WOODRIDGE MURDER

WEST POINT DECEASED; THIRD VICTIM FOUND

Mutilated Bodies of Mack, M. and Epps Melton and J. S. Leak Are Recovered From Chattahoochee River

AUTHORITIES EXPECT TO MAKE ARRESTS BY NIGHT

Epps Melton Recently on Trial in Atlanta on Charge of Murder—All Employed at Lanett, Alabama

(Special Dispatch to the Journal.) WEST POINT, Ga., July 1.—Within the last twenty-four hours three dead bodies have been recovered from the waters of the Chattahoochee river, a mile south of West Point, bearing probably the most mysterious murders ever known in this section.

They were all young white men, two of them were brothers, Mack M. and Epps Melton, residents of Harris county, Georgia, and J. S. Leak, of River View, Alabama.

The first body recovered was found yesterday morning by E. M. Mead and George Ware, while the ferryboat was on the Chattahoochee river, at Blanton's ferry. This proved to be the body of Leak, a young painter. His head was badly bruised and had a pistol wound in the back of his head. A rope had been tied around his head and through his mouth. A rock had evidently been tied around his head, and when it broke it came into contact with the surface of the river, where it was recovered.

THE BODY ON FISH HOOK
The second body was found on a fish hook by M. M. Hunt, a merchant at River View, and was discovered when he went to look at his hook to find out what he had caught during the night. It was the body of Mack M. Melton, a young carpenter, living in Harris county. He had been shot over the left eye and had been tied around his neck and hands with a rope. He was found on Monday, July 1st, at Blanton's ferry.

The third body was recovered by a fisherman at River View, and was found on a fish hook. It was the body of Epps Melton, a young carpenter, living in Harris county. He had been shot over the left eye and had been tied around his neck and hands with a rope. He was found on Monday, July 1st, at Blanton's ferry.

Wisconsin Senator Delivers an Interesting Address to the General Assembly

The time has come when the railroads of the United States must give up their monopoly of transportation and be placed on a competitive basis with other modes of transport.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, delivered an interesting address to the general assembly of that state, in which he advocated the nationalization of the railroads.

He pointed out the many abuses of the present system and the need for a more efficient and economical mode of transportation.

His address was well received and has caused much discussion in the state.

It is expected that similar legislation will be introduced in other states.

SLATON DEFENDS STATE NEW YORK PAPERS

Ex-Governor Says He Asks No Praise for Doing His Duty

All of the New York papers of Wednesday carry stories about the arrival in that city of former Governor John M. Slaton and Mrs. Slaton. All of the papers carry interviews with the ex-governor, the substance of which is the same. The following is from the New York World:

"I don't want any praise for having commuted France's sentence," said Mr. Slaton. "If your compliment were for a speech I'd made I'd feel flattered. Or if you told me that I'd designed a nice house or laid out a beautiful garden I'd be pleased. But if you were to leave me on a table in a room where there was alone and then laud me for not stealing it, I wouldn't feel particularly complimented."

"I might have lost a couple of nights' sleep enjoying the adulation of the mob had I allowed Frank to go to the state's law, but I wouldn't have had a comfortable night's sleep after that for the next forty years, if I live that long."

Mr. Slaton is a fine, big, upstanding southerner. He is forty-eight years old. Mrs. Slaton, still in her thirties, accompanies him. After a few days of sight-seeing about this city they are going to Sacandaga, N. Y., to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Lettie Hees. After that they will go to Seattle, then to an exposition at San Francisco and then back to Atlanta, where the former governor will resume his practice of law.

He told an interesting story of how he got into it. It is known that he was going to save Frank's life. He and Mrs. Slaton were in their library at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning. He had been deliberating for hours. He turned to his wife and said:

"Dear, my conscience and my mind will not allow me to send that man to the gallows. It may mean my own life and it probably will mean my political life if I commute him, but I'm going to do it. What do you say?"

Mrs. Slaton (Sallie Grant, she was, granddaughter of Governor Grant) is a Georgia girl. She fought six or eight duels) didn't hesitate. She replied: "I'm not a lawyer, but I know about him." "All right, Jack, never mind the consequences, let's commute!"

The ex-governor isn't sure that his political career is ended after all. It is no secret that his ambition for years has been to be United States senator from Georgia. The World asked him:

"Will you be a candidate for that office at the next election?"

"If the people want me—and if Mrs. Slaton let me," he replied.

"Here's one thing I wish the north to know," he said. "I didn't slip out of Atlanta, or sneak away. Within a couple of days of my decision caused all the excitement I was walking about the streets as usual. I have nothing to fear."

"Another thing I'd like to have known is that you had good people of respect, disapproved of my action, but I did not realize that only one of the many judges who passed on the case had a right to grant a new trial—Judge Roan, who passed sentence on Frank."

"Judge Roan realized that he made a mistake. He wrote to me and begged me to commute the sentence."

Mr. and Mrs. Slaton are staying at the Waldorf. They attracted a great amount of attention when their identity became known.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS CAR Accident at Bellwood Avenue and Franklin Street Blamed on Slippery Pavement

Three women and one man were hurt badly Wednesday night about 9 o'clock when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into an English avenue street car at the corner of Bellwood avenue and Franklin street. The injured are L. W. Phillips, 29; Beat Georgia avenue, driving the car; and Atlanta houses; Mrs. M. B. Ebbow, of Marietta street; Mrs. M. E. Forehand; Mrs. Ray Stauffer, 34 Hill avenue, at the Atlanta hospital, with a minor, left arm, broken knee cap and broken ribs; Ella German, of Marietta street, at Fairhaven hospital, with lacerated scalp.

Mr. Phillips had driven two ladies to Marietta street to get the services of a colored woman as a nurse at the home of Mrs. Shaw's daughter. They were proceeding back to the city through a driving rain and the slippery street caused the machine to slide into the street.

FUGITIVE SENDS CARD TO CHIEF J. L. BEAVERS

J. H. Cheek, indicted by the grand jury for highway robbery, being charged with being one of the four men who held up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kelly of $1,200 in Inman Park several months ago, sent a post card to Chief Beavers Wednesday as follows:

"If you catch me, I'll set away. I am now in Baltimore."

There is a $100 reward out for Cheek. The other three men charged with the robbery have been caught, convicted, and sentenced to the state penitentiary. Cheek was released by a judge of the municipal court for want of present evidence. Cheek then made good his get-away and has not been caught again.

MANAGER AND BAR MAN OF CLUB ARE HELD

Charged with selling liquor to a man who was not a member of the Pan-Hellenic locker club, George Brown, manager of the club, and W. Watson, bartender, were bound over under $1,000 bond each by Recorder Johnson Wednesday afternoon and were fined $200 each.

MR. AND MRS. MULLER BACK FROM LONG TRIP

Mr. George W. Muller, Atlanta manufacturer of hat fixtures, has returned from an eight weeks' trip through the north and west. He was accompanied by Mrs. Muller. They visited the principal cities in twenty-one states.

Mr. Muller declares he found business conditions everywhere apparently the same as they are in Atlanta.

Mr. Walker Better, Georgia agent of the Atlanta Terminal, is still confined to his bed at his home on Washington street by illness that has kept him there since the latter part of April. Present indications, however, point to an early improvement.

GERMAN SUBMARINE ADHERED TO LAW, IS BELIEF OF OFFICIALS.

(Continued from page one.) The case of the Armenian constitutes the first since the sinking of the Lusitania in which American lives have again been lost. The expectation here has been that Germany's reply to the American note would make some concessions that would insure the safety of American ships on the high seas and especially upon passenger vessels. Comparatively little attention has been given to the case of American lives being lost on freight ships which primarily carried freight and contraband.

Eleven Americans Lost

With Nineteen of Crew. AVONMOUTH, N. J., July 1.—There were eleven Americans among the nineteen members of the crew who lost their lives in the sinking of the Leyland line freight steamer Armenian by the German submarine U-38 off the coast of Cornwall, on Monday. Some members of the crew were killed outright when the German torpedo struck the ship.

When sunk by the German submarine the Armenian was carrying 1,422 miles from Newport News to Avonmouth for use by the French armies. The vessel had a crew of twenty-two men and carried ninety-six men and their families.

The submarine first was sighted by the man at the wheel and though the ship was pushed to the limit the motor craft rapidly overhauled her and commenced shelling. The Armenians' efforts to keep her out of the zone were futile.

The faster vessel circled the freighter and the German commander, speaking through a megaphone, ordered the Armenian's captain to surrender or he would sink the ship.

The shipper of the Leyland liner struggled hard to evade the underdog boat, but the latter dropped a shell through a skylight into the steamer's engine room, putting the engine out of action. The Armenians then surrendered.

Life boats were lowered and the crew and some seventy male passengers, including all Americans, scrambled into them. As one of the boats was being lowered a shell from the submarine cut the falls of the boat. The occupants were spilled into the water and presumably were drowned.

Five boats loaded with survivors got away. The submarine then fired two torpedoes into the Armenian, and the vessel sank within thirty minutes.

The survivors rowed around in the boats till Tuesday morning when a steam trawler landed them at Avonmouth.

Two Men From Georgia Were Aboard Armenian

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 1.—The British steamer Armenian, sunk June 13 by a German submarine, carried, besides her regular crew of 195 persons who were signed aboard here to attend the 1,422 miles which the ship was carrying for the use of the English army in the European war zone. Nineteen of the multitudes were white men, while the remaining eighty-seven were negroes.

The list of Americans signed on the British steamer Armenian are as follows: J. M. Monroe, New Orleans, La. (missing); J. B. McCool, New Orleans, La.; H. H. Brown, Des Moines, Iowa; E. Williamson, St. Louis (missing); Robert Cox, Memphis, Tenn.; Louis Taylor, Bayonne, N. J.; R. R. Sutton, Cartersville, Va. (missing); Edward Pond, Newport News, Va.; Harry Stone, New York, N. Y. (missing); Charles Driver, Thomasville, Ga. (missing); M. N. Granberry, Montgomery, Ala.; Charles A. Baer, Singers Glen, Va.; Jess Caborn, Sidney, N. C.; Frank Hart, Newport News, Va.; F. R. Cline, Atlanta, Ga.; Edward Brown, Harrisburg, Pa. (missing); E. H. McKee, Newport News, Va.; Louis Eckert, Greenfield, Ohio; R. K. Brooks, London (missing).

The Armenian was the first ship of the newly carrying live stock from Newport News to the war zone to be attacked by a submarine.

The German attack in the Argonne reported yesterday was particularly violent. It is estimated that the forces engaged amounted to two divisions. The attack, however, was checked. Two fresh movements against the trenches at the east of the Benarville road were repulsed.

Another violent German attack in the vicinity of Metz has been completely checked. The Germans suffered important losses.

Wilson Is Informed of Armenian Incident

CORNWALL, N. J., July 1.—President Wilson was informed of the sinking of the Dominion line Armenian by a German submarine, and of the fact that a number of Americans were reported lost when the ship was sunk.

The president has been told that a favorable reply from Germany to the American note protesting against the submarine warfare was probable and, therefore, and of the fact that the Armenian with loss of lives was received here with surprise.

It was said the president had not changed his plan of remaining here July 4 because of the Armenian incident.

President Wilson has instructed the state department to make a full investigation and to report fully on the matter. He remained in his study during the forenoon to be in constant touch with Washington.

Submarine Did Not Try to Save Drowning Men

CARDIFF, Wales, July 1.—Survivors of the Armenian arriving here say the German submarine ran close to the drowning men thrown into the water by a sinking boat, but made no effort to rescue them.

State Song Writers Swamp Forrest Adair With Shriner Ditties

An apparently harmless announcement that Yaarab Temple, of the Shrine, wanted an appropriate ditty to table along to sing on the western trip next Monday, has made a lot of trouble for Forrest Adair, the poetaster of the temple.

Incidentally Mr. Adair has become convinced of the far reaching effect of newspaper publicity. Not one ditty, but dozens of ditties on each mail have reached his office. And ditties not from one town or from one composer either.

Some were set in music, and an ambitious girl composer sent a contribution eight tunes, including Charlie Chaplin's tunes. Most of the words were written to go with the Tipperary and Mandalay tunes.

Toccoa and Gainesville were both represented in Thursday's mail, but many contributions called in person with their makers. W. E. Waters, Jr., has been the judge of the contest.

ATLANTA SEES ANOTHER SHRINE PARADE FRIDAY

Yaarab Patrol and Band Will March Through Streets Again

Atlanta, which has a taste of Shrine parades and likes them, will see another parade Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Yaarab patrol and band, in full uniform will march from the Masonic temple.

The line of march will be down Peachtree and Mitchell streets to Mitchell, then to Broad and back to the temple.

The Shrine will leave Monday for the western trip. They will take with them 3,500 feet of films, with which they will be making pictures of themselves leaving Atlanta, of the parade in Seattle, and the exercises at the San Francisco exposition on Atlanta day.

They will also take pictures of scenes en route and these will be exhibited at some local picture theatres on the return home.

The exposition authorities, who allow no motion pictures to be taken inside the fair grounds, have made an exception in the case of the Yaarab patrol and band, and will allow pictures to be made of it on Atlanta day when the exposition authorities present it with bronze medals.

The Universal picture people have extended an invitation to the band and patrol to visit Universal City, where pictures will be made on Atlanta day. They will play in Seattle on July 14 and also in a concert with other bands on July 16. Seattle also may ask for an exhibition drill.

BIG-RETAIL STORES TO CLOSE ON THE FIFTH Agreement Is Signed Giving Employees Full Holiday Next Monday

The big retail stores will observe Monday, July 5, as a Fourth of July holiday, since the fourth this year falls on Sunday. The stores have signed an agreement closing all of Monday.

The usual Saturday half holiday will be observed also; the employees will get a day and a half of besides Sunday.

The following agreement has been signed by merchants who agree to close their stores all day next Monday:

The undersigned list of merchants agree to close their stores all day Monday, July 5, observing the Fourth of July holiday. M. Rich and Brothers company, J. P. STATES' BONDED DEBT IS SWAPPED FOR ANOTHER Transaction Consummated by Flotation of Issue Purchased by Asa Candler

The state of Georgia on Thursday "swapped" its old bonded debt of $3,250,000 for a new bonded debt of the same amount. The transaction was consummated by the flotation of the $3,250,000 refunding bond issue purchased by Asa G. Candler, of Atlanta.

Mr. Candler had arranged for $773,710.33 of the bonds to be transferred to the National Park bank, New York, and he sent his check for the remaining $785,000.33 to State Treasurer W. J. Speer Thursday morning.

While Mr. Candler buys the new issue and pays cash for it the state will not have any more cash than it had before, because it must use the money obtained from the new issue to take up the old issue which expired Thursday.

NO COUNTY BARBECUE ON THIS FOURTH OF JULY

It was announced Thursday at the court house that the usual Fourth of July barbecue given by the county commission will not be held this year because of the recent fire at Bellwood camp, which prevented the proper preparations being made. This will be a great disappointment to the many who have attended the cue since it became an annual event about fifteen years ago, but next year, it was stated, the cue will be held as usual.

GEN. WM. A. WRIGHT IS GREATLY IMPROVED

Comptroller General William A. Wright, who has been somewhat indisposed for the past several days, was reported much improved Thursday. General Wright hopes to be back at his desk in the capitol within the next few days. His illness was due to overwork during the recent hot weather and manifested itself in extreme nervousness.

$1 & $1.50 House Dresses 69c Buy Them By the Half Dozen

So far as the dresses themselves are concerned, there's neither rhyme nor reason for marking them 69c. Their worth is all out of proportion to such a price. You will know this better once you see them. For this is what you will find—dresses of good, strong and washable gingham, percales and lawns, figured, striped and in very dainty floral patterns and colors; fashioned becomingly, with three-quarter length sleeves and low collars, many of them piped and button trimmed. But the point you will probably be most impressed with is that they are made right—with the seam in the back that assures snug fit over the hips and a graceful, full width skirt.

No, 69c does not cover the cost of such dresses, as you may compute for yourself.

Ready Friday Thirty NEW Styles of Waists At $1.00

Choose the two, the three, the half dozen styles (of thirty) that you like best, and every one will be a fresh and attractive waist.

We have planned to make Friday a day of days for the woman who would own new and inexpensive waists.

There are voiles plain, and voiles checked; there are dimities plain and dimities checked; a half dozen organdie waists, another half dozen all-over embroidery waists; there are very simple and very pretty tucked waists; waists very lacy, waists with black bows in their low collars—and the collars, seemingly the whole list of NEW collars (big organdie affairs) is used. See them!

Another Friday of Special Fittings In the New Frolaset Corsets

At $2.00, $2.50 and $3.50

Something out of the ordinary—these special fittings of corsets at $2.00, $2.50 and $3.50.

But so are the corsets—it is possible to sell them at these prices simply because the Frolaset people went out for business in an unusual way during the usual dull season in the corset making industry.

These are made after higher priced models, of materials used in higher priced models, brocades, coutils, batistes and they have the elastic gore in the back, too, that insures a snug fit.

Models for the slight, average and full figure—and the right model will be yours once our corsetiers fit you.

Novelties in the Corset Section

that deserve particular mention are—

- A Brocaded Corset at $1.00, and a W. B. corset at that—it comes in pink and white, with medium high bust, long skirt and four hose supporters.
- New Riding and Bathing Corsets, elastic, they combine the hips. The Vassar is $2.00, the Paris $3.50, the College Girl, for slight figures, $3.50.

Other Bathing Corsets of rubberized fabric, $1.50, and the rubberized Brassieres are 50c.

Net Brassieres, with shields attached, are 50c, $1.00 and $1.50.

TODAY'S EVENING STORY

HER FIRELESS COOKER

(Copyright, 1915, by W. Verzar.)

WITH the proverbial wisdom that has been credited to women since the time of Eve, Martha Crandall had postponed her request until her husband was settling himself in an easy chair to enjoy his evening pipe, after a hearty supper of his favorite dishes. However, for once this time-tried strategy had failed utterly to accomplish its purpose.

"A fireless cooker? Buy you a fireless cooker when I go in to town Saturday?" Peter had repeated in indignance. "Certainly not, Martha Crandall! There are plenty of ways that lead to the poor farms and goodness knows, you seem to have discovered most of them, but I draw the line at new-fangled contraptions like fireless cookers!"

"They're not new-fangled!" protested Martha. "People have been using them for years now, and they're practical time-savers, to say nothing of being very economical of fuel," she added hopefully, for economy in all things was Peter's hobby. "Just think what a nuisance one would be Sundays," she went on. "Why, I could prepare things and put them in before we started for church, and when we got home dinner would be all cooked and ready to eat, without the delay and bother we usually have on Sundays."

Peter laughed. "Do you really mean to say, Martha, that you think any one could cook in a box like that—be pointed a scornful finger at an illustration in the folder Martha held—with their fire?"

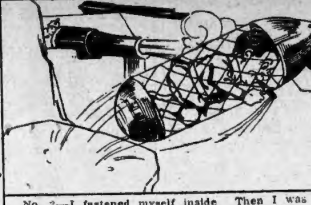

Martha, almost in tears, stood by her guns manfully. "Of course they can," she declared. "It's the easiest thing in the world! Suppose I were cooking for instance. All I'd have to do, then, heat these plates—the ones we're referring to in the advertisement now—put one in the bottom of the cooker, set the beans in, put the other hot plate on top and shut the cooker. In two or three hours, or whenever we wanted them, the beans would be all cooked and piping hot, and there'd be no danger of burning them, either. It's just the same with other things, too. Think what it would mean in the summer to be able to let the fire in the range go out, and have a cool, comfortable house and a good, hot dinner, too. There wouldn't be so much stove wood to cut, either, Peter."

Peter only chuckled derisively. "You've certainly got that advertisement well memorized," he admitted. "But Tom afraid it isn't going to do much good. I'd be ashamed to meet the neighbors if they found out I'd sunk any money in a fool scheme like that. Why, common sense ought to tell you that nobody can cook without fire." As Martha said nothing more, Peter congratulated himself on having so easily nipped this new nonsense in the bud.

Martha was the best little wife in the world, he told himself joyfully, but, being a woman, she put two heads with everything she saw advertised. It was a good thing she had him hold her in check, or every slick fellow in the country would be after her money.

However, Martha had not by any means given up the idea of possessing a fireless cooker. If Peter had only noticed her more closely as she went about reaching the supper dishes, she might have divined this, for there was a set, purposeful point suggested about her every outline of her back as she bent over the dispan. Had he not also been so absorbed in his farm journal, he might have noticed that Martha slipped out to the barn after she had put the kitchen in order for the night, and possibly would have coupled this incident with the fact that one of his new wooden paths—the largest one—was missing from the barn next morning.

Nothing more was said about fireless cookers and on Saturday Peter had completely forgotten their argument on the subject. When, as he was starting for town in the buggy, he asked Martha what she wanted him to bring her, she forbore to remind him that she already had made a request and been refused. Instead she laughingly told him to bring her some coffee.

Darkness had fallen when Peter got back, and after a long day in the hot, dusty town he found himself anticipating with pleasure the quiet evening before him, with Martha at the other side of the table sewing while he smoked and read his paper. He was hungry, too, and Martha always had something especially good for supper on the days he had to go to town. She was the right kind of wife, Martha was.

He left the horse at the barn with directions to Sam, the hired man, to look after her, and hurried to the house. To his surprise the kitchen was dark, and on investigation he found the house deserted. Such a thing had never occurred before, and immediately thoughts of some dire calamity having befallen during his absence rushed to his mind. A bit of paper on the kitchen table—a note from Martha—attracted his attention.

"Dear Peter—I was afraid you would be late getting back, as you had so much to do in town today, so I have taken the small wagon and come over to Mother Crandall's to spend the night. You will find your supper in the pantry. I had made a request to the sink. 'MARTHA.'"

In spite of his relief, Peter felt distinctly ill treated as he laid down the note and started to the pantry in search of his supper. He set the things out in a row and grunted disgustedly at the array. Baked, cake, and a pitcher of milk! What kind of a supper was that for a hungry man? Peter Crandall wanted something hot!

Suddenly his eyes fell on the pall under the sink. Oh, yes, she had said part of his supper was there. Now, what under the sun made her put anything to eat in a pall under the sink? Another glance disclosed the fact that the pall was none other than the wooden feed pal he had missed from the barn a few days before. Martha had fitted to it the iron cover of the cistern manhole.

Wonderingly Peter raised the cover. Underneath was a metal plate that he vaguely remembered as a part of some of his farm equipment, although he couldn't exactly place it. He reached for the plate, but quickly withdrew his hand with a yell of surprise and pain. The plate was hot! Protected with a folded dish towel, Peter tried again, and with better success. Underneath the plate was a small galvanized pall, and packed between it and the wooden one was something hard and unyielding, covered with barbed securely tacked to the wooden pall inside. Peter tore loose the barbed to see what was underneath and found excelsior. A light was beginning to dawn on Peter Crandall. A jerk of the cover on the small pall and the rest of his supper was revealed—Irish stew, an old favorite of Peter's and piping hot! Peter emptied the saucy concoction into a china dish and stood gazing at it thoughtfully, with a twinkle in his eye.

So that was why she suddenly got so nervous about staying here alone! he mused. "She wanted to give me a chance to discover her home-made fireless cooker when she wasn't around how she did it!"

DAVISON-PAXON-STOKES CO. WHEN the Doors of Our Store Close on Saturday at One o'Clock, They Will Not Open Until Tuesday Morning. We Celebrate the 4th on Monday. Watch the Papers Monday for Announcement of Interest to All Women.

A Great National Celebration of Our National Holiday 139 years ago—on July 4th—a great shout of joy went up from the little colony of enthusiastic Englishmen and Dutchmen who threw off the yoke of their Fatherland to become American citizens. George Washington caused the Declaration to be read at the head of every brigade of his army, and the soldiers pledged fealty to the cause of Independence. The populace of New York City hurried the leaden statue of George III from its pedestal at Bowling Green and molded it into bullets, and in all of the cities of the New Country similar demonstrations of enthusiasm took place. For on that day the American people celebrated the birth of a new nation. On Monday next 100,000,000 American people will celebrate this notable event with pride and gratitude in being one of those who make up the greatest nation of the earth. May "Old Glory" wave from every Atlanta home on that day.

ATTORNEY W. M. HOWARD IS APPOINTED UMPIRE

Having failed to reach an agreement on the leasehold estate values of the Augusta and Savannah and Southwest railroads, both of which are controlled and operated by the Central of Georgia, Chairman C. M. Candler of the railroad commission arbitrator for the state of Georgia and Attorney Alex W. Smith of Atlanta arbitrator for the Central have selected Attorney W. M. Howard of Augusta as an umpire.

The courts having held that the state could not tax the properties of the two roads in question because of exemptions allowed in their charters the commissioner general ordered the Central to make tax returns upon the leasehold estate value in the roads. When the Central's valuations were in the opinion of General Wright entirely too low he assessed the values and the Central announced its intention to arbitrate.

Meeting Is Called

GEORGIA'S AUTO TAX LAW HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Injunctions at Savannah Against Enforcement—Unfair, Says Judge Charlton

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) SAVANNAH, Ga., July 1.—Holding the Georgia automobile registration law unconstitutional, Judge Walter G. Charlton in the superior court today granted a temporary injunction against the city and state to prevent the enforcement of the act requiring the registration and payment of fees by the owners of these vehicles. Judge Charlton declared the provision for the distribution of the funds accumulated by the state from the payment of fees according to the rural routes in the county "violates every rule of common and incidentally double taxes certain citizens for the benefit of other citizens." The court says "who should bear and collect them runs a fund not to make better roads in Georgia, not to foster or advance any project of general interest, or even to help out the revenue of the state, but for the sole purpose of accumulating a sum for distribution among counties which may not have roads."

Supreme Court Will Have to Decide, Says Cook

Secretary of State Philip Cook, the official who is charged with the duty of registering automobiles, expressed surprise and disappointment when he was informed by Judge Charlton that the city and state of Savannah had collected automobile registration fees. "This means," said Secretary Cook, "that the case will be tested in the state supreme court and the constitutionality of the statute will be decided by that tribunal. In the face of the decision of the United States supreme court in the Maryland case, I am at a loss to understand why the Georgia law is invalid."

"In that case the United States supreme court held that a state had a right to levy an automobile registration tax both as a police power and for the purpose of raising money with which to keep up the highways upon which the automobiles travel."

So important did the state consider the action brought in Savannah that Attorney General Walter H. Hartridge in resisting the petition for injunction.

DIXIE HIGHWAY MEET IS HELD AT EASTMAN

Enthusiastic Address Is Delivered by Commissioner W. T. Anderson

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) EASTMAN, Ga., July 1.—A meeting of the advocates of the Eastman route of the Dixie highway through the counties of Twiggs, Bleckley, Dodge, Talbot, Jeff Davis, Appling and Bacon counties was held in Eastman yesterday. Large delegations of officials and representatives of the business men from several counties were present for the purpose of reporting progress and consulting as to the best means of obtaining official designation of the route. The commissioners and ordinaries from the several counties reported that the roads in their counties were in fair condition, and that the route, if selected in the best possible condition was being rapidly pushed forward and would be completed within the next few weeks.

W. T. Anderson, of Macon, one of the Dixie Highway commissioners for Georgia, was present and made an effective and instructive address on the importance of good roads, illustrating with facts and figures the value the Dixie Highway would be to the section which it traverses.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW COLUMBUS PROSPEROUS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) COLUMBUS, Ga., July 1.—Bank clearings for the month of July in Columbus, as announced by the Columbus Clearing House association today, show that there is little difference in the business of the district now and one year ago. Just before the opening of the European war.

U. S. Has Billion Trade Balance on Books for Year

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 1.—A billion dollar trade balance—the greatest in American history—in a year which has seen commerce depressed by eleven months of world war, is the commercial record of the United States. Official announcement was made today at the department of commerce that with the closing of the fiscal year last midnight it was certain that the billion dollar mark had been passed. "The surplus for eleven months ending May 31," it was announced, "showing a favorable balance of $883,117,478. As thirteen ports which ordinarily handle 80 per cent of the country's foreign trade show for June an export balance of approximately $490,000,000, it is known that the excess of exports over imports has at this date exceeded $1,000,000,000, surpassing by nearly $100,000,000 the highest record heretofore made."

Department of commerce experts point out that the immense trade balance is not owed to orders for munitions of war. In fact manufacturers generally other than of munitions have been less than in the similar period before the war.

Full returns of yesterday's treasury receipts show that $44,716,154 piled into the government's cash drawers on the last day of the old fiscal year and reduced the deficit to $35,854,381. Income tax receipts yesterday alone were $26,309,628 and for the year were $75,826,675, about $8,500,000 more than received last year. Payments may be made until July 10, and several million dollars more are expected from that source.

Customs for the year brought in $299,248,197, a falling off of about $82,000,000 from the year before.

"The net balance in the treasury today was $32,025,715, much larger than it has been for six months."
