W. M. HOWARD ENGAGED TO PLEAD FRANK'S CASE

Former Congressman Will Present Petition to Pardon Board Next Monday

W. M. Howard, formerly of Lexington and now of Augusta, an ex-congressman and one of the best known lawyers in the state, who has been engaged to present to the state prison commission and the governor Leo M. Frank's petition for a commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment, arrived in Atlanta Sunday, which starts before the prison commission next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Howard has made a thorough study of the whole case, going back to the scene of the crime at the pencil factory and coming through Frank's trial and his subsequent appeal to the courts.

To a reporter of the Journal Mr. Howard said Monday morning:

"The people of Georgia are rapidly coming to the conclusion that Leo Frank is innocent of the murder of Mary Phagan, or at least that the doubt of his guilt is so grave that his sentence should be commuted to life imprisonment."

Mr. Howard for twelve years represented the Eighth district in congress, his home being Lexington. Last year, upon his retirement from congress, he moved to Augusta and formed a law partnership with Simon H. Callaway. Previous to his election to congress Mr. Howard for twenty years was judicially a general of the northern circuit.

During his career as solicitor general Mr. Howard was connected with a number of notable criminal trials and earned the reputation of being one of the ablest lawyers in Georgia. In the famous Mitchell case at Thomsville he was for ten years ago he was associated with Solicitor William E. Thomas in the prosecution. With Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, and Judge Enoch H. Callaway, of Augusta, he represented Judge Smory Eber of the United States court in the southern district of Georgia, before the congressional investigating committee.

DORSEY ASKS INCREASE OF BOND FOR GEORGES

Application of Fulton County Solicitor Made to Justice Lamar of Supreme Court

(By Associated Press.)
 WASHINGTON, May 24.—Application for larger bail than originally fixed was for today made to Justice Lamar by Solicitor Dorsey of Atlanta, in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. James, held in Texas for extradition to Georgia to answer indictments for larceny after flight.

The inmates were extradited from Oregon to Texas on charges of murder conspiracy. After their acquittal it is claimed, they cannot be held in Texas for extradition to Georgia.

Justice Lamar several weeks ago allowed the inmates to leave the state court from an order of the Texas court of criminal appeals holding them subject to extradition to Georgia, and fixed the amount of the bond for James at $100 and for his wife at $100.

Officials contend the bonds are insufficient.

As Spare Tires Empire Reds Spare Your Wallet

When you carry spare Empire REDS you get all you pay for. They are as fresh and lively when you transfer them from rack to wheel as when you bought them. They are as tough and strong one year old as one month old. As spare tires they do not depreciate prematurely and cut down your mileage. And the best spare tire is sure to be the longest-wearing tire.

Empire Tires RED WEAR LONGEST

They are cured without free sulphur. For that reason they are free from that rapid deterioration that you know is common to ordinary rubber. The springy RED RUBBER contracts on cuts and keeps them from spreading. The extra thick Empire Tread adds to the tire's life and makes slippery roads safe.

You don't take any chances with Empire REDS, for if they don't make good in every way, we will. You decide whether you are getting a square deal and we'll take your word for it. It's the safest basis you ever bought a tire on.

MR. HENDRIX PREACHES ON THE PRODIGAL SON

The parable of the prodigal son was taken as a text for his Sunday sermon by Rev. W. H. Hendrix, of St. Mark's Methodist church.

Mr. Hendrix gave the parable the broader significance of applying to universal salvation for wrongdoers. His application of it was to the offender against divine law, who saw the evil of his way and returned for forgiveness, determined to lead a cleaner and a better life.

FLORIDA MAN'S DRINK MAKES HIM VERY SICK

After arriving in Atlanta from Panama, Fla., and registering at the New Terminal hotel on Madison avenue, W. C. Hamilton, who came to Atlanta to visit his daughter, drank a mixture of whisky and something else which made him very sick. Hamilton said business worries made him despondent, and a Grady physician who came with the Grady ambulance said there probably was laudanum in the whisky, but not enough to do more than nauseate.

Hamilton, Hamilton didn't go to the hospital, but later left the hotel with his daughter.

Thomasville's New Enterprise

One of the greatest omens of Georgia's development is the increasing number of boards of trade or similar institutions in the various towns and counties of the state.

The first step of the Thomasville organization will be an industrial survey of the surrounding country for the purpose of ascertaining just what lines of improvement are most feasible and most promising.

Every community is aware in a general way of resources, its needs and its opportunities. But few communities have anything like a complete or accurate idea on those matters.

A board of trade, an industrial club or a chamber of commerce furnishes the machinery for intelligent and co-operative effort.

Our National Wealth

According to the latest estimate of the Census Bureau, the national wealth of the United States is $187,739,000,000, or $1,965 per capita.

Table with 4 columns: Year, Total (exclusive of exempt real property), Per capita, and Property. Rows for 1914, 1913, 1912, 1911, 1910, 1909, 1908, 1907, 1906, 1905, 1904, 1903, 1902, 1901, 1900.

It will be observed that within the sixty-two years the total wealth of the United States has increased from $7,136,000,000 to $187,739,000,000.

Among the items composing the aggregate for 1914, the following are noteworthy: Exempt real property and improvements, $99,343,000,000.

Why Children Have Night Terrors.

BY H. ADDINGTON BRUCE. (Author of "The Middle of Personality," "Psychology and Parenthood," etc.)

A common disorder of childhood, and one which may be traced to a great number of causes, is "night terrors," in the malady technically called "pavor nocturnus," but better known as "night terrors." Children afflicted with night terrors behave in a most extraordinary way.

Sometimes he leaps out of bed and hides in a corner, trembling with fear and excitement. For a few moments he seems to know no one.

It used to be generally thought that this singular conduct indicated an inborn and organic over-excitability of the nervous system, and should be treated by drugs and dieting.

The trouble is that most parents do not realize the importance, on the one hand, of guarding their children against the influence of various kinds of objects, and on the other hand of carefully cultivating in them the virtues of courage, confidence and self-reliance.

OUR PREPAREDNESS FOR WAR III—COAST DEFENSES.

THE COAST DEFENSES of the United States are the most extensive and the most complete in the world. This fact has been conceded by foreign military experts, who have pronounced some of these fortifications practically impregnable.

A degree of popular misunderstanding, however, undoubtedly exists as to the proper function of our coast defenses. They are not coast defenses, in the proper sense of the word, but harbor defenses. They are designed to protect our commerce and our great cities from attack by sea.

To prevent an enemy from effecting a landing at any point along our long coast line, we are dependent upon the mobile army and the fleet. To protect our coast line by means of fortification would be impossible. The coast defenses merely secure the strategic points against capture or destruction from the sea.

It is interesting at this time to note that an emergency was necessary to bring home to the American people the need of defense against a possible attack from the time that the Spanish American war broke out, our coast defenses were actually armed, for the most part, with muzzle-loading cannon which were in fact wholly ineffectual against the armor of modern battleships.

A modern coast defense fortification consists in a very important element, the concrete armor. Back of this are the pits in which the guns are mounted and the rooms from which their fire is directed. The armor of a fortification consists of concrete in a battery of primary guns of from thirty to twelve inches in calibre, including twelve-inch mortars and intermediate batteries of four and five-inch and 4.7-inch guns, and a secondary battery of four and three-inch guns.

The gunnery of our coast defenses represents the highest development of the science of defense. The modern gunnery is stationary and their surroundings are known to the enemy. This gives our ships an incalculable advantage over the vessels which are not so situated. And their marksmanship may be without exaggeration termed perfect. Up to 8,000 yards a hundred per cent of hits is not an uncommon score.

Directing the fire of these great guns is a matter of mathematics. A base line 2,000 yards long is laid out on the ground. At each end of this line a gun is shown the angle between this base line and a line drawn from the base line to the enemy's ship. The angle of elevation of the gun is determined by the telephone receiver strapped to his head is bent over the gun. The information is transmitted by the telephone receiver to the observer who is positioned in the gun. The observer's job is to determine the angle between the gun and the enemy's ship at the apex, while the fortification is at the base.

The coast artillery was first invented by Major William Chamberlain, a method of working out and miniaturize the problems of coast defense, which is used by the officers at Fort Sumner. It has given the coast artillery corps greater confidence in the impregnability of these defenses. Some means of overcoming these fortifications from the water.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

WHEN you set right down to the bottom of the matter, the only way to get something for nothing is to do a transaction is the one in which both parties are profited.

If I sell you a horse for a hundred dollars, the horse is worth to me of more value than the money to you and the money ought to be of more value than the horse to me.

This is the underlying law of all trade, from swapping jack-knives to selling a million dollars' worth of bonds.

The complications of the business world are so great that it is often hard to tell whether a given deal, or a given line of money making, is ethical or not. But it is an excellent way to keep in mind the basic rule that the only truly honorable way of making money is the interests of both buyer and seller are advanced.

It is plain enough that betting is immoral, for my gain is your loss. So in a lottery what I win represents your loss, and vice versa.

When we get into other affairs, however, the issue becomes confused. The safest method, for one who cares for his self-respect, is to ask one's self, "Have I rendered any sort of service commensurate with the money I am getting or favoring?"

The class of sons and daughters who accept the gifts or the inheritance of money from their parents is the most numerous. They are the ones who spend all their money in idleness, and in selfish ends, and who have no value to society, is the most dangerous class in the world.

They are doubly dangerous because vicious traditions.

"Do it," declared the pretty little widow. "The congregation was so small tonight that every time the parson said 'dearly beloved' I positively blushed."

By Frederic J. Haskin

This war game is played upon a board 21 by 45 feet in size. Miniature models of dreadnaughts, cruisers, battleships, destroyers and all the other craft of modern fleet are the pawns. At one end of the board is the other end of the coast defense, with all of its surrounding land features, is represented.

Advantages of coast defense fortifications over assaults upon daylight is obvious. The gunners on board the vessels have a short sea. However good the weather, the vessels are not so far from the shore as they are on the other hand, can almost unquestionably destroy any ship that comes within their range and remain there for a reasonable length of time.

For these reasons, it is almost certain that as an enemy would make a searchlight, they would in this case, immense searchlights, they would in this case, immense searchlights, they would in this case, immense searchlights.

His only other method of proceeding against them would be to send his destroyers and other small craft to attack the searchlights. But this would be a very risky affair, for his destroyers, might escape the mines. But the fortifications could send their own destroyers, patrol boats and torpedo boats against them.

Pop would give the enemy, perhaps, the greatest advantage of all. Searchlights are effective for only a short distance in a fog. The enemy might effect an entrance to the harbor in these conditions, but by attacking the searchlights from the sea, the fortifications could prevent the enemy from entering the harbor in twenty-four hours. A few soldiers are landed and a wharf is quickly built.

Once landed, there would be nothing to prevent an army from taking the coast defenses by land unless they were heavily defended. Our own troops, Major General Waters, who has been in command of the defenses of the coast line since 1904. It is seen that our regular army and militia would have to be largely supplemented by volunteer troops before invasion could be successfully repelled. If the may had been in a paper manufacture, it would have been defeated. For the purpose of protecting our navy in preventing the landing of an army, however, our coast defenses are well-nigh perfect.

Thus, the coast defenses are seen to be almost perfect, both in equipment and operation. In case of war they would insure bases of operation for the navy and protect our large ports from attack by sea. They are a bulwark of our coast defense, and a bulwark from attack by land. For complete defense against invasion by the mobile army and the navy must come from the coast defenses. The Japanese demonstrated in the Russo-Japanese war that an army landed upon a shore without the support of a harbor in twenty-four hours. A few soldiers are landed and a wharf is quickly built.

GEORGIA TOURISTS GIVEN CORDIAL RECEPTION IN TOWNS ALONG ROUTE

HERE ARE THE "SEEING-GEORGIA" tourists as they appeared when lined up on the streets of Columbus for the first photograph of their five-day tour of the state.

Great Ovation Given Party at Americus--Albany and Moultrie Hosts Monday Afternoon--Hog-Killing Planned

By WARD GREENE. (Special Staff Correspondent.) ALBANY, Ga., May 24.—With only one week left of the "Seeing Georgia" tour, the party of 40 tourists left Albany at 10 o'clock this afternoon after a two-hour run from Americus over the most rugged of the motorist's haul since leaving Atlanta.

tourists and declared they were always welcome in America. Lee Bettes announced that San Pagan had made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the tourists in Griffin next Thursday and with one more song and a cheer the "Seeing Georgia" tour was again on its way.

to be the third richest and prosperous in the United States. Few mishaps have marred the success of the tour so far. Mrs. Bolling Jones, wife of Atlanta's postmaster, was thrown out of a car just before reaching Buena Vista, but she was not even bruised.

C. Davis, Mrs. Davis and son, Oscar Davis. So far all the cars in the tour are showing splendid endurance powers. "Bill" Stoddard, with W. J. Laboney in the Maxwell that is setting the pace, has kept right on schedule time, save for Sunday afternoon's experience.

Two stops were made between Americus and Albany. At Smithville the white towns turned out with blue and white waving American flags and cheerleaders. The band of the town school band had traveled seven miles to play and the tourists came in town to the strains of "Victory" and "Dixie."

At Ellaville more people were out; the best roads they have yet encountered. Through Marion, Seelye and Bunker City the tourists were met by a band of 20. The populace had turned out to greet the passing cars. At Buena Vista, where W. B. Crawford, W. C. Weston, W. E. Drake, J. L. Wilson, W. L. Guy, and others were waiting with refreshments and advice.

are 47 in all. This includes one or two that dropped out at LaGrange and Columbus and others which joined the tour at points on the route. The fact that the cars in every county have been one of the most marked features of the tour, but the automobile industry has made a record for life of every waterworks between Atlanta and Columbus. Monday may be wash day in the city, but it is evidently not so in the country.

From Columbus to Americus they made a regular speedway over which the tourists who didn't get lost anticipated the latest record of the tour so far, going most of the distance at a thirty-mile an hour rate. President Haden received a wire at Columbus from W. C. Varen, of Moultrie, stating that 300 hogs will be killed there Monday as a sort of sacrifice to honor of the tourists. To reach there by 4 o'clock in the afternoon, an hour and a half, the party will have to comply with government regulations that hogs shall not be killed after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but to be a hot one. The Moultrie packing houses, some of the finest in the country, received a special dispensation from Washington to kill the 300 porkers at one fell swoop.
