When we tell you that we have $10 embroideries here at $1.95! $5 embroideries at 98c and $2.50 embroideries at 73c! don't wonder if we have gone daft, nor think that we are exaggerating. For every word is true—

—so true that we have had to take all the flouncings from regular stock that formerly sold up to $5 and $9 respectively, and place them with these new flouncings at 98c and $1.95. We do this because we know full well we could not get regular price for our old goods when these new arrivals are to sell for 98c and $1.95.

—We want you to see these goods; we want every customer to share the good fortune that brings us these importers' close-outs to sell for half of what they cost to import.

The embroideries are all new and crisp—fairly fabrics of beauty that women want right now for tunics, ruffles, blouses and entire dresses. There are—

$5 to $12.50 Embroideries at $1.75

—Hundreds of yards of the loveliest 27 and 45-inch embroidery flouncings. Materials include:—batiste—crepes—organdies—lingeries—voiles—neiges

—All are white, embroidered in—Crescilles—Fillet—Baby Irish—Eyelet and—Solid Designs.

The cheapest in the lot is well worth $5; many are worth $10 to $12.50; the average price is easily $8. Choice $1.95.

$3 to $5 Embroideries at 98c

—The materials and patterns are much the same as above. In addition, some of these are embroidered in colors. The widths are 18, 27 and 45-inch for the flouncings; there are also some 54-inch colored embroidery all-overs. Included also at 98c is every piece of embroidery flouncing from regular stock, priced in the earlier season up to $5.

DAMAGED LINER ENTERS DOCK IN SOUTHAMPTON

Kaiser Wilhelm II Had Hole Ripped in Side in Collision With Steamer Icomore

(By Associated Press.) SOUTHAMPTON, June 18.—The Kaiser Wilhelm II, of the North German Lloyd line, entered the docks here today, having immediately begun repairs on her hull in order to ascertain the extent of the damage she sustained when the water line in her collision with the British steamer Icomore.

It was known on her arrival that she had a hole in her starboard side. The damage to her upper works was revealed by tarpaulins, but apparently was only trifling.

The breakfast dining saloon of the Kaiser Wilhelm II was drenched with water and the passengers were compelled to take their breakfast today in a saloon on the upper deck.

A. J. James, of Chico, Cal., a passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm II, said when he reached the dock when the vessel was first and second class passengers were very coolly, but there was great sympathy among the steerage passengers. The women were crying at the sight of the damage to the vessel.

James said, "because the signal was sounding all the while we had come to a standstill and had not started moving again."

N. M. von Schilling, of Hampton, Va., who was on the deck when the vessel struck, said: "The Icomore was heading for the spot where I was standing and I fell."

He expected to have to take to the sea as the impact was so great that the vessel seemed certain.

The majority of the steerage passengers were transferred to the Icomore, which was in the harbor for New York.

EXTENSIVE FORGERIES CONFESSED BY SUSPECT

Oklahoma City Police Say One of Keener Brothers Admits Crimes

(By Associated Press.) OKLAHOMA CITY, June 17.—Ben Keener, under arrest here on charges of forgery, is alleged to have confessed to the local police that he and his brother, J. B. Keener, confessed to various crimes at Blackwell, Ed and other places in Oklahoma and in other states.

Five months ago forgeries amounting to $15,000 were reported to the local police against the Keener brothers.

The Keener brothers, who were taken up the trail of the Keener brothers, they were traced to Boston, Wash. then to Pensacola, Fla., and then to Oklahoma. The police said, admitting having served a term in the Oklahoma State penitentiary for forgery.

HERE'S A REAL THRILLER, FIT FOR A MOVIE SCREEN

Convicted Forger Shanghai's Sailor, Lands Him in Cell, and Escapes

(By Associated Press.) SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Peter A. Grimes, convicted of forgery in Shanghai, and on his way to San Quentin prison in California, Shanghai's sailor, Alfred Johnson, a Norwegian sailor in Shanghai, Japan, substituted the sailor for himself and escaped, according to information developed today in an investigation by federal officers.

Not until Johnson, in a cell at San Quentin, told his story to a fellow Norwegian was it discovered that an inmate named James H. Rodgers, who served a term in San Quentin before, and was released August 10, 1913, Prison official looked at Johnson, and then at a photograph of Grimes, alias Rodgers, and clearly different men.

When Johnson saw the picture of the former convict he said: "That is one of the three men I drank with in Shanghai."

Johnson arrived here under guard on the transport Sheridan. The transport officers are positive he is the man delivered to them at Nagasaki by Prison keeper Killore, of Shanghai, as Peter A. Grimes.

While at San Quentin, Grimes, or Rodgers, was a private secretary to former Governor John E. Hughes. He was an expert stenographer. His parents are said to live in Pittsburgh, Pa., and to be wealthy.

WHITE WOLF AND BAND ESCAPE FROM TROOPS

Chinese Bandit Breaks Through Cordons of Soldiers and Gets Away

(By Associated Press.) PEKING, June 18.—"White Wolf," the notorious Chinese bandit, with a force of his followers, yesterday broke through the circle regular troops which had surrounded him on Luliang Mountain, 160 miles to the south of Lanchow, since June 4.

General Chao, with 5,000 regular troops, followed the brigands in hot pursuit.

White Wolf, after devastating the province of Hu-Poh, Ho-Nan and Shen Si, June 4, attacked the Tzu-Chow in the extreme south of Kien-Si and, after robbing the inhabitants, burned the town. He and his followers afterward were surrounded by the regular troops.

The trouble occurred in the clerk and master's office, arising over publication of the announcement in the Evening Star. White Wolf's wound in the shoulder is described as not serious.

STOCK BROKERS STAGE WIERD GAME OF POLO

Sticks Used as Ponies and Ball Is Hammered With Croquet Mallets

NEW YORK, June 18.—Spectators who came to the New York stock exchange today to see how brokers beat the time during the present calm of the market, found eight prominent members engaged in a fierce game of polo. There was little difference in the speed of ponies, for they consisted of long sticks with a horse's head at the top and a smooth running wheel at the bottom.

One four, distinguished by white sleeves and gray polo caps was captained by Charles Knoblauch. The rival four were all black and were led by J. S. Buchanan. Both sides carried long-handled croquet mallets, which they swung recklessly.

As the teams took their places, a soccer football was tossed on the field, and with this mixed assortment of implements the two fours fell into battle. The game lasted fifteen minutes and resulted in a draw.

Miss McCoy is said to have five shots at her husband, two of which it is believed will prove fatal. The woman surrendered.

MILLIONS AVAILABLE FOR FARM MORTGAGE LOANS

Comptroller of Currency Estimates $500,000,000 in National Banks

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Comptroller of the Currency Williams estimates that about $500,000,000 in national banks throughout the United States is available for farm mortgage loans under the provisions of the federal reserve act making it possible for national banks to make farm loans before the formal organization of the federal reserve board.

The estimate of Comptroller Williams is based on reports showing the capital stock and surplus of national banks to be $1,777,949,000. Twenty-five per cent of this amount, or $444,237,250 is available for farm loans. Furthermore, the federal reserve act provides that national banks may grant farm loans up to 1-1 per cent of their time deposits. Banks with large deposits will be able to far exceed the sum they could lend on farms under the 25 per cent clause and the estimate of Mr. Williams is believed to be conservative.

Farm loans under this act are not to be made for longer than five years and the amount of each loan is not to exceed fifty per cent of the actual value of the farm offered as security.

Twenty-five per cent of this amount, or $444,237,250 is available for farm loans. Furthermore, the federal reserve act provides that national banks may grant farm loans up to 1-1 per cent of their time deposits. Banks with large deposits will be able to far exceed the sum they could lend on farms under the 25 per cent clause and the estimate of Mr. Williams is believed to be conservative.

Farm loans under this act are not to be made for longer than five years and the amount of each loan is not to exceed fifty per cent of the actual value of the farm offered as security.

Villa is not the first able leader who has been persecuted by politicians.

Having lost a senatorship and two banks, Lorimer
now has nothing left but his pluck.

Colonel Roosevelt doesn't seem to be able to convince all the scientists all the time.

And still the Mexican situation is unsettled, and Jack London and Richard Harding Davis are there, too.

The Hope of the Constitutionalists.

If it were true that Villa and Carranza had broken company, henceforth to pursue conflicting courses,
the Mexican problem would be more than ever difficult. United, the Constitutionalists will be a power for free and orderly government, but divided, they will be a source of added oppression and anarchy.
They have presented heretofore a solid front against those influences and ideas that have held their country in feudal bondage. They have fought well and planned well, because they have fought and planned in unison, with an eye single to common ends.

Denounced at first as bandits, they have forged steadily upward in the world's good opinion, until within recent months they have won the confidence of foreign financiers as well as diplomats, and have been regarded as Mexico's hope of salvation. Their progress at home and abroad has been due largely to the fact that they have subordinated individual ambitions to their common cause; and on the continuance of this fact, their usefulness and power depend. Internal strife would reduce the Constitutionalists to mere wranglers, incapable of winning liberty and restoring peace.

It is not evident, however, that this misfortune has befallen them and the republic. General Villa emphatically denies that there has been a break between him and Carranza, and General Carranza is equally positive in disclaiming any serious differences between himself and Villa. There have been omnibus reports to the contrary; but everyone who has tried to follow the developments of the Mexican situation knows how often rumors have been mistaken for facts, and what changes an hour may bring forth.

Certain it is that if either Villa or Carranza remain half as foresighted and astute as they thus far have shown themselves to be, they will permit no petty differences to endanger their common interests at a time when success is fairly within their grasp. It would not be surprising if such differences cropped out hereafter, but it is almost incredible that they should become serious, or remain so, at this stage of the revolution.

As for the reported pessimism in the peace conference at Niagara, it was only to be expected that the mediators would strike sparks in their undertakings. The remarkable thing is that they have not encountered more difficulties. The present embarrassments may yet be overcome. Even should the conference fall in completely pacifying Mexico, it will at least have accomplished substantial good in making clear the policy of the United States, in giving force to the policy of the United States so far as Huerta is concerned, and in bringing about Huerta's retirement.

What we need is a perpetual lobby in the cause of right.

Colonel Roosevelt's political prospects will also be running up hill.

The Panama canal will not in the least reduce the high cost of Panama hats.

The doctors have ordered the colonel not to talk,
but they can't prevent his writing.

The man who stole our umbrella during the drought is asked to return it now, and no questions asked.

A Charity's Appeal to Georgia.

Georgia is asked to give next week twenty-five thousand dollars toward the construction of a better and greater Wesley Memorial hospital. Atlanta has contributed a like amount, payable before November 1, and the greater proportion of it is now in bank.
The state at large is asked to match this city's gift.
An appeal by the press of Georgia for co-operation in the impending campaign has been published by leaders of the work. It merits warm response—response that will stir the people to generosity;
for the purpose is more worthy charity and the opportunity is open for all to participate.

Wesley Memorial hospital is a Methodist institution in so far as Methodists are responsible primarily for its welfare and conduct. Yet it belongs to no denomination. Its charity is as broad as its capacity. It is open to any and every applicant for whom a bed can be found. Because the demands upon it have exceeded its limitations, the need has arisen for more room, more equipment.

A hospital like Wesley Memorial is operated first of all as an institution of charity. In order that it may be self-sustaining as far as possible, sources of revenue are provided by the equipment of rooms where patients liquidate the cost of their own treatment and also that of the charity patients. But the balance cannot be maintained steadily. When the demands of charity grow to the extent of encroaching upon the sources of revenue, there remains a difference to be paid. The Methodists have been can-diding that difference in Wesley Memorial hospital.
The object of the present campaign is to enlarge the hospital to accommodate patients of both classes.
Many are being turned away at its doors because there is no room for them.

It is not as if Wesley Memorial were a hospital conducted for revenue only. An institution of that type, admirably equipped, is a private business investment, a sort of hotel, with no obligation to do charity and with no claim upon our purse. Nor is the situation what it would be were Wesley Memorial a community institution maintained from public funds.

Unlike either of these, Wesley Memorial has no cause and no appeal but charity. Atlanta and Georgia share equally in that benefit and that obligation.
Atlanta has met her obligation. It remains now for Georgia to give answer.

What Business Observers Say.

From that sharp-eyed, cool-headed, matter-of-fact journal, the New York Commercial, we have the following account of business conditions and tendencies:

Reports from correspondents throughout the United States indicate that the optimism which was apparent a few weeks ago has now passed beyond mere sentiment, and a larger and broader demand for many kinds of merchandise has resulted. The beginning of the winter wheat harvest and the growing crop reports have no doubt influenced immensely buying, both in the wholesale and a retail way, and the trade of the largest centers throughout the country has been correspondingly affected. In view of the warm weather, a large section of the country jobbers have been compelled to place re-orders. More interest is also being shown in fall requirements and as indication of the trend of trade manufacturers of cottons and woollens are not inclined to take present prices, for future deliveries. Advice from the west state a semi-annual clearance of dry goods not only brought out more buyers but larger receipts than last year, while road sales also show a corresponding improvement. There are also evidences of better condition in iron and steel. The transportation companies are showing more buying interest, new orders for 10,700 cars bringing more than 100, 000 tons of plates and shapes to the plant. In the pipe line more activity is in evidence, and there is a better inquiry from implement manufacturers.

This is not the whistle of a man trying to keep his courage; it is a record of facts and conditions.
It is in line with Judge Gray's recent statement, that such depression as we have had was mostly "sentimental," and with President Wilson's statement, that whatever uneasiness there may have been in business was largely "psychological." Is it not significant that the observers who are most broadly and thoroughly informed declare that the sources of business life are secure, and that an era of expansion and prosperity lies just ahead?

There are times when trouble mongers and calumny hawks can depress the country by sheer power of repeated wails, but this is not such a time. They had as well try to turn the sun to ice by fanning in its face with a goose feather. The fields are fruitful, the people are hopeful, the Government is watchful of business interests and so soon as the trust bills are disposed of, the ways for action will be fully opened.

Be careful when it comes to lending money or borrowing trouble.

If it wasn't for the weather lots of people would have no excuse for talking.

Did you ever think what a lot of good you might have done had you begun yesterday instead of waiting until tomorrow?

In winter the act of early rising is something between heroism and penance—a general sense, as Dicreward. It is a kicking of ferns from the bed part of the day, a skimming of the cream of life off

the morning hours.—Boston Transcript.

I speak, you say, oh, who is the Old time will grant me no immunity?
By Aphrodite and by Zeus
I'll make this verse my opportunity!

A year ago the crescent moon
Shone over your crescent activity,
While thrice your sun, summer—ah, too soon—
Had started me down life's declivity.

When fourteen harvest moons shall rise
And light your bloom to full maturity,
For twice your age I put you wise
I then shall be, Oh, certain sure!

Contemporaneous we might be
If time were paired with immortality,
But algebra and rules are three We'd never win you in reality.

If mathematics be your line,
O midnight-haired, dawn-eyed Divinity,
The ratio of your love to mine—
Is that of zero to infinity.

Fly not! I am no slave of prey;
To hurry so is hardly my way.
Love flings all formulas away,
And snags his fingers at senility.

Ignorance, Handmaiden of Death.

Vital figures recently announced by the Hungarian statistical bureau show that it is of little avail to a people to multiply like rabbits, providing proper care and sanitation, and equitable, economic and sociological conditions are not provided.

These statistics give the movement of population in Europe from 1902 to 1911. It shows that the increase of population is highest among the Slavs of the Russian and the Balkans; it also shows that the death rate of these same peoples is the highest in Europe. This is of great significance in view of the well-known fact that the rate of ignorance and illiteracy is greatest among the Slavonic nations.

Russian leads in both divisions. Her birth increase was 13.81 per cent, and the deaths were 128 to every 10,000. Servia, Bulgaria and Roumania follow Russia in both tables. The balance is also against Hungary and Austria.

Germany shows up very well, since she ranks fifth in growth of population percentages, but is only third in deaths. On the other hand, France is the very last in birth increase, having more 1.45 per cent
whereas her death rate is higher than Germany's and only second in the Slavonic countries, Spain and Italy.

The countries that show a comfortable margin of births over deaths, being moderate in both, are Denmark, Holland, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Belgium.

REMNANTS OF PAGANISM

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.
(Copyright, 1914, by FRANK CRANE.)

"Observe not," said Saint Paul, of the seventh century, in a famous sermon, warning his flock against the seductions of Paganism. "Observe not the sacrilegious customs of the heathen, nor consult their charlatans, seers, sorcerers or magicians; observe not their augurs or soothsayers, and when upon the road
pay no heed to the songs of the birds."

Let no Christian observe a lucky day for leaving home or returning. Let none pay attention to the phases of the moon when he undertakes a work. Let none light torches and make vows at old temples, hollow of Thursday, let none ascend from the neck rope, ghylls, padlocks or crossways, let none make of man or other animal phylacteries, even if offered by priests and called upon to put you under the protection of passages of Scripture; let none presume to make illustrations, nor enchant herbs, nor cause his flock to pass through the hole of a tree or a ditch of the earth, which is in some sort to consecrate them to the devil.

Let no woman wear amber at her neck; let none howl during an eclipse of the moon; let none believe in fate, fortune, or horoscope.

Let none be sick, and let none not the enchantements, sorcerers, or soothsayers. Consult not charms at springs, trees, or forks of the road. But let the fountain be, and out down a tree that call sacred."

Id it true the sermon was a very serious matter, easily abated of civilized against the wild customs of the heathen. Today that strange idea strikes in us:
We are a little civilized and Christians at the top,
but the dark reaction of the heart still still what jangles of unacknowledged beliefs!

How we secretly fear Fridays and thirteens, and how we secretly fear the little shiver when a super-

THE BRITISH CRISIS

XXXVII—WILL WOMEN GET THE VOTE?
BY FREDERICK J. HARKIN.

LONDON.—As to the practical effect of the advance campaign there is much dispute. Making allowance for individual differences of opinion, and excluding the assertions from traitors and demagogues from falsehoods, the disinterested observer is forced to the conclusion that at the present time the women are losing ground.

For the first year or two of active influence it is undoubted truth that the women gained ground, and two reasons. One was that a great many men who had been indifferent before, but who were badly treated by the government and, therefore, ranged themselves actively on the suffragette side. Another reason was that many persons who had always been opposed to woman suffrage now advanced to a moderate ground, and while denouncing military rule they were willing to give the women the vote if only the women would behave reasonably.

In the last six months, however, the advance has been arrested by the women have been of such outrageous character that they have made "No, any, or, on the other hand, they have lost the support of many of their former allies.

But in mind now that we are thinking about votes,
—men, there is nothing whatever to indicate that the militant movement has met with stern disapproval among other women and men. It is true that some of the men in England can be found who do not more or less sympathize with Mrs. Pankhurst and her lieutenants.

Some women, it is true, have taken a very active part against suffragettes on account of the outrage against the church, but that churchmen were exasperated by the frequent interruptions in the church services, and they were shocked beyond words when the historic churches were by one disappointed woman kindly by the "arsenites."

It is difficult, of course, to predict any outcome of an unusual campaign but from the suffragette point of view there is grave danger that they will bring the historic churches into disrepute by the courts of law and the jailer's keys. That is the risk.

Dangerous as it may be for king or cabinet minister to appear in public without a guard of soldiers and police, it is just now infinitely more dangerous for the suffragettes themselves to attempt to harangue crowds. The same men and boys who formerly laughed and even applauded the law worked up to a fever pitch in the London in the extreme.

The London police are charged with the paradoxical duty of first protecting the wild women from the mob that would tear them to pieces, and then of arresting the women they have saved and taking her to jail.

It is no easy job. Most a policeman has some sense at night with two sets of paradoxical wounds—one as assortment of abrasions caused by sticks and stones cast by suffragettes, and another set of scratches and bites later inflicted by the lady herself as she bore her off to prison.

It is affirmed, and upon good authority, that the policemen are gradually going over to the side of the women. A policeman's business is the law, but his weapon is force. He respects force and knows it when he sees it. It requires 1,400 policemen to surround women from breaking down the gates of Buckingham palace and perhaps setting the king himself. As when he is surrounded there were as many as 1,400 policemen as women.

Politically speaking, the question of votes for women is cut athwart the party lines. Conservatives and Liberals are not agreed among themselves. Mr. Asquith, the Liberal leader, is opposed to woman suffrage.
While Mr. Lloyd George, the chancellor of the exchequer, is in favor of it. There is similar disagreement on the question of the vote.

But the women are not content with passing the word and waiting. They are active in the cause, but as he continues to hold office in Asquith's cabinet, the suffragettes say they prefer an honest policy of non-resistance to support. For that reason Mr. Lloyd George is in an awkward position from the suffragettes as Mr. Asquith himself.

the Liberal cause. They are active in the cause, but

Tuberculosis Sanitarium Has
Most Unique Purification
Plant in the World

At the city's tuberculosis sanitarium at Battle Hill there has just been completed and put in operation what is probably the most unique sewage purification plant in the world.

It is a miniature reproduction of the plants built with money from the late $100,000 bond issue, and is complete in every detail.

It has an inflow tank, a sprinkling system, a filter bed built of crushed stone, and a sludge bed where the solids in the sewage are dried.

The purification plant at the sanitarium, which is typical of the three best now plants, cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 and has a capacity of clearing gallons of sewage every twenty-four hours.

The plant at Battle Hill cost less than $1,000 and has a capacity of about 100 gallons of sewage per day.

It is small as the "baby" plant is, it is the same as the sewage from the sanitarium for many years to come, and its completion is the last step in making the sanitarium modern in every way.

The "baby" plant was designed and built under the supervision of engineers from the city construction department.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS END MEETING IN ATLANTA

Joseph A. Moore, of Milledgeville, Is Elected President of Association

With the election of officers the Georgia Funeral Directors' association ended its two days' session at the Piedmont hotel Thursday.

The new officers are Joseph A. Moore, Milledgeville, president; Albert Goetz, Savannah, president-elect; George W. Stearns, Griffin, secretary-treasurer; H. Patterson, Atlanta, delegate to the national convention of funeral directors, Savannah was selected as the meeting place of the association in June, 1915.

Resolutions of thanks to the Atlanta newspapers, to the Piedmont hotel, to the ladies who sang at the sessions, to the committee in charge of the banquets of the sanitary department of the city to which the delegates were invited (Wednesday) were adopted.

The meeting Thursday morning was called to order at 9 o'clock by President C. L. Stevenson. Rev. W. R. Hendrix pronounced the invocation, after which Miss Oppenheimer sang.

James F. Mackey, of Greenville, S. C., addressed the association on "What does association membership stand for?" This was followed by an address by Claude M. Smith, city bacteriologist, on "The necessity for autopsies."

Grandson of Fred Douglass
Comes to South to Collect
Melodies of His People

The grandson of Fred Douglass came to the South to collect melodies of his people. He is Joseph Douglass, a violinist, and he is now in the South to collect melodies of his people. He is a violinist, and he is now in the South to collect melodies of his people.

He was Joseph Douglass, recognized as the most famous negro violinist in the world, who is touring the south with the object of collecting and classifying the folk songs of his race. "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," the melodies of Stephen Collins Foster, the old state songs and all the other wistful lyrics of the South are his special favorites, and which are rapidly becoming famous for their sweetness and simplicity the world over.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, forty years ago, Joseph Douglass at the age of fourteen had begun to play the violin. In this he was encouraged by the old man, his grandfather, and by the time he was twenty was given the opportunity to study under the best masters of New York and Europe.

For ten years he has been known throughout the United States as a real violinist, a master. He holds a professorship in Howard university, an institution controlled by the United States government in Washington.

He has played in the Boston symphony orchestra, he has played before two presidents, McKinley and Taft. He has made his career successful.

And yet, with all, Joseph Douglass has made his home in the South. He has been in the South for ten years, and he has been in the South for ten years, and he has been in the South for ten years.

It is for that he is in the South. His presence in Atlanta was due to chance. He stopped here on his way to Alabama to have repaired a $1,000 violin, 180 years old, a genuine Steiner. When Mrs. Douglass, whose home shop on Peachtree he entered Thursday morning, asked him to play while the violin was being repaired he was willing enough.

His audience is drawn. So while he waits carefully restringing the old fiddle in one corner of the shop, Joseph Douglass sat in another, softly playing the songs of his people. First one and then another of the tenants of the building stepped quietly into the room until, at the end of the hour, "Swanee Ribbons" hung sweet for a moment in the dim little shop. Joseph Douglass looked up to find he was playing to an audience.

They would not let him stop and so he smiled and played them over and over again. "Old Black and White," "Hard Times Come Again No More," "Old Black and White," one after the other, all the morning.

He told them that he might come back to Atlanta for a real concert later in the summer, in July perhaps, and there are many who heard him Thursday who will not fail to hear him should he play here again.

That You May Know the Wonderful Sonora Phonograph

We have arranged a splendid "Introductory" Sale beginning tomorrow.

$25 Model and $9 $31.50 Record Cabinet for $3.00 at Purchase, $3.00 a Month

It is a really remarkable machine; one that brings the utmost value for the money.

It is the only enclosed machine at its price.

It has the exclusive Sonora tone modifier, in addition to the time modifier; it plays any record made, and is equipped with the sapphire needle necessary for the French records. And still the best of the machine is not told—its tone is superb. It reproduces without mechanical sounds the shadings and the quality of the record.

And this machine in golden oak, together with the 32-inch high record cabinet, which holds one hundred sixty-five 10 or 12-inch records, makes a much finer appearance than the price would indicate—the machine being enclosed.

You who had planned to spend more for a phonograph do well to look into this special offer.

Remnants of Wash Goods

The Selling Starts at Nine o'clock and all the Counter Space on Wash Goods Aisle Is Given Over to Them for the Morning

Such is the quality of remnants!

They have accumulated very fast here of late. This can be explained by the fact that along in May we went to New York and bought wash goods at prices far below their worth, and we have been selling them the same way. Often a full piece of one day has become a remnant by the next. Now for the disposal of the accumulations at

Savings of a Half to a Third

And our advice is that whatever your wash goods needs may be test this sale out! The most desirable fabrics get into these sales and there are lengths for every purpose, varying from two to four and a half yards

For instance among the white goods are:

Lawn, piques, crepes, dimities, Persian lawns, India linons, linen lawns, Irish linens, French linens, linen sheetings, voiles.

Among the colored goods are:

Linen suitings, voiles, crepes, galateas, ginghams, kimono crepes, suitings, shirtings, poplins, mulls, ducks, tickings, sheetings.

Specials in Wash Goods on Sale at 2 o'clock

The remnant sale for the morning, and in the afternoon what is left of the remnants and these specials.

The reason for this is that the remnants will require all the display space in the morning but by two o'clock we shall "consolidate" what remains and add—

25c White Check Dimities, 27 inches wide, at 15c

20c Union Linen, in green and cream, 36 inches wide, at 10c

15c Brown Linen, all linen, 27 inches wide, at 10c

15c White Suitings, 34 inches wide, at 10c

12 1/2c White Checked Dimities, 27 inches wide, at 8c

12 1/2c Checked Gingham, brown, 27 inches wide, at 8c

Sales Continued

Silk Remnants—savings of one-half and more.

Sterling Silver Ware—savings of one-half or near it on sets and pieces particularly fine for wedding gifts.

Millinery—traveling hats at $2.50 to $5.00, worth two and three times their present prices.

Rugs—$25.00 Axminster Rugs $19.90; $47.50 Wilton Rugs $35; $60.00 Wilton Rugs $47.50; all 9x12 feet.

Curtains—odd pairs in one, two, three to six pairs of a pattern at a reduction of one-third. Etamines, voiles and Nets, a host of patterns.

Dresses—late purchases of smart styles in summery dresses at savings—making one of the most timely opportunities it has been our good fortune to offer.

ALUMNI ACTIVE IN GREATER TECH CAMPAIGN

From Class of '92 to Baby Class of '14, Members Are Determined on Success

From the class of '92 to the "baby class" of '14, the alumni of Georgia Tech are actively at work on the campaign for Greater Tech, and are determined to do their part toward bringing the campaign to a successful termination.

From the classes of '92 and '98 and from every class which has graduated from Tech since '92, active committees, who have bound themselves for a subscription from their respective classes are at work with the committee of business men, and are putting the same enthusiasm into the campaign that they put in their undergraduate days for the raising of a football or baseball game.

The manufacturers who have made the donation of $100,000 to the Greater Tech fund conditional upon the success of the $100,000 campaign in Atlanta have been convinced by the progress of the campaign in Atlanta that success is assured, and have begun the shipment of the valuable machinery and apparatus in order that there may be no delay in the erection of the power plant and other buildings which are the campaign goal has been completed.

A much appreciated subscription of $100 was received Wednesday afternoon from the Southern Bell company, and by J. F. Dickinson, president, of Chamber, Mass. Mr. Dickinson was formerly a well known Atlantaian.

Phineas Varman Stephens, who will be superintendent of the building of the plant, has been advised that three cars of the machinery have been shipped already. Very nearly half of the fund to be raised has already been subscribed.

YOUNG REAL ESTATE MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Mr. H. C. Bailey, a well known young real estate dealer, dropped dead Wednesday shortly before noon at his home in Kirkwood. He was twenty-seven years of age.

Since coming to Atlanta about two years ago, Mr. Bailey has been engaged in the real estate business with J. C. Galloway under the firm name of Bailey & Galloway. He has made a number of friends throughout the city. He is survived by his widow, his mother, A. H. Bailey, Atlanta, J. H. Bailey, Pineville, Ky.; P. L. Bailey, Key West, Fla., and E. A. Bailey, San Antonio, Tex., one sister, Miss Frances Bailey, three aunts Mrs. M. H. Bailey and Mrs. E. H. Bailey both of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. Wabot of Chattanooga.

The funeral service will be conducted Thursday afternoon from Barclay & Bradford's chapel. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

SHRINERS GO THE LIMIT WHEN PRAISING ATLANTA

Here's an Example Anent Forrest Adair and His "Gift of $50,000"

Those Shriners who were here from the whole continent last month are feeling so good over the reception Atlanta gave them that their praises of the town and its people are being sung with flattering extravagance. Any statement goes, apparently. Nothing is too lavish.

A bulletin issued by Zem Zem temple, Erie, Pa., announcing a ceremonial to be held next Thursday, brings the startling information, for instance, that Forrest Adair gave $50,000 personally to equip the patrol and drum corps of Yarnah temple.

"That just goes to prove what I've been saying all along," said Mr. Adair Thursday, when he was charged with blinding facts from the homefolk. Those chaps don't mind what they say about us. They are simply ignorant. Of course I didn't give $50,000 or any other sum to equip Yarnah drum corps or patrol. The drum corps was uniformed out of the Shrine fund that Atlanta gave, and the nobles of the patrol took care of themselves. The Zem Zem's publication says "Atlanta is a wonderful city, new and alert." It quotes J. Harry Lewis' assertion in the June "Crescent."

"There were enough drums in Atlanta to put the whole Mexican army on the march faster than the Texas manufacture in a year, and sufficient nobility to satisfy every American business man the Dutch bought Manhattan island."

DECATUR PLANS BOOM WITH PICTURE POSTALS

The Decatur board of trade is urging the people of Decatur the importance of advertising the town by means of post cards. For that and a variety of new post cards of attractive features of the town, such as various views of Agnes Scott college, court house square, and residence scenes, have been put on sale to various places in Atlanta and in Decatur, and the citizens of the town are being urged to all join in a co-operative effort to send at least 10,000 of these cards to their friends in every part of the country on Saturday June 20. President W. J. Dabney and Secretary H. C. W. Hancock have issued circulars not only to the members of the board of trade itself, but to the citizens generally to join in this movement. The Dekalo News Era is lending its assistance and the town will undoubtedly get a large amount of favorable advertising from this effort.

BASS DRY GOODS CO. TO HAVE MAMMOTH SALE

Greatest of All Clearance Sales in Concern's History to Begin Saturday

The biggest of all the annual clearance sales they have held in the past twenty years is expected by officers of the Bass Dry Goods company, whose yearly event in Atlanta's trade calendar will start Saturday and last nine days. The larger stock than ever before will be offered. L. B. Joel, secretary and treasurer of the company, has been in New York for the past week, shipping the final consignments for the sale.

The store of the company will not open Saturday until 1 p. m. when other stores will be closing for the half holiday.

Beginning at that hour, and hourly thereafter until 10:30 o'clock, special features in stated numbers or quantities will be put on the counters at prices below actual cost. The company's announcement in other columns sets forth in detail these quite extraordinary inducements, revealing prices that have been cut to an irreducible minimum. Ten of these features will be offered Saturday. On Monday new like acknowledgments of their customers' patronage.

"Our preparations for the sale have been really extensive," said Claude L. Sharwell, manager of the company Thursday. "If there is any of that 'psychological depression' or any other kind of depression in business, we don't know anything about it. Things are humming with us."

Kosciusko—"The Greatest of the Poles"

NEVER in the history of mankind has there lived a more ardent lover of Personal and National Liberty. He fought with intrepid valor under our own Washington for American Liberty. He devoted his life to regain the ancient freedom of his beloved Poland. Kosciusko hated any legislative attempt which invaded the Natural Rights of Man. If he were alive to-day, every son of Poland knows that he would revolt at any LAW which declared: "Thou shalt NOT eat this thou shalt NOT drink that." Kosciusko knew that the light wines of his native land and the barley brews of Germany were good for mankind when used in moderation. He drank them himself to the end of his honored days, and who will DARE say that they in any way injured this mighty personality. For 57 years Anheuser-Busch have honestly brewed honest beers. Their great brand—BUDWEISER—is sold throughout the world and has helped the cause of true Temperance. Silverware of Rare Artistry For This Year's Bride Brides of this year are the recipients of time's most wonderful and beautiful designs in silverware.

Craftsmen in silver often seek inspiration among the masterpieces of olden times--yet it requires art of the highest order to reproduce such designs with the delicacy and truth of the originals.

Silversmiths have achieved almost beyond their own highest conceptions for this season's gifts, and the world's best productions are gathered here in the Haynes jewel cabinets for your inspection.

In view of our large sales and extreme care and skill in buying, the cost of these rare articles is within the reach of moderate means.

WEDDINGS

Cowan-Carroll

The wedding of Miss Claudia Carroll and Mr. Hubert Knight Cowan was a pretty event of Wednesday evening. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George Matheson, on Peachtree road.

The attractive home was decorated throughout with baskets of pink and white sweet peas and roses, which showed against a background of ferns and palms.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. B. P. Robertson, and the wedding party consisted of Miss George Matheson, matron of honor; Miss Annie Lou Hunter, bridesmaid; Mrs. George Matheson, good, Mrs. L. R. Brewer, Mrs. H. C. Haygood and Miss Cassie Hunter, ring-bearers; little Miss Mildred Matheson and Miss Ruth Cassie, flower girls; and Mr. Robert Cowan, best man.

The bride made a lovely picture in her wedding robe of white crepe material with little veil edged with princess lace. Her flowers were bride roses and valley lilies.

The maid of honor wore pink chiffon over silk, and carried roses. The matron of honor was gown in white crepe and her flowers were white roses. The flower girls wore white lingerie dresses and pink nosegays, and carried baskets of pink roses.

Punch as served by Miss Leonora Sater and Miss Corrie Hunter, and Miss Estelle Sater kept the bride's book.

Assisting in the ceremony were Mrs. W. C. Peavy, Mrs. J. L. Hannett, Mrs. T. H. Walker, Mrs. W. B. Carroll, Mrs. E. L. Walters, Mrs. W. B. Cox, Mrs. L. K. Walker and Mrs. M. A. Slater.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowan will be at home at 191 Pulliam street.

Johnson-Edmondson

The pretty wedding of Miss Louis Edmondson, of Palatka, Fla., and Mr. Joseph W. Johnson, of Valdosta, took place Wednesday evening, at noon, at the summer home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Edmondson, near Atlanta.

Miss Lillian Caldwell, of Orlando, Fla., was maid of honor and Mr. P. L. Johnson, of Macon, was best man.

The bride was gown in a dark blue traveling suit of faille silk, with hat of the same shade, trimmed in gossamer, and her flowers were valley lilies.

Miss Caldwell was attractive in white French crepe with ash and white pin carnations.

Miss Edmondson was gown in blue tulle and lace.

Rev. J. W. Haskell and Mrs. J. M. Edmondson served punch.

Rev. J. F. Purser performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for an extended trip East and will make their future home in Valdosta.

Hunt-Jones

MADISON.—An event of Wednesday morning was the marriage of Miss Matie Hunt, of Madison, to Mr. Frank Jones, of Atlanta, which took place at 10 o'clock at the Methodist church.

The bride was gown in white, and the groom in a suit of gray. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. Thompson, officiating.

Miss Allen Jones, of Atlanta, was best man and Miss Frankie Jones was maid of honor.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Harry Runye and the bridesmaid was Miss Hattie Hunt, both of Atlanta.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hunt left for their home in Atlanta.

Robertson-Jones

DALTON, June 18.—The marriage of Miss Annie Jones and Mr. Dyer Robertson took place Wednesday evening at the First Methodist church.

The bride wore a gown of blue with white trim and carried a bouquet of white hydrangeas and lilies.

The attendants were Miss Lois Edwards, maid of honor, wearing a gown of white lace with bouquet of white carnations; Miss Allen Folger, Miss Kate Harlan, Miss Nell Wright, Miss Florence Baker, Miss F. M. Jones, Miss Annie and Miss Mary D. Erwin, bridesmaids, who wore frocks of white tulle with girdles of white satin and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Vernon Robertson, best man, and Mr. Ralph Dyer, of Atlanta, were ring-bearers.

Mr. Lorine Kelly, Mr. Frank Wrentham, Mr. Robert Deakin, Mr. James McFarland and Mr. Sam Olbert, groomsmen.

The bride wore a suit of blue with a blouse of white embroidered voile and her hat was of hemp, trimmed in blue velvet ribbon and white tulle. Her bouquet was of bride roses and maiden-hair fern.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. K. Post.

Layton-Wells

WAYCROSS.—The marriage of Miss Edna Wells to Mr. Charles Layton was solemnized on Monday evening, June 15, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wells, the pastor, Dr. C. H. B. Turner, officiating.

The bride wore a traveling suit of blue with hat to match and carried valley lilies.

After a trip through North Carolina and South Carolina Mr. and Mrs. Layton will make their home here.

Modern Methods Are Best
Mammy now uses Calumet Baking Powder instead of sour milk and soda, or the cheap and big-can kind, because it is more convenient--because she knows from experience that the baking will be lighter, daintier and more uniformly raised--that it will keep fresh longer.
Calumet is certain of good results--it is purer and more wholesome than the cheap big-can kind, and more economical in the end.
Give Calumet one trial! If it fails to give you absolute satisfaction return it and get your money back. If you don't get Calumet you don't get the best.

loan on policies at the end of the year amounted to over $8,000,000; 14 1-2 per cent of the total assets of the company.

According to its statement the company has a better record than the big companies.

The companies are quite right in asking policy holders to refrain from making claims on their policies. Making a claim on a policy act as you know is a mighty expensive way to get your money.

Just as the Insurance Company ought not to be considered a safe investment in the ordinary sense, the most profitable method of saving your money is the same way it should not be.

If life insurance has any merit it lies in its value as a measure. It is a good way to against possible loss of life or in the future, so far as you is concerned. The whole business and figured out with the fact that the company sells insurance. They are not the best at handling your investments; they do nearly as well (through representatives) as the savings banks think of them as depositaries of savings.

But because you can borrow

...and the real value for a policy-holder is the money at 5 or 6 per cent minimum of "red tape" you are tied (about one in five of you) meant to do when you took policy.

A lot of you who borrow on policies are never able to repay
This means that you have a theory that you owe some protection to the women and children of your family; you have enlisted an army of fatalists who say:

"Live today and let tomorrow
care of itself!"

LAWLER INCREASES

IN RACE FOR CON

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 13.—Returns today from Minnesota show primary election results.
