears to Trip Up Expert.
Solicitor Dorsey set out in the cross-examination to test minutely the witness' qualifications as an expert. He appeared to trap him in one or two instances. One was when he asked Dr. Bachman the meaning of the word "amilduin," as used in the description of starch in its various stages of digestion.

These pieces apparently were not marinated at all, the prosecution said. They would have interested in the digestion and the passage of food into the stomach in the small intestine by observing the process. They would undoubtedly have kept all of the solid contents in the stomach for some time.

"Just from my observations of these pieces of cabbage I would say that they could have been in the stomach for seven or eight hours before passing out."

He attacked Dr. Harrie's conclusion based on the fact that only 32.6 grams of acidity were found in the first stomach at the trial and that there was no way of telling whether the acidity at the time of the killing was the same as the acidity at the time of the trial. If it were desirable to tell if there was a maximum point and was on its downward curve, a condition which obtains only when the food has been in the stomach for a considerable period.

EXPERTS TESTIMONY ON CABBAGE TESTS CALLED WILD GUESS

A bitter arraignment of the professional ethics and fairness of Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the State Board of Health, and a thoroughgoing attack on his theories and conclusions marked the Frank trial Monday afternoon.

Attorney Reuben Arnold made a scathing criticism of Dr. Harris' methods during his examination of Dr. Willis Westmoreland, a prominent Atlanta physician and surgeon.

Arnold was asking the medical expert his opinion of the ethics of a chemist or physician who would take the organs and the stomach with its contents from a body, make his examination in absolute secrecy and would leave no material on which the other side in a legal case might make analysis and examinations.

Solicitor Dorsey objected to the question.

Attorney Arnold said, in justifying his question:

"We wish to show that Dr. Harris has violated all the ethics of his profession, as well as the principles of decency and honesty."

Dr. Westmoreland said he never had heard of such procedure before.

Here are some of the professional comments of medical experts given on the witness stand in respect to Dr. Harris' declaration that Mary Phagan came to her death within half or three quarters of an hour after she ate her dinner and that unconsciousness, but not death, was caused by the blow she received on the back of her head:

"His testimony on this matter must be a surmise entirely. My statement in regard to the cabbage is about as wild a guess as I ever heard of." Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland.

Only a Conjecture, He Says.

"Such things can be not determined with accuracy that I assumed by the testimony referred to. It is only a conjecture at the best." Prof. George Bachman.

Following are comments made previously in the trial:

"I would not hazard a guess as to how long the food had been in her stomach before death from the data at hand." Dr. J. W. Hurt.

"I never have known of an opinion of this nature being offered with as little conclusive evidence as this." Dr. L. W. Childs.

"No man in the world could examine those specimens of cabbage and tell how long they had been in the stomach. No one could give a rational opinion as to whether the blow on the back of the head caused unconsciousness." Dr. T. H. Hancock.

Dr. T. H. Hancock, an Atlanta surgeon, and Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, first president of the State Board of Health, were the first medical experts called by the defense in the afternoon.

Professor George Bachman preceded them in the forenoon. All joined in saying that Dr. Harris had no reliable data for his starting statements before the jury the first week of the trial.

Dr. Hancock brought specimens of cabbage into court to disprove Dr. Harris' assertions. Dr. Westmoreland testified that Dr. Harris was entirely without warrant for any of his conclusions.

Dr. Bachman had no hesitancy in belittling the testimony of Dr. Harris. He seconded Dr. Childs in saying that it was mere guesswork to say that Mary Phagan was killed within half or three quarters of an hour after she had eaten her simple dinner of cabbage and biscuit. He was shown the specimen of cabbage taken from the stomach of the murdered girl and declared that there was no way of telling by its appearance that it had not been in the stomach seven or eight hours before death came.

Appears to Trip Up Expert.

Solicitor Dorsey set out in the cross-examination to test minutely the witness' qualifications as an expert. He appeared to trap him in one or two instances. One was when he asked Dr. Bachman the meaning of the word "amulidum," as used in the description of starch in its various stages of digestion.

"You never did," said the witness.

"No, and no one else ever did. It isn't in any dictionary."

"Not in any medical work?" inquired the Solicitor.

Webster's International Dictionary gives the definition of "amulidum" as "a variety of starch made soluble by heating."

"It was absolutely impossible to tell whether or not the wound on the back of the head caused unconsciousness before death. I should characterize it about as wild a guess as could be made. There is not a word on medical jurisprudence, certainly not one in English, that professes to establish a standard by which the time of death can be determined by the stomach."—Dr. J. C. Olmstead.

Dr. Bachman was called to the witness stand at the point at which the stand after Solicitor Dorsey finished a scathing cross-examination of Herbert G. Sghiff.

Attorney Reuben Arnold showed him the specimens of cabbage taken from the stomach of Mary Phagan.

SALTON ASKS TAXPAYERS TO MESSAGE

Urges Immediate Action to Equalize Levy and Increase Revenue of State.

In a vigorous message pointing out the need of speedy action, Governor John M. Slaton, Monday, urged the Legislature to enact laws for the reform of the tax system and the equalization of taxes in the State.

Asserting that the greatest disparity in the tax returns of the State is not between the city and rural communities, but between the rural communities themselves, the Governor stated that the enactment of a law that would compel each county to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of the State.

Show Disparity in Returns.

"One rural county will make returns three times as high as another county," he said, "and the disparity is not between the city and rural communities, but between the rural communities themselves, the Governor stated that the enactment of a law that would compel each county to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of the State.

Score State Situation.

In his message Governor Slaton emphasizes the deplorable condition of the State Treasury, which he has publicly enough made no secret of.

"The situation is deplorable," he said, "and it is not a matter of mere expediency, but a matter of necessity, that the State Treasury be reformed."

Detective Nabs Man Impersonated Him in Robbing Pedestrian

Detective Eugene A. Fisher appeared at police headquarters Sunday morning to find that Riley Mason, a young man residing No. 2 Main street, had complained that he had been held up and robbed of $12 by Detective Fisher. Fisher at once began an investigation.

He found that Mason had been held up with money appearing in the business undergarments and had followed on the subway to the home of Mrs. Della Baker, No. 21 Main street. Mason stated Mrs. Baker when the man was taken and was told that he had demanded assistance, representing himself as Detective Fisher. Mason then went to police headquarters and reported his complaint.

Chief of Police Thomas C. Connelley, in receiving the report, immediately sent an Arnold Chevrolet, No. 32-12, through the streets of Atlanta, Georgia, and it was found on Monday morning on Main street, where it was found with the trunk open, and was found on the charge of highway robbery.

Joe Agler Sold to Jersey City Club; Price Is $9,000

Joe Agler, the sensational first baseman of the Cracker, was sold to the Jersey City club of the International League. It is understood that the price paid for the young athlete is $9,000.

Agler will report to the clubbers at the end of the Southern League season. The International League schedule calls for games two weeks after the Southern close, and Agler will probably catch the first train East after the league is played at Peachy Park.

death was caused from strabismic diplopia, it might have been more.

Solicitor Hines went into a detailed cross-examination of the general illities of assault upon the defendant.

The questions were all hypothetical and the witness answered them in the affirmative.

Q. Was it the medical world which agreed that it takes a certain time to digest certain food? A. Yes, that is the result of hundreds of experiments.

Q. Does the medical world agree that it takes four hours to digest food? A. Yes, that is the result of hundreds of experiments.

Q. Who gives five hours for digestion? A. It is generally accepted by the medical world.

Q. Have you not down the different stages of digestion? A. Yes, absolutely.

Says He Put Harris on Stand. Q. Have you not seen Harris at the trial of the case of the defendant?

Q. What is the result of your observation? A. That he was acting in a suspicious manner.

Q. Well, what is the general accepted theory? A. About 20 minutes.

Q. In cabbage and without bread would you expect to find it sooner? A. Yes, it would depend upon the amount.

Q. If as found 22 degrees of indigestion and in the stomach how long would you say it had been there? A. I could not say.

Q. Have you any personal feeling toward Dr. Harris? A. Yes, because of the death of the defendant.

Q. You were on the State Board of Health with Dr. Harris? A. Yes, I was.

Q. He is still there? A. Yes.

Q. Were you president of the college of Physicians and Surgeons when he was given a chair there? A. Yes.

Q. He was a member? A. He was the president.

Accused Took the Witness. Q. Will you tell the jury the cause of your difficulty with Harris?

Q. Will you tell the jury the cause of your difficulty with Harris? A. Yes, I will.

Says They Had No Row. Q. Whatever row of evidence you had has had nothing whatever to do with the fact of the case?

Q. Could you see a blow as I have described? A. Yes, I could.

Q. Look at this cabbage. After a short time and the finding of 22 degrees of acidity, could you not determine with a degree of certainty how long it had been in the stomach before death?

Q. No, I don't think there is any authority, certainly not in English which applies to the stomach and quality of acidity determining the time of death.

Q. Suppose cabbage had not showed like that, but that it was of the same acidity which had been well established, might it not be in the stomach?

Q. How long might it stay in the stomach without being further digested? A. It might stay ten or twelve hours.

Q. In attempting to cause within ten or fifteen minutes of death, could you not find the condition of the cabbage? A. Yes, it would be characteristic.

Q. Mr. Attorney, just the same, you are not to obtain an opinion from the witness as to whether Mrs. Pugh was or was not killed? A. Yes, I am not.

Q. It occurred to me that Dr. Harris said that stomach had been digested but stomach had been digested?

Q. The medical world recognizes that the time taken for the digestion of a food depends upon the nature of the food and the condition of the stomach.

Q. A table has been compiled showing the time taken for the digestion of various foods? A. Yes, it has.

Q. What is the result of your observation? A. That he was acting in a suspicious manner.

SLATON ASKS TAX LEVY IN MESSAGE

Urges Immediate Action to Equalize Levy and Increase Revenue of State.

In a vigorous message pointing out the need of speedy action, Governor M. Slaton Monday urged the Legislature to enact laws looking to the reform of the tax system and equalization of taxes in the State.

Asserting that the greatest disparity in the tax returns of the State is between the city and rural communities, but between the rural communities themselves, Governor Slaton urged the enactment of a law that would compel each county to pay its proportionate share of the expense of the State.

Shows Disparity in Returns:

"One rural county will make returns three times as much in proportion to values as its neighbors," the Governor's message. "What sound argument can be offered in favor of this inequity? County lines are but imaginary, separating Georgians only by a fiction, and all should be and I believe are willing to contribute their proportion to the general burden."

Legislation Accompanying this Purpose:

"Legislation accompanying this purpose, both in regard to visible and invisible property, will so operate as to make the same percentage of tax on the property of every citizen, regardless of the county in which he lives."

Scores State Treasury:

In his message Governor Slaton emphasizes the deplorable condition of the State Treasury, which has not nearly enough funds to meet the expense of the State Government. He asserts that under a system of tax equalization, a deficit of this size could not exist.

"Tax equalization does not necessitate any increase of taxes," he says. "The man giving in now more than his fair share should have his valuation reduced to such proportionate amount as universally endorsed and supported by the State. The man who is delinquent in this regard should be taxed."

Senate Clears Decks For Tax Reform Work.

With the decks cleared as far as local bills, the Georgia Senate Monday afternoon faced a sharp fight on the substitute to the Shepard tax bill following the filing of a minority report by four of the members of the Finance Committee.

Detective Nabs Man Impersonated Him in Robbing Pedestrian

Detective Egner, a Coker appointee at police headquarters Sunday morning in the home of Miss Mason, a woman man residing at No. 7 Main street, had complained that he had been held up and robbed by a man who was later found to have been impersonating him. The man was taken to the police station and charged with impersonating the detective.

WITNESSES FOR FRANK CHARGE PROFESSIONAL RECKLESSNESS TO HIM

Sweeping characterizations of professional recklessness were made against Dr. H. T. Harris at the trial of Leo Frank Monday, Dr. J. O. Gimatead, the last medical expert of the afternoon, probably was the most vitriolic in his comments on testimony of Dr. Harris, who declared positively that Mary Phagan came to her death within half an hour and would never be material on the time she ate and that she also was the victim of a criminal attack rather than that which caused her death.

Referring to the last theory of Dr. Harris, the witness said: "It is the most extraordinary medical surmise I ever heard of. He could not have told from the conditions present whether violence of the nature charged had taken place even if he had made the examination within a few hours after death.

Joel Hunter, an expert public accountant, was the last witness of the afternoon. He testified that the financial check which Frank prepared could not have been done in less than 100 minutes, two and a half hours. The estimated maximum time was four and one-half hours. With the other work of balancing accounts and similar clerical work, Hunter testified that Frank would have been occupied three hours or three hours and a half. Attorney Reuben Arnold made a scathing criticism of Dr. Harris' methods during his examination of Dr. Willis Westmoreland, a prominent Atlanta physician and surgeon.

Arnold was asking the medical expert his opinion of the ethics of a chemist or physician who would take the organs and the stomach with his contents from a body, make his examination in absolute secrecy and would never be material on which the other side in a legal case might make analysis and examinations. Solicitor Dorsey objected to the question. "Attorney Arnold said, in justifying his question: 'We wish to show that Dr. Harris has violated all the ethics of his profession, as well as the principles of decency and honesty.' Dr. Westmoreland said he never had heard of such procedure before.

A former breach of professional relations between Dr. Westmoreland and Dr. Harris was recalled by Solicitor Dorsey in the course of his cross-examination of Dr. Westmoreland. "What is your feeling toward Dr. Harris?" the Solicitor inquired. "It is kindly or unkindly?" "I have no feeling one way or the other," replied the witness. Attorney Arnold asked Dr. Westmoreland to go more fully into the details of his differences with Dr. Harris. "I simply brought charges of scientific dishonesty against him. He was found guilty of the charges, but the charges were not thought sufficiently grave to warrant his dismissal from the State Board of Health. Thereupon resigned."

Here are some of the professional comments of medical experts given on the witness stand in respect to Dr. Harris' declaration that Mary Phagan came to her death within half or three quarters of an hour after she ate her dinner and that unconsciousness, but not death, was caused by the blow she received on the back of her head: "His testimony on this matter must be a surmise entirely. My statement in regard to the cabbage is about as wild a guess as I ever heard of."—Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland.

Only a Conjecture, He Says.

"Such things can not be determined with accuracy that is assumed by the testimony referred to. It is only a conjecture at the best."—Prof. George Buchanan.

"No man in the world could examine those specimens of cabbage and tell how long they had been in the stomach. No one could give a rational opinion as to whether the blow on the back of the head caused unconsciousness."—Dr. T. H. Hancock.

Dr. T. H. Hancock, an Atlanta surgeon, and Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, first president of the State Board of Health, were the first medical experts called by the defense in the afternoon.

FRANK SPENDS HALF HOUR STUDYING PENCIL FACTORY MODEL Wife and Mother Kiss Prisoner as Trial Opens Upon Its Third Week

him in one or two instances. One was when asked Dr. Bachman the meaning of the word "amidulin," as used in the description of starch in its various stages of digestion.

"You never did?"
"No, and no one else ever did. It isn't in any dictionary."
"Nor in any medical work?"
"Webster's International Dictionary gives the definition of "amidulin" as "a variety of starch made soluble by heating."

Dr. Bachman was called to the stand after Solicitor Dorsey had finished a searching cross-examination of Herbert Schiff, assistant to Frank at the pencil factory.

Attorney Ruben Arnold asked him the questions of cabbage taken from the stomach of Mary Phagan and these apparently were not material at all. The physician said they would have been interested with digestion and the passage of food out of the stomach into the small intestine by absorbing the pepsin. They would undoubtedly have kept all the solid contents in the stomach for some time.

"Just from my observation of those pieces of cabbage I would say they would be found in the girl's stomach for seven or eight hours before they would be digested."
The most important admission that Schiff made during his testimony was that if one did not swallow in the stomach, but did find starch in the stomach, it would probably not be digested very far.

"Do you know of anyone else in the world except the doctor who would venture an opinion of the nature he has given on the date in question?"
Dr. Bachman said he did not. He also said that the medical expert never accepted a pronouncement of any other witness. It was continued by other experts.

A new and important development in the whole theory of the case was the testimony of Mary Phagan called to the stand by her attorney. She testified that she had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time.

Ruben Arnold had displayed the evidence which he had produced in the case. He had shown the jury the writing as part of the evidence. He had also shown the jury the handwriting of Frank as part of the evidence.

Frank's attorney, Mr. Schiff, testified that he had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time. He also testified that he had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time.

Dorsey first asked Schiff, who was recalled to the stand, if he had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time. He also testified that he had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time.

It was the implication of the fact that Frank had hurried through with his work Saturday morning and was a matter of fact that he completed the work before the afternoon.

Speaking with this line of questioning, the Solicitor began an attack on the time element which the defense has introduced in the trial. Dorsey questioned Schiff, at length as to the accuracy of the clock in the factory with the suspect time.

Mr. Schiff testified that he had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time. He also testified that he had seen Frank at the pencil factory on Saturday afternoon, as this was the usual time.

Q. How long did you say it would take Frank to balance the 609 in petty cash? A. That is not to say, I don't think I said before the coroner that it would have taken from one to one and one-half hours.

GRIEF-STRIKEN MOTHER SHOWS NO VENGEFULNESS

By TARLETON COLLIER.

That black-eyed woman in the corner of the courtroom—nobody has noticed her much. Things have happened so swiftly in the Frank trial that all eyes are on the rush of events, waiting for a squint on the face of Leo Frank, watching with morbid gaze the brave face of Frank's wife and his mother, studying the passing show that the courtroom witnesses present.

And the woman is so unobtrusive, so plainly out of it all. The tears whose traces are evident on her face were not shed as a result of this trial. The lines under her eyes are the result of many a tear shed in the first poignant path of life passed and only a dull ache remains. All that is plain as the air in the courtroom is an attitude which bespeaks much of listlessness and resignation. The thoughts that pass in her mind are revealed in that attitude and in her placid face. And the same of them is this: No matter what happens, the dull ache will always be there at her heart.

Mary Phagan's Mother. Because you see it is her little girl and not her mother. The black-eyed woman in Mrs. J. W. Coleman's arms is Mary Phagan's mother. Mrs. Coleman has not been in the courtroom during all the trial. Much of the time she has been in the room upstairs, kept there because she was a witness. And witnesses must not see nor hear what is going on in the courtroom before they are called, except if the names of their own little girls are mentioned back and forth.

But now Mrs. Coleman has finished. She has looked upon the blood-stained, gilded clothing of her daughter, the clothing that was exhibited before hundreds of eyes.

Many Years' Test of Eckman's Alternative. The second time a large number of women were confined to their rooms, they were confined to their rooms by Eckman's Alternative. A young girl, the daughter of a prominent family, was confined to her room for a year and a half because she was a witness. She was a witness in the trial of a man who was accused of the murder of a young girl. She was a witness in the trial of a man who was accused of the murder of a young girl. She was a witness in the trial of a man who was accused of the murder of a young girl.

Interest Unabated as Dramatic Frank Trial Enters Third Week

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

The third week of the most remarkable murder trial ever known in Georgia opened today with no apparent lessening of the acute interest and ardent appeal heretofore attending it. The public has come to realize thoroughly and completely that the issue is a battle not only between the State and the defendant, Leo Frank, but between Leo Frank and the negro Jim Conley.

Nothing Fidgety About Frank. The Leo Frank of this week of his trial is not the Leo Frank of last week and week before last. If spectators were inclined for a moment to think the quiet, reserved, unexcitable man sitting over there beyond Father Rosser and Brother Arnold, the slight person, immodestly between the only two women in the entire courtroom, was in any way indifferent to or unimpressed by the progress of the trial—his own trial, and for a brutal murder, at that—they have changed their minds now.

Not that the defense is out of the woods yet, by any means—a matter of fact, the defense still is very deep in the woods, and while there may be those who think the defense is beginning to daylight and sunshine somewhere through the darkness, it generally is admitted that the darkness still very much is there.

Depends on Conley's Word. As the matter stands now, the attack on Frank's character started by the State, and which has been corroborated not at all on the direct and indirect evidence, but corroborated, even indirectly, by the most doubtful way.

Waste No Time in Getting to This Waist Sale The Values Are Fine. The Styles Are Charming and Many

It's a Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company outclearing! And the waists are as smart and stylish and fresh as the woman who is "a bit particular" about her waists could ever want, regardless of the fact that the new prices might mislead her.

There are one hundred sixty-five in all—Cotton Crepes and Voiles, Crepe de Chines and Habutai and China Silks. Indeed, the choosing will be fine for those who waste no time in getting to the hundred sixty-five early. The details—

$1.95 For $3.00 and $3.75 For $5.00 3.50 Black $7.50 Waists China White Habutai Silk of Plain White China Silk and Crepe de Chine.

One hundred of these. About-to-be vacationers will snap them up quickly or we miss our guess. Of those of black China silk some have Dutch necks, with short sleeves; others high-neck and long-sleeve, little black buttons trim them.

There are one hundred of these, one as lovely as another. There are those with double frills of crepe de chine and those with embroidered batiste down fronts, having a bit of color on the low collars and the cuffs. The color is sometimes a little narrow border, again it is a matter of fancy stitching. Some are hand-embroidered. Also, you will like the way the sleeves are set in.

Half-Price For Cotton Voile and Crepe Waists That Were $5.75 to $12.75

Sixty-five have their prices treated thus. All are elegant affairs that women will own with much satisfaction. White voiles and white crepes, with trimming—touches that originated in no other spot than Paris. Lace-trimmed waists and hand-embroidered waists with a vivid color showing in the collar and cuffs—and the collars are various—low, flat lying, pointed and high—short sleeves and long sleeves; and china and crystal buttons are frequent.

But see them all at their new prices. Agents for Butterick Patterns and Publications Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company

BATTLE OF FOOD EXPERTS RENEWED

DIAGRAM OF THEORY AS ADVANCED BY DEFENSE

BOB BRAZES SLATON ASKS LABAMA WILLAGE MESSAGE

CASTLEBERRY, ALA., Aug. 11.—A bomb thrown into the Skinner Hardware Company building here last night demolished that store, and which followed destroyed the entire block in which the Skinner store was located. The loss is $100,000, partially covered by insurance.

Early to-day the sheriff from Greenville and a posse of regular and special deputies arrested a negro, charging him with being the man who placed the bomb in the Skinner building. While the officers claim to have strong evidence against the black man, they have not stated what it is.

The defense's theory of the killing of Mary Phagan is that the little girl, after leaving Frank's office unaccompanied, was seized by the negro Conley at the foot of the stairs, crowded back into the rear room and there battered into insensibility, if not instant death, after which she was dragged to the trapdoor in the extreme rear and thrown into the cellar below. Later the negro went into the cellar, placed the cord around the girl's neck, and drew it very tight, perhaps thus snuffing out the last fluttering breath of life in the insensible body. The motive assigned to the negro is robbery.

Joe Agler Sold to Jersey City Club; Price Is $3,000

Joe Agler, the sensational first baseman of the Crackers, was sold this afternoon to the Jersey City club, of the International League. It is understood that the price paid for the young athlete is $3,000.

Agler will report to the Skeeters at the end of the Southern League season. The International League schedule calls for games two weeks after the Southern close, and Agler will probably catch the first train East after the last game is played at Poncey Park.

DR. BAGMAN TRIPPED BY DORSEY; ARRAY OF MEDICAL MEN CALLED

Professor George Bachman, a native Frenchman, one time an instructor in the well-known Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, and now at the head of the Physiological Department of Physicians and Surgeons, was the star witness of the defense at the Frank trial Monday, forming one of the brilliant one of the brilliant array of medical experts gathered by Leo Frank's lawyers to batter down the theories and conclusions presented to the jury by Dr. H. F. Harris, Secretary and director of the State Board of Health.

Among the distinguished physicians to follow him at the afternoon session of court were Dr. Willis A. Westmoreland, T. H. Hancock and J. L. Olmstead, Dr. L. W. Childs, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was called at the opening of the defense's case.

Dr. Bachman had no hesitation in belittling the testimony of Dr. Harris. He accused Dr. Childs in saying that it was mere guesswork to say that Mary Phagan was killed within half or three-quarters of an hour after she had eaten her simple dinner of cabbage and biscuit. He was shown the specimen of cabbage taken from the stomach of the murdered girl and declared that there was no way of telling by its appearance that it had not been in the stomach seven or eight hours before death came.

Appears to Trip Up Expert.

Solitor Dorsey set out in the cross-examination to test minutely the witness' qualifications as an expert. He appeared to trip him up on two instances. One was when he asked Dr. Bachman the meaning of the word "amulium," as used in the description of starch in its various stages of digestion.

"Never heard of such a word," said the witness.

"No, never did," he said.

"Nor in any medical work?" inquired the Solitor.

Webster's International Dictionary gives the definition of "amulium" as "a variety of starch made soluble by heating."

Dr. Bachman was called to the stand after Solitor Dorsey had finished a searching cross-examination of Herbert G. Schiff, assistant to Frank at the Penell Factory.

Says Cabbage Was in Stomach Long Time.

The medical expert said that the average time required for the digestion of cabbage, according to the standard of his profession, places in the small intestine in the case of cabbage and other carbohydrates, he testified.

Attorney Reuben Arnold showed him the specimens of cabbage taken from the stomach of Mary Phagan.

"Those pieces apparently were not masticated at all," the physician said. "They would have interfered with digestion and the passage of food out of the stomach into the small intestine by obstructing the pylorus. They would undoubtedly have kept all of the food contents in the stomach for some time."

"Just from my observation of those pieces of cabbage I would say that they could have been in the girl's stomach for seven or eight hours before passing out."

Attacks Dr. Harris' Conclusion.

He attacked Dr. Harris' conclusions based on the fact that only 32 degrees of acidity were found in the girl's stomach on the ground that there was no way of telling whether the acidity at the time digestion was stopped was ascending or descending. If it were descending, he said, it would indicate that the acidity had risen to its maximum point and was on its downward course, a condition which obtains only when the food has been in the stomach for a considerable period.

Dr. Harris' theory that no digestion had taken place in the small intestine is combated by declaring that the formalin in the embalming fluid would have destroyed the ferments of the pancreatic juice and would have left no way of telling whether or not digestion had taken place.

Impossible to Make a Guess.

Attorney Arnold then propounded a hypothetical question to the witness embracing all of the conditions which were found in the stomach of Mary Phagan and then asked him if he or any other doctor could hazard a guess as to how long the food had been in the body before death.

Dr. Bachman replied that it would be impossible.

The most important admission that the Solitor drew from the witness was that if one did not find malice in the stomach, but only acidity, it would be probable that digestion had not progressed very far.

On the redirect, Arnold asked the witness "Do you know of anyone else in the world, except Dr. J. F. P. Harris, who would venture an opinion of the nature he has given on the data in his possession?"

Dr. Bachman said he did not. He added also that his medical profession never accepted a pronouncement of this sort unless it was confirmed by other experts.

New Theory Spung.

A new and important development in the State's theory of the murder of Mary Phagan came to light Monday when Solitor Dorsey sought to establish that Leo Frank very easily could have compiled Saturday afternoon instead of Saturday afternoon following the crime, the infamous formalin sheet which the defense has introduced.

Herbert Schiff, assistant superintendent of the National Penell Factory, already had identified the formalin sheet as the work of Frank, presumably done by the superintendent on Saturday afternoon, as this was his usual time for doing it.

Reuben Arnold had displayed the sheet to the jury and had drawn the jurors' attention to the fact that the sheet was regular, clear and without any signs of tremble or nervousness on the part of the writer. The Monday when Solitor Dorsey sought to establish that Leo Frank very easily

THONGSEES LAD HANG TO LIVE WIRE

With his mother and hundreds of neighbors looking on and unable to help him, 12-year-old Max Roseberry, son of J. B. Roseberry of No. 418 East Georgia avenue, clung to a live wire in the topmost branches of a tree in front of his home for more than a half hour Monday morning, with thousands of volts of electricity shooting through his body.

The child was finally rescued by a street car motorman, who, protected with rubber gloves, climbed the tree and cut the wire at the risk of endangering himself. Unconscious, the boy was lowered from the tree and placed in the arms of his mother.

The little finger of the boy's right hand was burned completely off and the third finger was about half gone. He was badly burned on the bottom of the feet, and was so badly shocked that he remained insensate almost an hour.

Dr. W. H. Wright, who amputated two fingers, stated that the boy will live.

The little boy climbed to the top of the tree about 4 o'clock from a small playground in the lower branches. The feet wires of the Georgia avenue street car run down through the upper branches of the tree, and Max, to escape his father, was so badly shocked that he remained insensate almost an hour.

COAST ROUTE PAUFLINDER 'S READY

Plans for the great automobile tour which Hearst's Sunday American will inaugurate to find a new All-Southern, open all-the-year-round route from Atlanta to the Pacific Coast, virtually have been completed, and the tour will start on Monday, August 18, under conditions that practically assure the success of the movement.

The proposed route, which will be thoroughly mapped and charted by the forthcoming expedition, will extend from Atlanta through Birmingham, Montgomery, New Orleans, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Tucson, Phoenix and Yuma, and will then connect with the State roads of California for San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The pathfinder will be E. L. Ferguson, one of the most widely known automobile drivers and tourists in America. He has been in Atlanta for several days, making preliminary preparations for the tour, and will then connect with the responses that greeted the publication of the details of the movement in yesterday's American.

Southern automobilists, who heretofore have been barred from touring across the continent via a Southern, open-all-the-year-round route because no such route has ever been explored and mapped, have greeted the movement with enthusiasm and many offers of assistance.

Big Send-Off Is Planned.

Some idea of the sentiment that exists among Atlanta motorists can be gained from the plans that are being made to godsend Mr. Ferguson when he starts on his journey. When he leaves Atlanta next Monday in the big touring car that has traveled most of the roads of the country, he will be escorted out of the city by many local automobilists and motorists who realize with interest the proposed tourist route would do for the South, and who are indulging in speculations with their usual energy and enthusiasm.

It is Mr. Ferguson's intention, during the path-finding expedition, to put forth every effort to interest farmers and the citizens of the cities route and in good building all the way to the Pacific coast.

It is the purpose of the newspapers to make Mr. Ferguson's trip a "good road booster" from start to finish, so as to make the proposed Southern route a reality before the beginning of the Panama Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

It is estimated that more than 5,000 automobiles will cross the continent from the Atlantic coast during the expedition, and the fine spirit of adventure in climate and scenery, and the prospect of the Pacific coast, will attract the greater part of the tourists to the route.

Chicago Bakes One Hour, Shivers Next

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Chill winds which brought autumn weather gave Chicago its first real cold today. The comparative cold became so severe that much sickness was caused. The temperature standing at 53 at 7 o'clock Saturday evening dropped to 41 today the mercury lowered near 15.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11.—Cool, clear weather here to-day ended a series of torturing heat. Frost in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma still are in danger from the drought. Temperatures all over Kansas and Missouri were around the 100 mark yesterday.

Slays Wife While Crazed by Liquor

LENNINGTON, Aug. 11.—Report from McCallin County, Kentucky, today says Allen Howard, attacked by delirium tremens, after a prolonged spree, shot his wife dead in his driveway at his home when she tried to leave him.

Howard escaped to the mountains. A posse is in pursuit.

Hope of Early Vote on Tariff Bill Given Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—All predictions of an early passage of the Democratic tariff bill by the Senate are going glimmering. Majority leaders realize that, notwithstanding the fact that they have got a majority in pushing consideration of the measure, only a beginning has been made, and the earliest anyone can promise completion of the task is September 12.

Ten days ago, when a member of the Finance Committee said he thought the Senate would pass the bill by August 20, there were some who thought it might be possible, but only four schedules have now been considered, and the passage of the bill has been passed over for future consideration.

Isadora Duncan Will Not Quit the Stage

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

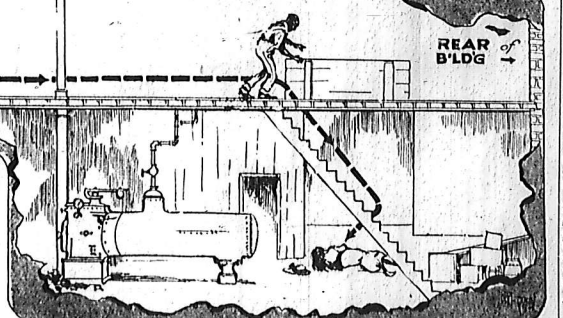

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Isadora Duncan has changed her mind about withdrawing from the stage. She will leave soon for South America, where she is under contract.

In a letter to a friend she says that for some time she has been bothered by the idea of death. At night she has visions of three black birds and once she said the funeral march of Chopin.

She related a letter which told her she was suffering from nerves. It proved to be a tonic.

Legislation in exact laws looking to the reform of the tax system and the equalization of taxes in the State. Asserting that the greatest difficulty in the returns of the State is not between the city and rural communities, but between the rural communities themselves, Governor Slaton urged the enactment of a law that would compel each county to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of the State.

Shows Disparity in Returns.

"One rural county will make returns three times as much in proportion to value as its neighbors," said the governor's message. "What would argue that it is not in the interest of the State that would compel each county to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of the State."

Sylvia Pankhurst Captured in Fierce Riot of Militants

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—"You women are oversteering the ordinary bounds of lawlessness—you are becoming anarchy," said the magistrate in Bow Street Police Court today in sentencing militant suffragettes who took part in street fighting yesterday when Miss Sylvia Pankhurst led a mob of 1,000 women in an assault upon the residence of Premier Asquith.

Sylvia's fighting was the hottest of all militant riots. Screaming and jeering, she hurled a hail of brickbats and their bodyguard of hired dock workers says the police such a riot in London since more than 40 persons were hurt.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst had a special bodyguard of men, but her car was overpowered and she was taken to Holloway Jail.

Scores Sixes of Treasury.

In his message Governor Slaton emphasizes the deplorable condition of the State Treasury, which has not nearly enough funds to meet the expense of the State Government and asserts that under a system of tax equalization a deficit of this size could not exist.

"Tax equalization does not necessarily mean increase of taxes," he says. "The man giving in now more than he has should have his valuation reduced to such proportionate amount as universally enforced will result in a delinquent in this regard should be raised."

Senato Clears Decks For Tax Reform Work.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—At least of local bills, the Georgia Senate Monday afternoon gave a sharp right on the streets to the Republican reform bill following the filing of a minority report by four of the members of the Finance Committee.

Senator Duffless, one of the minority signers, declared he would fight the measure when it comes up for passage. The bill, he declared, was not fair to the people and was framed as a result of "bulldozing" efforts by the Governor.

On the other hand, Senator Miller, of the Twenty-fourth, joint member of the bill and chairman of the Finance Committee, declared himself ready to support the measure.

Visitors Hear Sheldon In Fine Organ Recital

More than 3,000 music lovers, including many delegates to the Southern Merchants' Convention, heard Charles A. Sheldon give one of the best organ recitals of the year at the Auditorium Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Festival Association.

A series of variations on "Old Faith at Home" with elaborate organ and classical selections, formed the feature of the concert. Many consider Mr. Sheldon at his best in this class of music. His rendition of the old variations, with the beautiful and difficult variations, was received with acclaim.

Fines Girl Who Wears Abbreviated Clothes

SAVANNAH, Aug. 11.—Recorder John Schwartz today showed his attitude toward women who appear on the streets too thinly clad or in clothes too much abbreviated when he imposed a fine of $10 upon Miss Beate Carter, who, with Henry Smoak, strolled on Broughton street, a principal thoroughfare, in a shirt that did not reach her ankles and a low-cut, sleeveless waist.

"I don't know it was any harm," said the girl. "I have worn such dresses on the street before."

THONGSEES LAD HANG TO LIVE WIRE

Dangles Unconscious in Tree Half Hour Before Being Rescued.
Burned, but Will Live.

With his mother and hundreds of neighbors looking on and unable to help him, Raymond Max Hershberg, son of J. H. Hershberg, of No. 44 East Georgia avenue, clung to a live wire in the utmost branches of a tree in front of his home for more than a half hour Monday morning, with thousands of volts of electricity shooting through his body.

The child was finally rescued by a street car motorman, who, protected with rubber gloves, climbed the tree and cut the wire of the risk of electrocution. Unconscious the boy was lowered from the tree and placed in the arms of his mother.

The little finger of the boy's right hand was burned completely off, and the third finger was about half gone. He was badly burned on the bottom of the feet, and was badly shocked that he remained unconscious almost an hour.

Starts Fire Which Destroys
Business Section.

CARLEIGH, Ala., Aug. 11.—A bomb hurled into the Miller Hardware Company building here last night demolished that store, and fire which followed destroyed the entire block in which the building store was located. The loss is $50,000, partially covered by insurance.

Early today the sheriff from Greenville and a posse of regular and special deputies arrested a negro charging him with being the man who placed the bomb in the Miller building. While the officers claim to have strong evidence against the "black man," they have not stated what it is.

The building destroyed are as follows: Miller Hardware Company, two $2,000; insurance $1,000; Mercantile & Kirkland drug store, $1,000; insurance—$1,000; H. S. Herliem clothing store, $1,000; insurance $1,000; People's Bank, all fixtures lost, but vault and valuable saved; House & Ballard leather shop, loss about $500.

Mr. Bisher owned all of the buildings destroyed. The offices of the Mayor and a number of the city officials were in the bank building. Those lost their office fixtures.

Answering that the general difficulty in the tax reform, which the State is not between the city and rural communities, but between the rural communities themselves, Governor Slaton urged the enactment of a law that would compel each county to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of the State.

Night Sessions for Assembly Probable

With only four days remaining in which to dispose of many important measures, night sessions of the Legislature during the coming week not only look up as a probability, but leaders in the House and Senate regard them as absolutely imperative if the session of the General Assembly is to be spared the reputation of having done less real work than any session in the history of the State.

Several attempts were made to hold a session on Sunday, but they failed. Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

DORSEY HAMMERS AT FRANK AIDE; SPRINGS NEW REPORT THEORY

Professor George Bachman, formerly of the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, and now of the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, was called to the stand in the trial of Leo M. Frank Monday after Herbert Schiff had been put through a grueling cross-examination.

He struck it once at the testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris by declaring that cabbage ordinarily required four and one-half hours to digest and that the main part of the digestion occurred not until it entered the small intestine.

A new and important development in the State's theory of the murder of Mary Phagan came to light Monday when Solicitor Dorsey sought to establish that Leo Frank very easily could have completed Saturday forenoon, instead of Saturday afternoon following the crime, the intricate anatomical sheet which the defense has introduced.

Herbert Schiff, assistant superintendent of the National Pencil Factory, already had identified the anatomical sheet as the work of Frank, presumably done by the superintendent on Saturday afternoon as this was his usual time for doing it.

Reuben Arnold had displayed the sheet to the jury and had drawn the jurors' attention to the fact that the writing was regular, clear and without any sign of trembling or nervousness on the part of the writer. The evident purpose was to show that Frank, after brutally murdering a girl, could not have done all the difficult mathematical work without error and without signs of agitation in his writing.

Believes Report Done Saturday A. M.
The Solicitor, however, started right out on a line of questioning that indicated his opinion was that Frank had done the work during the morning hours instead of after Mary Phagan had been slain.

Dorsey first asked Schiff, who was recalled to the stand, if it would not have been possible for Frank to have done the work on the financial sheet between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and between 11:30 and 1:30 o'clock after he returned from the Montag plant. Schiff said there would have been time for the work.

Dorsey recalled to the witness' stand a conversation between

Frank and O. E. Erenbach Friday afternoon in which Frank said he would try to get his work in shape in time to go to the baseball game on the following day.

It was the implication of the Solicitor that Frank had hurried through with his work Saturday morning and, as a matter of fact, had it completed or nearly completed before the afternoon.

Plasching with this line of questioning, the Solicitor began an attack on the time element which the defense has introduced in the trial.

On the redneck examination Schuff said that the financial sheet always was made up Saturday afternoon, and never in the morning.

Attorney Arnold also brought out the testimony that Frank's wife frequently came to the factory Saturday afternoon to help her husband in stenographic work.

Schuff explained keeping Jim Conley in the employ to the factory after dictating the financial statement and that Frank had prevented it.

Mr. DeLoach, assistant to Leo Frank, was the third woman visitor of his family to the court Monday morning. She had a seat next to the prisoner and his mother and wife.

Before court continued Frank asked permission to examine the paper model of the National Pencil Company building, Attorney Heuser Arnold for the defense.

Frank was in court early. His wife and mother came and kissed him, taking seats on either side of him.

It was reported around the courtroom that the jury would be taken to view the National Pencil Company building, Attorney Heuser Arnold for the defense.

A. I was telling Mr. Arnold what Mr. Frank did on Saturday. I don't see the stand Mr. Arnold announced that Q. Now tell this jury what there is to show that these orders did not come before Saturday, April 16.

Q. It was not there Friday night. I had looked through the file. Q. Was there any man who the sheet had to be at Montaga Monday?

Q. It was my custom. Q. Mr. Frank never told me when he was struck to his business? He would never go away unless his business was up?—A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Schuff, didn't you swear before the Coroner that it would take two hours and thirty minutes to get up the data and make up the sheet?—A. I may have misunderstood the question. I say now that it would have taken two and one-half to three hours.

Q. If he had an engagement and wanted to speed up, couldn't he do it within two or three-half hours?—A. Not and make it look the same. Q. Is Frank a faster man than you?—A. He is a faster man than I am. I am a faster man than you.

Q. Didn't you swear before the Coroner that Frank could have gotten the sheet up thirty minutes quicker than you?—A. I could not have specified any time. I have never made up the sheet before the Coroner?—A. No, I didn't. It is not in my exact language.

Q. How long did you say it would take Frank to balance the $48 in petty cash?—A. I don't know. I think I said before the Coroner that it would take him from one to one and one-half hours from one to one and one-half hours.

Q. How do you remember where you were last Thanksgiving?—A. One day I intended to do what was to go to Athens to attend a football game. It snowed. The B.N.A. High had an indoor football game.

Q. Didn't you know that time you left the factory that Thanksgiving Day?—A. Yes; I left with Frank at 12:30. Q. Do you know whether he went back that afternoon?—A. Yes; a few days later.

MEXICO CITY IS QUIET AS LIND ARRIVES

Huerta Expected to Agree to the Peace Proposals Brought by Special Envoy of U. S.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11.—John Lind, special diplomatic envoy from the United States, safely arriving in the capital, the first step toward President Wilson's program for the pacification of Mexico so as to make intervention unnecessary was taken today when Mr. Lind turned over to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Charge d'Affaires of the United States Embassy, a note from President Huerta, so that it might be handed to the Mexican Government through the regular diplomatic channels.

However, a supplementary message, explaining Mr. Lind's presence here and assuring President Huerta of the peaceful nature of his visit probably will be tendered personally by Mr. Lind to the Mexican executive.

Although no hostile demonstration attended the arrival here late last night of Mr. Lind from Mexico, nevertheless there was an undercurrent of feeling which caused a detachment of police at the disposal of Huerta to be on guard for his life.

Mr. Lind is expected to meet with the municipal authorities at the behest of President Huerta, offered to place under the disposal of the city a special envoy for his own safety.

Huerta's next move in the diplomatic contest with the United States will be awaited with keen interest in the United States. It is believed along with the Mexican President has been carrying on a monumental bluff in his claims of the United States look now for him to crumple up and accept the terms which are being offered by the American envoy for the settlement of the Mexican situation.

It is reported that Huerta was ready to agree to the disposal of the special envoy. Tales of Mr. Lind's arrival in Mexico City were spread by the special envoy. Tales of Mr. Lind's arrival in Mexico City were spread by the special envoy.
