The bill will be controlled by the director of the experiment station, and will be under the supervision of the agricultural school and the commissioner of agriculture, through local trustees and managers in each congressional district.

"Unless we do something along this line we cannot derive any benefit from the Smith-Lever bill which recently passed Congress," said Dr. Lewis. "It would cost thousands of dollars for the benefit of our agricultural interests if we do not do something along this line."

FORSYTH

Forsyth Offers Hot Weather
Vaudeville and Fans - Pictures at the Grand-New Bill
at Bijou

An ideal summertime vaudeville program will be offered this week at the Forsyth. The management has chosen seven distinctive types of the best quality in vaudeville to make up the bill and with headliners and features that are for the most part the cream of the present available talent. It appears that the show will be far superior to some of the recent offerings and right up to the highest standard of regular mid-season.

Miss Emma Carus, the famous musical comedy star, was booked on Saturday to headline the bill. This star is one of the greatest in all vaudeville. She is one of the highest talented women in vaudeville, and in regular season is always at the head of some of the big musical shows that stay at home on Broadway. She has just closed her season with "A Broadway Melodrama" and has been induced to take a few selected weeks in high class vaudeville before her vacation ahead of the opening of next season. She has joined hands with Carl Randall, one of the cleverest singing and dancing comedians in vaudeville, and will have an act that will be one of the big events of the summer season.

Miss Carus is distinctly unique and she is original. Her last appearance in Atlanta was two years ago when she appeared with one of the great musical comedy successes and it is a matter of record that she won the honors of the evening. With Mr. Randall the attractive woman will sing and dance, and offer new ideas in laugh winning.

The return of Maud Muller and Ed Stanley means a real treat. Maud Muller is the best of all the scenic female comedians on the stage. She is a genuine comedienne and a vocalist of splendid ability. Ed Stanley is a character comedian in a class by himself. The team has been headlining exclusive bills all season and were secured as special features of this season. Miss Letzel, a beautiful girl, possessing a superb figure, will present her famous aerial specialty assisted by Jeanette. This act is conceded to be the very best of its kind in the vaudeville profession. It is wonderfully sensational and wonderful interesting. Suzanne Rocamora will meet old friends. The pretty singing and dancing woman was once a member of the Bijou Musical Comedy company and has made new friends with a series of exclusive songs, the kind that she has been singing at the exclusive cabarets in and around New York. Miss Rocamora has been in vaudeville now long enough to reach feature honors. Jesse L. Lasky has contributed original songs and a talent of local theatergoers a little in "Eloping" has promised a new in a musical act. There are four people in the little company and two of them made up as a horse will surely have something to do with the comedy honors of the bill. Fred Jarvis and Frederick Harrison, "the fellow, the girl and the bench," will offer new songs and funny sayings and Lieutenant Eldridge with a series of odd pictures and a talk about the Mexican war, will complete the bill.

Willis Holt Wakefield, the original pianist, will headline the musical part for the week of July 5. Miss Wakefield is an Atlanta girl and has been more than successful in high class vaudeville. Will Rogers, the funny cowboy comedian who acted so well at the Forsyth some seasons ago and who was last seen here with the Blanche Rice company at the Atlanta, will be on the same bill.

On the heels of the triumphant success of "Brewster's Millions," a Jesse Lasky production which packed the packed houses last week, the Grand Theater has succeeded in booking the biggest of Lasky films, "The Only Son," the appealing stage story that has just closed a remarkable career on Broadway.

The play was written by Winchell Smith, author of "Brewster's Millions." The role of the only son is portrayed by Thomas W. Ross, the noted actor, who created the original character. The picture is in five reels.

The story of "The Only Son" is intensely with human appeal. "The Only Son" is a struggling prospector, strikes gold after many years of struggling. Going to New York with his family, he becomes instant influence in the financial world. The son, Thomas, Jr., burdened with wealth, lives the wild life of a spend-thrift. The mother leads a life of fast luxury. She meets an artist, for whom she sits, and who falls in love with her.

"The Only Son" will be the Grand's offering for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The revolution Grand pictures will prevail. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday comes "Captain Alvarez," a Vignaph all-star attraction which has just closed a fascinating run at the Vignaph theater in New York, where it gained the reputation of one of the largest Vignaph productions of the year.

"Captain Alvarez" is an exciting war drama. Its all-star cast includes Julia Swany Gordon, Anita Stewart, Harry T. Morey and Gladden James. It is said to be far better than even "Million Bid," the stupendous attraction which created such widespread talk during its run at the Grand two weeks past.

The Grand has also booked the new Pathé News service, which has been issued daily. There will be a change of Pathé films each performance, showing all the news of the day in pictures within the six or eight minutes of occurrence. Miss Jesse Houston will share the bill in topical songs.

"THE FACTORY GIRL" AT THE BIJOU.

The Jewell Kelley company announces for its fourth week, beginning Monday afternoon, the four-act labor play entitled "The Factory Girl." The cast of characters will be as follows: Frank Barton, Vernon Wallace, Count Harlan, Russell Hampton, Ben Thomas, T. C. McDonough, Gabriel Flint, C. J. Lamore, Daniel Harrington, Lee Harvey, Tommy Tucker, Earl Higley, Ed Parry, W. C. Nash, Judge Carter, Nor Laidlaw, Mrs. Bentley and Miss Clark, Miss Margaret Rossell, Mrs. McElroy, Helen Jackson, Mrs. Gabriel Flint, Miss Kate Vernon, Panny Brown, Miss Rose Morris, Marian Thomas, Florence Phoebe.

The story of the play carries the spectator from the work shop of Gabriel Flint, then into a room in Maria's flat, then in act third to the Marlowe mission with its rich furnishings, and then finally in act fourth to the interesting police court scene, where the hero finally gets justice and everything ends happily. In its interesting plot and clever character studies, "The Factory Girl" is quite as good a play as "The Paradox," one of the strongest labor plays that has ever been furnished the stage. It is replete with dramatic incidents, sensational episodes, and the various characters have been drawn with a keen insight into the lives of America's working people. The play is very different from anything that has ever been presented by the Jewell Kelley company and it is anticipated that it will be a big success.

KAMPER TO OPEN PURE FOOD DEPARTMENT STORE

Public Invited to Call Wednesday Evening and Get Acquainted with Innovation

An innovation in Atlanta and the south—a "Pure Food Department Store"—will be opened to the public Wednesday afternoon and evening. As unlike an old-fashioned corner grocery as it would be possible to make a store in which groceries are sold, is the new and handsomely fitted building at Peachtree and Linden streets, which has just been completed and will be occupied by Kamper's Pure Food Department Store.

Modern business methods, attractiveness and convenience are the prime objects which are carried out in the new store.

The new idea is rather a striking departure from the corner grocery, in which profits were expected from holding down expense in equipment. The new store has the best and most modern equipment possible to obtain, and the profits of the business are expected to come from increased efficiency in handling the orders of the customers.

The main salariness of the store will be devoted entirely to selling. As far as is possible, waste will be eliminated, and the management of the store hopes to reap from efficiency and system far more than has been spent in securing these things.

DUST AND AIR SHUT OUT.

Every article that is offered for sale in the new store will be protected from the dust and air. All perishable goods will be displayed in refrigerator showcases. A refrigerating system, which will produce the same cold produced by the melting of sixteen tons of ice each day, has been installed to take care of these, as well as of the slight-colded storehouses which may be kept at any temperature which is desirable. Twelve clerks will do nothing in the new store but take telephone orders.

The Southern Bell Telephone company has designed a special switchboard for the new store whereby the telephone clerk may speak with any department at the same time he is talking with the customer. Twenty trunk lines enter the store.

The manner in which telephone orders are handled is novel as well as efficient. Special carrier systems go from the central telephone clerks to the department departments. An order which comes in over the telephone is divided on special slips into an order for each department which is handled by the carrier system immediately. The order is assembled in the delivery room as quickly as can be purchased could be made.

An automobile garage, complete with repair shop, is located in the rear of the building. Six automobile trucks and twenty wagons take care of the deliveries.

In the show window for perishable foods in the front of the building is an unusual sign. The refrigerating case or part of it has been bent into the word "Kamper's." This will be covered with a coating of frost an inch thick at all times.

It will make small difference with the new store whether groceries are in season or out of it for with the splendid refrigeration system any goods may be kept without deterioration and almost in any quantity.

GOODS OF HIGH QUALITY. The equipment of the store is too valuable to waste on anything but the highest quality of goods according to Mr. Kamper, and it is one of the efficiency ideas that only the highest quality of goods shall be handled.

The efficiency of the store has been obtained by attention to details of its arrangements and management. For an instance, the bakery is directly over the department in the salesroom, devoted to bakery products, and with it a dumb waiter. The result is that time is saved and less labor in handling these products.

The assembly room for orders is in the delivery room. This saves waste of time and effort in carrying the orders from one part of the building to the other.

The main salariness of the store will be finished in fumed oak and white enameled tiling. The refrigerator showcases will be of plate glass and white enamel. The front of the store is finished in white tile.

The offices of the store will be on a mezzanine floor extending over the salesroom. The public has been invited to attend the opening on Wednesday afternoon from 5 until 9 o'clock.

KELLEY AND M'CORD TO SEEK RE-ELECTION
Second Ward Alderman and Councilman Put in Race by Citizens' Delegation

A delegation of Second ward citizens yesterday waited on Alderman Charles H. Kelley and Councilman J. L. McCord, of that ward, and persuaded them to stand for re-election in the city primary next fall.

With the Georgia avenue extension unfinished, the South Pryor street road about to commence and the southeastern exposition at Lakewood fairly projected, the Second ward people feel a continuance of the service of these officials will be to the best interests of all concerned, and that to change them for others would be "swapping horses in the middle of the stream."

Councilman McCord is serving the unexpired term of Councilman Thomas J. Lynch, who resigned, and Alderman Kelley is serving the unexpired term of the late Alderman John E. McClelland, who also resigned.

In the primary they will be candidates for the full terms, the councilman term being two years and the alderman term being three years.

NEGRO MADE REGULAR ARSENAL OF HIS HOME
But, Alas! He Must Tell the Judge Where He Got All Those Guns

A regular arsenal was discovered in the home of Will Brantley, colored, at 125 Murray street, when city detectives searched it yesterday afternoon following their arrest of Klinton Decatur street. The goods were identified as having been stolen from Kline & Jacob's pawn shop, 22 Decatur street, last Monday night, and Will was held for burglary.

Four shotguns, three rifles and three pistols were found by Detective Wagner and Doyall after they had arrested Will as a suspect in connection with the robbery. Also they found two raincoats and six suits of clothes, these, too, being identified by the pawnbrokers.

NEW CLUB HOUSE AT EAST LAKE; DETAILED EXPENDITURES ON $1,400,000 COURTHOUSE; OTHER REAL ESTATE COMMENT

The above illustration shows the new clubhouse at East Lake as it will look when it is completed. The plans are by Hents & Reid, the architects.

The detailed cost has not yet been announced. Construction will be started shortly, and it will take about the balance of the year to complete the work.

The style is English, and the exterior will be finished in open timber, plaster and brick with a red tile roof. The color scheme will be red, brown and gray.

The English effect will be heightened by casement windows. There will be a porte cochere, with a small porch for pedestrian entrance. There will be private entrances for men and women to the lockers.

The living room will be large, 35x54, and will face the entrance. There will be a great fireplace, and the main stairs will be on the left of the living room. The hall room, which will be on a level lower than the living room, will be one story high and will have a high ceiling. The band stand will be between the living and the ball rooms, thus furnishing music to both. Adjacent to the passage between the ball room and the living room there will be a ladies' sitting room.

On the right of the living room will be the dining and grill rooms, and behind them the serving pantry and kitchen.

Off the dining room, on the west end of the club, there will be a large sitting porch with a terrace. From the ball room, toward the south there will be a sitting porch twenty feet wide, and from this, toward the lake, two large, open paved terraces for outdoor diners.

The manager's office will be between the serving pantry and the living room, so that, from this central location, he can see all members entering the club and control the service. The pantry will serve everything directly.

In the basement, Stewart Maiden, the golf instructor, will have his office, this being only three steps below the natural level. Golf players will keep their stocks here. The rest of the basement will be used to store fuel, for the heating plant, for general storage, for locker rooms for servants and the servants' dining room. There will also be the laundry and cleaning room and two small rooms for chauffeurs, accessible from the exterior only.

Men will have one side of the second floor and women the other. The men's locker room, containing 600 lockers, will be on the right. Their lounge room will be accessible by private stairways as well as by the corridor to the main stairway. There will be a dumb waiter direct to the serving pantry, as well as shower baths and a drying and linen room.

On the other end the ladies will have their resting room and locker rooms. The latter also have a private staircase, and there is a bathroom, with showers, tub and foot baths, with dressing rooms.

The manager's bedroom will be adjacent to the main stairway. There will be a system of intercommunicating telephones. Special attention will be given to the heating plant. There will be a large and a small bath, each provided with turning heat lockers, rooms when it is not so enough to accommodate heat for the building.

A metal chute will carry down from the locker rooms to the basement, and another chute will take garbage from the kitchen.

Unlike the old building, which was destroyed by fire, the new one will have no sleeping quarters for members.

NEW COURTHOUSE WILL COST $1,400,000; ORIGINAL ESTIMATE WAS ABOUT $886,000

Fulton County Board Issues Detailed Statement of Expenditures, Contracts and Appropriations From Start and Including the May Payrolls

Original Scope of Building Found to Be Too Small for Needs of County, Explanation Made—Expenditure Already Over a Million Dollars

There has been already spent on the new Fulton county court house, including the May pay rolls, the sum of $1,065,276.72, and the balance due on contracts let is $334,668.32. This will make the total cost of the building a little over $1,400,000, provided no extra incidentals have to be paid for.

It was originally estimated that the cost would be around $886,000. The county board explains the increase by the fact that the scope of the original building was found not to be great enough for the county's needs. One of the extra needs was quarters for the municipal court, for which no provision was made in the original estimate.

The board has just compiled a list, which follows below, of the various expenditures, which include an expense of $75,758.49 incurred before the building was even started when the various offices had to be moved to the city hall and Throver buildings.

The necessary money was obtained from four tax levies, three loans from Atlanta banks, the sale of purchase money notes and other re-

ACTIVITY SHOWN IN NEW FIVE POINTS

OWNERS INTERESTED IN SHINGLE ORDINANCE

New Law Would Require Non-Combustible Material All Over City

Owners of property and renting agents are much interested in the recommendation of the board of firemasters that an ordinance be passed prohibiting shingle roofs inside the city.

In a recent report of the National Fire Underwriters' association shingle roofs got the blame for a large proportion of fires in Atlanta, and it was suggested then that the fire limits be extended.

The abolishment of such roofs, it is pointed out, would result in a reduced insurance rate and less fire loss, and less cost in the operation of the fire department.

Shingle roofs are particularly dangerous when they become old, for then sparks lodge in them and the fire is not discovered until it has gained considerable headway.

FAIR MIGHT LEAD TO ESTABLISHMENT OF PARK

Much Interest Felt by Real Estate People in Lakewood Plan

Aside from its value as a great exposition exploiting the entire south-east, the proposed fair at Lakewood might lead to the establishment of another great city park, the fair building and improvements being retained. The city owns 400 acres at Lakewood, including the lake, and no finer park property exists around the city. In its present comparatively undeveloped shape it is one of the most popular city resorts.

The holding of a fair there would result in the erection of many buildings, considerable landscape engineering, and a great deal of general development.

The exposition, followed by the establishment of the park, would result in a large real estate development in that vicinity similar to that which went on around Grant Park.

Building Tires of "Watchful Waiting"

In one respect business has tired of watchful waiting. Construction News reports a general growth in projected building in May. A 672 per cent increase in Dayton is a flood sequel. A 530 per cent increase in Colorado Springs might mean one large building. But a million more in the month in Boston and old New York county, 27 and 13 per cent respectively, and an increase of two millions, or 50 per cent, in Philadelphia, are practical facts with a "psychological" bearing.

—New York World.

Connally Building to Be Started October 1

Work on the Connally building at Whitehall and Peachtree streets will be started on October 1, according to an announcement of Thomas Connally. The building had not been started on the site, but it will contain or shortly be ready for occupancy. It will be a four-story building, and it will be constructed of brick.

It is very probable, however, that the structure will contain certain stories. Special attention will be given to the first and second floors, which will be given over to retail business. There will be space there has already been made.

Two new office buildings are already scheduled for this year. The other one of the Arnold and Hill building which will replace the old city hall. The two will cost over a million.

PUTTING A NEW PAVEMENT ON WHITEHALL

The picture shows the city forces at work on the new pavement on Whitehall street south of Mitchell. After many delays, work was actually started last Monday and rapidly pushed during the week. The improvement means much to merchants on this stretch of thoroughfare which for a long time had been practically impassable.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

WITH the end of June society has closed its doors to all formality and many of its members have departed for a summer vacation. The society columns are filled with the departure of those seeking rest and diversion at seashore resort, mountain-side hotel and the quiet country. There are those, however, who have chosen to stay at home, quietly passing the long, sleepy days, enjoying close at home the summer rest that others go far to seek.

There are as many ways to spend the summer vacation as there are places to spend it. There are those who go solely to "get away." They have luxurious summer homes in New York, Long Island, Massachusetts or Maine, where the salt water flows as freely in their bath-rooms as it does in the coasts at the edge of their grounds, where twenty guests can be entertained in as brilliant and costly manner as in their town homes. Those who have no summer homes go to the fashionable hotels at Atlantic City or Bar Harbor. Then there is always a group of professional people who find a rest in a change of places, but who continue their studies or vocations. They go to the large cities of the United States and Europe, where they can study under the great teachers or enter into personal contact with people of professional prominence. They want to be where they can visit art galleries, the libraries, the places of learning and the historic landmarks.

To House Party Guests

Mrs. E. L. Wright, Jr., entertained at a pretty bridge luncheon Wednesday in compliment to her guests, Mrs. W. A. Perkins, of Americus; Mrs. Carver Dixon, of Richmond, and Mrs. H. L. Anthony, of Hurtado, Ala.

In the living room, where the game was played, the decorations were of palms and ferns, with vases of yellow blossoms. The prizes were silk hose and a piece of hand-made lingerie. The house guests were each given a piece of hand-made china.

In the dining room, where the guests were seated at a round table, the centerpiece was a large cut glass vase of pink carnations, and the cakes, ices, mints and other color details were in pink. Mrs. Wright wore a gown of white imported crepe; Mrs. Anthony, green taffeta, made popular effect, with lace vest, finished with a touch of pink. Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Perkins were both gowned in white.

Invited to meet the house guests were Mrs. Frank Steinhilber, Mrs. Albert Harrell, Mrs. Charles Stough, Mrs. C. E. Wall, Mrs. E. L. Wright, Jr. and her guest, Mrs. N. J. Cruger, of Albany, Ga.; Miss Maude Rolleston, Mrs. Milner Lafayette, Mrs. L. B. Beers and Mrs. J. N. Kalish.

Bridge Party to Visitors

Miss Marie Watson entertained at bridge at her home in Tuman Park Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Ethel Smith, of Carrollton, Miss Lorraine Taylor, of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Daisie Barrett, of Clarkston, the guests of Miss Watson.

The guests present were Miss Estelle Barrett, Miss Lorraine Taylor, Miss Ethel Smith, Miss Rudine Becht, Miss Vivian Clyburn, Miss Beale Tappan, Miss Minnie Wood, Miss Ruth Cain, Miss Emma Griffin, Mrs. King and Mrs. Ison.

Miss Watson was assisted by Mrs. King, Mrs. Ison, and Mrs. Watson.

Shower to Bride-Elect

Mrs. John C. Reese entertained at a musical shower Tuesday at her home on Paula Place in compliment to Miss Beale Cunyus, a bride-elect.

A guessing contest was enjoyed, the prize for which was a cut glass vase, won by Mrs. C. E. Wall. The consolation prize, a silver hat pin, was won by Mrs. E. L. Wright, Jr. The drawing room and parlor were decorated with pink carnations, and the center of the table was adorned with a bride's bouquet of bride's roses and white lilies.

For Diamonds--- Perfect Diamonds. Particular Buyers Turn to Haynes

Few people KNOW diamonds. They are usually bought on "faith"—faith in the integrity of the salesman and the HOUSE.

It is such unshaken faith in our old-fashioned business honor which a few days ago led the purchaser of an expensive diamond to say: "I am buying this diamond on confidence. I don't know diamonds, but I do know you."

It pays to deal only with a house of unquestioned integrity in a matter of such importance as the purchase of a diamond.

It pays to buy at Haynes'. You can buy a diamond of us as you would your home, pay one-fifth cash and the other in ten equal monthly payments.

Express package sent prepaid anywhere on approval.

Rome Bride Shown Many Courtesies

ROME.—A number of beautiful personal courtesies have been shown Miss Bessie Treadway and her visiting guests for her wedding, which occurred Wednesday evening, the 24th.

Among the affairs was a morning shower for the bride to be Monday at the lovely home of Miss Frances Keadle, including the out-of-town guests, Miss Annie Lee Baker, of Gadsden, and Miss Carrie May Bennett, of Cleveland, Tenn., and Florrie Davidson, of Monticello.

Also a delightful occasion was the contest party tendered the bride to be in Miss Annie May Simmons Monday afternoon. The house decorations were summer garden fete. The souvenir presented by hostess to the bride to be was a silver picture, "The Bride Addressing the Last Touch to Her Wedding Gown."

Another interesting party for Miss Treadway and guests was given by Miss Kinne McElhiney.

Miss Lillian Johnson charmingly entertained Monday afternoon at her home "The Vista," with two tables of bridge, honoring Mrs. I. D. Carter's guests, Misses Mary Alice Eppens and Virginia Robinson; also Miss Mary Bradford, of Ocotawton, the guest of Mrs. Henry Bradford. A course of 100 was served during the closing social hour.

Miss Lilla Frickling is entertaining an interesting party of girls at a house party. The boys of girls who are being the center of many social attentions, are Misses Helen Dean, Dorothy Jean, Mary Brown and Frances Thomas, of Gainesville, Ga. Besides the reception tendered the party by their hostess, they were entertained by Misses Julia Givens and Lavange Cochran, and Mrs. Hattie Armitage and several dancing parties given by young men friends.

Mrs. Mary Park Howell and Miss Hattie Howell are guests for the summer of Knoxville friends.

Misses Lucy Houshal and Emeline Young, of Ocotawton, are guests of Mrs. John Hawkins.

Miss Elizabeth Pruden has returned from Macon.

Miss Mary Goodrich entertained at a delightful informal supper Wednesday morning in honor of Miss Mary Alice Brown and Virginia Robinson, guests of Mrs. J. D. McElhiney.

The marriage of Miss Grace Tarvin and Mr. Quincy Hawks was an attractive evening ceremony occurring at the home of the bride Wednesday.

The decorations were white and pink sweet peas.

The popular bride has had a number of social affairs tendered her preceding the wedding.

Mrs. H. E. Kelly entertained Tuesday afternoon with a beautiful tea in honor of Misses Virginia Robinson and Mary Alice Brown.

SULPHUR FOR ECZEMA

APPLIED LIKE COLD CREAM IT STOPS ITCHING AND DRIES SKIN ERUPTIONS RIGHT UP

With the first application of sulphur cream the angry itching attending any eczema eruption ceases and its remarkable healing powers begin.

Sulphur, says a renowned dermatologist, just common household material, made into thick cream will soothe and heal the skin when irritated and broken out by eczema or any form of eruption. The moment it is applied all itching ceases and after two or three applications the eczema disappears, leaving the skin clear and smooth.

He tells eczema sufferers to get from any good pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it to the irritated, inflamed skin, the same as you would any cold cream.

For many years this soothing, healing sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous affections by reason of its parasite-destroying property. It is not only antiseptic, but also antipruritic, antieczematous and remarkably healing in all irritable and inflammatory conditions of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to instantly subside the irritation and heal the skin, leaving it clear and smooth.

HAPPENINGS IN LONDONTOWN

LONDON, June 27.—A pretty little story of King George's sympathy and his just thanks to his kindly courtiers was recently shown in visiting the Hon. Irene Curzon, in company with Queen Mary in the afternoon, as owing to the mourning entailed by the death of the late Duke of Argyll, their majesties were unable to attend the ball.

The king expressed to the Hon. Irene the hope that she who is disappointed because he and the queen could not attend the ball, to which the young lady replied quite frankly: "Oh, sir, was no looking forward to going into my first big dinner on your arm."

Whereupon the king instantly said: "What about that? Where are we having it? In the boudoir?" On being told he promptly offered his arm to the Hon. Irene and remained as she seated her in a chair. "The honor and pleasure are mine."

Little tactful incidents like this are doing much to promote the popularity with all classes of his subjects.

The empress dowager of Russia, who is visiting her sister, Queen Alexandra, is becoming quite a familiar figure in London, and when the two sisters are together they are great favorites.

Probably the Empress Maria is never happier than when in London, for she can dispense with the close guardship which when in Russia, especially here to surround themselves, though her huge Court is always in attendance.

The empress, who has now been widow twenty years, in a woman of strong intellect and unlike Queen Alexandra, is said to take a keen interest in the political affairs of her adopted country.

The new Duke of Argyll, who, until his succession, was better known as "Nell Campbell," is very much more after by match-making mamma, as fashionable matrons and the overtures of clever mothers. He is forty-two years old, and with very few intimates.

There are those who say the new duke is in a favorite position with the royal family. Should this prove to be the case, it will be a great advantage to the Duke of Argyll, who will pass his time with the royal family.

Nothing could be so bold as Louise, 55, who is the wife of the Duke of Argyll. The Love of the Three Princesses can ever have been seen at Covent Garden and the Duke of Argyll, who is known by his real name is the Hon. Mrs. Cecil Edgerton, the third son of King George and Queen Mary, has lately been expressing a desire to enter the church when he is of a suitable age. He is rather a studious and serious-minded, and should he persist in his desire, it would certainly be necessary to go back a long way in the history of England to find the son of the sovereign in holy orders.

Only the fact of the court mourning prevented Queen Mary from attending the Duke of Devonshire's derby night dance. Queen Mary is an excellent dancer, but, of course, does not countenance the modern innovations of the Americans. Princess Mary, too, loves dancing and is very graceful, but as she is not yet "out," she has little opportunity of indulging her passion. Her eldest brother, being many years naturally quiet at home on the floor of a ball room.

Queen Mary's kind-heartedness and keen sense of fair play is well illustrated by a little incident that happened the other day. A well known firm of tradesmen, who had long enjoyed royal patronage, dismissed their manager on account of his advancing years. He had saved enough to establish a little business on his own account in an inexpensive district. The queen on hearing of this made inquiries, with the result that her patronage was transferred from the West End firm to the new manager. She now sports the royal arms, and thanks to her majesty's grace example, is doing a good trade.

Will Sir Edward Carson marry again? Reports of his engagement to Miss Ruby Frewen, the belle of Wincanton, Somerset, have been flatly contradicted by Sir Edward himself, but in spite of this the worthy folk of the old town are convinced that the Ulster leader will ultimately lead Miss Frewen to the altar.

The reason for this persistence is that Sir Edward is a frequent week-end visitor to Colonel Frewen's house at Charlton Manors, and Miss Frewen herself is a very busy property holding housewife. This, of course, has set her to work to get her young wife, village property a wedding with two to three weeks' warning.

Colonel Frewen admits nothing. "Wait and see," he says, in a non-committal tone.

Mack's Team Confident of Winning Flag

World's Champions Don't Believe There Is Any Team Strong Enough to Beat Them Out of Pennant-Sluggers Winning for Mack

Detroit, June 27.—The Tigers are making a brave fight to overtake the world's champion Athletics, but if Hugh Jennings entertains the slightest feeling that they're the best team in the league strong enough to beat them out, as far as they are concerned they think they've the pennant won already. The only thing that causes them concern is how many games they are going to finish ahead of the Athletics.

Daley, who ought to know if any one else declares that the Athletics are cocksure that they'll figure in another world championship series again. "The boys," said Daley, "don't believe there is a team in the league strong enough to beat them out. As far as they are concerned they think they've the pennant won already. The only thing that causes them concern is how many games they are going to finish ahead of the Athletics."

"From time to time you hear them say that Plank and Bender are all in," said Daley. "Don't pay any attention to that kind of stuff. Those old boys will be there when Connie needs them. Bender isn't himself just now because he has been trouble with tonsillitis, and Plank has been troubled with his arm. But Connie has a couple of pitchers who will carry the team along until they get right."

"With that bunch of sluggers, Mack doesn't need any pitchers. Furthermore, they always get the breaks. I don't know what they try to do always get away with it. I never saw a luckier team than Mack's."

Jennings, of the Tigers, isn't saying much these days, but in keeping the team plugging along. Hugh Jennings asked what chance he thought the Tigers had. Jennings first was rather non-committal.

"That's a hard question to answer," the crack-faced manager replied. "I don't say that we are going to win, but I will say this: we are going to be either first, second or third. We've got a fighting chance, and if we have a little luck we may make the Athletics hustle a bit before the season ends."

Goodrich Co. Has Safety Cup

An instance of how fully the R. F. Goodrich Co. carries out its policy of "Safety First" throughout its immense factories at Akron, O., as well as in the design and construction of its tires, is shown in a driver's cup which is offered to all employees.

The cup is of the collapsible, "plastic" type and is put up in a metal case. On the cover are the words "Safety First" and the Goodrich tire mark.

The cup has proved popular among employees and is used by thousands in the rubber factory, who take an enthusiastic part in the company's campaign to promote safety along all lines.

The use of the "Safety First" drinking cup in the Goodrich plant and office eliminates the danger of infection by means of a common drinking cup, a danger which many states have legislated against in the last few years.

Anticipate New Records

One day of the automobile race meet which is to be held at Galveston, Tex., from July 3 to August 3, is to be given over to motorcycle. On July 31, the best rider in the country will compete for first honors. The beach course will be in perfect condition for the big automobile event, and it is expected that some new dirt track records will be hung up by the two-wheelers. These events are to be open to the employees of the Galveston Motorcycle club. A ten-mile amateur contest is also scheduled for the meet.

Prest-O-Lite Users Should Watch for This Fraud

Certain parties in Atlanta and vicinity are endeavoring to defraud Prest-O-Lite users by substituting nameless, mutilated and worthless tanks.

These substitutes, when empty, can be exchanged in very few places. Your Prest-O-Lite can be exchanged anywhere and everywhere.

In addition, a substitute gives very inferior lighting service.

Bear in mind that an acetylene cylinder is not merely "an empty tank" which anyone can "fill." A Prest-O-Lite contains a porous filling saturated with chemical. The whole device must be kept in good repair, inside and outside; must be carefully tested and skillfully charged.

Whenever you exchange your empty for another Prest-O-Lite, you are getting what is practically a brand new Prest-O-Lite, tested, repaired and full of the highest grade acetylene.

Prest-O-Lite service cannot be obtained except under the Prest-O-Lite label.

Before you accept any cylinder in exchange for your Prest-O-Lite

Look for the Prest-O-Lite Trade Mark

Tear off any paper labels and look for the name Prest-O-Lite, etched in large letters on the side of the cylinder.

If the cylinder does not clearly show the word "Prest-O-Lite," without any guesswork, it is NOT a genuine Prest-O-Lite, and is not accepted for exchange service by any Prest-O-Lite dealer.

Look at your cylinder today and see if a substitution has already been practiced upon you. If so, demand the return of your Prest-O-Lite. Communicate with us promptly and we will gladly help you recover your property.

AUTO CLIMBING STEPS TO JEFFRIES' HOME

Although James J. Jeffries, former heavy weight champion of the world, found he couldn't "come back" lots of his friends come back to see him and they travel in style, too. A stretch of 41 stone steps leads to the Jeffries home in Los Angeles, Cal. The other day when Bert Davis, a Los Angeles business man, saw James J., on the street he told him he was coming to call with his father-in-law. "Come ahead J. don't think you'll get very far," said the former champion. Mr. Davis gathered together a party, drove to the foot of the steps and then went right up. That Jeffries rather liked it is evident by his smile.

Gas Company Buys Motors

Local Concern Buys Harley-Davidson Machines for Use in Collection Department

The Atlanta Gas Light company recently purchased from the southern branch of the Harley-Davidson Motor company two of the 1914 model Harley-Davidsons to be used in their collection department. This department used the Harley-Davidson several years ago, and has again purchased, as stated above, following in the footsteps of the Chicago Gas Light company, which recently purchased from the Chicago dealer of the Harley-Davidson Motor company forty-seven Harley-Davidson motorcycles, which makes a total of seventy-five Harley-Davidsons that are being used by the Chicago Gas Light company. Big corporations all over the country are putting in this machine for their service departments. While in Chicago recently, Mr. Castle, the manager of the Harley-Davidson company's southern branch, closed a contract with one of the largest electric companies to supply all of their branch offices in the southern states with Harley-Davidson motorcycles for their trouble finding.

Demand for motorcycles for commercial use is growing daily, as over 7,000 Harley-Davidsons are being used by the United States government in the rural mail service throughout the United States. Gus Castle, manager of the southern branch, has been appointed to represent the Georgia branch of the Harley-Davidson company at the convention of this body, which takes place in St. Louis on July 15, and will carry with him a proxy vote of the membership of Georgia. As there will be quite a few changes in the officers of the P. A. M., and the fact that all makers of motorcycles in the United States are behind this movement, a decided increase in membership is expected from the south, and especially Georgia. As the result of one of the benefits of being a member of the Federation of American Motorcyclists will be shown in the next meeting of the Georgia legislature, when, through the concentrated

CARE GIVEN EVERY DETAIL IN BUILDING HUPMOBILE CAR

NOW THE HUPMOBILE IS MADE

Building a motor car is next in importance to designing. A motor car to give perfect service, must be built properly and with precision and not in a half hearted fashion. The manufacturing establishment that is not completely up-to-date in every detail cannot expect to obtain satisfactory results with its product.

Back of the Hupmobile is a factory organization of expertly trained mechanics; a factory where skilled workmen abound; where every workman takes conscientious pride in his day's work; and where machinery of the highest caliber and latest invention is turning out Hupmobile parts with a correctness and accuracy surpassed not even by the makers of the highest priced cars. The executives in charge of this organization are men of high repute and standing in the motor industry; men of unlimited experience who began their training with the foundation of motor car building.

In the building of Hupmobiles nothing is left to chance, everything is scientifically exact. Raw materials are carefully scrutinized, analyzed and tested; every part of the machine is carefully specified. The designing, the forging, the stamping, the machining, the drilling, the painting are characterized by a scrupulous precision and a scientific exactness that are equaled in few if any motor car factories in the world.

All of the material in Hupmobiles is made strictly according to the specifications, and a sample of each shipment is sent to the factory for physical and chemical tests before delivery is accepted at the factory. When approved, it is sent to the forge or foundry to be made into parts. Then after the rough parts are completed efforts of the P. A. M., a reduction in the state tax of $5 that has been heretofore forced on motorcyclists will be reduced, probably to $2 per year; and an account of the protest which was filed in the first part of the year by Mr. Castle for the P. A. M., all taxes that have been bought by motorcyclists this year will probably be made good to the rider for two years.

"We Build Better Tires Than Goodyears"

That—in effect—is what makers say when they charge you higher prices. And 16 makers do that. They are asking for tires up to one-half more than present Goodyear prices. The inference is wrong. Those extra prices are all unjust. The verdict of users—as shown by sales—is that No-Rim-Cut tires are the best in the world. And in four ways they certainly are.

That Is Impossible

It is utterly impossible, so far as men know, to build a better tire than Goodyears, measured by cost per mile.

For years and years we've employed scores of experts to find out ways to better them. Their efforts have cost us $100,000 per year. No-Rim-Cut tires mark the present day limit, to the best of their belief.

How They Excel

No-Rim-Cut tires, in at least four ways, excel every other tire. Our No-Rim-Cut feature—which we control—is found in these tires alone.

Our "On-Air" cure is employed by no other maker. This extra process costs us $450,000 yearly, but it saves many times that in blow-outs.

Our rubber rivets—fanned to combat tread separation—are a patent feature found in no other tire. Our All-Weather tread —the greatest anti-skid—is an exclusive Goodyear feature. It is tough, double-thick and enduring. It is flat and smooth, yet it grips wet roads in a resolute way with countless deep, sharp-edged grips.

What We Save
Our matchless output and modern equipment have immensely cut cost of production. They have cut 28 per cent last year. They are half what they used to be. But never before was the quality so high as it is today.

Smaller makers can't compete on any high-grade tire. That's another reason for getting Goodyears. Almost any dealer will supply them.

L.O.B. Detroit.

The Why of Hup Economy

That the Hup costs less to run is not just an accident. The reason goes back to Hup quality and Hup engineering. To the small-bore, long-stroke motor, with its exceptional power and economy. To the fine materials used in the motor, and every other vital part, making repairs and replacements few and rare. To advanced and sound engineering principles, accompanied by the utmost care and skill in the shops; to nicety of fit and exact co-ordination of parts.

Ask Any Hupmobilst

The Hup could not merit its fame as "The Car of the American Family" were its upkeep not well within reach of the average family.

It could not be called the "best car of its class in the world" if its construction were poor or faulty or weak. All over the world owners praise Hup sturdiness and strength, and Hup lesser running cost. They buy second and third Hups on the strength of their complete satisfaction with the first. The average Hup owner's experience is an open book.

You can easily satisfy yourself as to how the car is regarded. See the Hup dealer, if you don't know an owner.

A sighing pretty Mary Fuller. Then she called a taxi and had six trunks packed, and the next boat for Savannah. There had been one of joy. It was why. In a temperamental moment, the moving pictures suddenly had become all cameras. Not a moving picture stage!

Pretty Mary Fuller had decided on recreation—ocean waves. The land of the south, languid days and all that. At the time she had decided on it.

Four weeks ago she was in New York, with scarcely a month's vacation. Miss Fuller had been a demure heroine, she was dashing one, but constant attention to the heroine role.

Between the Edison company held the greatest excellence gave ten feet of film to Miss Fuller where others would demand only five. Without words she quenced it in moving pictures.

That is why she could decide suddenly that the sight of cameras gave her nerves, why she could call a taxi, have her six trunks packed, and the next boat for Savannah.

Her explanation to the Edison company was explicitly succinct. She hated the sight of cameras, she wished to flee from New York studios, and—the taxi was waiting.

As she went aboard she heard a "click." The New York papers have ship reporters and photographers. One of the camera men was taking the picture of the queen of the movies.

She felt this was horrible in him. But—she sighed ruefully, and looked up in time to give a passenger with a pocket kodak opportunity to snap the pictorial heroine in a distressed mood.

Miss Fuller says the boat to Savannah was given with pocket cameras. No one played even "old maid," that popular game in the smoking room, or told of amazing storms he had weathered. All were too busy photographing her.

She said that the lens of a pocket camera began to appear to her as only of the dozen white eyes gathered back of her. The gangplank was lowered, the cameras snapped, and Mary Fuller fled to land.

She was sighing again, this time in relief when—"click." The Savannah papers have ship news reporters and photographers. They were taking pretty Mary Fuller's picture.

The six trunks were gathered together, a ticket was bought, and the sweetheart of the woman living there sailed away to sea, and that men's freedom from cameras was his ship never came home. So, she flutters her bit of white handkerchief to all vessels, thinking perhaps he may be aboard.

But pretty Mary Fuller thought that the lens of a pocket camera was about to pounce. And so she arrived in Atlanta. No photographer at the station. None at the hotel.

She sighed—that joyous sigh which was a prelude to the temperamental departure from New York. Then—she said "Come in" to the knock on the door, and a gold-buttoned bell boy entered with the cards of a delegation of photographers.

The photographers of the United States and Canada, and some of those of Europe were meeting in New York to assume actively the position of queen of moving pictures.

dreamed of a carnivorous camera that stealthily crept on her as she sat forlornly on the sixth trunk, and then, as she'd awake, this terrible beast always was about to pounce.

None at the hotel.

She sighed—that joyous sigh which was a prelude to the temperamental departure from New York. Then—she said "Come in" to the knock on the door, and a gold-buttoned bell boy entered with the cards of a delegation of photographers.

The photographers of the United States and Canada, and some of those of Europe were meeting in New York to assume actively the position of queen of moving pictures.

to appear before them as a subject. As the representatives of all the camera world they knocked at her door and asked that she be photographed. From New York she had fled into the midst of cameras. Here, in fact, the whole photographic world had assembled.

Then, she sighed, a dejected, defeated sigh. Never again would she try to escape the big white eye of the camera lens. Who could deny fate?

So it was, pretty Mary Fuller was photographed at the recent convention of photographers in Atlanta. And, then returned meekly to New York, to assume actively the position of queen of moving pictures.

Between vain attempts to elude the camera, she was asked on the boat, in Savannah, and in Atlanta how one becomes a moving picture queen, and she said:

"First you learn to say something without saying it. You look it. It's your cue to say 'good morning' or 'where are the papers,' or 'I adore you,' or some other piquant and original phrase. And, instead of saying it, you use your eyes, lips, hands in such a way as to explain it all by facial expression.

"Then, you learn to fly in airships or dive into water of unplumbed depths, or ride an untamed elephant.

"After that you begin to learn the hard things.

"And," continued pretty Mary Fuller, "if like your city fine, I think the Edison company surely will establish a studio here. And, good-by."

Georgia's Only Sunragerette City

Some citizens of Tent City, the only town in Georgia where women rule. The girl with the gun is Miss Ella Hardwick, who acts as chief of police in the absence of her mother, the duly elected chief. The wheelbarrow and the buckets form the fire department, Chief Cullom at the throttle, Miss Fannette Billet, his assistant, with the dipper. Mrs. Mayor Dr. C. Manrey is shown at the bottom with Secretary and Treasurer A. Q. Duren. The little girl is Mary Lewistown, City Clerk

HERE is one place in Georgia where woman rules, where man washes dishes, cleans up, and hangs up the towels, is forced to wear socks, is fined if he doesn't—all at woman's command.

Of course there are lots of places in Georgia where women, individually and collectively speaking, rule, but Tent City is the only place in the state where man collectively is under woman's thumb.

There she nominates her mayor and elects him; there her police chief appoints his two policemen; there or judge tries her cases, fines her prisoners; there her fire chief sends out her fires; there her male street cleaners pick up the flapping paper that she carelessly leaves. And the wonder of it is that man doesn't mind a bit. He rather likes it, in fact. Under woman's rule, he has come to the conclusion that the wife isn't a bad sort of thing, after all, and actually has appointed a male delegate to argue for suffrage before the state legislators this summer if the suffrage bill is given a public hearing in committee.

Tent City, you know, is Lakewood. Tent City's citizens are 310 campers who have pitched their tents on the lake shore, less than six miles from Atlanta.

The campers organized two weeks ago, elected officers, and drew up a constitution and by-laws. The first section of the by-laws provided that women shall be allowed the right to vote. No man was to be elected, no man to be a member of the camp, no man to be a member of the camp, no man to be a member of the camp.

Camper Casey Tried.

Camper J. J. Casey was the first defendant to appear in Judge Jettie's court. Camper Strachan was the complainant. This was last Tuesday.

In City hall, which some folk call the pavilion, Mayor Mrs. Dr. C. Manrey, Councilwomen Mrs. L. Lewistown and Miss Fannette Billet, and the other campers assembled, while Police Chief Mrs. Hardwick brought to the accused.

"Your honor," began Camper Strachan, "this man woke me up at 3 o'clock, yesterday morning singing. I wouldn't complain, but he was singing 'Get Out and Get Under,' and he sang it three times running. I call that disturbing the peace."

Others corroborated Camper Strachan's testimony. All agreed last night, although some refused to admit that he sang and a few declared that "Get Out and Get Under" didn't stop at three renditions.

"Your honor," declared Camper Casey in his own defense, "this man Strachan plays the phonograph from 6 o'clock in the evening until midnight. If he can do that, I don't see why I can't sing at 3 o'clock in the morning if I suddenly have an intense desire to sing."

"That's all very well," ruled Judge Jettie. "But Strachan plays grand opera on the phonograph, which is entirely different. I fine you to sing ten minutes at 3 o'clock in the morning for the next two weeks. Next case!"

The next case was the case of Camper Manrey, charged with allowing his collie dog to drink out of Camper Mrs. Hoar's water bucket.

Prosecutor Peek stressed the danger of allowing the camp animals to drink water at will about the city. He spoke of flies, of the dread diseases they carry from place to place. He said that dogs were just as bad. He even went so far as to suggest individual drinking cups for the dogs, to be worn around the neck tied with a blue ribbon.

Dr. Manrey pleaded not guilty to the charge, claiming that it was not his dog, but a strange dog, that made such free use of Mrs. Hoar's water bucket. He roundly asserted that his dog was a patriarch, would scorn to drink from any water bucket but his own.

Judge Jettie was puzzled. Finally he displayed Solomonian wisdom. He ordered the dog brought before him, together with the two water buckets. The buckets were placed on the floor of City hall and Nero, the dog, turned loose near them.

The court riveted its attention on Nero. The intelligent animal spent some ten minutes sniffing at the feet of the campers. Finally he wandered over to his own water bucket and drank long and deeply.

Then Judge Jettie lifted his hand. "This case," he began.

Suddenly a shrill whisper of surprise ran round the court. Nero, the dog, strolled leisurely over to ready. A rattle and clang sounded from the direction of City hall. Before the startled occupants of the Manrey tent knew exactly what it was all about, Chief Cullom dashed up the hill with his wheelbarrow "engine," a pair of buckets swinging on each side.

In ten seconds the Manrey chicken coop, for moment a mass of flames, had been saved and Fire Chief Cullom, mopping his perspiring brow, was receiving the thanks of the imported campers.

"And you were here so quickly!" they declared. "You were all ready, weren't you? It's wonderful!"

Fire Chief Cullom blushed deeply. Then he looked guilty; then he confessed. "You see, I felt like I wasn't earning my pay. So I set the baby thing on fire myself."

Then there was the episode of the police chief. One of Mrs. Hardwick's children brought the news, rushing through the darkness to City hall, directly behind her, came a shout.

Herman Billet was running up the hill. He was excited. And he told how Mrs. Police Chief Hardwick's deadly aim had found its mark in the person of a yellow mongrel down by the bathhouse.

"But I thought I aimed up the hill!" objected the police chief. "Of course I closed my eyes, but I thought I aimed up the hill. I know I aimed up the hill," this last merrily.

The campers looked grave.

"Don't you think it would be a good idea if our lady policemen carried billies instead of shotguns?"

"I'll introduce a motion to that effect at the next meeting of council," declared Judge Jettie.

The queer part of it all is that these men—these husky, sun-tanned campers—glory in woman's rule.

"Yes, sir," declares A. Q. Duren, one of the campers. "It's great business. Work? We don't mind work. Why, it's my proud boast that I rang out twenty-one towels yesterday. And Jim Griffith, who is chief scavenger, just dotes on cleaning the streets of Tent City."

"You see, the ladies copped all the good jobs, the mayor's and the police chief's and the others; and left us places in the street cleaning department."

"But we don't mind. The next election comes off soon—we elect officials every two weeks. You know—and I'll bet the ladies get all the good jobs there are. I'm Mrs. Hardwick's campaign manager myself and I'm going to run her for mayor again. And you wait and see if she isn't elected!"

When Mrs. Police Chief Hardwick opened her eyes, she was surrounded by smoke and campers and the chicken coop stood before her unscathed by a single pellet. The green eyes and the dark form had vanished.

thority and liable to acts of lawlessness and ignorance that only parental authority can prevent.

The industrial wealth of a country, its human timber, is lessened in quality by the laboring of children who should be building up their bodies and minds in schools, in playgrounds and in the home.

It is bad for the manufacturers who exploit children and child labor. The products of these factories are the poorest in quality and only by the abatement of child labor will they be rendered better and more saleable in the market.

And child labor weakens the citizen. It robs him of his vitality, it weakens his children, it increases the population of public institutions and it puts this added weight and expense on the community to bear.

It is bad for parents to live on the earnings of their children. It produces an unnatural relation. It makes the child independent of parental authority and liable to acts of lawlessness and ignorance that only parental authority can prevent.

Jane Addams Explains Palmer Child Labor Measure

Editor's Note.—In an article in the Journal, Prof. Rock Steyer has been discussing the results of an investigation of 288 murders in the United States. He showed that 700 murderers whose lives have been investigated, over 90 per cent of them compelled to go to work before they were 15, and that 55 per cent of child slaves before they were 12.

Here is an answer to the question: Why is the murder rate so high in the United States?

In the following article Jane Addams, the leader of Hull house and famous advocate of social justice, sums up the child slave situation today.

AN AUTHORIZED STATEMENT BY JANE ADDAMS.

HERE is a bill awaiting passage that should become a federal law.

It is the Palmer child labor bill and it seeks to end this abuse by placing it under the jurisdiction of the government.

Why? The manufacturers and the agents of manufacturers who depend for the making of their products on child labor, are fighting the bill, strenuously and with all the resources at their disposal, failing to recognize that the regulation and the abolishment of the pure food law and the increase their market possibilities because of this added value.

The Palmer bill is drawn on the general lines of the pure food law and seeks to prohibit the employment of children under 14 years in manufacturing occupations and to limit the work of children under 16 to eight hours a day.

The penalties imposed for the breaking of the law are fines and the secretary of commerce, the secretary of labor and the attorney general constitute a permanent board on rules and regulations and the secretary of labor is authorized to inspect and prosecute for violations. The law also provides that the state factory inspectors, trust officers or any other person may bring complaints before the United States district attorneys and every separate shipment is made to constitute a separate offense.

There is nothing new in the body of the proposed law except that it puts child labor under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

Child labor presents an economic problem that is intertwined with the other problems of our communities. It is caused by sheer poverty, by the poverty of parents, by the ambition of parents and by the ignorance of parents as well as by the law of market which demands that a product be turned out at the least possible cost to sell at the highest possible price.

Then, too, the schools are sometimes to blame. The children often prefer working to spending their time in school.

The parents among the poor, especially those of foreign birth, have worked in their childhood at seasonal occupations, tilling the soil, planting the crops and reaping the harvest.

They cannot understand why their children should not work also, and they send them to labor in factories, in mills, in mines and in quarries where the close confinement and the wracking work result in a breakdown of health and spirits in premature senility.

In the south, whole families of "poor whites" settle in the manufacturing towns and live on the labor of their children. Among this class are the "dinner taters," fathers who bring the midday meal to their children at work in the mill and then go back to doze in the sunshine.

The results of child labor are far-reaching and bad. Child labor, vagrancy and petty vice are intertwined in a strand of annoyances that beset the country. It is responsible for the "floating laborer," the unskilled workman, who weakened by his early labor, the resulting lack of nourishment and deficient physical powers, intensifies the problem of the unemployed which confronts the big cities at certain seasons.

It is bad for parents to live on the earnings of their children. It produces an unnatural relation. It makes the child independent of parental authority and liable to acts of lawlessness and ignorance that only parental authority can prevent.

He attacked with such audacity, without intending it, that he was killed. He died in the second hour of the morning. The seconds who forswore court proceedings which would have saved him, died in the same way. It was the only dead I ever saw in France in which the dead were fighting for the living.

Mass Industrial Note

The correspondent of the Veritas writes to-day:

“In examining the Mary Wilson Parks.”

(BY HENRI FERRIER.)

PARIS.—One of the most curious characters has been known as "Laberdusque." He was called "Laberdusque," "tout court." He was one of the best fighters in Paris; he fought over a hundred times, and he had the most familiar signs on the boulevards.

The duel which caused all Paris to move his name, and that with Max Regier, the notorious anti-semitic mayor of Algiers, the combat lasted two days. Everybody said that the fight was a draw.

Laberdusque attacked with such suddenness that, without intending to, he simply ran Max Regier through the arm. The seconds who fought in the middle court proceedings which followed, were very much surprised. France, were only too happy to stop the combat and declared "honour to the victor." The fight had never even seen in France in which the two principals were fighting their lives.
