

AIRCRAFT AS AGENTS OF DESTRUCTION ARE NOT "MAKING GOOD"

Military Experts in U. S. Confess Surprise at Failure of Flying Machines to Live Up to Expectations

BY RALPH SMITH.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Military authorities in the United States confess to more or less surprise because of the failure of aircraft to come up to popular expectations in the European war. There have been no wholesale destructions in the air, no wholesale destruction of cities or battlefields by the dropping of bombs, nor any of the spectacular results so enthusiastically promised for the stage of the air by their ardent adherents.

This surprise, however, is tempered with considerable relief, for American army and navy officers are a unit in believing the world would be no better by the development of the aeroplane into the terrible engine of destruction predicted by its enthusiastic friends. The real work of the aeroplane, it is said, will be told after the war has ended, and at that time too, its place in warfare will be more definitely determined. In the light of present experience, it is the belief of American men that bomb dropping and air conflicts will be found to be of minor importance, and that the real work of the aeroplane will be found, very largely, to scouting and messenger work.

"As added means of reconnaissance, observation and communication," said a high official of the administration, "the aeroplane has been doing a really wonderful work in Europe; but outside of that field its usefulness has not yet been very great. According to official reports, a dozen or more daily reconnaissance flights of more than 100 miles each, on an average, are being made by the flying machines of the allied nations. It is fair to assume little activity on the part of the air craft of the Germans, without this aerial scouting would not be possible to carry on a battle, and in an extensive war this would be of great importance."

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN. It is pointed out in this connection that had the aeroplane been developed at the time of the war between Russia and Japan, the great battle of Mukden might have had a different tale to tell. The Mukden battle line was fifty miles long and the battle lasted for a month, and after that much as the Japanese have already lasted for about two weeks.

In general on both sides have said many times since that their maneuvers would have been entirely different had they known what was happening along the fifty miles of battle front. But with the means of communication excepting those afforded by horses, it was obviously out of the question for any effective reconnaissance work to be done in time to influence corps movements. The Russian generals gave many orders based on information concerning position of the Japanese which later on proved to be wrong, and the Japanese generals were misled in similar fashion—all because of the lack of communication.

But in France, with a battle line running across country for a hundred to three hundred miles, the generals on each side have been at all times in possession of complete and accurate information concerning not only the positions and condition of their own troops, but of those of the enemy also. The result has been that both sides have been able at will to move very large bodies of troops back and forth as occasion demanded, and in a general way to operate quite as effectively as if the battle had been on the shorter lines had needed Mukden.

For all this the aeroplane has been pretty responsible. It is true that the wireless telegraph has been demonstrating its importance in the European war, but it is a large way, but it is said by military authorities in this country that it has in reality been of rather insignificant service as compared with what has been done by the aeroplane.

It is predicted in this city by men who are in position to speak with authority that the European war will greatly emphasize the importance of observation and of submarines. Hereafter, it is claimed, all the leading governments of the world will pay more attention to the construction of these military auxiliaries. Both up to now have been compelled to make their way in the face of persistent opposition based on doubt as to their working efficiency, but what has been taking place in Europe has demonstrated that both are needed in large numbers as an important part of the military equipment of every first rate power. It is probable that the American congress, in the annual appropriation bills to be passed at the session beginning in December, will reflect this improved opinion of the importance of the aeroplane and the submarine in larger appropriations for their construction. Recently the world has taken these two modern inventions on faith, but now there has been ample opportunity to justify that faith by works.

It is worth noting that the United States, in the present time, has not done a great deal to encourage the development of the aeroplane. Officers of the army and navy have been urged to make for several years, but without much result. The present session, however, it has been a little better, and now winter, it is not difficult to see the aviation corps of the army is to be dealt with more liberally than ever before.

In the past five years it is estimated by the annual report of the army, the cost of the world has spent $100,000,000 in the development of aircraft of various kinds. Germany has spent the most, a total of about $32,000,000, followed by Russia, France, Russia, Austria and England. In the order of the world's expenditure for the development of the aeroplane, the United States is in the third place, with an expenditure of $12,000,000 in five years, and after such countries as Spain, Brazil, Greece, Rumania and Chile.

Follows in the official table an explanation of the figures.

COUNT BERNSTORFF HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH BRYAN

The German Ambassador Gets Copies of U. S. Treaties With Country's Foes

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, called at the state department today and conferred with Secretary Bryan for half an hour. When he left the ambassador carried copies of the new peace treaties between the United States and Great Britain, France, Russia, China and nearly a score of other countries. Such a treaty was proposed to Germany some time ago.

The ambassador declined to discuss his call. He returned recently from New York and had not seen Secretary Bryan for several weeks.

WASHING WON'T RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

Dissolve It. That's Best Way.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it. It is not enough to wash it off. You must destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the fingers.

Do this tonight, and by morning most of all of your dandruff will be gone. If not all of your more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single hair and scalp cell. It is no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be finer, thicker, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do it by all means get rid of dandruff, for it not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

FUMES OF NEW FRENCH SHELL PETRIFIES ITS VICTIMS IN DEATH POSE

Paris Correspondent Tells Remarkable Story of Deadly Effect of Secret Shell French Are Now Using

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, Oct. 5.—Telegraphing from Paris the correspondent of Reuters' Telegram company says:

"That the fumes of the famous French three-inch shells have a most deadly effect in an enclosed space is shown by a scene that met the eyes of the French penetrating a chateau occupied by the Germans and which they had just abandoned. Entering the drawing room they found a company of Wurtembergers petrified in action. Some were at the windows taking aim with their fingers still pressing the trigger, while others were at the tables where they had been playing games with cards in their hands.

while still others had cigarettes in their lips.

"An officer stood with his mouth open as if in the act of dictating an order, and all the corpses looked absolutely lifeless."

FRENCH ARE CONFIDENT OF VICTORY FOR ALLIES

Poincare's Move to Front Tackles Mean Battle Nears End

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, Oct. 5.—When the long-drawn battle in the north was resumed today there was a feeling in many quarters that decisive developments were imminent. Consequently, this afternoon's statement of the war office on the battle of the Alps, unique in the history of battles, was awaited with the greatest interest.

While the French realize that the battle has not yet been won, it does not seem to many of them that it is now lost. If the allies win no doubt it is felt that they will pay for it, the sacrifice on both sides already being great. The tone of the official communications has furnished the best reason for the hope on the part of the French although the announcement of the visit of President Poincare to the front was an additional fact for the confidence and optimism felt in regard to the intense struggle. His action is generally commented on as indicating that success is at hand.

Despite the hope of the French the military critic, Lieutenant Colonel Roussel, declares that the battle still can last for some time pointing out that modern encounters last now as long as certain campaigns formerly did. In 1855 the situation was settled in two months, while in 1870 it took thirteen weeks, the fighting after Sedan and Metz being merely a contest for honor.

In the furious fighting now going on, Lieutenant Colonel Roussel says, neither adversary can claim what Napoleon called the result.

With the shifting of the battle scenes the railroads are resuming traffic through a number of cities which had been occupied by the Germans. From Epernay the news comes that the Germans respected the vines of Epernay in the important champagne district.

Colonel Du Paty De Clam, a celebrity of the Franco-Russian war, is among the wounded in Paris.

EXTRAS ON THREE LINESPatronage Does Not Justify Continuance of Service,
It Is Stated

Petition for authority to discontinue "trippers" or extra cars now operated during the morning and afternoon rush hours on parts of three of the Georgia Railway and Power company's routes, was filed Monday with the railroad commission by that company.

The routes specified are the South Pryor and West Peachtree line, the Orme street and Magnolia street line and the Pine street-Woodward avenue line.

The company's argument, as set forth in the petition, is that the traffic and gross receipts on these lines has decreased so steadily during the past several months as to make the maintenance of the service on these lines work unreasonable and to leave the railroad schedule for service available for the needs of its patrons. Figures showing the decrease and statistics of special trips made by observers are submitted with the petition.

"Petitioner shows that the street railway traffic in the city of Atlanta has been decreasing," the petition states, "and owing to existing conditions it is very probable that such street railway traffic will continue to decrease in volume for some time to come."

The company asks that the "tripper" service be suspended until the further order of the commission, when the traffic on the routes mentioned shall have returned to normal.

"Early in December I was surprised on answering a knock at my door to see Stefansson stride into my cabin. I and supposed him to be hundreds of miles distant.

The SOROSIS ROOM is a definite and emphatic relief—delightfully retired, restful, spacious and gratefully social in its silent silvery grayish tones.

When a woman enters the SOROSIS ROOM she is conscious of a sense of solace, of confidence, of mental, muscular and nervous relaxation. She easily yields to the atmosphere of calm and surrenders to the agreeable and unobtrusive savor of genuine hospitality that is as pervasive as a cordial personality or a refined perfume.

After surveying and assaying Shoe-dom from blue-stockinged Boston to silk-hosed Butte, we feel sure of having infused the breath of life into a new standard, of having created a new precedent, of having poured fresh force and inspiration into a branch of business that was sterile of originality and arid of human interest.

SOROSIS SYSTEM represents the acme of endeavor to establish a sympathetic and co-operative bond between seller and buyer. We knew that such a motif would be rich with potentialities.

Ardent art, heart and imagination—a sincere desire really to serve controls every part of the enterprise.

We have heeded the promptings of RECIPROcity and MUTUALITY—twin elements of progressive and constructive business thought.

We have not discovered a new law—but have simply applied an old one that had atrophied by DISUSE.

Our SOROSIS plans sparkle with altruistic economic ethics. Succinctly stated: We hope to prosper ourselves by bestowing matchless values and ideal satisfaction upon the individual—and hence upon the mass.

We have developed a systemless SYSTEM. It takes into account the human equation. We have gone back to first principles—and the initial step in that direction is the large and intense recognition of the men and women who work with us.

Efficiency engineers, in frantic attempts to eliminate "lost motion" have well-nigh de-natured the human equation. We believe the general tendency to turn men and women into machines is wholly wrong. Personality still counts—and the retailers who have red-taped their methods regardlessly, under the mistaken notion that it means economy, will ultimately let spirit and temperament—and the strength as well as the weakness of sentient beings prevail.

The SOROSIS policy is a protest against over-systematization—that illiberal, crushing, meagre intent to ignore individual talent, to check individual aspiration, to discourage individual intelligence, to repress individual growth and subject everyone to the same cold, exact, rigid action of the inanimate.

SOROSIS SHOES are the products of manual skill and intellectual efficiency.

They are made by talented and conscientious craftsmen—who do their best.

And according to the manufacturer's idea, one's best is not measured by quantity—but by excellence.

You don't pay a lawyer by the number and length of his clauses. You pay him for his knowledge of law.

Workers on SOROSIS SHOES are not paid for the number of shoes they make—but for the way they make them.

By this means the manufacturers secure good individual service, because the workers apply their minds entirely to the work itself, without hurrying or rushing to pile up volume.

They are not "sweated" nor driven at high pressure. They are not ruthlessly prodded to excessive effort, costing them the loss of enthusiasm and the manufacturers the lowering of their standard.

The men and women who make SOROSIS SHOES are not subjected to stop-watch observations for the purpose of stimulating their activity. They know how to handle materials and machinery in order to gain accuracy and celerity.

Quantitative testing, as recommended by "scientific management," may achieve enormous technical economies in some lines of manufacturing, but we don't believe its speeding-up process—consuming, as it does, the muscular and nervous energy of the workers—can be advantageously applied to such articles for personal use and adornment as SOROSIS SHOES.

The "chart and stop-watch" system may be all right for trench diggers, bricklayers, coal heavers and shovelers, but it cannot add an iota to the usefulness of the maker of a fine watch, an exquisite gown, or an artistic shoe.

The SOROSIS craftsmen are not servants of tools and machinery—they are not the automatic vassals of routine. Their training is quite different. The manufacturers develop their personal sense of efficiency by encouraging them to exercise their initiative, their judgment, their intelligence and liberty of action. Hence they fit into their jobs by the powers of ideas, imagination, ability and discrimination. They have responsibilities and obligations—and they meet them.

Because the SOROSIS organization is not made up of dull, docile people, doing their tasks like stupid, phlegmatic oxen—the output of SOROSIS SHOES is limited.

From first to last, each SOROSIS SHOE passes through one hundred skilled hands before reaching the retail buyer.

No "short-cut" method is practiced. Every SOROSIS SHOE remains on the last twenty-eight days. This thoroughness explains the permanence of the SOROSIS shapeliness.

Shoes, less carefully made, and the market abounds with them, are taken from the last in seven or eight days. These go to the retailers green, and cannot yield satisfaction to the wearer.

SOROSIS SHOES are well-seasoned and retain their original grace to the very end.

The salespeople at the Glove counter are not more careful and painstaking in their effort to fit your hand than the salespeople in the SOROSIS ROOM are to fit your FEET. They realize the importance of selling you shoes that fit with exactness and nicety—and regard the reverse as a reflection upon their skill and taste.

In fitting feet, our people do not descend to the low expediency and base makeshift of "heel-pads." These subterfuges are used only by amateurs and bunglers.

Owing to the way SOROSIS SHOES are lasted, stayed and seasoned they do not stretch—but hold their shape.

Why do we devote so much attention to fitting? Because fifty per cent of the just claims recorded for unsatisfactory wear may be traced to improper fitting. For example: When a shoe hurts, the wearer cannot walk true, therefore, undue strain is felt at certain points, and the weight of the wearer is not correctly distributed—not balanced or equalized. Consequently, this over-pressure at a given point, breaks the upper.

When a woman visits the SOROSIS ROOM she isn't asked: "What size do you wear?" SOROSIS etiquette forbids it. It is our observance of just such seeming trifles that creates the SOROSIS atmosphere.

Some women and children, owing to a peculiarity or mal-formation of foot or ankle, can't wear the usual SOROSIS models.

For all such, we are glad to make special shoes to their individual measurement at low prices. And remember, even a slight change in the regular SOROSIS style entails much work. For instance: When a 1½-inch heel is reduced to 1 inch, it does not mean that we simply chop off half an inch of the heel.

Lowering the heel throws the entire weight of the body in a different position and puts a strain on the foot that makes it impossible to wear a shorter-heeled shoe made on the last designed for the higher heel.

We must turn a new pair of lasts, cut a complete set of new linings, both outside and inside, for vamps and uppers—and make the whole shoe a separate work throughout. It is quite an elaborate constructive operation, instead of what seems to many people only a slight change.

BRIDES-TO-BE should bear in mind that: The classic harmony of SOROSIS models—The grace and daintiness of their finish—The mellowness of their tone—The subtle delicacy of their lines—The elegance of their adornments—Are the pleasing qualities of SOROSIS art.

We urgently invite you to visit our beautiful SOROSIS ROOM. It is a Shoe Shop carried to the highest degree of artistic excellence.

You will enjoy buying Shoes under the new system and novel environment.

Everything possible has been done for your comfort, your convenience, your economy. SOROSIS SERVICE is incomparable.

They are the shoe marvels of patience, progress and jewel-like precision.

The poetry of Shoes—Boudoir Slippers. Have you seen them? They inspire romantic and sentimental interest. Rosebuds and ribbon, filmy silks and laces were never before so daintily wrought. A bride's dream of beauty. Fleecy as a cloud. Like foam for lightness and delicacy. Art has caught the elusive grace and prettiness of the slipper orchid.

DEBUTANTES will revel among the Evening Slippers. Ingenuity at its charmingest. Tints of flowers, sparkle of jewels, gleam of gold. Not for ascetic, stoic or anchorite. Their butterfly brilliancy is cryptic to them.

Never before were Slippers so subtle, so charming, so exquisitely artistic.

But Fashion is a true daughter of Proteus. It is utterly impossible to describe the Evening Slippers. You must see them.

The new SOROSIS BOOTS are as suggestive of Autumn as the russet of oak and the scarlet of maple.

Here's the picture of one. It is photographically accurate—nevertheless it lacks much in conveying an idea of the Boot's beauty. It illustrates form and outline only—but in a flat, mechanical way. You should see the curves and contour of the actual Boot on your foot.

Every bit of the Boot expresses that indescribable quality that for the want of a better word is called "style."

Their tops are the artistic and effective features—made of fine imported cloth loomed of selected fibre for the special purpose—all the attractive putty, mustard and fawn shades in woven colors that will not fade. These SOROSIS BOOTS are masterpieces of patience, skill and precision—the price $7.00—establishes a new precedent for economy.

The cozy-corner for dressing shoes—giving them a mirrorry tan polish; a dull, lustreless black finish glossy as coal, or an old-fashioned brilliant shine—invites you.

The maid's service is yours. No charge. Makes no odds whether you buy shoes here or elsewhere—we'll take care of them free.

Isn't this good, refreshing news?

Every shoe here is brand new—made expressly for us. Different and better than regular stock lines. Even the boxes that hold the shoes are distinctive—heavier, pasteboard—stronger, firmer than the ordinary kind. And the shoes are wrapped in extra sheets of tissue paper. Like other works of art—they are handled with care and tenderness.

"Little details," you say. Yes, they are little details—but it is attention to little details that make for perfection. We have neglected nothing—not even the smallest trifle—to have this the most complete and satisfactory Shoe shop in the world for women and children.

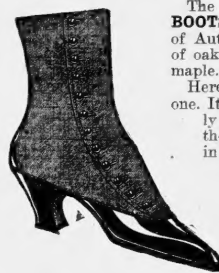

No accumulations of past seasons—No premiums paid clerks to sell "stickers," because there are no "stickers" and won't be.

An immense variety of styles in all sizes. The most advanced effects—exclusive here because others have not yet had time to copy them.

SOROSIS Shoe Dressings, Polish, Paste, Lacers, Trees and the like are the best made.

All of them are manufactured to be sold—not to be given away.

SOROSIS customers had rather pay a fair price for such accessories and secure finest, honest quality than to take home the rubbishy sort free of cost.

All sorts of enthusiastic facts and figures on the fourth American good roads congress, which meets here November 14-17, were recited by prominent citizens, members of the local executive committee, at a luncheon Monday noon in the dining room of the Hotel Raleigh.

The sum total of them was that Atlanta will entertain the largest convention of this kind ever held in the world with thousands of delegates coming from all parts of the country.

As Mayor Woodward put it, the convention already has been worth $5,000 to Atlanta solely as a matter of advertising, while other good results accruing from it are incalculable.

Following the luncheon, the heads of committees made their reports. W. T. Jones, chairman of the general committee, introduced the speakers and spoke in glowing terms of the forthcoming convention.

John Allen told how he and other Atlanta men will go to Washington on the 12th to invite President Wilson to the convention. He said that Atlanta has wanted in cooperation with Rome, Jerusalem and other cities which the president wishes to visit, that it is possible it will be able to speak at the Atlanta convention.

J. F. Letton announced that J. S. J. Patterson acted to act as chairman of the entertainment committee, and that Mrs. John Marshall Smith, wife of the mayor, would head the committee on entertaining the visiting ladies, several members of whom are expected. He announced an elaborate social program, including a reception at the capital on Monday, a luncheon at the Raleigh Tuesday night, an organ concert at the auditorium.

While West told how his committee would arrange railroad facilities, the convention which are as low as the Phoenix convention rates, the local committee will arrange special trains will bring delegates from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk, Chicago, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, St. Paul and other points to Atlanta.

Mr. West said that the local automobile and automobile association will provide about 100 cars for showing the city and for the delegates around town.

Spaulding, representing the commercial club, said that Atlanta will benefit from the convention in that many party concerns were being organized in the city.

SAYS WIFE KICKED HIM FROM BED FOR SNORING

Allegation Sufficient for Jury to Give Doctor Complete Divorce

"Four nights after my marriage my wife said she could not stand my snoring and kicked me out of bed," said Dr. G. E. Perkins to a divorce jury in Judge W. D. J. Perkins' courtroom Monday.

Perkins' divorce suit, one of the cases to be tried within the next few days.

Every two months scores of mismatched persons crowd Perkins' divorce court with undelivered cases. Monday with a record number for trial, the undelivered ones for the September term of the superior court began.

Dr. G. E. Perkins, thirty, of the Marine Corps, was married in Boston April 6, 1911. He testified he left his wife in May, 1912.

She kept me awake, berating me and talking hysterically, from 1 to 3 o'clock in the morning," he said. "I left without breakfast, came back later and asked her was she sick. She cursed me, ran to her dresser, took out a pistol and said she would shoot me in the back of the head and then went out of the house. I returned later and got my clothes. I have never gone back to her."

"SIT HIM WITH CHAIR." He said she hit him with a chair once, and one morning cursed him in public in front of their home in Boston. He said on the ground of cruel treatment, stating that his physician's practice could not stand the effect of his wife, nor could he endure the mental strain caused by her. He was granted a second verdict of complete divorce and his wife was retained permission by the jury to remain.

The cases, which are expected to be disposed of at the rate of twenty-five a day, do not take long. The jury hardly ever leaves the box.

MANY OTHER CASES. One jury will try all of the 108 cases. The twelve men who are the official brokers of Capital's chains are Arthur Wright, Foreman; W. A. Owen, R. E. Jennings, S. W. Guiner, C. E. White, J. A. Harper, W. T. Hammond, D. J. Powers, Oscar L. Gordon, T. E. White, J. E. Clark and J. H. Crawley.

The cases disposed of Monday before 2 o'clock were:

First verdict: Carrie B. Sparks vs. John P. Sparks, Emma Love vs. David Love, Nina Johnson Ames vs. J. F. Ames, J. W. Wiley vs. Frances Wiley, Ida S. Meadow vs. George Meadow, Rebecca J. Giffin vs. Harry Giffin, Graham Lawson vs. Mary Lawson, Mauda Patton vs. George Patton.

Second verdict: Alberta Richards vs. Henry P. Richards, G. E. Perkins vs. Mabel W. Perkins, Oliver J. Wescott vs. Robert M. Wescott, Mary Esther Miller vs. Robert W. Miller.

A second verdict means that the divorce is complete. A first verdict has to be followed by the second one four months later.

THE MOTHERS OF MEN.

By Joaquina Miller.

The bravest battle that ever was fought.

Shall I tell you where and when?

On the maps of the world you will find it not—

'Tis fought by the mothers of men.

Nay, not with cannon or battle shot.

With sword or nobler pen!

Nay, not with eloquent words or thought.

From mouths of wonderful men.

But deep in the walled-up woman's heart—

Of woman that would not part—

But bravely, silently, bore her part—

Lo, there is that battlefield!

No marshalling troop, no bivouac—

No banner to gleam and wave;

But, oh! their battles, they that

From boyhood to the grave

Yet faithful still as a bride of state.

See fights in her walled-up

Rights on and on in endless wars.

Then, silent, unseen, goes down—

Oh, ye with banners and battle

And soldiers to shout and pride,

I tell you the kindest victories

fought—

Were fought in those silent ways.

Oh, unlabeled woman in a world of shame and silent scorn

With splendid and silent scorn

Go back to God as white as you came—

The kindest warrior born!

APPLING COUNTY SETS CORN GROWING RECORD

Following the diversified crops plan there is one county in Georgia which has raised not only enough corn for its own needs, but will be able to sell between 20,000 and 25,000 bushels, this year.

The county which has made the record is Appling. Roy Rogers, farm demonstration agent for the county, has announced the "dances of comfort and joy" in a letter to the Atlanta chamber of commerce.

Mr. Rogers states that the Appling county crop will soon be ready for shipment, and it will probably be placed through the chamber of commerce.

The Store Presents a Picturesque Background for the Beautiful Merchandise We Have Gathered

The native richness of the south is symbolized in the store decorations—-the shocks of corn, the ripened grain, the red, red apples, the big yellow pumpkins tell a happy story of a happy people left at their homes to conquer the soil and reap the fruits of peaceful industry.

As a display alone, the scene the store presents is worthy of your interest—but its fuller meaning, its significance is that it symbolizes the wealth and beauty of our stocks, that it marks the time of fullness and plenty in fashion and fabrics.

It is Harvest Week for those who would be about the selection of their fall and winter wardrobes.

We have gathered abundantly, a bumper crop, so to speak, and it's all the kind of merchandise that appeals to discriminating women whose tastes instinctively separate the wheat from the chaff.

Tuesday The Ready-to-Wear Section Will Present Hundreds of New Suits and New Dresses

The fruits of our buyers' second trip to New York are arriving today—Tuesday they will be in their cases.

Suits and Dresses of Lately Evolved Styles Shown Now for the First Time in Atlanta

Coming from makers who excel in their art. They are away from the ordinary, their tailoring their little points of fashioning mark them as the kind of suits and dresses that women of good taste will like.

What are the style-points, wherein do they differ from suits and dresses collected hurriedly and with but little thought? You shall see. You shall see that it is not a matter of price. We have

Suits At $19.75, $22.50, $25.00, $29.75, $35.00 and Upwards
Dresses At $8.75, $11.75, $15.00, $19.75, $25.00 and Upwards that stand out strongly as what they are, beautiful styles, artistic triumphs.

As a Special Harvest Week Value
$8.50 Sanitary Felted Cotton Mattresses $6.80

We have done for Harvest Week what we had not been able to do before. Through the co-operation of the maker of our regular $8.50 Sanitary Felted Cotton Mattress, we have brought down its price to $6.80.

At $8.50 this mattress has been the standard value. It is just a little better than most makers have been able to produce. It weighs full forty-five pounds, has rolled edges and is warranted never to lump—it is of felted cotton.

See it in the first floor of the Furniture Store—see it in its various stages of making—the amount of cotton that goes into it, then the mattress half finished, showing the felted cotton at one end and on the other the ticking sewn on. Then see the finished mattress.

Choose from five patterns of sturdy ticking—the mattress is made to order, in any size desired.

ATLANTA CITIZENS JOIN IN PRAYER FOR PEACE

Thousands Turned Away

In accordance with President Wilson's proclamation, 15,000 people participated in Atlanta's great Sunday afternoon service. The building was crowded as never before. Fully 2,000 persons, unable to find even standing room, were turned away from the doors.

Women went during the beautiful services, men, unshamed, prayed aloud. The emotions of 15,000 souls almost reached the breaking point when the organists of Chopin's funeral march rolled from the organ pipes. In the grip of this part of the service, the vast assembly seemed to realize fully the horror of Europe's battle fields.

Robert A. Kraft, played by Organist Robert A. Kraft, opened the service. Robert A. Kraft, a director of the Atlanta Music Festival association, opened the services of which the great Sunday service was a part, and which was presided over by President Wilson for peace.

Robert A. Kraft, then prayed for divine intervention in the war. "Lord, be Thy kingdom come, lift the earth and the voice command as King of Kings and Lord of Lords. Lift up the spirit of the conscience upon the earth and give us peace forever and ever, we the kneeling voices of Europe's battle fields."

In the large auditorium stage were part of each for the chorus of over 200 members of the Atlanta church, who sang the hymns.

Sunday School Rally
DAY IS GREAT SUCCESS

In Nearly Every Church Attendance Record of Last Year Was Broken

The happy weekly rally, held at Atlanta Sunday school Sunday was a great success. In nearly every school in the city attendance broke last year's record, and the goal set was not only reached, in most cases, all surpassed.

Probably the best record was made in the Methodist mission of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, where over 100 members and every officer was present, a total of 131.

At the Central Presbyterian Sunday school the attendance was 1,270, an increase of 100 over last year. Attendance at several of the other schools was as follows: Second Baptist, 302; St. Paul's, 250; First Baptist, 220; St. Luke's, 210; and the First Baptist, 210.

CHRISTIANITY AND WEALTH TOPIC OF ASA G. Candler

Interesting Address Delivered
Sunday to Bible Class of
First Christian Church

Members of the Bible class of the First Christian church were interested in the address Sunday to a talk by Asa G. Candler, whose recent gift of $100,000 to the new Methodist university was the largest ever made by a southern man to the cause of education.

Mr. Candler's subject was "Christianity and Wealth." He began by reading the words of Jesus, when he said: "Verily, I say unto you that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven."

Many people, said Mr. Candler, like this to mean that Jesus was especially denunciatory of men of wealth. But the broad, underlying truth, he explained, was simply this: That the increase of power of any sort increases responsibility and multiplies the needs of the soul, not only powers of wealth, but intellectual power, great political power, great physical power.

Those who are blessed with such power should watch themselves well. Mr. Candler went on to say, that they should not abuse it, but grow equally rich in the use of it. The right use of riches may be a great blessing, but poor men and women should not judge of their riches by comparison with each other, but by judging their own obligations in the eyes of the Lord.

Those who are richer than any other country in the world, both their duties and their dangers are greater, he declared. "The wealth of America must, by its very nature, cause a great lack of blessing all other nations. It is too great to be without great effects. Either good or bad—With it we must save the world or destroy ourselves."

Saturday's Football Games Developed Surprises In Several Cases

Football Games Saturday Upset Dope Somewhat

Tech's Showing Against Carolina Satisfactory—Georgia's Work Rather Disappointing—Three Big Eastern Elites Lost—Michigan Showed Up Well

By Innis Brown

Saturday's games, coming so early in the season as they did, produced some few upsets in the dope, but were sprung in more than one case, as the local game between Tech and South Carolina. Just before the game, it was expected of them considering the conditions under which the game was played. No doubt had the contest been played on a dry field, the result would have run up two or three more touchdowns. Furthermore, the Seminoles were in to run up that Vanderbilt was their chief aim. Coach Heston realizes that his boys need a lot of practice in smoothing out here and there, and he was trying them out as thoroughly as possible to detect their weak spots.

At Athens, Georgia's showing was a disappointment. The Commodore team, as was stated in the story of this game, the Athenians appeared very green with a few exceptions. They were the victim of a few exceptions, but they were not enough to get them out of the game. The edge of how to play their individual positions, this especially applying to the men with the exception of the line. They were also slow on charging. There is a lot of work to be done in the Red and Black squad, if it is to round into an effective team.

Merger suffered a defeat at the hands of the University of Chattanooga Saturday by a score of 14 to 0. The Commodore team was not away in a good running start by trimming the Georgia players. At the same time, the Commodore team was not away in a good running start by trimming the Georgia players.

Reports from Nashville and elsewhere are to the effect that Vanderbilt and Sewanee made very satisfactory showings. McMinn is chiefly concerned in the development of a fullback, and a second halfback to help out Captain Baker. Four men who played Saturday at full, three of whom will be eligible for the first game, are being trained. The Commodore team was not away in a good running start by trimming the Georgia players.

Three defeats of opponents in the past week have left the Commodore team in a position of weakness. The Commodore team was not away in a good running start by trimming the Georgia players. The Commodore team was not away in a good running start by trimming the Georgia players.

In the west, Lawrence won from Wisconsin. This was the surprise party of the day for western gridiron fans. Michigan ran up a big score on Chicago, going to show that the Wolverine are back again bordering on the form that made them the terror of the west. Chicago trimmed Indiana really, and at last the Maroon team is being regarded as likely successors to their 1913 title of western conference champions.

The upset which marked the play among the major eastern teams, however, was charged entirely to the style of game, which eastern coaches here have been in a hurry to adopt, except as a secondary form of attack. The defeat of Pennsylvania by Franklin and Marshall came as the result of the powerful offense and defense of the latter, coupled with ability to follow the ball and to profit by the Quaker's errors.

Colgate's triumph over Cornell was due to much the same conditions, although the winning score was made on a short forward pass following a return run of a kick off. Punting by Cornell at critical stages resulted in many yards gained by the Ithaca team in straight play.

Strength and weakness developed in unexpected quarters. Princeton found Bucknell harder to defeat than Rutgers a week ago. Virginia gave Yale a surprising tussle, the southerners showing all-around knowledge and game, which caused the Yale weakness until the final whistle. Harvard outplayed the Springfield Y. C. C. college. The Crimson played the best shown so early in the season in several years.

With one or two exceptions the development of the eastern eleven was demonstrated to be ahead of last year at this time and large score were frequent.

STUFFY MCKINNEY BY GRANTLAND RICE

VITAL SPOTS IN COMING BATTLES.

They call Connie's big four the $100,000 infield. No one ever called Stallings' infield by any such financial appellation, but for all that you couldn't purchase his four infielders for $100,000 to save your blessed neck-piece. Stallings' infield isn't the equal of Mack's but it is a far greater infield than most people have given it credit for being through the waning year.

The Braves four lack the slugging power of the Mackmen; otherwise they are about as good. They embrace no Collins, Baker and Melins on attack. But for defensive play they rival the four stars who have done most to make Athletic history and success said history with purple trimmings and a golden fringe. They will look quite a bit better in this coming series than most of those present before they will better in comparison.

First we have Stuffy Melins and Butch Schmidt. Butch, physically, is the most powerful man in baseball; one of the best powerful men ever played the game. He owns six meat markets in Baltimore that have netted him $40,000 in the bank with an income of $4,000 a year—outside of any law he might draw for polling two-bases hits and such. But beyond all that Butch is one of the best fielding first basemen in either league—a most worthy rival of Stuffy Melins and Jack Daubert. Rubie Vickers played with Butch for three years, and Rubie says that he doesn't recall Schmidt dropping a throw ball in all that time. "He's as good as Melins or Daubert around that bag," says Rubie, "and that goes all the way."

Schmidt is also a good hitter. He was off to a poor start when the Braves were submerged in the vicinity of the soup trough the first two months, but has been batting well over .300 since mid-July. His total average runs above .250.

Schmidt, however, is not quite yet a Melins. Stuffy is not only a normal .325 hitter and a great fielder, but he is a bit more experienced in major league and world series warfare. Stallings says, despite all this dope, that Schmidt will play up to his rival in every department. Next week should furnish the answer.

A second base comparison brings the two greatest of the game together—Eddie Collins and Johnny Evers. Collins has been the most valuable ball player of the year. He is undoubtedly the greatest second baseman of the game now—if not of all time. Collins has been hitting around .350 and has pilfered over 60 bases. He has scored 20 more runs than any other man in the game this season. He has no weakness either in courage, brains or skill—speed or power.

Yet Evers is scarce less valuable than Collins. He isn't as good a hitter and he isn't quite as fast. But he is one grand ballplayer—attached to one quickness, keenness, brains and guts. He is a bit more experienced in major league and world series warfare. Stallings says, despite all this dope, that Schmidt will play up to his rival in every department. Next week should furnish the answer.

The meeting of Maraville and Barry brings the two best shortstops of the major leagues together. Among ball players, the award is about 50-50 when these two are mentioned. Barry is a bit better on the inside game, in no other respect has the crack Philadelphia anything on the Human Rabbit. Maraville has outlived Barry on the year—has scored more runs—has given in more stolen bases and has played one of the greatest games at short ever seen—a game to compare favorably with Herman Long and Hughie Jennings at their best in the old days.

Maraville will cover a span or two of more ground than Barry, as alert as the Mackian veteran is, Barry has greater experience and this will be in his favor. So the value between this pair will be one of the big features of the carnival ahead.

Frank Baker has quite a bit on Red Smith. Baker is a steeper infielder and a surer, harder hitter. Smith can lay up against the ball, he carries a ringing wallop and poises them on a line, but he isn't a "hot" hitter. Smith, although just what the old days were good for, we don't know. Baker is a series of this sort as Baker is. He is a slashing hitter and a man liable to break up any game at any time. Just wait. You'll find that Smith has proven as big a factor in run making as Baker—and I know how good Baker has been.

Boston's infield, defensively, is only a short notch back of the Athletics. But to say that it compares with the Big Four who have been the greatest factors in the game for four years is unfair. Stallings' infield will average well above .270 at the bat. This is far enough. But Mack's infield will average above .300—which is something abnormal. And Mack's infield is also a wonderful machine at defensive play.

When Collins and Barry pit their wares against Maraville and Evers, the two greatest second base combinations in baseball will be at work. Evers and Tinker had no chance to face Barry and Tinker, but Johnny was out with a broken leg. But in Maraville's the Trojan has an even more brilliant performer at short than Tinker was—and the defensive play on both sides around second base is sure to be the high spot of the campaign.

Halfback Bell, who leads Gordon's eleven this season, is rated one of the best players in prep circles. He should prove very valuable to the Greenville team this season, and bid fair to become a college star in the next year or so.

Joe Tinker Picks Mack's Team To Win Over Braves in Big Series

Former Cub Star, Who is Now Managing Chicago Federals, Says Athletics Have Power and Drive

BY JOSEPH B. TINKER.

(Manager, Chicago Federal League Club.) Philadelphia has the better team in the world's series. Mind you I am not saying the Athletics are the best team in the country. But, compared with the Boston Braves the Athletics are much stronger.

I am saying this, admitting that there are several players on the Boston team who have never been seen and that I have had only a few opportunities to watch either the Athletics or Braves play. But I am confident from what I know of the men, that the Athletics are better.

Further, considering the two teams man for man in every position the Chicago Federal league team, I think, will win them and if we could get into the series would prefer our end of the chance to win to that of the Athletics.

However, this is a comparison of the two teams. I know the Athletics well. It is a great team; it is a smart team. In fact, since I have joined the National league and studying the American, National and Federal leagues I am convinced that the American league has far smarter ball clubs than the National has.

The smartest ball club that plays in the brainiest, cleverest game won the pennant in each league. I have been astonished to learn from players who have joined us the inside of some things the other leagues—and this side me in forming my opinions.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Connie Mack's regulars will appear in the Athletics lineup today against the New York Highlanders, when the opening game of the last series of the American league schedule here will be staged. Manager Mack will use his regular players tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday, and with a one-day lay-off, Thursday, hopes to have the champions on edge for the opening contest of the world's series Friday.

Indications are that the demand for world's series tickets will be greater than in former years. The sale will open Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, and it is believed every seat for the three games for which tickets will be offered here will be sold before noon.

Matt's says if Marquand had been in his real form the Giants would have won the pennant hands down. There is a suspicion among ball players that this is his real form.

Boston undoubtedly is the smartest ball club in the National League. The Athletics won more games by thinking than they did by superior pitching or hitting. They won 108 games, and never lost in the series of the game; there that Stallings and Mack are equal who and that their players play the smart kind of baseball.

Study them mechanically. The Athletics can outpitch Boston almost at will. This is partly because Stallings' team—not a great one, as Mack's plan of generalship does not include too much running and that cuts down the stealing average.

But they can run; and they can take extra bases when they are needed. Boston has not a base runner on its club—not one says White, who runs wild and hard. Evers, while he is a quick, speedy man, is not a base stealer. He will go the extra base whenever there is a chance, but is not the base running type. In fact, the club does not attack base.

In defensive work the Athletics have a shade on the infield and it is about as even in the outfield. Stallings' outfield being better in defense. Look them over, man for man, Mr. Melins is a fairly pre-arranged first baseman. He is a great, a shifty, brilliant first baseman, but he has a lot of faults, due to overconfidence to make plays and to his lack of height and reach.

Schmidt, I know, is slow moving and rather awkward around the bag. At second they have two of the greatest stars in the position. It is very hard to compare Evers and Collins because they do the same things in such different ways. Collins' great speed and his batting power make him the favorite.

As for playing the game—staying you call it—the Athletics do not seem to any club in their league, and Boston simply made a show of the other teams of the National league. Stallings' team, Mack's machine is better trained, and has a better field. Boston is new. He has tried to train Evers and—has taught it the game, but it is such a series it is hard to forget.

Albama Preps Win First Game

ANNISTON, Ala., Oct. 5.—The Alabama Presbyterian college football team won their first game Friday afternoon from the Talladega high school, by a score of 7 to 0. They have not completed their organization yet, and seem satisfied with this match, which was in the nature of a practice game. The line backs of Remie and Parker afforded the chief gains for the Preps, Captain Archibald doing the most effective work on the defensive. Coach Stephenson says the game taught him the weak points of the team, and he will begin work this week straightening out the kinks.

Smoke tobacco, not tabasco!

You listen to this:

There isn't anything the matter with your smokappetite. You try Prince Albert in a jimmy pipe or rolling a few makin's cigarettes before you do the next thing. And you'll wise up to what the doctor ordered! For P. A. in a cigarette or a pipe is a wonder—so bulky in flavor and so easy to roll, because it "stays put."

Unlike any other tobacco, Prince Albert can't bite your tongue and can't parch your throat. That's cut out by a patented process. No other tobacco can be made like franchise. And it's easy to roll, because it "stays put."

the national joy smoke

Everywhere you travel throughout the nation you'll find more men smoking pipes than ever before. Since P. A. hit the turf less than five years ago, three men now smoke a pipe where one smoked before. What's the answer? Just you get your pipe red tin, fire it a few loads of "the national joy smoke," and you'll wise up so quickly you'll think you've been napping for the last few years. And that's no idle dream!

Now do that little bit of get and get going in the right direction!

Just buy P. A. like this: (The pipe and the tin are sold separately.) The dealer's name, "P. A. for me," in the top right hand corner. You'll get acquainted right away on the second fire! On?
