

WHY DID HE GO TO HIS MOTHER'S ROOMS AND COMMIT NUMEROUS OFFENSES

"Harry Mason," 23, Held as Vagrant, Calmly Smokes Cigarette as He Details History as Yeggman to Police-

HIDES RIGHT NAME SO HIS MOTHER CAN'T KNOW

Confesses Robbing Woodside, Rosenfeld Company and Many Others - Redeemed Once by Love of Girl

A confession which reads like a combination of Nick Carter, Old King Brady and the Bible book with trimmings is the story of a young man, Harry Mason, who was arrested on Saturday night by a young woman...

"Atlanta Pretty Soft." Then he tossed his cigarette out the window and remarked that Atlanta was "pretty soft; the easiest place I ever lived in."

"Atlanta Pretty Soft." Then he tossed his cigarette out the window and remarked that Atlanta was "pretty soft; the easiest place I ever lived in."

When he was arrested on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, he was found in a deserted room on Ridge street, just off of Peach street. They were arrested and locked up on charges of being and loitering.

Later in the day Saturday the prisoner was brought before three detectives. They looked at him and said, "You robbed the Rosenfeld company."

"It's the only United States safe I ever cracked," he told detectives. "I've cracked over 100 safes, but none that belonged to Uncle Sam. It's too dangerous."

With $500 which he got out of the Tiger Bay haul, "Mason" began his "career" as a yeggman. He was in a bank in Texas of $2,000, he looted a furniture store in Pensacola, Fla., of $1,000, making his escape by the back door, he said, just as a cop came in the front.

He tried the Second National Bank of Jacksonville, but was frightened off. Eight months ago he got $400 out of a "job" in Michigan. Later in 1913, in Carverville, six years ago he got $600 from a man's furniture store. He was in Memphis, Chattanooga and other cities, getting away with robberies in every one. He was arrested only three times and then on such minor charges as vagrancy and disorderly conduct.

"Most of the money I sent home to mother," he said. "I sent her $100 when it came from. How much? About $2,000, I guess."

FRANK'S GREAT SLAPSHOT BY PRISONER WHILE HE ASLEEP AT THE STATE FARM

Protection of State Road Urged By Wimbish

Third article emphasizes absolute necessity of retaining every acre of terminal property both in Chattahoochee and Atlanta, as adequate terminal facilities vitally affect the value of any railroad.

There is nothing more essential to the efficiency of the modern railway than adequate freight and passenger terminals.

The Western and Atlantic railroad is both fortunate and unfortunate in this regard. In both Atlanta and Chattanooga it owns properties adapted to terminal use, in the heart of these respective cities, that could not now be acquired at any reasonable price, if at all.

The passenger stations in each of these cities are so admirably located near the business centers as to leave nothing to be desired in this respect. The state originally owned all of the ground upon which the passenger station at Chattanooga is situated. Many years ago, however, one half of this property was sold to the Nashville and Chattanooga railway, the line running directly through the center of the latter city, so that the state now owns only one-half of that station. It does, however, own adjoining property over which the station could be extended should the necessity arise. In Atlanta the union passenger station and the ground it occupies, together with tracks south of the building, are the property of the Western and Atlantic railroad. Certain railway companies enjoy a usufruct in the ground at the station, but this is also the property of the state of Georgia, although an easement in the use.

GREEN DECLARES HE IS SORRY HE SOUGHT TO KILL LEO FRANK

"Thought it Ought to Be Done at Time," But Wouldn't Do It Over Again for the World, Had Killed Two Men.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 17.—While Frank was on the operating table, William Green, the convict who attacked him, declared today that he was sorry that he had killed Leo Frank.

Green was questioned to some extent as to how he attacked Frank. He said that Frank lay asleep in the bed in the dormitory of the prison where there were a hundred convicts. He slipped up behind Frank in the darkness, and slashed his throat. There was only one knife.

Immediately after Green had made his statement he was taken to the basement of the prison where he was placed in solitary confinement. He was also put in iron. The cell in which he is confined is of concrete and steel. It is practically a dungeon, although not so termed by prison officials.

REPULSE OF GERMANS IN ARGONNE REGION, CLAIMED BY FRENCH

Latest Reports From Western Front Indicate Desperate Fighting of Last Few Days Still Continues

LONDON, July 17.—Continuation of the heavy fighting of the past few days which has tossed the lines of each side to and fro along the battle front in France is indicated in the latest official reports.

Paris records the repulse of two German attacks in the Argonne, which has been the scene of many of the recent engagements. It also tells of the breaking up by artillery fire of an attempt by the Germans to recapture trenches at Ban de Sapt in the Vosges, which they recently lost, and the breaking up of an assault in the forest of Parroy, in Lorraine.

It is in the east, however, that operations of the widest magnitude and importance are developing. The German move through Courland is believed by military observers to be directed at Riga, of strategic and economic importance. William Green, Columbus Murderer, Secures Butcher Knife and Steals Upon Noted Prisoner in the Night

"Am I Going to Die? I Am Not Afraid," Frank Said This Morning When the Doctors Told Him His Chance Was Very Slight

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 17.—Leo M. Frank's thrug was not tonight by a fellow prisoner at the state farm. His left jugular vein was severed and at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning physicians said chances for his recovery are slight.

Frank was attacked at 11:10 o'clock tonight while he lay sleeping in the prison dormitory. His assailant was William Green, forty-five years old, serving a life term for murder following conviction in Muscogee county June 15, 1913. Green used a crude but sharp home-made butcher knife.

Frank Green and about one hundred other prisoners were in the dormitory on the second floor of a two-story building at the farm. They had gone to bed at 9 o'clock, the regular hours. Two guards were stationed at the two entrances to the room and the lights were turned down dim.

Frank's cot was about forty feet from one entrance. Green's cot was four cots further along in the line. No one saw Green stir, but he must have slipped out of his cot, crawled under the three between him and Frank and risen by Frank's side with the butcher knife in his hand.

Frank was asleep on his right side. As Green struck, the man in the next cot cried out. The two guards started toward Green. Prisoners leaped up from their cots. Before Green could strike again he was seized and the knife wrested from him.

GREEN HIT IN IRONS. Frank came back on his cot in a pool of blood. Green was caught by Warden James E. Smith and is now in irons in a solitary cell in the basement of the dormitory building.

Frank was lifted from his cot and taken to the operating room next the sleeping room. He has never lost consciousness. Two physicians, inmates of the prison, were called to the ward and gave him immediate medical attention. One of them is Dr. W. J. McNaughton, serving a life term for murder, convicted of slaying a citizen of Swainsboro named Flanders. The other is Dr. J. M. Harris, convicted in Columbus of another crime.

While these two doctors worked over Frank, a hurry call was sent to Dr. Guy D. Compton, prison physician, at his home half a mile away. Dr. Compton arrived within a few minutes. The three physicians at once began an operation to stitch up Frank's throat. It took over two hours.

50,000 Women Are Making Munitions Of War for Allies

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, July 17.—The minister of munitions today told a deputation of women that about 50,000 women already were working at various factories in the production of munitions. It was not a question of competition between men and women, he said, but of molding men and women to work together to help the country through its worst crisis.

The first thing, continued Mr. Lloyd-George, was to get an adequate supply of machinery and tools, and the government was assuming the control of all machine and tool making establishments within the country. Women who came forward to serve must give their whole time. There must be real national organization for all women who were prepared to take up munition work.

Heat a Menace to Lives of Old Folks

Sickness and Misery Are Caused by Constipation In Hot Weather

People of advancing years should be very careful of their health during the hot months. One has only to follow the mortality record of elderly people as reported in the papers, to realize that these are the hardest months of the year for them.

It is most important to the maintenance of health and vigor at this time to avoid constipation, with its accompanying headaches and muscular and blood congestion. This can be best accomplished by the timely use of a gentle laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, an ideal remedy that is pleasant to the taste and natural in its action and does not gripe. Its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system.

In every home a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should always be on hand. It is inexpensive and can be obtained in any drug store for only fifty cents. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. Caldwell, 463 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

You Must Drink Some Good Beer

PHYSICIANS frequently prescribe beer because they realize that the small amount of alcohol it contains is easily assimilated, aids digestion, and its mildly stimulating qualities quicken the bodily functions into healthful action.

When a man drinks beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats of soup. A man might more properly be said to eat beer than to eat certain kinds of soup, or indeed, watermelon. It is both food and drink.

Drink beer and eat moderately—that is the physician's advice to the man who is "all run down." The moderate beer drinker and eater is in a far better position than the total abstainer, who often consumes an excess of solid food. Beer builds tissues, reduces waste, furnishes heat, and produces energy.

STANDARDIZATION OF COLLEGES

BY C. LEWIS FOWLER, A. M., D. D., President of Cox College.

Few people realize what radical changes are taking place in the educational world today. We are living in a day for the standardization of our educational institutions. Our high schools have certain standards set for them before the schools can get credit in our best colleges. Hence the struggle of our schools to get on the accredited list. While the Carnegie unit system is subject to criticism, because of its origin, it has done much to get our southern schools down to real work.

The standardization of the south educationally has been that we have not taken our education seriously. We have been satisfied with two little. Our public schools have been very in-adequate. The high schools are hardly better than the high schools of the north. Many of our colleges have been little less than half forces. But a new day has come. A day when all our colleges must stand up and be counted. The public schools have made progress. The high schools also have met many of the demands of the new day. Our colleges do not have the best or strong, well equipped, standard colleges, especially for our young women. Our young women have had a better preparation for our sons of their own than the men of their own.

The nationwide movement for the standardization of our women's colleges is not sporadic, it is the movement of a nation deeply stirred by solemn passion at the sight of wrong. The move is to call to the heroic service of restoration. With heartbeats swept up by an air from heaven from the white throne, like Lazarus to life's undertone, the moon of those who demand freedom from many of the ills which have enslaved women in the past. Education is the American woman. And when I say education I mean real education. The inadequate college must pass to the cemetery. Our mourning will be real and yet we realize that a new educationary day has come. This is no day of triumph but of dedication. To build a few great colleges, Christian colleges, for the future young women of America. The small, poorly equipped, poorly officered and unendowed colleges will die and should die. The few strong centrally located and modern colleges will and should survive.

Then, too, I wish to lay special emphasis upon the importance of the education for our girls' colleges. These are trying times for American women. She must have an educationary day in her ever increasing responsibility. Our young women cannot forget Christ. Cox college goes forth to American needs of women today, to meet the demands of the new day. We are just now one of the six colleges in all the South which has met all the requirements for the standardization. The time has come when the ambitious girl will not waste her time and money in a college that is not standard. Cox offers a full standard literary course leading to the B. A. degree. We also emphasize as of great importance, full courses in music, art, domestic science, eugenics and educationary courses.

Atlanta has become the one great educational center in the entire South. By virtue of the fact of Cox's location here at Atlanta she is destined to become a great All-Southern college for young women. Cox is placed to the highest and best in education for young women.

FLOOD SITUATION IS LESS SERIOUS IN OHIO

Rivers Are Falling Rapidly and Normal Levels Are Expected Sunday

COLUMBUS, O., July 17.—All rivers in central Ohio, which have been out of their banks two days, were falling rapidly tonight. Weather bureau officials predicted that with favorable weather normal level would be reached tomorrow. Reports received today by the state agricultural commission indicate Ohio's corn crop was damaged by storm and flood at least ten percent and that the damage to wheat probably would exceed that figure. Oats also suffered.

With the passing of the flood at Lima, serious sanitation problems confronted city officials. Precautions were taken to guard against the outbreak of any epidemic. Hundreds of persons, driven from their homes by the high water at Lima and other cities in the flood district, are able to return tonight but large areas in that section still were under water.

Atlanta's Original Cut-Price Druggists

THIRTY-ONE years ago the JACOBS' Drug Stores entered the Atlanta field—and for those three decades we have striven, year after year, month after month, week after week, and day after day, to give the people of Atlanta a service that could not be surpassed. We believe we have succeeded. The ever increasing patronage that has come to us voluntarily is, we think, proof that we have not only given Atlanta a service that has not been surpassed, but one that has not and cannot be equalled.

WE instituted a policy of "Cut Prices," and we have steadily maintained that policy; we began by selling the people of Atlanta the purest drugs and the best of drug sundries at lower prices than they could be bought elsewhere, and today we are still doing that same thing. Tomorrow JACOBS' eleven stores will be selling drugs, and all that a good drug store sells, for less money than other stores sell the same articles for; day after tomorrow we will be doing the same thing; next year; the year after, and as long as we are in business our policy of "Cut Prices" will be maintained.

WE SERVE not only the people of Atlanta, but the people of Georgia, the people of the whole country. Our Mail Order Department was organized along scientific lines, and we are prepared to handle every order by mail, whether large or small, with dispatch. We guarantee the same satisfaction to our Mail Order Patrons that we guarantee to the people of Atlanta, who come in person to buy at our stores. So whether you read this live in or out of Atlanta, the JACOBS' stores and the JACOBS' "Cut Price" policy is yours to use whenever you need us or our service.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR. It was our expectation, from the first, that this car would play a large part in determining motor car values. We said as much in our advertisements almost a year ago. We expected that it would encourage buyers to judge motor cars by the standard of quality—not by price. Surely the results have more than realized our expectations. Surely you can see that the car is considered a criterion of what constitutes real worth. Once a man has driven the car, even for a few miles, nothing can distract his mind from its performance and its quality. He thinks of the price only in relation to the remarkable value it buys. That is why the first 20,000 fell so far short of supplying the demand. That is why the second 20,000 are being absorbed with equal eagerness. DODGE BROTHERS, DETROIT. Complete in the car price is $785 f.o.b. Detroit. J. W. Goldsmith, Jr., 46 E. North Ave.

STATE DEPARTMENT WORKING HARD FOR EXPORT OF COTTON

Strong Representations to Great Britain for Protection of the Cotton Interests in This Country.

That the department of state is making strong representations looking toward the protection of the cotton interests of this country and fully realizes the difficulties surrounding the exportation of cotton, is the substance of a letter just received by the Atlanta chamber of commerce from Alvey A. Adre, second assistant secretary of state.

The letter comes in reply to resolutions recently adopted by the chamber of commerce urging the president and the state department to bring great pressure on Great Britain to revoke the order in council, which practically places an embargo on cotton shipments to Europe.

Not only has the local trade body secured resolutions urging prompt action, but letters have been sent to every state organization in the state, urging the adoption of similar resolutions.

The letter from the state department has proven most gratifying to President Mel Wilkinson, Secretary Walter Cooper, and other officers and members of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. W. G. Cooper, Secretary Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "The department acknowledges the receipt of your telegram dated July 2, 1915, addressed to the president of the United States in regard to the difficulties being experienced in making shipments of cotton to Europe at this time."

"There are enclosed copies of the British order in council of March 11, 1915, and the department's reply thereto. The British order in council is still the subject of diplomatic discussion between this government and the government of Great Britain."

"The department keenly appreciates the difficulties surrounding the exportation of cotton from this country and is endeavoring to do all that it properly can to relieve the situation."

"While it is not possible to outline the exact methods to be pursued by the department, you may rest assured that strong representations looking toward the protection of the interests of this important commodity and those connected with it are being and will be made. Farther than this assurance, the department would not care to indicate the method at this time."

"Respecting the limitations of the market for cotton arising from the war situation, the department has from time to time called for reports of the market for cotton in foreign countries from its consular officers stationed abroad with a view to indicate any possible openings for cotton that might relieve the situation due to the decreased exportations to Europe."

"Copies of these reports may be obtained from the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce."

"Very obedient servant,
For the Secretary of State:
(Signed) ALVEY A. ADRE,
Second Assistant Secretary."

THAW TAKES PLUNGE IN SEA AT ATLANTIC CITY

Hundreds of Men and Women Shake Hand of White's Slayer

(By Associated Press.)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 17.—Harry K. Thaw, who arrived here late last night after having been set free under bail by the New York supreme court, took two dips in the ocean today and shook hands with hundreds of persons. Early in the day he strolled through the city and disregarded the gaze of the curious and went about as he pleased. He said he would go to Philadelphia Sunday and leave for Pittsburgh Monday.

Thaw spent the morning in his room and at noon tried to take a stroll along the boardwalk. A crowd soon followed and he sought relief in a public bath house where he hired a bathing suit and took a plunge in the ocean under the eyes of the private detectives. Hundreds of persons watched him.

During the afternoon he went on a shopping tour and at 8 o'clock took his second bath. Wherever he went Thaw was stopped by men and women who wanted to shake his hand.

'WILD-CAT' STILL NEAR MARIETTA IS WRECKED

Raiding Officers Find Four Hundred Gallons of Whisky Mash

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MARIETTA, Ga., July 17.—Hidden in an underground "wildcat" still ten miles north of Marietta in Cobb county, near the Milton line, four hundred gallons of whisky mash was found and destroyed on the farm of Melvin Hames by Deputy Revenue Agent Sewell, of Atlanta, and Sheriff W. E. Swanson of Cobb county, Saturday afternoon.

The officers wrecked the still and all of its appurtenances. Hames' wife and children were at home, but Hames was not to be found. The federal authorities have put out their dragnet to catch him.

The still was within 100 yards of the Hames house, hidden in a cave dug into a hillside near a branch. It had a capacity of about fifty gallons of whisky. Sheriff Swanson said it looked as if it had been in use for several years.

Complaints from residents near Hames' farm caused the raid.

The Knight is the automobile motor that revolutionized the entire motor car industry of Europe.

The Knight type motor is the nearest approach to 100% efficiency.

As we build more cars in a single week than most European manufacturers build in a whole year, we are able to utilize every modern manufacturing economy.

The Daimler of England, the Panhard of France, the Mercedes of Germany, the Minerva of Belgium—in fact practically all of the costly European cars—are equipped with the famous Knight type motor.

This motor differs from other motors in that where all others deteriorate with use, this improves; to all others carbon is harmful, here it is beneficial; size for size it has more power.

That is why our price is so much less.

The Willys-Knight, in our opinion, has the least vibration and is the smoothest, quietest and most economical car made.

And these are the motor cars that cost from $4,000 to $8,000 each!

It has no noisy poppet valves; no noisy cams; no uncertain valve springs; no troublesome valves to grind; practically no wearing parts.

Have your demonstration at once. Immediate deliveries.

TWO PERSONS DIE FROM HEAT IN NEW YORK CITY

PROSPERITY EVIDENCED BY STEEL MARKET BOOM

Advance of $6 a Ton in Price of Steel Bars Since First of Year

The steel industry is regarded as the one in little business barometer of America, and by this token it may be accepted as a fact that prosperity is on the wane.

The steel industry is on a boom. The price of steel bars has been advanced to $1.95 per 100 pounds, by one big manufacturing plant, and the United States steel corporation has increased the price of bars from $1.25 to $1.30 per 100. The advance approximates $1 a ton.

Early in the year, the prices were as low as $1 per 100, so that the recent increase represents an advance of $6 per ton.

Early in the year the prices were as low as $1 per 100, so that the recent increase represents an advance of $6 per ton.

The Iron Age, commenting on iron and steel conditions of the past week, says: "A further increase in steel production has become necessary to keep pace with the continued expansion of demand."

The developments have come so far to strengthen the situation that steel manufacturers now speak of "summer" as a period of "normal" assurance.

Following the announcement of an increase of 4,000 tons in the Steel corporation's unfilled orders in June—a total that exceeded estimates in the trade—the corporation has started up four more blast furnaces and a considerable number of open-hearth furnaces, and this week's working capacity is reported 50 per cent of its ingot capacity. The remaining blast furnaces are at Cleveland, Lorain, South Chicago, and Pittsburg.

In addition the Riverside plant at Wheeling, W. Va., consisting of two blast furnaces and two Bessemer converters, idle for two years, has been ordered into commission.

Further evidence of growing confidence in the purchase of outside steel is the corporation's placing of orders for 56,000 tons of billets with eastern steel works, including the 15,000 tons reported one week ago, besides 18,000 tons divided among three central western companies, two in Ohio and one in the Pittsburg district, making a total of 70,000 tons. As 30 per cent of its blast furnace capacity is now running, it is not expected to buy pig iron in the open market.

Recent business this month has been about the same rate as in June, when the steel corporation shipped nearly 400,000 tons a day and booked 54,000 to 55,000 tons a day. Its export business amounts to 10,000 tons a day.

An advance in bars, plates, and structural shapes to 1.30 cent, Pittsburg, for third quarter delivery was made by the Carnegie Steel company and Illinois Steel company on Tuesday, and a similar advance was announced at the beginning of the week by the Cambria Steel company.

There is no end in sight to the bar tonnage required for sheets, and buyers are looking farther ahead. Contracts covering one and two years are now proposed, on calling for more than 100,000 tons of rounds. The bar specifications of agricultural machinery makers have increased and Chicago reports early resumption of such plants, where earlier plans looked to starting in September.

The delay in shipping in this country Russian orders for 250,000 tons of pig iron has been largely a matter of terms. Some manufacturers have been unwilling to accept cash and deferred payments, but it is reported, without direct confirmation, that two Central Western steel companies have taken this business, one receiving 125,000 tons and the other 75,000 tons.

In pig iron the feature is the purchase of 40,000 to 50,000 tons of basic iron from a Cleveland furnace that is about to be started, the delivery price, $15, being below the present basis for valley iron. A sale of 5,000 tons of basic iron has been made at $15 at Shanago valley furnace, and one of 10,000 tons of Bessemer iron of special chemistry $15 valley furnace has been quoted. The Central Western situation in steel-making is stronger. Foundry irons, however, have not shown corresponding firmness.

WALTER TAYLOR IS PICKED AS "PA" BY 37 CHILDREN

Kids at Home for Friendless Beg City Clerk to Adopt Them for His Own

In the opinion of 37 children, Walter Taylor, city clerk, would make an ideal father.

For all of the 37, within the space of three minutes, tried to adopt him as a fond parent.

Mr. Taylor Friday afternoon stopped at the corner of Highland avenue and Randolph street to catch a car. As he had four minutes to wait for a trolley he walked over to the steps of the Home for the Friendless, where he saw a number of children playing. As he paused for a moment, a chubby-faced youngster of about four summers, rushed up to him, and jumped from the top of the steps, throwing his arms around the city clerk's neck.

"I didn't think of adopting a boy," murmured the clerk.

"Well, man, I wish you would adopt me," said the little fellow, who still kept his arms about the clerk's neck. Another youngster of about the same age crowded closer than the others and tried to pull the first one from Mr. Taylor's arms.

"Mister," said the second boy, "I wish you to adopt me and my little brother, too."

"No, no, adopt me," the others began shouting one by one.

In a couple of minutes Mr. Taylor had 37 children about him, and the number has been accurately computed for the first child by youngster, who spied the ideal parent, and a penny clinked in his hand, and when he found that he couldn't possibly prevail on Mr. Taylor to take the penny and rush to the corner drug store for candy.

Mr. Taylor took the penny and "with it" bought a "cannon crackers" candy with candy for each child who wanted to be his son, and 37 of the candycrackers were distributed.

GERMANY MAY BAR ALL FOREIGN DOCTORS BERLIN, June 15.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Foreigners will be forbidden to practice medicine in Berlin if the German Federation of Physicians' associations has its way. A petition to the federal council, has just requested the prohibition, grounding its practicability in Berlin in a quarantine notwithstanding the fact that these physicians have had to comply with the same rules applicable to do with the practice of medicine before being admitted to the profession. The federation desires not only to forbid practicing by physicians now here, but to make reciprocal the admission of foreign physicians during the war.

RENTING SEASON ACTIVITY HAS BEGUN IN ATLANTA; THREE OF THE NEW SOUTH SIDE APARTMENT HOUSES

Fall Renting Activity Already Shown at Renting Agencies

Most Leases Expire on September 1, and Tenants Who Expect to Make Changes, and Newcomers, Are Looking Over the Agents' Lists—Many New Apartments the Feature of the Season—Fine Time, Too, to Select Business Locations

Although over a month off, the fall renting season has really opened. Renting agencies during the past week reported that they saw inquiries for houses, apartments and stores the beginning of preparations for the annual renting season.

Most of the leases terminate on September 1, and for this reason tenants who contemplate renewals or changes are making their preparations for the coming year.

From now until well into the fall, the renting season will be kept busy. All classes of property will be affected, from a fabulous central location to a 12 house. Some business concerns will want to get closer to the center, while others which are not retailers and do not depend on central locations, will go further out.

People who have been in the suburbs will want to move closer to the city. Many people will want to move further out.

APARTMENT HOUSE FEATURE
More than ever before has the apartment house become a feature of the renting season, and their popularity has increased. If anything, during the depression that followed the war.

From January 1 to last, over 200 new apartment houses in addition to the 100 or more already in existence. Plans have been made for still more apartment houses. The movement has struck Atlanta as common with most other American cities.

Of the twenty-one apartment houses permitted, however, but few were of course not large ones. Some were for remodeling dwellings into two-family apartments. Others were for new buildings of frame construction to house from two to four families.

In this case, however, there are illustrations showing three new apartment houses costing $70,000, $60,000 and $40,000 each. The average cost of the new apartment houses has ranged from $20,000 to $25,000.

These buildings contain apartments ranging in size from two to eight and the rooms of the owners specially furnished with modern and developed features of convenience and comfort that a few years ago would have been considered outside the limits of the latest cities. Nothing of attractiveness in architecture is to be seen in the houses.

HOUSES FOR RENT.
Popular as the apartments have become, still, for some people, particularly families with young children, the detached house will always be necessary, and the renting agencies are offering a wide variety of desirable houses. Prospective tenants should make their inspections early, so as to get the pick of locations.

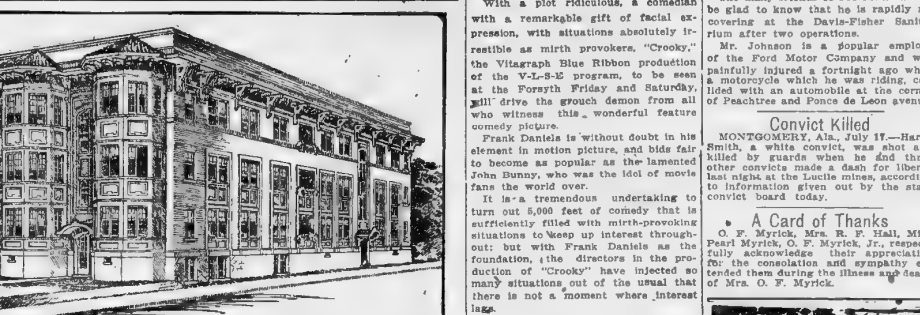

BUSINESS LOCATIONS.
Wise business men are taking this time to get a line on long leases on choice locations, because it may be many years before as good an opportunity presents itself. Presently, the time to "click" a long lease on good terms. Prices will never be any less, but they are certain to higher.

Advertisements of renting agencies in this issue give an unusually wide range of selections, and persons contemplating changes should consult them.

THE BLACKSTONE COURT APARTMENTS

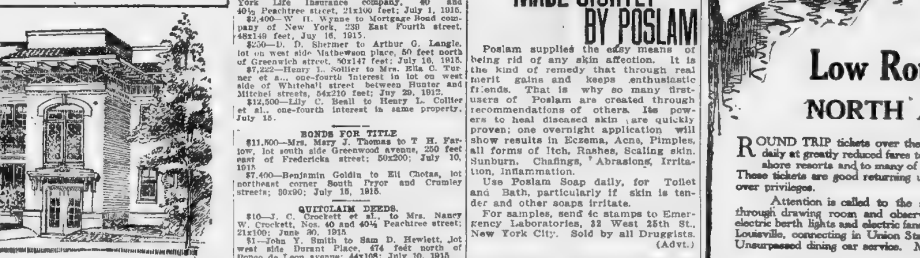

THE NORTH PARK APARTMENTS

The illustration shows the North Park apartment house at Piedmont avenue and Fourteenth street, which is practically completed and is open for inspection. The building faces Piedmont park, which has developed into one of the most attractive parks in Atlanta. It is also at the Piedmont Driving club. The building represents a cost of $60,000. It is three stories, and contains elegant apartments, with sun parlors and sleeping porches a feature.

THE ACCOMPANYING ILLUSTRATION shows how the apartment building, now being erected on Durant Place for S. R. Crawford, will appear upon completion. The building is being constructed on a lot 126 feet front and 100 feet deep. It will contain twelve apartments ranging from three to five rooms in addition to sun parlors and sleeping porches. It will cost $40,000, and was designed by Harston Blackley, the architect.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD
Cloud-Stanford Co. Leases Former Lester Book Co. Quarters at 60 Peachtree Street—Permits Asked for $45,000 Apartment House at Peachtree and Seventeenth Streets—$40,000 One Planned on Durant Place—Building Active

An important central lease announcement, and announcements of two new apartment houses neither of which had been mentioned before, featured real estate news of Saturday.

There were unimportant announcements of some large sales and exchanges which might be made known during the week. Agencies which specialize on homes report a good inquiry from people whose leases expire in September and who have decided to buy instead of rent.

PEACHTREE STREET LEASE.
Benjamin D. Watkins has leased for Jack J. Spaulding and Edward H. Inman to the Cloud-Stanford company the Inman building, situated at 60 Peachtree street and 21 North Broad street.

These are the quarters formerly occupied by the Lester Book company, and are to be used for the new apartment house. The latter location was leased some time ago for occupancy on September 1, but the name of the lessee was not disclosed.

NEW APARTMENT HOUSES.
The Atlanta Building Co. on Saturday made an application for a permit for an apartment house at Peachtree and Seventeenth streets. The latter location was leased some time ago for occupancy on September 1, but the name of the lessee was not disclosed.

The new location of the Cloud-Stanford company consists of a three-story building facing 21 North Broad street with a depth of 135 feet through to Peachtree street. The building will be occupied by the Lester Book company, and in the meantime they will make alterations adapted to an ordinary house. Neither the terms nor the rental of the lease was disclosed.

WORK IS STARTED ON THE BLACKSTONE COURT

$70,000 Apartment House on Peachtree Street Has Many Novel Features

The accompanying illustration is the first picture of the Blackstone Court apartment house upon which work has been started at Peachtree and Fourth streets. The building will be completed by September 1, or in time for the fall opening.

The building occupies the corner of a large lot facing Peachtree, Fourth and Juniper streets, so it has courts and air spaces on three street fronts.

The main entrance will be from Peachtree street, and here, as elsewhere, the entrance and court yard will be beautiful. There will be a court 100x44 facing Fourth street, which will be used for tennis courts or as a children's playground. The walls of the building are already up one story.

The courts will be beautified with special landscape work and will contain fountains. The building itself will cost $70,000 and will contain thirty apartments.

A feature of which is that they will be adjustable to any size. These apartments range from two to six rooms, with one or more baths. They are living apartments, and are housekeeping apartments.

The building will be set back from Peachtree and Juniper streets. It will be 100 feet deep and cover a large area.

In general style the building is Italian renaissance. The exterior is finished in gray white terra cotta with terra cotta trimmings. The roof will be a tile roof. The roof is outside ones, with an air shaft view from the upper stories.

The owners of the project are Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, Ralph Black, Mrs. John W. McDougall, and Mrs. Lamar Cook Russell. They are assisted by the Atlanta Building Co. and the contractors.

It has been a long time since the building has been started. The delay has been due to the illness and death of Mrs. O. F. Myrick.

5,000 FEET OF COMEDY IS SEEN IN "CROOKY"

With a plot ridiculous, a comedian with a remarkable gift of facial expression, with situations absolutely irresistible as mirth provokers, "Crooky," the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon production of the V-L-S-E program, to be seen at the Forsyth Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Daniel is without doubt in his element in motion picture, and bids fair to become as popular as the lamented John Barry, who was the idol of movie fans the world over.

It is a tremendous undertaking to turn out 5,000 feet of comedy that is sufficiently fitted with mirth-provoking situations to keep up interest throughout.

Mr. L. Thrower's agency has charge of the renting of the apartments.

JOE JOHNSON IS WELL ON THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

The many friends of Joe Johnson will be glad to know that he is rapidly recovering at the Davis-Fisher Sanitarium after two operations.

Mr. Johnson is a popular employe of the Ford Motor Company and was painfully injured a fortnight ago when a motorcycle which he was riding, collided with an automobile at the corner of Peachtree and Ponce de Leon avenue.

Convict Killed
MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 17.—Harry Smith, a white convict, was shot and killed by guards when he and three other convicts made a dash for liberty last night at the State prison, according to information given out by the state convict board today.

STATESBORO MINISTER GETS REAL HELP

Rev. J. Powell Tells How He Found New Strength to Give to His Labors

Rev. J. Powell, of Statesboro, Ga., suffered from stomach troubles so seriously that he had to stop his work.

He struggled on under the handicap as best he could—hardly realizing, perhaps, just how much his sickness was hurting him.

One day he learned of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He took the first bottle and then decided to take the full treatment. He wrote:

"Since using the six bottles of your wonderful remedy I feel like another man. It has been quite a wonder to me to know how one could have a stomach ailment like mine and live and do as much as I am doing now. I escaped the operating table."

"Now I can eat what I please and it doesn't hurt me night or day. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distressful eating, prevention of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absent-minded man. It will not satisfy an absent-minded man. It will not satisfy a man who is not satisfied."

The Demand Tapered Off When October Contracts Reached 9.48 or Nearly 7 1/2 Points Above the Low Level of Last Saturday

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, July 17.—A renewal of yesterday's late buying movement caused earlier trading in the cotton market, but prices later eased off under selling and closed barely steady, net 5 points lower, 1 point higher, than months being relatively easy.

Liverpool did not fully meet yesterday's local advance, the market here opened unchanged to 6 points higher, net 5 points, but the cotton advanced 1/2 point above last night's closing figures during the first half hour. This reaction caused a sharp advance to 9 1/2 points above the low level of last Saturday, and it appeared that the cotton would reach a new high level.

The early buying was encouraged by the continued firmness of the market and growing apprehensions of crop damage in southern Texas owing to the continued heavy rain. Some complaints are already beginning to come in from that section, but the eastern belt is still quiet. The sharp advance in the price of cotton has been met by a steady undertone in Liverpool and trading here was comparatively quiet after the early advance.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. NEW ORLEANS, July 17.—After a small rise around the opening today the price of cotton was held down by the realization of longer futures and a net decline of two to four points.

At one time selling activity was confined to the leading grades, but it spread to six points under yesterday's last quotation. The market was quiet for the rest of the day and the net spots and kept the tone steady.

METHODS CHANGED BY MOST HUNGARY

Methods of Fighting Alleged to Have Been Adopted by Enemies Are Scored in Red Book Just Issued

(By Associated Press.)—Austria-Hungary's indictment of the methods of warfare of her enemies, giving scores of instances of barbarous treatment of nationals and prisoners and breaches of international law, was made public in a "Red Book" issued by the Austro-Hungarian ministry of foreign affairs through its embassy here.

The first two parts, says a prefatory note, introduce numerous definitions of the terms used in the evidence concerning the treatment of Austro-Hungarian diplomatic and consular officers by the governments of the hostile countries. The cases adduced deal with the violation of the temporary rule of the right of hospitality, a right conceded since the recent anti-ally response to the unprovoked nations or tribes. Never before have so many cases of the violation of this right been instanced.

The third part contains evidence of the treatment to which Austrian and Hungarian citizens and subjects have been subjected in most cases before the opening of hostilities in hostile countries. Even it may be concluded that the prevention of the enemy's nationals from joining the war is to a certain extent justified, the methods employed by the hostile countries, and especially the arrest and internment of the subjects of the enemy, women and children, are contrary to the elementary usages of humanity.

The fourth part contains authentic proofs of violations of the laws of warfare from the Austro-Hungarian point of view. It is inevitable that there is hardly a full warfare, which has not been violated by the hostile nations. To the numerous cases of disregard of the laws of war, contained in the "Red Book," are added the prohibitions of the Geneva convention, and of the Geneva convention, must be added the numerous authentic outrages which the German and Montenegrin troops have been guilty of.

The "collecting of evidence" does not purport to be complete in any respect. It is mainly a summary of the collection of facts which have been either officially investigated or authenticated by the Austro-Hungarian government.

It may be concluded that certain breaches of international law seem to be inevitable in the present state of the world. It is nevertheless most disappointing that the international agreements assuring the protection of life and property of peaceful citizens, and the arts and sciences, should be wilfully violated by the troops and officials of the very countries which have conferred and confirmed the laws of warfare.

The French professor of law, already quoted above, enumerates the doctrine that countries at war with nations of a low standard of civilization are permitted to apply methods of warfare which are not in the level of their opponents' morals. He adds: "The French professor of law, already quoted above, enumerates the doctrine that countries at war with nations of a low standard of civilization are permitted to apply methods of warfare which are not in the level of their opponents' morals."

With reference to the treatment of Austro-Hungarian nationals in France, the chief complaint was against the hardships imposed upon innocent women and children in the concentration camps, a deposition of Mrs. M. Schreiner, a graduate nurse, pictures conditions in a convent at Garaison to which Austrian, Hungarian and German women were ordered after a march of 50 kilometers. Here they were informed that they were prisoners of war.

Master Meadows is a son of Representative C. S. Meadows, of Wayne county, and aspires to be a lawmaker himself some day. He is 11 years old, is an upstanding manly lad, and has made many friends in both the house and the senate. In his farewell speech, which lasted two minutes—thereby proving that already he has learned the first requisite of a good speech—he thanked the members of the house for their kindness, praised Speaker Burwell, expressed his admiration of Col. Boileau, clerk of the house, and threw a bouquet at Governor Harris.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

THE movement started by the Atlanta Woman's club to show motion pictures suited to childish understanding and helpfulness has spread to broad proportions and already twelve of the largest cities in Georgia have inaugurated a similar movement, and steps soon will be taken to make it a national one. Every one who has the interest and well-being of children at heart can recognize the preference of a censored subject to the promiscuous pictures to which the little tots are so often permitted to go seeking recreation and in many cases accompanying their mothers who find this an easy way to nurse their restless charges. Just as moving pictures have become a favorite amusement throughout the land to grow-up the juveniles of the country are becoming a large part of the patronage of the movie theater. Recognizing this fact women's organizations have endeavored through various committees to secure pleasing films and with the help of the management to provide the most suitable and instructive pictures for the development of the childish imagination since facts and fancies, good or bad, are produced with equal effect on the child's mind. Looking on an animated object develops a quickness of perception and very often an unnatural listlessness in a child can be overcome with the interest excited by a beautiful fairy tale pictured upon the screen or the production of actual scenes with historic value. Just as the imagination can be aroused it can be controlled by the pictures which give the reality of much that the little mind has vaguely tried to imagine. A hearty co-operation from hundreds of mothers in bringing their children on the days provided for their special entertainment has helped the movement to greater success and many have stated their intention of refusing to see pictures unsuited for childish minds and morals. The committee from the Woman's club which has the local movement in charge is composed of Mrs. Victor Krieshaber, chairman; Mrs. J. P. McGovern, Mrs. E. M. Horine, Mrs. Lyman Amsden, Mrs. Milton Strauss, Mrs. A. R. Colcord, Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, and Mrs. R. H. Bonn.

This Week in Atlanta Movies

Big Features Predominate in Local Theaters, With Generous Smattering of Comedies and Snappy Dramas

THE reason for some of the stuff you read below may sound rather foolish to you. All the managers of Atlanta motion picture theaters are doing their level best to "deliver the goods." Movies are one thing you can't fool the public on. You have to make good or lose the nickels. For that reason every manager in town has after features that will appeal to you. And this week they think they have landed. Let's give a brief resume before going into the details.

The Grand has three Paramount productions, one of them, "Hearts Adrift," Mary Pickford's greatest play.

The Forsyth has three big features, one of them "Crookly," Frank Daniels' debut film.

The Montgomery has three stars, Carlyle Blackwell, Jane Gray and Hazel Dawn.

The Strand has a new Nance O'Neil picture among its other offerings and "The Right of Way," which stars William Faversham. Also, the Strand has a new exciting play.

The Alpha has Billy Beard all the week, "The Broken Coil," Monday, and exclusive rights to the "Who Pays" series Wednesday.

The Vaudeville has William S. Hart in a first-run film and the production of Oscar Wilde's book, "The Picture of Dorian Gray."

The Alamo No. 2 has Theda Bara in "Kreutzer Sonata" and Irene Fenwick in "The Spendthrift," and three World Film features, starring Bob Warwick, Barbara Tennant and others.

And the Alamo No. 1, last but not least, has several Charlie Chaplin films, a cracking Keystone comedy and W. S. Hart picture.

BETTY MARKS AND W. S. HART
 Betty Marks, in a wonderful new picture, "Should a Mother Tell?" and William Faversham, in Sir Gilbert Parker's famous novel, "The Right of Way," are two of the great features booked for the Strand theater this week.

With Betty Nansen in "Should a Mother Tell?" is Stuart Holmes. This Fox film features his at the Strand and Monday. The story tells of a woman who, in a moment of tenderness, such as Miss Nansen alone is capable of, in her former suitor, a celebrated scientist and "A Woman's Reurrection," her work placed her as a woman in a Parisian saloon. In the very van of emotional actresses, in a moment "Mother Tell" she creates an emotional strain which will leave the audience fairly strangled. She has but one answer to her problem, some may agree with her, some not. But either way, you will be splendidly interested by the combination of mother love Miss Nansen gives.

Never did Gilbert Parker write a more famous novel than "The Right of Way." MARY PICKFORD AT GRAND IN "HEARTS ADRIFF" WEDNESDAY
 Hearts Adrift, one of the greatest features for the Grand for the week that starts on Monday, and there is no indication that its strength will keep the big theater crowded all day during the week. The program is one of the Paramount first run releases and special editions. It is conceded that this picture is in the highest class of motion picture offerings and that there are thousands of people in every city who desire to see it. The picture is a masterpiece of dramatic art. It is a story of a woman who, in a moment of tenderness, such as Miss Nansen alone is capable of, in her former suitor, a celebrated scientist and "A Woman's Reurrection," her work placed her as a woman in a Parisian saloon. In the very van of emotional actresses, in a moment "Mother Tell" she creates an emotional strain which will leave the audience fairly strangled. She has but one answer to her problem, some may agree with her, some not. But either way, you will be splendidly interested by the combination of mother love Miss Nansen gives.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 17.-Nashville won the first game this afternoon by the score of 6 to 1, but the ineffectiveness of Rogers in the second brought victory to Birmingham by the score of 3 to 5.

CHICAGO, July 17.-With first place hanging on the outcome of the second game of a doubleheader today, Russell allowed Boston to scatter hits and drive in runs, but in the third inning the visitors got as far as second base. Boston won the first contest, 6 to 1.

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 17.-Waycross made a clean sweep of the Brunswick series by winning two interesting games today. Rafferty's batting featured in the first game. Fast faltering in the second kept the score down.

BROOKLYN, July 17.-It would convince a Brooklyn fan that the Dodgers have no chance for this year's pennant who have some talk ahead. There's nothing to it but Wilbur Robinson and his man for the consolation and no one's going to stop them. And, all things considered, the Dodgers are a splendid opportunity to climb to the first perch.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 17.-Charleston pulled Columbia out of first place today by defeating the comers here, 6 to 2. The defeat also broke the South's winning streak of 15 straight games. He was hatted hard by the Gulls, which bunched with three errors.

CHICAGO, July 17.-Honors were even between Brooklyn and Chicago after the slugging matches. Mann's first hit drove in the winning run in the ninth inning of the first game, which went to Chicago, 7 to 6.

NEW YORK, July 17.-New York defeated St. Louis today, 10 to 4, the first game in sixteen innings, which was the longest run in New York this season, the finish coming when Aaron doubled, took third on Doyle's sacrifice and scored on Fletcher's error.

A. L. Sluggers Work Overtime

Thirteen Regulars in Johnson's League Hitting .300 or Better—Ty Cobb Leads With .409

When National League pitching this season ranks high, over the fling that these regulars, several of whom are hitting .300 or better and thirteen are consistently better than the hitters of the older circuit. No less than twenty players in the American league are hitting .300 or better and thirteen of these are regulars. Several of the players are utility men who have worked in a good number of games. On the other hand, the National league boasts only eight regulars who are hitting .300 or better.

Travis Raymond Cobb is leading the procession by a wide margin, as was to be expected. The Tiger improved his record by a few points during the past week. He has also added to his total of stolen bases, bringing it up to 58. His batting mark for games played through Wednesday is .409. The largest number of runs scored with 10 and the largest number of hits made with 14 are among his other distinctions.

PAT MORAN'S PHILLIES ARE PROVING REAL SENSATION

Pat Moran's Phillies are proving a real sensation in the National League. The team is leading the circuit with a record of 100 wins and 53 losses.

The work of Fritz Mabel, the Yankee speed merchant, during the past week was notable. Fritz boosted his base stealing record materially. He now shows 35 thefts. He has also improved his batting record considerably with an average of .315.

Pat Moran's Phillies are dividing time with Uncle Wilbur Robinson's Dodgers in the Philadelphia race. The Phillies are leading the circuit with a record of 100 wins and 53 losses.

Press Cruthers Crowding Lord For Batting Champ

Memphis Pilot Leads in Batting by Narrow Margin—Only Eight Batters Hitting .300 or Better

Press Cruthers, the youngster who Brice Lord snarled from the Carolina league to fill in the gap at second base for Cruthers, made vacant by the departure of the veteran Jimmy Mulen, is putting up a great scrap to oust his boss from the leadership of the department league in hitting. However, Manager Lord has managed to maintain a slight advantage over the youngster, and for games played through Wednesday of the past week, he has a margin of three points over Cruthers. Lord is hitting .326 and Cruthers .323.

Probably the most striking feature of the hitting in the league this year is the small number of hitters who are clubbing over the .300 mark. It may be noted that only eight players are hitting .300 or better. Bill Dewart, who has just drawn his release from the Travelers, only nine batters are hitting as much as .300. Two stand at this figure exactly, and one is leading the cracker by a margin of one point. It may be noted further that all of the boys who are up there are regulars, pitchers, or utility players being found in the list.

Pels May Make Three Changes

Acquisition of Catcher, Release of a Pitcher and Return of Sylvester Mean Changes

NEW ORLEANS, July 17.—Two, possibly three more changes, according to Manager Dobbs, are to be made in the Pelican lineup before the squad will get straightened away for the Southern league stretch. The contemplated shifts, unless Manager Jaw's plans go amiss, in all probability come within another fortnight, perhaps after the first game at Chattanooga, July 27, is completed.

Former Dixie Players Branch Out as Pilots

Nearly Every League in Country Has One or More Man- agers Who Formerly Played in the Southern—Texas Leads With Six

MEMPHIS, July 17.—The Southern league has always been a liberal center of playing talent to the smaller leagues south of the Mason-Dixon line, but this season it would seem that the Southern has taken upon itself the task of furnishing managers to the various leagues in Dixie, and that they have more than made good can be attested by the fact that nearly every league of the smaller organizations of the south is piloted by a former Southern league player.

In the South Atlantic league, the Columbus club is out in front, and its leader is none other than Jim Fox, who will be recalled by Southern league fans as the elongated first baseman who helped Billy Smith win a pennant in Atlanta in 1907. Fox was very popular with Southern league fans. Other S. A. pilots who formerly managed in the Southern are Frank Manush, at Albany; Eddie Sabie, at Charleston; and George Simpson, at Macon.

In the Texas league Paul Santella's Gastavon club is showing its heirs to other members of that association, and of the eight teams in the league all but two are led by former Southern league players. Ducky Swann is at Beaumont; Joe Dunn is at Dallas; Jacob Johnson at Fort Worth; Sid Smith at Shreveport; and George Ledy at San Antonio.

In the Virginia State league, the Rocky Mount club is out in front, and that club has as its leader Ray Ryan, who for several seasons was catcher on the Birmingham club. Heinie Ryan, one of the best fielding shortstops who ever played in the Southern, has the charge of the Petersburg club of the same league.

In the Georgia-Alabama league, Harry "Spotted" McIntosh, who has caught at different times for the New Orleans, Atlanta and Birmingham clubs, piloted the winning team in that little circuit. McIntosh has managed the destinies of the Newnan club, which won the flag, and with the exception of the North Carolina league every minor organization in the south has a former Southern league player managing its leading team.

In the Southern Junior league, Harry George is about the only leader in the line. George, who could be claimed by the Southern. Stallings managed several clubs in the old Southern league and during his last season in the league, which was in 1913, the ex-Atlanta pitcher won the world's championship for the Nashville club in the league. A. A. organizations in the Southern are furnished two leaders. F. H. Hatfield, who covered an infield position for the Chattanooga team, is the "main office" of the Columbus club of the American Association while one of the most recent players to break into the managerial end of the game in Harry "Red" Elliott, the old Birmingham and Nashville catcher, who has lately been appointed to handle the affairs of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League.

KN-LL PENNANT WINNER
In the Central League, Funch Knoll, who played with the Memphis and Nashville clubs, is a very successful manager. In the Pacific Coast league, the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League is piloted by the former Southern pitcher, Funch Knoll. In the Western League, Hannu Patterson, who played for the Memphis and Nashville clubs, is manager of the Seattle club. In the American Association, a snug little club is piloted of towns in Iowa, and is led by one of the Southern team leaders, J. A. Andrews, who played with New Orleans and Nashville teams, in lead in the Western League, Frank Richards, who played for the third base for Charlotte in the Memphis team in 1907, is at the helm in Marshalltown. Harry Ray, former Nashville pitcher, and one of the fastest runners the game ever produced, is in charge of the Memphis club. Dick Holt, one-time Atlanta first baseman, is at Burlington, and the late Manush, who was brought back to the Atlanta club, has charge at Clinton.

In the Northwestern League, Justin "Fog" Bennett played with the Atlanta and Nashville clubs for several years.

In the Canadian League three of the six teams are piloted by players who at one time drew salaries from Southern League clubs.

THE CRISTALINE Hamilton club is leading the Canadian League race. The Hamilton club was one of the first to split up with players to break into the Southern, has charge of the London club, and is in charge of the Hamilton club. The manager of the Ottawa club, is the champion of the Ottawa club.

Dobbs May Get Catcher Wells

NEW ORLEANS, July 17.—Phil Wells, former manager of the defunct Pitts South Michigan league club, and a present member of the Cleveland American, in all probability, will be signed by Manager Dobbs to assist Bob Higgins in backstopping for the Pelicans in due of another fortnight.

That Wells stands a splendid chance of becoming a member of the Pelicans is about a foregone conclusion. The only reason why Wells does not come direct to the local club for a tryout, is that Manager Dobbs has not been able to determine which of the six batters now drawing pay will be let out.

Before, according to the Pelican boss, will be made to try out the Cleveland club to send Wells to New Orleans in the event the backstop proves to be the satisfaction of someone. Higgins & Co. his arm is not a total wreck.

Manager Dobbs appeared surprised when he was told the Cleveland club had signed Wells. At first he stated the backstop would probably be turned over to Mr. Rogers' American association teammate, for which he is unable to find a purchaser, but when told De Voght was alternating for the Pelicans, O'Neill dividing the Indians' backstopping with Egan, the Pel boss stated he felt certain he could get Wells.

Wells and Dobbs are old friends. When the backstop first broke in the game he played under the Pelican boss at Nashville, and since that time has made a tour of the Class AA leagues. Last year he managed the Jersey City International League club, but was let out because of the retirement policy. It is also said he has a rather weak arm, but Dobbs believes he can get first hand information from Cleveland, and should it develop that he is able to turn back ambitious base-runners, observable Egan is getting the first part of the season shortly.

The 1916 Cadillac Type 53

The World's Greatest Automobile Will Be Shown on Our Floor During the First Week in August

World's Greatest Road Record Made by the Cadillac Eight

Los Angeles to San Francisco in a Night, 493 Miles in 12 Hours 10 Minutes, Averaging 41 Miles an Hour Over Mountains and Desert

In a race with the "Lark," the fastest train on the Southern Pacific Railroad, an eight-cylinder Cadillac, stock touring model, with four passengers, and full equipment, during the night of June 3 and 4, made this phenomenal record, the greatest in automobile history, and beat this famous express train by one hour, thirty-five minutes. Never before has man traveled between these cities in so short a time.

The Cadillac Eight, traveling over good and bad roads, crossing both the Sierra Nevada and the Coast Range Mountains, and the Coronado Desert, made this run in eleven and a half per cent better time than the powerful, high speed express train, which ran on smooth rails, and over a route ten miles shorter than that traveled by the Cadillac Eight.

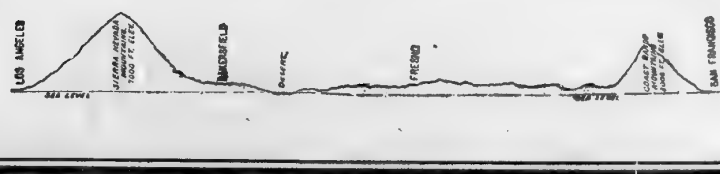

The car used was the demonstrator of the Los Angeles distributor, the first Cadillac Eight to reach the Pacific Coast, and had a mileage of 17,000 to its credit. This gives a special significance to the record run, and combined with it is a remarkable example of stability and endurance.

One of the many thrilling incidents occurred just after leaving Bakersfield, where drivers were changed, because no one man has the strength and endurance for such a test as this (even the express train made three changes of engineers and locomotives). Since the new driver had been over his stretch of the route a pile of loose rock had been placed on a curve. Into this the car crashed at high speed, and two tires burst. Because the rims were also damaged, it took twenty-four minutes to fit new tires.

Smashing all existing records by road or railroad, this run stands unequalled for sustained high speed, reliability, and endurance. It is proof conclusive of the correctness of the Cadillac V-type Eight.

Willys-Knight Announces Two Radical Changes

Season of Surprise in Motor Car Industry Ushers In New Development—Change In Motor Design and Price Makes Knight the Kingpin of All Motordom

This is a season of surprises in the motor car industry. The new developments have taken the form of maintaining the cylinders of the type of motor, of radical price reductions, or a combination of such as announced by the Willys-Knight announcement which offers two radical changes in motor design, the other in price. The price of $1,085 is the lowest ever offered for a car with a Knight type motor.

The reliability, remarkable power, economy of operation and economy of design are famous throughout the world. One of its chief advantages is the characteristic of improving with use. It is an established fact that the Knight type of motor give even greater satisfaction the second and subsequent years than the first. Its simple design and small number of parts insure it against the various evils that frequently come under the head of motor troubles. Retaining is never necessary. There is no guess work. The engine is positive and never failing. The important difference of the Knight motor from a poppet valve motor is in the valve arrangement. The Knight type is a sleeve valve motor. The valves are merely sliding sleeves which pass over two—one inside the other sliding up and down between the cylinder wall and piston. In each opening, which, at the proper time in the rotation of the motor, comes opposite either so as to permit the charge to enter the combustion chamber and similarly to burn gases to pass from the chamber out into the muffler.

As much as the power of any motor is determined by having the valves in sufficient quantity enter the cylinder at exactly the right moment upon the complete expansion of all the gases also at exactly the right moment, the poppet valve imposes certain limitations upon all poppet valve motors.

Necessarily the diameter of the poppet valve is limited by diameter of the cylinder. Their time to the opening and closing is made uncertain because dependent upon cam and valve timing.

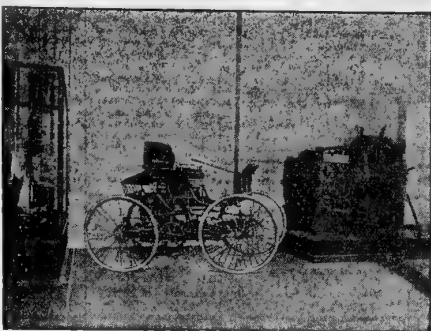

The large sleeve valves of the Knight permit valve openings much larger than can be had with poppet valves. The sleeves have a positive action as they are opened and closed by positively operated connecting rods, and, therefore, there is no uncertainty either as to the time or extent of the opening. It must always be exactly right and it must always be a full opening regardless of the speed of the motor.

There has been a more or less general opinion among those only partly familiar with the Knight construction that the operation of the sleeve valves might be difficult. This is because it has not been known that the sleeves do not have to be made to a tight fit to compression as is true of the poppet valves. The sleeves in operation are always covered with a film of oil.

It was more important to the success of the Knight type motor, the fact that the sleeves are not required to retain compression in the cylinder. The slow movement of these sleeves in the Willys-Knight motor is such that the piston has a stroke of four inches. The sleeve valve travels but one inch at one-half the motor speed. In other words, the sleeve valves open only one-ninth of the piston stroke. This means that if your motor is turning at the rate of 900 revolutions per minute, and which would be equivalent to a car speed of 44 miles per hour, the sleeve valves are only opening at a rate at which the pistons are closed at a speed of 100 revolutions per minute.

It is to be noted that forms so rapidly as the poppet valve motor and necessitates frequent cleaning, is not noticeable in the sleeve valve type. The design of the sleeve valve form has a benefit in serving to give surfaces a fine finish. Thus the longer the motor runs the quieter and smoother

AMERICA'S FIRST CAR

"Just twenty-three years ago, Elwood Haynes started the actual construction of the 'horseless carriage'—the little machine that gave birth to the American automobile industry." states B. A. Pearson, of the Program Motor company, distributor for the Haynes Light Six. "The first public appearance of the pioneer car was on the fourth of July, 1894, when it ran for about three miles on the country roads near Kokomo, Ind., at a speed of between six and seven miles per hour. The original Haynes car was equipped with a one-cylinder motor. But the one car was built during the first season. The pioneer car is now in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., as a national exhibit.

"In 1895 a two-cylinder Haynes was entered in the Chicago Times-Herald contest and won the first prize of $150 for having the best advanced motor. The market did not respond to the warnings of advisers that the horseless carriage was only a plaything for the rich. The market did not respond to be overruled by the end of the year and a greater production was planned for the following season.

"The Haynes phaeton type model was built in 1896 and was sold in New York in 1899 and won the distinction of being the first automobile to make a thousand mile trip in America. Two years later the same run was made in the record time of twenty-three hours.

"Out of forty-four contests entered between 1895 and 1910, the Haynes cars took first place in forty-one. The grand prize was awarded to the Haynes car at the St. Louis world's fair in 1907, the Haynes car made the only perfect score in the Chicago Motor club's 400-mile reliability contest in which thirty-five others were competed.

"The Haynes cars introduced many features into the automobile industry which are now considered as indispensable. Haynes cars were the first to use aluminum and nickel steel parts, as well as the side door entrance, the three-light carburetor, and the jump spark and magnetic ignition. The Haynes models now have the distinction of being the first cars to be able to travel from one to thirty miles per hour on high gear."

Firestone Co. Enlarging Plant

Adding Five New Buildings and Over 302,000 Square Feet of Floor Space to Factory

The already enormous wings of the Firestone factory are again reaching outward in their efforts to catch up with public demand. Since the new Firestone factory, consisting mainly of four huge parallel wings, was built four years ago, there has been a constant race between these wings and the "public call" for more Firestone tires. In alternate steps these four big extensions have been reaching out—never for a single week has the builders' hammer been silent since the original plant was built.

Last year, alone Firestone output jumped 78 per cent. But during the same time Firestone added 50 per cent more dealers so that the supply of Firestone tires never quite caught up to the orders.

The one mighty effort to jump the "production" ahead of the immediate extension of three of the big main wings, plus the doubling of a six-story factory building and the erection of a Firestone restaurant. This latter building will be three stories and a basement high, and will be about 150 feet square with a floor space of about 90,000 square feet.

These new additions will add 302,000 square feet of floor space to the present factory and will enable the Firestone people to nearly double their output.

The original Firestone factory was built in 1902. Here Firestone carried large tires were first made. Thirteen years ago Mr. Firestone and six others constituted the entire office force. Today over 700 persons are required to handle the office work of the company.

Today Mr. Firestone is surrounded by an army of officers, department heads, branch managers, superintendents and other helpers totaling about 6,000 persons.

"The factory buildings are ideal for

U. S. Rubber Co. Aids the Nation

Acting under instructions of Colonel Samuel P. Cook, president, officials of the United States Rubber company are furthering in every way possible the company's policy of encouraging the enlistment of the employes of the company in the various state militia organizations.

With that end in view, careful records of all present and future enlistments among the employes are being kept, and the officials of the company are endeavoring in every way to convince the employes that it is to their welfare and the welfare of the nation that every able-bodied employe serve at least one enlistment in the national guard of the state in which they reside.

Employees of the United Rubber company are given their regular vacations toward additional leave of absence with pay for any time spent on military duty with state militia organizations. This includes the time spent in state camps, on naval reserve cruises, at rifle practice or on any other state militia duty.

Colonel Cook believes that many of the more than 55,000 men employed by the United States Rubber company would enlist in the national guard, now that state duty will not deduct any time from their regular vacations with their families. In fact, recent enlistments among employes of the rubber company have proved his belief to be true.

Sanitation, safety, ventilation and general healthful conditions. A trip through this modern plant is convincing. Labor saving devices are found on every side—traveling cranes, automatic conveyers, electric inter-department trucks, and so forth. Not a movement is wasted. And every employe is a specialist on his particular work.

In a few years Firestone grew into America's largest automobile tire makers, and the additions started last week tell the story of how firmly they are holding that top-notch position in tire-dom.

Hupp Man Holds Service Meeting

Gathered together in meeting in the spacious offices of the John M. Smith Co., Huppmobile dealers and salesmen from all points of the state, listened to the 1916 Huppmobile service plan yesterday afternoon.

The new plan was thoroughly explained in its extent and scope by J. G. Roe, special service representative from the Huppmobile factory and was enthusiastically received by all present. It presents a definite answer to the service question, which for the first time in the history of the automobile industry gives an owner a service policy that guarantees to keep the car in running order.

When a 1916 Huppmobile is purchased, the owner receives a coupon book which entitles him to fifty hours of free service, for ten months, the service being divided up into five hours per month.

A number of monthly inspections will be performed, that will relieve the owner of all detail in the care and maintenance of his car. These service coupons are redeemable at any Huppmobile service station in the United States or Canada, so that this service is national in its scope and the Huppmobile user is not restricted to only the locality in which he buys his car. Huppmobile owners can now tour to distant points of the country, with the perfect understanding that should their car need service en route, the coupon book will be able to purchase it.

George H. Kelly Elected President of Auto Association

Crossing the Continent in A Ford Pile Driver Is Fun

You ought to see the Ford car with a pile driver on the back that Captain Sparks' boys have had built specially to drive points for the erection of the "Safety First" signs along the Lincoln highway to San Francisco.

This funny Ford with the "zigzag" at the back is bound to attract attention all along the way. The pile driver is of sufficient size and strength to drive a post twenty-four inches into the ground. The post will then stand seven feet high and will bear the "Safety First" sign, also the Lincoln highway marker.

The Sparton signs are of porcelain. They are twenty inches in diameter and have a red background which throws into bold relief the white-lettered words, "Safety First, Round Sparton."

These brave Sparton colors combined with the artist's white and blue of the Lincoln markers will show up distinctly against nature's neutral tints, giving warning at most opportune times, and marking the way to many a puzzled traveler.

It is going to be a big task for the boys. Every crossroad is to be marked—every point where danger is likely to be encountered will be provided with the warning. But the boys are jubilant over the prospect. Their pile driver Ford is equipped, also, with sleeping quarters, with every comfort.

venience so the boys may "camp right here" wherever the "here" happens to be in the road. The boys are in charge of the Rockies or on the broad, rolling prairies of the west, where the high pitched voice of the motor is soon to other near-horizons of the great west.

The "Safety First" bug seems to be communicating itself to all members of Captain Sparks' family. Captain Sparks is the original "SAFETY" man of the Sparton company, of Jackson, Mich., manufacturer of the Sparton safety sign.

He also makes up the motorist, president of the chamber of commerce of that city. He is who originated the idea of the "Safety First" sign, and now his boys, Harry and Clifford Sparks, are "Safety First" enthusiasts.

The original "SAFETY" sign has been done for the Lincoln Highway association. Although the "SAFETY" sign is bigger than is being accomplished by the captain's two boys in this self-imposed task, it must not be figured in dollars but in human lives.

With the completion of the work, every one of a 1,800 mile-long Lincoln highway will be provided with a "Safety First, Round Sparton" sign, and also the red, white and blue Lincoln marker. When the crowd condition of the highway during exposition time is considered, it is quite evident that every mile will show abundant signs for the information the signs will bison forth.

IMPROVED METHODS CURE OBSTINATE CURABLE DISEASES

READ WHAT SOME OF MY CURED AND SATISFIED PATIENTS SAY

Science is on the wing. Treatments used one year ago are back numbers now. To be a TOP-NOTCH Specialist requires not only skill and energy, but capital. The public is not satisfied with the doctor who sticks in the O.T.D. and is prepared to give my patients the benefit of all the great discoveries as soon as they are perfected. People come to me because they read my DR. HUGHES' ANNOUNCEMENTS or because I have cured some of their friends.

My announcement is in my office. I bear or publish testimonials without consent of patient EXCEPT FROM A FEW OF MANY SWORN TESTIMONIALS.

T. L. Davidson, 301 Crow Street, Atlanta, Ga., says: "After five years ago Dr. Hughes cured me of a chronic case of Kidney and Bladder Trouble after many doctors had failed."

R. W. Statham, 1114 Candler Building, Atlanta, Ga., says: "Dr. Hughes cured me of a case of Eczema that had resisted the best efforts of other doctors."

T. F. Beall, Lafayette, Ala., says: "Dr. Hughes cured me of a chronic case of Gonorrhea. I had been treated for years and had lost my eyesight. I consider the money I paid Dr. Hughes the best investment I ever made."

I have used Salvarsan and Bacterin in hundreds of cases. Each case I treat now gets the advantage of this vast experience. In my hands these results are: Rheumatism, Acne, Skin Abscesses, Bronchitis, Carbuncles, Bowel and Liver Trouble, Gall Stones, Kidney and Bladder Ailments, Blood Disorders, Piles, Varicose Veins, Weakness, Nervous Debility, Catarrhal Discharges and many other diseases of men and women are cured. What ever your ailment, tell me.

It will not do if necessary make a chemical and microscopic local analysis of excretions to determine pathological and bacteriological conditions. Your case will be provided with this new method of treatment which is intelligently and skillfully applied.

CALL TO DAY—DO NOT DELAY. A friendly talk and thorough examination will cost you nothing, and may be the means of saving you from a long and expensive suffering. Everything confidential. A large measure of success attained by me in treating obstinate conditions is due to the fact that I usually examine every case.

I am not connected with any other Doctor Hughes traveling around through Georgia representing himself as the original Atlanta specialist. My announcement is in my office.

The Rights of Neutrals Must Be Upheld.

In their intense hatred of each other Germany and Great Britain have disregarded the rights of neutrals and overridden international law.

Southern Schools and Colleges.

No phase of the South's development is more impressive today than the growth of its educational institutions.

In like manner the preparatory and training schools of the South have made wonderful strides.

It is especially gratifying to observe that the Southern people have realized the peculiar advantages which their own educational institutions afford.

THE SCHOOL OF FIRE--I. Training Citizen Gunners.

YOU can take a man off the street and make either an infantryman or cavalryman out of him in six months; but to make a good artilleryman is often the work of years.

Almost every state in the union has a fairly good militia infantry, and some of them have good cavalry, but good militia batteries are extremely rare.

In consideration of these facts, the government has established a School of Fire, which consists in a camp at Tobyhanna, Pa., for northern organizations, and one at Aniston, Ala., for southern militia.

The state militia batteries, as they stand today, vary from organizations that are better than the average regular battery to those that are recruited to less than half strength.

It is gratifying to observe that the Southern people have realized the peculiar advantages which their own educational institutions afford.

'MERCHANTS' WEEK' TO DRAW BIG CROWD OF DIXIE RETAILERS

Big Luncheon at Piedmont Club Will Begin Entertainments—Merchants to Spend Time in Buying Fall Stocks

The Atlanta market each year attains wider and wider recognition among the retailers of the south as a place where the best goods at the best value can be found. Every southern merchant is requested to make his arrangements now so that he can be here the first week in August, engaged in the gay doings that have been planned and participate in the accurate and scientific marketing that will be possible here this year, with a personal view of the stocks.

Travelers who were in the latter part of the week report from their territories large numbers of merchants coming here the first week in August.

WHITE PROVISION CO. HAS MODEL SANITARY PLANT

Trip Through Plant Reveals Enterprise of Great Value to City and State

A visit through the packing plant of the White Provision company, makers of the well known "Cornfield" brand of products, reveals it to be an enterprise of surprising magnitude and one that is a genuine asset to the growth and progressiveness of Atlanta and Georgia.

That this is indeed true, may be gathered from the fact that the company's plant, which is situated in the midst of a twelve and a half acre tract, consists of a two-story and three-story and contains 85,000 square feet of floor space, including 25,000 feet of storage space. The firm annually slaughters twenty-five thousand hogs and ten thousand cattle. The business of the firm exceeds $1,000,000 a year. The company during the past year received five hundred cars of live stock and has shipped out eight hundred and thirty four cars of its products. Its hogs come mostly from Tennessee, whereas its cattle are from the recent years come largely from the state.

The company also is a large consumer of Atlanta-made goods in the way of hogs, crates, cutlery and tinware for the packing of lard and sausage products. It believes in patronizing local business, and orders for supplies of this kind are placed with Atlanta firms whenever possible.

VISIT THROUGH PLANT

A visit by the firing line representative of the plant last week, which was personally conducted by the general manager, Mr. S. H. Papp, of this company, showed a scientifically arranged plant from top to bottom, its cleanliness of sanitation throughout in immaculate condition. There is a large room of lockers and shower baths for all of the men employed at the plant, and a sink and soap conditions for the water wash throughout the entire building.

The dressing rooms for the curing process, where the hams and bacon are packed in great care to undergo the curing process. From this they are carried to the smoking rooms, where they are treated with smoking smoke, and then they are packed in white canvas bags, or are sent out without additional smoking, direct to the trade, as desired.

In the first of main floor, is the slaughtering department and also a section for the curing of hams. The slaughtering of hogs is done in a building where the hogs are packed in the water, and then they are then dressed and packed in the next room where the hams are packed in the room. Both the hogs and the hams are then packed in the room. The hams are then packed in the room. The hams are then packed in the room. The hams are then packed in the room.

ON THE ROAD AND IN THE OFFICE WITH ATLANTA'S BUSY ARMY OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

Blank Whitman, of John Silvey & Co., was back in his territory last week after a vacation at his old home at Nashville, Tennessee.

E. M. Cox, of the shipping department of the A. M. Robinson company, has been ill for two weeks and though he is somewhat better he is not yet able to be back at his desk.

Among the visitors and patrons of the Lamar & Rankin Drug company during the past week, were Mr. Frye, Clarkville; Mr. Bell, Monroe; H. B. Burnett, Lovejoy Springs; Dr. R. T. Ty, McDonough; Dr. Cannon, Jonesboro; Dr. T. B. Bonner, Lavonia.

Claude Smith, of the A. M. Robinson company, was in Saturday and out again Friday to sell a bill of goods to a merchant with whom he had an engagement.

R. C. Jones, of John Silvey & Co., is now in Alabama for the last time before the Merchants' week in August.

John F. Davis, of the dress goods department, was in Saturday and out again last week a personal mail order for the largest amount of dry goods the firm has handled for a long time. Mr. Davis is being congratulated on the reception of the unusual bill.

L. H. Bledsoe, of Broxton, one of the most progressive merchants in this state, was a visitor at John Silvey & Co.'s last week on a buying trip.

day. Its water comes from its own artesian well, pumped by its own machinery. The company owns its own cars which are loaded in its own plant, and the ice which it makes is used chiefly in the ice cars. The day the firing line representative called two cars were loading, one for Rome and the other for Savannah, Ga.

One of the features of the plant is the part devoted to the refining of lard. The lard is refined together by the open kettle process.

All the operations of the plant are so arranged that there is no waste. The hair of the hogs is dried and pressed and sold for the carload lots. So also the refuse is rendered into lard and sold for fertilizer. The fertilizer plant which adjoins the main building is entirely shut off therefrom. The lard is rendered from the cattle and is also sold in carload lots and the hides of the cattle are cured and sold to tanners.

Among the conveniences possessed by the firm is an installation of the Western Union Telegraph company, which is adjoining the company's plant. This has instant communication with all the southern states.

The officers of this company, which is considered one of the most progressive and intelligently directed in the entire state are W. H. White, Jr., president; W. L. Newborn, vice president; E. S. Papp, secretary, and F. C. Wilkerson, treasurer.

to spend the week end with Mr. Adams' parents. He will return Monday and bring with him plenty of watermelons and peaches.

G. Y. C. Bulce, of Montag Brothers, was in last week, preparing his samples for his holiday opening at the Selwyn hotel at Charlotte, N. C., on Monday, July 26.

S. Kinningham, South Carolina traveler for the Hiram-Bryce company, was married July 1 to Miss Julia Haddon, of Abbeville, S. C. After a happy honeymoon, Mr. Kinningham is now back on the road. Part of his honeymoon was spent at Jefferson, Ga., his home.

Miss Sara Varpon, a popular and efficient member of the office force of the All Star Manufacturing company, is spending the week end with friends at Colliedon, Ga. Miss Varpon says that nowhere in Georgia can one have a larger time than at Colliedon. She declares that the peaches thereabouts are the finest raised in the state.

E. S. Papp, secretary of the White Provision company, returned the latter part of the week from a pleasant vacation stay at Savannah, Ga., where he went by motor, accompanied by Mrs. Papp and little Harrie White.

A. J. Sylvester, president of the American Cigar company, of New York, was a visitor last week at the Capital City Hotel. Mr. Sylvester states that Atlanta is one of the liveliest towns which he visits anywhere. His company manufactures Chancellor, Párex and many other famous brands of cigars.

R. H. Hill, the live wire city salesman of the White Provision company, was away on vacation during the past week.

J. F. Finger, of the Lamar & Rankin Drug company, is spending his two weeks' vacation on a camp on top of one of the highest peaks in north Georgia. Mr. Finger is known as the "Mountain Wonder" of his firm, and so attached is he to his mountain region that he refuses to leave it even for a vacation.

Walker Bradford, popular road man of the Lamar & Rankin Drug company, next week begins his vacation, which he will spend at his old home at Cedartown, Georgia.

C. J. Sullivan, of the M. C. Kiser company, made a special trip last week to South Georgia.

E. L. Adams, of the E. L. Adams Company, together with his family, left Saturday afternoon for Jackson, Ga.

This Kind of Talk Has the Right Ring

Recently an Atlanta paper printed an editorial from which we select these same paragraphs:

"If every man in Atlanta bought everything he wore and everything he used in Atlanta; if every woman bought everything she wore in Atlanta--her clothes, every accessory of her toilet; if every child living in Atlanta had its clothes bought here; if every home in Atlanta were furnished throughout with the products of Atlanta shops; if all the foodstuffs consumed in Atlanta were bought in the Atlanta markets--

"THEN ATLANTA WOULD BE THE MOST PROSPEROUS CITY IN THE COUNTRY, EVEN IN WAR TIMES.

"What makes Atlanta prosperous makes every individual man prosperous. You make your money here, out of Atlanta people and Atlanta enterprise--then why does any man, woman or child feel called upon to buy anything outside of Atlanta?"

This is encouraging--tonic--sound! But we need ACTION as well as sentiment.

This way, let's say, to make it plain:

The consumer gets the BUY-WHAT'S-MADE-IN-ATLANTA germ and goes to the grocery store or the dry goods store or the shoe store.

He calls for the ATLANTA brand.

Whereupon the dry-goods or the grocer or the shoe man says and announces that he doesn't "happen to have that particular brand--but here's something else just as good; in fact--"

WHY will some merchants stand in their own light that way? Isn't it amazing?

Merchants of ATLANTA and GEORGIA, don't make the mistakes of withholding your co-operation in this Big movement for HOME-MADE GOODS. Don't block the game. Don't be short-sighted.

The advantage to the merchant in buying HOME-MANUFACTURED goods is very great. He gets the best end of it, decidedly.

The demand for our stuff is being built up every day through appeals both to the patriotism and the pocket-book of the consumer. The missionary work that is now doing is going to bring a big harvest of returns.

It will PAY you, Merchants, to be there with the goods when the going gets steady. And we are telling you cold facts when we announce that the said going is improving every day that comes.

We'd like to talk with any merchant who is of the doubting-Thomas order on this proposition. If you've got any questions to ask or if there's anything you'd like to be shown on the subject of BUYING-OUR-GOODS, let us hear from you.

A personal inspection of our factories will be, we believe, a revelation and a pleasure to you. Seeing is believing--and we're after converts.

Write us a letter or come to see us.

Making Art Of Atlanta's Alleys And Farms.

As I write, the spring is coming in Cambridge, and I cannot help thinking, with a little heartache, of how the spring came to meet us once as we rode southward from Venice toward Florence on that road from Padua to Ferrara. It had been May for some time in Tuscany, and all through the wide plains of Veneto, this was the railroad landscape: Fields tilted and tended as jealously as gardens, and waving in wheat, oats and grass, with here and there the hay cut already, and here and there acres of Indian corn. Country roads, level, straight and white, stretch away on either hand, and the constant files of poplars escort them wherever they go. All about, the birds sing and the butterflies dance. The milkmaids open dragging the heavy carts turn up their patient heads, with white-spreading horns and mellow eyes, at the passing train. Even the matter-of-fact locomotive seems to linger as idly as a locomotive can along these plains of spring.

That is what William Dean Howells wrote in his "Italian Journeys."

"Atlanta is the second largest mule market in the world; is the railroad center of the south; is the southern home office of nearly all insurance agencies operating in this section; is the real hustling, bustling business center of the southern states."

That is what impartial writers usually say of Atlanta.

The plains of spring in Tuscany would seem reason enough for art. But who would expect rarely-expressive etchings of the "second largest mule market in the world?"

A thousand pictures have been made of the Italian country of which Mr. Howells wrote—the land of tiled fields, of poplars, of stone farmhouses, of olive trees.

But to think of etchings with odd nooks of Atlanta as the subject? Why not a stretch of yellow sandstone, or the countryside at dawn, when, as Mr. Coningsby Dawson says, the sky is "crimson with creating"?—Though an etching of the dawn might be something decidedly original.

Yet Harry Osgood, of 18 Harralson avenue, well known among artists, has selected cool, quiet little alleysways and the Kimballville farm for some of his best work at etching.

His other efforts include paintings of fine vivid color in Italy; and etchings in Venice, usually of the canals, giving that familiar effect of posts at the edge of the waterways and gondolas, with just one high pointed end showing.

In Spain, he has painted the picturesque, both in people and scenes; in Paris, he has reproduced bits of life along the Seine; in London he has pictured the bridges and the boats of the Thames. But most interesting of all are his etchings made in Atlanta.

In this purely business city he has found the subjects for delightful studies in landscape effects, unknown to all but a handful of people he has pictured a part of the city others have overlooked. He has seen the interesting, and not just the business aspect of Atlanta.

In Florida he found better subjects for color and for light, and work he did not many months ago in New York seemed to have a fresh inspiration. But the etchings in Atlanta possess a value that comes from a familiar and studied subject.

He has pictured byways here that are cool and drowsy, and have ramshackle houses on both sides, but are devoid, it would seem, of picturesque or stimulating qualities. And, yet, his etchings of such spots are unusual. He has seen them as no one else has.

In his etchings of farmlands near Atlanta, he has made Kimballville farm something of a work of art.

Are Toes Here Like Bandaged Feet of China?

IN Atlanta is a student of psychology who has been interested of late in a theory that the magnetic force radiated by the earth can be absorbed through the soles of the feet if only people will go barefooted awhile each day.

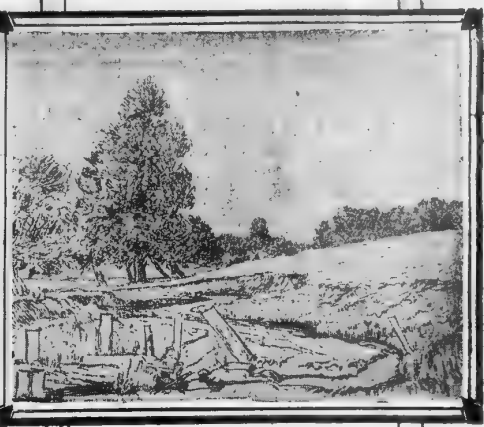

She attempted to form a "barefoot" society here, all members of which were to leave their comfortable beds at 5 o'clock each morning, and, for an hour, walk barefoot through dewy grass, or preferably, through clover.

"What the men said is unprintable," she confessed last week. "But what the women answered was merely interesting. They put it about this way:

"We can't go barefooted. Or course we like the idea of becoming magnetic. But we've been wearing tight shoes too long. Our toes are pinched trying to get that Cinderella effect. Feet in Atlanta are a little like the bandaged feet of China. We couldn't think of any health fads where we'd have to take our shoes off."

"This seems to be about the size of it," summed up the health experimenter. "If you've noticed, shoes in Atlanta are smaller than anywhere else. The result is, toes are a little more pinched here than in any other place."

THE ETCHINGS on this page are by Harry Osgood, of 18 Harralson Avenue, probably the best-known artist in the south. For his subjects he has chosen here only Atlanta scenes—a quiet little street, two views of the Kimballville Farm, and a creek on the Sisson estate. He has seen Atlanta from a new viewpoint—not simply as a business city, but as a place that offers subjects for the artist.

Atlanta Dobbies; Not Atlanta Chickens

TWO Atlanta lassies summering at Wrighthaville went to pay a Bill last week for swimming lessons.

"It had all been very exciting," one wrote home. "The instructor was a Rumanian, and had a military mustache, and once served in the army.

"The lassie was brilliant, and, since he spoke little English, he was never disconcerted. Wouldn't it be fine if all men talked very little English? Only when we wouldn't know which one not to fall in love with.

"He had it all summer up—for the swimming lessons—ten dollars, two dobbies. What in the world was that? We couldn't make it out. But we had to know, and we just made him talk English even if he didn't know how.

"What do you reckon?" "Dobby is Rumanian for 'girl.' According to his kind of talk, we're not Atlanta chickens, we're Atlanta dobbies."

Atlanta's Peanut Expert

FROM one business office here to another goes a man who has developed a peculiar specialty—peanuts. He can prepare them 100 different ways. He is Atlanta's best illustration of how ingenuity can tide one over in times of stint.

He doesn't wish his name given because he takes little pride in his new profession, though he very well might.

He used to be a railroad engineer, a very good one, too; and he has a strong belief that a man's work is something physical and calling for brawn and a touch, at times, of heroic endeavor. But sickness in his household made it necessary for him to give up work that takes him from the city. He looked about him and decided Atlanta needed to be taught more ways of eating peanuts.

He boiled them, parched them, roasted them, combined this method with that, thought up ways no one else had ever imagined, and now he carries with him a menu from which customers are to select their style of peanuts.

One Tree Worth $2,000

ABOUT twenty years ago Mr. H. A. McDonough was in business at Patterson when a friend sent him a small box of pecans, including a number of long-shaped nuts. Two of these he gave to a Mr. Sellers to plant as an experiment.

The nuts were planted in the yard near Mr. Sellers' dwelling. Both came up, but one grew faster than the other and produced heavy crops of the finest paper shell nuts in the country.

Mrs. Laura Sellers, who still owns the farm a few miles south of Patterson, was in Blackshear recently and said that she gathered 153 pounds of nuts from the best tree in 1913 and 120 pounds in 1914.

In 1913 she sold the nuts at $1 per pound, but reduced the price to 75 cents in 1914.

She says that a Mr. Henderson, agent for a Florida nursery and Mr. O. V. Case, of the Willis Valley Nursery company, of Alabama, went out to see the tree, and told her she could get $2,000 for it for budding purposes. Mrs. Sellers gave as a reason for not entertaining an offer for the tree that she did not want to sell her place and the tree was near the corner of her house, besides the income from the nuts and the budding is considerable. Her son, Mr. G. T. Sellers, has become expert in budding and gets 75 cents for each bud from this tree that lives. In 1914 the income from this source was about $200 besides much budding was done on the place.—Blackshear (Ga.) Times.

HOW YOU CAN AVOID TYPHOID FEVER

A STAFF PHYSICIAN at Grady hospital vaccinating a hospital nurse against typhoid fever.

THEY seem merely bowls of broth, left in the clean, over-heated laboratory, where test tubes stand in racks and a doctor in a white apron busies himself over a microscopic slide. But really these dishes of thick zrael are incubators for typhoid germs to be used in the prevention of typhoid fever. Each round bowl is producing germs, enough to cure a hundred people typhoid. But their final use is to prevent sickness.

Vaccination with these germs grown by the state health department in its laboratory at the capitol building and killed by slow heat, makes one immune to typhoid fever for three years.

The vaccination consists of a series of three injections in which millions of typhoid germs are introduced into the body, usually through the arm.

Since 1912, the state health department has prepared 75,000 of these series of injections, and, of all those treated, only two afterward contracted typhoid. One became ill before the treatment was complete, and evidently had infected typhoid when vaccination began.

The United States army has abolished typhoid by vaccination. The enormous number of men at war, and the impossibility of complete sanitation, typhoid has been avoided, except in Serbia, where vaccination against typhoid was not used. In the English, French, and German armies, fever has been prevented by vaccination with "killed" germs such as the state board of health grows on beef broth in the laboratory at the state capitol.

All nurses and doctors at Grady hospital are vaccinated, and some have had typhoid, though all treat numbers of cases each summer. Both physicians at the Grady and the state board of health urge vaccination for every one against typhoid.

"If I could only talk with the whole city," said Dr. B. S. Sumner, superintendent of Grady, last week, "I think I could persuade all Atlanta to be vaccinated."

"There can be no sound argument against such vaccination. It grants almost absolute immunity against typhoid, and causes no inconvenience, except, perhaps, a day's sickness, sometimes not even that.

"People who are going away for a vacation in the mountains or to the seashore, should by all means be vaccinated against typhoid.

"In Atlanta where one has city water and there is sewerage, the danger of being taken with typhoid fever is not so great. But away from Atlanta where the sewerage is imperfect, where the water is from wells or even from springs, the danger is ever-present.

"Then, too, a typhoid convalescent is usually carried to the mountains or to the coast to regain his strength. In many instances such a patient is a perfect carrier of typhoid germs. Cases have been known where a person who once had typhoid fever remained an actual incubator for germs during twenty-five years.

"If you are going away from Atlanta, but do not vacillate. A great deal of the typhoid fever here is brought in by people who went to the mountains or coast for health's sake and returned ill with fever.

"Does typhoid vaccination lay one liable to other sickness?" he was asked. "The theory has been advanced," he said, "that such vaccination induces tuberculosis. But this is simply a theory. No sound argument can be advanced against typhoid vaccination."

The state board of health recently issued two bulletins in regard to typhoid prevention, in the first of which it said it is proper that people should be reminded every spring that they should be vaccinated early against typhoid fever. Just the same as in December it is proper that they should be reminded to do their Christmas shopping early. We all know when Christmas is coming, but we can't tell what day typhoid fever may strike us. Therefore, be vaccinated early, be fore flies and fever make their appearance.

The state of Georgia furnishes the vaccine to its citizens free. Get your doctor to write to the state board of health for your dose, and do it now, for procrastination is the thief of time and may also be a robber of life. Three hypodermic injections are required at intervals of from five to ten days apart, and this confers immunity which is almost absolute for about three years. The dose is based on body weight, and not upon age.

"Here is what the United States government says about the value of this procedure: 'The conclusion is inevitable that the prophylactic vaccine as used in the army has given almost absolute protection against typhoid fever without producing untoward effects of any character—the vaccine is both efficient and harmless. All our soldiers are vaccinated against this fever every three years—the result, no typhoid in our army!'"

In another bulletin, the state board of health compared the number of soldiers who died of typhoid during the Spanish-American war to the immunity from typhoid enjoyed by the 20,000 men in camp for four months on the Mexican border. The reason is, American soldiers are now vaccinated for typhoid.

The method of vaccination, as explained at the state board of health last week, is this:

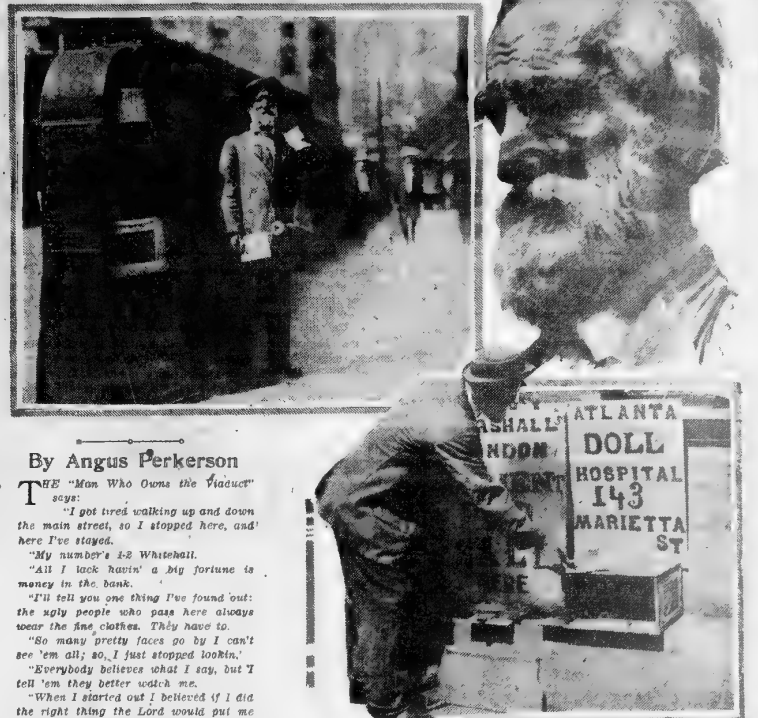

A vaccine consisting of typhoid fever germs, grown in the state laboratory, then killed by a slow process of heating, is injected in three doses, the first containing 1000 million bacilli; the second, 2000 million bacilli; the third, 3000 million bacilli. These doses are given at intervals of six to seven days.

There is a theory that the vaccination makes one liable to other sickness, particularly to consumption, but this theory is denied by surgeons of the United States armies, and by nearly every state board of health.

Typhoid vaccination is considered less harmless and more effective than vaccination against smallpox. The effect of the injection of millions of dead typhoid germs into the system is simply to prepare the body against fever. A patient who has had typhoid is for the time being immune. This is because his body has prepared a defense against typhoid fever. The effect is the same when millions of dead typhoid germs are injected into the system.

The first fear is that vaccination may induce typhoid itself. That is impossible. Care must be taken, however, not to vaccinate one who has been exposed to typhoid. If fever should develop shortly after vaccination the effect would be a violent sickness.

THE MAN WHO OWNS THE VIADUCT

By Angus Perkerson

THE "Man Who Owns the Viaduct" says: "I got tired walking up and down the main street, so I stopped here, and here I've stayed. My number's 1-2 Whitehall. 'All I lack havin' a big fortune is money in the bank. 'I'll tell you one thing I've found out: the ugly people who pass here always wear the fine clothes. They have to. 'So many pretty faces go by I can't see 'em all; so, I just stopped lookin'. 'Everybody believes what I say, but I tell 'em they better watch me. 'When I started out I believed if I did the right thing the Lord would put me ahead of anybody in the cement business, and he did. 'I've stuck to my cement, and its stuck to me and to everything else."

R. H. D. MARSHALL, "man who owns the viaduct," and his shop on the sidewalk, where Viaduct Place intersects Whitehall street.

A CHUCKLING, pattering, grey-whiskered little man, hat pulled down, moving here and there, picking up scraps of paper, honing one or another of his two dozen knives, peering out slyly at the passing people from eyes that seem worn with the long looking—that is the man "Who Owns the Viaduct."

Spools joined with cement are strung in festoons on the outer wall of the L. & N. building at the north end of the viaduct. Little amber bottles balance on copings meant for architectural effects and used as shelves.

Where the viaduct ends and an old lady stands holding a box of chewing gum, frowning bitterly at all who pass without buying, are home-made posters, telling of Marshall's London cement.

As a background to the bottles and the joined spools are two carefully-done placards, one of the amber glue, the other of a hospital for dolls at 143 Marietta street.

The hospital is the home of the man who keeps the viaduct clean of all stray bits of trash and uses it as a piece to sell the golden-tinted glue.

While dolls are made at the hospital by a younger sister, he concocts, with great mystery in a darkened room and all alone, the secret amber adhesive.

Marshall's "Cement" is the name of the mystery. R. H. D. Marshall, from Shelbyville, Ky., occupied from 1890 to 1894 in fighting for the southern confederacy, is the man who owns the viaduct.

"He pushed back his hat and raised his face so that the seamed cheeks and the blue eyes showed. They were childish, twinkling eyes. But from one sleeve pushed out simply the brown stub of a wrist.

In the bloodiest fighting of the war, the little pattering, gossiping fellow lost his left hand. Peace returned, he came to Atlanta.

For years he watched the city grow, saw it change from village to town, saw the viaduct span the railroad tracks, and, as the bridge reached from bank to bank of the currents of steel that run many ways, some toward the sea, some inland, he flushed with an idea.

As one looks at him now, the blue eyes under the low-drawn hat seemed faded—worn, as it were, with so much looking at the crowds that pass and pass.

But in those old days they had a shrewd, a knowing twinkle. He was not the man to stare blindly at his opportunity.

He was a man to grasp and to hold, and the idea was his now. It was thus: Why not use the viaduct as a shop for the amber glue?

On the box he uses for a chair, he leaned forward, last week, and the forefinger of his good hand tapped in mild emphasis on the sidewalk.

"I had been walking up and down the main street," he confided, and I decided I'd sit down and rest, and get the rest. I clean off all the sewer and the scraps of trash a dozen times a day I guess, so no one minds my standing.

"I guess I do feel like I pretty own other things 'round here. But I don't ever put myself in people's way. I get too high they might put me low."

"I've always been too poor to get vertise and I used to write signs on the sidewalk. But the police didn't seem to like that, and I put them round here." He nodded toward the placards behind the bottles, toward the sign in the corner of the viaduct.

"I think everyone in town knows me, though I don't know them all. I used to try to learn the faces of the people who pass regularly. But I couldn't see them all; so I quitte lookin'."

"Once I have a customer," he said, "he's mine as long as he lives. Folks might backslide from the Lord, but they'll never backslide from my cement."

"I learned the secret of it years ago, and I believed then if I lived right the Lord would put me ahead of anybody in the cement business, and he did."

He lifted a yellow bottle, and "pressed it with the fingers of his one hand. "It's will hold wood," he declared, "all the world ends. It's hard for me to study anything it won't stick. The only thing I can think of is amber."

"I used to sit here and watch the people go by and study them. But now I've got tired lookin'. I found that the ugly ones always dress best. They have to."

"Some faces, I'd watch for an hour; do; they seemed to cheer me. And then, there were others always worried. Some people go by hurrying, always hurrying, as though they had to get to the minute. Others seem to take their time and to rest these 'ere feet as well."

"The dresses have changed a whole lot. I don't know that it is. I've seen 'em, if they are pretty, are always 'er, no matter what they wear or how they wear."

"I always got here at 9 and stay until 5. I'd stay longer. But we have sickness at our house. It's the doll's house, there were others always worried. Some people go by hurrying, always hurrying, as though they had to get to the minute. Others seem to take their time and to rest these 'ere feet as well."

"But we have real sickness, not just ailing dolls. And I must be there a part of the day to help 'em. 'My business is mendin' 'em, to mend all broken things. But I don't give people together as you do, and broken bowls."

"Be a good thing, wouldn't it if some doctor would find a way to mend humans as good as mine is? 'I think a lot of them that's 'ere here need mendin'. But they seem to get some men in their thoughts that anything else."

"I wouldn't like to have a shoe where it was shut in. I don't think I'd see the viaduct for any other state in town. 'Yes,' he said, "It's pretty nice to have the viaduct all for yourself."

HORSES WHO THINK--PRIZE POLO PONIES

The Cost of Polo

Ponies worth $2,000 to $15,000 each. Average cost, from $500 to $5,000 for the best. Poloists own from 10 to 50 ponies each. Salary of trainer, $4,000 a year. Salary and maintenance of grooms (one groom to four ponies) $12 a week. Cost to feed pony, 50 cents a day. Harry Payne Whitney has spent $125,000 for ponies since 1908. Duke of Westminster has string of ponies costing $125,000.

It takes about two years to develop a good polo pony. Only about three out of ten have enough "horse sense" to become good. The others are the "bone-heads" of the sport. That's one thing that makes the game so costly. A California poloist paid $1,250 for three ponies, fed and trained them for two years, found them wouldn't do, and sold them. He got $40 for the lot.

To teach ponies to turn quickly posts are driven into the ground about eight feet apart and the ponies driven in and around the posts at a canter. Some trainers use sacks of sand instead of posts and move the sacks closer together to compel sharper turns. The animals are taught to turn at the touch of a rein on the neck.

Care of hooves includes dental inspection every spring and fall. If a tooth has grown too long it is filed down. Long teeth prevent proper chewing of food and poor mastication, just as in the case of persons, causes indigestion.

The best ponies are secured from western ranches, where they have been used in roping cattle.

Polo ponies can be only an expense. A race horse can win big purses for his owner. Polo is absolutely amateur. Harry Payne Whitney, captain of the American team, spent $20,000, and the Duke of Westminster, leader of polo in England, spent $80,000 preparatory for the U. S.-English matches at Meadowbrook last year. All for a $4,000 trophy.

At left, "Joe," owned by Captain Vile of Kansas City team, and said to be so smart he nearly talks. Right, "Sleepy Hollow," owned by J. Langford Stewart of Wheaton, Ill. team. "Sleepy" is the oldest polo pony in the country. He is 20 and has been playing 16 years. He has been in matches from California to Meadowbrook.

"Home Sweet Home" Relic Goes to Dalton

M. W. SHIELDS has presented to the D. A. R. of Dalton, the 82-light bars of the old jail supposed to be the ones through which John Howard Payne was gazing when he was inspired with the sentiment of that grand old wide song, "Home Sweet Home."—Chatsworth (Ga.) Times.

Horrors of Deadly Gas Told by Ga. Doctor

Hawkinsville Physician With Red Cross in Belgium Says That Death From Such Gas Is Like "Dry Land Drowning." Before Death Men Suffer For Days

There are hundreds of wounded here. Some awful sights to see, some legless, some armless, some with half a face blown away. In this fashion Dr. Frank Murray, of Hawkinsville, Ga., serving with the Red Cross in Belgium, has written to the Hawkinsville (Ga.) News.

"You cannot imagine the condition of many who are brought in," he continues. "There are also those suffering from gas poisoning. The suffering from this gas is awful. There is only one way of describing it, and that is a dry-land drowning. Men lie and gasp for breath for days and days and then die. It is the long suffering before death that makes it so bad."

"We have a great system of handling the wounded. I will try to give you an idea of how they are treated. I will say, for instance, a man (we will name him Smith) is wounded. He is first looked after by his regimental doctor. Very little is done there. Bleeding is stopped and a temporary bandage is put on. Smith is taken, by a stretcher bearer, to a collecting station, where, as its name implies, all wounded men of a regiment are collected.

"Here his bandage is looked at, adjusted, etc., and maybe he is given a little brandy, as he may be weak from the loss of blood. Smith is then put in an ambulance and carried to a field dressing station. There his wounds are carefully looked after. Amputation is done if necessary. Smith is then hurried away to a field hospital. This hospital has 100 beds.

"There the doctor decides what is to be done with Smith. If he thinks there is any chance for his recovery in a few days he will be kept there and soon returned to his regiment. If not, he is put in another ambulance and started on another journey. When he gets as far as the stationary hospital he is again examined by a doctor, and if he is able to continue the journey he is put on board a hospital train and carried to a general hospital. When he arrives there if the doctor thinks he will be able to get back into action, he is left on the train and carried to the coast and put on a hospital ship for England. This, of course, applies to the English soldiers. "This may seem to take a lot of time, but the system is so complete that Smith may be wounded and land in a hospital in England in from 30 to 48 hours.

"I am at present in a hospital but will soon leave for a dressing station. Where I am now we can hear the guns very plain."

"I will have to ask your pardon for using a pencil. Pen and ink are out of the question here. I am lucky to have an indelible pencil. Although our letters are not censored, we are honor bound not to give out information that is of value to anyone. This will explain why I cannot say where I am. We are a central postoffice (the G. P. O. London) that keeps a record of all, and our mail is forwarded from there to wherever we may be. Since leaving Hawkinsville I have seen Canada, Wales, Scotland, England, France, Ireland and Belgium. As I have been very busy since I have been here, I have not had time to do much sightseeing. I spent one week seeing England. Most of that time I spent in London. Of course London is dead now to what it would be in time of peace. No lights are allowed to burn at night, and the city is a network of searchlights, looking out for the Zeppelins. As to conditions here, all one can see is soldiers. Since I have been here I have seen French, English, Belgian and German soldiers."

KEEP COOL!

Some of Fate's Odd Pranks

A NEWSPAPER recently compiled a list of the odd accidents that happened in the country in one week. Just by way of showing the strange things that can occur in the best regulated communities. The list took in the whole United States, but even at that it was startling in its magnitude and strangeness.

For instance, a fellow in Virginia accidentally shot himself with a revolver. When the surgeons arrived it was found that he had nearly amputated his appendix, which had been giving him trouble for some time, thereby saving himself an expensive surgical operation.

A man on Long Island had two fingers broken while winding an old-fashioned clock, and a Pennsylvania man lost his life when a rooster pecked a wart upon his hand, which led to death before the flow could be stopped.

An ink bottle overturned in a high school in Pennsylvania, and a boy was permanently blinded by the ink that splashed into his eyes. In New York a man laughed at a joke and dislocated his jaw.

In Maryland a woman scooped to pick up a purse when her false teeth "came loose" and in the effort to replace them they got into her throat and caused death before she could be relieved. A New Jersey woman, in hanging a curtain, slipped and her wedding ring caught upon a nail and the finger was torn off. A Colorado man sneezed so hard one night, while lying in bed, that his false teeth flew out. When he got up to recover them he stepped upon them and died from the wound made by the molar. A child strangled to death in Minnesota by getting his head through the rounds of a chair. One fellow out west lost his life by drowning in a bath tub. Numerous strange accidents with firearms were reported, and a clerk in a store in Baltimore fell through a show case and cut his throat.

But there is no occasion for going through the list. Enough things happened and were recorded to cause us to remember that a gentleman of experience once said, "In the midst of life we are in death," and there is no occasion to doubt it.—Fort Smith (Ark.) American.

Aunt Tyra McIntyre Is Dead

BELOVED by all who knew her for her beautiful traits of character, Aunt Tyra McIntyre, who died Tuesday, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Greenwood cemetery. The services were held in the Colored Baptist church and attended by a large number of white friends of the old negroess. So great was the esteem in which she was held that a choir composed of her white friends attended the services and solos were sung by Miss Fe Symons and Miss Zelle Symons.

"Aunt Tyra" as she was familiarly known all over the city, was a slave of the Postell family on St. Simons and when she died she had passed the 75th milestone of her life, which was devoted to doing good for all in need, among both white and colored. Aunt Tyra was often called a good Samaritan for her many acts of abnegation. She was always ready for any summons, and what she did for the suffering and afflicted of her race will remain as a monument to her for decades to come.

Aunt Tyra was in the Postell family for years after she was freed, and this family mourns her loss as much as they would one of the immediate family. Two colored ministers of local churches officiated at the services and floral offerings were so numerous it was necessary to have a conveyance to carry them to her last resting place at Greenwood.—Brunswick (Ga.) Seeing One's Double in Furs

Mrs. E. W. Davidson, of 52 Penn avenue, wearing summer furs.

THEY are wearing furs in Atlanta this summer—heavy, white furs under a blazing July sun. They are wearing them in neck-pieces, as hat trimmings and on dresses. Mrs. Governor Nat Harris wore Atlanta's first fur-trimmed dress at the inauguration, and every stylish Peachtree maiden has cuddled her shoulders in pure fox skin.

The style started in Paris. Then it seced New York's fancy and became the rage. Now it has reached Atlanta, and already over two hundred sets of fox fur—see tabulated figures of Whitehall street merchants—have been sold here.

Why do they do it and how did it begin? The answer to the first question is simple: "Furs are the fashion." And the person who began it was as usual and of course, a woman.

To the average man the display of furs in the summer time is the acme of idocy. One would sooner think of a still hunt for the North Pole in a bathing suit or William Jennings Bryan enjoying the Rhuivyal. Furs in the summer time; what folly! But then, Dame Fashion was ever a freakish old girl.

Paris swallowed the bait, hook and all. Here, indeed was something new. In two weeks fashionable folk were furred to a finish. Noted actresses took up the new fad, society ladies painted after it, everybody was doing it, the furriers sold everything they had; and the woman who began it all got her bracelet.

This story is, in fact, on the word of a buyer.

Soon after the craze hit America, an Atlanta merchant went to New York. At a venture, he bought two sets of the summer furs. Returned to Georgia, he sold them the first day. He was surprised but happy. He received orders for furs as fast as he could fill them. Today his books show he has sold over fifty sets. And his experience has been that of many other local merchants.

From simple neck pieces with a fox head, the craze spread to other garments. Hats are now being trimmed with fur, light summer dresses are adorned with fur fringes. When Mrs. Nat E. Harris wore at the inauguration a dress trimmed with fur—the first seen in Atlanta—she was in the height of fashion. And her example has been followed by women the state over.

"Aren't they terrifically hot?" the writer asked the merchant.

"I don't know," he replied. "I never wore one. But while most of them are pretty thick, nearly all are white and they hang loosely about the shoulders. And, of course no muffs are carried as they are in the winter months."

The fur fad had still another result which may interest the S. P. C. A. Soon after the demand for furs began, the supply ended. The merchant set up a howl to the furriers, and the furriers passed it on to the hunters of white foxes.

And the hunters of white foxes were in despair. For white foxes are no more plentiful than black tulips. Then somebody saw a cat—we had better end the story.

Furs Are Usually Open at Neck

Poke Salad Explained to News' By the Gazette

After Setting the News Man Right on Potlicker and Cracklin' Bread, Tifton Editor Takes Up Salad

WHAT is poke salad? asks the Macon News. Poke salad probably no longer exists, but has disappeared with the many other domestic economies practiced just after the close of the war between the states.

Not long since we set the News man right on what constitutes real potlicker and cracklin' bread. Now we take pleasure in transferring to him what information is at hand concerning the salad in question.

It is not made by a rosy cheeked girl in a poke bonnet; it is not a combination of greens and relishes, juicy tomatoes and succulent onions; the poke salad was a poor man's dish and was a substitute for spring greens.

The poke-berry bush grows to considerable size during the summer and bears a red berry that, while it is sometimes used as dye, neither appeals to the nose nor the appetite. But when the tender buds of the poke-berry bush put out early in the spring they are edible and somewhat resemble young collards in taste.

A long time ago these buds were garlick and boiled with bacon and eaten as greens. They were not so very good but they were a substitute for young turnips because they broke the long winter fast.

There may be a few sections in which the poke salad is still gathered and eaten but we do not know of them. There is nothing about the salad as an article of diet to go into rhapsodies over.—Tifton (Ga.) Gazette.

Valdosta Editor On Gardens and Chickens

THE people of Valdosta who are raising chickens and who have no place to keep them are coming in for some rather harsh criticism from their neighbors these days. It is almost impossible to go in a crowd of men or women without the subject turning upon chickens, and nearly always the neighbors' chickens.

About half of the people in Valdosta are cranks on the subject of gardens and flower yards, and the other half are cranks on the subject of chickens. It would be a happy combination if the folks who raise chickens would keep them at home, for in that case the vegetable growers would be able to send them vegetable once in a while. As it is, however, the chickens scratch up young vegetables, and often the seeds themselves before they have a chance to mature. People who raise chickens ought first to provide a place in which to keep them. The city council ought to take cognizance of this important matter.—Valdosta Times.

Life of Richard Peters City's Great Pioneer

At 26 He Located the Georgia Railroad. His Experiments Foreshadowed Headlights and Sleeping Cars. Farm Development Due to Him

By Smith Clayton

PRESENT a few dashes from the fame of Atlanta's foremost pioneer, Richard Peters, great man, modest gentleman, wonderful producer, whose lasting impress has been left upon the building of the Georgia railroad. His first great work in Georgia was begun in 1825, when at the age of twenty-six he located the Georgia railroad. Called from Philadelphia by J. Edgar Thompson, afterwards president of the Pennsylvania railroad, to assist in building the Georgia road, young Peters with the corps of engineers began work on the celebrated "Cold Friday" ten miles this side of Augusta.

But they had to quit work, after half hour or so, so force was the weather! Think of that! There was a coat of ice on the Savannah river, and Dick Peters a few days before had left six feet of snow in Philadelphia. He came on a side wheel boat to Charleston and after two days riding got over the railroad to Augusta.

In a short time young Peters was made superintendent with headquarters at Augusta. He had a salary of $2,500. To begin with he got $1,600. The promotion, unolicited, was made at Greensboro. Young Peters' forte, as an engineer, was location and his forte all through a long, remarkable life was about every line of effort he essayed.

Some Monuments

The Georgia railroad was completed to Atlanta, then Marietta, in 1834. It took nine years to build the 171 miles. Cities, states, as well as republics, are ungrateful. Long ago Richard Peters should have had a monument in Atlanta, and a monument in the state capital.

No man ever did more for Atlanta, or Georgia than Richard Peters. But it was not the work of political thunder. The tornadoes that have illustrated the useful, lasting work of Richard Peters. Then, too, marble, marble, crumbe bronze corrode. There are other monuments, the great railroad, for instance, with its development of a thousand forms of progress, the grand work in agriculture, horticulture, live stock, marching on in usefulness to the end of time.

Origin of Headlights and Sleeping Cars

The Georgia railroad was the first line of any length to run at night. Experiments by Mr. Peters foreshadowed headlights and sleeping cars. A wooden shelf was projected in front of the smokestack and covered with sand on which pine knots were burned. This was the first headlight ever used on an engine. Boards were laid across car seats. Valises, shawls, bundles, were placed on the seats as improvised bunks. This was the first sleeping car arrangement ever devised.

Mr. Peters located a stange line from Madison, Ga., to Montgomery, Ala. In 1834, the day after his arrival at Marietta and the Atlanta and West Point railroad was built and the line extended to Montgomery. This service was to be used up and transferred to the dirt road between Montgomery and Mobile. This line carried the United States mail to New Orleans until 1839. When Mr. Peters resigned the superintendency in 1842, the Georgia railroad was practically completed.

His First Trip

When, in 1824, Mr. Peters first visited Marietta there were three or four log houses here, by actual settlement. He came in a two-horse vehicle from Covington, passed through Denton to the present site of Atlanta, thence to Newman, by the old Whitehall road. In 1825, his next visit was made, Judge John F. King of Augusta, was in the party. The first trip through was made on an engine in twelve hours. The party slept on mats in the office of Mr. Garnett, the first frame house in the place. It was on Wall street near the Union station.

Faith and Works

From the first Mr. Peters had faith in Atlanta, even when in the woods. But John P. King and J. Edgar Thompson could see no speculation in town lots. The simple fact is Richard Peters put a move on this whole section. He suggested that the Georgia railroad stop here, and purchase a large tract of land. He invited other lines to halt at termus. He suggested that Marietta be changed—it was too long to write. But J. Edgar Thompson coined the name—Atlanta! He had the first letters in it for this point. He built the first great flour mill here. He built the first street railroad. He was the first to build in the building of the first big hotel—the Kimball—and made it possible to rebuild it after the fire when others had failed to raise the money. He built the first family residence with beautiful, prominent surroundings, in a splendidly furnished home. He was in the forefront of the men who made the great exposition of 1883 and 1887, milestones on the road to the metropolis of the middle south. Through him the Georgia Railroad and Banking company opened an agency here, furnishing money for all cotton

THE CHRYSLIS

HERE is a man who has heard God's song in the Night. He sings in prison. Like Ecclesiastes of old, he has refused to surrender that freedom of the soul which is man's rarest and noblest possession. For such men, prisons of stone and steel compel the thought how best to live that their companions may catch the inspiration:

"Within, within, deliverance must be found;
Each one his prison makes."
These sentences introduce a book of verse published in Atlanta by Logan P. Martin, recently released from the Atlanta federal prison.

Introduction is written by Dr. C. B. Wither, Dr. John E. White, Dean John R. Atkinson, and Robert David Marx, the last of whom spoke of Martin as the man who heard God's song in the Night.

The publisher, in a foreword, explains that the book of verse was named "The Chrysalis," because the author's triumph over his sordid condition led him to think of the butterfly that comes radiant from the ugly cocoon.

In looking over the manuscripts," he continues, "I could scarcely realize the fact that they emanated from the city-of-the-living-dead—a prison. When one reads beautiful verse, he naturally thinks of it as issuing from beautiful sources, charming surroundings, inspiring scenes and circumstances. That a man with only the bare necessities of life, shut away from every good force, crushed down into forgetful oblivion, should rise from the ashes of the slattern and give to the world such exalted and exalting thoughts as these poems, is beyond doubt proof that the soul of man has depths of unfindable, powers indestructible."

Dr. C. B. Wither, in his introduction, said:

"I am informed that with the author 'sing' is rather a diversion; that he has never been schooled in writing, and has not received so much as a penny for any of the poems he has written. His serious work while penning the matter herein contained was doing penal servitude, cutting and in the stone-ashes of the federal prison."

"Perhaps I may be pardoned for relating a personal incident explaining how it happened to become acquainted with Mr. Martin's writing. A little more than a year ago, in the spring of 1914, I had been thinking of my Easter sermon, when the subject of the resurrection, resurrection, we rightly regard as a joyous occasion. But, as the brightest light shows the darkest shadow, whenever an ecclesiastic intervenes, so here, the resurrection of the risen King is sign-wise that the original crucifixion.

"And so, with the shadow of Easter in mind, it chanced, or it came to pass, as I wrote, that my eye fell upon the following poem in the columns of a local paper:

From a Prison Cell
*'There is no hour so dark, so black,
As that which turns the memory back
To scenes and deeds we thought we had Forever buried with the dead.*

"A thing once done can never die,
It boods not how serene the sky
May spread and smile above our head;
A thing once done is never dead."
*The best way to undo the deed
That makes our heart and conscience bleed,
Is just to look above and say,
I will pursue a better way.*

Work was started that Mr. P. J. Berkman, of Augusta, Ga., began work in Atlanta. This writer is deeply indebted for many facts to the interesting and valuable book: "Richard Peters, His Ancestors and Descendants," recently edited and compiled by Mrs. Nellie Peters Black in 1904.

The Georgia Peach

Georgia leads the world in fine peaches today. And all the south is under obligations to Richard Peters who introduced the varieties that have, made this section famous for its fruits, more particularly fine peaches.

The Proof of the Pudding

His stock farming, unquestionably, paid. He gave the figures. He had seen years when his Jersey butter alone paid the expenses of his farm. This included taxes. He sold yearly from 4,000 to 8,000 pounds of Jersey butter at 40 cents a pound. He could have sold 20,000 pounds. His report of sales for 1825 follows: 4,600 pounds of butter, $1,800; Ansona goats, 100 kids at $40 each, $4,000; Essex pigs, $500; wheat, $1,500; yearling Jersey bulls, $300; total $8,600.

He sold no Jersey heifers, keeping them as a store. The unpaid increase in his flocks and herds was at least $5,000 for the year.

Besides, all his family supplies, eggs, chickens, butter, pork, beef, etc., were sent from his farm and not charged in his account.

Didn't Raise Cotton

Mr. Peters did not raise a pound of cotton, simply because there were enough other ways to raise all that was needed, and his land had paid better put down in grasses.

"Still," he declared, "the cotton crop must and should remain our great crop."

"There is no better country in the world than the state of Georgia," said he. "I predict wonderful progress in farming and a sharp rise in the price of land."

Some of these points are taken from Henry W. Grady's great interview with Richard Peters in 1883.

of the Chrysalis goes forth with a message to struggling men. It is not a tract of a history, but a lyric poem, telling of what one man has thought and wrought. Out of his suffering he is able to sing a song of hope and faith and courage. Others, more fortunate, but bearing each his cross, may be inspired by this example and say: "What man has done that man can do again."

"It is the old lesson newly told—out of darkness comes light; out of error—truth; out of death—life; out of prison—freedom and righteousness."

"Let us trust that the man who teaches has learned his lesson and can use his freedom nobly."

"Better than the book is the man behind the book. Not his wealth and power, but his heart. He has made so much out of defeat and bitterness, we look with interest to see what he will make of joy and gladness."

"An elder prisoner spoke of 'fighting a good fight,' turning the course and of keeping the faith. This sentiment, a modern writer has turned into verse. Let us quote a poem to a poet and make it our God-speed:

"Look up and not down;
Look forward and not back;
Look out and not in, and lead a honest."

The verses by Martin, once a federal prisoner, are divided into three parts: "Songs of the Heart," "Songs of Life," and "Songs of the Soul." They are followed by an epilogue, "The Prisoner—His Past, His Present, His Future."

"Of the thousands who are today in state prisons, the more than half, 90 per cent are there for theft in some form. This great army of thieves is composed of the big thieves and the little thieves. In point of number, the latter greatly preponderate. They are usually the victims of environment and of bad influences. They are less fortunate than criminal. They are usually the victims of environment and of bad influences. They are less fortunate than criminal. They are usually the victims of environment and of bad influences."

Dr. John R. Atkinson of St. Philip's cathedral, in an introduction to the former convict's book of verses, said:

"The author of this book is an interesting man. He has done some interesting wrongs; that makes him interesting. He has done his duty. A confession is always interesting. Sinners as we are, we wonder what evil the other man has done. We listen, or we read with interest, but better still, we note that the author has learned, or is learning, by means of evil that good is best. This book is a product of his condemnation of penal confinement. It is an able defense of it. The prison has been a means of grace; solitude has turned the man's thought inward; leisure has given rein to his imagination; reflection has lent its aid and given to fancy atmosphere and wings. He soars to higher things."

"With all these elements of interest, of necessity, and he is paying the penalty of his crime, he is able to sing a song of hope and faith and courage. Others, more fortunate, but bearing each his cross, may be inspired by this example and say: "What man has done that man can do again."

"Let us trust that the man who teaches has learned his lesson and can use his freedom nobly."

Legends of Romance in North Georgia Hills

Story of Nacoochee, the "Evening Star," and Her Unfortunate Love For Sautee, Son of a Choctaw Chief

By Mrs. R. J. Davidson

NESTLED in the foothills of the most beautiful mountains in the world, the famous Blue Ridge, lie the lovely little valleys of Nacoochee and Sautee, down the middle of which flows the picturesque Chattahoochee river. In the spring the banks of the river and the surrounding hills are covered with a luxuriant growth of many beautiful wild flowers, chief among them being the rhododendron, mountain laurel, wild honeysuckle, dogwood, yellow pines, mild and numerous varieties of fern.

The air is redolent with the perfume of these sweet-scented shrubs, and it comes from the throats of all the feathered songsters greets you with the first break of dawn. The beauty of these lower valleys is marred only by the high altitude and invigorating climate wood roost and repose to the most gorgeous south.

Their fertility is amazing. Fields of grain, miles in length, are to be seen every day. Fruit trees laden with the most luscious fruit, peaches, apples, plums, pears and cherries.

And the nights! No matter how hot becomes in the day, in these wonderful hills and valleys is always a refreshing breeze is always blowing, and you find yourself sleeping as soundly as a baby. When the moon comes over the hills you feel that you are in the Land of Romance. And indeed you are, as is proven by the legends of this wonderful country, the most touching of which is the "Legend of Nacoochee and Sautee."

Tradition has it that Nacoochee, the "Evening Star," was the only daughter of a noted Cherokee chief. She possessed remarkable beauty and grace. This lovely maid of the valley was wooed by a young Choctaw warrior who came on by a brave young warrior of the Cherokee nation, a people at that time bitter enemies of the Cherokees, and frequently engaged in ferocious wars.

One dark night Nacoochee disappeared from her vine-clad wigwam; she had eloped with Sautee, the young Choctaw chief. Her father, Nacoochee, summoned one hundred stout warriors to go in pursuit of his erring daughter, but the hills and mountains echoed the terrific war-whoop, as they were searching every hill and dale.

Days and days passed, but Sautee and the bright-eyed Indian girl could nowhere be found. He believed that the lovers had sought refuge under the Great "Star" (Moon) of the mountains. And more diligent search was made. Sautee had selected a bridal chamber on a young princess, which was a splendid affair with veranda and a porch on the rocky fastness of Mount Yonah. He regarded the rugged cliffs rising in the distance as his granddour, and had fled from intrusion from friend or foe.

Nacoochee's new home must have been a second Eden. From the top of a world of mountains, rising one above the other, until their lofty peaks were lost in the blue sky, while at her feet nestled the lovely valleys of Nacoochee and Sautee, covered with fragrant flowers, flowering trees, and brilliant rhododendrons and azaleas. From the top of the mountain, she gazed forth pure spirit-like joys are joined by a thousand scenes that constitute the most beautiful and picturesque Chattauchoochee river, and which like the rivers that run out of the Garden of Eden, abound in gold.

"The cries of the night owl, the night hawk, disturbed not the slumbers of the youthful lovers. But Nacoochee, and Sautee could no more restrain themselves from the reveries which were than could Adam and Eve hid from the presence of the Father of the great human family.

A savage shout of victory aroused the capture of the foe, who had slain the chief of his clan. His judgment was pronounced—Sautee was to be thrown, in the presence of Mount Yonah, before the sentence was executed, the warriors engaged in a death-song and a war dance around the strongly girded prisoner. This was kept on all the setting sun had dropped behind the western mountains, and the evening star was looking upon the tragic scene.

At a signal from the old chief, four strong warriors seized Sautee, and in one terrific yell, hurled him head-first into the deep chasm beneath. Q-UI-ET! thought Nacoochee's apron. Her young son, Sautee, Sautee, their hearts over the overhanging precipice. Their mangled remains were found side by side in the valley.

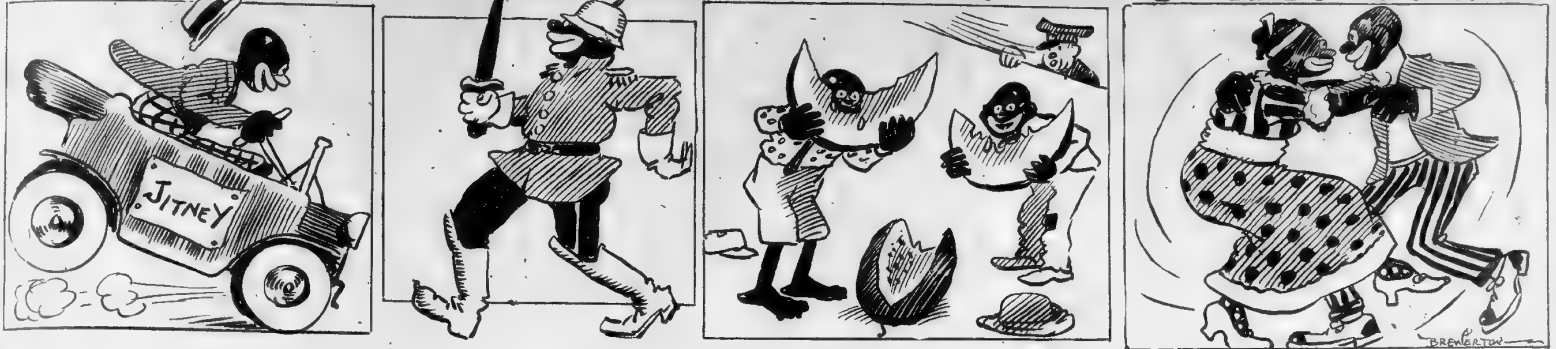

The terrible shock well-nigh broke the heart of the aged father. He directed that Nacoochee and Sautee be buried in the banks of the Chattahoochee in one grave, and a mound be raised over them to mark the spot where they lay. In vines and blue grass. The cypress, lily and rhododendron cover the grave of Nacoochee and Sautee.

The valley of Nacoochee and Sautee were named to perpetuate the memories of the young Cherokee girl and her Choctaw lover.

To this day you can find traces of the Indian inhabitants of this modern Eden. Fragments of ancient Indian pottery, arrowheads and tomahawks, strewn over the fields, and mounds through wood are mute evidence that the old time when these hills of Paradise were their own.

The recent gigantic mineral and commercial development has not destroyed the beauty of "Georgia's Land of Romance."

JUDGE JOHNSTON'S POLICE MATTEE

By Ward Greene
Roscoe's Dream

With er milyon dollars, gott'er dimes'n' rize
Motorcyars an' ade meat, boose
an' sherrying;
Life an' Jess'er barrel fuller
chocolate creams,
All de world look good ter me—
in mah dreams.
—Darktown Lullaby.

"HIT was jest er dream, judge," murmured Roscoe, and smiled faintly, foolishly, as if fond memories drifted to him through the hostile atmosphere of the police court.

"Hit was jest er dream," he breathed again softly. And sighed.
The officer hitched at his belt, cleared his throat and looked Roscoe over. "Well, your honor," he began,
"if that was a dream, don't call me when this nigger has nightmares. His ran out of the house yelling: 'Back-head, Buckhead!' with all his might.
A telephone post was all that stopped him, and when I tried to arrest him, he jerked away and yelled, 'Boss, I gott'er license!' That was when I hit him."
"What was the matter, Roscoe?" inquired the recorder. "Did you think you were a locker cink?"

Roscoe, who retained a faraway look on his countenance during the policeman's recital, started violently into consciousness. Then he explained.
"Judge, I dream 'er white gennum come up ter me kivered wid dimes'n'.
He say, 'Mister Rake, I gott'er I'll present fo' you heah.' An' he show me er fine lookin' 'mobile. So I cink' right up an' shoot in de judge. Dat wuz some dream, judge! Time dis policeman 'rest me I wuz runnin' er jitney hus ter Buckhead an' makin' two hund'ed dollars er trip."

As they took Roscoe away to the stockade, his lips moved and his eyes were glassy. Involuntarily, a sentence escaped him: "Mek haste, nigger; I kain't hold, disheah jitney fo' you all day!"

Rivals

Come er left! come er right! come er rag an' shawl!
Come to ye' honee-bunch straight

Up town de front do', back

Gimme room to scramble at de Potlicker Ball!
—After Dark.

"WHAT'S this?" demanded the judge ferociously. "Another Potlicker row?" "I'm going to have to do something about you folks.

You're always in hot water."

The defendants—a weird assortment of the youth and beauty of the Black Belt, their finery somewhat damaged after a night behind the bars—shifted uneasily on their respective Number Nines. A cross-eyed mulatto had the courage to speak, albeit a trifle morosely. "She done start de hull rucus."

"De ain't in no hot water, judge," she drawled. "Us ain't been doin' nothin' but danca!"
"What's your name, girl?" inquired the clerk.

He was answered by Froegey, who celebrated his latest release from jail by attending the Potlicker Ball. "Dat's Three-Finger Fanny," stated Froegey in a voice of authority. "She done start de hull rucus."

Three-finger Fanny bridled. Before she could open her mouth, Froegey plunged into the tale: "Ef I had'n't er been fo' dat three-fingered, cross-eyed, blistered-footed gal w'd er been ter danca' with me. But she an Bugabar spill de beans. She come up ter me an' say, 'Mister Froegey, kin you hull de Jacks?' I tells her she don't see no chains on me, do she?
An' we whirl right in. Hoccome I roun' fo' heah he come wid er beer bottle shoutin' dat I done tuk his gal erway. I see 'bleeged ter fend mah's', ain't I, judge? Well dat!"

The conclusion of Froegey's story lacked climax, but apparently the judge got the gist of it, for he said: "It seems to me all of you dancers need a summer vacation. They say there's nothing like a little arm work to improve the grip. Thirty days, everybody!"

News From the Front

Lit' draps er wildcat, I'll faint er snow,
Mek er peaceful nigger think he owns de show.
—Darktown Mother Goose.

SANDY FINCH ran into a snow-storm in Dibble's Drift and showed out in jail. Snow-storms are not uncommon in Darktown, even in July, this being the technical term for a little bout with the hooch.

Sandy's snow affected him in weird ways. Ordinarily a peaceful non-combatant, he bristled into a son of Mars under the soothing influence of a snuff of powder. Like a Harry Clay Blaney hero, he didn't belong to the regulars, he was only a volunteer, but he made the mistake of volunteering a scold on the Dirty Dozen. This was unwise, for the Dozen was never neutral.

The judge asked Sandy how it happened.

Sandy scratched his head reflectively.
"Dat's what I waster know, judge," he remarked in puzzled inquiry. "Las' thing I recollect wuz me an' Snowball gittin' us some weapons ter fight de Germanies wid. Some way an' er I ditch dat Snowball an' sot out fo' Pittsburg all by mah's'. I musser gaw-dar, fo' de nex' thing I member wuz er nigger in de call axin' me fo' de loeb ob er match."

"We found him, your Honor," said the officer. "Running away from Hell's Half Acre a mile a minute. Pumps on his head showed he had been rocked.
But he was going fast enough to pass brickbats when we stopped him."
"Sandy," said the recorder, "I don't believe they raised you to be a soldier.
And as the pick is mightier than the sword, we'll call it eleven days."

Mixed Eats

Melons ripe an' melons raid
Waltin' in de oak tree's shade;
Waltin' fo' dis chile ter eat,
Sugarcorns dat kain't be summer.
—Songs of Summer.

THE policeman was quite ruffled when he steered Messrs. Johnson and Jenkins to the fore in recorder's court. He kept both hands on their shoulders and at every movement of his prisoners started convulsively.

"I'm afraid of them," he told the recorder. "I think they're crazy. One of them howled all night like a wolf and the other doubled up and rolled around his cell. They are dangerous."
The prisoners whimpered piteously but shook their heads at the allegations.
"I ain't crazy, judge," moaned Johnson
"dat sick, I gott'er stummacks."

"A what?" asked the recorder.
"A stummacks," repeated Johnson.
"So he," indicating Jenkins with his thumb. "Dat's become dey 'rest us Dey say we done stole some watermellions 'fum Mrs' Lucy's ato'. Dat ain't no, judge, but when day coobed us be-hin' de fence wid dem Sugarcorns dey
'clare we gitt' 'em 'fum Mrs' Lucy."

"Well," remarked the recorder, after he had received enough evidence to convict six times over, "that's the first time I ever heard of a nigger getting stuck on watermelons."
But Mister Johnson explained. "I reckon hit warn't jest dem melons, judge," he said slowly. "We done had er snack befo' we gitt' 'em. 'What dat?—
O. fo', five bottles soda pop, couple' mill shakes, er hot dawg an' some

RITZLE CAKE

WITH SATIN ROSETTES
AT ROCKMART

A FASHIONABLE young lady visited a cooking school the other afternoon, when her attention was equally divided between a dressmaker in acquaintance and the directions for a cake. Upon returning home she undertook to write the recipe for the cake for her mother, and the old lady was paralyzed when she read the following:
"Take two pounds of flour, three rows of plating down the front, the whites of two eggs cut bias, a pint of milk ruffled around the neck, half pound of currents with seven yards of bead trimming, graded lemon peel with Spanish lace ficu.

Stir well and add a semi-fitting palot with white sleeves; butter per French linen topaz necklace and garnish with icing and pastermenterie. Bake in moderately hot oven until the skirt is tucked from the waist down on either side and finish with large satin rosettes."
For mother said she wouldn't eat such a cake, and she thought these new fangled ideas in cooking should be frowned down.

Negro Charged With Looking Like Thief

ROME, Ga.—A warrant for an offense heretofore unknown in Georgia criminal law has been returned to Solicitor-General W. H. Ennis by Justice of the Peace Bramlett of Lindsale. The warrant charges Sam Moseley, a negro, with "sitting on the front porch of W. F.
Proudford's house, looking as though he might be a man who would steal." Solicitor Ennis states that this is his first experience with this charge, and that he is at a loss as to how to proceed.

Corn Is Thick as An African Jungle

LYERLY, Ga.—A correspondent from L North Chickamauga to the Walker County (Ga.) Messenger says:
"R. B. Bagwell is the champion corn grower in these sticks. He has four acres on Black Mountain that are strictly fine." His neighbors say that it is so dense that a man has to have a light to see his way out at 12 o'clock noon. Fireflies have been seen in his corn at all hours of the day. Mr.
Bagwell is up in the seventies and has done his own work."

Dick, Old City Horse, Cashes In

DEATH has knocked the props from under Plumbing Inspector Alexander in the way of traveling about the city inspecting plumbing work.
Remember Dick, the old white horse that has been stumbling over the streets so long? The old horse the Alexander family loved so well that he was fed on sake and strawberries, and now and then given a fat Rhode Island red pullet for his feed? Dick, the horse that once pulled some of the fire apparatus before auto came into use in the department, and who because of long service had been consigned to the scrap heap, but later given to the plumbing inspector to haul him around?
Well, he is dead. Died yesterday morning of old age, with not a scratch against him.
As long as the poor beast could stand on his legs he was willing to go. He was a familiar sight on the streets because of his halting gait. In his dumb way he wished for the rest that belongs to faithful servants, but had no kick coming if it was not given him.—Macon

State's Oldest Banker Celebrates Anniversary

FARM boy, railroad machinist, student, banker.
This has been the career of H. T. Powell, of Macon, Ga., probably engaged in the banking business for a longer period than any other man in the state.

Recently, he celebrated his 49th anniversary as a banker in Macon, where he is now president of the Macon Savings bank.

As a boy he milked cows, churned, and did other farm work at his mother's home in East Macon. At 14 he was employed in the Macon and Western machine shops where he served a four-year apprenticeship as a machinist.

He was given a place as an engineer, and for a few months ran between Macon and Atlanta.

At the age of 15 he decided he would be a banker and would go to New York to fit himself for a business career. In those days, to reach New York, one went first to Chattanooga, then to Nashville, to Louisville, to Pittsburg. The trip required six days.

As a pass, officials of the Macon and Western gave Mr. Powell the following note:

"Mr. H. T. Powell, having completed his physical course in our shops, has decided to complete his literary course.
Will you assist him by honoring him on your train?"

A conductor in New Jersey was the only man who refused to honor the pass.

Mr. Powell studied a year in New York, then returned to Macon, where he was employed 48 years ago, as collector in a bank owned by Isaac Scott, A. C.

Butting, and A. B. Powell.
He soon became teller and held that position nine years. In 1875 he was appointed cashier. In 1876 he was elected president, a position he has since held.

Man Attacked by 'Gator; His Leg Is Badly Torn

A REAL, live alligator attacked a preacher, in Georgetown, S. C., the other day, says a dispatch to the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle. Charles Nicholson, accompanied by his wife, was returning from his church late in the evening, as they walked along the highway, they met what they thought was a dog. Without provocation the alligator attacked the preacher, seizing him by the foot and throwing him violently to the ground. In the struggle that ensued the alligator lost his hold on the foot and took a new hold on the leg at the knee. The wife with great coolness secured a large knife from the pocket of her stricken husband and made war on the gator, and succeeded in killing it. The man was fearfully torn about the leg and badly beaten by the enraged reptile. The alligator was measured and found to be seven feet long. This is the first case heretofore of an alligator attacking anyone on dry land.

Boy Nearly Killed By Falling Tombstone

DALTON, Ga.—Planned down by a heavy tombstone in Swamp Creek cemetery, this county, a little, two-year old son of H. L. Nicholson narrowly escaped death. When found he was almost unconscious.
The child attempted to climb upon the tombstone, and, in doing so, pulled it over upon himself. At first, it was thought his injuries were serious; but he rallied, and is now thought out of danger.

Hydroplanes Will Meet Incoming Ships

SAVANNAH, Ga.—Charles Wilkinson, who recently bought at auction the hydroplanes on Dutch Island at the shop of Captain Balfour, says he will put his purchases to unique use.
"I am going to have the hydroplanes compleated," he said, "and put in service on the Savannah river to meet incoming steamers that may be in need of repairs.
I can land a man on one of these ships from one of my hydroplanes while the visitor is still on the way in."

Rare Coins Are Owned at Tifton

SPEAKING of rare coins, Mr. W. H.
Norie shows a number of unusual ones.
A copper piece of the date of 1757;
that is almost as big as a silver dollar.
It is a little worn.
A gold piece about the size of a five-dollar gold piece of the date of 1837.
This piece bears the head of King George III, as does the copper.
Mr. Norie also has two silver crowns of the date of 1820.—Tifton (Ala.) Ga-

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

Culture Without Conscience Has Caused War Shock Nations Forgetting God Are Turned Into Heli, and Nothing Produces Forgetfulness of God More Than Secular Education

By Bishop Warren A. Candier.

THE American Institute of Homoeopathy, at its session in Chicago recently, announced a new disease called "war shock" which is suffered by soldiers after contact with the terrific rattle of exploding shells and the deaf roar of artillery. It is said to affect both mind and body, and to be attended by the most distressing symptoms.

It is not the whole world suffering just now with what might be called the "war shock." It seems so. The commercial world has been tormented by it for the last twelve months; and in this country, where abundant harvests have prevailed and a favorable balance of trade has exceeded a billion of dollars, the business community has seemed dazed and confused. The political world has not escaped the effects of "war shock"; every day it has manifested convulsive and hysterical symptoms.

The loss to mankind from the prevalence of such conditions is beyond all power of computation. The amount of damage in the matter of things material is immeasurable; and when the injury to higher interests is considered the mind is staggered by the calamitous cost of the conflict.

In an article, headed "The Spiritual Loss of the War," which appeared recently in the Northwestern Christian Advocate of Chicago some of the direful effects of the war are suggested. The Editor said:

"It is impossible to conceive the cost of the war even to the present generation. But when the tax upon the future is thought of, imagination swoons. The universities, the laboratories, the scientific workshops, the studios of the artists, the constructive hypotheses, the studies of their research, their uncompleted poems, drop all to stand before a demonic charge and die upon the altar of war. Occasionally we hear of someone who, in times of peace, died carrying some valuable scientific secret with him to the grave, and we mourn the loss.

In the trench the poet counts no more than a regular, and probably not as much. When he falls the poem vanishes. With the destruction in a moment of time of the scientist, the problem he is solving disintegrates. Thus great souls, because they are embodied, must be compressed into the units of fief and the former banished from earth because of the pound of force in the latter.

"Hered caused the destruction of all the fresh, young life of Bethlehem that might place his avenging hand in blood upon an innocent child. What waste! But the deadly contest now raging is parallel. Nothing is so costly to thrust into battle line. The spearsman may go to waste, it is the broken alabaster box they demand that they may hurl it against the enemy. It is thus that the red hand of Kaiser, King, Czar stretches out into the future, steals therefrom potential life, and blights the hope of centuries.

"The cost of the war? The monetary loss is but a trifle—a mere bagatelle. The real loss staggers computation. The case is not overestimated by the editor of the Christian Advocate. But why this appalling waste? Have the belligerent nations gone mad? Can they hope to gain anything to offset the dreadful loss which they are incurring? Are they crazed by "war shock?"

Their frightful frenzy ought to warn other nations against the evil courses which lead to such conditions. Our own land especially ought not to miss the lesson taught by the situation. We ought to see clearly that this configuration, which is consuming Europe, was kindled by compounding to what is called "civilization" an excess of intellectual elements over the moral and religious elements. When men have more mentality than morality such explosions are probable, if not inevitable.

Germany is probably the best educated nation of the world, as the word "education" is commonly understood. Her chemists are unsurpassed, and they above all others have achieved her most notable victories both before the war and in the war. All that mere "scientific education" can do for a people has been done for the Germans by their schools and universities. Nevertheless they and their rulers treat sacred treaties as mere "scrap of paper" when such solemn covenants stand in the way of their national aspirations and ambitious and ferocious methods of warfare in land and sea are adopted to achieve the defeat of their foes, and these methods when called in question are seriously defended.

Most sad to say, in enlightened Germany the suicide of children is becoming common. Of what does the education which so saddens the heart, which is so joyous and hopeful to the high heart, is cast away as an intolerable burden and grief by youthful hands. Is that a practical formula for culture which when developed yields zero as the expression for human life?

Yet we dazed perhaps by the "war shock," or by some other distracting element, are following in the path which leads to such results. We are adorning "scientific" and "practical" education and learning moral and religious education. We are proceeding on the false assumption that knowledge and goodness are equivalent terms, and that inquiry is only another name for ignorance. Hence we expend multiplied millions upon popular education and formulate plans for "compulsory education" even, vainly imagining that the fruit of the tree of knowledge is so efficacious in healing human ills that it is effective even though we have to give it by holding the noses of parents and children and "pouring it down them" against their wills.

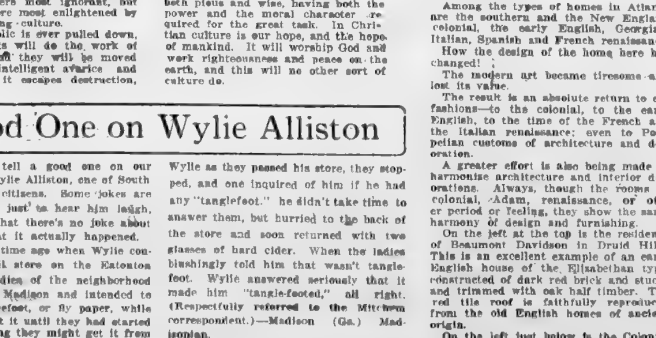

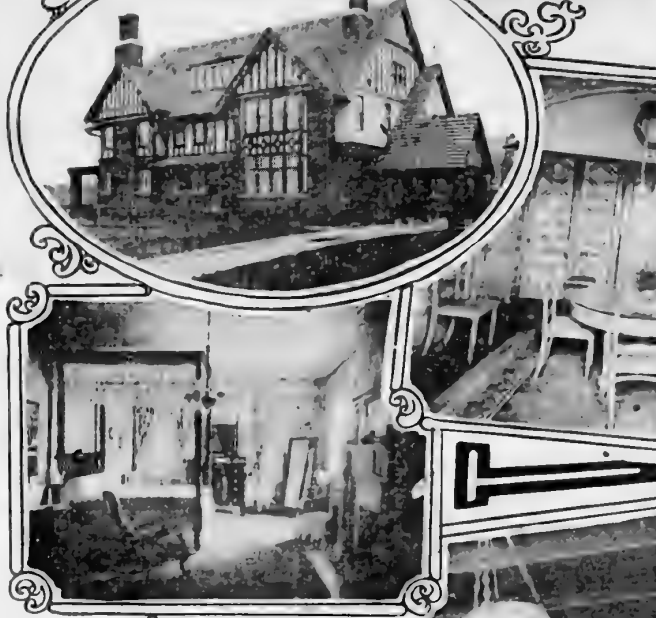

Well, we shall lose our money and meet disappointment. More secular culture cannot so much as safeguard itself. It has not done so in Europe, for, in the ruthless war to which it has given rise, venerable educational institutions have been shattered to fragments, their scientific apparatus destroyed, their treasures of art burned with fire, and their learned faculties slain. Such crazy culture cuts its own throat. It cannot save itself, much less anything else.

The nations that forget God are turned into heli, and nothing more effectively produces forgetfulness of God than secular education. Ignoring God, it imparts inevitably to the mind the disposition to treat as of minor importance, if not actually to despise, divine things. The logical outcome of that sort of education is a consequenceless culture, which has been and must be, in all lands and in all ages, a corrupting thing.

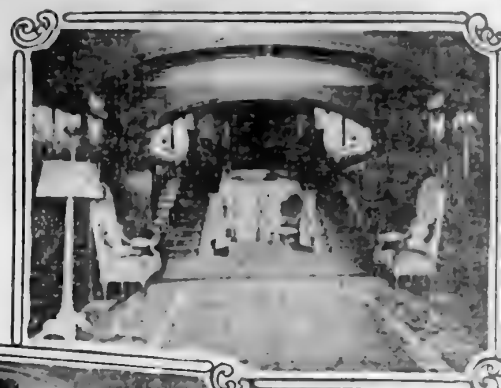

It would be a blessed thing if the "war shock" could so shock us that we would cease putting our trust in mere knowledge as a thing of power, and could thus bring us back to the recognition of the simple truth that "righteousness exalts a nation, and secures peace, whereas the fear of the Lord, it is a reproach to any people."

The nations, whose depressing history has recorded, all died by suicide.

Two Valuable Collections of Pictures Are Owned Here, One by Oscar Pappenheimer and the Other by W. Woods White. Recent Effort For Modern Fashions in Architecture and Interior Decorations Has Failed.

INTERIOR decorations in wealthy homes here follow styles, in many cases, centuries old. Furniture of Pompeian design often is used, and fashions of the Italian renaissance are adopted.

Architects and designers have tried in recent years to create fashions better adapted to this age. But such efforts failed. In every wealthy home here, recently built, the style of architecture and of interior decoration follows the fashion of some earlier period.

Among the types of homes in Atlanta are the southern and the New England colonial, the early English, Georgian, Italian, Spanish and French renaissance. How the design of the home here has changed.

The modern art became tiresome and lost its value. The result is an absolute return to old fashions, to the colonial, to the early English, to the time of the French and the Italian renaissance; even to Pompeian customs of architecture and decoration.

A greater effort is also being made to harmonize architecture and interior decorations. Always, though the room be colonial, Adam, renaissance, or other period or feeling, they show the same harmony of design and furnishing.

Good One on Wylie Alliston

THE boys tell a good one on our friend Wylie Alliston, one of South Morgan's best citizens. Some jokes are told on Wylie just as he has his teeth, but they say that there's no joke about this story—that it actually happened.

Wylie as they passed his store, they stopped, and one inquired of him if he had any "tanglefoot." He didn't take time to answer them, but hurried to the back of the store and soon returned with two glasses of hard cider. When the ladies blushing told him that wasn't tanglefoot, Wylie answered seriously that it made him "tangle-footed," all right.
