EXERCISES AT EMORY ARE BEST EVER HELD

After Nearly Eighty Years College Will Pass to University Grade

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.) OXFORD, Ga., June 5.—With the exercises of Friday night, June 5, the most interesting commencement in the history of Emory college began. The college was chartered in 1836, and graduated its first class in 1841. Lacking one year of being eighty years of age, it is now passing from the grade of college to that of a university, becoming the School of Liberal Arts of Emory University. By reason of its long days have been extended more than three years beyond ten, and not without some trouble and sorrow. Its buildings were condemned for unsuitable purposes during the war, and the central building was thereby so impaired that it was necessary to take it down. Many of its sons were slain in battle, and friends who would have enriched it by their generous gifts were lost through the war.

During the nearly eighty years of its history, this noble institution has rendered high service to both church and state. Among those who have graduated there are mentioned as members of the judiciary, such as Judge Lucius Q. Lamar, Bishop Atkins S. Haygood, Bishop Joseph R. Key, Hon. Thomas Hartman, Judge Thomas M. Norwood, Dr. Young J. Allen and Barton Yin, of Korea. Other men who have graduated in recent years are those mentioned above. It has produced many of the ablest statesmen of the United States, Senator William J. Bryan graduated in the class of 1858, and was perhaps the youngest man who was ever a member of the United States senate when he had served only a little while in Washington. This was succeeded by his brother, Hon. Nathan P. Bryan, who was graduated in the class of 1857 and who is now a member of the senate. He was a classmate of John W. Dalton, the politician of Georgia, the father of the publishing house of Gian & Co., Atlanta, Ga., who was also a member of the United States senate.

STROKE OF APPOLEXY RESULTS IN DEATH Mrs. W. J. Kincaid, of Griffin, Ga., Dies Here After Brief Illness

Stricken with apoplexy Friday afternoon in a down town department store, Mrs. W. J. Kincaid, wife of Colonel Kincaid, of Griffin, died Saturday afternoon at a private sanitarium. Mrs. Kincaid had come to Atlanta to do some shopping. She was apparently in good health. None of her relatives were with her when she became ill, but she was identified by means of a receipt in her purse from the Atlanta Conservatory of Music for Mrs. Thomas. Her family was at once notified. Her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Thomas, moved to Atlanta, and other relatives arrived Saturday. But despite efforts of physicians, Mrs. Kincaid died without regaining consciousness.

Parents, Send Your Girls to

Cox College and Conservatory

The Pride of The South for Four Generations

"That our daughters may be as cornerstones, polished after the similitude of a palace," that they may profit by all that is good and pure in our modern civilization; that they may attain the highest human perfection in body, mind and soul—these are the aims and the constant striving of the Cox College & Conservatory.

Old in the affections of the Southern people; young and vigorous in its spirit of modern progress and service to society, Cox College imparts to young womanhood all that is true and best in the education of body, mind and soul. Located in College Park, the beautiful residential suburb of Atlanta—the educational center and commercial metropolis of the South—Cox girls enjoy a rare combination of suburban and metropolitan advantages.

The lovely campus of twenty-eight acres, with its flowers, shrubbery and stately forest trees, affords a delightful home environment of security, comfort and quiet for the pursuit of study, and ideal facilities for recreation and outdoor sports. With an elevation of 1,100 feet above the sea, a delightful winter climate, dormitories, the health rooms equipped with modern conveniences, and class record of the institution is unsurpassed in all America. The absolute freedom from malarial diseases has attracted a large patronage from the lower South since before the Civil War.

To these natural advantages the city of Atlanta adds unparalleled opportunities to study by thought and acquaintance with the world's great leaders of thought and action. No other city in all the South approaches Atlanta in its power to attract the world's great lecturers, statesmen, authors, educators, theologians, artists, singers and musicians. By special arrangement many of these are introduced from the College platform and are accessible to Cox students at a minimum of expense.

The course of study is that of a Grade college, supplemented by five courses of Piano, Voice, Violin, Theory, Harmony, Counterpoint, Gypsy, Drawing and Painting, Domestic Science (Cooking, Dressmaking and Millinery), Genealogy and Typewriting. The schedule of work is arranged to give the greatest flexibility to the curriculum, and the individual requirements and talents of the student are made the basis for the selection of her studies. The tuition fees and college expenses are remarkably low, it being the policy of the College to afford its students the maximum opportunities for advancement at the lowest possible expense.

CREMATORY PLANT IS UP TO SPECIFICATIONS COMMISSION HOLDS

In this connection and in conclusion, the report says: "We are not aware that any duties call upon us to make any suggestion as to the use which should be commercially made of this steam."

"The experience of the Destructor Company comprises the most disagreeable chapter in Atlanta's history. Because the company refused to be held liable on abandonment of the contract which it had made with the honorable men who were then the city's leaders."

"The city council should not assume responsibility for the contract on the city's good name and this contractor's right. The contractor sought redress in the courts and set forth his grievances in petitions to council."

"The city has become involved in an enormous money loss. Its good name injured and the Destructor Company, which is composed of the very highest character, have been subjected to the greatest inconvenience."

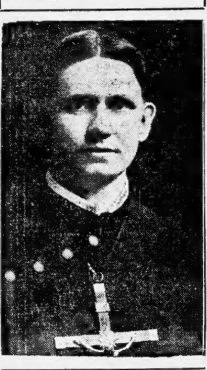

"The graduates of the senior class of the Piedmont Sanitarium Nurses to Graduate Training School will hold their closing exercises Thursday Evening, June 10."

H. M. ATKINSON'S FATHER DIES AT BOSTON HOME

Mr. Atkinson Leaves for Mass. City to Attend Funeral Tuesday

Mr. Harry M. Atkinson, the well known Atlanta capitalist and chairman of the board of directors of the Georgia Railway & Power company, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of his father, Mr. George Atkinson, which occurred in Boston yesterday morning.

Mr. George Atkinson was 94 years of age last May and was one of the most prominent citizens of Boston. He was prominent in his line, his family having settled in Boston in 1835.

Mr. Atkinson was one of the pioneers in the development of the cotton manufacturing industry in New England. For many years he was president of the now Massachusetts Mill, which built the large cotton mill at Lindale, Ga., near Rome, at a branch.

On the occasion of Mr. Harry Atkinson's marriage to Miss May Peters, daughter of the late Richard Peters, in 1881, Mr. George Atkinson visited Atlanta and was here at other times. He is pleasantly recalled by many Atlanta people.

Last October Mr. Atkinson had a stroke of paralysis and his strength slowly failed him. He, however, seemed to be rallying and his improvement would be lasting.

Last Friday a week ago Mr. Harry Atkinson told him a visit and he received him. The news of his death, while not unexpected, came to Mr. Atkinson as a severe shock.

Mr. Atkinson, besides his son, one daughter, Mrs. George Coale, of Boston, and one brother, R. S. Atkinson, a prominent Boston architect. Since the death of his wife ten years ago he had made his home with Mrs. Coale and it was there that he died. The late Edward Atkinson, the noted political economist, was his brother.

CHILLY NEW YORKERS EAT GEORGIA PEACHES

Continued Good Weather Is Expected to Improve the Market Conditions

Men in heavy overcoats are eating Georgia peaches on the streets of New York City. This news was received by a telegram Saturday to the Georgia Fruit exchange from its Gotham representative.

While the winterlike weather has furnished an engaging contrast, it has also had a tendency to lower prices, received for fifteen carloads of Mayflower peaches shipped east by the exchange through Wednesday.

But with the continuation of pleasant weather it is believed market conditions will improve. Next week will see the passing of the Mayflower and the advent of the Greensboro and Queen of Dixie variety.

The exchange has received word that the May drop of peaches in North Georgia orchards has been heavy, reducing the original estimate on fruit from this section materially.

GERMANS' TRENCHES REMIND VISITORS OF HOME, SWEET HOME

Every Conceivable Comfort Possible is Found There, From Shaving Mirrors to Four-Poster Beds

NORTHERN FRANCE, May—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—With a little display of pride in the "comfort" of his "hole," the colonel of a Bavarian regiment recently showed the rounds of some five kilometers of trenches in this region with an Associated Press correspondent. He was accompanied by two guides, one of whom, it is said, is not without his imagination, and second, that there was a good reason to expect to have a "comfortable" time in driving them out of their comfortable holes.

The excitement of the day was exhibited here and there in the form of the men having their faces shaved in the most comfortable manner possible. The shaving mirrors were available in the form of a small tin box, and the men were not without their own shaving brushes. The men were not without their own shaving brushes. The men were not without their own shaving brushes.

MIDSHIPMEN ARE CHARGED WITH CHEATING IN EXAMS

Court of Inquiry Ordered Involving Seven Students at Naval Academy

(By Associated Press.)—WASHINGTON, June 5.—After a conference with President Wilson today, Secretary Daniels appointed a court of inquiry to investigate specific charges that seven midshipmen at the naval academy had secured advance information on examinations. The court will include a representative of the navy department and possibly some instructors were involved in the irregularities.

No attempt was made at the navy department tonight to minimize the gravity of the situation. Secretary Daniels authorized the statement that the court of inquiry would make a thorough investigation. The annual practice cruise of the midshipmen was to have been held next week but has been indefinitely postponed in order that students at the academy may testify before the court of inquiry which will be convened at Annapolis next Monday.

During his conference with Secretary Daniels, President Wilson approved recommendations that the academy should be advised of the situation at the academy. The court of inquiry will be convened at Annapolis next Monday. The seven midshipmen whose cases will furnish the basis for the investigation have already been recommended for dismissal by the academy board, but Secretary Daniels, after a personal investigation of the situation at the academy, decided that it was best to thoroughly list all charges involving others.

Donald E. Duncan, of Michigan; Thomas W. Harrison, Jr., of Virginia, and James E. Moss, of Maryland, and others were involved in the irregularities. The court of inquiry will be convened at Annapolis next Monday. The seven midshipmen whose cases will furnish the basis for the investigation have already been recommended for dismissal by the academy board, but Secretary Daniels, after a personal investigation of the situation at the academy, decided that it was best to thoroughly list all charges involving others.

FARMERS OF BALDWIN HEAR LIVE STOCK TALK

Hunt and Weaver Address Meeting at Milledgeville on Daries and Beef

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 5.—One of the most important agricultural conventions ever held in Baldwin county was that of today, when Hon. D. W. Hunt, of Etowah, prominent farmer and banker, and Dr. J. M. Weaver, of the same city, head of the Etowah County Agricultural Association, addressed the farmers relative to the live stock work which is being extensively practiced here. Mr. Hunt spoke at length on his experience in financing the movement, both in the work of drying and raising beef cattle.

Great interest is being manifested in this work and County Farm Demonstrator Arent G. Rice is working hard to bring the county to the forefront in this line of work and his efforts are being met with success in all directions.

The seven midshipmen whose cases will furnish the basis for the investigation have already been recommended for dismissal by the academy board, but Secretary Daniels, after a personal investigation of the situation at the academy, decided that it was best to thoroughly list all charges involving others.

Alice Brady and W. S. Hart at Victoria--Chaplin and Six Keystones Alamo 1 Attractions--Mrs. Leslie Carter in New Film at Strand and as "Dubarry" at Alamo 2--Alpha Begins "Who Pays?" Dramas--Grand as New Pickford Picture--Vaudeette Shows Final Episode in Elaine Series--The Montgomery's Stars Are John Barrymore and Alice Laughlin

A GLANCE over the movie calendar this week shows a number of stirring features which are sure to appeal to the interest of patrons of the silent drama. Foremost among the stars are Mrs. Leslie Carter, Mary Pickford, John Barrymore, Charlie Chaplin, Alice Brady, Ruth Roland and Richard Stanton.

Mrs. Carter's appearance in "The Heart of Maryland" at the Strand three days, is one of the biggest attractions seen here in some time. This feature was the one chosen to open the Hippodrome in New York as a movie house and was hailed as America's Belasco's greatest success by the critics.

Mrs. Carter also appears at the Alamo No. 2 Monday in "Madam Dubarry," the George Kleine feature based on the romance of the fifteenth Louis' favorite.

Mrs. Pickford is at the Grand in "The Dawn of Tomorrow," Francis Hodgson Burnett's charming story. It is booked for Monday and Tuesday.

Two films are at the Montgomery this week, John Barrymore in "The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde," and "The Ordeal."

An interesting announcement is that Ruth Roland in "The Price of Fame," is booked for Wednesday at the Alpha. This is the first of a series of twelve complete dramas based on the twelve most vital questions of life and grouped under the general title, "Who Pays?"

Among the good times which the Alamo No. 1 have this week are a Keystone comedy every day, three of them, on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, films in which Charlie Chaplin stars.

The Victoria not only offers Alice Brady Monday in "As Ye Sow," a World Film feature, but has another great favorite Tuesday when W. S. Hart plays "The Man From Nowhere," and a fine array of films for other days in the week.

ALPHA BOOKS SPECTACULAR "WHO PAYS?" "Who pays?" When the ambitious man, dazzled by power, goes and maintains greater respect when he returns to the arms of the woman he loves. A man, spurred on by ambition, who goes to the front he has a dream in which the horrors of war are portrayed in his vision his father, mother, sister, and last, his sweetheart, are slain, and he himself goes mad. Awake, he returns to the arms of the woman he loves.

LESIE CARTER AT STRAND THREE DAYS IN GREAT FILM. That Mrs. Leslie Carter will appear Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Strand theater, in the most spectacular announcement of the year in local movie circles.

Pickford is in five parts, and is superb in photography, scenic atmosphere and music. George Ade recently wrote a letter to the Embassy studios announcing their film version of his "The Slim Princess" is the most extraordinarily funny picture production he had ever witnessed. And it is. The leading character is impersonated by Francis X. Bushman, supported by an admirable cast.

including Lester, Cullen, Bryant, Washburn and Ruth Stonehouse in the title. "Brother Officers," an exquisite comedy.

Ship House for Mumbo. In the everlasting chase for a new old colonial master, was shipped from Maryland to California to sea services in the production. The "Ship House" was the most dramatic of the films, and was transported by freight to the city. It was shipped in two parts, and the first part was shipped in time for putting it up. Now that Germany has Pretzel, what's she gonna do with it?

The note to Germany probably enclosed stamps for an early reply.

Seven more British ships are sunk by German submarines, indicating that the Kaiser doesn't intend to let up on British ships in any event.

Atlanta's Public Schools.

Through the changes which the Board of Education made yesterday in the administrative affairs of Atlanta's public schools, Professor W. M. Slaton retires from the superintendency, to be succeeded in due time by Professor M. L. Brittain.

The change in superintendents is the result of a change in systems. During the last twelve months, the educational design of Atlanta's schools has undergone far-reaching readjustment.

The new standard adopted by the Board of Education a year ago, the maximum number of pupils who may be seated in one room is fixed at forty; and obviously that is the highest number consistent with health and discipline and efficient instruction.

These are broad human needs which Council cannot afford to neglect. They are urgent needs which demand the most earnest and most adequate attention.

Naturally a diplomatic note has to be couched in diplomatic language. Imagine President Wilson beginning one with "yours of recent date to which and contents noted!"

When Wall Street sells a million shares a day and cotton goes up, look out! Prosperity is going to waltz you.

The main purpose of German air raids on London, it is now suspected, is to start a disastrous fire. The latest report of Zepellins, and the only one that has reached the British capital, dropped ninety bombs, killing one man, two children and a woman and injuring several others—scarcely results for so costly an expedition.

It is fairly obvious that the Zepellins, at whose somewhat futile visits we have laughed, are but single spies. Nor is there much doubt that before long the battalions will come, armed not with the simple bomb that merely makes a hole in the garden, but with the incendiary bomb.

Pass the Apportionment Sheet.

In behalf of the city's common interests and especially the interests of the schools, it is to be hoped that Council will pass without quibble or delay the June apportionment sheet which its Finance Committee has prepared.

The Finance committee apparently has proceeded upon that principle and has made up a sheet which is workable and fair. Upon its prompt approval, the orderly conduct of municipal business and the performance of urgent municipal tasks depend.

America, Their Beacon.

How the United States is regarded by the war sufferers of Europe is eloquently suggested in a letter from Henry Blankenfeld, author of "Quo Vadis," to the Polish committee of the American Emergency Aid Association. He says in part:

"It seems that the principles of Christian love and brotherhood, banished from Europe, had to cross the ocean in search of refuge, and they found it in the heart of the American citizen. Their generosity has saved thousands of unfortunates from starvation, but the task of America is not yet accomplished; with God's help she will in the following years become the conscience of the world and propagate the ideas of justice, such as the triumph of law over force and the restitution of property to all oppressed nations, the realization of those principles being the sole guarantee of lasting peace and of happy future for mankind."

Miss Hill is the first woman to undertake this tramp. She has had the walking experience of fourteen summer vacations spent in long tramping trips, and knows her own powers of endurance.

Her outfit is simple, including only a change of clothing and the simplest toilet articles, carried in a water-proof leather bag. Experience has taught her to take even a few ounces may be upon the endurance required for a long day's tramp.

Her route, as planned, passes through Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. She will not go to Denver, but she has chosen to stop at Pueblo, Colorado, going from there to Salt Lake City by following as closely as possible a railroad which passes through scenic and interesting country.

The Comptroller's Timely Warning.

In his recently published annual report, Comptroller General William A. Wright sounds a timely and well-considered warning to the Legislature against increased or special appropriations.

It is needless to say that the 1914 valuations may not be sustained, in view of the general financial depression which prevails throughout the country, growing out of the low price of cotton since the confiscation of the European war.

This is the counsel of an official who knows what conditions actually are and who has deeply at heart the State's financial integrity together with all which that implies. The Legislature should steel itself in principles of economy and subordinate local and particular needs to the State's broadest interests.

Who has become of the old-fashioned female of the species who never wore any kind of shoes except black?

A girl always likes to mention some highbrows who were to have attended her wedding, but at the last moment found it impossible to come.

WALKING ASA SPORT

BY FREDERICK J. SARGENT

A REVIVAL of walking as an outdoor sport is now going forward. Many people are planning a walking vacation for this summer.

Miss Minnie Hill set out from Washington last week upon the long tramp which she expects to complete in two months' time. She will have to do this to avoid the snows in the mountains which lie between her starting point and her goal.

Her outfit is simple, including only a change of clothing and the simplest toilet articles, carried in a water-proof leather bag.

When the daily walk is out of the question, the busy people, the weakly walk, at least with the walking clubs are beginning to appear in every city.

The Wanderlusts of Washington, D. C. have over 2,000 members, who have taken its weekly tramping the past year. Most of these are employees of the Government.

With the beginning of the walking movement came various articles of clothing supposed to be conducive to the comfort of the hiker.

Colored Cotton Is Being Raised by A Southern Farmer

A. W. Brabham, of Olar, S. C., Has Produced Several Shades, and Hopes to Develop Red, Black, Green, Blue, Yellow, Brown and Gray.

A. W. BRABHAM, of Olar, S. C., is attempting to raise colored cotton. He has sent the Journal specimens of brown, yellow, and green, and is at work on four other hues.

Experiments are being made in Mexico with black cotton and Mr. Brabham is in correspondence with an expert here who hopes to produce a fibre of solid black, instead of white.

Owing to the unsettled condition of affairs in Mexico, however, no details of the effort, on Mexican soil, to grow black cotton, have been obtained.

A short while ago Mr. Brabham heard through C. H. Clark, of Boston, Mass., that blue cotton has been produced; and he has since added this hue to the six others he is attempting to perfect.

He thinks that the color of cotton can be controlled and diversified by combinations, as the color and other characteristics of stock are controlled.

"The making of these different shades of cotton," he says, "is no guess work, no hypothesis, but a plain simple fact. Look how soon Jacob changed the color of the entire herd of Laban's cows. Look how soon a hog dealer can change the color of his hogs; a poultry raiser change the color of his chickens, or a kennel-keeper the color of his dogs."

"To the incredulous I will say: I doubt not the feasibility of colored cottons; some of them exist now, enough to produce many valuable variations, and because you never heard of a thing, don't put it down a lie."

Following is an article he has written for The Journal's Sunday Magazine section on his experiments with colored cottons:

How I Know We Can Raise Colored Cotton, By A. W. Brabham, of Olar, S. C.

YOU request me to give you as much data as possible about colored cottons. The black variety, which seems to have aroused the most interest, is being developed now in Mexico. How far this effort has met with success I can't say. Owing to the unsettled condition of affairs there, I have been able to get very few details.

Recently, I heard of a new variety—blue. Before me now is a letter from C. H. Clark, president of the C. H. Blagdon Co., of Boston, who is interested in all textile products, but who does not like any colors except brown and blue can be produced in cotton.

Mr. Clark says: "It has been commonly understood that these tinted cottons are due to the soil characteristics of the districts where they are grown."

There is no reason in such a declaration. Brown cotton will be brown wherever grown. Yellow cotton will be yellow grown in any part of the cotton-producing world. The seed and not the soil produces colored cotton.

Mr. Clark seems to doubt the existence of red cotton, but is familiar with blue cotton, a sort unknown to me and which I intend to ask him for confirmation. Blue cotton I will then be able to add to my colored sorts. I now have the following cottons on hand: first, in respect, red, brown, blue, yellow, green and gray.

Red cotton is a native of Peru; the gray comes from India; the brown from Egypt, Peru and Hawaii; the blue, has been originated in Mexico; the yellow comes from China; the green has been developed here in South Carolina, of the blue I know nothing, but I hope Mr. Clark can give me light on this.

Adding the white cotton to the above list, makes eight sorts for a grower to begin with, and with such a start the various variations can only be guessed at. The making of these different shades of cotton is no guess-work, no hypothesis, but a plain, simple fact. Look how soon Jacob changed the color of the entire herd of Laban's cows. Look how soon a hog dealer can change the color of his hogs; a poultry raiser change the color of his chickens; or a kennel-keeper the color of his dogs; a new grower the color of his peas; and so forth both the animal and vegetable kingdoms.

Take two different colors of the same species and a variation takes place, and the type of this variation can be made a fixed type, which can be mated with a fixed type of another species, and so on, ad infinitum, producing countless variations.

The common belief that soil and climate have all to do with producing the color of either animal or plant is nonsense. A white man will be white whether at the equator or in the polar regions. White cotton produces in the tropics as white lint as that grown in its extreme northern or southern limits of growth.

Beauty Of Atlanta's Child Widely Praised

ONE of the most beautiful children in America is Vezzey Rainwater, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Rainwater, of Springdale Drive. The beauty of this child has attracted attention not only in Atlanta, but also in many other cities.

A photograph, by Thurston Hatcher, printed several months ago in The Journal excited the praise of artists and photographers, and brought from many sources requests for permission to print the picture of this golden-haired little boy.

The accompanying photographs, one by Hatcher, the other two by McCreary, show with exquisite beauty this four-year-old child is endowed. The baby's hair has an unusually luminous golden tint, his eyes are hazel, with long, curling lashes, and his coloring is perfect.

Since the publication of his photograph several months ago, letters have been received even from distant cities in the north and the west. Artists have asked permission to paint the little fellow; photographers have wanted the privilege of picturing him with the camera.

At the age of four years he seems to combine all the qualities of childish beauty. He is sturdy and strong and altogether boyish, and yet his hair has a rich, glowing color as though sunlight were shining on it. His eyes are large, with a wide-open, straightforward look and a dancing good humor; the lashes are curly and long. His coloring is without fault. In his healthy, firm cheeks is a pink that any painter would despair of reproducing. No child in Atlanta has excelled such praise because of his beauty.

England's Problem Is Her Children, Says Dr. Broughton

If the Slaughter Goes on There Will Not Be Men Enough Left to Rehabilitate Race for Generations. America Has Its Eugenics Problem.

IF the slaughter (in Europe) goes on at the present rate, and it must not worse before anybody gives in, there will not be men enough left to rehabilitate the race in three or four generations.

This, says Dr. Len G. Broughton, in a brief article written for the Journal, is the great problem in Europe—one that overshadows the outcome of the war.

But not only Europe, he continues, is confronted by the question of future population. "Everyone acquainted with conditions in this country knows that we are facing a serious depletion in the ranks of the purest American blood."

To maintain a stationary population, he says, every married woman should bear four children, while the average, in America, is one and one-half children. He quotes the "Journal of Heredity" to prove that women's colleges contribute to race suicide and adds that the race of the future will suffer because of the present "inexcusable dissipation of young girls in social life."

Dr. Broughton, during his pastorate of Christ church, London, learned thoroughly concerning the war and saw 14 will lecture in Atlanta at the Tabernacle on the "European war as I have seen it, heard it, and know it."

In the following article on the war and eugenics, he states conditions without attempting to offer a solution. "War marriages," which have now raised such a clamor, are not mentioned by him.

England's Problem Is Her Children By Dr. Len G. Broughton, Pastor of the First Baptist church of Knoxville, Tenn.

THE greatest problem in European affairs is not, "Who is to win in the greatest war of history?" but, "Who is to father the next generation?" Even before the war the problem was being felt because of emigration of young men in other countries, particularly in the United States and Canada. Year by year the proportion of young men of marriageable age to young women of marriageable age was growing less and less. Throughout Great Britain there were about ten women to every man.

The only thing that has saved the race in Great Britain for a long while, from a eugenic point of view has been the inherent honor of motherhood, that has prevailed among women. The British wife, generally speaking, regards nothing more honorable, and nothing more to be desired than to be able to rear a family of children. If there had been the same craze among them for divorcing and social limelight that we have in this country, the race would have long ago shown great depletion and degeneration.

Everybody acquainted with conditions in this country knows that we are facing a serious depletion in the ranks of the purest American blood. It is claimed that in order to maintain a stationary population, every married woman should bear four children. That is, the average should be up to this number. But the statistics as published show that among the best blood of the country, the average is only about 1 1/2 children to every married woman, in the "Journal of Heredity" published at Washington, there is a revelation on this line by Prof. Roswald Johnson and Bertha J. Steinmann, of the University of Pittsburgh, that is alarming. It contends that the women's colleges contribute largely to race suicide amongst the best element of American population.

In support of this contention the records of the Wellesley College have been analyzed under the following results: "The writers find that twenty years after graduating, less than one half of the girls have married. These have borne only one and one-half children each. Taking all the students into account and allowing enough time to elapse so that it is probable they will bear no more children, it is found that the Wellesley girls contribute less than one child apiece to the race—they don't even produce their own number. And the honor scholars, who, from a eugenic point of view, are assumed to be the pick of the lot do only about a third as well as this."

But this is not the only problem in eugenics that we have face in our country at the present time. The race of the future has to suffer because of the inexcusable dissipation of young girls in social life which wrecks their nerves and bodies before they reach motherhood.

England has been saved this folly to a great extent. Her social life has been kept circumscribed by the atmosphere of home, rigid discipline and the requirements of nature. This has been the salvation of her race. We may say what we will about the way her girls are denied the social privileges of what we call "society." But the fact that they have been kept from such forms of dissipation as we have in this country has made greater mothers out of her women. But never mind what sort of stock they have to build with, this greatest war is making it impossible for us to catch up with what she has lost in a stupendous one at the present moment. If the slaughter goes on at the present rate, and it must get worse before anybody gives in, there will not be men enough left to rehabilitate the race in three or four generations. In other words it will take Europe more than three or four generations to catch up with what she has lost in a stupendous one at the present moment.

PEONS OF THE HORRORS OF THE COLORED PEOPLE TODAY BY WILLIAM YEANDLE

Revolutionary Leaders, He Says, Are Deliberately Starving the Peons Only Hope for the Fear-Ridden Country Is Intervention of the United States Government.

William H. Yeandle, of Atlanta, just back from Mexico where he lived fifteen years, says:

Intervention by the United States is Mexico's only hope for peace. Statements of the degree of suffering among Mexicans are not exaggerated. The truth is, revolutionary leaders are shipping corn out of the country in the deliberate effort to starve the peons into joining the uprisings. Ships arrive in Vera Cruz from New York bringing guns and ammunition to add to the anarchy, and leave with cargoes of corn, although Mexicans are starving by the thousands.

The most surprising part of this interview with the author of the book was the statement that, while a large class of Mexicans are actually dying for want of food, corn, the principal article of diet is being shipped out of the country.

"The reason for this is twofold," he explained. "First, the revolutionary leaders are trying to starve the peons into joining them. Secondly, these leaders want all the money they can get to buy guns and ammunition. They are quite willing to sell corn to buy war supplies while people by the thousands are starving."

"The ship on which I sailed from Vera Cruz left May 7. This ship had just arrived from New York with guns and ammunition, and it was returning laden with corn. On one voyage it brought munitions to add to the anarchy in Mexico, on leaving it took away food, to add to the corn shortage, which is amounting to famine."

Another almost unbelievable instance that I know of has come to my notice at Tampico. An American firm raised $20,000 to buy food for the people who were starving, and with this money, sent to Galveston for corn. It was found later that the very corn bought had been shipped from Tampico. The American company raised money to buy for the starving peons, food that the revolutionary leaders had for Tambo. This money, sent to Mexico, first, for the sake of Mexico, secondly, to force the peons to join them.

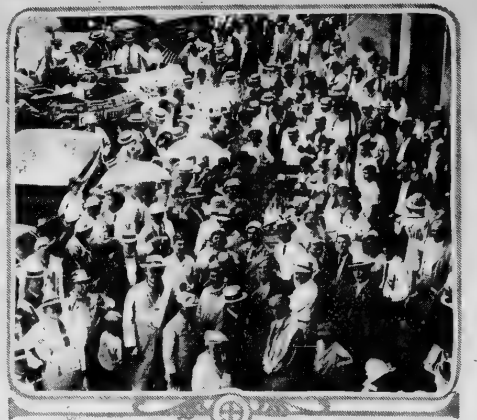

One condition existing today in Mexico is that of Mexicans deliberately shipping food out of the country to starve people of their own blood.

Another condition is the constant importation of arms and ammunition from the United States, by means of which the revolutionary leaders continue to wage war.

"There is no hope of Mexico settling her own troubles. We must have intervention by the United States and its government for a time must continue in control. I think that nothing better could happen than for the United States to be ordered to Mexico City to take charge of affairs. He knows the Mexicans, and he could deal with them better than we."

"The Mexicans as a whole would welcome intervention by the United States. But, of course, the revolutionary leaders will fight any such step. Their business

Indian Julie, Age 10 1/2; Negro Camp Meeting; Colquitt County Reaper

When Tifton served lemonade to the tourists.

These Are Incidents of a Five-Day Tour of South Georgia, Which Stand Out From the Whirl of Cotton and Corn and Give the Tour Its Real Character and Individuality.

By Ward Greene.

"INDIAN JULIE" at Hamilton, a negro camp-meeting near Columbus, and a Colquitt county reaper, are glimpses of the road that stand out from a hundred other impressions on the recent five-day tour to Quitman and back to Atlanta.

This trip under the auspices of the state chamber of commerce was a revelation of the richness of south Georgia. But through the whirl of cotton and corn, hog, hominy and holiday there drifts back an incident here and there, small in itself, perhaps, but with others like it forming a weave that gives the real character to the tour, made it Georgia and not some other state. One thing everything there was on the table, and money besides—but what of the thousands of other women and children?

No one in Atlanta knows Mexican conditions better than Mr. Yeandle. For fifteen years he lived there until outbreaks something over a year ago forced him to return to Atlanta with his family. The last September he went back to Mexico and remained until May, engaged in his work of mining engineer.

During the time from September until his sailing from Vera Cruz he traveled through many sections in Mexico, and he met with countless dangers and hardships; he saw much fighting between revolutionists and federals; he was in many close corners; but in his interview last week he declined to speak of his personal experience. He dwelt on one thing—the necessity of American intervention.

"What do you think of the 'war marriages' to the point just short of requiring them. Efforts were made to produce a constraining public opinion by which such marriages could be brought to pass; and the marriage ceremony was performed wholesale for nothing. The established church of England especially encouraged young women to become the brides of men just going to war in order thereby to fulfill their duty to the race. Dissenting bodies likewise took the same course. It is obvious that this deluding process degraded marriage to the level of physical necessity—the necessity in the face of war to propagate the race at an abnormal rate. The sanctity of marriage was trampled under foot, and on one thing—the necessity of American intervention.

"STARVING MEXICAN WOMEN AND CHILDREN begging for food at the doors of one of the army food supply depots in Vera Cruz where they are given barely enough to keep life and soul together."

Indian Julie sat on a barrel, surrounded by pretty girls. Bare footed, clad in greasy calico, her brown face a crisp-crust of lines she sucked teeth toothless gums on a snuff-stick. For all the world the scene was like the witch-wife and the Salem women of 'Glas Cory'.

Indian Julie admitted to 107 years old. She said she was "mosely Indian, a little mixed with salt-water black, born in Tennessee, but resident of Georgia since the state fell. Her husband, she did not know much about the civil war, but declared she was living at the time of the Revolution and had "heard tell of George Washington."

Her eyes blazed out of her sockets at the dust-driven automobiles and she shook her head and mumbled, "Devil wagons," she called them, and would have staked her soul before she set foot in one.

"Been dippin' snuff since I was big as that little gal," said Indian Julie in answer to a question. Her head bobbed toward a girl in short dresses, who giggled and hid her face.

Fighting The Drug-Evil In Georgia

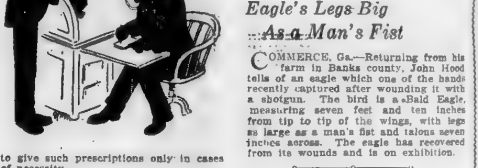

Government Officials Find That the Wide-Spread Use of Narcotics Is Amazing. Several Thousand Victims in Atlanta. New Law Is Rigorously Enforced Against Sale of Drugs.

INVESTIGATIONS by government officers enforcing the federal anti-narcotic law show that the use of opiates is prevalent to a degree no one had before imagined.

"Several thousand people in Atlanta use drugs in one form or another," said a government agent last week. "Of course I can't give more than an approximate estimate. But I believe that the number here who are addicted to opiates is almost 5,000."

"At that, conditions are much better in Atlanta than they are in the average city of this size. You might say that Atlanta, in comparison with other cities, is remarkably free from the drug evil. And, yet, we have been astonished at conditions here."

Under the direction of James H. Surber, chief revenue agent for this district, an inspection is now made regularly of the drug stores to see what opiates are sold. The new federal law prohibits the sale of any narcotic except on a physician's prescription and allows physicians will be sold, except for medicinal purposes. "As it is now physicians can prescribe for sufferers from the drug habit narcotics only in such quantities as are necessary. The government restricted the uses of opiates could not be cut off at once from drugs. The physicians are allowed to give prescriptions for narcotics so that sufferers can taper off the habit of the government agents is to see that prescriptions are not given indiscriminately in violation of the law, and that drugs are not sold unlawfully."

"The sale of cocaine has been stopped entirely. It has been proved by government physicians that users of cocaine, although they have been addicted a long time to this drug, can be detoxified by the use of the opiate and will suffer no ill results. Tapering off, in their case, is not necessary. For this reason, cocaine cannot be sold except for use in surgery and dentistry."

"In a year's time I believe that the new narcotic law will reduce the number of drug victims to a handful; and it certainly will prevent any new victims from falling slaves to the habit."

"I believe it will reduce crime. In fact, reports from Augusta are to the effect that lawlessness there already has lessened since the law went into effect."

Eagle's Legs Big As a Man's Pist
COMMERCIAL, Ga.—Returning from his farm in Banks county, John Hood tells of an eagle which one of the hands recently captured after wounding it with a shotgun. The bird is a Bald Eagle, measuring seven feet and ten inches from tip to tip of the wings, with legs as large as a man's fist and talons seven inches across. The eagle has recovered from its wounds and is on exhibition.

Trains Operated Now by Telephone
WEST POINT, Ga.—All trains on the West Point route are now operated by telephone instead of telegraph, as they have been for nearly a century.

Every train crew on the road is equipped with a portable phone which can be attached to the wire along the right of way wherever the train happens to be.

"Next two men soused him into hot water and he was shot into a machine that stripped him of hair like a pencil sharpener. Coming out on the other side the white body was plunged into ice-cold water, gutted and hustled on to two more men who cleverly dissected the various parts. Some were packed, some were picked and each and all were utilized in one way or another. They say the squeal is canned into a phonograph record and used for a factory whistle."

Children, England's Problem

men alone. Meanwhile the women increase in number. But that is not the only part of the great problem in Great Britain especially where the voluntary system of enlistment to the army is in operation. It is the best blood of Great Britain that is being killed or maimed for life. It is a fact that her best blood is in the army today. One can easily see how it is by observing the kind of young man that is in operation. It is the degenerate and the physically incompetent. The really brave, strong and cultured young men of the country are being slaughtered or otherwise rendered incompetent to father the next generation. The conditions are a bit different with the other European countries engaged in war. They have a compulsory system of military service and take all classes alike that are physically able, and even to a certain extent the physically weak. This being true, those left after the war is over will be of all classes. Still the scarcity of men in proportion to women will be their trouble also.
What is the remedy? Who are to marry the women of the next generation, these are questions that stagger the wisest of men at the present time.
Eugenics, in its relation to the European war, is one of the most talked-of topics now being discussed. It has even found its way to the stage, in the short play "War Brides," first produced by Nazimova and given recently in Atlanta. No theatrical event of the spring season has aroused more interest.
"War marriages" have raised a storm in England. First they were urged, almost ordered by both church and state and were followed by hundreds. Since then, a protest, first almost a whisper, began to make itself heard, and grew louder and louder until now it is almost a clamor of denunciation.
Last Sunday Bishop Gore, in an article in the Journal attacked "war marriages," saying:
"At the outbreak of England advocated of clean concrete, just like everything else in the plant. A negro was in the pen. He stripped a pig fast with one hand and to his hind feet hitched a chain. The chain connected with a derrick that swung the pig up and along into a walled corridor. A man stood on one side of the corridor with a knife. When the pig reached him, squealing horribly, he steadied the animal's body with his left hand and with his right plunged the knife into its throat. The squeal ended, and the pig on the chain was swung along the corridor, bumping against the sides

Two things which north Georgians noted were the turpentine belt—the lower half of the state and the hog-killing at Moultrie.
To alien eyes the level stretches of pine forest, each tree scarred white on two sides, with the sap oozing down the little buckets, was a novel sight. So wide apart were the trees, though so many, that one understood for the first time how quail hunting in their fastnesses is done. It was said that the hunter might shoot into a cavity, see them on the wing for five hundred yards and spot the exact place in which they light, this despite the intervening trees.
The hog-killing at the Moultrie Game House reminded us of an automobile assembling plant, only that instead of putting the parts together they were being taken apart.
We were shown a pen where half-dozen bristly porkers grunted and squealed. The pen, by the way, was

Cracker Has Kept Fresh Since Third Of July, 1863

Hickey Weighing 25 Pounds Is Killed Near Dalton, Ga.--Had Paws and Claws and a Tail Striped Like Coon's.

CLAXTON, Ga.—A cracker that has kept fresh since the Battle of Gettysburg is in the possession of T. R. Perkins, of Hartsville, Tenn., a Confederate soldier. It is two inches square, a hunk of flour and water, and was picked up in the trenches July 3, 1863, by Rounds Saunders, one of Jeb Stuart's cavalymen, who sent it to Miss Leila Roberta Perkins, of Bedford City, Va., now Mrs. A. J. Hall, of Hartsville. The cracker is probably the sole survivor of General Hardtack's forces of the Confederate army.

And a Sting in the Tail of the Hickey

A HICKEY, weighing about twenty-five pounds, was caught by some enthusiastic hunters in the mountains west of here Saturday night, after an exciting chase which culminated in a fierce scrap between aforementioned hickey and a pack of seven hounds.

Some say the animal was a wildcat; and others insist that there ain't no such animal in this section. Anyway, he had much the appearance of a cat, with genuine paws and claws. His tail was striped like unto a coon's tail.

The trail was started and the chase afforded numerous thrills. But it was when the animal was caught that the real excitement came. Old Trailer made a dash and came near getting cut to pieces for his enthusiasm. The pack finally attacked in a body, and then it was lights out for the hickey.

The animal was skinned and mounted, and has been viewed with interest by a number of Dalton people. Dead, he has a fierce, antagonistic look, and from the disappointment depicted on his countenance, it is believed he was an advocate of the Rome route for the Dixie Highway—Dalton, (Ga.) Citizen.

Tree Flowerpot Sprouts Shoots

LEXINGTON, Ga.—Last summer Mrs. Thomas W. Crawford had some sections of a blackgum tree cut to make rustic stands for flower pots on her front porch. They are blocks of the trunk of the tree about two feet in length. They have been standing on the porch since they were cut, high and dry from the ground, and yet some weeks since they began to sprout profusely and several of the sprouts that have been left to see what they would do have attained a length of eight to ten inches and are still showing a vigorous growth.

Washerwomen! Get Your Certif Now!

CHIEF OF POLICE L. M. SUMNER has requested the Rambler to give notice that on and after June 1 the ordinance known as the washerwoman's ordinance will be rigidly enforced.

All parties desiring to take in washing after the above date will be required to get a certificate from Mr. Bussey, the sanitary inspector.

In order to procure a certificate it will be necessary to show that your place is in a clean, sanitary condition.—Cordele Rambler.

Turtle Eye Shot Marksman's Test

SAVANNAH, Ga.—The day of the "bull's-eye" on the target range has gone. Gunner Harry Buchanan, of the coast guard cutter "Yamacraw," has supplanted it with the "turtle eye" shot. Tiring of the monotony of firing gun salutes at Brunswick, Gunner Buchanan spotted a turtle swimming on the surface of the water a hundred yards away, drew a bead on it and fired. When the boat's crew hauled up the turtle, it was quite dead, shot clean through the right eye. The turtle weighed 300 pounds.

100-Pound Fish From Rome River

ROME, Ga.—According to Virgil A. Stewart, famous in this section as a fisherman, the largest fish ever caught from Rome rivers was captured shortly after the close of the Civil war and was a sturgeon, weighing a hundred pounds. Other big fish caught here were a blue catfish weighing about ninety pounds and a yellow catfish which was ten pounds lighter. The heaviest trout caught tipped the scales at fifteen pounds.

Gardening Taught Georgia Children

THOMASVILLE, Ga.—Prof. Holland, of the Melgs graded schools in this county, is starting his scholars in the right direction by making them learn the elements of truck farming in a practical manner. He has had small plats laid out on the grounds and has given each child one to plant. The seed are coming up and there is rivalry among the children as to which will grow the finest yield from his "crop."—Exchange.

whose eyes are not thus affected by the sun need not wear the glasses. While we are talking of eyes it may be just as well for me to impress upon the minds of mothers of young children the importance of consulting an oculist should there be any defective signs about their children's eyes. Many children appear stupid in school because they cannot see the blackboard, their eyesight being deficient. Of course, in this day doctors are employed to look after the physical deficiencies of school children, so that any trouble that may exist is taken in hand at once. But it is a good idea for the mothers to take their children to a competent oculist before they begin school, so that any defects of sight can be discovered and proper treatment instituted at once.

which the trunk swings, and the head is easily relaxed. Third—In this exercise the hands have the same position, but now the body is bent forward from the waist; then back; then to the right and left. Each movement should occupy four counts. Take these exercises gently, but let the movements be firm and strong. Avoid the slightest strain of the muscles. No corsets should be worn while practicing them.

The exercise about to be described is highly recommended by one who has had much experience in giving and directing exercises for the improvement of bodily symmetry. She states that it has reduced the hip two inches in a month: Lie extended on the floor, supporting one's self by one hand, while the other is placed upon the hip. While holding this position, raise the body gradually from the floor until the whole weight is supported by the hand and feet. It is comparatively easy to get the body from the floor as far as the knees, but to bring it up to the full extent just described is not easy at first. It should be tried first on one side and then on the other.

She Stammers Badly

My Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you tell me what I can do for oily hair; also for stammering? I have been stammering for three years, and I wish I could stop it. E. M.

Use borax freely in your shampoo water, and rub the following lotion into the scalp daily, to dry the hair:

Formula for Oily Hair

- Alcohol 2 ounces
- Witch hazel 2 ounces
- Resorcin 14 grains

Use daily, rubbing well into the scalp. Stammering is a bad form of nervousness. One physician gives as a corrective the habit of ticking off words on the palm of one hand with the nails of the same hand, much in the way a hand is clenched when one is afraid or angry. The doctor claims that this method makes a person speak slowly and more distinctly.

Discouraged With Her Hair

My Dear Mrs. Symes.
I used to have pretty light hair, but it is turning dark and falling out. It is very fine and endy and full of dandruff. About a year ago I was troubled with vermin and I used poison to get rid of them, but I cannot get the dead nits from my hair yet. I have burnt the ends of my hair with the curling iron, so that I would like to know of a solution that will make the hair wavy, as I do not have time to put it up in curlers. SYLENE.
Your hair is very likely too dry. You might try the following tonic and also the dandruff shampoo. The curling iron will ruin the best of hair if used too continually; but there is nothing that will make hair wavy without using curlers. It takes but a few minutes at night to wind a small portion of the hair around the head on curlers, so I should think that no objection. Do not be afraid to brush the hair freely and to massage the scalp well. The nits should come out with vigorous brushing; if not, they will have to be slipped off the hair, one by one, by some one who is patient enough to help you in your difficulty.

Quinine Hair Tonic

- Sulphate of quinine 1 dram
- Rosewater 3 ounces
- Diluted sulphuric acid 15 minims
- Rectified spirits 2 ounces

Mix, then further add: Glycerin, 1/4 ounce; essence of rosyale or essence musk, 5 or 6 minims. Agitate until solution is complete. Apply to the roots every day.

Egg Shampoo for Dandruff

Yolk of 1 egg, 1 pint of rainwater, spirits of rosemary, 1 ounce.
Beat the mixture thoroughly and use it warm. Rub it well into the scalp and rinse with several clear waters.

Tragedy Is Caused By Pa's Best Pants

Willie Trimmed Them to Suit His Legs, So He Could Follow the Fashion That Was Set at His School, But Pa Objected and Now--

NEARLY all of the boys at Candler Street school are wearing long pants. The other day there were as many as three that had them on and all of the rest wanted them so there was one boy went home and took the scissors and cut off the legs of his pa's pants to fit his legs and came to school in them and it was success and the boy was sporting around in them and after a while he saw his papa coming to find out where his pants had gone to and his papa saw him with them and started after him and there were some woods in the back of the school ground and the last we saw was his papa and him going down the woods to see which would beat the other. The next day the boy had his pants on and we asked him where his pants were and he said if he got any more he was going to let the tailor fix them.—Gainesville Eagle
