

N. Y. ENGINEER TELLS ABOUT CONCRETE ROADS

Says They Could Be Constructed in South for $7,500 Per Mile

One of the really interesting men attending the Fourth American Road Congress in New York, Mr. Acheson, from Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. Acheson is the district engineer for New York state's construction of highways, and he is a road enthusiast from start to finish. Mr. Acheson talks very interestingly of the road work being done in New York state, and especially in this case when it comes to talking concrete road building. He stated to a representative of The Journal yesterday that the experiment had just this year built in miles of concrete road in western New York alone. This road was 11-1/2 miles long and was laid under the 1-1/2-1/2 agreement. Mr. Acheson has also supervised the building of 10 miles of concrete road in his state on a lease account. Mr. Acheson stated, when asked about the cost of constructing concrete roads in New York, that the cost of building the roads, when let by contract, was from $14,000 to $18,000 per mile, the cost of building them by force account, around $10,000 per mile. When asked what he thought the average cost of building concrete roads in the south would be, where concrete was used, he stated that he believed it could easily be done for from $7,500 to $12,000 per mile.

ROADS ARE MAINTENANCE COMPAIRED.
Mr. Acheson stated that the average maintenance for dirt and macadam roads was $500 per mile per year, but that concrete roads cost less than the average cost of maintenance for dirt roads. He stated that the cost of maintaining concrete roads was not more than $100 per mile per year. He stated about the plan for concrete road building, Mr. Acheson said that one plant, sufficiently large to build a mile of road every fourteen days, could be bought for $5,000. This plant would consist of a ten-ton steam engine No. 10 concrete batch mixer, three tons of pipe, gasoline engine tools and eighteen wheelbarrows. The small tools for this outfit could be bought for $150. Mr. Acheson said that the concrete mixer would make twelve revolutions before the mixed product was dumped out to be used in the roadway.

CONCRETE BRINGS GOOD FOR HORSES.
Mr. Acheson stated that it was a popular belief that concrete roads were hard on horses, but that such was not the case. He stated that the rough surface was always thing the horse needs, in pulling heavy loads, and that concrete was neither hard nor slick concrete as supposed by many. He said the roads in New York had been built upon grades of 8 per cent, and that the horses were found to hold perfectly on a grade of that percentage. He stated that after many years of experience in road building he had come to the conclusion that the concrete road is the way for permanency and economy.

GERMANS THREATEN TO STOP U. S. RELIEF WORK

NEW SUBURBAN FREIGHT STATION IS NOW OPEN

Depot at 20 N. Butler Street
Supplants Walton Street Place

The new suburban freight depot of the Atlanta trolley was opened for service early Tuesday morning at 20 North Butler street. This supplants the old freight station in the Electric and One building at Walton and Prairie streets, which has been inadequate for some time. All freight to be handled by the Georgia Railway and Power company and the Atlanta Northern Railway company will be delivered or received hereafter in the Butler street depot. Advance notice of the move was published in all editions of the trolley freights, but some of them overlooked it, and throughout Tuesday and Wednesday morning trucks and wagons were being turned away from the old station.

PARTY OF ROYALTY FROM EGYPT REACHES NAPLES

NAPLES (Via Rome), Nov. 10.—Prince Mohammed Ali Pasha, the brother of the Khedive of Egypt, accompanied by his uncle and cousin, Princes Hussein and Aziz Hassan, arrived here today aboard the steamer Orizaba. Prince Aziz Hassan at one time was commander of the Turkish cavalry at Kirk-Kilis.

Exhibit of Roadway 20 Years Old Attracts Much Attention

In Bellefontaine, Ohio, surrounding the public square, is proof of words, the big electric sign on the auditorium stage, "Concrete for Permanent Roads." Twenty years ago, Bellefontaine laid four blocks of concrete pavement. Some of the specifications were crude. The street was cut up into five-foot squares, and the concrete was well made, and today the pavement is smooth, slightly gives a good foothold to horses and promises twenty years' more of service.

A slab, weighing 2,800 pounds, was removed from East Columbus street, the heaviest traveled block in Bellefontaine, and is on exhibition in both at the auditorium.

For a pavement to withstand twenty years of steel tire traffic with little signs of wear is remarkable, especially since the art of making concrete is advancing every year.

Two of the four blocks have required no maintenance and the other two have been repaired once at a total cost of $200. This consisted of repairs to longitudinal joints only. The transverse joints showing no appreciable wear. The surface of the slabs has worn down evenly but to such a slight extent that the original markings are yet to be seen.

When it is considered that the only repair in twenty years has been upon longitudinal joints, and that no longitudinal joints are needed or permitted by modern specifications, it is clear that Bellefontaine's practice is a striking lesson for present-day engineers.

The city engineer in 1914 was James G. Wonders, now consulting engineer in the west and the contractor was W. T. Snyder.

The pavement slab shown at the auditorium was taken from a point fifteen feet from the curb where maximum traffic would give a severe test. It is typical of the entire four blocks.

OKLEY AND LACY TO BE TRIED ON DECEMBER 1

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 11.—Trials of James G. Okley, former president of the state board of convict inspectors, and Theo. Lacy, former clerk, on additional indictments charging the embezzlement and conversion of state funds, have been set for December 1 in the city court. However, it is probable the cases will be continued until Lacy's appeal from a ten-year sentence imposed by the city court in another case.

SIMPLY BREATHE IT

That's the Way You Use Hyomel, the Simple, Safe and Effective Catarrh Remedy.

The "most pleasant, easiest, safe, effective, and the really sensible method for the treatment and cure of catarrh is Hyomel, which can be had from any drug store. Just put twenty drops of the liquid in the small inhaler that comes with every complete outfit, then breathe it a few minutes four times a day. It almost instantly clears the head and stops that annoying sniffing. When using Hyomel every particle of air that enters the breathing organs is charged with an antiseptic, healing, health-restoring balsam that destroys the catarrh germs, stops the unpleasant discharges from the nose, relieves the irritation, and quickly heals the sore, raw and inflamed tissues.

The first day's use of Hyomel will show a decided improvement, no matter how distressing the trouble. Its action is not only rapid but lasting. There is no more common yet dangerous disease than catarrh, which usually begins with a neglected cold. Do not endanger your health by letting your catarrhal trouble become chronic. Begin the Hyomel treatment today—it is inexpensive, safe and reliable. Jacob's Pharmacy always sells it with agreement to refund the money if it does not give complete satisfaction.—(Advt.)

swollen eyelids or ankles, twinges or back pains in the region of kidneys, gone before the eyes. Yellow skin, shortness of breath are sure signs of weak kidneys. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, indigestion, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys. Get from any reliable drug store a little bottle of Sturges' Buchu and Juniper Compound. Take a tablespoonful after each meal, plenty of water. Stop eating sugar or sweets in a day or so your kidneys and bladder will set to work and natural. The symptoms disappear like magic, for Sturges' Buchu and Juniper Compound acts quickly on the kidneys and bladder, strengthens these organs and drains all impurities from the kidneys. You then quickly regain your buoyancy and smooth skin, ridges on the red back disappear, red blood. All swellings in ankles or eyelids pass away. Back pains and twinges of breath cease to worry you. (Adv.)

Why Be "Blue"?

Don't be "blue". Perhaps, the fact that you are feeling "blue", should make you happy. Why? Because it may be a worth-while hint to take better care of yourself. "Blues" are apt to come from poison of blood—often are caused by uric acid which the kidneys should filter from the blood. Strengthen your kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy recommended everywhere for backache, uric acid trouble, bladder and kidney diseases.

A Case Right Here in Atlanta

Mr. John W. Smith, 124 Mills Street, Atlanta, says: "I was badly bothered with kidney trouble which kept me weak and run down. I had no rest and weakness in my back and didn't rest well. Nothing seemed to help me in this. I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They benefited me right away and almost before I realized it, I was well."

DUBOSE SAYS MINISTERS PROMISED W. C. T. U. HELP

formal consultation, when a night letter came from Mrs. Patterson at Ashbury Park asking for a formal consultation regarding the invitation. The members of the committee were as far as practicable, got together.

"It was directed to get additional invitations from civic organizations in the city. I secured invitations from the League of Commerce, the Anti-Saloon League, the Men and Religion Forward Movement, the convention bureau, the governor. Perhaps others joined in the request."

COMMITTEE FELT AUTHORIZED. The ministers met but once a month, and the committee felt fully authorized to act. Under this office the letters signed by me as chairman were sent, and I had others feel that they were to be authorized by the action of the ministry meeting. Dr. J. H. Bell, now of Gainesville, who was a member of the committee, was a party to this action and will corroborate all these points. In the Wake Of the War With Corey

No newspaper, no magazine, in America today is publishing more interesting or thrilling war articles than those by Herbert Corey, the famous magazine writer. They picture the human side of the conflict as no brief, censored cables can do.

opening when they found it. It takes a year. They've had enough of war. There are thousands more like them. The leather man said five of his persons acquire the plan to remove to the States as soon as they can gather together the scraps the war has left them. The rubber dealer knew of others. The three Hamburg Germans said there will be an exodus of men with money from that part of Germany.

"We could get along under the burden of taxes for keeping up our armies," they said, "but when the war came and destroyed every man's business—what's the use? We'll go where peace is to last."

It may be that army of immigration will not be recruited largely from the day laboring classes. Many of them. Many will take advantage of the rising market for labor which will certainly soon come. The rebuilding process of the belligerent countries, and which will open under forced draft because so many of yesterday's workmen are now dead in unmarked rows on nameless battlefields.

But there will be a surprising influx of business men to America. Most of them will have money. Others will have the rebuilding process. But they will all be inspired by a profound desire to live in a country in which conditions are not to be shaken now and then by some frantic fear of the loss of Russian battle line. With Cosmacks raiding within twenty miles of Cracow, the commandant of that fortress has ordered the civilian population of the city to leave. Przemysl is said to be fully invested again and the reduction of this fortress is likely to decide any further advance by the Russian left wing.

Petrograd is not wholly satisfied with the scope of the victories reported against the Germans—for the belief, prevalent in military circles that if the Russian strategy of the Napoleonic era, had been followed further, even to the extent of the surrender of Warsaw, the invaders never would have remained in their motive quite justified the government in its determination to defend Warsaw.

INPATRY DID THE WORK. Contrary to practice, infantry and not artillery has been the dominant force used by the Russians along their western battle front in pushing the invaders back across the border. Showing disregard of the German batteries, the force of the Russian infantry time after time have advanced and won positions by the use of steel. From Moscow came a report that during the fighting near Aerod, on the river Valtre, the Russians captured General von Malsenga, commander of the seventeenth German army corps together with members of his staff. It is reported also that General Von Liebert, who was in command at Leds when the Germans occupied that city, also has been captured by the Russians.

There are reports that the Austrian army is abandoning entirely its position in western Galicia and will winter at the foot of the Carpathians, renewing the war from that base in the spring. But the stubborn defense of Przemysl and the evident determination to defend Cracow hardly confirm this.

Dispatches reaching London from Belgium and Holland continue to insist that the Germans are withdrawing many of their troops from their western battle front, but the official communiof retiring before an enemy in a position in an endeavor to limit the success of another enemy still better placed. It is therefore, of the first importance for the Germans to beat the allies in Belgium and France, for a time at least, their line of operations in order that they may turn their attention to the Russians. This line of argument leads to the conviction in Paris that the German endeavor in Belgium will be pursued with great determination.

GERMAN ASKS FOR PEACE? Coincident with the news that every German soldier has been swept from the Russian front, Petrograd is engaged in negotiations in the report from Petrograd that Berlin has approached Russia with overtures looking toward a cessation of hostilities.

Contrary to German report that the Russians had been checked on the frontier of East Prussia, Petrograd declares that a brilliant success in that region has been succeeded by an actual invasion of German territory. An equal triumph is reported from the other end of the long Russian battle line. With Cosmacks raiding within twenty miles of Cracow, the commandant of that fortress has ordered the civilian population of the city to leave. Przemysl is said to be fully invested again and the reduction of this fortress is likely to decide any further advance by the Russian left wing.

It is estimated by competent authorities that a total of more than 1,800 lineal miles of concrete roads of varying widths will be built this year. From California to Connecticut and from Mississippi to Minnesota the Concrete Road is daily gaining in favor with those who know that not merely first cost, but construction costs plus annual maintenance charges determine whether a road is cheap or expensive.

First Concrete Road in Fulton County Built by Convict Labor, Andrews Avenue Between Peachtree and Pace's Ferry Roads.

What is a Concrete Road?

A concrete road is the last word in highway construction as we know the art today.

It is a slab of Portland cement concrete on a prepared sub-grade and molded into perfect road shape with engineering accuracy. The concrete is composed of materials identical with those which have entered into all the great engineering works of modern times, locks, dams, bridges, viaducts and other structures demanding strength, solidity and resistance to the elements. It may be plain or reinforced as conditions require. Its thickness commensurate with the load to be borne. The width varies with the density of traffic from the full width of the highway to a comparatively narrow slab with shoulders of gravel, silt or macadam to accommodate vehicles when passing.

The Concrete Road is the exemplification of the Square Deal in highway construction. It gives the taxpayers a square deal because road funds are wisely expended and produce enduring results. The highest engineering skill and scientific knowledge are available and are at the beck-and-call of any county which wishes to build concrete roads. Posterity is given a square deal because the concrete road will be in place and giving service when the bond issue matures and has to be paid.

No county is rich enough to ever complete its road-building program unless concrete is adopted for its highways. It is not possible to both build new roads and maintain a large system of open-improved highways that are rapidly breaking down. Every main road in any county should finally be permanently improved, but this is only possible where concrete is used. Many counties spend far more money on maintenance than on road-building. Maintenance is built into concrete in the beginning.

There is no guesswork about concrete and nothing is left to chance. A concrete road is scientifically designed and constructed to give the ultimate degree of service at the minimum of cost.

A concrete road should be built on a foundation that has been given adequate treatment in preparation and drainage. Then when the concrete is laid and properly cured that road is a permanent addition to the highway system of the world.

Portland cement concrete is the only known material which increases in strength with age. It does not soften under heat nor grow brittle when cold. It is the ideal road material. A concrete road is smooth but not slippery in wet weather. It affords perfect footing for horses. Veterinarians say that road injuries to horses are caused by holes and small stones that roll under their feet, not by hard road surfaces.

The concrete road has no superior as a Safety First surface for automobiles and motor trucks. Side-slipping which causes skidding is never chargeable to the concrete road. It does not become rutted or uneven. There are no waves and no loose stones to make trouble, the surface remains as it was when turned over to traffic. It is built to stay, and it stays.

The concrete road is largely composed of local materials. The sand and the gravel or crushed stone come from nearby and the money expended for them stays at home. Ordinary labor under skilled supervision does the work satisfactorily, and the money expended for labor can stay at home. Fulton county, Georgia, is securing splendid results with negro convict labor. Georgia counties with excellent sand and gravel accessible and cheap convict labor can build concrete roads more cheaply than any other section in the land.

Nothing is left to chance in building a concrete road. The cement is inspected officially; the materials are inspected and tested; the mixing is done mechanically and to specification; the placing is done according to practice that is the result of long experience. Under competent supervision the making and placing of concrete is at once the most scientific and the most practical process in the entire construction field.

Lee County, Miss., Building Eleven Miles Concrete Road This Year

Lee county, Mississippi, is a typical southern cotton county. The population is about 30,000; the assessed valuation of taxable property is $7,500,000; the area is 428 square miles. Tupelo, the largest town, has approximately 5,000 people; the cotton receipts there are heavy, about 70,000 bales annually. In 1910 one road district in Lee county voted a bond issue of $100,000 and expended it in macadam roads. Another district has since issued bonds and expended the same amount on roads of the same type. Lee county wanted Good Roads, and built good roads, but not lasting roads. The macadam roads have been gradually wearing out, calling for maintenance and repair expense. They have had to be oiled to keep them from going to pieces with greater rapidity under the traffic of an ordinary southern county.

This spring there was another road district bond issue to be expended. The people had heard of concrete roads, and the Board of Supervisors and other citizens went to Wayne county, Michigan, to inspect the roads there. They saw and were satisfied that concrete, and concrete only, would give them permanent roads. As a result eleven and one-half miles of concrete road is now being built between Saitillo and Verona, the most of the stretch now being complete and in use. The photographs will show you the kind of road they are getting; the passing years will show they are getting the worth of their money, which is more than the other bond issues brought them.

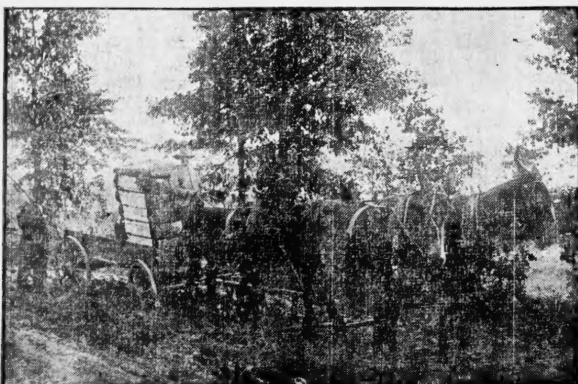

of better roads. How many of them have seen the roads that were built with the bond issues they pleaded for with the people go to pieces in a few short years? It has happened everywhere, more's the pity; it happened in Lee county, but the officials there are profiting by their mistakes. They are building a road that will be a monument to them, such a monument as the Appian Way is today to the old Romans. When the bonds mature this road will still be such an asset to Lee county that it could be bonded again, in all likelihood.

There are many southern counties that have no outstanding bonds for roads that have gone to pieces. They are in position to take advantage of what the whole country has learned in the last few years—that at least we know how to build lasting roads. There is no more experimenting to be done; there is no guesswork; there are no secret processes nor manufacturers' royalties necessary any more. The concrete road is the outcome of ultimate engineering skill and knowledge, the results of endless experimentation and comparison, the consummation of the road economist's brightest dream, a highway reasonable in first cost and inexpensive in maintenance. A Permanent Road.

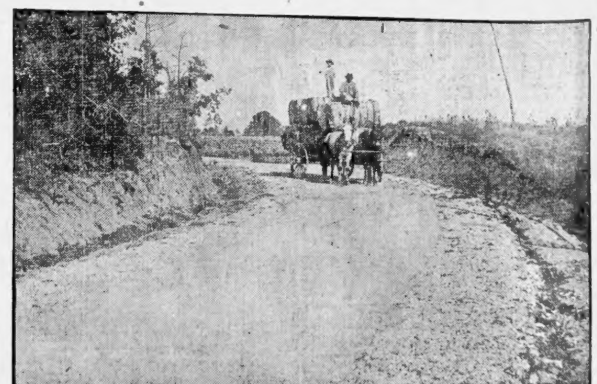

Intersection of Hill Street and Prince Avenue, Athens, Ga. 20,500 square yards of two-course concrete pavement, seven inches thick.

The Lee county road is nine feet in width of concrete with a three-foot shoulder of macadam on each side, making a 15-foot highway and the contract price is $6,100 the mile. That is the first country road of concrete in the lower south, the forerunner of hundreds of miles yet to be built. Here are the names of the men that compose the board of supervisors: B. F. Parker, chairman, Guntown; F. M. Roper, Saitillo; W. T. Pound, Tupelo; W. D. McGunaghy, Verona; I. B. Cogging, Nettleton and D. W. Robins, Tupelo. These men have done something to entitle them to more than local fame. We have many Good Road Enthusiasts here in the south, many men who have worked long and arduously for the cause and have been responsible for increasing the mileage

GOVERNOR SIDESTEPS
STEAM ROLLER TOAST

For Once "Highwaymen" Are Made to Feel at Home in Atlanta

Starting with "America" and closing with "Show Me the Way to Go Home," some 200 of the notables attending the Fourth American Road Congress were entertained Tuesday evening at a banquet at the Kimball house.

There was a minimum of seriousness and a maximum of frivolity, a brilliant display of wit and humor, an abundance of song, and bountiful supplies of food and good cheer.

Secretary Fred House, of the Atlanta convention bureau, was there with his "Convention Hymn Book" as usual, and made everybody happy right from the start.

Robert F. Maddox, the toastmaster, formally opened the banquet with a toast to President Woodrow Wilson. He welcomed the "highwaymen" to Atlanta, spoke eloquently of the city's rise in fifty years from the ashes of war, and declared the south is now about to experience a re-birth of prosperity in useful crops.

THE STEAM ROLLER.
There were no set subjects for the speakers. It being left to Mr. Maddox's sagacity to propose an appropriate response for each of them, and he brought down the house with laughter and applause by calling on Governor John M. Slaton, the first speaker, to tell about the operation of a modern steam roller at a political convention.

Filled with a broad smile on his face, Governor Slaton retorted by saying he thought the guests were going to forget about steam rollers and other technical features of road building, and give themselves up to good fellowship. He told several good stories, spoke humorously and sympathetically of the negro as he knew him in the south, and concluded eloquently on Georgia's "resources."

The next speaker was Richard H. Pinchard, of Baltimore, editor of the Manufacturers' Record. His magnificent outline of the part which the south is to play in the material development of the nation was the nearest approach of the evening to a serious speech. He was heard with profound attention and given much after rounds of applause.

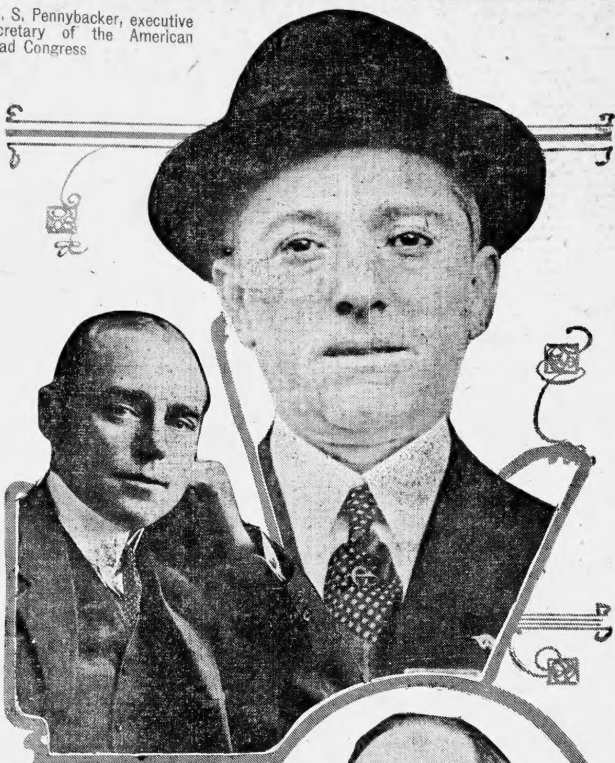

After Mr. Pinchard came a speaker introduced as Logan Waller Page, director of the United States office of public roads and a brother of Thomas Nelson Page. A tall, distinguished looking man arose in a corner of the banquet hall and made a most happy speech in which a few facts were mixed with a great deal of fun. He spoke of being born in Virginia, invited the assembled road builders to make full use of the office of public roads, and complimented Fulton county upon their splendid system of highways. It was a speech which fitted Mr. Page perfectly, but the gentleman speaking was not Mr. Page.

POLICE THIEF CAPTIVE IS AN ESCAPED CONVICT

In the person of George Copeland, a negro held at police headquarters on suspicion of having on last Wednesday set fire to a little store operated by him in the rear of 143 North Boulevard, the city detective believe they have a life-time convict who escaped from the Marietta county chain gang in 1911. Copeland was arrested Tuesday morning by Detectives Hamby and Vickery. He is said to answer the Bertillon description and measurements of a negro murderer for whom a reward is outstanding.

NEW JOURNAL-HERALD
HIGHWAY WONDERFUL
ROAD, SAY DELEGATES

Stretch of Work Through
North Carolina, Now Near Completion, Will Be Best
Highway in United States

Delegates to the Good Roads congress tell of the marked improvement of that part of the Journal-Herald highway between New York and Atlanta which passes through three North Carolina counties, Forsyth, Davie and Iredell. Through a newspaper campaign and petition to the government a $100,000 post road from Winston-Salem to Salisbury has been almost completed, and by the end of the year will be one of the finest stretches of highway in the United States.

The agitation for the road began with the passage of a bill carrying an appropriation of $50,000 to bridge the Yadkin river. It was followed by a $175,000 long issue in Davie county. Just at this time the $1,000,000 congressional bill was introduced for experimenting on post roads, and a commission from the three counties making application for part of this sum, secured $50,000 from the government.

Since work began on the road two steel bridges have been erected over the Yadkin river, and more over other rivers in the three counties. The mud which troubled motorists in the past has been entirely limited, and the post road, running past such historic places as the grave of Daniel Boone's father and mother, the grounds of Colonel Bryant, of Tary fame, and interesting places about Salem, gives pleasant passage to all motorists on the route between New York and Atlanta.

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE LAW OF THE GAME. No matter how good they are, No matter their rank or fame, No matter the grip they tighten, In the whirl and swirl of the game, No matter the stride they hold, No matter the long trail through, Some day another will come along, With more than they ever knew.

No matter how fast they look, No matter how great their day, No matter the power and speed they show, No matter the wreck and wreck of the fra, No matter that thousands crown them king of a nation's fad, Some day another will reap the field, With something they never had.

It's the Law of the Game—As time and the race of man, As old as the beat of heart and pulse, In the first dim dawn of the dawn, No matter the height they keep, No matter the crest where their drawn sword, Some day another will stand tall, With more than they ever dreamed.

THE NEXT TOUCHDOWN. Since Yale and Princeton are listed for their annual game, week it will be a matter of at least half interest as to which of the two extended rivals breaks the touchdown record.

In 1910 Yale beat Princeton 5 to 3 by a forward pass. Princeton upset Yale 6 to 3 through the medium of a fumbled recovery. In the count was and with the brace of field goals. In 1913 the count was 3 and 3, with each side dropping a touchdown.

So in four years' play, now, Yale and Princeton have each scored a touchdown and registered four goals from the field. In the last four years was added up each way, Princeton would have an abnormal margin of fifteen points to fourteen. The Yale record has been Yale's failure to kick goal after touchdown. Yale's scores indicate, the two eleven have been fairly even.

NEARLY A RECORD. The Yale-Princeton affair of the last two years has been a record. To have a field goal draw one year, followed by a field goal in the next, is a bit unusual, say way you shoot it. With a draw extending over two years, this contest should be an entertaining. Princeton should have won in 1912 and Yale should have won in 1913. But for both years is three in four years, not a goal line crossed.

AN UNCERTAIN GAME. Football in the old days was easier to tip in advance. The eleven on Saturday was generally the better eleven next Saturday all through the year. "Now," says Yale, "we can beat the scrub team six touchdowns a day, and with exactly the same lineup, will be fighting hard to make the next."

There is more certainty in mass play. In the power of team skill and agility depend more upon mental attitude, psychology, digests and last night's sleep. Which accounts for the big change.

YALE'S DREAM. Having beaten Harvard in three out of four major sports this year, no wonder Yale is yearning for a chance to even up with a clear four ways.

Yale scored her last touchdown on Harvard, as we remember, 1908. At any rate, in the last four years Yale has only scored one scattered field goal against the Crimson. In these four years Harvard run up 35 points against 5—a margin that admits of a reversed dream.

The reappearance of Illinois with a high-grade eleven has added a considerable pep to the conference championship. Judging from the east so far, the west has added conservatism to its attack. The east has emerged from its trance. And Illinois, with good coaching, has profited with a more versatile assault.

According to the Great Tim, November, December, January, and February are his favorite months. His turbulent and excessive soul is harassed by the sight of an umpire through this part of the year and his high cost-of-being-fined is toned down a trifle.

Personally, I am satisfied that the machinery of our cotton exchanges is the only means by which an over-production can be safely and sanely disposed of. This was proven in our first sixteen-million bale crop.

It has taken a world-wide war to prove to the rest of the world the need of the cotton gin and to change and convert those who clamored for its abolition. As a southerner of 58 years standing, I think it would be apropos for the south to celebrate its anniversary.
