

CITY ATTORNEY RULES REFORMS EFFECTIVE

CITY ATTORNEY JAMES L. MAYSON.

Revolutionary Reform Is Voted in, Mayson Rules, Despite Defeat of Substitute Charter--Woodward Sees Death Blow to Reactionaries.

By the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment to the city charter the voters of Atlanta can recall Mayor James G. Woodard, Recorder Nash R. Broyles, Police Chief James L. Beavers, Fire Chief W. B. Cummings, School Superintendent Slator, and any one of the twenty Councilmen or ten Aldermen, any Board member and any head of a city department, according to a ruling by City Attorney James L. Mayson Thursday.

Mayor James G. Woodard and the City Council accept this ruling as final. The Mayor issued a formal statement on the result of the election Thursday in which he declared the vote indicated that the public disapproved of the policies of the majority party in Council. He attacked three candidates who go before the people for re-election next Tuesday for their opposition to real charter reform. They are Councilmen Albert D. Thomson, Orville H. Hall and James E. Warren, and said that if there were opposition to the other charter reform opponents voters who are running all of them would be defeated.

He said the vote for the Council charter Wednesday showed that the "ring" following in Atlanta had dwindled to 1,487 votes and that the doom of the "organization" had been sounded.

Mr. Mayson's statement follows: "At the charter election, held on Tuesday, three questions were submitted to the people: "First, the revised charter. "Second, the power of the Recorder's Court. "Third, the initiative, referendum and recall.

"Under section 215 of the revised charter it is provided that the result of the election thereon shall not affect the several sections of the act which provide that the provisions shall become a law when approved by the Governor, nor the provisions of section 215-a, which submits to the people the question of the Recorder's Court power, and section 215-b, which submits to the people the question of initiative, referendum and recall.

Limits Recorder's Power. "Under section 215-b it is provided that if a majority of the votes cast in favor of vesting in the Recorder's Court the power set out in the second ballot, that is, 'For vesting in the Recorder's Court power to sentence for a term of labor and imprisonment not exceeding 30 days or by a fine not exceeding $200,' then said provisions shall become a law.

"Under section 215-c of the amendment, it is provided that if a majority of the votes cast is in favor of the principles of initiative, referendum and recall, then same shall become a law.

Recall Adopted. "Likewise the result of this election is to incorporate into the present law the principles known as initiative, referendum and recall, when the result of the election is declared as therein provided.

"Under this law, whenever 10 percent of the registered voters, as shown by the registration books, shall, by petition filed in the office of the Clerk of Council, request the submission of any ordinance or resolution, the substance of which is incorporated in the petition, an election will be held on a profit of over $10 an acre.

CALL FOR RECALL MOVEMENT FOR 'WIDE-OPEN' CITY

BEAVERS SEATED TO BEFERE 'WIDEN' POLICY

Foes of "Lid" See Real Opening to Strike Blow at Policy of Police Chief.

Reports, thicker than the ballot cast in the election, were circulated about town Friday that the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment to the city charter will lead to an immediate fight on Police Chief James L. Beavers through the medium of the recall.

No petition actually has been filed, but the reports come from such sources as to make them worthy of important consideration. "Open town" advocates not only see an indication of popular sympathy with their cause in the election results, but they find the first real chance to get at Chief Beavers since the inauguration of his policy of law enforcement and his trials in view.

Interesting fact is shown on the situation by Aldine Chambers, former councilman and leader and supporter of Chief Beavers. Mr. Chambers was instrumental in drawing the new charter and the father of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment.

The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment gives the people of Atlanta an opportunity to vote directly on the various "open town" policies in an election on the recall of Chief Beavers," he said.

Mr. Chambers introduced a similar amendment in Council several years ago, but it was defeated. He said he was glad it was adopted Wednesday, for he believed in it because it gave the people the right to settle various complicated municipal issues.

There has been more than one occasion when the recall of Chief Beavers was raised in a protest against the adoption of the document. He charged that the claim that it is a reform was a false, and though he never referred to the initiative, referendum and recall and the reduction of the Beavers's power provisions, it was generally believed that he wanted the people to vote against all changes submitted in the election.

Charter Advocates Dazed. The surprising result was that the program of the majority party in Council, the arch opponents of Mayor Woodward, was repudiated. But out of it came the most significant political reform Atlanta has had in years--the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall.

Mayor Woodward, with the "open town" element, is glad that it is such a condition. The new charter advocates, against whom Mayor Woodward charged a conspiracy to block reforms are amazed. The Men and Religion Forward Movement, which organization took no part in the campaign, seemingly believing that Chief Beavers was secure from any harm, have a situation that will give it serious cause for study.

Before this election Chief Beavers was secure. Though minor dudding has been cast time and again on the sincerity of the support of him by the Police Commission, the Commission had demonstrated more than once that it intended to continue to stand by him. There was no way out for either the Police Commission or Council. They were forced to stand by and support Chief Beavers, nega-

POSSEMEN ROSE ON $50,000 BAIL

Clew to Trio That Held Up Train Found Near Tuscaloosa--Deputy Accidentally Slain.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 26--Crews were found this afternoon by possemen trailing the three bandits who at 1 o'clock this morning held up and robbed the express car of Alabama Great Southern passenger train No. 7, at Hillsville, 30 miles south of Birmingham, and escaped by stealing the engine and express car of the train, which they drove at top speed 30 miles before being abandoned.

The locomotive went dead about 1 1/2 miles below Tuscaloosa, but it had been deserted presumably at some point between Tuscaloosa and there it was found stalled.

The crews were the remains of a fire and several whisky bottles. The fire had been made from lumber of a railroad coach, presumably parts of the express car which was badly shattered when the bandits blew the express locomotive to bits. Fully 100,000 lbs. of lumber have been salvaged.

Posse of sheriff's deputies, detectives and farmers, who took the trail soon after the hold-up, was reported, this afternoon continued the hunt through the 30 miles of woods and swamps between here and Woodstock in some part of which the bandits are supposed to be hiding. Fully 100 men are in the posse.

Deputy Sheriff James Bonner, of Birmingham, was accidentally shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff W. J. Cope this morning.

The accident occurred when Cope reached for his gun, which was piled with several other rifles. It was discharged, the bullet piercing Bonner's heart.

"My Lord, boys, I am dying," cried Bonner as he fell.

Bonner was about 40 years of age. He had been a motorcycle officer for several years. He leaves a wife and three small children.

3 WITNESSES FOUND TO AID CHARGE OF KIDNAPING AGAINST DENTON

'Slavery' Accusation Against Contractor Who Took Trip With Two Girls Fails

Three important witnesses have been obtained by the police to appear against J. L. Denton, the contractor, when he appeared before Judge Hoyles Saturday afternoon to answer the charge of kidnaping Eunice Dease, 15 years old, and Elsie Elliot, 16 when he accompanied to Birmingham a week ago.

Two of the witnesses are J. C. Carr, 42 Mills street, and L. A. Moon, a barber for whom the girls are said to have deserted Denton after their arrival in Birmingham.

Carr, on Friday morning, told Chief of Detectives Landon he and Moon were on the train with Denton and the young women and later followed.

Carr said he had seen Denton buy a long skirt for the Dease girl. When the girls deserted the contractor, Carr declared, Denton approached him in the depot and asked him to return the money he had put up for the tickets. Carr said he refused to do this, and that Denton then sold the girls' return tickets.

"Slavery" Charge Fails. A third witness, DeWitt Nunn, 314 of 4th Mills street, told Chief Landon he purchased the tickets used by Carr and Moon, and had seen Denton give three tickets at the time.

TRIAL JUDGE SAYS HE FEELS IT IS HIS DUTY TO PASS ON REHEARING

Judge L. S. Roan, who pronounced sentence upon Leo M. Frank in Georgia's greatest murder trial, in an informal statement Thursday made it plain that he considered it his duty to hear the arguments for a new trial to be made in behalf of the prisoner.

It is considered likely therefore that nothing will be put in the way of Judge Roan hearing the argument and deciding whether the prisoner he sentenced should receive a new trial at his hands.

The hearing upon October 1. Judge Roan said he would like to see the Frank case disposed of before he retires from the Criminal Court bench. He gave one reason for his desire--he feels it to be his duty inasmuch as he presided at the trial and is familiar with every phase of the case.

There is little doubt that Judge Roan's attitude means that the fight for Frank's life will be made and the first chapter decided before him.

"I do not know whether the defense and the State will be ready for the hearing of the motion for a new trial on October 1," said Judge Roan. "But I would prefer that the case be disposed of before I go, for the simple reason that I regard it as a duty mine I presided at the trial. I believe the case comes for me to assume my new duties."

Following Judge Roan's statement Solicitor Dorsey declared he would be glad for Judge Roan to hear the motion and dispose of the case, that he was waiting on the defense to submit his facts, and that he would do everything possible to have the matter ready for disposition on October 1.

Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens filed bonds at $50 each against Mr. Smith and Mr. Arnold, who were alleged to have been beaten by the defendants in an affray in the corridors of the courtroom last May.

The trouble which caused a stir in the city, resulted, it was alleged at the time, from a remark made by Walter Brown, one of the plaintiffs, to Smith, who was conversing with a woman witness in the case. Before the affray, it is said, Mr. Smith dozed several men, Arnold and Cox intervened in behalf of Smith. It was alleged.

The Grand Jury also indicted J. W. Burke on the charges of forgery and larceny from a house, 4011 1/2th street, in each case. The Grand Jury returned 20 bills and four indictments, and adjourned until Tuesday.

Justice Hill, who will be succeeded on the Court of Appeals bench by Judge Roan, will finish up his work on October 1, but it will not be necessary for him to relinquish his duties at that time if Judge Roan is named in hearing Frank motion arguments.

Of course, regardless of the decision of the judge who will hear the motion for a new trial, the matter will be taken to the Supreme Court, which probably will not hand down a decision before next summer.

Defense Collects Evidence. It was understood Friday that the attorneys for the defense had new evidence concerning alleged bias of three or four of the jurors, who sat on the case, which will be used in the motion for a new trial.

Two depositions concerning sworn statements of L. E. Black and Walter Thomas, citizens of Blakely, Ga., who are said to have talked with Attorney H. H. Hines, one of the jurors, have been filed already by Attorney Rose and Arnold, representing the defense.

According to the defense, the two jurors refused to answer any questions in regard to what Mr. Hines had said to them and an order was made requiring them to appear before W. W. Wright, a notary public of Barry County.

Advice of Wilson on Tariff Snarl Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26--To get suggestions that would help smooth the path of conference on the tariff measure, Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, held a conference with President Wilson today.

He said he had not asked the President to interfere in the present deadlock between the House and Senate conferees, but that he hoped that the executive might be able to offer some plan through which all difficulties could be straightened out, and a projected disagreement avoided.

Only the tender ages of the girls, one of whom is 14 years old and the other 16, and the pleas of their parents, Mr. Bailey said, prompted the government action. He stated that while the case in many of its features called for investigation, still his examination showed that Denton's aim in taking the girls to Birmingham involved no commercial gain.

When the girls were found by Special Agent McElroy, they were quarantined at a hotel. Robert Moon, who is said to be wanted in Atlanta to face a charge of larceny, was with them. Moon is declared to have paid the hotel bill. He was taken into custody and is being held in Birmingham.

Charles Dease, brother of Eunice Dease, the younger of the two girls, accompanied the special agent to the Atlanta city and returned with him. The girls arrived in Atlanta shortly before 7 o'clock Friday morning, and were taken directly to the office of Mr. Bailey in the Federal Building. Denton has been released from the police station on bond of $500, and will answer to the holding charges tomorrow morning in Police Court. He will maintain his innocence, and declares he did not know the girls, who are going to Birmingham until he get them out of the train. He declares that the story the girls tell will exonerate him.

Half of U. S. Crop Fund Distributed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26--Distribution of $200,000,000 by the Treasury Department among the banks of the South and West, to facilitate the movement of crops has been half completed, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Williams announced to-day.

A total of $24,150,000 has already been distributed among 22 States. The most of the money has been distributed as follows: Illinois, $2,000,000; Louisiana, $1,000,000; Maryland, $2,100,000; Tennessee, $2,040,000; Missouri, $170,000; and Georgia, $1,622,000.

May Jail Lynchers Of 'Wrong Negro'

MARKS, MISS., Sept. 26--The Sheriff and county authorities, because a number of white people are ignorant of the lynchings of Walter Brown, the "wrong negro," are investigating and may arrest members of the hanging party who arrange Brown to a telegraph pole for a supposed attack on the wife of a farmer.

The negro was not identified by the woman.

RAIN TO INTERRUPT MILD WEATHER HERE

With the Government thermometer registering 11 degrees at 1 o'clock, Friday was the warmest day of the week in Atlanta. The weather has been generally warm for the past several days all over the Cotton region, with a slightly lower temperature at Atlanta than at any other station in this district.

THE WEATHER. Forecast for Atlanta and Georgia--Fair Friday; Saturday probably rain.

Negro Postoffice Messengers Strike; White Boys Hired

A strike by sixteen negro messengers at the postoffice Thursday night resulted in the installation of a complete corps of white messengers Friday by Postmaster Bulling H. Jones.

The strike was precipitated when Postmaster Jones substituted a day shift of sixteen white boys for the negroes who formerly held the position. This action was taken at the request of a number of newly widows who asked Mr. Jones to employ their late husbands.

The night shift, composed of negroes, immediately went to the Postmaster and demanded assurance that their shift would not be changed in a like manner. Upon Mr. Jones' refusal to give the assurance they quit.

'OPEN TOWN' BROAD SEES FIRST OPENING TO STRIKE 'L' BLOW

Reports, thicker than the ballots cast in the election, were circulated about town Friday that the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment to the city charter will lead to an immediate fight on Police Chief James L. Beavers through the medium of the recall.

No petition actually has made its appearance, but the reports come from such sources as to make them worthy of important consideration. "Open town" advocates not only see an indication of popular sympathy with their cause in the election results, but they see the first real chance to get at Chief Beavers since the inauguration of his policy of law enforcement and his crusade on vice.

Interesting light is thrown on the situation by Aldine Chambers, former Councilman leader and a supporter of Chief Beavers in his campaign for the mayoralty. Mr. Chambers was instrumental in drawing the new charter and the father of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment.

"The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment gives the people of Atlanta an opportunity to settle directly the issue of a 'tight' or 'open town' police policy in an election on the recall of Chief Beavers," he said.

Mr. Chambers introduced a similar amendment in Council several years ago, but it was defeated. He said he was glad it was adopted Wednesday, for he believed in it because it gave the people the right to settle various complicated municipal issues.

There has been more than one laugh over the curious result of the special election. Mayor Woodward alone raised his voice in protest against the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall. It was a reform was a fair, and though he never referred to the initiative, referendum and recall in the election.

WOMAN AIDS IN SOLVING THEFT OF $72,000

With the handwriting of the man who has been sending letters and telegrams to Pinkerton detectives and officials of the Southern Express Company boasting that he stole the $72,000, the police have identified the thief as a man named Smith.

It was thought at first that the letter, all which chided the detectives for their failure to solve the mystery of the robber and contained a cordial invitation to "come and get me" were written by a patient in the St. Francis Sanitarium.

FOES LAUREL FIGHT ON CURE

BANDIT TRIO BLOSSOM ON A. C. S.

Alabama Officers and Railroaders Pursue Robbers and Locomotive on Special Trains.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 26.—James Bonner, a deputy sheriff from Birmingham, was killed near Tusculooa this morning by a Montgomery deputy, who mistook him for one of the Bibbville siding train robbers.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 26.—After riding up an Alabama Great Southwestern passenger train at Bibbville, Ala., just below Woodstock, 30 miles south of Birmingham, at midnight, three masked robbers forced the train to stop and then ran down the track a short distance, where the express case was dynamited. Then they started the engine and car loose without a crew for a wild dash of miles down the road to a point five miles below Tusculooa, where the engine was stopped. The robbers and car flashed by station after station until they had reached the Tusculooa siding, where they were met by Alabama officers and railroaders.

As the speeding engine rumbled by the first station below the scene of the hold-up the operator sent a message to Birmingham and railroad officials and trainmen started in pursuit on a switch engine. However, they failed to overhail the wild locomotive until it had run itself down below Tusculooa.

On a special train Sheriff McKee, seven deputies, Chief of Police Bookser, a squad of policemen, Superintendent J. W. Evans, of the railroad, and a force of railroad detectives took the trail in pursuit of the robbers. Chief Bookser returned here shortly after daylight and reported that no trace of the men had been found. The others pressed toward Tusculooa, where they are now engaged in the bandit hunt.

The train was held up by the robbers throwing a black flag to the red dander mark. As the train came to a standstill they fired into the mail and express cars. Mail Clerk Sanders was badly cut by glass shattered by bullets. Clerk Phillips and Poole narrowly escaped being struck by flying bullets. Engineer Daniels was forced from the engine, while others of the train crew and passengers were held at bay. Express Messenger Kelly was rescued from his car. The train was then ordered to cut the engine and express car loose and run to a secluded spot down the track, where at the point of a pistol the dynamite was started apart through the woods.

Two charges of dynamite were fired to wreck the express safe. Express officials claim that the safe contained little of real value, and that the robbers secured but little loot for their trouble. The loss of registered mail matter is also said to have been slight, as postal officials claim there was only one important pouch in the car, and it was not secured.

The trainmen who reported the robbery to headquarters here gave good descriptions of the three robbers. One was described as about 30 years of age, of medium build, with a mustache, dark eyes and a brown coat. The other two were of slender build and wearing dark clothes. The men carried long flashlights to aid them in their operations.

Glee Echoed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—With a fresh outbreak, forced behind the Democratic and fusion factions in the Tennessee General Assembly over the prohibition law enforcement bills, whose passage is demanded by Governor Ben W. Hooper, and which are bitterly opposed by Speaker Ferguson, it is being feared political and legislative circles here this morning as the hour approached for the daily session to convene.

Milledgeville Woman Identifies Handwriting in Taunts to Sleuths as Husband's

With the handwriting of the man who has been sending letters and telegrams to Pinkerton detectives and officials of the Southern Express Company boasting that he stole the $72,000 recently taken from an express car during the run between New York and Savannah, identified by Mrs. E. L. Smith, of Milledgeville, as that of her husband, the efforts of the officers to solve the mystery have resulted into a country-wide search for Smith.

It was thought at first that the letters, all of which chided the detectives for their failure to solve the mystery of the robber and contained a cordial invitation to "come and get me," were written by a stranger to the Milledgeville Sanitarium.

Smith has sent his mysterious letters and telegrams from different cities in the South, and although each was written with words of investigation, not until recently did the detectives find a clue to the identity of the mysterious "fat man."

A few days ago officials of the express company received a telegram from Milledgeville, which changed the aspect of the case. It read: "I am the man who got your money. I don't want you to come and get me? My wife lives in Milledgeville, and she will tell you where I can be found."

Three Pinkerton men who have been working on the case went at once to Milledgeville. Mrs. Smith was located and unwittingly identified the handwriting as that of her husband.

Detectives declare the circumstances surrounding Smith's life in Milledgeville corroborate their belief that he is the robber, or at any rate is indirectly connected with the theft. Once Deserted Wife.

According to evidence found at Milledgeville, Smith came to the Georgia town from Worcester, Mass., about sixteen months ago. He married a Georgia girl last January, but shortly thereafter deserted her. He was arrested near West Lake, Ga., and brought back to Milledgeville on a charge of wife desertion.

He was released, and remained in Milledgeville until June, when he was arrested again. Nothing more was heard from him until the express company officials and detectives began receiving the mysterious letters. The drag net of the Pinkertons and of the special agents of the express company has been thrown out all over the South in the effort to apprehend Smith.

Clear House of Spectators

Probably for the first time in the history of the State, the statehouse yesterday was cleared of spectators, including members of the Senate, which was not in session. "This action was taken as a precaution against a riot which has been brewing for the past three days or since the so-called law enforcement bills were brought up in the House for consideration."

The action was taken at the initiative of Representative McFarland, who was not a compulsory member. Mr. McFarland volunteered to the House to clear the corridors and address the members of the Senate.

The girls arrived in Atlanta Friday morning of Elsie Elliott, 16 years old, of Hollywood, and Bonnie Dease, 15 years old of Hapeville, the young girls whom J. L. Denton, an Atlanta contractor, is charged with kidnaping and taking to Birmingham last Saturday. The official Federal investigation of the white slavery charges that it is proposed to bring against Denton has begun in earnest.

Neither of the girls was placed under arrest when they were located in Birmingham Thursday afternoon. A member of Mr. Bailey's staff went to the Alabama city to get them, with a view to returning them to Atlanta. If they refused to return to Atlanta, he would bring them to Birmingham.

The girls were taken to the Department of Justice with them under arrest and escorted them to Mr. Bailey's office. According to reports emanating from Birmingham yesterday, both girls accuse Denton of inducing them to make the trip, and of paying the railroad fare. They declare that they left Denton after he made improper suggestions to them. It is expected that they will reiterate their charges under oath to Mr. Bailey this morning, in which case the Government will proceed at once with the prosecution of the contractor.

Denton has been released from the police station on bond of $500, and will answer to the kidnaping charges before 7 o'clock Friday morning. He still maintains his innocence, and declares he did not know the girls until they were taken to Birmingham last Saturday.

The two girls told their stories freely to Bailey and he will decide later in the day whether the Government will prosecute Denton on white slavery charges.

Mr. Bailey stated Friday morning that he expected to secure a detailed statement from each of the girls regarding their movements while in Birmingham, and will in particular try to learn whether Denton furnished the money for their transportation to the Alabama city.

The present controversy in the House of Representatives largely is over the so-called nuisance bill passed Saturday, September 23, by the Senate. It has passed second reading in the House. As passage of the bill is officially termed "an act to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors," it is expected to secure the enforcement of the existing laws against the sale of intoxicating liquors in the State and to declare the production, maintaining or carrying on of such unlawful business or occupation to be a public nuisance.

GOVERNOR FIGURES IN TENNESSEE STRIFE

Copyright, 1906, By The Georgian Co. 2 CENTS. PAT. NO. 51,017

Governor Ben W. Hooper.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 26.—With a fresh outbreak, forced behind the Democratic and fusion factions in the Tennessee General Assembly over the prohibition law enforcement bills, whose passage is demanded by Governor Ben W. Hooper, and which are bitterly opposed by Speaker Ferguson, it is being feared political and legislative circles here this morning as the hour approached for the daily session to convene.

The presence of armed men in the Capitol and threats of violence that have been rife for several days have wrought politicians and officials up to the highest pitch of excitement probably ever known at a session of the Tennessee Legislature. With the tenacious of the situation it is considered rather miraculous that actual supply has not been indulged in.

The House members were determined today to force the passage of the prohibition bills and the Democrats were just as determined to prevent their passage.

Clear House of Spectators. Probably for the first time in the history of the State, the statehouse yesterday was cleared of spectators, including members of the Senate, which was not in session. "This action was taken as a precaution against a riot which has been brewing for the past three days or since the so-called law enforcement bills were brought up in the House for consideration."

'OPEN TOWN' COULD SEES FIRST OFFING TO STRIKE 'LID' BLOW

Reports, thicker than the ballots cast in the election, were circulated about town Friday that the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment to the city charter will lead to an immediate fight on Police Chief James L. Beavers through the medium of the recall.

No petition actually has made its appearance, but the reports come from such sources as to make them worthy of important consideration. "Open town" advocates not only see an indication of popular sympathy with their cause in the election results, but they find the first real chance to get at Chief Beavers since the inauguration of his policy of law enforcement and his crusade on vice.

Interesting light is thrown on the situation by Aldine Chambers, former Councilman leader and a supporter of Chief Beavers in his campaign for the mayoralty. Mr. Chambers was instrumental in drawing the new charter and the father of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment.

"The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall amendment gives the people of Atlanta an opportunity to settle directly the issue of a 'tight' or 'open town' police policy in an election on the recall of Chief Beavers," he said.

Mr. Chambers introduced a similar amendment in Council several years ago, but it was defeated. He said he has since adopted Wednesday afternoon for the recall of Chief Beavers, which was believed in it because it gave the people the right to settle various complicated municipal issues.

There has been more than one laugh over the curious result of the special election. Mayor Woodruff alone raised his voice in protest against the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall.

The surprising result was that the program of the majority party in Council, the arch opponents of Mayor Woodruff, was repudiated. But out of it came the most significant political reform Atlanta has had in years—the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall.

Mayor Woodruff with the "open town" element, is glad that it is so, though his activities before the election were calculated to prevent just such a condition. The new charter advocates, against whom Mayor Woodruff charged a conspiracy to block reforms are amazed.

The Man and Religion Forward Movement, which organization took no part in the campaign, seemingly believing that Chief Beavers was secure from any harm, faces a situation that will give it serious cause for study.

Before this election Chief Beavers was secure. Though minister doubt has been cast time and again on the sincerity of the support of him by the Police Commission, the Commission has demonstrated more than once that it intended to continue to stand by him. These things went out for either the Police Commission or Council. They were forced to stand by and support Chief Beavers, negatively if not positively. For Mayor Woodruff expressed it.

Way Now Open for Attack. "You caught a man for enforcing the law."

DENTON CASE GIRLS REVEAL ALL TO U. S.

With the arrival in Atlanta Friday morning of Elsie Elliott, 16 years old, of Hollywood, and Bonnie Dease, 15 years old of Hapeville, the young girls whom J. L. INITIATIVE REFORMS PLACED LEGAL FIGHT TO THE TEST OF THE COURT BEARERS his enemies. If a majority of the people don't want him for Chief of Police that would end it. According to the recall amendment the Police Commission would have to elect another man and Chief Beavers wouldn't be an eligible candidate.

However, the initiative, referendum and recall amendment does not end with the possibility of the recall of Chief Beavers. Mayor Woodward, William M. Sloan, Superintendent of Schools, Noah R. Broyles, the whole Council, all board members and all heads of departments are subject to the same procedure.

Friends of Chief Beavers declare that if a movement is started to recall him they will start a petition to recall Mayor Woodward.

The opponents of Chief Beavers are the same as the opponents of Recorder Broyles. They declare that the reduction of the Recorder's power in the election, cutting his fine limit from $500 to $250, might be a sign that he could be recalled.

Alderman James E. Warren, Mayor Pro Tem, is disclosed as the result.

Process Complications.

Advised members of Council before they measure passed the Legislature that it would cause trouble, he said. "There is no telling where the recall will end. Its application to officials elected by the people, officials elected by Council and officials elected by boards is certain to cause complications."

It requires 25 per cent of the registered voters who were qualified to elect electors at the last general election to call a recall election. There were something over 15,000 registered at the last general municipal election. It would require something more than 3,750 signatures to call an election on Chief Beavers.

Legislation, however, can be initiated by 10 per cent of the registered voters. That insures a vote of the people next year on a radical form of charter. Council turned down an election on Chief Beavers last spring demanding a vote on a radical charter. Council turned down an election on Chief Beavers last year. Now a few more than one-fifth of that number can call an election on any sort of a charter that they can call out of their department when a home is burning.

It takes 15 per cent of the registered voters to call an election on an ordinance that Council already has passed. But the referendum is least important of the three.

Some radical changes have taken place in Atlanta's form of government as the result of that election Wednesday when less than 4,000 votes were cast. The charge of apathy was made against the people, but it seems that they build better than they knew.

Voter Has Greater Voice.

That the average everyday voter has a much bigger voice in the affairs of his city as a result of the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall clause already is quite apparent.

Yes it was all an accident. That that is true is proved by the fact that the birth of three reforms submitted in the election was purely accidental. Each one of them was put into a form to be voted upon by the people as a result of a chance event affair to stop something else.

The ways of politics always are strange, but this is about the strangest political affair Atlanta has ever experienced, unless it be the election of Chief Beavers to his present post.

This charter came into being during the agitation by Mayor Woodward and a citizens' committee for radical reform last spring. It seemed that the people were determined upon some sort of change. But Council has no intention of ever permitting the sort of change that was proposed. So the new charter that was voted down Wednesday—but then including the initiative, referendum and recall clause was saved on high seas, saying grace while the charter of the citizens was pitched lightly into the waste basket.

Establishes the initiative, referendum and recall clause would have gone down with under an avian vote, but it had other channels to pass through. One of them was the basis of Robert M. Blackburn, Representative in the Legislature.

There the initiative, referendum and recall clause was introduced from the organic law of Atlanta. Mr. Blackburn did not use any gimmick that he alone is responsible for the charter to-day.

Wanted to Kill Will. Mr. Blackburn was opposed to the initiative, referendum and recall principle of government. He wanted to kill the whole thing. He was in it. But Council heard rumblings of another charter movement, and he was put in it. He was put in it as a result of the initiative, referendum and recall clause. It has been charged that he was put in it as a result of the initiative, referendum and recall clause.

Representative John Smith wanted to cut the power of Recorder Broyles.

Members of Council insisted that if the way was put into the charter it

FEARFUL CLASH IN TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE

Situation in Wrangle Over Passage of Dry Laws Still Tense in the House.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 26.—With a fresh outbreak feared between the Democratic and union factions in the Tennessee General Assembly over the prohibition law enforcement bills, whose passage is demanded by Governor Ben W. Hooper, and which are bitterly opposed by Speaker Stanford of the House, Democratic leaders a tense feeling prevailed political and legislative circles here this morning as the hour approached for the daily session to convene.

The presence of armed men in the Capitol and threats of violence that have been rife for several days have wrought politicians and officials up to the highest pitch of excitement probably ever known at a session of the Tennessee Legislature. With the tenacious of the situation it is colorized rather than actual.

The action was taken at the initiative of Representative McFarland, a Republican, who was supported by the various speakers who were leaving in the corridors and addressed them briefly, stating that in the interest of peace this action was necessary.

Will the city detectives have questioned one of the speakers. "Yes," replied Mr. McFarland. "I understand that A. A. Barthell is on the floor of the House. Will he be there?"

It will be recalled that he so-called "gunmen" would join the movement, the

PARIS BEAUTY'S DEATH BARES SCANDAL

Europe Stirred as Famous Names Are Linked With Life of Actress, Drug Victim.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Sept. 26.—Police Prefect Hennion to-day forbade the burial of the body of 25-year-old Pierrette Fleury, actress and cabaret singer, who died from an overdose of ether in her apartments in the fashionable suburb of Le Vegetin.

A scandal is threatened as a result in the singer's employ has led the police of orifices which took place in the apartments of her young mistress. Names famous throughout Europe and America were mentioned, but the police said these would be kept secret.

Despite her extreme youth, Pierrette had run the gamut of human joys. She was an inveterate user of opium. She smoked from 99 to 100 Turkish cigarettes a day soaked in opium. So thoroughly was her system saturated with drugs that it required an immense quantity to affect her.

When she was found dead, a quart jar, which had held ether but was nearly empty, was found at her side. A linen sheet was wrapped about her head and the bed was filled with ether-soaked wads of cotton.

The dead girl was one of the leading figures in the night life of Paris. She was a statuesque brunette of striking beauty. She had had a income from several rich men and squandered nearly a quarter of a million dollars annually.

Mme. Susanne Pardelle, a well-known French actress, lived with Pierrette.

Sensational charges were made at both meetings.

ATLANTA COTTON MEN FIGHT SENATOR SMITH'S PLAN FOR FUTURES TAX

Cotton merchants in Atlanta are a unit in opposing the Clarke amendment to the tariff bill, which now is being considered by the House and Senate conferees. The Clarke amendment proposes a prohibitive tax on trading in cotton futures.

Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, has a substitute which is being urged upon the conferees. Atlanta cotton men are inclined to favor it, though few of them have had the opportunity to inspect its exact phrasing.

The Clarke amendment, say the Atlantans, would wipe out the New York and New Orleans exchanges; depress the price of cotton; make buying and selling of spots and even spinning extremely precarious and result in a narrow market and low return for the farmer.

Even the shadow that the threat of its passage has thrown across the trade, they say, is restricting business in Atlanta.

"Would Kill 'Hedge' Markets. Cotton mills here and elsewhere have a habit of buying certain grades of cotton, fixing the price, and agreeing to pay a certain premium to cover the New York futures quotation at 'call' date. Fear that the cotton exchange will be put out of business is causing local cotton merchants to refuse such business daily.

"If the Clarke amendment becomes law, it will destroy our hedge market," says C. H. Foster, of the Georgia Cotton Association. "It even makes it illegal for us to cable buying and selling orders to the Liverpool exchange."

"If hedge markets are destroyed, the cotton merchant, the mill owner and every other man connected with the marketing of the cotton crop must make a great profit loss. He must himself against fluctuations in an insurance he now gets by buying or selling futures. This spells but one thing—buy cheaper from the grower and sell dearer to the consumer."

"Unfortunately, future trading is a well established trade. It takes a little study to understand it. I can see how some men, failed to grasp the principle, become rabid against the exchange. No doubt there is fault in the present system of marketing cotton. There are faults in every business which I ever heard of. But the fault is small compared with the great benefits. The system has made it possible to do cotton trading, the buying and selling of actual cotton, or the purchase and sale of cotton cloth or yarn, on a smaller margin than obtains in any other line of commerce."

"Now a farmer who sees a future at an attractive price in New York, and who fears that the rush of the crop to market in the near future will depress the price, can sell his cotton to the merchant in August, to be delivered in October. I can buy it and have myself against loss by selling a New York contract."

"How Broker Operates. When the price of cotton is high and I have a New York contract, I can sell it to a spinner. If cotton is gone down, what I have lost is paid me the high price in the future. I have made my contract. If it goes up, what I have made on the contract is offset by what I have lost on the contract."

which, it is understood, the Hoke Smith substitute provides. Mr. Howard also favors an anti-corner law, and expressed these views before committees of the House and Senate last year.

"The Smith substitute, as I understand it, seems to force the New York Exchange, under penalty of a heavy fine, to use the New Orleans contract. The New Orleans contract is much fairer. If a man buys a cotton contract in New Orleans, he need not fear to be put out of business by the New York contract. He will get cotton when he needs it."

"But if he does not deliver, the difference is fairly made up in cash. The Clarke amendment would make it impossible to sell the cotton in the futures market. There are many of them here who are not spinners, many of them hard to deliver yarn. It is impossible to sell the cotton in the futures market. It is impossible to sell the cotton in the futures market. It is impossible to sell the cotton in the futures market."

"Mr. Howard favors the use of commercial differences in settling New York contracts as against the arbitrary differences now fixed by the exchange. This is technical point

Wilson Has Plan for Modified Futures Tax. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—House and Senate conferees on the tariff bill have begun consideration of the few items in dispute to-day with the expectation that agreements soon will be reached. Passage of the tariff bill necessarily will be delayed for at least a week, owing to the agreement of the conferees to disagree on the cotton futures taxation question.

It is believed that President Wilson has advised the conferees to report a disagreement with the exception that the House then will initiate a modified form of taxation on the cotton futures which the Senate, receding from the extreme position taken in the Clarke contract, will accept.

HOWARD BILL TO RETIRE BONDS INTRODUCED

Georgia Congressman Says His Plan Solves Currency Puzzle and Cuts Interest Farmers Pay.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Representative William Schley Howard, of Georgia, today introduced a bill to accomplish the plan he submitted to the House the other day to settle one of the most troublesome problems in the new currency bill—the retirement of the $700,000,000 2 per cent bonds securing national bank notes and the refunding of this bonded indebtedness.

The bill provides for the refunding of the outstanding national bank note bonds with postal savings bonds which will bear 2 per cent interest, will be payable at the Treasury of the United States and will be current and cashable anywhere within the United States.

It provides also that 95 per cent of the sum so collected through the postal savings bank system may be placed in the State and national banks in the vicinity in which the postal savings banks are located, on condition that the deposits do not exceed any limitation on the capital stock and one-half of the surplus of the institution.

As the bonds sold at retail to the people will draw 2 per cent and the government will receive 2 1/2 per cent, the additional 1/2 per cent will be used to pay the expenses of the entire system, and Mr. Howard thinks this will be done with a margin of profit to share.

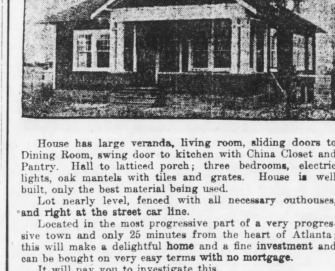

Whereas, the farmers of Georgia now pay 8 per cent when they borrow money from the banks, said Mr. Howard today, they will be able to get it at 6 per cent if my bill goes into effect."

GIRLS IN DENTON CASE ARE FOUND

Elsie Elliott and Eunice Dease To Be Brought From Birmingham to Face Contractor.

Elsie Elliott and Eunice Dease the young women alleged to have been abducted by J. L. Denton, Atlanta contractor, were located Thursday by detectives in a hotel in Birmingham. The information was furnished by one of the men for whom the girls are said to have deserted the contractor after the trio arrived in the Alabama city. Chief Lanford immediately notified Special Agent L. J. Bailey, of the United States Secret Service, and a Government operative was dispatched to Birmingham to bring the girls to Atlanta.

Denton will be confronted by the girls upon their return. At this Denton was released on bonds of $100 Wednesday night. He will be tried Saturday.

According to a report from Birmingham, both Elsie Elliott and Eunice Dease are emphatic in declaring that Denton persuaded them to make the trip. The little Dease girl declared that she got to the Terminal station in Atlanta, preparatory to making the trip, but she decided not to go. At this Denton struck her heavily in the breast, she declares, and told her "if you don't go I'll kill you."

According to the story told by Elsie Elliott, she was employed as Denton's stenographer. She was in the city when she suggested that she take a trip, and she, taken with the romantic idea contained in the suggestion, finally consented. She was taken to the hotel where the girls were held. She also gave the two money and told them to buy a ticket to Birmingham, but not to mention to any one that she had supplied the funds, said the girl, declaring she did this. After boarding the train for Atlanta, Denton, so they declared, made several improper suggestions. This made them want to come back, but he would not allow it, she declares.

Upon their arrival in Birmingham they took lunch with Denton, where he renewed his suggestion, they declare, and they thereupon left him, not knowing what to do. They took a room in a local lodging house.

MOTHER! NO USE TAKING CHANCES

If child is cross, feverish, colic, give "California Syrup of Figs."

If your little one's tongue is coated it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, or acts naturally, if breath is bad, stomach sour, appetite full, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged, congested, and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Small children need "California Syrup of Figs" to take this harmless "fruit laxative" which cleanses the bowels gently and promptly and sure. They also need a little given to "California Syrup of Figs" to keep their little ones from getting sick, or to "California Syrup of Figs" to keep their little ones from getting sick, or to "California Syrup of Figs" to keep their little ones from getting sick.

BIG BIDS FOR SCHOOL BOOKS

The legislative commission created to look into the question of the school book status in Georgia, with a view to making a report at the next session of the General Assembly, met in the State Capitol today.

Superintendent of Schools M. L. Brittain, of the State Department, was made chairman of the commission, and Senator Foster was named secretary.

The board, after organization, named a sub-committee to investigate the prices of books in all the States of the Union, in order that the commission, in its report to the Legislature next summer, might compare prices charged in Georgia with prices charged elsewhere, and with an eye to the possible publication of the schoolbooks for the State by the State.

The commission ignored the recent action of the State board in calling for bids for new books on October 25 of this year, notwithstanding the fact that such action is considered by some members of the legislative body as prejudicial to the legislative committee's work, and in a way in conflict with the law.

The State Board of Education, acting as the State School Book Commission, has set up a situation with respect to textbooks hereafter to be used in the public schools that likely will bring it into sharp conflict with the Legislature, and doubtless has precipitated the liveliest kind of a fight in Georgia.

When the Commission met in the Capitol Thursday, it took up the matter of schoolbooks for the next few years. The present State contract expires on January 1, 1914, and the Commission has the right either to renew it in whole or in part, or to make a new contract for an additional period of five years, which contract, nevertheless, must be subject to cancellation upon twelve months' notice by the State.

In ordinary circumstances, there would be no difficulty about this, but the Legislature at its summer session this year passed a resolution providing for an investigating commission, to look exhaustively into the entire school situation in Georgia, and to report back with recommendations as to the future, to the next session.

Under the authority of this legislative commission is wide-going, even so far as to consider the matter of the State's publication of its own textbooks.

The legislative commission may continue a continuing commission of the present contract, in whole or in part, or it may rescind the entire contract of books, or it may recommend that the State publish its own books.

The Board of Education, however, selected to proceed immediately to the consideration of a new five-year contract. This, while subject to cancellation upon twelve months' notice, might involve an immediate change of textbooks to be followed within a year by another change. Upon motion of the Legislature, the matters should take that direction, it might mean setting aside the present books, adopting for a year or two a new line, and then setting that aside eventually for still another line, and so on.

Moreover, there are members of the commission who already are charging that the Legislature has "slipped the fact" by the State board, because of that which appears to be an effort to forestall the Legislature in adjusting the schoolbook situation, and to make its proposed investigation of the book situation ridiculous and of no book situation.

3 WITNESSES FOUND TO AID CHARGE OF KIDNAPING AGAINST DENTON

Elsie Elliot, on left, and Eunice Dease, who, it is charged, were kidnaped by J. L. Denton, Atlanta contractor.

'Slavery' Accusation Against Contractor Who Took Trip With Two Girls Fails

Three important witnesses have been obtained by the police to appear against J. L. Denton, the contractor, who is charged with kidnaping Eunice Dease, 15 years old, and Elsie Elliot, 14, whom he accompanied to Birmingham a week ago.

Two of the witnesses are J. C. Carr, 45 Mills street, and L. A. Moon, a barber for whom the girls are said to have deserted Denton after their arrival in Birmingham.

Carr, on Friday morning, told Chief of Detectives Landford he and Moon were on the train with Denton and the young women and later followed them.

The girls had been seen by Denton by a long skirt for the Dease girl. When the girls deserted the contractor, Carr declared, Denton approached him in the depot and asked him to refund the girls' return tickets.

Carr said he refused to do this and "Denton" then sold the girls' return tickets.

"Slavery" Charge Fails. A third witness, DeWitt Nunn, also of 45 Mills street, told Chief Landford he purchased the tickets used by Carr and Moon, and had seen Denton get three tickets at the time.

The probability of prosecution under the Mann "white slave" act, which was distributed Friday when the two young women underwent a searching questioning by L. J. Bailey, of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice.

Following the examination, Mr. Bailey stated that he could not see any grounds for action against Denton by the government. He said that so far as he could learn the case contained no commercial feature such as he considered essential before the case came under Governmental authority, despite the view taken in the Duggs-Cammitt prosecution.

According to the stories told by the girls, Denton gave them the money with which to purchase tickets to Birmingham and afterwards joined them on the train. The three occupied seats together throughout the trip.

Denton Left the Girls. At their destination, however, Denton is said to have left the girls when they met two men with whom they were acquainted. Denton was accused also of making improper proposals to the girls.

Only the tender ages of the girls, one of whom is 16 years old and the other 15, and the pleas of their parents, Mr. Bailey said, prompted the Government action. He stated that while the case in many of the features called for investigation, still his examination showed that Denton's aim in taking the girls to Birmingham involved no commercial gain.

When the girls were found by Special Agent McEwen, they were quartered at a hotel. Robert Moon, who is said to be wanted in Atlanta to face a charge of larceny, was with them. Moon is declared to have paid the hotel bill. He was taken into custody.

OLD FOLKS FIND CROXONE RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Few Doses Relieve Backache and Bladder Disorders.

Sleep disturbing bladder weakness, backache, rheumatism and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

Croxone relieves all such disorders by its action on the cause of the trouble. It causes the right innervation of the muscles of the back and limbs, cleans out the little filtering glands, and drives the kidney's new strength to do for you properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substance that lodges in the joints and muscles, prevents its accumulation, and makes the kidney filter and get out the poisonous uric matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered. Croxone is so prepared that it is perfectly innocuous and does not have any harmful effects. There is nothing else like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses will usually be required to relieve even the most chronic condition.

An official package certificate is enclosed with each bottle. It is returned to return the purchase price. Croxone should last in a single case.

LEGISLATIVE BOOKS SCHOOL BOOKS LEGISLATIVE BOOKS

The legislative commission created to look into the question of the schoolbook status in Georgia, with a view to making a report at the next session of the General Assembly, met in the State Capitol Friday.

Superintendent of Schools M. I. Bryman, of the State Department, was made chairman of the commission, and Senator Foster was named secretary.

The board, after organization, named a sub-committee to investigate the present books in use in the State of Georgia, in order that the commission in its report to the Legislature next summer might compare prices charged elsewhere, and with an eye to the possible publication of the schoolbooks for the State by the State.

In the meantime the legislative investigating committee meets for organization purposes in the Capitol today.

There are signs that a spirit of resentment already is more or less rampant within that body, and some exceedingly lively proceedings are anticipated.

If the legislative committee and the State Board of Education get at cross purposes in the very beginning of the adjustment of the schoolbook question there is no doubt that by the time the Legislature meets next summer a hot time will have been made out for that body's consideration and attention.

Conflict With Legislature.

Those who opposed the action of the State Board—Governor Glavin and Superintendent Bryman—do so upon the grounds that it would be unwise and unseemly to take any action that might be construed as a slap at the Legislature, and that the new thing to do would be to extend the present contracts until after the Legislature had concluded its investigation—at which time the contracts if the Legislature thought fit, might be altered, and new contracts made.

This, so they argued, would work to the interests of the people, in that it would save them money by warding off possible unnecessary changes of books not to be made permanent, and thus avoid confusion in many districts.

Those who voted for the motion that prevailed, however—Dr. Cotton, Professor Johnson and Mr. Glavin—said so upon the floor that they would be immediately changed, and that they would be immediately changed, and that they would be immediately changed, and that they would be immediately changed.

The State Board has set October 25 as the date when it will be received, contemplating a revision of the State school books.

The matter of high school books is being taken up by the State Board of Education, and it is expected that the State Board will be in a position to make a report to the Legislature next summer.

State Board Sets Oct. 25 for Bids.

The State Board of Education, acting as the State School Book Commission, has set up a schedule with respect to textbooks hereafter to be used in the public schools that likely will bring it into sharp contrast with the Legislature, and doubtless has precipitated the liveliest kind of a row in Georgia.

When the Commission met in the Capitol Thursday, it took up the matter of schoolbooks for the next five years. The present State contract expires on January 1, 1914. Since under the law the Commission has the right either to renew it in whole or in part, or to make a new contract for an additional period of five years, which contract, nevertheless, must be subject to cancellation by the Legislature twelve months before the State.

In ordinary circumstances, there would be no difficulty about this. The Legislature at its summer session this year passed a resolution providing for an investigating commission, to look exhaustively into the entire schoolbook situation in Georgia, and to report back with recommendations as to the future, to the next session.

So far, the arguments have been confined to a question of appointing a committee to investigate the schoolbook situation, and the entire schoolbook matter has been left to the discretion of the Legislature at its summer session.

But the authority of this legislative commission is wide—even wider so far as to consider the State's publication of its own textbooks.

The legislative commission may recommend a change of books, or it may recommend that the State publish its own books.

The board of education, however, is not to be considered in the matter of the State's publication of its own books.

The board of education, however, is not to be considered in the matter of the State's publication of its own books.

May Van Allen Is Poor Man's Bride

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Miss May Van Allen, daughter of James Van Allen, and multi-millionaire in her own right, was married Wednesday to Oswald Thompson in the presence of only ten persons at St. Mark's church, London.

MRS. HAWKINS MISSES SEEING CHILDREN HERE

MRS. SYLVIA HAWKINS.

Goes to Prison for Slaying Husband Without Farewell to Little Ones in Orphan's Home.

Without saying good-bye to her three little children, who are being cared for at the Georgia Baptist Orphan Home at Hapeville, Mrs. Sylvia Hawkins, sentenced to prison for the crime of killing her husband, was taken to Milledgeville Friday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock to begin her sentence.

When Mrs. Hawkins learned that she was to be brought through Atlanta on route to the penitentiary she asked that she be permitted to see her children and bid them good-bye. The request was granted, and the children were prepared for her coming.

Friday morning it was found that it would be impossible to take Mrs. Hawkins to the home and return in time to catch the train. Efforts were made to bring the three children to Atlanta, but again it was found that they could not reach here before the train with the mother on board must leave.

So Mrs. Hawkins was forced to leave her children with nothing but a telephone message to the superintendent of the home to take good care of the three Central Brothers.

The three little boys who will be separated forever from their mother are Bonnie Lou, aged 4, Harold Thurman, aged 2 years. The youngest of the three remained in prison with his mother for three weeks prior to the trial. Mrs. Hawkins had been held in jail at the orphan's home by Superintendent Robert J. Hawkins a cousin of the murdered man.

Mrs. Hawkins bitterly denounced the two Central Brothers as the slayers of her husband and the cause of her own trouble. Mrs. Hawkins was detained at police barracks for a few hours pending transfer to the State prison farm at Milledgeville.

The two Central Brothers, convicted jointly with Mrs. Hawkins, were sent to the State Prison, but were released pending a new trial.

During the trial Mrs. Hawkins was testified Mrs. Hawkins, who is barely out of her teens, alleged her husband was the murderer of her husband. She declared in evidence that she had seen the two boys had deliberately picked a quarrel with her husband, and she drew her into the plot.

"I saw them together before they were produced at the trial," she testified. "I believe they got a letter from me and Jim Hawkins, and they were very angry. I saw these letters in his side of the hat he took to the penitentiary."

Awards Vindication.

"I am glad to see Mrs. Hawkins, though, and to think that her country and name are being cleared of this thing which came out and will be forgotten."

FARMER IS SHOT; MERCHANT ACCUSED

Attempted Assassination of W. E. Chapple Stirrs Hancock County, W. S. Cox Under Bond.

SPARTA, Sept. 26.—W. E. Chapple, a leading farmer of Hancock County and citizen of Sparta, was waylaid and shot from ambush while on route to his farm about ten miles north of this city. The attempted assassination took place yesterday at the Beaver Dam Creek crossing on the Sparta and White Plains public road.

The wounded man is not returned to his physicians as being fatally shot, though his condition is very serious. Two loads of bird shot were fired into his front body at close range. Chapple was thrown from his buggy into the road by the frightened horse, when it remained for nearly an hour until picked up by two negroes on their way to Sparta.

A warrant has been sworn out and served on J. S. Cox, a merchant, of Mt. Zion, in this county, charging him with the crime. It is charged that the wounded man saw him as he rode from his living place, just as he fired Cox is under bond. Although the probability of a conviction is small, Cox is now in session, it is not likely that he will be investigated at this time, on account of the inability of Chapple to appear before the grand jury.

Cox denies that he fired the shots, and claims that if the power train he will be able to establish an alibi.

Evelyn Thaw's Tribute to Her Mother

*Extract from the Article To Be Published
In the next Sunday American*

"I have the fullest admiration for my mother's character. She is altogether a wonderful woman. She is one of those sweet characters who could not plant a dry stick in the earth but it would blossom; who can make the prettiest things; is eminently efficient in all her household duties; the most perfect and dainty of housewives; the most trusting and believing of creatures.

"But she did not understand me. To-day I am probably the greatest enigma that the world offers her. I am outside and beyond the range of her understanding. She is one of those women who are always willing to believe the best, and quite ready to fear the worst.

"I can not take a convenient and lazy course and put all the blame of the friction, which at various periods undoubtedly existed, upon my ancestry. My mother and I were temperamentally different. I made matters more impossible because I was young, headstrong and willful—filled with the sublime assurance of youth, and opposed by one whose nature was so sweet and so simple that I could without any effort circumvent her most convincing argument."

LITTLE HOPE OF CLEMENCY FOR McNAUGHTON

Outright Pardon Conceded Improbable for Emanuel County Physician.

Governor John M. Slaton is hard at work shaping up his ruling and opinion in the McNaughton case, which he is expected to make public within the next 24 hours.

The Governor has gone exhaustively into the records in this famous case, and has heard from a dozen or more delegations of citizens as to the merits of the suggested clemency.

In addition to that, he has been flooded with letters and telegrams, about equally divided for and against the prisoner.

The impression has deepened into all but a conviction among those who keep track of things of the kind that there is no chance whatever that McNaughton is to be pardoned, as the Prison Commission has recommended by a majority vote, and it is regarded as highly probable that the Governor will even so come to the same conclusion.

Governor Slaton is known to entertain very pronounced views on the matter of clemency, and when acting Governor for 15 days, pending the election of a successor to Governor Hoke Smith, he was very clear of extending clemency and interfering with the sentences of the courts.

The Governor has given out no hint of his ruling in this case, but from the trend of his questionnaires, examining petitioners, pro and con, who have come before him, the assumption seems warranted that Dr. McNaughton's fate will be no better than life imprisonment in any event, and the Governor may let the case take its course.

The case has been appealed to every possible court, and only Executive clemency now can save the Swabian physician from the gallows. He is sentenced to hang next Friday, October 3.

Hollander Prepares For Battle Hill Job

Dr. Louis Hollander, of No. 142 Orchard street, newly elected superintendent of the Battle Hill tuberculosis sanitarium, has begun training under Dr. S. W. Merritt, former superintendent, whose resignation has been accepted.

Dr. Hollander will take charge October 1. The committee of the Council selected Dr. Hollander on the recommendation of Dr. J. P. Kennedy and Dr. Claude A. South health officers.

His salary for the present is $1,800 a year, but the committee will urge Council to increase the amount when the new budget is made up in January.

TECH NIGHT CLASS HAS 150 MEMBERS

Registration Closes With Largest Attendance in History—Student Body Totals 750.

Registration and admission to the night school at Georgia Tech has closed for the season. The night school has been running for a week with the largest attendance in its history.

The day school of Georgia Tech opened with more than 600 students while the night school, which is separate, began with over a hundred and now has about 150.

A striking thing this year in connection with the night school is the fact that a number of well-known and well-educated Atlanta business and professional men are taking advantage of the courses of study in special lists.

The night school in the past has been of special benefit to this class of men, in addition to opening the door of education to machinists, clerks and working boys who would otherwise have no chance to increase their knowledge.

Wasp Sting Kills Lady Molesworth

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, Sept. 26.—Death in a strange manner today claimed Lady Molesworth, daughter of Brigadier General Daniel Marsh Frost, of St. Louis. She was stung upon the neck by a wasp at Truro, on the Cornish coast, and within twenty minutes was dead.

She was the widow of Sir Lewis Molesworth, Bart., to whom she was married in 1870. She was living upon her late husband's country estate in Cornwall when she met her death.

An attempt to have proceedings against the wasp girl, distributed by the Juvenile Court was fought by Mrs. W. H. Moreland, wife of Bishop Moreland, of the Episcopal Diocese.

FIGHTS FOLLOW END OF MAGON MAYOR RACE

Bitter Factional Feeling Aroused in Record Campaign—Rally
Closes in Near-Riot.

MAGON, Sept. 24.—The inveterate municipal campaigner Magon has had in nearly 50 years ends to-day with the election of a Mayor and twelve Aldermen.

There are three minority candidates, Wallace Miller, Bridges Smith and A. L. Deaver, Sr. and 28 separate candidates.

The indications this morning were that about 4,000 votes would be cast out of a registration of 11,000.

Miller campaign workers claimed the election early in the day, predicting a landslide majority. They estimated that Miller would win by a majority of at least 500 over Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith's workers assert a victory for him by a substantial majority.

Mr. Deaver's friends say he will be in the running at the finish.

The Miller and Smith campaign culminated last night with rallies, the former being held at the Auditorium and the latter at the theater.

Both were attended by about 1,000 citizens, men and women.

Among the speakers for Miller were Wallace Miller himself, Will Gunn, State Senator W. D. McNeill, Walter Deavers, Dupont Cherry, Ellsworth Hall, Dr. W. G. Lee and J. B. Rivers and Colonel W. A. Huff.

The speakers for Mr. Smith were R. C. Hazenbary, Judge Nat Harris, Mayor John T. Moore, J. W. Preston, W. H. Barnes and others.

Sensational charges were made at both meetings.

There were a number of fights last night and several have been reported this morning.

Dr. O. C. Bennett, a Miller worker, had a fist fight at the corner of Second and Mulberry streets in the presence of several hundred citizens.

At the Central of Georgia square, Smith and Miller partisans clashed, over twenty men fighting each other.

Housewives, Here Is Formula for Bread Made for Uncle Sam!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The official recipe for the bread that Uncle Sam makes has been given out by Miss Hannah Wessler, the Government breadmaker at the Department of Agriculture. It is called the straight dough method.

For three-pound loaves first make a ferment of one ounce of compressed yeast, one ounce granulated sugar, one-half ounce of salt and twenty ounces of water. Place this in an oven temperature for an hour. Weigh out four and one-fourth pounds of flour and let it warm at the same time. Then mix the flour and ferment together. Cover the mixture and warm for 20 minutes.

If dough is too stiff, add lukewarm water. After 20 minutes more kneading take up the dough with the hands slightly pressed and fold over fourteen times. Cover and set aside for 30 minutes and then fold nine times. After 20 minutes more mold into loaves and cook in a good steady oven, 450 to 475 degrees Fahrenheit.

Thirty minutes baking will suffice. A cup of water in the oven during the baking will make a more tender crust and lessen the danger of scorching.

New Haven Wreck Engineer Drops Dead

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 24.—Engineer Charles J. Doherty, who was at the throttle of the New Haven Railroad express train which was wrecked at Stamford June 12 last when six persons were killed and many injured, dropped dead from heart disease at his home early today.

Doherty was almost a nervous wreck for a time after the accident, and it is believed the strain was the cause of his death.

Boy's Eyes Petrify; Specialists Puzzled

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Sept. 24.—Specialists here are puzzled over the case of Benjamin Wood, 13, whose eyes are turning to stone through petrification. For years the boy has been losing his sight. The Ford Motor Company's plant this morning. One died later.

PARIS BEAUTY'S DEATH BARES SCANDAL

Europe Stirred as Famous Names
Are Linked With Life of Actress, Drug Victim.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
PARIS, Sept. 24.—Police Prefect Henion to-day forbade the burial of the body of 28-year-old Pierrette Pleury, actress and cabaret singer, who died from an overdose of ether in her apartments in the fashionable suburb of Le Vaugir.

A scandal is threatened, as a servant in the singer's employ has told the police of a party which took place in the apartments of her young mistress. Names famous throughout Europe and America were mentioned, but the police said these would be kept secret.

Despite her extreme youth, Pierrette had run the gamut of human life. She was an inveterate user of Turkish cigarettes a day soaked in opium. She smoked from 50 to 100 cigarettes a day and her system was saturated with drugs that it required an immense quantity to affect her.

When she was found dead, a quart of which had held either but was nearly empty, was found at her side. A linen sheet was wrapped about her head and the bed was filled with other-soaked wads of cotton.

The dead girl was one of the leading figures in the night life of Paris. She was a stoneware bric-a-brac dealer nearly a quarter of a million dollars annually.

Miss Genevieve Dardelle, a well-known French actress, lived with Pierrette.

Man Held as Fraud Is Adjudged Insane

George B. Chomak, arrested recently on a warrant served out in Albany, Ga., charging fraud, was adjudged insane Friday morning by a lunacy board in Ordinary Williams' court. He will be taken to the Asylum at Milledgeville.

Williams' justice Chomak always alleged a disease which affected his brain. Evidence of an alleged fall when Chomak was a youth also was introduced.

Jerome Silvey Will Give All to Widow

The will of the late Jerome Silvey, an Atlanta merchant, was filed for probate Friday. The value of the estate, which is left to the widow, is placed at $5,000. This is believed to be merely the nominal value.

In the will Mr. Silvey stated that he left the whole estate to his wife, as he realized that her interest in the surviving children is as great as was his and that he was confident the widow would care properly for them.

Mystery in Death Of Man at Rome

ROME, Sept. 24.—The cause of the death of J. W. Lemming, foreman of the Crucial Brick Company, is veiled in mystery. The foreman climbed up on a platform to repair the company's motor and when noticed by his employees was falling head foremost. He struck a pile of brick and his neck was broken.

It is not known whether the man came to his death by electrocution or from the fall.

Professor Made Adviser to China

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Sept. 24.—Henry Carter Adams, Professor of Political Economy at the University of Michigan, has confirmed a Washington report that he had accepted a position with the Republic of China. He said that he would act as adviser to a government commission appointed for the standardization of records and accounts of Government railways. He will sail October 9.

ADVICE TO THOSE SEEKING SMALL INVESTMENTS

List Given of Stocks and Bonds
Regarded by Experts as Safe Propositions.

By B. C. FORBES.

A dozen of letters, all asking specific advice, followed my article in this column the other day on the importance of selecting the right kind of investments.

"What shall I buy?" is the question put squarely up to me by every writer.

Now, I have no inclination to become a tipster. I would rather advise those who are seeking investments in banks and brokers whose business it is to suit customers. But read these specimens of the coaxing, entreating communications, and I then perhaps you will forgive my letter in presenting a list of stocks and bonds that investors may choose from without running undue risks—as far as can be judged at this moment.

Business Editor:

Your very interesting article I have read for some time and have gained a lot of knowledge from the same. Referring to your article regarding the purchase outright of good seasoned, selected stocks and bonds, I would ask if you will be good enough to give me a list, say four of each class of investment that you think one could purchase to net about 10 per cent and have the principal safe. This information would be greatly appreciated.

W. H. W.

Business Editor:

My mother has $1,000 which I would like to invest for her in securities which will net her an income in her years to come. I am not conversant with the money market to the extent that I care to take the liberty of investing it for her.

I would thank you kindly if you will recommend something that may consider. I'd like that she secure a fair return to something perfectly safe. I consider 5 per cent a good return.

W. J. S.

Business Editor:

I have been a subscriber of your valuable paper for a great many years and I read your articles with much pleasure. In reading your column this morning I received to ask you confidentially what stock you would recommend to a poor fellow who has worked all his life and has a few dollars saved up.

I want something good and safe, not too high priced. If you would kindly give me this information I would be grateful.

W. P. L.

Instead of attempting to reply personally to all inquiries and instead of naming any single stock or bond, I have drawn up the following list of good bonds and stocks (after consulting authorities in whom I have every confidence) and have added the price and yield per annum for the convenience of prospective purchasers:

BONDS.
	Price	Yield
Balt. & Ohio 4 1/2%	95 1/2	5.57
N. Y. & N. H. 4 1/2%	98 1/2	4.50
S. E. Ry. 4 1/2%	102 1/2	4.50
New York City 4 1/2%	101 1/2	4.42
Norfolk & Western 4 1/2%	91	4.80
Orion Short Line ref.	98 1/2	5.20
Am. Tobacco 4 1/2%	103 1/2	4.25
Liggett & Myers Tobacco	100 1/2	5.15
Meridian Ry. 4 1/2%	99 1/2	5.05

STOCKS.
	Price	Yield
Alchison 4 1/2%	88	5.10
Balt. & Ohio 4 1/2%	90	5.00
Ill. Ry. & Transp. 4 1/2%	86	6.70
Int. & N. W. Ry. 4 1/2%	100	5.40
Louis & Nashville 4 1/2%	107	5.30
N. O. & N. Ry. 4 1/2%	100	5.50
Pennsylvania 4 1/2%	113	6.00
National Bk. 4 1/2%	120	5.10
Am. Tobacco 4 1/2%	101	5.20
U. S. Steel 4 1/2%	109	4.40
Consolidated Gas 4 1/2%	128	4.40
General Electric 4 1/2%	147	5.40

These securities are all classed as investment issues—although one able international banker recently impressed upon me that in the land of political storms no stock whatsoever could be regarded as a safe investment; he cited the fact of the New Haven Railroad and the express companies.

Very frequently The Georgian is asked to name attractive low-priced stocks. There is nothing which paying a stock that does not pay a dividend, provided the buyer can afford to run risks and realize that he is entering the sphere of speculation. Without for a moment advising any reader to play with low-priced issues, it may not be amiss to give a short list of those that look less dangerous than some others, for by so doing worse pitfalls may be avoided:

Pittsburg Coal common	29
Kansas City Southern common	23
Brie common	20
Southern Railway common	16
Interboro-net common	16

Remember, we claim no superior knowledge of market, and submit all the foregoing only because it may possibly be useful for those entirely unacquainted with Stock Exchange securities.

Peary Sees Trouble For Arctic Expedition

EAGLE ISLAND, ME., Sept. 24.—Donald B. MacMillan's Arctic expedition is certain to be handicapped as a result of its slow progress to date in the opinion of Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary.

The prime object of the expedition is to explore Crocker Land, which was discovered by Peary in 1904.

Stripped of Romance

BEFORE the announcement of a marriage engagement a month ago the bride-elect has been showered with handkerchiefs, china, hosiery, etc., and all that has been showered on the groom-to-be is this question: "Do you think you can afford to get married?"

One Woman's Story

CHAPTER XLII "You're all upset and unsettled, Mary," she said, "and you will be until this divorce matter is settled. You have sold all your furniture. In fact, what would be the use of looking for a situation when you couldn't take it until you finish breaks-up in Middlebrook?"

Daysey Mayme And Her Folks

DAYSEY MAYME APPLETON had called the members of the Look on the Bright Side Society in session extraordinary. She wanted to give them the comfort every woman finds in learning that some other woman has a trouble greater than her own.

The Tangles of Love

"Love, in the despair of philosophy, and in the rapture of poets, the confusion of critics, and the war-tor's defeat." "One who loves at first sight writes me: 'If on a young lady 21 years of age and have man of 22 whom I have met only twice. He is very beautiful. How can I get better acquainted with him without letting him know it?'"

Do You Know--

The Scotland Yard authorities have just informed that a bank-note history, for the purpose of manufacturing fifty-pound bank of England notes has been discovered in Roumania, and four men and one woman are in custody on a charge of making false bank notes. The paper used was an excellent imitation of that of England and paper, and it was the latter defect which led to the detection of the forgery, though not until a number of notes had been put in circulation on the continent.

FOOTBALL GETS 1ST GAME OF BIG SERIES

New York, as Usual, Calls Turn on Flip of Coin—Play Begins October 7

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—As usual, New York will open the coin flip and draw the opening game of the world's series of 1912 to be played at the Polo Grounds on the afternoon of October 7—unless the weather breaks every possible baseball tradition, in down, rain, cold, wind, and otherwise declines to win the coin flip now only a step ahead.

That being apparently out of the question, the presidents of the two clubs met here yesterday with Harry Horman, chairman of the National Commission, who had a half-dollar about him for purposes of flipping.

Mr. Horman flipped the coin. It came heads.

And (as usual) the first sign of the classic battle will be seen in the first game of the series on the Polo Grounds.

Sometimes Fate appears to be endowed with almost human intelligence of inclination.

Umpires Named.

After the New York flip was chosen the time and place, President Lyman of the National League, named William Klein and Charles Hibel as the umpires on the part of his organization, and President Johnson named Thomas Connors and John J. Egan to represent the American League.

The rules for playing the game are the same as heretofore, except that umpires will not remain in the game the teams will not remain in the game the teams will not remain in the game.

RED AND BLACK... LINESMEN ARE... But Will the Bones Roll "Naturals" Through the World's Series, as Well? C. MACK'S LUCK CHANGES HIM TO FOURTH PENNANT

By O. B. Keeler. THEIR best Open Season for shooting does at the World's Series, we take advantage of the opportunity to fire off the following: The Athletics are mighty lucky to get it.

HERES' another slant to the situation. Mack has some shakiness of an outfield in relation both in landing and hitting, this fall. Reports from Chicago, where the work of the classic never is recruited with an eye of loving indulgence, indicate that Burns, Snodgrass and Murray are great guns.

STUART MAIDEN, golf professional for the Atlanta Athletic Club at East Lake, announced yesterday that there remained no doubt that Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the great British professional golfers, would be seen in Atlanta Saturday, October 11, when they would play two rounds, morning and afternoon, on the links of the Atlanta Athletic Club.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—There were no new developments on the Philadelphia front yesterday afternoon, everything working in section under separate covers. The "hat" game, which is still being heard of, and addressed to some individuals in each camp, as heard the voice of Coach Cunningham as he charges some recruit to "hit him now," fell on its ears.

GOALS FROM FIELD. Because of injuries sustained by quarterback Bobos of the Army side, the game between West Point and Norwich Saturday was called off.

CAREY, who played under Cunningham at Jordan, has matured into a first-class player. He is a bit rusty, but with training is sure to make some good for the limit for the place in the back field. He is one of the best backs on the team and has shown a world of ability in return.

Cy Falkenberg Picks Nemo as Rising Star. NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Cy Falkenberg picks Nemo Leibold for the world's series of the American League next year. Leibold's choice trouble this season has been in judging his balls.

HALPIN LEADS TRACK TEAM. BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Thomas J. Halpin, manager of the Boston Athletic Association, has named Halpin as the track team. Halpin has been the greatest point man for the Red Sox club in many years, and as a reward for his work the athletic committee of the Union Club ratified his selection.

Women Golf Champs Beaten at Memphis. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Frank Anderson, Miss Mark Edwards and Miss Ruth Chisholm, of Cleveland, Ohio, were leading the women's golf when play was resumed today in the Women's Western Golf Association open championship tournament on the second round of match play between two holders of championship titles, Miss Caroline Palmer, of the West, and Mrs. E. W. Daley, of the South, were defeated.

Shocking. When Hickey was asked about the disposition that was to be made of the money that was to be made by the manager, George Stovall, a troubled look came over Hickey's face, and he said: "I have not yet decided what to do with Stovall. He is a cracker-jack ball player, and I would like to keep him, but George wants to get away, and I suppose we will have to let him go. There are several clubs after him, but his disposition will be settled when I arrive home. Frank Chance will probably be favored with George's services, although nothing definite has yet been decided upon between the New York and St. Louis clubs. Mr. Chance wants to let me have money for Stovall, but I would like to have a couple of his players in exchange instead of the cash. As soon as I arrive home and have another consultation with Mr. Hodges a deal will probably be fixed up."

Dundee vs. Beecher in New York Ring. NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Johnny Dundee and Willie Beecher, the heavy bout side fight, have been matched for a ten-round bout at the Atlantic Garden, Philadelphia, on the night of October 1. This will be Dundee's first appearance in the ring since he was knocked out by Pacific in a way that caused him to lose his good work recently the best is expected to attract considerable interest among the fans.

KLING RETIRES AGAIN. KANSAS CITY, Sept. 27.—Johnny Kling, catcher for the Cincinnati National baseball club, returned to Kansas City yesterday and immediately announced his annual retirement from baseball. Kling has been in the balance of the season off by Manager Egan.

MCUE VS. TOGO. CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Another interesting battle will be staged in the West End League on the 27th. The Japanese fighter from Port Smith, McQue, will attempt to take the measure of Marty McQue of Egan. The fans has fought Battling Nelson, Harry Forbes and a number of other good fighters.

Notre Dame Anxious To Enter Conference. SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 27.—Coach Harper predicts that Notre Dame will be accepted by the Big Ten conference. Conference plans will be discussed in a meeting of the freshman team on the 28th.

Petrosky to Meet Clabby in Long Bout. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Jimmy Petrosky, who recently scored a decision over La Grange in a three-round bout at Sacramento, has been matched to meet Eddie Clabby in a long bout on October 3. Petrosky has been in the ring since he was knocked out by Bob McAllister, the local fighter.

OLD-TIME FIELD SHOW PLEASES BIG HOUSE

Some of the Orthodox Minstrel Stuff is Sacrificed to New Elaborations, However.

By TARLETON COLLIER. Al G. Field brought to town yesterday a typical Field show. As displayed last night at the Atlanta, there was the usual elaborateness of scenery and tableaux, the usual conceits in maintaining the atmosphere of a single setting—this time it was the Panama Canal, the usual effort after novelty along with the fun, the same flamboyant patriotic appeal.

Needless to say, being the Al G. Field show, and being in Atlanta, it pleased. There is sufficient of an affinity between the veteran minstrel and Atlanta people to assure a welcome for any production he may bring along with him, and particularly if it be so characteristic a show as the one he now at the Atlanta.

Years for Old "Stuff". Men and women who have come to the Field minstrel show for the last 27 years might have expected for a little less of the elaborate costuming and for a bit more of the atmosphere of the simple, black-face, song and dance—and bones and—tambourine minstrel show.

Once upon a time every member of the minstrel troupe made fun, and there were flocks of negro humor, negro dialect, negro philosophy. There was much black banter, and many a burlesque or two.

In the old-time shows of the minstrel character work and dialogue filled out their share and held their own. That was all very well, but there were many others in the show, and some of them were better. As Johnny Dave did, and West Avery, with some of the best minstrel dancing that satisfied something of the yearning of the audience had. But there was too little of them.

Bright and Pleasing. Still, even lacking something of the orthodox tone, the new show was bright and pleasing. Even if some of the jokes and the black-face banter was brought over from last season, they tickled the big local audience.

There were old friends to greet, minstrel men whose names have charmed Atlanta audiences in the past and who collected jubilation and applause last night. Walter Sherwood, and Jack H. Hays, and Jack McShane, for instance. And the things that were new were worthy of the minstrel stage.

The Field show will be at the Atlanta for performances to-night and Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday.

DELIGHTS OF GEORGIA POLITICS

By JAMES B. NEVIN. John H. Cooper, mostly known by the euphemistic name of "Bunk," although nobody knows who he is, has been omitted from the list of Congressional aspirants in the Sixth District.

Whether Congressman Bartlett will be a candidate for re-election is a problem, notwithstanding the fact that it has been generally reported that he will not be. Some sort of announcement was given out during the campaign, and just after his last campaign when he won over J. Walter White by the narrowest of margins, to the effect that his present term should be his last.

It is not stated that there has been anything like an agreement of understanding between the Governor and Mr. White, but the impression is that the Governor will not run for another term, in view of the fact that his present term of office has not even twenty years in Congress, and that the maximum term of office has not yet been reached.

Mr. Cooper is one of the best-known criminal lawyers in Georgia, and is said to be a fine campaigner. He is a powerful speaker and a good organizer. If he runs for office, he will be a formidable opponent.

Water White established a fine reputation as Solicitor General of his State, and is included in the list of aspirants for the office of Governor.

The last narrow gauge railroad in the State has been doomed, and as soon as the Gainesville and Midland can be converted into a standard gauge, those old-time narrow gauges, once so familiar throughout the State, will cease to exist.

The Georgia Railroad Commission to-day authorized the abolition of this one remaining little fellow, and it will be converted immediately into a broad gauge.

MILITANT HEADS IN PARIS DIRECT BRITISH WAR

Pankhurst Bank Their Money and Give Incendiary Orders For From English Jails.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Sept. 25.—To all intents and purposes, the headquarters of British suffragette militancy have been moved here from London.

Miss Pankhurst, who has rented luxurious apartments in the Latin Quarter, has two large offices fitted up. The walls are spread with huge maps of London and other English cities, and once a week Christabel sends back word where the torch should be applied in the succeeding week.

Two weeks ago from the Latin Quarter, she is in truth the leader and directing force of the militant movement in England.

The suffragettes have been banished to this city to prevent their seizure by the British Government. Mrs. Pankhurst, in her, being with her daughter and compelling her to give her lectures tour in the United States and Canada. Her health is completely restored.

SON WRONG, AMERICANS MEXICO SAY

U. S. Citizens There Uphold Huerta, Says Man From San Luis Potosi, Student Here.

Nine Americans out of ten in Mexico disapprove of President Wilson's methods of handling the situation and want Provisional President Huerta to continue in office, according to H. K. Fogarty, of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, who is a guest at the Piedmont Hotel.

Mr. Fogarty always has resided in the turbulent southern republic, his father having moved to San Luis Potosi 20 years ago. He has been in Atlanta several weeks, a student at the Georgia Military Academy, but is expected to return to his home within a day or two.

"For Americans in Mexico," said Mr. Fogarty, "approve of the manner in which President Wilson has handled the Mexican situation. They think he has not fully investigated and doesn't know what he is doing."

"His order for Americans to leave the country was exaggerated, the danger that he should expect them to desert by the great majority. The idea that he should expect them to desert their property and leave the country is laughable and sometimes worse."

"Americans in Mexico think President Wilson has exaggerated the dangers that confront them. I have lived all my life in San Luis Potosi, and can not see where Americans are any more danger now than they ever were. I feel as safe there as I do in Atlanta, and sometimes safer."

"The Americans, especially those who have interests there, want Huerta to remain in office as President, because they believe he is the only man in Mexico strong enough to control the situation. They are not the strongest man Mexico has developed since Porfirio Diaz, and the election as President would please all Americans who have money invested in Mexican enterprises."

"If Huerta were a candidate for President, but it would occasion little surprise if he were to be elected any day."

Rep. S. A. Roddenberg Dies of Overwork

THOMASVILLE, Sept. 28.—Congressman S. A. Roddenberg died Thursday evening at his home in Thomsville.

Over the protest of his physician, Representative Roddenberg continued at his post in Washington until his health was impaired to such extent that physical weakness forced him to his room. He had been removed to his home here last week and sank gradually.

The body of Mrs. H. S. Boney, who died at Calapeper, will be brought to Atlanta Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The funeral will be held at 2 P. M. Mrs. Boney is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Montgomery, No. 24 Melancon street, her husband, and three sisters, Mrs. S. R. Woods of Atlanta, Mrs. G. H. Lockwood, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. H. Chappelle, of Atlanta.

Funeral services for Mrs. W. E. Cook, who died Thursday, will be held in College Park, will be conducted from the Red Oak Christian Church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, followed by interment in the churchyard. She was 46 years old and is survived by her husband, one son and five daughters.

The remains of Mrs. James Grant Gregory were interred Thursday in Greenwood Cemetery, New York, where the body was taken by her son, H. C. Gregory, White in New York Mr. Gregory will be at the home of his niece, Mrs. D. G. Lovick, who was formerly Miss Marjorie Pugh, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Judith Martin, 47 years old, of No. 34 Shepherd avenue, died Thursday night. Surviving her are her husband, Mr. J. M. Martin, one son, Hugh R. Martin, one daughter, Mrs. W. C. Thurston, of Hockley, Va. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

MOB HANGERS. ATLANTA, Sept. 28.—Joe Richardson, a negro, accused of the murder of Mrs. J. M. Smith, was lynched by a mob last night in the city.

SISTER OF LIFE CONVICT BEGS FOR PARDON

Milton Rawlings, Whose Father Was Hanged, Last of Three Brothers in Penitentiary.

Mrs. Alice Lott, sister of Milton Rawlings, now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder committed in Lowndes County, called upon Governor Slaton today to ask clemency for her brother.

She was told that her petition must be passed upon by the Prison Commission before the governor would consider it. This is an inviolable rule of the executive department.

Young Milton Rawlings is the last of the three Rawlings brothers left in the penitentiary—his two brothers, having been pardoned some time ago if the effort had been made. He is now 21 years old, but a year has just been taken from his age and he feels like 22, exclaimed Mrs. Lott.

Leonard and Jesse Rawlings, the brothers of Milton, were freed three years ago, and it is thought that the remaining brother has a good chance either of pardon or parole.

The funeral of Mrs. Mattie L. Brantley, who died Thursday, was Friday morning from the residence of her husband, Col. George Park. The interment was at Forsyth, Ga.

Mrs. A. J. Baker, No. 418 East Georgia avenue, died Thursday. She is survived by her husband, one son and four daughters. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Page Pays Tribute to American Writers

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Thomas Nelson Page, the new appointed American ambassador to Italy, who is here on his way to Rome, said:

"American writers have been steadily enlarging their scope; tomorrow we may startle the whole world by evolving some genius who will give sudden impetus to literature."

"In the short story line we have developed unexpected possibilities."

Miss Adgate Ellis, a debutante of the winter, was hostess at an informal party Friday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Ellis Jr., in Ansley Park.

Miss Ellis invited a group of friends to meet Mrs. Richard Johnston and Mrs. W. W. Thomas, with whom Mrs. Ellis spent several weeks in Toxaway this summer.

The young hostess with two other guests and her grandmother, Mrs. M. L. Linscott of Athens, received in the music room, which was elaborately decorated with American Beauty roses. In all other apartments the decorations suggested the autumn colors of red and yellow.

In the dining room the table was adorned with a large red knot fringed with gold and silver, with yellow and white. The table was set with a decorative detail in yellow and white.

Miss Ellis wore a smart fall costume, combining mahogany charmed and dark green chiffon, fashioned according to the latest mode.

Cunningham Changes His Style Georgia Seeks a Punter in Vain

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 25.—If Cunningham changes his style of play this fall as he has changed his style of practice from former years, Red and Black opponents need not expect to profit by their knowledge of the past tactics. The new style has been on the field two weeks now and hardly a signal has been called, with only a few simple plays being run for the backs to get a first down. Cunningham has had a first down in a single play that will be used in the future.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Published by THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN COMPANY, 25 EAST ALABAMA ST., ATLANTA, GA.

When You Think, Mr. Young, Think STRAIGHT

HE HANDS OVER THE POINT OF HIS TOOL ON A SILVER PLATE, AND THEN GETS ABOUT ONE HOURS OF THE POINT

We have published occasionally small pictures, asking our readers to think about them.

Mr. Young has discovered that there is such a thing as radical thought, also that injustice exists in this world, and he has decided to go in for the radical thought and to do away with the injustice.

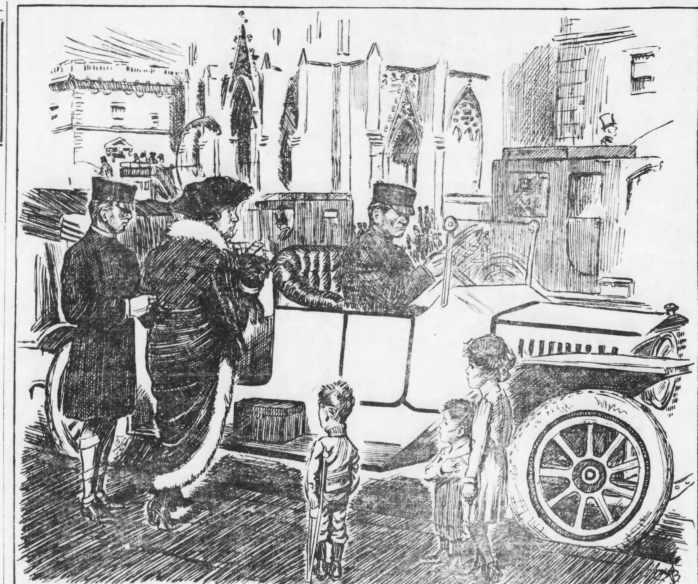

Mr. Young has a scornful arrow pointing at the badly developed skull of capitalism, with the lines, "That wonderful directing brain."

The trouble with Mr. Young and many other earnest young men whose discovery of injustice is only recent, is that they ferment violently, whereas they should reason quietly.

It is not romantic or pleasant, but we must tell Mr. Young and his friends that as a matter of fact the man with the big fat fruit really HAS the wonderful directing brain.

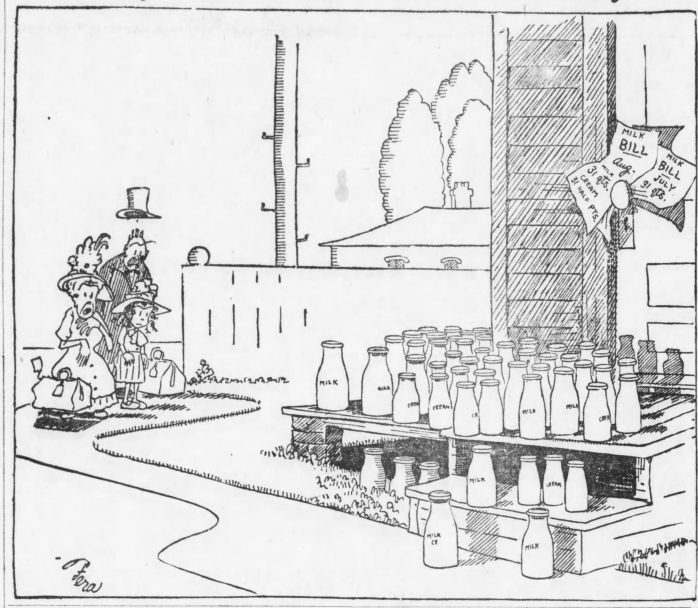

The problems of this world, Mr. Young, are not to be solved and injustice is not to be done away with by telling the little men that they are really bigger than the big men, or by taking it for granted that the big men are wiffully and deliberately vicious and cruel.

Dr. Charles F. Aked

Writes on AMERICAN WOMEN AND MILITANCY

By DR. CHARLES F. AKED

It is asserted, perhaps with little knowledge and less judgment, that Mrs. Pankhurst's visit to America will be productive of wide results in the adoption of a policy of "militancy" by American women.

I admired Mrs. Pankhurst and I liked her daughter, Christabel. I have opened my church to them in Liverpool. But they have been driven into the irrationality of crime by the more reasonable, fraternal and more criminal crimes of the Asquith Cabinet.

Some of the women members of my church went to prison. I sent letters of sympathy and encouragement, and commended their action from the pulpit. The last meeting at which I spoke in London, previous to leaving England, I made my home in America.

The late Prime Minister of Great Britain, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, told them to put the Government. He told them his cabinet was divided, and he advised them to make themselves an irritant to politicians.

While they were willing to suffer wrong, I applauded them. When they begin to do wrong it is impossible longer to defend them. It is not right to do wrong, bloodshed and crime, the torch, gunpowder and dynamite are not the weapons which I care to see women employ—or men, either—in advocacy of a mighty moral movement in the dawn of the twentieth century.

THE GRIND

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

It is not the patient labor of the man that tills the soil. It is his muscles slowly stiffen after years of steady toil.

He must creep away to slumber ere the darkness shadows the earth; He must start awake his plodding when the birds first trill their mirth;

No, the grind is in the city, where two many things strive, Though great Neptune's home is lathwood with the bones of such as these.

God can blow them with his bellows from a long-expected dawn; Out to meet the Flying Dutchman, captained by a gibbering ghost.
