President Wilson endeavored to make plain that greatest frankness had prematic formalities. The conferences thus far between Secretary Bryan or Presivannah, and Past Potentate Hynds of dent Wilson and the Japanese ambassador were described as being those of "one gentleman to another."

Intimations that the Japanese protest itself was couched neither in vigorof the city, turning the streets into a ous nor aggressive language, but was formal and friendly in character, came from the president himself during his ing and band playing in the business talk today, and it was pointed out that the phrase, "a very earnest protest," employed by Secretary Bryan in his message to Governor Johnson, was the description of the note which the American government had entertained rather | p. m than the emphisis of the Japanese ambassador. The president was disposed to talk freely of the subject, and appeared confident that a satisfactory adjustment would be accomplished. The fact that Secretary Bryan has addressed an appeal to Governor Johnson, of California, to veto the antialien land law, inasmuch as the governor had, unofficially at least, repeatpapers described what would happen to edly declared his purpose to sign the bill as it passed the legislature, is taken in official circles here as indicating that the Wilson administration is perfecting its record.

In this action there may be a double purpose. First to satisfy Japan that the federal government has done all it can to prevent the legislation under its constitutional limitations, of which many diplomats contend Japan should have been aware when it entered into again for the election of the succeeding treaty relations, and, secondly, to place upon the state authorities of California the responsibility for any serious outcome of the alien land legislation.

TWO 'NO BILLS' NECESSARY TO FREE PRISONERS

Solicitor's "Famous" Detective Has Left City-Character Witnesses Not Likely to Be Used

At the request of The Atlanta Journal, the Brooklyn Eagle, one of the most conservative and reliable newspapers in the whole country, has investigated the most serious of numerous rumors which are being persistently circulated about the character of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil company, who is held in connection with the death of Mary Phagan. Attorneys declared Monday that even Frank's character could be found that they would not be allowed to testify in court should Mr. Frank ever face a jury. The state is never allowed to put the character of a defendant in issue and no past misconduct, however grievous or even if it is a matter of court record, is admitted in evidence unless the defense first makes a point of the haracter of the man on trial. This is seldom done in criminal cases. GRAND JURY MEETS FRIDAY. Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey would make no statement Monday as to the probable time that the Phagan investigation wil reach the grand jury. ### DAILY CAMPAIGN STORY

"Don't Hold Down to One or Two Answers On Each Picture."

Now that The Journal is offering you an Answer Book with the privilige of ten answers to each picture and the first thirty-five pletures free, there is no excuse for any contestant to hold down to one or two answers to each picture. If you had three fast horses and had the privilege of entering all of them in a race in which the purse was $1,000, you would not select the most likely horse to win and hold the other two out. That would not be wise, because your judgment might be poor and that horse would lose out on you, while, on the other hand, if you had entered the three of them, one of them might bring home the money. It is the same way in this Campaign; you have the right to ten answers on each picture, and if you hold down to one or two answers you are lessening your chances to win. Whatever you do, exercise all your rights to extra answers, and increase your chances of getting in that pile of shining gold.

'The Answer Book will be ready on Thursday. Be sure and get one, as it will be the great aid to your share of the $7,000 The Journal will award to prize winners in this delightful game.

"Oh, you Atlanta, 1914."

The Empire Life Building-Home Office of the Compan;

It is, no doubt, a source of gratification to the people of the South, and especially those of Georgia, to note the steady and substantial growth of The Empire, their home Life Insurance Company.

The Empire Life's recent statement, as filed with the Insurance Department of the State of Georgia, shows a wonderful transformation of figures since its first entrance into the insurance field in 1901. Every year has shown an increase over the previous year, which shows conclusively the growth of the company to be steady, and not spasmodic.

The record shows the following figures at the end of the first year, 1901, and at the end of the last year, 1912:

Horses of Drunken Negro Halted in Exciting Dash Down Decatur Street

A chase after a runaway carriage, with a drunken driver atop, was ended Sunday afternoon by Chief of Detectives N. A. Lanford and his negro buggy driver, John Murphy, when the carriage was halted on Hunter street by Murphy and the negro driver caught by the chief after a foot race

The chief was being driven home by Murphy about 7 o'clock Sunday even-As their buggy advanced toward town up Decatur street, a double-seated carriage approached them from the opposite direction. The team of horses rate of twenty-five or thirty miles an hour, and the carriage was swaying

COUNTY POLICEMEN SAVE NEGRO FROM NEGRO MOB

Doc Burnett, Who Stabbed Negro Boy, Barely Escaped Lynching Sunday

The timely arrival of three county policemen probably prevented the lynching of a negro man by a mob of negroes on Marietta road at 6:30 o'clock Sunday

Doc Burnett, the negro, killed a negro boy named Charlie Simon, by stabbing him with a knife, and a few minutes later was surrounded by a crowd of infuriated negroes who threatened to string him up.

Lieutenant J. M. Carroll and Officers J. W. Williams and L. W. Allen, of the county police force, happened to be passing nearby and saw the crowd. They elbowed their way through, took Burnett in custody, and started with Thereupon the negroes crowded close around and begged them to give up their prisoner, saying they would finish him in short order and save the state the trouble.

Finally they grew so determined that the policemen had to draw revolvers and stand them off until a street car passed On arriving at the jail, to their astonishment, they were met by a smaller mob who had hurried to town ahead of them, and again they had to draw their revolvers to protect Burnett.

Oiling the County Roads.

The roads committee of the Fulton County Board of Commissioners has taken a timely and economic step in providing that fifty miles of highway shall be oiled before the summer season is under way with its heavy traffic and clouds of dust. This work will not only add to the comfort of travel but will also preserve the roads-

Indeed, the great problem in road maintenance is the protection of the binder, or upper surface which holds intact the material of the foundation layers. The main bed of a well built road will withstandstand much wear; it is the part that is constantly exposed to the wheels of vehicles, particularly automobile tires with their strong suction, that calls for the most careful attention.

When this binder is broken, a process of gradual destruction sets in, and it is then, too, that dust becomes so discomforting. The road bed itself is laid bare to the attacks of wind and rain and unless the break is repaired the road is literally blown or wash-

One of the surest safeguards against this destruction is the adequate oiling of highways. A little money and labor spent in this precaution will save thousands of dollars and will go far toward relieving summer traffic of its most annoying and unhealthful features.

It is to be hoped that in time means will be provided for oiling all the roads of Fulton county, or at least the main highways. There are few communities where travel is so heavy and so continuous. The county's drives are one of its most inviting as well as useful assets. They should be protected and kept as free from dust as possible.

Why Such Delays on

This Important Project?

The public is entitled to prompt action in the closing of the Forsyth street underpass or to some reasonable explanation of the continued delay.

There is apparently no excuse for postponing this improvement which has the sanction of the dity authorities, the sanction of the State, the support of property owners immediately concerned, and the hearty approval of citizens in general.

Council has appropriated a fund sufficient to carry out this work in accordance with plans and estimates drawn by competent engineers. It only remains, therefore, for the committee that is directlyresponsible to see that a definite beginning is made There has been ample time to confer with the interested railroads and to reach an agreement that will be satisfactory to them as well as to the city. If, however, this has not yet been done, steps to that end should be taken forthwith. Through a spedial act of the Legislature Council has been authorked to close the underpass on the condition that its plans in this connection meet the approval of the State Railroad Commission and the Governor. The State's only requirement is that adequate inlets and outlets be provided to take the underpass openings. These conditions can be met with little or no difficulty and both the railroads and the State officials can be satisfied.

There is thus no evident reason why work on closing the underpass should not begin in the immediate future, if the proper committee of council will but proceed to its duty. Traffic on Forsyth street is being blocked and business impeded simply because of the lack of energy and promptness on the part of those who have been entrusted with the supervision of this task.

Better Trolley Service.

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL.

Few announcements have ever been more cheering to the Atlanta public than which carries the assurance of improved trolley car service. The Georgia Railway and Power Company shows a praiseworthy disposition to meet the city's growing traffic needs without positive orders from the State Railroad Commission. The improvements which that body has indicated as being necessary or desirable will be carried into effect voluntarily, it is said, and as promptly as circumstances will permit.

One of the most helpful of the promised improvements will be the displacement of small cars with larger and more modernly designed cars, capable of seating from thirty-six to forty-eight persons. Indeed, it is said that the standard Atlanta street car will soon be the pay-as-you-enter type now operated on a few of the longer routes. This improvement will entail considerable expense on the copany, necessitating as it will the abandonment of much equipment. That, however, is a factor with which every public service company located in a rapidly growing city must reckon; and in the long run the cost of the improvements will be more than balanced by the efficiency thereby attained.

It is said that in addition to larger cars, a greater number of cars and more frequent schedules will be installed on lines where traffic is particularly

The value of such improvements cannot be overestimated. The will not only add to the comfort and convenience of individual passengers, but also to the business interests and the prestige of the community as a whole. One of the most striking evidences of Atlanta's growth has been the continual demand for perfected and extended street car service. The city is expanding in every direction and its population is becoming more dense as well as more widely distributed. It is very gratifying to know that the Georgia Railway and Power Company is planning to meet these ever-increasing needs.

Hereafter an income will be known as a salary that is taxed.

The Junior Order of The Chamber of Commerce.

The suggestion that there be established a junior order of the Chamber of Commerce has appealed to young Atlantians no less keenly than to their elders and the outlook is now cheering for a speedy fruition of this happy idea.

If one of the prime purposes of education is to fit boys for good citizenship, and to enable them to play worthily the part of their fathers, then the educational value of this plan is beyond reckoning. Indeed, membership and activity in such an organization would be worth as much in their way as any course of study which a boy might pursue at school. He would thus be brought into direct and intimate touch with the realities of business and civic life. He would be given something definite and inspiriting to do for the betterment of his community. He would come to realize the presence and the meaning of public duties; and what surer stimulus to character could be found?

Not only for the good of the boys but also for the good of the Chamber of Commerce and of the city, this plan should be carried into effect There are many enterprises to which the boys of Atlanta, whether they are in school or at work, could render substantial service. In this connection, Mr. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, recently called attention to illustrated books on city planning which are now used in the public schools of Chicago. The development of the city along lines of comfort, efficiency, cleanliness and beauty is a task which must have the interest and support of the younger generation if it is duly to succeed.

What the Boy Scouts have done in other fields, a Junior Order of the Chamber of Commerce can do as well and with as much enthusiasm for Atlanta's commercial and civic progress. It is to be hoped that this interesting enterprise will be comsum-

The heart of old Scrooze himself would have grown springlike, had it been his good fortune to live in a town like Atlanta and come under the gracious and jocund spell of Tag Day.

Certain it is that there are no unconverted Scrooges in this good city on Monday, May the twelfth; or, if by chance there should be, they will not dare come forth. Tag Day is an established custom which all Atlantians observe with enthusiasm because of the admirable institution it represents and the delightful spirit it infuses. Its purpose is to raise funds for the Sheltering Arms and the allied endeavors which that great charity has developed. Let everybody yield promptly and generously to the army of fair "taggers."

THE TAX OF IGNORANCE

BY DR. FRANK CRANE. (Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The human race since time began has been preyed upon by parasites, bloodsuckers and thieves. History is but a record of the systematic, institutional plunder of the people by the shrewd and selfish few. It has been a lamb populace managed by wolf exploiters. Mankind has been taxed incalculably, taxed of money, blood, life.

But of all known taxes that of IGNORANCE has been the greatest, includes perhaps all other taxes. All the tyrannies of rulers, kings, upper castes and cabals have not equalled in their pillage the amount robbed of humanity by Ignorance. All the pirates of the Spanish Main, all the buccaneers, freebooters, highway robbers, burglars and thugs have not taken from us so vast a pile of goods as has this same Ignorance. Not all the swi dling schemes of mining shares, watered railway stocks, wildcat investments, predatory trusts, stock exchanges, and money powers have so depleted us as Ignorance. All our loss by waste and profligacy cannot equal our loss by Ignor-

Ignorance claims its cent per cent in all trades. Ninetenths of the failures are due to Ignorance. Boys enter into business untrained, uninformed; they go down in the struggle. The slums and prisons are full of men who stumbled into crime because they entered the battle for success without skill or weapons.

Civilization systematically keeps its girls in ignorance of the laws of their bodies, of the significance and functions of sex. The hordes of women wrecks that swarm in our cities is the resulting tax of Ignorance. How much domestic tragedy is due to the same cause! Our entire literature teems with sex-suggestion; we do everything to arouse passion, nothing to

In the way of hygiene what a measureless tribute the race has paid to Ignorance. The pests of former ages, cholera, the black death and the red death, the multitude of corpses heaped up, simply because people did not know enough to keep clean!

The myriad lives that have been darkened, and bodies tortured, by sincere but narrow men playing upon the common Ignorance of the unknown! This tax which the hierarchy has levied on the light and joy of souls is perhaps most horrible of all. A tax due to pure Ignorance.

War, it is impossible to pile up superlatives of execration, curses cannot be screamed too loud, to do justice to its abysmal infamy; and there never was a war that was not due to Ignorance. The spectre of every war shall arise on Judgment Day to point a denouncing finger at the rulers of men; for it is only to cover their stupidity that the commons are led forth to slaughter. "There never was a war that could not have been better settled in some other way." Add, then, to your tax of Ignorance all them that sleep in mounds by the Rappahannock, that perished at Ladysmith, San Juan, or Sadowa, and all other of those orgies of blood and hate that fill the pages of history as the stars fill the sky.

Think of the tax of economic Ignorance! Money piled up in extravagance here, and yonder human creatures starving; all because we don't know how to distribute the products of labor! Look at the human beings crowded like cattle into the street cars, look at the public everywhere insulted, bullied, assaulted, and we submit, because we don't know how to help ourselves. The most economical thing the United States could do would be to spend a billion dollars more a year to give ALL children an education, and thus do what may be done to remove the taxation imposed by Ignorance.

NOT HIS HONOR.

Chief Justice Isaac Russell, of the court of special sessions, tells how he went to the city hall to call on the mayor on a rainy day, and as he was leaving the building he slipped and bumped all the way down the stone steps. A man rushed up, helped him to his feet and asked: "Is your honor hurt?"

THE INCOME TAX

V .- Methods of Administration. BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The machinery for collecting the income tax provided for '- the Underwood bill promises to be much simpler in its make-up and more easily operated than the machinery of collecting similar taxes in any other country. Especially will it be far in advance of the English methods of collecting income taxes. There one detail has been added, here another, and elsewhere stil another, unti it resembles a house that has been built a room at a time. No Englishman would write an income tax law like the present one if the books were clean. and yet nothing short of wiping off the slate would permit much improvement.

The proposed American law does away with statements and refunds and a half dozen other cumbersome features of the English law. John Bull has his subjects pay their full taxes, in many instances, and then, under a system of refunds, pays some of the tax back again. For instance, here is a man whose income does not exceed the usual exemption who is a stockholder in a corporation. The corporation must pay his tax on his income from it, whether that income is large enough to be taxed or not. If it is not large enough he can have it refunded to him afterward. This is but one of the many unsatisfactory features of the administrative phases of the English income tax law.

The proposed law here does not intend that the government shall collect any tax upon exempted incomes, whether these incomes arise wholly or in part from investments or not. Consequently, a man who owns stock in a corporation but whose income is not above $4,000, needs only to notify the corporation that he claims an exemption for the income he derives from it, and if his statements are true he will have no further worry. Lis English brother sometimes has to unwind miles of red tape to get back which ought never to have been assessed against him.

The reader who has had assessments made against his stock and has seen them paid out of the earnings, has experienced just about what will take place under the income tax law. Every corporation in the country will be required to furnish the internal revenue bureau with a list of its stockholders, its bondholders and other deriving an income of more than $4,000 from it. They will be required to pay income tax upon the income received from them by every such stock or bondholder who does not file a claim of exemption. Therefore, the only way to escape the tax is to serve notice upon the person authorized to pay it for you that your entire income is not enough to exceed the exemption. If a man is a stockholder in a half dozen companies he can claim exemption in those from which his total income does not exceed $4,000. Or, if he has an income of $1,000 from each of three companies, and an income of $6,000 from a fourth corporation, he can claim his full exemption from the ene corporation and allow the three to pay the tax in full and the fourth only on the $2,000 above the exemption.

The internal revenue bureau will have a most elaborate checking system by which it can trace up most of the people subject to income taxation. First, it will have a national card index of all the people who enjoy annual incomes in excess of $4,000. This will be built up from many sources. In the first place, there will be the list of income receivers from all corporations, joint stock companies and others who must advise the government as to the names and addresses of all those enjoying taxable incomes. This will give a clue to perhaps two-thirds of the people likely to have taxable incomes. Then there are the people who are large realty owners. As their deeds are on record, and their property listed upon the tax books of the cities and counties in which the property is located, the internal revenue collectors can check them up. They can also ascertain who collects the rents, who handles the interest accounts, and who looks after the other affairs of large property holders and mortgage holders. Wherever possible these people will be asked to remit the income tax directly to the internal revenue collector, and they will be under a heavy penalty to make such returns as will keep the treasury department advised as to the people with whom they deal who are liable to income taxation, and as to the amounts of their incomes derived through sources of which they have legal knowledge.

The determination of the framers of the proposed law will tend to make it difficult for rich men to escape their taxes, since most of their holdings are in such shape that the treasury department can keep tab upon them and check up the income returns of an individual with the returns from these other sources. Where the two sets of returns agree there will be no further trouble, but the man whose individual return is lower than the returns made for him will have a rather unpleasant chance to explain.

In this respect the law undoubtedly will prove an aid in determining just what are the profits of big corporations and wealthy individuals. Just as the interstate commerce commission has compelled the railroads to keep records that show exactly what are the profits of their corporations, and as the corporation tax law requires corporations to show their actual incomes, so will the individual have to give in his income. This probably will prove of much value for statistical purposes.

There will be no undue inquisitorial proceedings in the collection of the income tax, if the present policy with reference to the corporation tax is continued. The corporations are given to understand that if they come forward and try to meet the law they have nothing to fear from its operation, but that if they try to get around it there will be an investigation that will investigate.

The return of every corporation, stock company and individual subject to the tax will be carefully checked up, one feature with another, and also with other information in hand, and if there is no evidence of any tax dodging, willful or unintentional, that will about end the matter.

But if it be found that the person making the return has failed to list the items of his income in reasonable accord with experience, he may be asked why. For instance, here is a man who reports a net income of $12,000 a year as a merchant. He is required to give his gross income, and also his expenses of conducting the business. If the returns show a net income very much higher than might be expected from such a gross income, he may be asked to make sure there is no mistake about his gross income. Or, if his operating expenses are out of all proportion to what might be expected on a net income of $12,000 p year, he may be requested to advise the treasury department whether he has not overestimated his operating

After the proposed law goes into effect the treasury department will go to work to frame rules and regulations for the assessment and colletion of the tax. These will amplify every paragraph of the law and will be the chart by which the collectors will steer. These rules and regulations will be rather voluminous, and will be so comprehensive that they will cover the great majority of the questions that might arise in the administration of the tax. But there will, from time to time, arise questions that no one has foreseen. These matters will be referred back to the treasury department, and the internal revenue over nicely as asbureau, under the guidance of the secretary, will make new rules to cover these cases as they come up. In a year or two of experience nearly every contingency that may arise will have come up, and practically every question that may arise will have been passed

The ridiculous material reward for preaching is another reason, we believe, why Smith doesn't go to church. Money, as Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller so frequently tell us, is not everything; but a minister can't say that to a dunning landlord or grocer. It may not be much of an argument to put up to a collector for a steel rail company or an oil corporation either.

Also there might be less justification for the talk about how little college graduates know if the incentive to be a college professor were greater than mers altruism.

Half-Price Millinery Sale

Maybe you have been awaiting this event---well you might. It is the "Grand Prix" of all millinery sales.

Nothing Atlanta knows approximates it. The hats it offers are those accepted as fashionable this season, correct, smart in unusual ways. The greater part---about all of them--comes from the little shop, Estelle Mershon, in the very center of fastidious New York, 20 E. 46th St.

Included are

Street, Traveling and Dress Hats Until Now $12.00 to $30.00

Now $6.00 to $15.00

Some one hundred fifty in all---no describing them---but so varied are the shapes and trimmings that it will be like choosing from regular stock and paying just half.

Is the first spring hat beginning to look a little faded, are you going away this summer, does a newly acquired suit or dress call for a hat to match? Here are splendid affirmative answers for these questions.

The selling begins at eight o'clock when the store opens.

May Days of Preparation

It doesn't much matter what your plans for June, July or August are, but you must agree that your comfort during those months will be greater if in the pleasant month of May yo take advantage of all of the opportunities offered for preparation.

Last-minute shopping is distressing and unsatisfactory, The weather is warm, the streets and shops are crowded, and the stocks are not nearly as fresh and attractive as they are now. Therefore be forehanded and "let your head save your heels."

Plan your summer outfit now, no matter how small or how extensive it may be; and not only plan it but get it. You will have a lot more fun later on if you have provided yourself with what you need in apparel and sporting goods before the season is in full swing.

If you have any doubt about what you want look at the advertisements in THE JOURNAL and you will find plenty of suggestions.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) DALTON, Ga., May 10 .- Remorse caused a man, whose name the First National bank won't divulge, to pay that institution $1 in "conscience money," which, he stated, he had fraudulently obtained from the bank five years ago, after having a check for $10 cashed. He returned to the bank shortly after cashing the check with a counterfeit dollar, which he claimed the bank had given him. On his making affidavit to that effect, he received another dollar. In paying his "conscience money" he stated he had placed the $10 in a clock and was confident some one substituted the counterfeit while his money was there.

have risen or remained seated-to remark before, it doesn't take the tide long to veer in this game, once it gets started.

Some six weeks ago down at Hot Springs, Ark., where the baths come from, there were two ball clubs grappling for the spring training stake. One was the Pittsburg Pirates. The other was the Boston Red Sox. One had won a world's championship the fall before. The other was touted to romp home with the N. L. pennant for the year ahead.

As we recall certain peppery interviews given out during that series Managers Clarke and Stahl were each confident that the other would win and that they would meet again for higher honors in the fall. The Red Sox, according to Fred Clarke, were considerable ball club, the Pirates, according to Stahl, were certainly there and much stronger than

No one placed Pittsburg any lower than second in the National and no one ranked the Red Sox any lower than second in the American. They may finish this well-or better yet. But not at their present rate of speed. The Pirates, with all their promised power and push have been playing second division ball since the barrier was lifted. So have the Red Sox, who will now require a miracle to overtake either the Athletics or Senators. No two clubs ever opened with greater promise to topple with such a splash.

Both clubs have been assailed by a carload of trouble. Wagner's early injury and absence left the Pirates gulping from the soup trough before April was a fortnight old. The Red Sox infield has also been tern asunder, with Joe Wood practically useless. Pittsburg may rally and come on through. But the Red Sox have a fearful roadbed ahead over which they must struggle to yank by the Mackian avalanche. The only clubs now booked with a prospect of achieving this stunt are Washington and Cleveland-and the odds against them are great.

No club in either league was playing any better baseball than Washington when Foster and Gandil were struck down. These two people are stars of more than average luminosity. For an infield to lose a pair of this calibre even for a brief spell is a rough-house blow. If Griff can keep his men up there in close sight until the sick and wounded recover he will certainly be in at the death.

It is hard for even a rival townsman to keep from pulling for Joe Tinker to win. In the face of the toughest break that ever confronted a manager the ex-Cub is fighting on with all the fire and smash of a victorious leader. Constant thumping hasn't even started to curb his spirit and in the long run this sort of fighting will tell.

Tinker not only hasn't quit. He is't going to. A young leader or a new one, who can bump into the harassing misfortune which assaied him through the first month and take it all as a part of the game without a squawk is an unusual type. We believed back in mid-winter that Tinker would make a fine manager. We have more faith in his ultimate success today than we had then, despite the fact that he is at the off-side end of the parade.

The new Red leader happened to be caught without a pitching staff. The veterans upon whom he depended blew with a terrific detonation ten minutes after the campaign opened. Bad pitching will break up any club—except the Athletics—and when Joe Faversham is able to build up his shooting gallery the rest of it will come.

Tinker hasn't the job that Chance faces. Three first-class pitching additions would put Joe up among the elite. Chance needs that and as many more infielders and then something.

A year ago in mid-May the Giants had won 18 games and dropped 4. But that was May, 1912, not May 1913.

And the queer part of it is that the Giants of 1913 look 25 per cent better on copy paper than the Giants of 1912. The only kink here is that very few ball games are ever waged exclusively upon copy paper, even though said copy paper is a mid-season form.

We are willing to concede Hans Wagner's last day in baseball upon the occasion of hearing the lid clamped down upon his lifeless form. Even then it's only an even bet if the funeral march is pointed pegging

NEW ORLEANS, May 12 .- Cotton futures sellers opened steady at a decline of 3 to 5 points half of the belt, important sections of which last week were complaining of drouth. With Alabama; looks like more, Liverpool closed there was a disinclination on the part of local traders to operate freely. Again, bears were afraid to atempt to take the entire belt, while rains were in excess of sacks, $1.50; Georgia feed, 75-lb. sacks, $1.55; full advantage of rains in the east because of outlined complaints of low night temperatures. At the end of the first half hour of business At a level three to six points down, the market took on a better tone, chiefly because of since the date reached by this circular, old weather talk. It was pointed out that the average maximum temperature yesterday was only 76 degrees, over the entire cotton region, and that the average minimum was only 54. market gradually recovered and at noon the short interest generally and belief the trading months stood 2 to 4 points up, compared with the final figures of Saturday. > To Keep Off the Poor Farm. BY JOHN M. OSKISON than they have been for a long time. and they are just as good an insurance as ever against having to go the poor farm or be supported by a daughter-in-As George Fitch said the other day a bond is a quiet, handsome piece of paper which costs $1,000, and can earn as much in a year as a bright boy. Also, a bond is one of the best forms of investment for one who wants put a sum of surplus money to work and let the other fellow do the worry stays there until 5 in the afternoon. All this if your bond is well selected. Is now a good time to get good ones which yield well?

I have a circular in front of me which was sent out under date of March 26. It describes briefly seven bond issues which are listed on the New York stock exchange. They are all railroad bonds, and at the prices prevaling when the circular was sent their yield on the investment varied from 4.80 to 5.35 per cent. What is the bond which returns 5.25 per cent on the invested money? It

37 @ 37% is worth while giving some details. It pays $45 a year interest on each $1,000 bond; it is part of an issue of $31,390,000 put out in 1910 and sold to the stockholders of the road for $935 each. It may be converted into stock of the road until 1920, at the rate of one bond for ten shares of stock that means that if the railroad's stock rises at any time before 1920 to a selling price of $100 a share, these bonds will automatically become worth $1,000 time the circular was issued was $905. Any dealer familiar at all with the bond market can select for you bargains which you will be glad to own later on. I would only say to you, don't imagine that you are getting a safe bond if it yields more than 6 per cent; a good railroad bond will not yield that much.

Poultry at the Agricultural College and the Experiment Station

HE state of Georgia and the officials connected with the College of Agriculture and the Experiment Station two years ago showed an inclination to help the poultry interest of this state and a small amount of money was set aside to maintain two departments at these stations. But, for some reason the interest in these two important things connected with the welfare of our state are not getting the encouragement and support that they should have. While the poultry interest of Georgia in the estimation of many is a small item, yet if the actual figures were properly compiled showing the amount involved and the necessity of looking after this interest was brought before the pub-· lic the people would be surprised to know in dollars and cents how much it represents and of how much importance it is for us to know more about this industry.

The poultry industry is one of the things that has been sadly neglected in Georgia, and of all the different lines of industries that need enlightenment on the subject of and help to get out of it results that are being obtained by many other states this section is one that should be looked after. It means millions of dollars to this state to produce more poultry and eggs in it. It means probably the helping of a larger number of people of all classes than possibly any other one line of work that could be taken up. There is certainly room for education in this line, and who are Experiment Station and College of Agriculture? It is certainly necessary that a certain amount of money be set aside or expended on this work and give the people of Georgia the information they are entitled to. The tax money that is collected and a certain per cent of it appropriated to help educate the people on different farm topics, soil survey and etc. The money appropriated for these departments is I will admit very essential, but the people who are interested in poultry are just as much entitled to their proportional part be set aside for this work and it will belp probably ten people to one more to know something about poultry than it does many of the other lines that this money is now being expended for.

The farmers and the people generally of this state need quick action and help from something that will put money in their pockets immediately just as much as they do in years to come, and poultry being something that reproduces quickly and something that will help so large a number of people and give quick returns this work should be more thoroughly looked after than it is at the present time. The farmers need help and some way by which they can produce money and get returns as quickly as ressible, and to neglect this work longer means the loss of thousands of dollars to our country. It has been voted by the board of directors at Griffin to do away with the poultry department there for the want of funds. On the other hard thousands of dollars are being used for other purposes at this station that will never bring one-tenth the amount in returns or help so large a number of people as this poultry work would. The small amount of money that is appropriated at the College of Agriculture is hardly a drop in the bucket compared to what should be set aside for this work at Athens. Take for instance, there are thousands of dollars and a number of men at work on the soil survey of this state. While this may be of much importance, still it will be many years before it will really bring much returns to this state, and how few will take advantage of this work after they have been enlightened on this subject. I believe it is a good thing but I do not believe that our people are ready for it yet. I do not believe we can be taught Latin befor we learn our A. B. C's, and to fully understand how to get results after we have obtained this information on our soils will take time and lots of study to bring back to this amount of income compared to the

There will be a brief address on "The Value of Missionary Education in the Sunday School," by Rev. Charles R. Watson, D. D., of Philadelphia. This will be followed by a demonstration of "A Missionary Opening Exercise" for the Sunday school, entitled "America's Welcome," the theme of which is immigration. It will be presented by a number of young people of the Central Presbyterian church, and is very effective. Other features of the program will be the demonstration of how, in five minutes or less, to advertise a missionary book to the Sunday school so as to insure its being read, how to make a telling missionary speech to a Sunday school, and how to' present a missionary map talk effectively. These items will be presented resepectively by Mrs. D. E. Waid, of New York; Mr. George Innes, of Philadelphia, and Rev. A. W Halsey, D. D., of New York. There will be a large chorus and special music under the direction of Prof. Joseph Maclean, organist of Central church.
