YAARAB PATROL AND DRUM CORPS CHEERED IN PARADE

Traffic Blocked in Dallas for

Through the Streets

Journal Staff Correspondent.

DALLAS, Tex., May 13.—All interest that has been centered in the selection of the next meeting place of the 1914 convention of the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine was intensified Tuesday with the opening of the annual convention in the new $500,000 Scottish Rite cathedral here Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.
It will be Wednesday before the convention place for next year will be definitely settled. The invitations were presented Tuesday to the committee and arguments made. The committee will report to the convocation Wednesday morning.
There were only two contestants in the field—Atlanta and Memphis. Although there had been some reports that Atlanta might be dropped, the last named city, however, was not seriously enough considered to be of importance. The great battle will center around Atlanta and Memphis, with the Georgia city practically assured of sufficient pledges to win the convocation.

The invitation of Yaarab temple of Atlanta was presented by illustrious Potentate Forrest Adair and Past Illustrious Potentate John Arthur Hynds. The representatives of Yaarab are confident that the Atlanta invitation will be accepted and if it is not, then the fight will be on the floor, where Atlanta claims sufficient pledges to secure the meetings.

OVATION TO ATLANTA.
Monday's round of entertainment for members of the Yaarab temple was culminated late in the evening when 10, 000 people delayed trolley and street traffic for fifteen minutes to cheer the Yaarab Shrine drum corps and patrol.

The outburst of cheers for the Atlanta contingent came after a parade by different bands with the patrols of other temples. The individual patrols had been given their share of praise when the re-dressed drum corps and cream-uniformed patrol of Yaarab temple swept into sight.

Straight down Main street they came, with drums and bagpipes going. There had been no music of its kind before and 10, 000 notes were raised. The drum corps reached the first phalanx of spectators the crowd broke into cheers and thrusty throngs along the streets took up the cry.

Overzealous motorman pushed his car across the street and stopped the parade, but the throng on the pavement stopped the car, and the trolley checked at the advance of the Atlanta contingent.
But they never stopped playing and the crowds swarmed out into the street and surrounded the Atlanta drum corps and patrol for fifteen minutes. Later the traffic signal was enabled to drive back the crowds.

The reception that greeted the patrol was evidenced all day long at the headquarters of the Yaarab temple and the selection from the temple of Savannah.
The arrival of imperial Outer Guard E.
A. Cuts, of Savannah, was the signal for one of the greatest ovations of the Shriners in the Adolphus hotel lobby almost fought to get to him and throw their arms around him.

"He is imperial potentate stuff," was the shout of every man who met him.
He is one of the most popular members of the organization and will be invited to imperial inner guard at the Dallas convention.

Illustrious Potentate Forrest Adair, Past Potentate Hynds, Joseph C. Greenfield of Yaarab temple, and Grand Master Robert L. Golding, of Savannah, held informal receptions all of Monday.
The members of Yaarab and Alee temples are in convention than ever that the 1914 convention will come to Atlanta. Joseph C. Greenfield, who is compelled to attend the grand commandery of Georgia in Columbus, of which he is a past grand commander, left Dallas Monday night, confident that Atlanta will be the next place of meeting.

Monday night was devoted to informal receptions, with three formal dances for the ladies.

30,000 VISITORS IN DALLAS.
The Shriners' convention here has been turned into a welcome by the crowd from other sections of the temple in Canada, California, Oklahoma, Louisiana, New York, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Tennessee and far away Dallas have sent scores of hundreds of Shriners, who are joining with the Dallas contingent and representing from practically every temple in Texas in making a continuous street carnival.

There are about 50,000 visitors here to witness the fun, 15,000 of whom are nobles and members of their families.
Business sessions of the imperial council began today.

The evening of "cow-punching," as still carried on to some extent in Texas, were demonstrated today by several "honest to goodness" cowboys from the west in the western part of the state.

Abba temple of Mobile announces that it will ask the imperial council for permission to conduct a class of novices in one of the locks at the Panama canal.

NEW ORLEANS "HURDY GURDY."
Jerusalem temple of New Orleans, brought a "hurdy gurdy." It did not make as much noise as bands of some of the other patrols, but the New Orleans nobles pointed with pride to the fact that when all other musicians were winded and had to quit, the hurdy gurdy was still playing with a silk-trousered patrol astride its top and a guard of honor making a yellow square about it.

"Mornin' Silas," being the password of the convention, the New Orleans men have invented the reply "Mornin' Standy."

The Memphis delegates also have their own greeting, which is "Howdy Shrim, how's your cotton?" The Bea-

J. WYLIE SMITH IS REPORTED ARRESTED; REQUISITION ISSUED

Gov. Colquitt Has Honored Requisition and Officer Has Gone to El Paso to Bring Smith to Atlanta

SMITH SURRENDERED VOLUNTARILY, IT IS SAID

And He Is Reported to Be Willing to Come Back and Face Charges—Has Been Missing Two Years

J. Wylie Smith has been "arrested" again.

Again it is in Texas, at El Paso; and this time the dispatches say he surrendered of his own volition and that he is willing to come back to Atlanta.

Smith will be remembered as the head of the Commercial Loan and Discount company of Atlanta, who disappeared a couple of years ago and left behind him a chaotic state of affairs in the company's business. It has been alleged that he secured large sums of money in devious ways from clients of the company. He was located shortly afterward in Mexico, but attempts to extradite him failed because of the revolution there. Smith casting his lot with the rebels (according to reports which came back to Atlanta) and so being released from arrest in that republic. Several times he has been reported as "arrested," and officers have sought repeatedly to bring him back to Georgia; but until now Mexico has continued to be his safe refuge.

The dispatches now say that T. H.
Hamilton, agent of the Fulton county authorities, left the state house in Austin last Saturday evening with Governor Colquitt's signature upon a requisition from Georgia to go to El Paso, where Smith was awaiting him.

It is understood that Governor Brown issued this requisition for Smith some days ago.

Following is the dispatch from Austin:

"AUSTIN, Tex., May 13.—Governor Colquitt has honored a requisition by the governor of Georgia for the extradition of J. Wylie Smith wanted in Atlanta, Ga., to answer a charge of forgery.
Smith is at El Paso awaiting the arrival of T. H. Hamilton, the agent of the Fulton county, Ga., authorities, and will be taken back to Atlanta to stand trial.

"Mr. Hamilton was here and obtained the papers from the executive department and then left for El Paso for Smith. The application for the requisition discloses that Smith is charged under indictment of the grand jury of Fulton county with forgery, the instrument being a promissory note for $1,500. The name of M. A. Smith was forged, so it is alleged in the indictment, which was returned June 7, 1911.

It appears Smith was in Mexico and came voluntarily to this side of the river into El Paso and is willing to return. The requisition was issued Saturday evening.

If Arrested, El Paso
Doesn't Know About It
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

EL PASO, Tex., May 13.—J. Wylie Smith has not been arrested here and is not here so far as police and sheriff's office know. If he is in El Paso he is in hiding, unknown to officers.
Last El Paso officers heard of him he was with the Mexican rebels with whom he took place from the residence of F. E.
Lummus, her son-in-law, in Wynnston,
this afternoon at 3 o'clock, the services being conducted by Dr. I. S. McElroy and the interment was in Linwood. The body of Mrs. Wendt reached Columbus this morning.

Funeral of Mrs. E. J. Wendt
COLUMBUS, Ga., May 13.—The funeral of Mrs. E. J. Wendt, former resident of Columbus, who died in Charlotte, N. C., took place from the residence of F. E.
Lummus, her son-in-law, in Wynnston,
this afternoon at 3 o'clock, the services
being conducted by Dr. I. S. McElroy and ouins patrol from Muskogee, Okla., is out after first honors for marching and fine treatment. The Muskogees claim, with justice, that they have several shades on the rainbow, but that they are afraid to let the parade be delphic, famous at all shrine gatherings, has some new colors packed away in its trunks to produce at the last moment.

Dallas not only suspended business today, but freight cars had to be moved out of the city to make room on side tracks for the parking of Pullman cars, in which about 5,000 persons are living,
some of them in considerable splendor.
There are thirty-six dining cars in use in the "Pullman city."

The first street parade was held this forenoon by forty patrols in Oriental costumes which escorted Imperial Potentate William J. Cunningham of Baltimore, and the other imperial officers to the Scottish Rite temple here. There were four camels in the procession, three with Moila temple of St. Joseph, Mo., and one with Alchymia temple of Memphis.

Presbyterians in Pre-Assembly Tuesday

G. O. P. COMMITTEE MAY CALL A CONVENTION

Republican Senators Use Influence to Link Moose and Old Party in One

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Republican senators who attended the Progressive conference in Chicago returned today determined to exert all influence at their command to induce the national committee to call a reorganization convention in the fall.

"When the national executive committee meets here May 24, these senators will report the sentiment from many states as exhibited in the Chicago conference.

Senator Cummins said today that written appeals from many states would be laid before the national committee setting forth reasons for a reorganization convention.

"We feel greatly encouraged," said he.
The suggestion that attempts be made to induce Republicans who joined the Progressive party to return to their old allegiance were discussed today by house Progressives and Representative Hinebaugh, of Illinois, speaking for them, issued a statement declaring that "the only course for the Progressive Republicans to pursue is to come into the Progressive party where they belong."

FALLING SPIRE KILLS
POLICE AND FIRE CHIEF

Knox Church Tower in Stratford, Ontario, Struck by Lightning

(By Associated Press.)
STRATFORD, Ont., May 13.—The tall spire of the Knox Presbyterian church, towering 160 feet above the street, was struck by lightning early today and in the ensuing fire three men were killed and another mortally injured.

The three men who lost their lives were buried beneath the burning bell-fry when it toppled and fell; the fireman was laid out with a blow on the head from a flying timber.

The dead:
J. A. MCCARTHY, chief of police.
HUGH DURKIN, fire chief.
MATTHEW HAMILTON, policeman.
The injured man is Sidney Van Stone.

The steeple, visible over a great radius, burned without hindrance as the punch stream of water, far below, fell many feet short. Showers of blazing embers fired the roof of the church, and McCarthy, Durkin and Hamilton, dragging hose, had scrambled up a ladder to the roof when the bellfry fell.

Miss Kerr told her that she took much too personal a view of the matter. No doubt, Miss Kerr said, the women employed in the tea pavilion
ultimately be very glad they lent a helping hand to their fellow women.

Anyway, she continued, the only means of rousing the government was to attack private property and this the militant suffragettes intended to continue to do until they had obtained the vote.

MRS. DRUMMOND IS IN A STATE OF COLLAPSE

Suffragette Leader Will Be Unable to Attend Trial Before Many Months

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, May 13.—"General" Mrs.
Flora Drummond, the militant suffragette leader, is in a state of collapse and was unable to appear at the resumed hearing at Bow street police court today on the charge of conspiracy under the malicious damage to property act, which has been brought against her.

A doctor testified in court that owing to her illness she had been moved to a nursing home. It would take two weeks for her to get into a fit condition to undergo an operation, which was necessary and another two months before she would be able to be tried.

The other "conspirators" who comprised Miss Harriet Kerr, Miss Agnes Lake, Miss Rachel Barrett, Mrs. Beatrice
Saunders, Miss Annie Kenney, Miss Laura Lennox and the analytical chemist, Clayton, all surrendered to their bail.

During the hearing the printers of the militant newspaper, the Suffragette, related the negotiations which led to their undertaking the work. Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst conducted the negotiations and in reply to expressions of fears by the printers that the job was a dangerous one, gave her personal undertaking that no offensive or illegal matter would appear.

She laid stress upon the point that her daughter, Christabel, was a specialist in constitutional law.

Katherine Strange, proprietress of a tea pavilion which was burned in Kew gardens by the militant suffragettes, described a visit she made to Miss Rebecca Kerr after the destruction of the property.

Miss Kerr told her that she took much too personal a view of the matter. No doubt, Miss Kerr said, the women employed in the tea pavilion
ultimately be very glad they lent a helping hand to their fellow women.

Anyway, she continued, the only means of rousing the government was
to attack private property and this the militant suffragettes intended to continue to do until they had obtained the vote.

Mrs. Strange informed Miss Kerr that her husband's tea pavilion in Regentspark was also destroyed and suggested that the Strange family had suffered enough and its members would be glad if the militant suffragettes would leave their other refreshment pavillions standing.

In reply Miss Kerr declined to make any promise but said she would report the suggestion to headquarters.

A medal manufacturer testified about decorations supplied to the Women's Social and Political Union. He said that medals inscribed "for valor" costs $10 each, "hunger strike" medals $2.50 and "red by force" crosses $5. The most distinguished decorations known as "grill" brooches cost $10.50, he said.

Testimonials recording acts of lawlessness by adherents of the militant organization were also distributed among the rank and file by the leaders of the union, according to today's evidence.

JAPAN WANTS U. S. TO TEST ANTI-ALIEN LAW

No Further Move Will Be Made by Japan Until Bill Is Signed

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Japanese ambassador will take no further steps in the protest against the California anti-alien land law until Governor Johnson acts upon the bill before him. Should he sign it, it was learned today that Japan, without making further representations to the state department, will wait a reasonable time to see what the federal administration intends to do to meet the complaint against the measure.

It was indicated today that Japan would not move to test the constitutionality of the law, but was inclined to the view it is incumbent upon the United States to take up that phase of the question.

Although it is understood here that Governor Johnson has thirty days to act, officials believe his answer to Secretary Bryan's last communication will be received within a week.

The Japanese situation was discussed today at the cabinet meeting.

England Would Like to See Test Before Hague

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, May 13.—"If it be true that Japan wishes to carry the Californian land question to The Hague tribunal, we may shortly obtain a fruitful lesson in the practical limits of arbitration," says the Pall Mall Gazette today, in discussing the situation which has arisen between the United States and Japan, in regard to the Californian alien land ownership bill.

The newspaper continues:
"If the Chinese and Japanese are to have free entry to the Pacific coast, it means eventually the extirpation of white labor from that region."
"All the arbitration in the world will not persuade the people of the western states that it is their duty to give up their bread and butter to an alien race, and we can imagine how much libel-hood of the government at Washington takes measures to enforce such an award upon its own subjects. We should rather like to see the experiment for its usefulness in bringing dreamers back to hard facts."

FOUR ARE KILLED WHEN

Three Passengers and Brake-

(By Associated Press.)
TACOMA, Wash., May 13.—Four persons, three passengers and a brakeman were killed and seven seriously injured late yesterday when a train on the Oregon Washington line dived from Portland to Seattle was ditched near Lake View. The train was speeding over a stretch of level roadway at the rate of sixty-five miles an hour when it left the rails. The engine and eight cars went off the track.

SOLICITOR DORSEY IS WORKING NEW THEORY IN PHAGAN MYSTERY

He Will Not Disclose Its Nature, but He, Lanford and Beavers Declare No Arrests
Are Contemplated

SOLICITOR WOULD WEL- COME HELP OF BURNS

But Says He Knows Nothing of Effort to Bring Him Here, Miss Ross, a New Witness,
Talks With Dorsey

A new theory about the mysterious murder of Mary Phagan has been presented to Solicitor General Hugh M.
Dorsey in such a convincing manner by an "unknown" criminologist that the chief prosecuting officer of Fulton county has turned the Phagan investigation towards working out the new idea.

While Mr. Dorsey states that there is yet nothing very tangible about the theory, it is possible that the official considers the theory as well worth investigating.

Mr. Dorsey refuses to divulge the nature of the new theory or tell who first advanced it. In discussing the matter, however, he made the following very significant statement:

"We are not bottled up by any one theory—we have not concluded, and we are open to the truth."
The new theory, should it prove correct, would eliminate Leo M. Frank and Newt Lee, the two men ordered held by the coroner's jury. It is said.

The solicitor declares that he knows of no contemplated new arrest in the Phagan investigation. It is possible, he said, that the detectives might be planning to take some person, whose name has not hitherto been connected with the investigation, into custody, but if this is the case, he says that he knows nothing about it.

Both Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford and Chief of Police J. L. Beau-vers deny that they know of a new arrest is contemplated.

INVESTIGATION DRAGS.
That the Phagan investigation is dragging is shown by the statement of the solicitor general Tuesday that he did not think that the matter would be presented to the Fulton county grand jury this week.

He said that he did not think that the case would be taken by the jury this week, when asked if the matter would be presented to the jurors next week.
While he would say nothing more, his answer to the question is taken as an intimation that unless the grand jury itself asks that the probe be hastened, it may be two more weeks before an effort is made to indict the two men now held in the tower or any

ALABAMA COURT TO HEAR PASSENGER RATE CASE

Louisville and Nashville Fighting Order for Two and One-Half Cent Rate

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—Attorney General Robert C. Brickell has gone to Birmingham where he will appear Tuesday at the hearing of his application for an appeal filed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad in the contempt proceedings recently decided by Federal Judge W. L. Grubb, in the passenger rate case.

It is understood that the railroad desires another hearing in the case and has filed proceedings with this end in view. The railroad will ask Judge Grubb for permission to appeal the matter to the United States circuit court. In case Judge Grubb permits the railroad to appeal the matter it is likely that a temporary order restraining the railroad commission from proceeding with its order on May 20 will be asked.

To become permanent, however, it will be necessary for three federal judges to pass on the prayer of the railroad for an injunction. Unless the temporary injunction becomes permanent before May 20 the order of the commission establishing the 2 1/2 cent rate will become effective on that date.

In a brief talk with Judge Grubb over the long distance telephone Monday, Attorney General Brickell was informed of the action of the railroad in asking for the appeal. The attorney general immediately telephoned Judge Grubb that he would be present at the hearing Tuesday.

Conferences have been held for several days by the attorneys of the railroad at legal headquarters in Louisville. Sydney J. Bowie, counsel for the railroad, attended the conference in Louisville and will probably have charge of the litigation brought before Judge Grubb.

Say Meal Is Bad

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—Manufacturers of corn meal at Meridian and Columbus, Miss., have been shipping their products to several west Alabama counties without complying with the Alabama law in regard to the weights of the sacks, according to C. Homer Billingsley, state pure food clerk, who has just completed an investigation of the matter.

All the meal shipped into this state by the Mississippi companies has been underweight, it is alleged, yet the packages were sold as full weight products. The matter was reported to Mr. Billingsley and he made an investigation of the affair.

State Officials to Speak

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—Captain R. F. Kohl, commissioner of agriculture, is in Albertville, where he will deliver the commencement address at the Seventh District Agricultural school. Several other state officials will be kept busy during the next three weeks delivering commencement orations at various educational institutions in the state.

Governor O'Neal will attend the commencement at the University of Alabama May 25 to 28, and at Auburn, June 1 to 4, unless official duties interfere with his present plans. It is likely that the governor's staff will accompany him to the home coming celebration which will be held during the Auburn commencement.

Dr. Alsburg to Speak

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—Dr. Carl L. Alsburg, of Washington, D. C., successor to Dr. Harvey as chief of the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture, will deliver an address before the annual meeting of the National Association of Pure Food Officials at Mobile, June 16, according to an announcement of C. Homer Billingsley, state pure food and drug clerk.

Information has also been received that Dr. Oscar Dowling, the famous sanitary expert of Shreveport, La., will be present at the convention and will also bring his health exhibit train with him.

Address of welcome to the visitors will be delivered by Governor O'Neal in behalf of the state. W. H. Armbricht, president of the Mobile chamber of commerce, will welcome the delegates for the city of Mobile.

Rejects School Land Bid

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—Because he did not consider the price offered as a fair return for the land, H. J. Williamson, state superintendent of education, has officially rejected a bid of $1,500 for 320 acres of school lands located in Coosa county.

This tract will be sold at public auction at Goodwater next Saturday and the superintendent expects to obtain a much better price than the one he has just rejected.

Mr. Williamson may conduct the sale in person, as he left Monday night for a two-day visit to a county adjoining Coosa. He will inspect schools at Lincolnville and Ashland on his trip. Following this inspection he will go to Talladega, where he will attend the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Alabama Institute for Deaf, Dumb and Blind Children.

School Board to Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—Because of the failure of three members of the State Normal school board to attend the meeting called for Monday, the session was postponed until Tuesday, May 20. Those who were not present Monday were John D. McNeal, of Montgomery, John B. Weakley, of Birmingham, and Charles McDowell, Jr., of Eufaula.

Election of presidents and a discussion of the establishment of uniform systems of curriculums in the normal schools of the state will be taken up at the next meeting.

FLOYD GRAND JURY OPENS WAR IN EARNEST ON FEES

Recommends Bill to Have All County Offices Placed on Salary Basis

ROME, Ga., May 12.—A war on the fee system in county offices has been inaugurated by the Floyd county grand jury. In the presentations just made there is a recommendation that the representatives from this county introduce a bill transferring all county offices from the fee to the salary system. The example of Fulton county in this regard is cited as a model.

Inasmuch as Floyd is one of the largest counties in this state, and the fees of the tax collector and other officials would be apt to receive, it is expected that the officeholders and their coteries of friends will resist before the legislature.

The members of the grand jury appear to be thoroughly in earnest, and have appointed a committee to take the matter in hand. They believe they do not intend for their recommendations to be ignored, as has been done with the previous grand juries' recommendations, and some lively presentations are expected.

Golf at Rome Country Club. ROME, Ga., May 12.—Play for four handsome trophies are in progress this week on the courts of the Coosa Country club. An unusually large entry list has been manifested. Contests will be pulled off in men's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles. The golf tournament for the cup offered by President S. B. Norton is also in progress. The membership of the club has reached 165, and the season is at high tide.

Held for "Bootlegging". ROME, Ga., May 12.—Henry Gossett, a young white man of Levenside, is under arrest charged with "bootlegging." It is alleged that Gossett has been making regular trips to the city, bringing with him suit cases full of liquor and retailing it around among the factory employees of the city.

Sheriff Dunehee Injured. ROME, Ga., May 12.—W. G. Dunehee, sheriff of Floyd county, was painfully injured in a runaway yesterday afternoon. He was returning to Rome from his farm six miles in the country when the horses became frightened and ran away, throwing him from the buggy. Outside of a few bruises he sustained no serious injuries.

COLUMBUS NOW READY FOR MEETING OF TEMPLARS

Annual Conclave of Grand Commandery to Be Opened With Big Parade

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) COLUMBUS, Ga., May 12.—Everything is in readiness for the coming of the Knights Templar from all sections of the state tomorrow for the annual conclave of the grand commandery. Local committees have succeeded in completing arrangements and present indications are that the meeting is going to be one of the largest and most important in the history of the organization. Grand Commander F. T. Petri is assisting in the final details.

The big event is to be formally opened with a great parade on Wednesday, just after the noon hour and from that time until the closing session the Knights will have a continuous round of business and pleasure.

Mrs. Jennie Mae Radcliff Indicted on Murder Charge. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) COLUMBUS, Ga., May 12.—Mrs. Jennie Mae Radcliff, thirty years old, who has been confined in the Muscogee county jail in a nervous state, having collapsed last week, was late yesterday indicted by the grand jury on the charge of murdering her husband, George Radcliff.

Mrs. Radcliff protests her innocence of the crime, declaring that she was drinking at the time her husband was shot, on the 19th of April, and that she had no idea who did the shooting. Following the shooting, officers found a pistol in the woman's house with one chamber freshly fired, and her arrest followed. Since she has been confined in a cell at the jail, the woman has been quite hysterical.

Sues Railroad Company. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) COLUMBUS, Ga., May 13.—One of the interesting cases before the Muscogee superior court this week is that of W. G. Milam vs. the Columbus Railroad company, in which the former is suing the latter for $5,000, as alleged damages the plaintiff claims to have sustained while in the employ of the company, when he was injured in a head-on collision between two street cars. A number of lawyers are employed on both sides and the case promises to take up much time, and it is attracting unusual interest.

W. A. GOODRICH SHOOTS SELF AT GRIFFIN HOME

Insurance Man Takes Own Life—Leaves Wife and Three Small Children

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) GRIFFIN, Ga., May 12.—W. A. Goodrich, one of the most prominent young business men of Griffin, and known all over the state in insurance circles, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself in the mouth. Mr. Goodrich was alone in his room at the time he committed the deed. His wife was downstairs, when she heard the report of the weapon. Rushing to her room, she found her husband lying across the bed partially dressed and with a gaping wound in the head. Physicians were summoned, but death had resulted almost instantaneously.

Mr. Goodrich had been suffering with nervous affection for some time and had become very despondent, which is the only cause that can be assigned for the deed. He is survived by his wife, three small children, a brother and father. He was one of the most popular young men in the city, and his death has cast a shadow of sorrow over the entire community.

ESCAPED FROM "GANG;" CAPTURED NEAR MACON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MACON, Ga., May 12.—Will Harhold, who escaped from the Jasper county gaingang last Friday, and who is alleged to have robbed the Jones county bank and Kinsman's stores at Haddock's Saturday night, was captured near Macon this morning. He was placed in the jail here. Over a year ago he was convicted in the Augusta superior court of safe blowing and was given six years. He was making his way to Macon this morning when captured.

Employee Suits Railroad. CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 13.—Luther C. Smith, an employee of the G. & N. W. railroad, who fell from a motor car about one mile north of Cleveland, April 7, and sustained severe injuries, today filed suit with the clerk of the superior court for White county against the railroad company for $10,000 damages.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION AND THE ANSWER. PORTERDALE, GA., May 10th, 1913. The Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga. Gentlemen:—For 750 answers in the Booklovers' Campaign will 750 coupons and pictures be required, or will 75 consecutive daily pictures and coupons, and your answer book, be all that is necessary? Respectfully, J. N. O. With the answer book you will only need one of each picture, or 75 in all, and can submit 750 answers in all. To submit 750 answers without the answer book you will need 750 pictures and coupons. It is not the note book style of answer book, opening from the bottom, but is arranged to open at the side the same as one of the story books you are hunting so diligently for titles for these days. SOUTHERN BAPTISTS GATHERING FOR BIG MEETING IN ST. LOUIS

Many Important Matters Are Scheduled to Come Up Before Convention Which Will Open Wednesday

BY REV. ALEX W. BEALER. The Southern Baptist convention will meet in the border cities of its territory, Missouri is the northern boundary of the convention, but some of its strongest churches are in that state.

NEW BUILDING PLANNED. The chief reason for urging Nashville is that it is the home of the Sunday school board, the only money-maker connected with the convention.

preacher and many others preach in houses costing thousands of dollars and yet the study in which their sermons are prepared is so poorly furnished that one hundred dollars would cover the value of all the furniture.

HOMES FOR PASTORS. The committee hopes to create such a sentiment among Baptists that the homes of the pastors will be kept in good repair, kept painted and that they shall be well-furnished so that no pastor will need to move his furniture from place to place.

FINANCIAL REPORT. The minor note of the coming convention will be the financial report. It will be shown in the report of the foreign mission board that the churches have contributed this year for this work about $40,000 less than was given last year.

MISSIONS. The Georgia churches gave to foreign missions this year something over $60,000, while their gifts last year amounted to $79,000.

Equipment for Pastors. Another matter of importance will be the report of a committee appointed to see if it is not possible to secure better equipment for the Baptist pastors of the south.

GEORGIA TENOR MAY SING WITH ABORN CO.

O. H. Cooke, of Thomasville, Hailed as "Southern Caruso," Completes Study in N. Y.

O. H. Cooke, of Thomasville, Georgia's famous tenor singer who was hailed several years ago as the "Southern Caruso," has returned to his native state after two years' study in New York under Oscar Sanger and other masters.

Mr. Cooke, or "Boots," as he is known to his Atlanta friends, dropped off in Atlanta for several days with his friends in this city before going home where he will visit relatives.

During Mr. Cooke's study in New York he was the center of interest at many concerts and drew favorable criticisms from some of the leading critics.

He acted under Mildenberg, in Carnegie hall, and learned the tenor scores in "Faust," "Carmen" and "Butterfly."

His voice attracted such attention in New York as to draw an offer from the Aborn Opera company for next season.

This offer is being considered by the Georgia tenor, and Mr. Cooke may be seen this winter with some of the leading English singers of America.

"Corn Club" Smith

is a great man. Ask anybody from Mississippi. Yet "Corn Club" Smith never painted a masterpiece or wrote a classic or went to Congress.

What "Corn Club" Smith did was this: he showed the farmers of Mississippi the REAL way to grow crops.

And now everybody in Mississippi is boosting for "Corn Club" Smith.

We believe you'd shout for a man who showed you and your neighbors how to double or treble your yearly income.

A most interesting character is "Corn Club" Smith. A man well worth knowing. If you want to make his acquaintance, read Peter Macfarlane's great story, "Everyday Americans" in the current number of Collier's Weekly.

In the same issue of Collier's you'll find: "The Triangle Fire"

By Arthur E. McFarlane—The insurance story of a catastrophe still fresh in the memory of everyone. Written by a man who has just completed in Collier's the nationally sensational series "The Business of Arson."

An article which should change the whole fire insurance situation on this continent.

Geraldine's Education

By Cora Davis—There's a note in this story that will strike a chord in the heart of every motherly woman, and of every man who loves children.

But the pathos of misunderstood Geraldine has a relief of humor in the characterization of Geraldine's mother. It is Mrs. Davis's first story, although you would not guess it if you were not told.

COUNTY WILL TAKE OVER HARRIETT HAWKES HOME

County Board Committee Favors Plan to Enlarge Home for Girls

At a meeting of the aims and juvenile committee of the county board Tuesday morning it was decided to report favorably to the board Thursday on the project of taking over the Harriett Hawkes home, conducted by private parties, as a county institution, and there to erect a suitable building for the care of wayward girls.

Prof. T. A. E. Means, superintendent of the Hapeville reformatory for boys, will have charge of this institution in connection with his work as superintendent of similar institutions in Fulton county. The trustees of the home will sit with the county board as an advisory board.

The county will take over $12,000 in subscriptions which have been raised for the Harriett Hawkes home, and will start at once grading for the new building which will be erected on the fifty acres of ground on Stewart avenue.

The taking over of the Harriett Hawkes home by the county will mean the abandonment of the proposition to erect a home for wayward girls on a tract of 500 acres near the Chattahoochee river. Instead, that site will probably be used for a negro juvenile reformatory.

U. S. JUDGE REFUSES TO TIE UP CITY BOND FUND

On the ground that Atlanta is solvent and is liable for its debts, Judge Newman Tuesday morning refused to grant a petition of the Noll Construction company that the city be enjoined from diverting certain moneys of its $1,000,000 bond issue.

The construction company claims that $12,000 is due from the city in the building of the Intrenchment Creek sewage disposal plant. It wanted the bond money tied up until its claim could be sued and adjudicated. C. P. Gore represented the petitioners, and J. L. Maxson, city

NO MORE COLD STORAGE OF BEER KEGS IN ROME

Atlantic Ice and Coal Corporation Will Shut Refrigerators to Beer Parties

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) ROME, Ga., May 12.—Local prohibitionists are elated over the published determination of the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation to discontinue after May 15 the cold storage of beer for individuals, firms or corporations for any purpose. The company takes this action voluntarily, and after having fought the matter out through the courts.

Two years ago an injunction was taken out against the corporation to prevent the storage of beer, and it was overruled by the superior court of the state of Georgia. The decision holding that the company had the right to store the beer with other cold storage products in public.

Public sentiment is given as the reason for the new departure by the officers of the company. Judge Moses Wright, in a recent charge to the grand jury, held that the method commonly pursued by crowds of men meeting each afternoon and raising a purse for the beer they consumed was illegal.

This ruling, together with the action of the cold storage concern, will, it is believed, greatly reduce the number of "keg parties" in Rome.

JERSEY SENATE KILLS JURY REFORM BILL

Measure Favored by President Wilson Lacked One Vote for Passage

(By Associated Press.) TRENTON, N. J., May 12.—The senate today defeated the jury reform bill passed yesterday by the house. Attached to it was an amendment providing for referendum and the statement was made that the bill as amended had been approved by Joseph P. Tumulty, president Wilson's secretary.

Today the Republican senators voted solidly against it. The Democrats could muster only ten votes in its favor, eleven being necessary to pass the measure.

Previously the jury reform bill favored by the Republicans was defeated, the Democrats all voting against it. The outlook for the passage of jury reform legislation at the extraordinary session of the legislature is not bright.

L'ENGLE LEGISLATED OUT OF CONGRESS?

Florida Redistricts State Congressional Districts—L'Engle Congressman at Large

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 13.—The house passed by a big majority Senator Johnson's bill which redistricts the state into four congressional districts, and legislates congressman-at-large out, provided the governor signs the bill.

Representative Floyd made an eloquent talk for the Progressives, in which he referred to L'Engle, congressman-at-large, as the leading Progressive in the state, and should remain as it was on the "woman spare that tree" idea.

Prince of Peace Is Captain of Bryan's Super-Dreadnaught

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, May 13.—Foreign delegates in this country preparing for the centenary celebration of the treaty of Ghent departed today for Philadelphia.

Secretary Bryan today bade the delegates from the British empire farewell in the name of the United States. In the course of his remarks he said the preparations for the peace celebration were in the nature of the building of the greatest super-dreadnaught, and that it was called "Friendship."

"Its compass is the heart," said Mr. Bryan in describing the ship of peace. "Its shell carry good will, its missiles are projected by the smokeless powder of love, its captain is the prince of peace."

"I want you to drink with me to the battleship of Friendship. No target will withstand that which Friendship sends abroad."

Mr. John A. Stewart, chairman of the American executive committee, said a meeting would be held in New York May 23, when plans would be formulated for raising several million dollars for the American features of the proposed celebration.

Delegates will be elected to the general convention of the Episcopal church, which will be held in New York next October. The general convention is a quadrennial affair.

SUGGESTS MEMORIAL FOR PANAMA CANAL

Editor The Journal: The Panama canal, most stupendous undertaking of its kind ever attempted, should have suitable memorial to take form of statue (heroic proportions) in most prominent position on Atlantic side, facing ocean, in memory of Alexander Von Humboldt, first person to foresee possibility of canal, with arch overhead inscribed "The End Crowns All; Or: Conquer Over Difficulties."

Humboldt's name at foot of statue. Superiority of statue over international celebration or convention is that these pass away, while the statue would be permanent. Regarding a book, few would read it.

Would like to be at opening of Panama. Have passed through Suez.

HIGH COURT AFFIRMS A HANGING IN FULTON CO.

The sentence of death pronounced on Oscar Dewberry in the Fulton criminal court on a verdict returned October 2, for the murder of Horace Dodson on May 25 of last year, was affirmed Tuesday by the state supreme court.

The condemned man is a negro. He was convicted of killing Dodson, a white youth, by cutting him to death.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time, nor run up a heavy doctor's bill, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." He has had no return whatever of the pain, backache and burning. His name is J. A. Farmer, and he says: "Of course I recommend Foley Kidney Pills as a very effective cure for kidney and bladder trouble." For sale by all dealers.—(Advt.)

GUATEMALA COERCED BY ENGLISH WARSHIP?

British Minister Instructed to Call Battleship to Force Payment of Debt

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, May 13.—The British foreign office is hopeful of an early settlement of the British claims against Guatemala. The last dispatches received from the British minister indicated that a satisfactory reply to the British demand was anticipated.

The British minister's instructions authorize him to call on a British warship should he think its presence in Guatemala waters desirable. Therefore, although the foreign office had not, as late as today, been advised that the British cruiser Aeolus had departed from Kingston, Jamaica, for Puerto Barrios, it is thought quite likely that the British minister has called upon her commander to hasten, by the appearance of the vessel, the payment of the long overdue debt.

Although the matter is considered as one absolutely between Great Britain and Guatemala, the United States government has been advised of the British intention to insist upon the payment of the bondholders. Guatemala's failure to do this as promised at the end of April has, it is stated in official circles, only made the British ministers more insistent.

FALLS THREE STORIES BUT BREAKS NO BONES

A. H. Harrison Slips From Swinging Ladder and Is Hurl-ed From Roof to Ground

A. H. Harrison, a painter in the employ of William Wilson, the decorator, was badly hurt in a fall of three stories Tuesday morning at the home of Dr. Armstrong, near the corner of Woodward avenue and Washington streets.

Harrison was working on the gables of the roof, his only support being a swinging ladder. The ropes on the ladder became loosened and he fell forward, striking the back of the ladder and hitting a stone wall before reaching the ground.

Passersby rushed to his assistance, and he was taken to the Atlanta hospital in an unconscious condition. He had not recovered consciousness by 1 o'clock. It was stated at the hospital. It was said, however, that he had sustained no fractured bones. His shoulders and one hip were badly bruised.

Congratulations!

To the charming resourcefulness of the maids and matrons who conducted yesterday's campaign in behalf of the Sheltering Arms, Atlanta is indebted for still another record—one of the most distinctive and pleasing records she has ever achieved. It was a fine thing to score the world's largest attendance for a grand opera season and to raise more than seventy-five thousand dollars for the Shriners' convention, but it was an even more radiant and gracious deed when all Atlanta opened its heart and its purse to the human cause of a charity for little children.

There are doubtless other communities where Tag Day is observed and where it wins a generous public response, but in this, as in all other enterprises, Atlanta has a way of its own. From breakfast time to dusk, the city was astir with the spirit of giving. There was a tingle of Yuletide in the spring air, as though Santa Claus himself had peeped around the corner of the calendar. All day long the dimes and dollars jingled and they fell not from a few hands as sober contributions but from thousands of hands as cheery and spontaneous offerings. And the result was that when night fell, it found the little wards of the Sheltering Arms many thousand dollars richer than before. That is a record for Tag Day. It is a record of Atlanta's generosity.

Let us remember, however, that though the cause was supremely worthy and the public naturally liberal, this high mark could never have been made, had it not been for the skill and energy and graciousness of those who went forth in its behalf. The mothers and daughters who left the comfort of home for a day and, forgetting their personal interests and pleasure, devoted themselves to this charity—to them, more than to anyone else, is due the credit for the remarkable success of Tag Day in 1913.

It never shines but it produces a drought.

Atlanta is in third place, but then it might be worse. She might be in fourth place.

The railroads are asking for a raise in rates. Just like some people, they want a "raise."

A Cheering Crop Outlook.

As viewed in the May report for food crops the country over is distinctly cheering. The wheat harvest promises to be even more abundant than it was last year. The outlook for a great corn yield is also assuring and in so far as present conditions permit a prophecy a plentiful summer and autumnal for all food products may be expected.

The year 1912 established a new record for staple crops in the United States and we still feel the impetus of prosperity which they gave. There were sections of the South and of Georgia, however, where untoward weather conditions resulted unfortunately, and though times were exceptionally good in the country at large, these particular districts felt the pinch of circumstance.

There is reason to hope that such will not be the case this year. Certain it is, according to trustworthy reports, that the agricultural outlook is more encouraging in Georgia today than it was a twelve-month ago.

The State College of Agriculture is advised by its farm demonstration agents that wheat and corn crops are very promising in most of the counties and that extraordinary interest is manifested in the cultivation of food products and the application of advanced agricultural methods. Of particular note is the growth and enthusiasm of the Boys' Corn clubs. These productive institutions have been organized in a majority of the counties and their influence upon farming in general is widely felt.

Perhaps the most significant fact of the year, agriculturally speaking, is the reduction of Georgia's cotton acreage and the devotion of more soil and energy to food supplies.

The college graduate, like congress, will soon be marking time.

Become familiar with the workings of the tariff. It's your duty.

Possibilities are all right in a way, but they never prove anything.

The Balkan Peace Treaty.

Though the Balkan war virtually ended when Adrianople surrendered to the Bulgars, there has been subsequent fighting along the frontiers and several incidents which threatened to entangle the plans for peace have occurred. It is therefore doubly reassuring to learn that Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro have all formally accepted the proposal of the Powers and that hostilities will cease entirely pending the consideration of a peace treaty. Envoys from each of these States will proceed immediately to London, there to join with representatives of Turkey and of the larger nations in working out a satisfactory settlement of boundaries, compensations and related issues.

In these proceedings, Turkey will play comparatively a minor and passive part. Utterly defeated by the little States who she has heretofore so often thwarted in diplomacy, she must now accept rather than dictate or suggest terms; and, in fact, she has thrown herself on the mercy of the Powers, trusting to their own sense of self-interest to vouchsafe her whatever protection or privilege she may secure.

The vital factors in the peace negotiations will be the Balkan allies and the great European Powers. Whatever agreement these may reach as to the division of territory and the adjustment of political problems must be accepted by the Ottoman government. Turkey's European realm will be reduced to a scant fragment of its former extent and Turkish influence will become but a shadow.

One of the most difficult and delicate tasks of the peace conference will be the settlement of questions that have arisen or may arise among the Balkan States themselves. Having defeated the Turks, the Allies are now beginning to look more jealously to their individual interests. Each of them is pressing its own claims as to boundaries and spheres of influence. The determination with which Montenegro stood out for the possession of Scutari is but typical of a general, though less demonstrative, demand for all that can possibly be won and held in the territory to be partitioned.

It is evident, however, that the Powers are acting in effective concert so that their decision on the various issues that may arise will be conclusive. In any event, the big Balkan war is over and all Europe takes a breath of relief.

Put the lid on your peck of trouble.

The Progress of Aviation.

It seems but yesterday that Wilbur and Orville Wright demonstrated the feasibility of a heavier-than-air flying machine. Yet, since that first, short swallow-flight, the developments and achievements of the aeroplane have been more rapid perhaps than were ever attained in so short time in any other field of scientific adventure.

The United States war department recently compiled interesting records of the progress of aviation during the past four years. In 1909, according to this report, the greatest height attained by an aeroplane was one thousand, four hundred and fifty feet; today the mark stands at more than twenty thousand feet. The speed record in 1909 was forty-eight miles an hour; within recent months it has been pressed forward to one hundred and eight and nine-tenths miles an hour. The duration of a single continuous flight has been increased from four hours and seventeen minutes to thirteen hours and seventeen minutes. That the security of the aeroplane has also increased is indicated by the fact that the carrying of passengers is far more frequent now than a few years ago. A French aviator recently made a sustained flight of fifty-four miles with five persons in his machine; and it is no uncommon thing for a dirigible to carry a dozen or more of passengers on long trips.

Aviation, though still at a stage that is largely experimental, is achieving steady and substantial results; and when we reflect that within the past few years an airship has sailed across the American continent, has flown around England and over the Alps, we must believe that a brilliant and fruitful future awaits this wondrous art.

For disobedience the small boy frequently gets the palm.

We never see ourselves as others see us, or as we see others.

Dental Inspection for Atlanta's Public Schools.

It is to be hoped that plans for establishing a system of regular dental inspection in the public schools of Atlanta and Fulton county will soon materialize. Some time ago the Chamber of Commerce, generously assisted by the local society of dental surgeons, inaugurated such a system at two of the schools. The results in these experimental instances have been so pronounced and far-reaching as to leave no doubt whatsoever of the value and the urgent need of extending the work to all of the schools.

The famous physician and scientist, Sir William Osler, is credited with saying that "mouth infections are responsible for more injuries to the human race than alcohol." Certain it is defective teeth and neglected mouths give rise to various ills that frequently undermine health and impair mental, if not moral, efficiency.

Atlanta never took a wiser or more progressive step than when it established medical inspection in its public schools. This good work should now be supplemented with dental inspection.

When a man is drunk he forgets that he's a fool.

A CONSUMER'S VIEWS ON SALESMANSHIP

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.
(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

I am not a salesman. But I am a good buyer, and have probably purchased more things that I did not want than any man of my age. Hence, it may be interesting to salesmen to listen for a brief spell to a consumer's idea of what constitutes good salesmanship.

First of all, be good natured. I here and now confess that nine-tenths of what induces me to buy is the ability of the seller to jolly me along. Cheerfulness and signs that you feel good, enjoy life, and are full of glee inside, are better than a letter of introduction from Mr. Rockefeller.

Have a thorough knowledge of your goods, also of the other fellow's goods. Learn how they are made and when, and who makes them. Respect your customer's desire to know and fill him up with information.

Don't argue. State facts. Don't arouse opposition in the buyer's mind. Agree with him, or dodge the issue. Lead him around to some subject where you are at one. I hate to have a seller try to prove to me I'm wrong. Perhaps I am; but I don't like to admit it.

Use plain language. If you are selling automobiles don't talk about carburetors and reciprocating dudads and compound thingumbobs. Go somewhere and learn the English for these things, and how to make them clear to a washerwoman. Never use a term when there is any doubt whether the customer understands it. We don't like to be made to appear ignorant.

Tell the truth. If you are with a firm where you dare not tell the truth, leave it.

Be candid. Do not conceal things. The thing you have to sell has certain merits; it ought to sell on those. To sell a thing upon merits it does not have to be poor policy.

Be dependable. Even if you make a casual remark, for instance, that you will send a man a bunch of blotters or a book or a calendar, don't fail to do it. Forgetting is almost as bad as lying. If you promise to come back next Tuesday, do it or send a telegram. Create the impression that you will keep your word if it bankrupts you.

Remember names and faces. If you are not gifted in this respect, get a little book and every evening set down the names of the people you have met and some distinguishing characteristic of each of them. Write down any remarks your customer has made about his family. Study this. It's all a part of the important art of jollyng us along.

Give a good appearance. There may be a few people left who like to see a dirty shirt and frayed cuffs, but they are growing scarcer every day.

The art of salesmanship begins in the mind. Think success, think confidence, think a thousand dollars. Why think fifty cents? These thoughts in your brain will ooze out of your face. You will radiate these qualities. The greatest factor in selling is personality. And personality is made by thoughts.

Avoid personal intimacy. Let me talk about myself, and look interested while I am expanding. But don't speak of yourself any more than you can help. Take an axe and chop the pronoun "I" out of your vocabulary. What do you care? Jolly me along.

In fine, be as human as possible. You are not a catalogue nor a printed circular. You draw wages because you are supposed to be a human being. Be it! Don't be luffy, sensitive, impatient, dictatorial, indifferent, egotistic or mechanical. Be a good fellow. Be the kind of man people like to have around.

When you attack a customer aim two inches below his collar bone. If you can make him LIKE you it is far and away better than to try to PROVE anything to his mind. Very probably he hasn't much mind to speak of. But we all have hearts.

The Ragtime Muse

PASTORAL.

Melodiously the duck
Quacks in the wimpling pond;
The husbandman sells his truck
And invests in another bond.
The sanitary cow
Produces her sterilized milk
And the beautiful milkmaid now Wears diamonds and silk.

The soft, seductive voice
Of the faithful, vigilant hen
Bids the heart of her master rejoice—
She has lifted the mortgage again!
The dividends burst into bloom.
The ripening melon is big,
And lightens the hired man's gloom
The squeal of the fattening pig.

And now comes the R. F. D.
With a picture show—parcel post—
The kind you can both hear and see
And take out to supper—almost.
Oh, life of bucol' charm!
How happy the husbandman's lot!
But the boy will not stay on the farm—
He is off to sail in his yacht.

JUST SMILES

At the annual fair that is held at a small town in Russia a man observed a gypsy and a "role haggling over the sale of a horse. When the transaction was over he asked the gypsy how much he had got for the animal. The gypsy opened his hand and showed a 10 ruble note—worth about $5.

"But isn't that very cheap?"
"No," said the gypsy. "The horse is lame."
The man then sought out the Pole, to whom he said, "You have given 10 rubles for a lame horse."
The Pole smiled knowingly and remarked: "He is as sound as you or I. I saw he was badly shod and that was all."

The inquirer returned to the gypsy and reported what the Pole had said. Then, with a significant wink, the gypsy whispered:
"He's as lame as a two legged stool! I had him badly shod on purpose to make people believe that that was the cause of his limp."

When the Pole was told this he seemed for a moment taken aback and hung his head, then he heaved a sigh and shrugged his shoulders.
"Ah, well," he said, "it's all right—it was a bad 10 ruble note."—Youth's Companion.

A young housewife was showing a new and inexperienced colored maid around the house, explaining the various duties that would be hers. In an upper hall they came suddenly to the head of the back stairs, and the lady said:
"Nancy, you will go down this way, always!" And with that the little mistress slipped and tumbled, going all the way down with many lurches and bumps.
The new maid was aghast.
"My lan', missy, ah'm afraid Ah won't suit you-all. Dat-a-avay ob coin' down stairs am a heap too strenuous fo' me."—Woman's Home Companion.

THE INCOME TAX

VI.—Taxation at the Source.
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The principal objection to the income tax in the United States is the one stated in 1894 by William L. Wilson before Benton McMillin stole a march on him and forced his amendment to the Wilson bill through the house—that it is a tax upon conscience. As will be told by a subsequent article, the house leaders were not in favor of an income tax, and William L. Wilson declared that he favored a corporation tax because the government had means to assess corporations properly, but that he thought it would be difficult to collect income taxes from individuals. He declared that he believed in the equity of such a tax, but not in its practicability.

What Mr. Wilson sought was means of imposing a tax that would make taxation at its source a possibility. Such a source of collecting the bulk of their income taxes has been found to be successful by a number of governments. In some of the countries which have national income tax laws as much as four-fifths of the total possible revenues from these laws are gathered into the public treasury before the incomes upon which they are a tax reach the bank accounts of their owners.

Of course one has to look to England for the best example of a successful policy of taxation at the source. There the government does not depend upon personal returns made up by the taxpayers, but requires payment to be made and an accounting rendered to the government by the corporations and other entities upon such incomes as are taxable. It is terpsichorean upon such incomes as are taxable. It is generally agreed that where there is a fixed rate, without graduation or differentiation, the stoppage at the source system is by far the best method. Even in the case of a distinction or differentiation between earned and unearned income there is no serious difficulty, but how to harmonize stoppage at the source with graduation is a most intricate problem. For instance, if a man's income is made up of many items—of salary, of interest on bonds, of dividends on stocks, of rents from houses, and profits from a farm—how is the government, under a graduated income tax, to tell how much to deduct as tax on each item, until it knows his whole income? This is one of the many puzzles of harmonizing the two proposals that England is experiencing today. How to stop the tax at its source, and at the same time not to take too much or too little has proved a difficult problem.

The idea of stopping the income tax at its point of origin is more than a century old, and to England belongs the credit of originating it. At first there was a general practice of giving in incomes in a lump sum; a man simply reported that he had an income of so many pounds sterling, and that men so persistently estimated their incomes far below their actual amount, and in order to get a better line on what the incomes of taxpayers really were, incomes were divided up into schedules. It was no longer "How much is your income?" but rather "How much do you get from your bank stock, how much from your company dividends, how much from your rent?" In other words, it became a matter of an itemized account of income rather than a statement of the total.

The advantage of the system of stopping the tax at its source never was more clearly illustrated than when England first adopted it in 1862. Before that time the tax rate had been 10 per cent. The law that provided for collecting the major portion of the tax at its source also contained a provision cutting the rate in half and making it 5 per cent. And a substitute lower rate, with stoppage at the source as a substitute for the lump sum tax, produced practically the same amount of revenue as the higher rate without it.

Practically every student of the English income tax laws agrees that one of the principal factors in its success has been the principle of stopping the tax at its source. England has clung tenaciously to that idea from the beginning, and has coupled with it the practice of requiring incomes to be itemized by schedules in such a way that their salient features, at least, may be checked up. Every English tax authority, as was shown by the investigation of 1906, feels that it would be an evil day for England should it decide to give up these two principles of assessment and collection.

In Germany the situation is a different one. There inequitable methods are taken as matter of course, and the people seem to care but little if the revenue authorities do pry into their private affairs. They permit such inquiry into their affairs as never would be tolerated by British subjects or American citizens, and so there is not the great necessity for avoiding inequitable investigations that there is in England and the United States. If a German subject reports his income at $3,000 and the tax authorities think it is too low they may ask him what he pays for his telephone, whether he has one in his private apartments, whether he takes a box at the theater, what he does with his income, what he did with the money he got from selling some furniture last year, and a hundred and one other questions, any one of which, if asked of the average American, would tempt him to reply: "It isn't any of your business."

But Germany is about the only country where stoppage at the source has not proved to be a prime essential to the success of the tax. Everywhere other systems have been tried and pronounced a failure, and when stoppage at the source was written into the law this failure generally has been followed by success. Of course, it is natural that if a man pays B a part of B's income, he is not going to perjure himself to save the amount of that payment from becoming known to the revenue authorities. Therefore, it is rather certain to tell just how much income B does get through him. That is why stoppage at the source succeeds where the old system of simply letting B report his income fails.

The Conning Tower

FRANKLIN P. ADAMS

MONODY ON THE ASTOR HOUSE.
Lament, O Muse, and heave a suspiration;
Make me an epicurean, a thrane,
An ode to fit my humid lachrimation,
A dirge ultramarine!
For heavy I, and supercharged with woe,
On reading that the Astor House must go.

Thou noble inn, where oft I (Cries of "Ouder!")
Repaired to find a fragrant bit of lunch;
Where grew the city's only perfect chowder
And hot Jamaica punch—
So deep my woe that thou art to be razed
I question it can fittingly be phrased.

Farewell, farewell!—If Byron I may borrow—
I read of thee in many an Alger tome,
Unthinking that, in age and bowed with sorrow,
I'd spill to thee a pome;
Unknowing that some day I should deplore
The announcement that thou wert to be no more.

Yet though my trend be super-sentimental,
Thine end I truly do not mind a bit;
My grief for that is wholly incidental,
This is my woe, to wit:
The rictating and blasting I must hear—
Shades of the Woolworth tower—another year!

But there is no peace. Life is just one skyscraper after another. First the Hudson terminals, then the Singer, the Evening Post and the Woolworth buildings—rivets rat-tat-tat-tatting all day. And now the Astor House's successor.

But the building that is to be erected on the Astor House block will eventually save us a lot of time. It will obstruct our view of the Woolworth building, which is more fascinating for an urbanite to look at than mountains, eas, archipelagoes, lakes, isthmuses and all the Oranges. We find that we have been staring at it for forty minutes, and that it's 11.55 and there's half a col. to evolve in 20 minutes.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPPYS.

MAY 7.—Cometh to my office B. Pemberton and bade me to luncheon with him and we had beakers of grape juice as has become the fashion, albeit I had drunk it or ever the Prime Minister Mr. Bryan had caused it to be a talked-of beverage. Thence to the tennis-court, where C. Beebe and I played Mr. Stevenson the college-preceptor and E. Rush, but always they beat us, and so did Mr. Henderson and Mr. Mersereau, and we had a sorry day of it and I home to dinner in an ill-humour. Laboured all the evening, but joylessly, and so to bed.

8.—To the ballpark and saw there Maximilian Foster writer of taylor and he offered to wager with me that the Giants would trounce the Cincinnati, as who should say, this Peppy is soft, not to say, unresisting. So I did wager 48, with him and gained it too, forasmuch as the Giants made no runs soever and the Cincinnati 4, which I was glad of. Mr. S. Mercer did speak this day of the nine of least resistance, but did observe that he did have on a new cap, at any rate. Met too D. Runyon and L. Cobb, and heard among them great argument as to the excellences of a taylor that might "Sealed Orders," by Mr. Eugene Rhodes, one holding it to be the worst taylor ever wrote and the other deeming it to be a taylor of high merit; and they did agree to abide by what I said of the taylor, inasmuch as they said, as I did know more of such things than they, which is sooth, albeit I can write no taylor myself. Yet who drives fat oxen need not himself be fat, as the old Romans were wont to remark.

Today's Beauty Recipes

The electric needle for the removal of superfluous hair is both painful and expensive. A quick, safe and sure way to remove wild hairs is to apply a little powdered salicylic acid mixed with water. Just cover the hairs with this paste for a minute or two, wipe off, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

"Spring colds are often more stubborn than colds brought on by winter exposure. Mother's Salve will break up an ordinary cold in head or chest overnight. It is easy to use, quick to act, and relieves catarrh, croup, sore throat.

"To keep the skin soft, fresh and smooth, apply in the morning a lotion made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. It will not rub off or show like powder and prevents the growth of hair. Mayatone quickly corrects dark, sallow and blotchy complexions.

"You can recommend Mother's Shampoo to your husband and he will thank you for it. Many men who shave themselves do not shampoo frequently enough. Dandruff, falling hair and baldness are caused by a parasite, and Mother's Shampoo removes these parasites. It restores dry, brittle and faded hair to a glossy, fluffy condition, and keeps the scalp healthy.—(Advt.)

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

The growing popularity of flowered voile is marked. For a while its fate hung in the balance. After all it may be wiser not to jump to the conclusion that a certain fabric will suit us until we see how the dressmakers handle it, and also to wait a while and see how the public takes it.

There is really no reason any one can advocate for not using an attractive material which suits the needs, the figure and the purse merely because it is over-popular; but a woman's way of feeling is more important than her way of reasoning, and as the former has governed her for a few centuries it will probably continue to do so despite the efforts to educate her above emotion.

This flowered voile is sold in several colors and weaves. Some of it is too expensive for the average purse and is used for elaborate afternoon and evening gowns in combination with lace and satin; other qualities closely resemble an old friend called challis, which served the summer needs of women for many years.

The background is white or tan, and the latter is used more for afternoon gowns than the former; on this are posies of varicolored blossoms more or less gaudy, some smacking of the Futurity school others as demure as any mid-Victorian would wish.

Any one of these gowns can be used for informal dinners and small dances made up with lace and satin and roses as suggested, but it does not match the simple summer frocks that makes them worth while to the majority. They probably will take the place of muslin for every occasion except the early morning hours for which some women cling to all white as to tradition. It is a costly method, and the woman on a small income can not afford it; but this is always a matter of individual choice against which no one's suggestions has much weight, just as it is almost impossible to convince the average woman who works that white blouses and white linen skirts are the daily uniform of the rich.

Tunic Gown of Floral Voile. Some of the new models for everyday wear are a combination of plain white voile or fine curtain scrim and floral voile used as a coat that ends in a tunic and has bands on the skirt. It is difficult to add a tunic that does not match the skirt unless one is willing to have the blouse or some kind of jacket effect of the same material, and this is always done with any flowered fabric which is combined with a plain color.

One model has a fine white scrim skirt with a five-inch band of voile covered with red and blue flowers, and there is a short straight tunic of the same attached to the bodice at the waist. The latter is cut in kimono shape, but does not meet in back or front, and the spaces are filled in with a surplice arrangement of white wash net edged with fine lace.

The girde is of white with applied blue and red flowers in an irregular design and the buckle is of shirred blue silk which sinks into the figure.

There is another model which has a plain white voile skirt with a deep scalloped edge of blue voile done in pink and yellow flowers; a line of scallops goes up the front of the skirt over the fastening, and the slim fitting Russian blouse, which is much longer in back than front, has a bodice made of the voile, fastened under the scallops in front and showing a shallow yoke with stock of white dotted net finished with a pink and blue floral pattern.

Gowns Trimmed With Voile. The deep tan voile with its brilliant little posies makes an admirable trimming for all kinds of simple white blouses and skirts. This kind of garment is more convenient than the white blouse and waistcoat together, because of the awkwardness in getting the coat and the vest off together, are one must remove them in public.

It has long since been the fashion to keep on one's coat whether at luncheon or tea outside of a private house, but no matter how much this custom may be observed in winter, it is much uncomfortable one to follow in hot weather.

In Paris they are wearing one piece frocks and coat suits of chintz, and those in the water towers are waiting to see if they will appear on any women. The shops have showed a few. They are not more gaudy than the bright colored calico frocks which were worn in the last generation, but somehow the idea does not seem to meet with approval.

Fry Fish in Cottolene

You can fry fish in Cottolene, and use the remaining fat for frying potatoes or other food. The odor of the fish will not be imparted to the other fried food.

Cottolene is not alone economical for the reason that it can be used over and over, but also because it is richer than butter or lard, and one-third less is required. It is twice as economical as butter, much more economical than lard.

Cottolene makes rich, digestible, tasty, healthful food. Does not make food greasy, and is free from indigestion.

Cottolene is never sold in bulk—always in air-tight tin pails, which protect it from dirt, dust and odors. It is always uniform and dependable.

THE EVENING STORY FROM THE HEIGHTS

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

KITTY was late. She knew that as soon as she came within sight of the house, and also was aware that she had been asked at the eleventh hour for two reasons—one that she was needed to fill a vacancy and the other she was wanted to write the affair up afterward.

As she rang the bell at the stately front door with one hand she made ineffectual dashes with the other at straying locks. Even at the threshold she hung back timidly, hating to enter.

Her young hostess opened the door and with pain Kitty saw that she had on a new dress. She saw, too, that several other girls were wearing new dresses—girls who condescended toward her when she did meet them.

"Go right upstairs to the front room," Lola said graciously.

Kitty went up. In the front room she laid her shabby coat aside and kicked her worn rubbers under a couch and tucked her gloves out of sight. Then she looked in the glass.

"I wish I hadn't come," she thought. "I'm out of place. I feel I'm only a 'skirt' reporter who comes to coddle a little for the sake of getting their gay doings well written up."

She drew her breath hard, made two false starts and finally walked down stairs.

Local was waiting for her just inside the parlor door. "I think," she said, "that you know everybody except Miss Kane, Miss Kane, Miss Macnamara."

Kitty was just going to bow formally when she saw a white hand with a great red stone like a spark of fire glowing upon it held out for hers. The clasp that followed and the glance from the eyes about the gray eyes set in a sweet, strong face, tenderly haloed by graying hair—were warm and genuine.

"Come, sit here beside me, won't you? I'm such a stranger," said a voice that matched the face.

Kitty sat down, though she felt that it was unnecessary to lend her company to Miss Kane, who, it was easy to see, was the guest of honor. She was much older than any one else present—quite forty. Kitty judged—and dressed exquisitely.

Lola was bustling about arranging the tables for bridge. She was a sprightly, dark girl. Kitty always felt as inconspicuous and colorless as a lump of cottage cheese compared with her.

They drew for partners and Miss Kane fell to the lot of Kitty.

"Oh, you'll be sorry," Kitty breathed. "I play so badly."

"I'm not alarmed," replied Miss Kane, smiling.

Kitty did play badly, even worse than usual. More than once Alice Landry glanced at her wonderingly, with a soft, murmured "Why, Kitty Macnamara?"

Kitty knew that she was disgracing herself. Her movements grew nervous and jerky. Once in pulling the cards she sowed the whole pack broadcast.

"I'm such a stranger," said a voice that matched the face.

"And then you'll begin actually to live."

She dare not lift her eyes to the girls who were her opponents or to that grave, gray-eyed woman opposite, who sought to cover her mistakes as fast as she made them.

"She'll hate me forever," Kitty thought miserably. A sudden rage possessed her. Her head went up defiantly. And then she became aware that a curious silence was following up the sound of her own voice, that the girl on her right was biting her lip angrily, that Alice Landry was saying in a shocked tone: "Why, Kitty Macnamara, how nasty you are!"

She did not know what she had said, and she did not care. She only knew that it had stung somewhere. Behind her she heard a low voice: "The disagreeable thing! I shan't ask her to my house after this, even for the sake of her clever reporting."

The same came to a close and refreshments were brought in. Kitty took a mouthful of her ice and crumbled a cake. Then she saw that she had been left alone. She got up and moved toward the door. Nobody noticed. She thought she was going to escape from the room, when Lola spoke:

"Kitty, you're not going?"

"I think I must. I've had a lovely time." Her lips trembled over the lie. Lola looked at her coldly. "I'm glad you came," she said, but Kitty knew that she, too, lied.

Kitty fled upstairs. As she snatched her coat from the place where she had left it she noticed that it had lain all the time close to a garment of baby lamb, rich, new, and fashionable. It was Miss Kane's.

Her hand stole down the length of the coat. She loved beautiful things, she who never had any. When she drew her hand away a faint fragrance came with it—a very emanation from that gracious womanliness which characterized Miss Kane. She hurried into her coat and hat, her rusty rubbers, her mended gloves and left the room. Outside on the landing she came face to face with Miss Kane.

"If you'll wait a moment," said the older woman. "I'll walk away with you."

Kitty waited. Miss Kane came out wearing the splendid coat, with a smart little toque atop her graying hair. She smiled encouragingly at Kitty, who smiled back pitifully.

"You won't mind going a little out of your way with me?" Miss Kane asked as they reached the street.

Kitty shook her head. "I'd love to," she said. Then, with a sob, her plea came. "Oh, I know what they think of me back there, and I don't care. But I do care what you think." With a splash the tears were out upon her cheeks.

"You'll presently see I could see clearly again she found that she had been led into a quiet street, where there was nobody to see her emotion, and that Miss Kane's arm was wrapped around her.

"Poor little girl," said the sweet voice.

"No, I'm a horrid, nasty, blundering girl." There was frantic protest in Kitty's tones. "But perhaps if you knew—"

"Don't!" asked Miss Kane. Kitty's eyes sought her in amazement. "But how?"

"Because I've been a girl myself." "But you could never have been such a girl as am," Kitty said at length. "You could never have been as poor. You see there's three of us, mother isn't well and Ted is only eleven. When father stopped work I took his place. I'm a newspaper woman and you can't know what it means to be a newspaper woman in a little town like this. I know everybody and I get asked about it, not because I'm wanted as a girl, but because I'm clever at writing up affairs afterward. That's how I came to be at Lola's today. Oh, you don't know how hard it is to go to a place like that in an old dress. It all comes over one so! Usually I can hold in, but this laughing when I knew they were making remarks I got wicked and restless and—"

"I saw how you were tormented—pushed against the wall till you felt as if you must fight or die. I saw it all, Kitty. By the way, my sweet voice grew sweeter. I was just such a Kitty as you are, with something of the same problem to work out. There was money enough in my family—I did not lack for anything, but I had to make life more necessary to make life livable—love and friendship. You see, I was so homely, so impossible, I did not understand myself and there was no one to understand me. I was never asked anywhere. I wanted to go, and when I was asked I was ignored. After a while I fell in love with a man who was scarcely aware of me. The experience brought me a heart break, but it woke me up. It made a woman of me. I found that the world was full of Kitty Kanes, lonely, heart hungry, ignored. I began to hunt them out, to try to make them happy, and one day, years after, I found out that I was happy, too. While I had been trying to get other people the things they wanted the things I wanted had all come to me. Mentally I stood just where we are physically standing now."

Then Kitty saw that they had climbed a hill and were looking down a great way on the town.

"Do you understand, dear, why I've brought you here?" Miss Kane asked. "There are heights, too, for your soul to attain. And you have to climb hard a long way to reach them. But when you're there you are glad of all that has passed on the way, glad even of such things as that which happened this afternoon. Maybe you'll be middle aged before you reach these heights, as I am. But when you do you'll see all the plan and meaning of life. And then you'll begin actually to live. And I want to tell you, dear, before we go down, that you've made a friend this afternoon who will reach out a hand to help you whenever you really need it."

"Oh!" Kitty breathed. Her face was full of light. "You've given me a great gift—the greatest—the gift of hope. And now I want to give you something—a promise to make the best use of that gift. I'm going to stand on the heights, too." Kitty said fervently.

"Poor little girl," said the sweet voice.

"No, I'm a horrid, nasty, blundering girl." There was frantic protest in Kitty's tones. "But perhaps if you knew—"

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

You remember that it was discontent, nothing but discontent, that was at the bottom of all that had happened to Johnny Chuck. If Johnny hadn't suddenly become discontented with his old home on the Green Meadows he never would have left it. And if he hadn't left it he never would have met Polly Chuck, and of course there never would have been that nice new house in a corner of Farmer Brown's old orchard, nor the baby Chucks, nor any of the joys and worries which Johnny Chuck had known. They had all come from that discontent with his old home. And in spite of his sorrow over the lost baby Chuck and the worries he had every day over the two little Chucks still at home, Johnny felt that he never before in his life had known so much joy as since he had adhered what love is. And so he was glad of the discontent which had driven him out into the world to find love.

So you see discontent, the right kind of discontent, sometimes leads to very much better things. Discontent which wants better things but is not unhappy if they cannot be obtained is really a good kind of discontent. But discontent which wants foolish things and is unhappy without them is—well, just listen to the story of Peter Rabbit's best.

"Because I've been a girl myself." "But you could never have been such a girl as am," Kitty said at length. "You could never have been as poor. You see there's three of us, mother isn't well and Ted is only eleven. When father stopped work I took his place. I'm a newspaper woman and you can't know what it means to be a newspaper woman in a little town like this. I know everybody and I get asked about it, not because I'm wanted as a girl, but because I'm clever at writing up affairs afterward. That's how I came to be at Lola's today. Oh, you don't know how hard it is to go to a place like that in an old dress. It all comes over one so! Usually I can hold in, but this laughing when I knew they were making remarks I got wicked and restless and—"

"I saw how you were tormented—pushed against the wall till you felt as if you must fight or die. I saw it all, Kitty. By the way, my sweet voice grew sweeter. I was just such a Kitty as you are, with something of the same problem to work out. There was money enough in my family—I did not lack for anything, but I had to make life more necessary to make life livable—love and friendship. You see, I was so homely, so impossible, I did not understand myself and there was no one to understand me. I was never asked anywhere. I wanted to go, and when I was asked I was ignored. After a while I fell in love with a man who was scarcely aware of me. The experience brought me a heart break, but it woke me up. It made a woman of me. I found that the world was full of Kitty Kanes, lonely, heart hungry, ignored. I began to hunt them out, to try to make them happy, and one day, years after, I found out that I was happy, too. While I had been trying to get other people the things they wanted the things I wanted had all come to me. Mentally I stood just where we are physically standing now."

Then Kitty saw that they had climbed a hill and were looking down a great way on the town.

"Do you understand, dear, why I've brought you here?" Miss Kane asked. "There are heights, too, for your soul to attain. And you have to climb hard a long way to reach them. But when you're there you are glad of all that has passed on the way, glad even of such things as that which happened this afternoon. Maybe you'll be middle aged before you reach these heights, as I am. But when you do you'll see all the plan and meaning of life. And then you'll begin actually to live. And I want to tell you, dear, before we go down, that you've made a friend this afternoon who will reach out a hand to help you whenever you really need it."

"Oh!" Kitty breathed. Her face was full of light. "You've given me a great gift—the greatest—the gift of hope. And now I want to give you something—a promise to make the best use of that gift. I'm going to stand on the heights, too." Kitty said fervently.

"Poor little girl," said the sweet voice.

"No, I'm a horrid, nasty, blundering girl." There was frantic protest in Kitty's tones. "But perhaps if you knew—"

"Don't!" asked Miss Kane. Kitty's eyes sought her in amazement. "But how?"

"Because I've been a girl myself." "But you could never have been such a girl as am," Kitty said at length. "You could never have

HOW WE SELL DIAMONDS

Everybody has learned that buying diamonds ought to be as clear-headed a business proposition as buying real estate, or anything else that has an investment meaning.
And so we would put to investors primarily the established integrity of our diamond business. We credit our customers with the judgment that demands the worth of their money, and our special inducements to them are the high class of the stones and the rare values we can offer.

Richard Tucker Dead

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 12.—The death of Richard Tucker, of the Bridge Creek district, removes one of the best known men of the county, and one of the pioneer settlers of the county. Judge Tucker has served his district for more than forty years as justice of the peace and was prior to that a sheriff of the county, being one of the first men to hold that office after the county was formed in 1856. He was eighty years old, reared a large family and was a man of affairs and public spirit all of his life. He was one of thirty-two children of the late Crawford Tucker, famed as a preacher and a father, of Irwin county.

DIAMONDS A SPLENDID INVESTMENT

Aside from the pleasure derived from wearing diamonds there are few investments as profitable and at the same time as safe.

Prices have advanced continuously until they are now worth twice as much as they were a few years ago. The factors affecting their value are becoming more complex from year to year, assuring a continued rise in their value.

You can buy diamonds of us without making the cash outlay large. A small amount cash and the balance extended over a number of months best suited to you. Write or call for the plan in detail.

For our out-of-town customers, or those who do not find it convenient to visit our establishment, we are glad, upon receipt of references, to send a selection of diamonds from which to choose.

The Doctor's Answers On Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.
The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature. The physician's wish is to give the best possible advice. Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Building St., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesale.
Elizabeth says: "I am troubled with a constant headache which also affects my eyes. My head is awful, as I have a severe case of catarrh of the head and throat."
Answer: I receive daily hundreds of letters from people who have suffered as you do and who have been cured with the following prescription: Make a wash by mixing one-half teaspoonful of Vine powder, which you can purchase from any druggist, with 2 oz. packages, and add to this one pint of warm water, use this in the nostrils daily to thoroughly cleanse them. This is made by mixing one-teaspoonful of Vine powder with one ounce of lard or vasoline and apply the result into the nostrils twice a day. If this is used daily your catarrh will soon vanish. It should, however, be used occasionally to prevent a return of the disease.
"C. G." writes: "I am troubled with anything that will cure dandruff, itching scalp and premature baldness, please let me know what it is."
Answer: For several years I have prescribed plain yellow mayon as superior to anything known for the treatment of diseased scalp. Get it in four-ounce jars with full directions. It quickly overcomes all diseases of hair and scalp and gives new vigor and intense natural color to the hair. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use for your friends.
"Mildred" writes: "I am constantly embarrassed because of the fact of my extreme redness. I have absolutely no color in my face or lips and I am dull and listless most of the time. Please advise me what to do."
Answer: If you are so thin and pale and your lips and cheeks colorless it is because your blood is deficient in red corpuscles. This is made by mixing well, taking a teaspoonful at meal times and again before retiring: Comp. essence carbol., 1 cc.; comp. fluid balsawort., 1 cc.; strup. sarsaparilla comp., 5 cc.; iodide of potassium, 2 grams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; sodium salicylate, 4 grams.
"Morriss" asks: "I have suffered with a chronic cough for almost a year, and catch cold every few weeks. Nothing but doctor gives me helps, so I write to you."
Answer: Obesity is burdensome. Excessive fat on the human body is unnatural and frequently results seriously. The best and safest method to reduce is to take regularly 5-grain antobese tablets. They are put up in sealed tubes with directions for home use, and any well-stocked druggist can supply them.
Answer: You need a thorough laxative cough syrup, one that not only relieves but surely gets it from the system. The following regularly used will cure any curable cough or cold promptly: Obtain a 2½ oz. bottle of essence mentho-laxene, mix it with a home-made sugar syrup or honey as per directions on bottle.

LOST BEAUTY OF WOMEN

Can be Remedied, in Many Instances, According to Statement of Mrs. Lucile McElroy
Laurel, Miss.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Lucile McElroy says: "I was sick three years, with headache, pains in my stomach and back, low down. At times, I could not do a thing. I was so weak.
After I was married, I thought I would try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and after using two or three bottles, I couldn't tell one day from another—felt good all the time.
I not only still use Cardui, but advise every lady I think needs it, to give it a trial, and several whom I have persuaded, say they have obtained great relief.
Another good thing I have noticed about Cardui, is that it fills out hollows under the eyes, which are sunken as if from a bad spell of sickness. It freshens up a woman's eyes, and makes them look bright and plump. Many a woman would be pretty if it were not for her sunken-in eyes.
I believe that Cardui, the woman's tonic, is the only treatment for women."
Do you suffer from womanly trouble? If so, give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial.
Judging from the experience of a million other women who have been benefited by this remedy, it should surely do you good.

Atlanta Drops One Peg in Percentage Column By Monday Loss

GEORGIA COMING DOWN; TECH RUNS SMOOTHLY

GEORGIA IS ON DEFENSE

ATHENS, Ga., May 12.—Breathless is the only word that describes the state of feeling at Georgia. Not having recovered completely from the surprise she suffered in losing to Tech, the Red and Black is waiting for an opportunity to tie the series on next Friday and Saturday in Atlanta. Monday was an off day, as Cunningham wanted his men to rest, and just a little batting practice was indulged in.

Any one who has witnessed the games played in Athens this year realizes two things—one that the Georgia team or rather infield is young and consequently their success has been phenomenal; second, that they did not have anything like the "pep" and hitting ability during the Tech series that has characterized the team so far. Coach Cunningham's sizing up of the situation is as follows: "We have hit a slump. Feeling that the championship was within their grasp broke their stride. After the phenomenal showing that the team has made, it is regrettable for them to have slumped so miserably in the Tech series. They made ten errors in the first game, and in no other game have they made over five. Eubanks and Pitts were not hit safely but thirteen times by the Georgia batters in the two games, while Locke, of Auburn; Ezell, of Clemson; Brower, of Washington and Lee; McClure, of Vanderbilt, and Pratt, of Alabama, received more punishment than this in one game. Neither did the hits which Georgia secured go for extra bases, the only hit of the series which went further than a single being Wooten's fly, which was scored as a four-sacker.

I do not say this to detract from Tech's team, as their boys played magnificent ball, and really deserved to win the two games. Cunningham will bring his team slowly, as the only thing to do, since they have broken the great stride at which they are going is to start back at the bottom and come up with a rush. There is plenty of confidence still on the part of the boys that the Red and Black will pull through with a rush, although the odds have fallen from 2 to 1 on Georgia to 10 to 7 on Tech within the last five days.

One thing which speaks in Georgia's favor, and would indicate that there is a hope for the slump to go off is that she is now on the defensive. She must win two games on a foreign diamond, which is a more difficult task. However, they are a crowd of fighters who have come from behind in several games this season, and they can be depended on to rise to the situation when placed on the defensive.

BRAINS HELP JACKETS WIN

It is mental work the Tech ball players are going through this week in preparing for the big games with Georgia here Friday and Saturday. Very little physical exertion is being indulged in, the players knowing sufficiently well how to pick up a ball and throw it, while there is always plenty of room for improvement at the mental end.

In the two games in Athens last week the Jackets showed an abundance of headwork and in this way managed to win the two games from Alex Cunningham's boys. They all pulled the right play at the right time, and if their work in this line can be improved upon it is figured that the team has even a better chance of winning at least one of the two remaining games and taking the series.

Ever since the return of the team from Athens Coach Heisman has had the boys on the bats working them on intricate plays. They have already gone through most every play that ever arose in a ball game and during the next two days they will be put through some never even thought of, in other words, they are to be taught to meet every emergency that could arise, and if they only hold their heads the fans are promised some real clever baseball.

Eubanks and Pitts are working out their pitching arms but little. They are hurrying just enough to keep the members limbered up, the main work being in the use of their head in pinches. Headwork enabled this pair of fingers to keep the Georgia hitters from hitting the ball out of the lot in the recent series, and with even a better knowledge of the weakness of the Red and Black hitters they should work out better games when they next face the Georgia swatters.

Base running is another feature of the game upon which Coach Heisman is working his boys. Most every member of the squad is fast, and it is calculated that by running the bases properly much can be gained.

SET RECORD FOR CONTROL
NEW YORK, May 12.—Running along with Walter Johnson in his efforts to pitch a record number of scoreless innings is "Christy" Mathewson, whose admirers are expecting to see him set a new record for perfect control. The star pitcher of the New York Nationals finished his forty-seventh inning yesterday without a base on ball. "Mat" has given only two passes this year, both in the first game he pitched against Boston, April 17. His record since then is:

Attendance Is Good on Road
Since the Atlanta club hit the rollers on the present road trip the attendance has proven large. In both Birmingham and Mobile immense crowds turned out to the park each day, the hard hitting of the Crackers proving sufficient attraction to draw from 3,000 to 4,000 to each performance.

In the four games in Birmingham, 15,333 paid admissions passed through the turnstiles and in the four games in Mobile there was a paid attendance of 10,221. In Montgomery it was exceptionally large for the Crackers, only small crowds ever turning out to witness the Crackers in action.

At home the Atlanta club has also played to big crowds and right now the attendance is higher than usual. In fact it shows better than any past season, opening day here and the big attendance drawn in Mobile and Birmingham helping to boost the figures.

WHAT'S GETTING BILL'S GOAT?

ERRORS AND HITS THAT WON GAME

Witness on the part of Swindell and Brenton for the Pelicans gave the Lookouts yesterday's battle by the score of 4 to 2. Swindell was taken out in the first inning after giving up two bases on balls to start the game. Brenton, with three men on in the third, gave a free pass and forced a run.

Elmer Brown, of the Billikens, made the going easy for his teammates yesterday, when he struck out twelve men and let the Burons down with two scratch hits. The rest of the Montgomery team rested while the pitcher gave the crowds an exhibition of just how the ball should be pitched.

The sensational batting of Callahan and the superb pitching of Williams gave the Vols a victory over the Gulls after the Mobile team had bombarded Fleeharty for four runs. In the first inning Callahan knocked a homer. In the seventh, with a man ahead of him, he knocked another home run, tying the score. In the eleventh, with Noyes and the singled, Noyes scoring the winning run.

After nearly losing the game in a bad inning, Nap Rucker pulled himself together and won the second game of the series from the Reds by the score of 4 to 3. Rucker had a bad inning in the fifth and the Reds overcame the Dodgers' lead of three gotten in the first. But Rucker arose to the occasion and blanked the visitors for the remainder of the game.

A batting rally in the eighth won the game for the Tigers. The Detroit team had to fight an uphill battle all the way but in the eighth they rallied to the cause, got four hits and three runs and tied the score. Bush scored the winning run in the ninth when Cobb sacrificed a fly to the outfield.

Weak fielding behind Russell gave the game to the Athletics. Russell off-pitched the veteran Bender, but the fielding of the Athletics was sensational and the White Sox were shut out. Chicago got men on third three times but could not put across the needed hit at the right time.

The Giants trimmed the Cubs, 5 to 1. The New Yorkers knocked Lew Ritchie out of the box. In the five innings that he pitched the Giants got ten hits. Meyers started the batting rally in the fourth that started the downfall of Ritchie. Mathewson pitched a good game against the Cubs letting them down with three hits.

It took the Phillies eleven innings to trim the Pirates. Lobert scored the winning run when he reached third on Wilson's fumble of his single and crossed the plate on Magee's sacrifice. Frankie Mayer succeeded Moore in the ninth and held the Pirates safe.

Maranville, the diminutive shortstop of the Doves, won the game for his team when with two men on base he tripped, scoring two. His fielding kept the lead that he gained for his teammates.

MINOR HURLING POOR; MAJOR BATTING WEAK

In the major leagues to date all the sensational work has been done by the fingers, while in the Southern it has been the hurlers who have been largely responsible for the loss of game after game. On the other hand the batting in the big show has been decidedly off, that is as a whole, while down here all the scatters have been killing the ball far beyond their real ability.

PITCHERS VERY WILD.
Inability to locate the plate has been the main trouble with the Southern league hurlers. There are many right here in this circuit who have a bunch of goods, but they have been unable to put it across the pan and the batters have shown enough sense to work them to the limit. On every club save Mike Finn's Mobile bunch the pitchers have been going wretchedly. At Mobile, however, they have been as steady as clockwork, and while showing no championship work they have not contracted the walking habit as has become so popular with many others.

Cite the work of the Atlanta twirlers as a fair example of the workings of the hurlers in this circuit. Bill Smith's bunch is a good collection. Buck Weaver, Paul Musser, Jim Brady and Gilbert Price are known to be fast hurlers. They have shown class in the past, but right now some of the bunch can't hurl for beans. They are just in a slump and there are fingers from a good many other clubs in the same trouble.

BATTERS GOING GREAT.
In the same sentence in which the weak work of the hurlers is pointed out you can talk of the great hitting of the star members of the different clubs. Everybody is showing an inclination to hit above their true form, and this is serving to roll up excessively large scores in each game. When the batters are going good and the hurlers are weak it serves to fatten all batting averages and this year may see at least a .375 hitter in the circuit.

After pointing out the bad work of the Southern league fingers one can turn to the majors and just take a glance at what some of the heavies are doing in the big show. Already Walter Johnson, of Washington, has gone wild and pitched something like 52 consecutive shut-out innings, while young stars, such as Keating, of the New York Americans; Johnson, of the Cincinnati Reds; Falkenberg, of the Cleveland Naps, and a few others have started out to equal all records of past stars.

BATTING NOT SO GOOD.
While Johnson, Falkenberg and a few others are setting pitching history the batters are somewhat slumping. Tris Speaker, Joe Jackson and Nap Lajoie are hitting along at their old clip, while most all the others are decidedly off. Eddie Collins, of Philadelphia, is the only exception to this rule, Mack's youngster being something like 70 points better than he knows how.

Old and tried stars, such as Larry Doyle, of New York; Heinie Zimmerman, of the Chicago Cubs; Ty Cobb, of Detroit; Hans Wagner, of Pittsburgh; Chic Gandil, of Washington, and a bunch of other good hitters are under form and not petting the ball as of yore.

Conditions, however, are sure to change, and that quickly.

L. G. I. Easy Winner
LOLCUST GROVE, Ga., May 12.—In a walk away game Locust Grove institute defeated Lanier High school today by the one sided score of 11 to 1. I. G. I. team was composed largely of second-string men. Dewberry was easy, being found for ten hits.

Coulon Drops
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 13.—Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight champion, and Frankie Bradley, of this city, fought six rounds here last night and at the close the popular verdict was a draw. Neither man did much in the first two rounds and Coulon had the better of the third. The fourth round was even and Bradley was ahead in the fifth. But for frequent clinches in the final round Bradley probably would have earned the decision.

OPENING GAME LOST; PLAY MEMPHIS TUESDAY

BRADY WORKS SECOND GAME

(By Associated Press.)
MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—For the second game with Atlanta today, Manager Bernhard has not yet fully decided whether he will pitch Klasinger or Harrell. The latter is due for the locals. Seabough will be behind the bat.

Atlanta is hopeful of a victory today with Brady and Graham as their battery. Weather conditions are ideal. By losing yesterday's game Atlanta dropped from second to third position in the league standing and is now only half a game ahead of the locals.

"One Round" Goes The K. O. Route
NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 13.—Young Shugrue, of Jersey City, knocked out "One Round" Hogan, of California, in the tenth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout here last night. Shugrue had the advantage in all the rounds. The men weighed in at 135 pounds.

POLICE MUST BE FAST OR LOSE THEIR PLACES
WICHITA, Kan., May 13.—Members of the Wichita police force must be able to run 100 yards in 16 seconds or less. This is a civil service regulation based upon the theory that offenders against the law usually are fast runners.

With the sidewalks lined with spectators, five large candidates for policemen's stars, tried to qualify in a 100-yard dash on a principal street here last night. One man crossed the finish line in 14 seconds, two more one second slower; the others failed to finish in the prescribed limit.

DOOIN'S MEN HIT STRIDE
Ill luck has forsaken the Philadelphia Nationals for a while at least and the men who are managed by Red Dooin are fast making history in the National league race. Right now the club is right at the top with only the Brooklyn bunch pushing it for first position.

For the past two years the Philly outfit has been made up of one of the hardest hitting set of ball players in the game and yet the team has been unable to go at a good clip. This has been caused by injuries, but this year no one has broken a leg or been killed and Dooin is going at a clip that no one can keep pace with.

Among the hardest hitters with the Philly gang you will find Fred Luderus, the big first sacker, who is continually poling them out of the lot; George Paskert, the ex-Atlanta fly chaser; Otto Knabe, the fast second sacker; Hans Lobert, regarded as one of the best third basemen in the older circuit; Sherwood Magee, long regarded as one of the hardest hitting outfielders in the game.

Coupled with his many hard hitters, Dooin has a good hurling staff. In Alexander Chalmers, Seaton Moore and Mayer he has five men who have been going good and as all but one are very young they are sure to improve.

Glenn to Open New Track
Several riders of both local and national fame are after the honor of riding the first motorcycle on the new motorcycle track that will be completed next Thursday. As yet Earl Prince has not decided who shall have this honor, but so far Harry Glenn, the local crack professional, has the call. The surfacing will be finished Thursday, and then the first machine will be run on the smooth surface.

Glenn has never ridden on a board inclined track, but he is confident that he can hit the pace at more than a mile a minute. The weather conditions have been greatly in favor of Prince and his work and he will open his new track on schedule time, the 23d of May. There is now a great amount of enthusiasm stirred up about the race and a record-breaking crowd is expected to be present on opening night.

Georgia-Alabama
LAGRANGE, Ga., May 13.—In a game that was almost a farce, Aniston defeated LaGrange on their home diamond by a score of 18 to 5. LaGrange pitched Beasley, who was wild, relieved him with Nelson, who went to pieces, and then put in Clarke, their second baseman, who pitched the balance of the game. Twenty-two errors were made by the LaGrange team.

At Newnan Opelika won the game by a score of 8 to 2. McCranie, the third baseman of Newnan, has been ruled out of the game by President Boykin and the team is crippled.

At Gadsden Talladega won by a score of 5 to 4. It was the hottest and closest game of the day in the league. The Talladega team is light, but very fast.

One City Dropped From Outlaw League
NEWARK, N. J., May 12.—The New York team of the United States baseball league, which began its season here only last Saturday, has lost its franchise, according to Empire Colum, who was on hand yesterday for the regularly scheduled game with the Newark, for which the New York players failed to appear.

The umpire declared the game forfeited and also the franchise because the New Yorks chose to play an exhibition game at New Brunswick, where there was a larger attendance than here.

CHAP RAPPED RATHER HARD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—When Chappelle blew up in the seventh inning of Monday's game, the Memphis club made six tallies and got away with the opening game against the hard hitting Atlanta club. The score was 8 to 4.

Until the seventh it looked as if Atlanta would win handily. Chappelle was weak when the seventh started and why Billy Smith did not take him out earlier is a puzzle. Had he been derided right at the start of this round it is more than probable that the scoring of the home team would have been stopped and Atlanta would have won. As it was when Furchner relieved the ex-lookout the game was too near gone.

Long and Welchone featured the game with their good hitting, each getting two raps. Boerwald hit best for the Turtles.

Atlanta got an early lead of five runs, all of which came over in the third inning and were the result of hard hitting. At that time it looked like an easy victory for Smith, but Parsons settled down and hurled a shutout ball the remainder of the game.

Football Star Out of Game
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 13.—A kick on the head received in the Pennsylvania-Michigan football game last fall may prevent Walter Craig, the University of Pennsylvania athlete, from taking part in many more competitions on the track or gridiron.

Craig played quarterback in several games last year and was a member of the University of Pennsylvania one-mile relay team this spring. Recently he suffered several attacks of paralysis, said to be due to the old football injury, and physicians yesterday ordered him to give up all forms of competitive athletics.

STAHN DOING WELL; SOON JOINS TEAM
BOSTON, May 13.—Jake Stahn, manager of the Boston Americans, is recovering rapidly from an operation performed upon one of his feet last week.

Physicians said today probably he would be able to join the Red Sox team in Chicago at the last of this week. It had been feared that Stahn would be obliged to remain in Boston a month.

TODAY
NEW ORLEANS, May 13.—"Dummy" Taylor and Yantz versus Covaleski and Street are the batterymen announced for the second game of New Orleans-Chatanooga series for today.

Manager Eberfeldt of Chattanooga, announced he has signed Jimmy Dyer, traded by New Orleans to Toledo earlier in the season and later given his unconditional release.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 13.—Frough and C. Brown will be competing pitchers in the second game of the Birmingham-Montgomery series this afternoon. Mayer will receive for the visitors and Gribbens will be called for the home team. The weather is threatening and cool.

MOBILE, Ala., May 13.—Manager Campbell wound up the second game of the series with Nashville this afternoon, with Schmidt at the receiving end. Beck will do the twirling for the visitors, with Noyes behind the pitcher's plate. Formerly with the Montgomery team, has been signed by Manager Schwarz, of Nashville, and may work in the present series.

Phillies and Brooklyn Play Best Ball in the National League

HANK TAKES KNOB'S VACUUM CLEANER---BUT!

BY FARREN

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

IN REPLY.
*You ask me, usually, why it is
 The Giants and Pirates trail each day;
 Why they no longer rise and whizz
 Amid the forefront of the fray;
 I'll let it fly, waist-high, old pot,
 In no sense padded out or stuffed,
 And if I miss it will not be
 The first soft chance that I have muffed.*

*They have the class and all of that,
 They have the head and arm and eye—
 They know best how to wield a bat
 And how to trap the buzzing fly—
 They have the stuff to romp along—
 In every way they have the call—
 The other pop-eyed clubs, outclassed,
 Are merely playing better ball.*

THE GIANT-PIRATE FLL-FLOP.
 Back in March even against the Ides of April we had it all figured out. There were only two clubs in the National League race. Only two with no one else close. Nothing to it. Either the Giants or the Pirates were to win and the one that slipped up would still be second by 47 laps. Yes, it was an old-fashioned cliché—a prune-colored pipe—a pick-up with something left over.

It was shame the way these two clubs were to disrupt the old league and turn the race into a joke contest before mid-May. By June there wouldn't be enough race left to hang a cap on. The other six would be so far gone that put-riders would have to be dispatched back the highway to find hether or not they were still plugging against a vain hope or indulging in a foolish fancy despite unbeatable odds.

It was a crime to push Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston and such up against these clubs. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to second division ball players was about to take a hand and issue an injunction stopping the slaughter before too much gore was wasted. Yes, it was all of that.

AND THEN—
 And then—something happened. Something happened once or twice—and something continued to happen. In about ten days or two weeks the man-eating Giants and the deadly Pirates were back in the second division. Inside of another week in place of emerging with a roar they were still in second division, only more so. The sixth place Phillies and the seventh place Dodgers for some queer, weird reason insisted upon kicking the wadding out of the two pennant Pips at every opening. The slaughter was on—but the maiming was propelled from the other side of the wigwam.

The Pirates enjoyed a juicy alibi for a while. Hans Wagner was missing. That let them out. It let them out until Honus got back in again on the edge of the Boston series. With Honus back the old Piratical machine tore the Braves into strips? Not yet. Out of four games the Pirates only lost four with Wagner in them all.

What's the answer? There isn't any except that the other clubs have been playing better ball. The Phillies have furnished the best pitching shown in either league. The Dodgers have been kicking with a brand of ball good enough to stop almost any club in the game. The Braves have tossed off their shorluds for the time being at least.

Everybody's been getting along save the Giants and Pirates. And those were the two clubs that by the middle of May were to have closed up the other six cities and ended the race.

We still believe these two clubs will fight out the flag ensemble. They still look to have the class, provided Wagner can travel anywhere near his old clip. The stuff is still there to pound the high road at a winning clip. But to date, at least three clubs have played them off their feet all seven ways.

If the Giants, Pirates and Cubs are to finish 1-2-3 this season they can only do it by playing 1-2-3 ball. The other clubs are no longer dazed at the game's tradition, and the sight of one of the three leaders, Brooklyn and Philadelphia are tearing into all comers with the stuff that wins—and even the Braves are no longer afraid to raise the old race and whack a first division club on the bean. Some season looks to be the watchword. Affairs may adjust themselves later on but there are still merry days ahead before the adjusting takes place.

COMISKEY ON LONG JAUNT

NEW YORK, May 13.—It has just been learned that the world's tour of the baseball teams representing the Giants and the White Sox was arranged at a conference between Manager John J. McGraw and representative of Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox. It is understood that McGraw and the intermediary got together in this city to complete final plans. The trip will take four months. The tourists will leave from Chicago on October 14 and will play through to the coast. Honolulu will be the first stop after the players embark on their long sea journey. The outfit will then ply its way to Japan, and will give exhibitions in four of the biggest cities in the land of the slant-eyed inhabitants—Tokyo, Yokohama, Hakodado and another large province. The following two games will be played in China at Peking and Hong

BIRMINGHAM OUT OF GAME

CLEVELAND, O., May 13.—In sliding into second base in the ninth inning of Monday's game with New York, Manager Joe Birmingham broke a bone in his instep and the tibia of his right leg. It was disclosed by an examination after the game. The injuries may keep him out of his position in center field for a month, it is thought. As he slid his toe caught in the dirt and bent backwards, causing the bone to snap. He limped from the field, putting a runner on the base in his place. With Second Baseman Lajoie also out of the game, with a broken bone in each hand, the regular line-up will be seriously affected. Kong, Manila will be the next destination of the pilgrims, and then they will show the natives of India how the American game is played.

Dalton Elks In Big Game

Fats and Leans Plan Big Celebration—Given in Big League Style

DALTON, Ga., May 13.—Dalton Lodge No. 1267, B. P. O. E., has been divided into two separate camps, the keenest of rivalry existing between the heavy and lightweights; but it is hoped that the trouble will be amicably settled by the baseball game between the two factions Wednesday afternoon.

Hon. Paul B. Trammell, state railroad commissioner and prominent local banker, and Colonel F. T. Hardwick, one of the leading financiers of the state, both feeling unequal to the strenuousness of the game have volunteered their services. The former will sell peanuts in the stands and bleachers, while the latter will pass among the spectators handing out the bottles of pop to throw at the umpire, while Colonel W. E. Mann, a prominent local attorney, will sell score cards.

The game is advertised by the Elks as "the greatest sporting event in the history of north Georgia, one that will long be remembered in the minds of the people. Thirty brave athletes have been training for the past sixty days for this event."

The lineup reads more like a football game or a prize fight, being as follows:

LEANS—	Weight

King, c.	135
Black, F. p.	121
Pruden, p.	169

Select Tennis Team
 TUXEDO, N. Y., May 13.—N. W. Niles and A. S. Dabney, the lawn tennis pair of the Longwood Cricket club, won the round robin doubles here. In the finals they defeated H. E. Hackett and R. D. Little, favored for the international cup team, at 6-4, 5-7, 1-6, 6-0, 6-1. In the other competition William A. Larned and R. D. Wrenn defeated W. J. Ciother and C. F. Watson, Jr., at 6-3, 4-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Base Stealer

BOB BESCHER.
 This Cincinnati outsider holds world's record as base stealer.

Rucker's Work Helps Dodgers

Nap Rucker is doing his full share towards keeping the Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers right in the thick of the fight for the National League flag, his win on Monday over Cincinnati serving to hold second place for the near New Yorkers.

The Brooklyn club this year is playing ball like a real championship organization. The whole outfit is going like a house afire and is making it interesting for all comers. In the games played with the New York Giants, Dahlen's men have made McGraw look like 30 cents and it has not been of the accidental nature, the team showing up well against each bunch it has played.

On the Brooklyn club are many ex-Southern leaguers and they are certainly doing their full share towards keeping the club right in the thick of the race. Included in this bunch of ex-Southerners are Red Smith, Nap Rucker, Lefty Allen, Zack Wehat, Jake Daubert and Charley Stengel. All are doing well in all departments, their hard and timely hitting however, being the main feature of their play.

PLAYERS KEEP CONDITION; SORE AT THE FAKE RUMORS

Reports pointing out that the members of the Atlanta ball club are dissipating are greatly untrue and do a great deal of harm to the players, according to a letter received from one member of the Cracker club. Every time a highly colored report telling of the dissipations of the club is started it spreads like wild fire and has a tendency to get the players sore and cause them to slump in their work.

Recently when the team was in Mobile losing it was reported that Price and Brady had been hitting the wine a bit freely and had been fined. Now from one who knows this is utterly untrue. Neither of the hurlers were in bad shape in Mobile or any other city on this road trip and just because they happened to lose a game is no reason why they should be accused of falling to keep in condition.

Newnan Winner
 NEWNAN, Ga., May 13.—Newnan met and defeated Palmetto by the score of 12 to 11, errors being responsible for the high score on both sides. The feature of the game was the pitching of Cook and Timbs for Newnan. Patton also pitched good ball for Palmetto. Struck out by Timbs 11, by Cook 19, Price and Brady were fined for falling to keep in shape have proven very harmful and do these players a grave injustice.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK
Poultry at the Agricultural College and the Experiment Station

THE farmers of this country need help on something that will give results this year or next year far more than something that will help in years to come, and if some of the large appropriations that is now being expended for work that will be a long time bringing returns could be utilized for things that will bring us revenue more quickly I believe it would be far better and would be appreciated a lot more to pay more attention to some of these little details that will give us results quickly. Nearly every state in the country is paying more attention to her poultry than Georgia. We can not keep idle and allow this to continue, but should get busy and do something at once, and instead of abandoning or giving up our poultry work at either Griffin or Athens we should be far better to go on with it and do more lines of work and make a large appropriation and do more now in this poultry work and live stock work to help bring results quickly to our people. I do not know where the fault lies, but I do know that our people need to produce more food products than we are now getting and learn to do these things quickly and profitably because as soon as we can get these things ready for market the cash at profitable prices is always waiting for it. The people must be fed and poultry, eggs, milk and butter and in fact all kinds of food products are ready cash every day and the man who has them can certainly exchange them for money, and above all things our state should not lose interest in our poultry work but should push it for all it is worth.

People will grow cotton so long as the world stands, and at a loss. They know how to do this and most people know what kind of land will produce cotton and corn and will continue to plant it every year, but there are many things connected with poultry and live stock that they have not the information that they should have on these subjects. The sooner this interest is worked up and the people educated on these lines that much quicker will we keep thousands of dollars in this state and help benefit a much larger number of people that need help now than we could do by encouraging them to raise cotton and many other things that we now know about. It is surprising to know even now the large number of poultry and eggs that are produced and sold in this state. There are but few people who realize how much in dollars and cents it amounts to, and scarcely any who are aware of the fact that during the past few months thousands of dollars have been kept in circulation, and thousands of people have had cash income from their poultry during this spring and would not and could not have any other for their poultry. With the short cotton crop Georgia had last year there never has been a time when the poultry products of this state could have been more help than they have during this year. The only trouble is there was not one-tenth part enough of them, but take the poultry products of Georgia out of it and untold suffering would be brought on thousands of people.

I am glad to say there are several counties in the state of Georgia now who have pushed their poultry work and it is surprising to note every day in these counties the large number of poultry and eggs that are being shipped daily to the cities and this money brought back to the country, which keeps it in circulation and helps hundreds of families that would not and could not have any other if it was not for their poultry. There are but few people who realize this and but few people connected with our state's affairs who could help this work that realize in dollars and cents what it means to our country. I know of a number of families that have kept things going during the past winter and spring from the sale of their poultry and eggs, and without these they certainly would have had a hard time with many of their crops almost a failure. The past year has made many farmers and their wives realize the importance of this work and the good that it will do has just started. It will never do for us to lose interest in it or to leave anything undone that will help create more interest, and it is to be hoped that our state authorities will look into this matter more carefully and pay more attention to this work than they have done before, both at Griffin and at Athens.

Yours very truly,
G. D. Griffin

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

TERMINAL DISTRICT
ONE of the best opportunities in Atlanta real estate today is in the large section lying in between the Southern and A. B. & A. railroads.

IN THIS QUARTER you can buy good sized pieces of land, improved with stately houses, property that yields a fair income and has speculative possibilities.

AS AN ILLUSTRATION, we can sell the southeast corner Magnolia and Mangum streets, fronting 108 feet on Mangum street, for $7,500. This lot contains six buildings, five residences, and a store, bringing in $60 a month. It is one of those good corners that in time will be necessary in assembling a block of land, and will bring a fancy price.

ON SIMPSON STREET we can sell an entire block of frontage for $5,000. It lies in between Davis and Edwards streets, fronting 214 feet on Simpson street, and extending back 130 feet. All three streets are paved and have all the modern conveniences. This is the block with the old stone house on it.

HERE is a choice little factory site bordering directly on A. B. & A. railroad; the southeast corner of Fox and Wilson streets. It fronts 220 feet on the railroad and has three existing houses. Price $2,500.

WEST SIDE values are low in comparison with other sections, and they are sure to go up in the process of equalization. All forward-looking men should lay in a few west side investments for future use.

DID STEEL TRUST SAVE SOUTH'S COTTON CROP?

President Farrell, of U. S. Steel Corporation, Says It Is an Industrial Benefactor

NEW YORK, May 12.—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, resumed the witness stand today for the defense in the hearings of the government suit to dissolve the corporation. He pictures the corporation as an industrial benefactor. He said that were it not for the policy of the corporation to do a "general business regardless of conditions," the cotton crop of the United States this year could not be marketed. He explained that the corporation supplied practically all the cotton ties used for binding cotton bales in the country, and that there was no profit in their manufacture. "Our competitors," he said, "have shown no desire to manufacture cotton ties, so it devolved upon us to supply the demand. It is not an attractive business, but last year we supplied the compress men in the south with 1,900,000 bundles at 85 cents a bundle. If we should stop manufacture, the cotton crop this year would lie on the ground."

"The government at the time of the recent floods," he continued, "needed steel piling to strengthen the levees at New Orleans. We made a rush order for $15,000 tons on Tuesday and in spite of the fact that we were very busy we delivered it on Tuesday next, eighty-six hours before the high waters arrived. We always give preference to government work."

(Continued From Page 1.) Not hitherto been connected with the case, was a Miss Ross. The young lady herself would not tell what she knew of the case, and the solicitor's force would not discuss the nature of the evidence which is expected to give. Allan Woodward, a negro who heard screams seemingly emanating from the pencil company's factory at 11:30 o'clock on the night of Saturday, April 26, and the wife of the negro, New Lee, were among those examined. The solicitor held a conference during the morning with Chief Lanford. Mrs. Rudolph Frank, of 152 Underhill avenue, Brooklyn, mother of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Pencil factory, who is held in connection with the Phagan investigation, will probably come to Atlanta in a short time to be near her son, according to dispatches from New York. Expecting that he would be quickly released, Mrs. Frank has kept the news of her son's arrest from her intimate friends until the present time. Mrs. Frank deprecates the circumstances which have resulted in her son's arrest, and expresses her firm belief in his complete innocence of any knowledge of the crime.

WHEN AND WHERE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLIES WILL HOLD SESSIONS

Northern, Southern and United Churches Will Each Hold Separate Conference, and at Night They Will Unite in Big Gathering at Auditorium—Meetings Will Continue Until All Business Is Concluded

Atlanta, the Presbyterian stronghold of the south, this week and next week, will be the host of the greatest meeting of Presbyterians in the world's history. For the first time the assemblies of the United States of America, the United States and the United Presbyterian churches are meeting in the same city on the same dates. For purposes of convenience, the assembly of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., will hereafter be designated as the northern assembly. The assembly of the Presbyterian church, U. S., will be designated as the southern assembly. The assembly of the United Presbyterian church is a name short enough for convenience, so it will be designated by that name. These three assemblies will bring together 1500 commissioners and several thousand visitors. The northern assembly consists of 56 commissioners. The total membership of Presbyterian churches in this assembly is 1,380,000. The assembly has churches in every state and territory in the United States. The southern assembly consists of 25 commissioners. The total membership of Presbyterian churches in this assembly is 1,280,000. Each of these three assemblies will hold its own separate business meeting, with Presbyterians in the day time, covering about a week, and all three will come together for a popular meeting every night in the auditorium. On Friday afternoon they will come together for communion at the Baptist Tabernacle. The northern assembly will meet in the Baptist Tabernacle, on Luckie street. It opens Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, with a sermon by the retiring moderator, Dr. H. A. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Seattle, Wash., the largest Presbyterian church in the world, having a membership of over 5,000. PRUSSIAN OFFICER SLAIN BY LUNATIC IN GERMANY

Sergeant of Police Also Slain in Munich—Mob Wounds Assassin Before Police Arrive

(By Associated Press.) MUNICH, May 12.—Major General Von Lewinski, the Prussian military attaché to Bavaria, and a sergeant of police were killed here today by a supposed lunatic. The assassin, whose name is Straffer, attacked the general on a crowded street, first firing several shots at him, then turning the weapon on Police Sergeant Pollender. General Von Lewinski was still alive when picked up. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance, but died shortly afterward. The assassin was seized by a crowd, who tried to lynch him, and he was seriously injured but was rescued by the police. General Von Lewinski was an officer of the general staff.

Members in attendance, questions to be discussed, prominence of speakers. The conference will be on the program, and the most important questions concerning the assemblies will be their subjects. The general public, however, is not limited to these popular meetings. Each assembly meeting is open to all who want to attend, and each of them will be a sort of preliminary to the assemblies, there will be held a series of pre-assembly conferences, beginning Tuesday evening. Their purpose is mainly inspirational. They will bring the commissioners together to get acquainted and to hear general discussions of the principal work which the assemblies are conducting.

The northern assembly will hold four pre-assembly conferences. The conference on education will be at the Baptist Tabernacle, the conference on missions at Harris Street church, the conference on college presidents at Harris Street Sunday school room, and the conference on theological seminaries at Central Congregational church. The southern assembly will hold two pre-assembly conferences. The conference on missions will be held at the First Presbyterian church. The conference on education will be held in the First Baptist church, beginning Tuesday afternoon and running through Wednesday afternoon. On Wednesday at the North Avenue Presbyterian church there will be a Sunday school conference, in which all three assemblies will take part. It will open at 10 o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon there will be a session from 1:30 until 6, and then will follow a dinner at the Piedmont hotel.

Taking Calomel Often Means Staying Home for the Day—Take Dodson's Liver Tonic and Save a Day's Work. If an attack of constipation or biliousness hits you, there's no need to take a dose of calomel and spend at least a day getting over the effects of it. Almost every druggist in town sells the liver tonic, Dodson's Liver Tonic, and guarantees it to take the place of calomel and to start a lazy liver without any bad after-effects. Dodson's Liver Tonic does all the good that calomel ever did, yet it is absolutely harmless to young people and

Dr. Mahy is accompanied by his secretary and will, on temporary headquarters in the Empire building near the assembly rooms. He will hold daily conferences with the members of his committee and keep open at all times a bureau of information relative to evangelical work. DR. MAHY TALKS. In speaking of the joint conference, Dr. Mahy said: "The general assembly is the highest court of the Presbyterian church and has supreme command of matters of discipline and doctrine. The three separate assemblies or branches of the faith meet and legislate for themselves during the day session and in the evenings all gather for a joint conference and unity of purpose. These meetings are great popular gatherings and we expect them to be of incalculable value to the denomination." Other dignitaries already here are Dr. B. A. Fullerton, of St. Louis, field secretary of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., southern; Robert Mackenzie, secretary of the college board of New York City; Charles Stelzla, superintendent of the bureau of social service, U. S. A., New York City; and James E. Clark, social secretary of the college board, U. S. A., New York City. Two prominent lay members of the church who will arrive either during the late afternoon or early Wednesday morning are Charles L. Huston, president of the Lukens Steel works of Coatsville, Pa., chairman of the northern assembly and the committee on

MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

Recent Reports Show Hundreds Suffer With Kidney Troubles and Don't Know It. There are scores of nervous, tired, run-down people throughout the city, suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weaknesses of the bladder (frequently causing annoyance at night), who fail to realize the seriousness of their troubles until such conditions as chronic rheumatism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes or even Bright's disease result. All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filters of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly. If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Croxone cures the worst cases of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, because it removes the cause. It cleans out the kidneys, and makes them filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder, and quickly relieves you of all your misery. You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, it is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.—(Adv't.)
